Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

—Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. ON PLYMOUTH ROCK

Dedication of the Monument to the Sturdy Pilgrims.

OVER 20,000 VISITORS PRESENT.

It Was a Great Day in the Ancient New England Town.

The Monument Formally Dedicated by the Grand Masonic Lodge—An Eloquent Oration by Congressman Breckenridge. Short Speeches by Secretary Blaine and Others—An Immense Procession—This Evening's Display of Fireworks.

THE MONUMENT TO THE PILGRIMS.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 1.—This has been a great day for the descendants of the Puritans who, some 269 years ago, sailed from Delft Haven to finally land on Plymouth Rock.

There is something like 20,000 strangers in the town. It had been hoped that President Harrison would be present, and there is considerable disappointment over his absence.

The ceremonies over the dedication of the monument to the Pilgrims commenced at 6 o'clock this morning when the bells of the town were rung and salutes were fired.

DEDICATING THE MONUMENT.

At 9:30 the Grand Masonic Lodge of Massachusetts repaired to the monument and it was formally dedicated. Then the general procession, made up of seven divisions, under William P. Stoddard, paraded over a route three miles long. In the second division were the carriages containing W. C. P. Breckenridge, the orator of the day; John Boyle O'Reilly, Hon. John D. Long, president of the Pilgrim Society; Secretary Blaine, Congressmen Lodge and Greenhalge, and other invited guests.

THE BANQUET.

Hon John B. Long presided at the banquet. Congressman Wm. C. P. Breckenridge delivered an eloquent oration, and John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish poet, recited an original poem, after which there were short speeches by Secretary Blaine, Senator Hoar and onther gentlemen. Myron Whitney, the great basso, sang Mrs. Herman's ode, "The Breaking Waves Dashed High."

This evening there will be a grand display of fireworks, and the monument will be illuminated by electricity. About 9 o'clock a grand ball will take place in the Armory.

It is more than twenty-five years since the work of erecting Plymouth Monument began and many pronounce it the noblest monument ever erected in this country.

The Coke Workers' Strike.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—A despatch from Scottdale says: "The sub-committee of the region did great work yesterday afternoon in getting the men in condition for the strike this morning. The miners at many works left the mines yesterday afternoon and took home their tools." The coke operators last night believed there would be no general strike.

Her Paramour Cut Her Throat.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 1.—Mary J. O'Brien, aged 25, had her throat cut last evening by her paramour, Frank Smith, in a disreputable house on Sabin street. The woman may recover. She is married, her husband being on the State farm. Smith, who is a carpenter, was arrested. The couple had been engaged in a drunken quarrel.

Omaha Brewers Go to the Syndicate.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 1.—Negotiotions were completed to-day for the sale of all the breweries here to a European syndicate for $1,500,000. The purchasers are said to be the Rothschilds.

Killed Himself on Account of the Weather

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 1.—Christian W. Krauss, a saloon keeper, became despondent because of the continued gloomy weather, and committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself.

Ives Secures Another Writ.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Ives and Stayner have secured another writ of habeas corpus, returnable this afternoon, requiring cause to be shown why they are detained in Ludlow Street Jail.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Ex-Secretary Whitney Denies that He is Seeking a Presidential Nomination.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The following letter has been received from Ex-Secretary Whitney, who is summering at Lenox, Mass.:

"An item is going the rounds of the press to the effect that a new weekly newspaper is about to be established at Washington in my interest as a candidate for the Presidency.

"It is absolutely without foundation. I am not and shall not be a candidate for the nomination to that office, nor any other.

"There are men in the Democratic party much better entitled to its honors than I am, and I expect to help the best man to win.

"The item is absurd on the face, and I object to being thought capable of such nonsense. WILLIAM C. WHITNEY."

SULLIVAN JUGGED.

The Slugger Arrested on a Requisition from Mississippi.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—John L. Sullivan was arrested last evening at the Vanderbilt Hotel, on a requisition from the Governor of Mississippi. Sullivan had heard of the intended arrest, and was preparing to go to Police Headquarters to surrender himself when the officers arrived with the warrant.

Inspector Byrnes went in person to arrest Sullivan, who greeted him pleasantly, and the two drove together to headquarters, where Sullivan was given a comfortable place of confinement for the night.

Kilrain Takes it Easy.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Kilrain is at Old Point Comfort, Va., and no effort has been made for his arrest in that State.

Sigel's Erring Son.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 1.—William Blenk was arrested yesterday for stealing small change from a dairyman. He claims to be the second son of Gen. Franz Sigel, of New York, and that he came West years ago and changed his name to avoid bringing disgrace upon it. He says he has a brother in Sing Sing, and claims that army officers at Jefferson barracks can identify him.

Massachusetts Republican Convention.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—At a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee here September 25th was fixed as the date, and Tremont Temple, Boston, as the place for holding the State Convention. Ex-Governor George D. Robinson will be the presiding officer and the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, chairman of the committee on resolutions.

Badly Injured by Lightning.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 1.—Rufus D. Cable, a prominent Westport politician, an ex-Selectman and an ex-Representative of that town, was struck by lightning during yesterday's thunder storm and was badly burned and injured. He was sitting on his front piazza at the time and was rendered insensible.

The Yacht Sea Fox Ashore.

CHATHAM, Mass., Aug. 1.—The yacht Sea Fox, bound to New York, is reported ashore on Shovelful Shoal, near Monomoy, in an unfavorable position. Wreckers have gone from Monomoy to render assistance. The wind is southwest, heavy, and it is very foggy.

News From the Vatican.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Rome correspondent of the Catholic Review, cables that the Rev. Dean Coffey, P. P., of Tralee, has been appointed to succeed the late Bishop Higgin of Kerry, who died on May 1st. The report that Archbishop Corrigan of New York has been summoned to Rome is untrue.

The Capitol Will Not Be Moved.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 1.—The bill to remove the Capitol from Concord to Manchester came up in the House yesterday, and, despite a motion to table made by its author, it was ordered to a third reading, and in the afternoon, when it came up it was killed by a large majority.

Death of an Old Resident of New Jersey.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 1.—Martin J. Ryerson, one of the oldest citizens and largest property-owners of upper Passaic county, died yesterday, aged 80 years. He was a warm personal friend of Horace Greeley's and in his prime was a power in politics in this State.

Railroad Rate War.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The rate war between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Monon lines promises to be a rattling one. The latter makes nearly a 50 per cent. reduction to-day in the rates to Louisville, Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

Chicago Has a Brick Famine.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Saturday's hurricane destroyed several million bricks, and as a result the price this morning went up over a dollar a thousand. Builders are telegraphing East for supplies to meet the temporary famine.

A Three Acre Fire at Kokomo.

KOKOMO, Ind., Aug. 1.—Furnace and casting buildings covering three acres of land, belonging to the Diamond Plate Glass Works, burned this morning. The fire originated in the melting furnace.

The Elixir of Life.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A Washington despatch states that Dr. W. A. Hammond is experimenting with Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir of life. The elixir is a concoction of organic matter, which is injected into the veins. Dr. Hammond says that the old man on whom he is testing the remedy seems to be growing younger.

Death of a Valuable Stallion.

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 1.—Sir Thornton, the noted 3-year-old stallion, who defeated all records of his age at Aurora last week, died here to-day of influenza. He was valued at $20,000.

Big Judgment Against G. F. Dennis.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—A judgment of $35,000 has been entered against G. F. Dennis, the Chester manufacturer, whose mill suspended Saturday on account of the Lewis failure.

JERSEY'S BIG FLOOD

The Most Destructive Storm Ever Known in the State.

A MIGHTY RUSH OF WATERS.

Essex County Suffers $200,000 Damage by the Deluge.

Brooks and Rivers Overflow, Washing Away Dams and Bridges and Flooding the Surrounding Country—Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Property Destroyed Elizabeth's Narrow Escape.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 1.—The waters have subsided, though not before they have wrought much damage. The flood started from the wretched ramshackle dam at Bennett's Mills at Salem two miles north of Elizabeth.

When it reached the reservoir Superintendent Williams feared it would prove too much for the structure and ordered the flood gates opened. When the gates swung wide a terrific roar was heard, and the people feared for the safety of the town. Down the Elizabeth River it went, sweeping everything before it.

Much excitement arose among the the inmates of the houses along the banks. A little difficulty was experienced in getting some women out safely, and a few more accidents happened.

Results at Rahway.

RAHWAY, N. J., Aug. 1.—The dozen or more bridges that cross the Rahway River at this place have been thronged all day with townspeople looking at the swollen stream. So far no lives have been lost, nor has there been any considerable damage to property. There were all sorts of rumors about some one or another of the dams above the town being about to give way, but the main source of anxiety is the Orange reservoir. If that should yield, nothing, it is said, could save this valley from disaster.

From Other Jersey Towns.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 1.—The damage done at Bloomfield has been greatly exaggerated. There was the usual discomfort of a heavy rainfall in such a place, but that was nearly all.

The damage in Essex county will reach $200,000.

Newark suffers some, but mostly from mud and slime and cellars, whose present damp condition will be to physicians the harbinger of good times.

At Belleville, Irvington, Brant's Mills and Summit there was much damage to the growing crops.

Great Damage in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Despatches to-day from all over the State show that the rains of the past few days have done much damage. In addition to the destruction already reported in the Peninsular counties, Talbot county suffers severely in the loss of hundreds of tons of hay and thousands of bushels of wheat. Apprehension is felt about the tomato crop. In Howard county the Patapsco River is very high. Considerable damage was done to Gambrill's big dam. The damage by the May flood had just been repaired. All the new work and part of the old breast was swept away. Roads and bridges throughout the county are badly damaged.

Pennsylvania Suffered Severely.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—The heavy rains which set in early on Tuesday evening and continued until yesterday afternoon resulted in one of the heaviest floods which has visited the city for years. The Schuylkill was converted into a raging torrent, and the flood gradually rose until about 7:30 o'clock last night. At Manayunk the water rose to a point 18 feet above low water mark, which is higher than it has been since 1860. At noon the mills along the river were stopped, and all the employes were set to work removing goods from the lower floors.

The Lehigh and Delaware Booming.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Lehigh and Delaware rivers here are rapidly rising, and navigation has been suspended. Mills are closed and trains on the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central railroads are delayed, owing to the tracks being covered by water in many places.

Wreck of an Express Train.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 1.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton express, due in Cincinnati at 11 p.m., was wrecked near Oxford, Ohio, last night. Twelve persons are reported killed.

Burke's Extradition Warrant Signed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 1.—Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, has signed the warrant for the extradition of Burke, the alleged murderer of Dr. Cronin. He will be taken to Chicago at once.

Plumbers Leave the Knights.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Journeymen Plumbers and Gas and Steam Fitters' Unions of the United States and Canada, in session at Brooklyn, have voted to sever connection with the Knights of Labor, and establish an independent organization. This is said to take 30,000 members from the Knights of Labor.

Miners Resist a Reduction.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—The miners along the Monongahela River have determined to resist the reduction to 3½ cents per bushel, and will stand for the 3 cent rate. The diggers at Joseph Walton & Co.'s works, who went in at the reduced rate, have struck again, and Captain J. N. Dunton says that all their works are now idle.

A Well-Known Weather Prophet Dead.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Francis L. Capen, the well-known weather expert, died to-day aged 72. He was a graduate of Harvard College. He made many interesting astronomical discoveries and many remarkable weather predictions, the latter of which gave him prominence on both sides of the Atlantic.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., meet to-night at eight o'clock.

—Prohibition Plainfield got all the water it wanted during Tuesday afternoon and evening.

—Many items referring to the flood and other matters of local interest, are crowded out of today's issue. They will appear to-morrow.

—The Board of Directors of the City National Bank have declared a dividend of 3½ per cent. out of the earnings of the past six months.

—The Reform Club of Plainfield holds a regular meeting in Reform Hall, this evening, at 8 o'clock. All attenders will receive a cordial welcome.

—Henry Stevens of Dunellen was arrested by special Marshal Pangborn in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, for disorderly conduct. Mayor Cooley fined him $5 this morning.

—The account of the Rheaume assignment copied from THE PRESS by the Elizabeth Herald, is credited by the latter to the Plainfield news. An apology under the circumstances, is in order.

—The Fourth Annual Excursion of the Reform Club to Rockaway Beach, will take place Thursday of next week. The big steamer Grand Republic will take the crowd with comfort and speed. It will be one of the most attractive excursions of the year.

THAT OTHER DAM.

Mayor Male Acts Promptly, and Mr. Ackerman Immediately Responds.

The following message wired this morning, shows what immediate and energetic action the Mayor has taken upon consultation with the Corporation Counsel, to protect the city and its people:

To Mr. Warren Ackerman, New York:

Examination of Feltville dam reveals imminent danger of bursting in case of another rainfall. This would destroy a million of property and endanger human life in Plainfield. Believing that you do not know these facts, I vouch for the good faith of the examination made, and appeal to you, the owner of the dam, to act at once to avert the threatened calamity.

(Signed,) JOB MALE, Mayor
Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. Ackerman promptly answered the above and appointed a meeting in Plainfield on the arrival of the 1:30 train this afternoon.

He then promised to do all in his power; to put on a force of men to watch the dam, and to drain off the water gradually so as to leave only two or three feet in case of heavy rain.

Mr. Ackerman practically agreed to adopt Mayor Male's suggestion to build a new dam of the strongest possible kind to buttress the old. The Mayor desired the removal of the dam entirely, but Mr. Ackerman wants the dam to remain, and says that he will spare no expense to make it absolutely safe.

As Seen by a PRESS Representative.

Through the courtesy of Capt. Wm. Hand, who drove a stage load of ladies and gentlemen through the flooded district, this morning, a PRESS reporter was given an opportunity to visit and personally inspect some of the more dangerous wash-outs both at the "Notch" and at Feltville. Throughout the district visited there were scenes of desolation and devastation on every hand, and in some places the debris and wreckage from houses, barns, outhouses, fences, etc., was piled up promiscuously for fully twenty feet. The total loss by the flood will probably never be known, but it will foot up in the hundred of thousands of dollars.

Somerville Doesn't Excuse the West Ends.

(From the Somerset Messenger.)

The game advertised to be played on Saturday, at Plainfield, between the Crescents and the West Ends did not come off The Crescents were on the ground in uniform, but only two of the West End nine showed up—Harkins and Bergen. The day was rainy and the grounds were muddy, but that was no reason why the West Ends should not have reported. The excuse made is that some of the players had an impression that the game was to be postponed.

Fell Through a Trestle.

Mr. Wm. Dunavan, night watchman in the D. J. Boice estate coal yard on Park avenue, fell through a trestle in the yard about six o'clock last evening, and sustained severe injuries about the body and shoulders. Drs. Long and Tomlinson attended the injured man, but they discovered no broken bones. His injuries consist mainly of bruises. Mr. Dunavan was taken to his home on East Third street, and today he is resting more comfortable.

To-Morrow's Excursion.

The excursion of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational Sunday schools, to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, to-morrow, promises to be an interesting event, and a large number of persons will undoubtedly accompany it to the seashore. The train will leave here at 8 A. M., and returning will leave Asbury Park at 6 P. M.

Another Recognition of the Only News Paper in Plainfield.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its meeting in Elizabeth, Monday, appointed THE PRESS of Plainfield, and the Journal of Elizabeth, the official papers to publish the reports and proposals of the Board in the matter of the new county road improvements.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

Remnants of the Storm—Echoes of the Deluge—And Driftwood of the Flood.

One of Mr. W. J. Roome's horses got caught in the whirlpools of one of the Borough's beautiful streets, Tuesday afternoon, and was being whirled away towards Baltimore, when rescued by Eugene Hoerster and returned to its stable.

John Bremmer's cow was tied in a lot on Harrison avenue, when the waters began to rise. In a few minutes it was over her back. She broke her halter and climbed a bank out of death's way.

Mr. I. Lewis' pigs were washed out of their sty and down the stream. Some of his chickens also met a watery fate.

Mr. H. J. Martin has leased ground of Mr. P. M. French on Somerset street near his old stand and a building is rapidly being put up for his future place of business.

The Messrs Coddington Bros., were engaged yesterday morning with a large force of workmen trying to build temporary bridges over the stream at their mills. In all probability they will not rebuild on the present site again.

The soil in Mr. M. H. French's garden in the Notch, with its burden of vegetables, was washed out to the depth of three feet in some places and carried down stream, not a trace of the garden being left.

About twenty loads of sand which the committee had drawn to be used in the construction of the new chapel at Washingtonville, was washed away, and about twenty-five barrels of cement stored in a shed and also to be used in the building, is thought to be destroyed, as the water flowing over it wetting it through.

The Richmond street bridge over Green Brook went out about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Warren Engine pumped out the water in the Homan & Ryerson and Alex. Thorn buildings on Somerset street, yesterday afternoon.

Several amateur photographers took "photos" of the wreck in the Notch yesterday, and crowds of people have visited the place today.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Plainfield Homings Get Back Safely From 750 Miles at Sea.

Three more of the Messrs Doane's homing pigeons liberated from the City of Rome, have been heard from. Another of those let off the day after the steamship sailed, and when it was 340 miles out, flew into a house at Riversdale, N. Y., the next day after it was released.

Its leg was badly broken as though struck by a hawk. The bird, however, kept bravely on towards home until exhausted. The house where it was captured was only about an hour's distance from, and on a bee line to, its loft in this city.

But the most marvelous record of the lot of birds that were taken on the steamer, has just come to light. Mr. J. H. Ridenour, Manager of Scripps League News Bureau, under whose auspices the birds were sent to sea, notified Mr. Charles Doane by letter this morning, that the ship Othello, of the Wilson line, arrived in New York, Tuesday, with two more of the birds. They were picked up on Saturday afternoon about 600 miles out.

A message on one of them stated that the last two of the birds had been liberated on Friday, so, of course, these were the two. When they were released the ship was two days, and probably 750 miles out. The birds had been a day and a night on their journey towards home together before they lighted on the Othello.

It is possible that they rested during the night on some other ship that probably carried them further out again. But even so they were perseveringly on their way to Plainfield, as the Othello picked them up 100 miles nearer home than when they were liberated from the City of Rome.

Since writing the above, Mr. Doane has received a letter from Stamford, Conn., saying that one of his birds had flown in a house there to rest. It had a message on it. Mr. Doane has written to mail the message and release the bird.

The message will tell just where and when the bird was liberated on the ocean, and probably give it the greatest of all records of the kind. The farthest fly from out at sea on record in the World, is 318 miles. It is probable that when this bird reaches home it will have flown 340 miles.

Smart Money Claimed for Trespass After Notice.

Justice Wadsworth's court Tuesday was the scene of a jury trial of somewhat unusual character. Mr. Fine of West Front street sued Mr. F. O. Smith to recover vindictive damages for continuous trespassing by a flock of fowls after repeated notices to their owner to confine the fowls to his own premises.

For the annoyance and vexation, plaintiff sued for fifty dollars damages. The jury had difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that they ought to give judgment in favor of plaintiff, but failing to agree in the matter they were discharged, and a new trial necessitated.

Four of the jury at the end were for twenty-five dollars as a compromise, but two jurors were for only six cents. A majority originally were in favor of giving the whole sum claimed. In the new trial, of course the element of the expense of the first trial will be urged by plaintiff to enhance the damages.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Frank M. Derby and family, have gone to Monroe, Orange county, N. Y., for the month of August.

Miss Kimball, General Secretary of the C. L. S. C., leaves to-morrow for the Summer Assembly at Chautauqua.

Mrs. Edwards of West Seventh street, will entertain for two weeks three children sent out by the Fresh Air Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Middlesworth of Madison avenue and Second street, are the proud parents of twin girls born last week.

Mr. Chas. Schermerhorn, Jr., arrived in this city from the South, Tuesday evening, and will spend a month, at least, with his parents here.

Mrs. John N. Gulick and Minnie and Vincent Gulick of 15 Park place, North Plainfield, start to-morrow for Brooklyn to visit relatives for a week.

Mr. Frank Vermeule left Plainfield yesterday for Asbury Park to accept a position in the shoe department of Messrs Steinbach Bros., of that place.

Mr. Charles P. Leggett of Madison avenue, left with his family, this morning, for Asbury Park, where they will occupy the handsome cottage recently erected by Mr. Leggett's brother.

Mr. Herbert R. Ayers of Broadway and Sixth street, has just been advanced to a position on one of the Central Railroad locomotives, running the fast freight between Easton and New York.

The Rev. R. S. Holmes, formerly of this city, and late Registrar of Chautauqua University, will preach in the Crescent Avenue church next Sunday morning and evening, and also the following Sunday. Mr. Holmes has been for some months pastor of a church in Pennsylvania.

Mr. E. Wood Perry, of New Orleans, father of the artist, E. Wood Perry, Jr., is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Capt. A. D. Holmes of this city. Although Mr. Perry has lived four score of years, he can hardly remember an hour of sickness and is today as handsome and active as any of his grandchildren.

Those attending services at Trinity Reformed church, next Sunday morning, are promised some fine music, both vocal and instrumental. Miss Clara Josephine Mears, a well known artist, will render an offertoire. Mr. Fred Dudley will preside at the organ, morning and evening. Miss Mears intends taking up her residence in this city.

A telegram announcing the sudden death of Miss Lilian Dumont, a young lady well known and greatly admired in society circles of this city, was received yesterday by the family of her uncle, President John B. Dumont of the Common Council. The cause of death is not stated, and her relatives here know of no sickness that she has been suffering from. Miss Dumont was a very beautiful girl and a great favorite with all who knew her.

FANWOOD'S FLOOD.

A Graphic Story by THE PRESS Saunterer on the Spot.

SCOTCH PLAINS, July 30.—We have had the most destructive freshet which has been known in Scotch Plains for twenty-five years. The rain commenced on Saturday and has since continued with only a slight intermission on Sunday. By Tuesday the ground was thoroughly saturated with water, and the blinding torrents that fell in the afternoon had the effect of rain on frozen ground. The water spread itself over the streets and the fields, covered the railroad tracks and filled the cellars. The wide, flat meadows adjoining the Episcopal church were completely flooded. Park avenue at this point and on the other side of the church is one of the lowest stretches of road in the neighborhood, and both the road bed and sidewalk were completely under water, the latter to the depth of two feet. Farther up the road, as you approach the higher district of Fanwood, there is not so much water to be seen, although the meadow opposite Mr. Frazer's is entirely submerged. The sidewalk at the intersection of Midway and Martine avenues, is almost completely washed away. The houses around the depot do not seem to have suffered very much, and there is comparatively little water in the streets. This is owing to the greater altitude and the hilly foundation there. But around the railroad station and along the tracks the water has settled, one of the rails being submerged.

The experience of those who made their way from the station to the village is one that they will not soon forget. The passengers on the 5:15 train from New York, crowded into the hacks, and those who came on the later trains found themselves obliged to wait.

A party of us, after making some vain efforts to procure a carriage, determined to foot it through to the village. As it turned out, the very hacks that we had been waiting for passed us on the way, but I think that the trip by carriage must have been almost as wet a one as that by foot. When we arrived at the Episcopal church, Mr. William Hazel, Frank Roulstone and Louis Kennedy took off their shoes and stockings, rolled up their trousers and waded through. The water on the sidewalk was up to our knees, and rushing rapidly across the road. The carriages struggled through water up to their hubs, or nearly, and the water then showed no signs of abating. During all this time the rain continued, varing from a light drizzle to a heavy pour. There was hardly a breath of air, and the rain fell almost straight.

Mr. A. Bender, who had offered ten dollars for a safe conveyance to his house over the mountain, had at last determined to make the venture himself. He had a crowd in his carriage, and the trip was a slow and difficult one.

Mr. T. M. Paff, Jr., with his shoes and stockings off, was rendering assistance to the unfortunate wayfarers who stood in need of it.

The ravages of the flood were plainly visible at Mr. E. M. Johnston's. His fences were torn down, and heaps of the debris and fragments of wreckage caught up against the trunks of trees and such fence posts as were still standing. The road here was under water, carriages being sunk to the hubs. Earlier in the afternoon the water had been nearly up to the windows of Mr. Johnston's house. His garden was completely washed away, several loads of manure swept off and the corn beaten down. At half-past seven the water had subsided a trifle, but was still rushing with great force across the road. Mr. R. B. Duyckinck drove through with two horses, and Mr. Bender followed. John Spencer came up the road with a light wagon and had great difficulty in forcing his way through the torrent. George Clark drove down from the mountain without much trouble.

All this time the drivers of the hacks were being continually called upon, and their carriages were making fairly regular trips.

Mr. George Kyte, on horseback, rode back and forth from the mountain and kept accurately posted on the progress of the flood.

Along Front street the work of the water is very apparent. The top of the road is in many cases swept completely away, leaving the stone beneath like a new made road. The side walk across Hunter avenue is in a similar condition, and nothing remains but the original stone. Mr. Sykes' fence is torn completely down, but not carried away, and the bee-hives and chicken yard fences are swept off.

Mr. Shepard's fences are torn down, and his place has suffered great damage.

Mr. John Flynn has received very severe injury from the flood. "My corn," he said, "is all washed away, the garden gone and nearly all the chickens killed I had to take my horses to Brittin's last night, as I could not keep them in the barn." Mr. Flynn says that one hundred dollars will not cover his loss.

Cellars are flooded and walks washed out, and there is hardly a house which has not suffered damage in one way or another.

Mr. Ackerman's horses were brought to Illsley's in the evening, there being no place to put them at home.

Mr. Frank Roulstone and some others started out on a tour of exploration at half-past nine at night. They forced their way through the water as far as Cook's stone crusher.

The Back Pond dam and the First Pond and Second Pond dams were broken, and the water rushed down the narrow valley between the hills with all the violence of a torrent.

The place which always suffers in a freshet and which is situated at the most dangerous point, is Seeley's mill. Today's flood is no exception, but the damage which Mr. Seeley has suffered is worse than ever before. The mill was torn from its foundations and carried along by the raging torrent, striking against the rocks and trees as it went, it was dashed to a thousand pieces.

One of the employees, who was working in the mill at the time, says that the men did not have more than ten minutes to get out of the building before it went. "At about half an hour before the crash," he said, "the water had reached the first floor. With the water in the engine room we had to stop work, and besides, there was other work for us to do then. We saw the water move the corner of the building from its foundations, and in ten minutes the mill had broken away." John G. McNair started for the mill in the evening.

It is exactly two years and three days since Seeley's mill was last washed out. Seven years ago there was a similar freshet, breaking the interior of the mill and causing work to be stopped for several months, but neither of these was to be compared with this flood. The loss will be enormous, and there is no insurance against accidents of this kind. It is said that Mr. Seeley will not build again.

At ten o'clock the water had subsided considerably. Rain was still falling, with a light Southeast wind.

July 31.—The water has descended so as to leave the roads bare, and one may walk anywhere, although in some places there is considerable mud. Hard rain fell at seven o'clock and continued until nine.

I walked to the Back Pond this morning; the dam is broken down at the side, and the water is pouring over in torrents.

The iron bridge at Hollingsworth's is still standing, having been strong enough to withstand the flood. The road just below there is covered with loose stones, making a bad thoroughfare for carriages. Hollingsworth's mill has not been seriously injured.

I met John G. Cook at the fur mill. He says the water struck his stonecrusher, broke some of the machinery and carried away three hundred tons of crushed stone. Kyte's stonecrusher, being on higher ground, seems to have fared better.

The scene at Marsh's Pond is wild beyond description. The water is pouring over the dam and at the sides of the pond, so that it is impossible to see to what extent the dam has been broken. The bridge across the road is carried away as well as the fences, the entire road and the fields around being submerged to such an extent that it is difficult to recognize familier landmarks.

The road to the paper mill is bare, nearly all the fine stone on top having been washed away. The First Pond dam is almost entirely gone and the water is rushing down below with a channel nearly as wide as the pond itself.

The ruins of the paper mill form a sad scene of devastation. A portion of the building back against the mountain is left standing. Two sides of this part of the mill are still erect, but the interior frame work between them is crushed in and battered, and broken wheels and shafts with disused belts strung over them hang from the rafters.

As for the rest of the building it has been completely swept away, and the foundations may be seen beneath the surface of the water. Heaps of timber and machinery which have drifted down are caught against the trees and fences for miles below. The drying house is still standing.

Beyond the mill, the road is impassable for carriages. The stone and earth of which the road is made have been washed away, leaving the natural formation of rock. The road turns at this point and goes up a hill, and may be likened to a flight of stairs with steps six feet high and gullies of the same depth.

The dam above the paper mill is completely torn away, and the water is pouring over the rocky descent below.

The new bridge just below Back Pond has not been injured. The Back Pond dam which stretches across the middle of the pond itself is intact, but the water has broken through at the side and is rushing over with tremendous force. If the dam holds, the great body of the water in the pond will not break through, as the present breach has not reduced the level of the water more than three or four feet.

Mr. Seeley called the men together Wednesday morning, and told them that they would be kept at work gathering up whatever there was left of the wreck. After that, he said, he could not then say what would be done. The men think they have a good prospect before them of an idle Summer.

John Thys tells me that John Mowan caught a black bass in Mr. Field's garden this morning. The bass was 20 inches long and weighed 3½ pounds.

No one can yet state the amount of damage done, as news of fresh loss is constantly being received. People are dazed and stunned by the sudden calamity, and it will be a long time before we have recovered from its effects. John Cook says that it will be months and months before the paper mill road can be used, and this is but one item in a series of losses that will amount to thousands of dollars.

AFFAIRS AT JOHNSTOWN.

Gov. Beaver on a Tour of Inspection—The Commission Denounced.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—Gov. Beaver arrived here yesterday, and after making a tour of inspection expressed satisfaction with the work.

He then met with the State Relief Commission. A number of private citizens were present by invitation. The statement from the Commissary Department showed that there are yet 800 people dependent on it for supplies of food, clothing and other necessaries.

The visiting citizens were invited to make any remarks they chose for consideration by the commission.

Rev. J. D. Beal caused the members of the commission to squirm under his arraignment of the methods they have pursued.

The members of the commission began a series of cross questions, trying to show that they had acted with all possible speed in the distribution of the funds, insisting that they had acted upon information furnished by the Local Finance Committee.

In explaining some actions, Mr. Cyrus Elder, secretary of the Local Finance Committee, and Dr. Beale became involved in a war of words, during which the veracity of each was questioned in a lively manner. The remainder of the session was occupied in general discussion but so far as is known no official action was taken.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

CANADA'S TROUBLE

No Official Action Taken on the Latest Seizure.

WAITING FOR OFFICIAL REPORTS

On Their Receipt the Dominion Government Will Commence Business.

A Report in Washington that There is a Tacit Understanding that the British Government Will Not Interfere—No Serious Trouble Apprehended—The Protection of the Seal is for the Good of the Whole World.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The State Department has not yet received any demand for the release of the Canadian vessel Black Diamond; but such demand is expected as soon as the British Government learns officially of the seizure.

No serious trouble is apprehended with Great Britain by the department officials, however, for the reason that it is to the interest of Great Britain and all other great commercial countries that the seals should be preserved from the slaughter of piratical sealing crafts. The United States, they say, protects them against our own and foreign poachers alike.

Assistant Secretary Batcheller said that the Treasury Department had taken no part in the political or diplomatic side of the question. They found the law on the statute books, he said, and it was their duty to enforce it. Moreover, they had the proclamation of the President, which announced that it was the purpose of the administration that it should be enforced.

"I don't see how there can be much trouble about it," he said, "for no nation can afford to throw these fisheries open to destruction. The commercial interests of the world are too seriously involved. A great commercial nation like England could not afford to have this destruction go on. The protection we give is for the good of the whole world. The habits of the seal are well known. They make three visits to these islands. On the last visit, when they are not breeding or with young, they are taken. We limit the number that are taken in any one year and provide that the female shall be preserved, only 5 per cent. of the catch being allowed to be of that sex. At certain times of the year they disappear. No one knows where they go—perhaps out in the deep water. Again they are seen in the sea, far from shore. That is where they are killed by these poachers, and the mothers with young are the ones that suffer, because they are the only ones to be got at in any numbers. By killing the females when with young this way, the whole breed would soon be destroyed. England can't afford to have this done."

Waiting for the Report.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The Minister of Customs has telegraphed to Victoria, B. C., for a report of the affair. As soon as it comes to hand a strong remonstrance will be submitted to the imperial Government.

Mrs. Maybrick on Trial.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Maybrick was arraigned in court for trial yesterday, on the true bill found against her for the murder of her husband. The court room was crowded. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. Mr. Michael Maybrick, a brother of the alleged murdered man, admitted that certain bottles which he took from his brother's room did not contain arsenic. There had been quarrels between Mrs. Maybrick and her husband in which a woman's name was mentioned by the former as being upon too intimate terms with the latter. During these quarrels Mrs. Maybrick had threatened to procure a separation from her husband.

Spinners' Strike Still On.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 1.—The strike of the spinners at the Metacomet mill is still on and will probably be supported by the Union which will meet Monday night and take action on it. Complaints are coming in from spinners and other help at other mills. The spinners say the work is growing so bad that they cannot possibly remain at work under the existing conditions. At the special meeting on Monday night the spinners will be asked to vote on a motion to ask manufacturers for a few weeks vacation. The weavers will probably support this action.

President Harrison's Dublin Letter.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Postmaster-General Raikes, sent a request yesterday to Mr. Thomas Sexton, Mayor of Dublin, asking him to forward the envelope in which came President Harrison's letter and which bore evidence of having been tampered with. Mr. Sexton replied to-day offering to show the envelope to anyone employed by the Postmaster-General, but declining to surrender it out of his own hands. He explains his refusal to comply with the request by stating that events had frequently come to his knowledge which convinced him that the Postal Department was utterly unworthy of trust.

Coal Works Shut Down.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—A Grafton despatch says: The Orrel Coal Company to-day notified the managers of their works at Newburgh, Tyrconel and Fairmount, that on and after to-day their services would no longer be required as all of the company's coal works are to be closed indefinitely. The reason alleged is that the company cannot continue business at present rates. The Orrel Company is the largest in the State. The closing order creates consternation among the 600 employes.

Millionaire Tower's Will.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—The will of the late Charlemagne Tower leaves the entire estate in trust for the widow and five children, the widow to receive $1,000 per month from the income and each of the children $500 per month. The executors are debarred from selling any of the testator's lands, and all rents are to be invested as part of the estate. No public bequests are made. The entire estate is valued at about $30,000,000.

A Steam Tug's Boiler Explodes.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 1.—The boiler of the steam tug Jersey City, of Newburg, N. Y., engaged in dredging at Five Mile River, exploded last night, wrecking the boat and seriously if not fatally injuring the engineer and fireman. Some others of the crew are also reported injured.

Emperor William Off for England.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—The German squadron escorting Emperor William to England sailed yesterday.

DOUBLE HANGING.

Louisville Authorities Make a Bungling Job of Dilger's Execution.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 1.—Charles Dilger and Harry Smart were hanged yesterday in the jail yard here.

The execution in the case of Dilger was horribly bungling.

When the rope was cut both men shot down through the traps. Smart turned round and probably died instantly, but Dilger slipped through the noose, the rope catching him over the chin at the lower teeth. He was seemingly unhurt and was drawn up by the rope until his shoulders came through the trap when the Deputies took him by the arms and pulled him upon the scaffold. A new rope was brought into service, and when the noose was adjusted, Dilger asked:

"What's the matter?"

When being told that the rope had slipped its knot, he said: "This shows I should not die."

He placed himself upon the trap the second time by making two hops. The drop was again sprung and he strangled to death.

Dilger was hanged for the murder of two policemen, Jones and Rosenburg, who attempted to arrest him for beating his mistress.

Smart's crime was the killing of Meisner Green and his (Green's) mistress, Belle Ward.

SENATOR ROLLINS' DEATH.

He Passed Quietly Away at the Appledore House, Isle of Shoals.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 1.—Ex-United States Senator E. H. Rollins, who died yesterday morning at the Appledore House, Isle of Shoals, passed away very quietly, never having recovered consciousness after the severe shock sustained on Saturday last. His wife and three sons were at his bedside at the time of his death.

To-morrow morning the remains will be taken to Concord, where funeral services will be held in St. Paul's church at 1 p. m. Interment will follow at Blossom Hill Cemetery. Deceased was 64 years old.

It Would Wreck the Town.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass., Aug. 1.—Ever since 1819 a shoe shop has been run here by one or more of the Batchellers, and for the past fifty years their establishment has been the mainstay of the town. To-day it is almost the town itself, and should it shut down permanently, or even for a long time only, this place, of which the population is now 4,500, would be almost deserted. The factory is said to be the largest in the world, making the grade of shoes it does. It consists of three long five-story wings connected at one end by the main building. The floor space is about 175,000 feet. Last night Mr. Francis Batcheller decided that the factory should start up to-day as usual. The feeling about the town is generally hopeful as to the continuance of the business.

Return of Murat Halstead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Mr. Murat Halstead was a passenger by the steamship City of Paris. He laughed to-day at the rumor to the effect that his health was in a precarious state. He said to a reporter: "I don't see what such a rumor is based upon. I never felt better in my life. The waters at the place where I spent most of my time while I have been abroad did me a great deal of good and the rheumatism that troubled me before I left for Europe has almost wholly disappeared." Mr. Halstead will remain here a few days before starting for home.

$50,000 Fire at South Framingham.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 1.—Waverly block, a wooden building erected in 1858, owned by Henry Bullard of Hollis-ton, and valued at $15,000, was burned early yesterday with most of its contents. It was occupied by the Adams Co., E. H. Bullard, variety store; Wm. McNulty, dry goods; J. F. McGlennan, boots and shoes; A. P. Newton & Son, furniture; C. H. Kittredge, market; bookbindery, horse railroad and other offices. Loss $35,000.

Three Young Ladies Drowned.

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Aug. 1.—Miss Lizzie Farrell, daughter of one of Norway's most prominent citizens, with two young women friends, Miss Anna McCabe of Lapere and Miss Alice McGillan of Escanaba, were boat riding this morning on the Menominee River, near Norway. The skiff became unmanageable and was swept over the falls, and all three of the occupants were drowned. Their bodies have not yet been recovered.

Safe Conduct for Flemon.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—Governor Beaver having asked Governor Richardson of South Carolina to give a safe conduct to Flemon, the extradited minister, accused of murder, Governor Richardson replied that he would prefer to have Flemon brought to Columbia. He would assure his safety, but there was as little danger of violence in South Carolina as in any of her sister States. The Governor also intimated that full reciprocity should be observed in these matters.

Killed While Separating Fighters.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Florence Quinlin, a teamster, was murdered last night by James Grace, another teamster. The latter had been fighting with a man named James O'Meila, and Quinlin attempted to separate them, when Grace plunged a penknife into his groin. Quinlin lived about half an hour but was unconscious. He leaves a wife and five children. Grace was arrested.

Small Wages for Skilled Workmen.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Commencing to-day the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company reduce the working time of about half the force at the Mt. Clare shops from ten to eight hours a day. Skilled workmen at Mt. Clare now earn $10.80 per week; the reduced working time will give them about $8.40 per week.

A Camp Meeting Deluged.

SIMPSON GROVE, N. J., Aug. 1.—Although the rainfall here was very heavy, the attendance at the camp meeting is large. Rain has fallen at intervals for the past five days and the camp grounds are deluged. The management of the camp has decided to abolish the custom of ringing the retiring bell at 4:30 a. m.

A Culm Bank Explodes.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 1.—The culm bank at the Luke Fidler colliery exploded yesterday, thousands of tons of dirt and rock being thrown high in the air. No loss of life resulted. This is the first instance in this region of a culm bank exploding, and mine owners are considerably exercised over the matter.

The Pope Advised to Go to Portugal.

MADRID, Aug. 1.—The Government has advised the Pope that in case he finds it necessary to leave Rome he should select an asylum in Portugal. It is understood here that the same advice has been given the Pope by Austria.

HIS HIDDEN TREASURE.

An Interesting Tradition of the Blackfeet Indians.

It Grew Out of the Massacre of a Band of Emigrants on the Plains of Montana. The Box of Shining Buttons and the Uneasiness It Caused.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The other day I was up at the Piegan Agency, near Fort Benton, Montana, and met a grizzled old veteran of the frontier, who remembers when Fort Benton was 750 miles from a railroad, as I do myself, for that matter, and who always has some interesting incident to recall of those adventurous fur trading days, when this wild region was truly wild.

A couple of ragged, dirty and listless Indians were leaning—almost lying—upon the counter of the Agency store.

"You bet!" was old Gray's rejoinder, as I made some such observation to him. "Don't you forget that those Piegans are Blackfeet, and the Blackfeet, you know (most of 'em live over on the Canadian side now round Calgary and Medicine Hat) were the terror of this whole region a few years ago, and nothing could lick 'em short of about twice as many Crows or Assiniboines. I've seen these same Piegans make it hot for a whole trading post mor'n once."

Now the Piegans are limited to a poor reservation, decimated by disease and forgetting their former glory and the savage glee of the buffalo hunt, the raid, and the fight at dawn, in which their fathers rejoiced.

You have seen in a menagerie the intent and covetous gaze which a leopard bends upon the keeper when he come in with a basket of meat; or, perhaps—and one shudders to see it—upon some smiling babe cooing against its mother's shoulder as she halts near the cage. Thus, almost, was the gaze of these two Indians now concentrated upon the agent, who, preparing at his desk a remittance of money, was counting out a lot of gold coins.

Old Gray noticed it as well as I, and said it recalled to his memory an incident, or at any rate a tradition, which was well known to the frontiersmen and traders of forty years ago in this vicinity.

About 1845 one of the sub chiefs, or band leaders, among the Piegan Blackfeet was a daring spirit named Little Dog, who, though he had the wit to remain at peace with the traders of the American Fur Company was accustomed to lead his warriors on long forays, not only into the hunting grounds and camps of the red skinned enemies of the Blackfeet—and that meant every other tribe within raiding distance—but also against parties of emigrants, traders, trappers or hunters not connected with the ports at Fort Benton or The Marias.

On one such raid Little Dog had forced his way through the country of the Flatheads and Nez Perces down to the banks of Snake River, in what now is central Idaho, where the Oregon Trail followed the view bank for a distance on its way between Fort Hall and Fort Walla Walla.

He had been attracted there by the report that white emigrants, in increasing numbers, were passing westward along the lonely road, each company possessing a train of wagons loaded with, what to the Indian's eye, seemed fabulous wealth. It was in the hope of finding and conquering one of these parties that Little Dog and his followers had risked their lives so far from home.

Disposing his warriors in a situation favorable for attack, the Indian waited and watched with impatience for the coming of a train. At last, far over the Yellow plain, the white tops of a few wagons are seen creeping over the back of the ridge, and with feverish scrutiny the lookouts counts them and with his fingers signals their number to his anxious companions below.

On they come. They are drawn by oxen which jog lazily forward, their tongues protruding with heat and thirst. The drivers, unused to life on the dry plains, and the hardships of so long a march, tramp heavily beside them, now and then arousing themselves to yell blasphemously at the slow stepping beasts, or to wake the echoes with resounding whacks from their great whips. The monstrous vehicles move nearer and nearer, until at last the caravan, all unsuspicious of the lurking foe, rolls into the midst of the ambuscade.

A terrific whooping and the rush of painted foes surprises the incautious travelers, and while the arrows hurtle, the swinging skull-crackers crash down, and the scalping knife does its swift and bloody work; there is time for little use of guns before all have been struck down and despatched, save perhaps, two or three who can steal away and hide in the rocks.

The eager sack of the wagons that followed may be imagined. How each redskin, with the child like glee of the savage, would seize upon and pervert or destroy all he did not understand the value of, and could not employ as an ornament or easily carry away. The pre-eminence of Little Dog was little regarded at such a time, but it happened that among the things upon which he first laid hands was a small, strong box, carefully stowed under the seat of the foremost wagon.

A blow of his pogamoggan burst it open and disclosed to the astonished eyes of the chief a great quantity of what he thought to be brass buttons—three or four double handfuls—but none of these buttons had eyes. Now such buttons, complete, would have been thought a very desirable acquisition by the Indians. They often bought them at the fort on the Missouri, and paid good prices for them, too. But what could be done with them so long as they lacked eyes? They were very heavy, too, and home was far away. Alas! That the white man should make such a mistake as to load his wagon with so useless an article! But Little Dog could not bear to simply throw away these glittering objects and thinking that some day he might return to this spot, he cached (that is hid) the box with much care in a crevice of a promontory which jutted into the Snake at that point, sure that he would find it when he wished to.

Perhaps in after years Little Dog's thoughts reverted sometimes to the hidden buttons, but he did not esteem them of sufficient value to warrant another hazardous expedition for their recovery, and they remained in their hiding place, unsought for twenty years.

Then population began to flow into Montana, and gold coin, unknown to the earlier fur-traders, began to circulate in the territory. Little Dog was at the post one day when a prospector was making some purchases, and he saw eagles and half-eagles lying on the counter. There were his "buttons without eyes!" With them men were buying from the trader pound upon pound of tea, sugar, tobacco, powder—all that the Indian longed for. And he had enough of those gold pieces hidden away in the dark canon of the Snake to purchase shelvefuls of goods, over and over. Oh, that he could recover it! How rich and powerful he would be in the village—how much dignity he could assure—what gems and horses he would have, how gayly should his young new squaw dress! But times had changed. He was old. The Snake was many a weary day's journey away, and food was scarce He could only lament the fatuity which had led him to throw the treasure away.

Little Dog told of his "buttons" and how he had hidden them. The people at the Fort were interested and put faith in his story, and at last Mr. Dawson, then in charge of the Post, offered to give the old Pigeon a pony and provisions of the cache, if he would lead him to the spot. Little Dog demurred. His "medicine" was against the expedition, he said, and he feared to go. Dawson urged, until finally the old man consented and the two started, but Little Dog had marched only a short distance when he was overcome by superstitous fear and turned back, never to risk offending his guardian again by such temerity.

"Was the treasure never found?" I asked Gray when his recital had ceased.

"No, but it has been searched for many a time. In fact, I once took a day myself. Little Dog tried to describe to me the exact spot in the canon jnst before he died, and I thought I found it, but I could not locate the cache."

"Do you believe it exists?"

"Certainly I do, and some day some fellow 'll hit upon by pure accident, and he'll wonder how it got there, mor'n if he seen a coyote sayin' his prayers."

ERNEST INGERSOLL

A Delicate Hint.

"Well, sir," said the old gentleman, indignantly, "what are you doing around here again. I thought the delicate hint I gave you just as you left the front door last night would give you to understand that I don't like you very well." And the speaker looked at his boot in a reminiscent way.

"I did," said the young man, as a look of mingled pain and admiration came over his face, "but I thought I would come and ask you——"

"Ask me what?"

"If you wouldn't like to join our football association?"

Important Business.

"Oh, Papa," she said, with a blush, "young Mr. Chestnut who owns so many coal mines in Pennsylvania, is coming again this evening, and says he wants to see you on important business."

"All right, my dear," responded the old man, chucking her playfully under the chin. I guess I know what the young man wants."

That night Mr. Chestnut came to the point at once.

"Mr. Hendricks," he said boldly, "I want to ask you if you have laid in your winter's stock of coal."

A Considerate Musician.

Strolling Musician—Can you give me a few pennies?

Housewife—But you haven't made any music yet.

Strolling Musician—Certainly, but although my instrument is sadly out of tune I shall play unless you contribute something.

Housewife—How thoughtful and kind of you. Here is a dollar.

PLAYED HIMSELF FREE.

Adventure of a Russian Pianist Who Wanted to Go to Germany.

Arthur Friedheim, the famous pianist, wished to cross the western Russian border recently for the purpose of filling his engagements to play in several German cities. As a Russian subject he was obliged to go through all sorts of formalities with Russian officials before leaving the country. Two weeks before the date of his first concert he asked the Captain of the city of St. Petersburg, where he was stopping, to ask the Governor of Lavonia to ask the mayor of Pernau, where he was born, for the consent of the Pernau police for the departure of Arthur Friedheim to Germany. Of course, the mayor and the police of Pernau had nothing against Mr. Friedheim or his concert tour in Germany, and they said so in a letter which they sent to the Captain of the capital by return mail.

Owing to the wretchedness of the Livonian mail-service this answer was stranded in a fourth-rate post-office a few miles from Pernau and lay there four weeks. At the end of the second week Mr. Friedheim had broken two engagements to give concerts in Germany. At the end of the third week he had broken four engagements and was receiving telegrams by the score from German theatrical managers whom he had disappointed. The fourth week brought telegrams and demands of an explanation, but no letter from Pernau.

Freidheim was in despair, says the New York Sun, and he resolved to cross the border without passes. He tried it, was arrested, and was taken before the chief of the district, who sent him to prison after confiscating his papers. In Friedheim's pocket-book were a package of his visiting-cards and several newspaper criticisms of his playing. The chief concluded that he had caught the murderer of Arthur Friedheim. He had Friedheim, whom he suspected of murdering himself and confiscating his own papers, doubly ironed and doubly guarded. After protesting and appealing for a whole day, Friedheim got an audience with the chief. He reiterated in vain the statement that he was Arthur Freidheim, the pianist. The chief wouldn't believe him. Finally Friedheim begged to be allowed to prove his identity by playing. The chief, who was something of a musician, consented. Friedheim was marched through the street to the chief's house between two soldiers and was set down before a piano. He played the second rhapsody of Liszt. As soon as he finished the chief removed the guard, saying: "Now I know you, Friedheim." The pianist was released on his promise to return to St. Petersburg for his passes.

Upon his arrival in the capital Friedheim found the letter from Pernau and his other papers ready for him. Four days later he began playing in Germany with a record of seven broken engagements behind him. The official red tape, of which he was a victim, so disgusted him with the Government of the Czar that he has declared his intention to give up his Russian citizenship to become a subject of Emperor William II.

Dudley's Patent Seamless Wigwam Slippers.

Something new, neat and durable. This Wigwam is made by closing the upper on the bottom of the slipper, under the Sole, and the two edges coming together makes the inside perfectly smooth; therefore when the stitches give way on the sole, the slipper will not rip. There are no tacks; and the uppers and soles are of the best oak leather. This, combined with a good stiffening and heel, makes them the best Wigwams yet made. Buy a pair and prove their value. RETURNS TO WORK

The President at His Desk in the White House.

SUNBURNED AND REFRESHED.

He Will Remain Until Tuesday When He Goes to Bar Harbor.

Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt His First Caller—He Will Not Grant Interviews Unless by Special Appointment—Census Appointments by Mr. Porter—Senator Manderson's Pension—Another Batch of New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A few minutes after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a sun-burned trio stepped from a private car at the Baltimore & Ohio depot and entering the President's carriage were whirled swiftly to the White House.

They were President Harrison, Private Secretary Halford and Secretary of the Treasury Windom and they had just returned from Deer Park.

The President was looking much better. He has enjoyed the light rest very much, and feels much better able to look after the business which has cumulated during his absence.

The trip from Deer Park was devoid of incident, and was made as rapidly and as completely as possible. The President will devote the greater portion of the two ensuing working days, Saturday and Monday, to consultation with his Cabinet officers, and will again leave the city on Tuesday morning, going to Bar Harbor, where he will remain a few days.

Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt called at the White House soon after the arrival of the Presidential party and had a long conversation with Mr. Halford. The President expects to be busy the next few days, and it is doubtful if any interviews are granted save to Cabinet officers, Senators and Congressmen, unless by special appointment.

Census Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Charles Kirchhoff, Jr., of New York, has been appointed especial agent of the Census office to collect statistics of copper, lead and ores; John Birkinbine, of Pennsylvania, a special agent to collect statistics of iron ores, and H. K. Carroll, of New Jersey, a special agent to collect church statistics.

Will Become a Publisher.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—A. W. Lyman, for a number of years correspondent at Washington of the New York Sun, has resigned his position here, and to-day took editorial charge of the Helena (Mont.) Independent in which he has purchased a controlling interest.

Senator Manderson's Pension.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—It has transpired that Senator Manderson of Nebraska has not yet received the $4,000 back pension which Mr. Tanner awarded him, and the Senator's friends say he will write a letter refusing to receive the money.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The following-named postmasters were appointed in New York State to-day: E. W. Plass, Clove Valley; Frank Thomas, Ketchum's Corner; J. D. Stickle, Roscoe.

KILLED IN A RIOT.

Five Hundred Italian Laborers on Strike. One Dead and Two Others Injured.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 2.—About 500 Italians employed by the Pittsburg, Lake Erie & Western Railroad on construction work near Beaver struck yesterday for an increase of wages.

The refusal of a few track laborers to join the strikers caused several small riots during the day. Superintendent Holbrook, of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad, telegraphed to Sheriff Welsh that serious trouble was anticipated as the Italians were drinking and becoming very disorderly and to be prepared to suppress any outbreak.

Late last night a telephone message from Beaver was received stating that a riot had occurred during which Antonio Costinello was killed; two Italians fatally injured, another shot in the leg and several others were badly beaten.

After the fight, nearly all of the strikers went up the railroad for the purpose of obstructing the tracks to prevent trains from running.

DANGEROUS WRECK.

A Steamer Carrying 900 Excursionists Goes to Pieces on a Rock.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The palace steamer St. Lawrence, the best of the Thonsand Island Company's boats, ran on a rock off Hog Island yesterday.

She had on board nearly 900 people, who were safely conveyed to the adjoining islands and are now encamped upon their shores. Another steamer was sent to take them off. The accident caused the greatest excitement all along the St. Lawrence River.

The captain, it is said, attempted to cross from the narrows to the main channel, near Hog Island, and when part way over the St. Lawrence struck the rock.

Fined for Illegal Fishing.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Aug. 2.—The case of the steamers Seaconnet and A. F. Serrell, for illegal fishing in Buzzard's Bay, was heard before Justice Hopkins, who found both guilty, and sentenced each to pay $100 fine. An appeal was taken to the Superior Court in October.

Arrested for Flogging His Daughter.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—Albert W. Gogler, a German, flogged his daughter in a terrible manner last night with a horse-whip because she did not give him her wages. He was arrested.

SULLIVAN SURRENDERS.

The Pugilist on His Way to Mississippi to Stand Trial.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The arrest of Pugilist Sullivan created a great stir in sporting circles. A big crowd assembled around the court buildings yesterday awaiting the arrival of the big fellow when a carriage drove up to the Chambers street entrance of the General Sessions and Detectives Adams and Kiernan of Inspector Byrnes's staff alighted, followed by the champion.

The crowd cheered when they saw the big fellow, who doffed his hat, and was quickly ushered into District Attorney Fellows's office, followed by Muldoon, Special Agent Childs, and a host of reporters. Assistant District Attorney MacDona received the papers from Adams, and then approached Sullivan, saying:

"There is only one ground on which you can get a writ of habeas corpus, and that is if you deny you are the man mentioned in the papers."

Sullivan said he had nothing to say until he had seen his counsel, DeLancy Nicoll. The crowd then adjourned to another room to await Mr. Nicoll's arrival.

After the arrival of Mr. Nicoll a short consultation was held, and Sullivan agreed to waive examination and surrendered himself to Sheriff Childs of Mississippi.

After returning to Police Headquarters from court Sullivan remained for a short time in Inspector Byrnes' office, and afterwards drove to the Vanderbilt Hotel, accompanied by the Mississippi officer and Detective-Sergeant Adams, who was accorded six days' leave of absence by the Police Board to accompany the Mississippian home with his prisoner.

The distinguished prisoner left for Mississippi last evening at 6:30 o'clock, over the Pennsylvania road. He was accompanied by Landlord Clune, of the Vanderbilt Hotel, and his captors.

KEMMLER'S CASE.

The Evidence to be Submitted to Judge Day at Auburn Next Month.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Warden Durston of Auburn State Prison was the last witness for the people in the Kemmler electrical execution hearing.

Referee Becker said that the testimony would be printed by August 15, each side standing half the expense. The papers will be presented to County Judge Day at Auburn on September 4.

Warden Durston said that Kemmler was looking well, was fat and seemed indifferent to his fate. "I never saw such a solid man," said the Warden. "Kemmler is kept in solitary confinement to the extent that he has never seen another convict, and of the prison officials only myself and two watchmen. A watchman is always with him."

A Worthless Insurance Company.

READING, Pa., Aug. 2.—The property of the Standard Live Stock Insurance Company of this city was sold at auction by order of the Court, but as nothing but some old office furniture could be found, the creditors will realize nothing. The company had nearly a million dollars of insurance on its books when it failed.

Single Tax Party Purchasing Land.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Sullivan county wild lands are fast passing into the hanks of a wealthy syndicate from New York. In addition to several previous sales reported comes the announcement of the purchase of the burnt Hope tract—1,200 acres—by the McGlynn faction of the Single Tax party.

Death Caused by Poisonous Gases.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—John W. Allen, a colored laborer, was overcome by poisonous gases while cleaning out a cesspool in the rear of a building on Chapel street yesterday and was dead when taken out. His helper was made unconscious but recovered through the hard work of several doctors.

Fast Trotting.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—The three-year-old stallion Axtell, in a trial heat to-day to beat the three-year-old record made it in 2:14¼, lowering his own record three-quarters of a second. Guy was put on the track to beat his record of 2:12½ and after many trials got away in fine style, trotting the mile in 2:10¾.

Says the Lord Bade Him Jump.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 2.—Michael Ryan of New London, Conn., bound for Cincinnati, jumped from a window of a car on the fast Pennsylvania express yesterday and was terribly injured. He is demented and says the Lord bade him jump. He has several hundred dollars on his person.

Cincinnati's Sunday War.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—It is reported upon good authority that unless next Sunday is quieter than last Sunday was, a special session of the Legislature will be called next week for the purpose of considering and adopting two amendments to the law providing for empannelling jurors for the police court.

Drowned in Connecticut River.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 2.—Dana C. Miller, aged 12, son of George H. Miller, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was drowned in the Connecticut River yesterday, having fallen in while playing on the bank.

Killed While Intoxicated.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Jas. Coffee, living near Savannah, while intoxicated yesterday, attempted to cross the West Shore tracks in that village and was instantly killed by a passing train.

Ex-Treasurer Royce Again Arrested.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Aug. 2.—Ex-Treasurer Henry F. Royce, late of the Willimantic Savings Institution, was arrested yesterday on a new charge of embezzlement of $5,000 from the institution and making false entries. The arrest was a complete surprise to Royce.

The Editor Was In.

A man who was seen coming out of a newspaper office with an exceedingly damaged countenance explained to a policeman that he entered the office simply to inquire if the editor was in. "And he was in," the victim mournfully added.

Tremendous Damage Threatened in Case of Another Rainfall.

Middlefield, Conn., in Danger—If the Big Dam Overflows the Town May be Swept Away—Terrible Storms in Virginia—A Deluge at Asbury Park, N. J.—A Torrent in Watkins Glen Causes Great Damage—Flood News from Other Towns.

Asbury Park's Deluge.

ASBURY PARK, Aug. 2.—A terrific rain storm raged here all day yesterday. Torrents of rain fell, deluging the streets and rendering traffic impossible. Hundreds of people were caught on the beach by the heavy storm. A sudden squall caught the awning of a boat on Wesley Lake and overturned it, throwing its five occupants into the water, from which they were rescued with difficulty.

A Connecticut Dam Overflows.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 2.—The recent heavy rains caused Besick Lake, in Middlefield, to rise so high that yesterday afternoon it overflowed the dam and swelled the stream which is its outlet to such an extent as to carry away a number of bridges and small dams along the stream. Several grist mills and other structures were wrecked, and the highways badly flooded.

A large force of men are watching the main dam. If it goes out, the water will carry everything with it to the Connecticut River, eight miles away.

There are washouts on the Air Line road at Cobalt and Codfish Crossing, and trains are sent around via Hartford.

A landslide covered the Valley Railroad at Straits for 50 feet, eight feet deep. Telegraph poles were carried away and the track washed out. Highways are badly damaged. Although the loss to property in this section is large, no lives have been lost.

Heavy Rains in Connecticut.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Aug. 2.—A house in process of construction was struck by lightning yesterday and nearly demolished. Two carpenters working therein were prostrated, but not seriously injured. Showers have been very heavy during the last two days. Streams are badly swollen, and the bridge at Middlefield is gone.

A Torrent in Watkins Glen.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—A severe storm burst over the village of Watkins at about 5 o'clock last evening, causing Glen Creek to rise so rapidly that it soon became a raging torrent, which swept through the famous Watkins Glen, carrying away bridges and staircases until but one or two remain in the whole gorge. Reaching the village, the creek overflowed its banks and carried away the Franklin street bridge. The lower portion of the village was partially inundated and great consternation created among the residents.

Heavy Snowstorms in Europe.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Snowstorms and icy rains prevail throughout Switzerland. The mountain passes are partly blocked. Floods are reported in Silesia.

FLOODS IN THE SOUTH.

Virginia Rivers Out of Their Beds and the Damage Widespread.

DANVILLE, Va., Aug. 2.—The recent rains have made the biggest flood in the Danville River and its tributaries since 1878, and they are still rising. All the buildings on the river front are flooded. Low lands in the lower part of the city are submerged.

The Atlantic and Danville Railroad track for six miles is under water, and thousands of cross ties awaiting rails between here and Milton, N. C., have been washed away. The road bed is greatly damaged. There are seven washouts on the Virginia Midland road between here and Lynchburg and travel is entirely suspended.

From Caswell and Rockingham counties, in North Carolina, and Henry, Franklin, Pittsylvania and Fairfax, in Virginia, come reports of terrible damage. Bridges, fencing and low ground crops are gone in every direction. The bridges over Sandy River and Sandy Creek, near here, were swept off.

Reports from the James River Valley and other low sections are to the effect that the grain crops have been greatly damaged and in some cases, it is believed, utterly destroyed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—The following special bulletin was issued from the Signal office at 10:30 a. m. About 2 inches of rain has fallen in the upper valley of the James River during the past twenty-four hours which will doubtless cause floods to become more destructive in the vicinity of Richmond, to-day or to-morrow.

Maryland Prohibitionists.

GLYNDON, Md., Aug. 2.—The Prohibition party of Maryland held its State convention here yesterday and nominated Dr. D. E. Stone, of Frederick county, for Comptroller. Col. Geo. W. Bain, of Kentucky, made a speech on immigration, the negro and liquor. The platform represents the party as opposed to every form of license or compromise on the liquor question; denounces trusts, and protests against exportation of liquor to heathen countries.

An Incendiary Hangs Himself.

READING, Pa., Aug. 2.—Abraham Fink, accused of setting fire to the Reading Lumber Company's property, causing $30,000 damage, hanged himself in jail yesterday afternoon.

Rhode Island's License Bill Passed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 2.—The license bill was passed yesterday, and the special session adjourned at 4 o'clock to meet according to law.

Hippolyte still Bombarding.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The steamer Ozama from Gonaives reports that up to July 21 Hippolyte was unsuccessfully bombarding Port-au-Prince.

One Way to Beat the Syndicate.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 2.—It was learned to-day that the Bartholomay Brewing Company has reorganized and will build another brewery to compete with the brewery sold to the English syndicate.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Chief Carey and Special Officer Cooney spent last night at the Feltville dam, and the Chief says it was the darkest place he was ever in.

—It is estimated by some people that the exaggerated accounts of the flood in certain newspapers have injured Plainfield to the extent of a million dollars.

—Mr. J. Hervey Doane placed two handsome silver-plated drinking cups in the railroad station this morning, the same being a gift to the railroad company.

—Some of the milkmen driving into town early this morning, report that in places the roadbed was washed out so badly that they had to drive through the fields in order to reach the city.

—The engine attached to the Washington express train which is due in this city at 9:18 A. M., broke down at Westfield this morning, and the train was about half an hour late when it reached here.

—The North Plainfield Council will meet in regular session this evening, when some action will probably be taken toward authorizing the repair of the various streets, within the Borough limits which have suffered by the recent flood.

—The Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society has decided to open the New Jersey State Fair at Waverly on Sept. 16. For this reason a number of new cattle sheds will be built, and several alterations in other branches will be made.

—The Central Railroad company now has four separate tracks open between Cranford and Grant avenue, and yesterday morning all coal and freight trains began running over the fourth track. A flagman has also been located at Grant avenue.

—Mr. H. J. Martin, the horseshoer, whose place of business was wrecked by the flood will in a few days be ready to resume business in the new building which he is erecting on Somerset street, but a few yards Northwest of his former place of business.

—In the court this morning, Judge Stillman sentenced Fred and Harrison Randolph to the county jail for thirty days each, for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Fred Clark was also given an opportunity to pay a ten dollar fine or spend ten days at Elizabeth at the county's expense.

—The bridge spanning Cedar Brook at Park avenue is in a dilapidated condition, and needs attention at once. Although the structure stood the great force of the water on Tuesday night and Wednesday, deep gullies were washed in the roadbed at that point and the bridge itself was somewhat loosened by the water.

Plainfield's Got What Paterson Needs.

Apropos of the demoralized condition of the Paterson, N. J., Fire Department, the Call of that city says: "Every fire that occurs convinces us that the sooner the Aldermen organize a paid department, with a competent, permanent Chief, the better it will be for the public in general and the insurance companies in particular."

For Mr. Peddle is a Very Accommodating Man.

Some concerted movement should be made by the citizens of Plainfield in the way of sending a request to Superintendent Wm. H. Peddle, desiring the stopping of the needless shrieking of the locomotive whistles through the city at all hours of the night and day.

Bitten and Burned.

Little Jimmy Whitely was bitten in the side by Martin Stevens' dog, this morning. Fortunately the flesh was only broken slightly and the wound was immediately cauterized by Dr. Leggett at Reynolds' pharmacy. The little fellow stood the treatment bravely.

Dr. Carroll Will Take a Church Census.

Supt. Porter of the Census Bureau, at Washington, has appointed Dr. H. K. Carroll, of North Plainfield, editor of the New York Independent, special agent to collect church statistics.

SUICIDE IN EVENING TOILET.

Miss Dumont Went from the Ballroom and Hanged Herself.

The readers of THE PRESS who were so deeply grieved by the news in these columns of yesterday of the strange death of Miss Lillian Dumont, will be greatly shocked on learning of its terrible nature.

A despatch from Auburn, N. Y., yesterday states that news was brought from Glenhaven, on Skaneateles Lake, Wednesday night that a guest at that resort, Miss Lillian Dumont of Brooklyn, who came with her mother some time ago had committed suicide the night before. The fact was not discovered until the next morning, when a lady going to the toilet room in the hotel was startled on opening the door to find a woman dangling from its top. The pull at the door necessary to open it threw the body to the floor. It was found to be that of Miss Dumont, and it was quite cold.

Miss Dumont had gone to her death in evening attire, having dressed for the little hop which is a nightly feature of life at Glenhaven. She had danced a short time before making an excuse to her friends for leaving the ballroom. Her continued absence did not seem to create any alarm, and, indeed, she was not missed, it being supposed that she had retired earlier than usual. When the body was found it was devoid of the dress waist. Miss Dumont removed it to get her corset. From this she had taken the laces and with them had made a cord to hang herself. The clothes she had laid aside were carefully placed in the toilet room, and her jewelry, including her diamonds, as studiously disposed of.

Miss Dumont was between 20 and 23 years of age, a girl of striking loveliness of person and charming manner. She had spent a great deal of her time in this city at the residence of her grandfather, Mr. Peter P. Dumont of Broadway and Sixth street. She is a niece of President John B. Dumont, of the Common Council. At all the Poverty Cotilions, Netherwood hops and other society events of Plainfield, Miss Dumont received the most admiration and attention. Her father and mother are alive, and are people of prominence in Brooklyn.

Charles Dumont, a brother of the dead girl, has also been a well-known visitor in this city and taken part in its festivities. Miss Dumont has always been a gay girl, was exceedingly popular with the young people everywhere, and was extracting all the pleasure possible out of life when she elected to end it all. The motive which prompted the deed cannot be surmised. Tuesday night it was not noticed that she exhibited any especial sign of melancholy.

The Cause of the Greatest Damage.

Sensational reports of the flood in this city, have done Plainfield a thousand fold more harm than the high waters.

What else but disgust and indignation can be felt for the editor of a local paper who will admit such stuff as this to its columns:

(From the news of Wednesday.)

Torn through its heart by a great flood of water, Plainfield today is but a ragged and disheveled likeness of its former self.

A rumbling, twisting, awful whirl of billows went seething, foaming, whirling, down Wetumpka Falls and through the gorge.

(From the news of Thursday.)

Plainfield in Peril—The Great Dam at Feltville Threatens to Succumb—Two Couriers on Horseback give Warning—Men Working Like Beavers to Repair the Breaks.

The damage done the city by such sensational fabrications, is incalculable. A PRESS reporter was shown letters today received by the proprietor of The Netherwood, in which the correspondents wanted to know if it was safe to come to Plainfield and whether they could get to the Hotel.

A Lasting Improvement.

The First Baptist church sheds were undermined and nearly wrecked by the high water on Tuesday, and considerable cost will necessarily be incurred in repairing the damage done. The trustees of the church could perhaps employ no better means to protect their property in the future, than to erect along the brook bulwarks of logs such as Capt. Wm. Hand put up in the rear of Messrs Robert Cook, Martin I. Cooley and other Rockview avenue residents' property a year or so ago. Tuesday's flood had no effect whatever upon the work Capt. Hand performed along Stony Brook, and wherever he has done similar services the job has invariably proved a lasting and paying improvement.

Big Scores on the New Alleys.

The highest scores made in the bowling for the $100 worth of Olympia prizes, are as follows. The contest continues through August:

C. Krewson	233	Al. Vail	209
C. VanWinkle	227	Geo. Swain	208
Chas. A. Reed	219	S. G. Smith	205
J. W. Drayton	214	Howard Teel	204
A. C. Wyckoff	213	P. Van Alstyne	203
C. H. Borden	211	Herbert Willett	200
Walter Bird	210

Messrs Drayton's, Wyckoff's and Borden's scores were made last evening.

—Ever since the washout in front of French's mill on Somerset street, an officer has been on duty there during the night time.

A Great Discovery.

The fact that castor-oil, as vile a medicine as was ever discovered, has so long held its own as a laxative, is because, until HAMBURG FIGS were discovered, no medicine could take its place. Now, however, ladies and children take HAMBURG FIGS, and like them. 25 cents. Dose, one Fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

NO DANGER.

Concerning the Flood.

The more conservative people in this city went to bed last night without the least fear of another flood. A few of the timid ones, who had doubtless read the article in another paper which was designed to frighten women and children, remained on the street and discussed the situation. It was really amusing to hear the different opinions as to how Plainfield would be affected in case the Feltville dam should break away. One man claimed that fully six feet of water would flow through the heart of the city, while another person advanced the information that there would not be enough water to wet the soles of his shoes. The latter theory is perhaps the most correct.

It was also reported on the streets, last evening, that a direct wire had been run from the dam to the B. & O. telegraph office in this city. Like most of the other reports, there was nothing in it. It was understood, however, that in the event of the dam giving way, sky rockets would notify the operator at Fanwood and he would in turn send word to this city.

The heavy rain last evening again submerged Tenth street, and by nine o'clock every house on the street was deserted, the occupants seeking higher ground. The last to leave were Mr. P. B. Goodfellow and Mr. James Stephenson and wife, and they registered at the City Hotel. One of the above told a PRESS reporter that he might as well move out as to remain and be frighteued out of his wits.

It may be stated for the benefit of those who have any fear, that the lake at Feltville was relieved last night, to the extent of about three feet and the water allowed to run out through the gateways, and thence through this city while its inhabi were asleep.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Mabel Force of North avenue is visiting in Harlem.

Mr. W. H. Sampson and family have gone to Pine Bush, N. Y.

Mr. C. T. Kissam and family are at Jock's Lake, Wilmurt, N. Y.

Mrs. J. S. Miln, of Central avenue, is at The Windemere, Brielle, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hyde and Miss Hyde, are at the Profile House, White Mountains.

Miss Annie Taylor of Philadelphia, is visiting the family of Mr. I. Taylor of East Fifth street.

Mr. C. W. Beebe and family of Central avenue, will spend the month of August at Water Mills, L. I.

Miss Clara Dunn, Miss Ida Angleman, and Miss Julia Ketcham, will leave for Chautauqua on Monday.

Miss Minnie Force and Miss Susie Van Winkle are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carmon Dunn of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Charles Berry, of Brooklyn, is visiting for a few weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Heath, of Church street.

Mrs. Rowland Cox and children have left Glenside Park, and are now among the guests at the Kimball House, Mt. Desert, Me.

Mrs. Jackson and daughter, Miss Addie, of Arlington avenue, have returned from Asbury Park, after an absence of two weeks from the city.

Mrs. Frank L. Foulks of Jersey City Heights, after spending a few weeks at Carteret, N. J., is now visiting her father J. H. Thomas, of West Seventh street.

Mr. F. G. Neighbor of E. Front street, and his brother-in-law, Erwin M. Young of Newark, sail to-morrow for Europe, where they will be absent for a month.

Miss Kitty Parker entertained a few of her intimate friends at her residence on East Front street, Tuesday evening, the occasion being her birthday celebration.

Alice, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, of Mercer avenue, died yesterday. Funeral from the house tomorrow at three o'clock. Interment in Hillside.

It has been hinted that Mr. Charles Sylvester Cook, an old employee of this office, will soon take unto himself a partner for life. "Cookey" does not deny the charge, so we guess it must be so.

Miss Cook, a resident of West Front street, stumbled and fell on the sidewalk in front of Reynold's pharmacy, a few evenings since, striking on her head. Mr. Geo. W. Moreton, who was passing at the time assisted the injured lady into the drug store, where the wounds were dressed.

The Misses Gussie and Carrie Mager of Newark, and Miss Ettinger of Stroudsburg, Pa., have been visiting the family of Officer Chas. Giesse on Somerset street, during the past few days. On Tuesday evening when the flood was at its height, the young ladies became frightened and started to pack their trunks preparatory to leaving.

The death of Wm. M. McCutchen—whose severe stroke of paralysis was exclusively reported in THE PRESS of last Saturday—occurred at his home on Rock View avenue, about eight o'clock last evening. He was in the 87th year of his age. Funeral services will be held at the house to-morrow at 12 o'clock, noon. Interment private.

RETURNED OF HIS OWN ACCORD.

Sanders Gives Himself to Justice.

George Sanders, late in the employ of R. W. Rice & Co., the grocers, returned last evening of his own volition and appeared with his counsel, Charles A. Reed, Esq., before Justice Hardy of North Plainfield.

The charge was the misappropriation of $102. Sanders did not plead, but his counsel offered surety for the accused to await the action of the Grand Jury of Somerset county.

Justice Hardy fixed the bail at $1,000, and was very particular that the security should be unquestoned. He finally accepted a wealthy woman of Bound Brook and a business man of Plainfield, who swore to the possession of many times the amount required.

ONLY A BEGINNING?

The First Demand Against the City for Damages.

It is only a little one to begin with, but it may be followed by many and greater.

Mr. Frank Campbell who keeps a restaurant at 22 Liberty street, has sent to the City Clerk a bill against the municipality of $19.50 for damages to his meat and matting by reason of the inability of tho gutters to carry off the heavy rains.

"For two or three years," Mr. Campbell tells a PRESS reporter, "the buildings in that section of the city have been flooded whenever there was a shower. I can't afford to employ a lawyer, but shall try by personal demands upon the Council to get redress."

Flood Facts.

During the flood on Tuesday night the water rose to such a depth on Tenth street, as to be about one foot above the top of the picket fences.

All day yesterday workmen were engaged filling in the wash-outs and grading on Tenth street, but the heavy rains during the afternon stopped the work and again washed out what work had been done.

Mr. F. C. Langhorne of Putnam avenue, had an artificial lake planted directly alongside of his house by the high water on Tuesday night. It will require a team and a gang of workmen to repair the damage done to his premises.

Yesterday's shower was the cause of again swelling Cedar Brook into a rushing torrent. At one time during the afternoon the water rose so high as to overflow the Putnam avenue bridge, and inundate several of the nearby dooryards.

The future destiny of the flooded district in the Second Ward is foretold by Tuesday's flood. Already several persons have given up their homes and will hereafter reside in another part of the city.

During the past few days the New York papers have contained columns of rot concerning the flood in this city. The accounts have invariably been exaggerated.

The crowds of spectators which visited the "Notch" and the devastated lands at Feltville yesterday, were fully as large as on the preceding day.

The wife of Capt. William Hand of Netherwood, had a thrilling experience during the storm on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hand was visiting some friends who reside on the hill leading from the fur mill at Scotch Plains to Feltville. When the water in Green Brook began to rise, Mrs. Hand started to drive home, and had just left her friends house when a torrent of water came rushing down through the mountain, crossing the street but a few feet in the rear of her vehicle. The lady next encountered the flood on Front street, but she managed with difficulty to drive through it, and reached home in safety.

Petitions for a New Bridge.

Petitions are being circulated and generously signed, both in this city and in North Plainfield, and the same will be presented to both the Union and Somerset counties Boards of Freeholders, asking for the erection of a bridge across Green Brook on Somerset street, similar to the one on Grove street, with an open throat way.

Experiences of the last few years, have taught the people that the row of old shanties over the brook on Somerset street, have caused much trouble and damage in case of high water, and it is suggested that they petition the Freeholders to have them removed, and to have a permanent bridge erected at that point. Perhaps it may be well to suggest at the same time that an arched iron bridge over the tail race leading from French's mill, would be about the proper thing, too.

An Echo of Harkins.

(From the Somerville Gazette.)

On Saturday last about 100 people braved the chances of rain and went to Plainfield to see the return game between the West Ends of this place and the Crescents of that city, but owing to the heavy rain in New York the West End players there supposed there would be no game and did not put in an appearance.

In order to appease the demands of the 1,600 people who had assembled on the grounds, a scrub nine was picked up with Harkins and Bergen as a battery and a game was played which resulted in a score of 9 to 2 in favor of the Crescents. Keller umpired and he demonstrated thoroughly his unfitness to occupy the position.

—The Central Railroad bridge at the Berckman street crossing has been only temporarily repaired, and the trains are obliged to run carefully over the structure at that point.

THE BRAZILIAN CIRCUS.

It Will Arrive in Town Next Thursday Morning.

Lowande's Brazilian Circus and English Royal Menagarie combined with a Wild West Show will appear at Plainfield two days, commencing Thursday, Aug. 8. The Philadelphia Record says of the performance at Broad and Dickinson streets in that city.

"What distinguished this from other circuses, was that the crowd inside the tent was bigger and more eager to get close to the ring. There was not room for them all, and at 8 o'clock Mr. Rice ordered the sale of the tickets stopped.

"In the ring, bespangled lady riders and acrobatic horsemen disported themselves, half a dozen clows cracked chestnuts, and wonderful gymnasts performed strange and remarkable feats. The elephants went around, the trick mules and dogs cut fantastic capers, and everywhere there was the familiar glitter of tinsel and the flashing of gaudy draperies.

"It is in fact a capital ring show, and it costs but a Dime—with a big D—to see it; hence its great attraction."

Of Interest to Mechanics.

Vice Chancellor VanFleet has decided that "the lien given by our statute to mechanics and others who do work or furnish material in the erection of a building extends to legal estates and interests only, and does not embrace equitable estates or interests." The lien and the mode of enforcing it, he says, are unknown to the common law. The statute itself is an innovation. Independent of the statute, a debt contracted in the erection of a building stands no higher, in point of natural justice, than many other debts, and the lienable quality of such a debt should, therefore, be rigidly restricted to just what the legislature has made of it. Considering only a portion of the statute, the Vice Chancellor thinks it would be easy to reach the conclusion that the lien should take within its grasp every right, interest and estate which it is possible for a person to hold in land. But other sections show clearly that the legislature meant that the lien should extend to legal estates and interests alone. He concludes that the lien created by the statute does not extend to equitable estate. He dismisses the bill of the complainants unless they desire to ask the aid of the court to reach the equitable assets of their judgment debtor and have them applied in payment of their judgment.

How to Make Ice at Home.

The following recipe for home-made ice given by the Colliery Engineer may be found of use. Take a cylindrical vessel and pour three and one-third ounces of commercial sulphuric acid and one and three-quarter ounces of water into it, and then add one ounce of powdered sulphate of soda. In the centre of this mixture place a smaller one holding the water to be frozen; then cover the vessel, and, if possible, revolve the whole with a gentle motion. In a few minutes the water in the small vessel will be converted into ice. The same mixture can be used a second or a third time for making a block of ice. The operation should, if possible, be performed in a cool place—in a cellar, for example.

We Have Not!

The Rahway Advocate is in error when it says: "The ball clubs of Perth Amboy, Plainfield, Somerville and Bergen Point have formed a league, the first game under the new arrangement to be played at Somerville, August 3, between the club of that place and Perth Amboy."

The Plainfield club has not joined. It has games with other clubs scheduled for the entire season at home. It will, however, be ready to meet the winner of the above league, and try and best it.

A Line to Lake Hopatcong.

There is a project on foot for another approach to Lake Hopatcong in New Jersey besides the Lackawanna and the Central of New Jersey roads. It will be from the West Shore from a point near Byron Cove to Stockholm, Sussex county, connecting with the Susquehanna and Western roads. The spur will be nine miles long. W. M. Vorce, a Newark capitalist, has the project in hand.

Maybe He Swam Over.

Mr. Charles Bullman of this city, some days ago returned from a business trip to South America. Last week he read the following in the Central Times:

Charles Bullman, of the mining engineering firm of Bullman & Ruttman, of this city, is ill at Aspinwall, South America, with fever. Although his friends say that it is not the terrible yellow jack, still steamer captains refuse to give him passage home.

Speaketh From Experience.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "THE PRESS keeps asking when Plainfield will have a public bath and an enclosed base ball grounds. These are two crying needs in Elizabeth, but if Plainfield don't get them before this city does, their base ball players will be very gray and long unwashed.

—The sunflower is seen in perfection and beauty in all parts of the city, and many householders take pride in raising a fine assortment.

Rapid Beating of the Heart.

Whenever you feel uneasiness in the region of the heart, a slight pain in the shoulder, arm, or under the shoulder-blade, or when you find yourself short of breath when exercising, or your heart has periods of beating fast, you have heart disease, and should take DR. FLINT'S REMEDY. Descriptive treatise with each bottle; or address Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

A RABID HORSE.

Two Men Bitten and a Chicago Street Terrorized.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—A horse with all the symptoms of hydrophobia ran amuck on Robey street yesterday, and was finally killed beneath the shadow of the Moody tent on Milwaukee avenue. No tiger of the jungle could have created more of a sensation or shown a more vicious desire to exterminate man and beast.

Two men were bitten and eight horses torn by the teeth of the maddened animal. A thousand people joined in the hunt to destroy the brute. For two hours they chased up and down the alleys, pursuing and pursued.

The police finally drove the horse from the street to a vacant lost. Lieut. Penzen made a lassoo out of a clothesline. Standing on the sidewalk he made a throw. The line straightened out in regular Mexican style and settled around the horse's hind leg. The animal started away and the officer took a turn around a convenient post. This upset the horse and in a moment four bullets were fired into his head.

It is said the horse was bitten by a mad dog two weeks ago.

HALSTEAD FOR SENATOR.

His Partner Publishes an Editorial Asking That He Be Nominated.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 2.—The Commercial Gazette nominates Mr. Murat Halstead for the Senate. In a double-leaded editorial over the signature of Richard Smith, Mr. Halstead's partner, it says:

"Mr. Halstead will be home in a few days. It now remains for us to say, in his absence, that the Republicans of Ohio should elect him to take the place of Payne in the United States Senate. He would fill the chair. It is fair to infer that this is what the Republicans of Ohio, and even what the people of Ohio, irrespective of party, desire. For obvious reasons this paper cannot, at a later date, take part in the contest.

"We nominate Murat Halstead for the U. S. Senate, to take the seat misrepresented by Henry B. Payne.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Evarete Caruzo, President of Nicaragua, is dead.

Wilkie Collins is slowly but surely regaining strength.

Hon. Carl Schurz left New York city yesterday for a European trip.

W. T. Johnson & Co., leather dealers, at Boston, have failed for about $250,000.

The public debt statement shows an increase of $1,017,311 for the month of July.

The yacht Sea Fox, reported ashore yesterday near Chatham, Mass., was floated during the night.

There are over 2,000 applicants waiting for Civil Service examinations to enter the New York city postoffice.

The Constitutional convention at Helena, Montana, after a brisk debate, retained the words "so help me God" in official oaths.

Secretary Tracy and Commodore Sicard were in Bethlehem, Pa., yesterday inspecting the ordnance work being done under contract for the Government.

The loss of the steamer Rapel, from Valparaiso to Montevideo, is confirmed. She was totally wrecked at Hanniblia Island, and the chief engineer, purser and eight of the crew were lost.

By a collision on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad, near Oxford, O., a fireman was killed and several men were severely injured. The engineer, whose error caused the accident, claimed to have been on duty thirty hours without a break.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Forecast for New England: Light local rains; slightly warmer; southwesterly winds.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

RETURNED OF HIS OWN ACCORD.

Sanders Gives Himself to Justice.

George Sanders, late in the employ of R. W. Rice & Co., the grocers, returned last evening of his own volition and appeared with his counsel, Charles A. Reed, Esq., before Justice Hardy of North Plainfield.

The charge was the misappropriation of $102. Sanders did not plead, but his counsel offered surety for the accused to await the action of the Grand Jury of Somerset county.

Justice Hardy fixed the bail at $1,000, and was very particular that the security should be unquestoned. He finally accepted a wealthy woman of Bound Brook and a business man of Plainfield, who swore to the possession of many times the amount required.

ONLY A BEGINNING?

The First Demand Against the City for Damages.

It is only a little one to begin with, but it may be followed by many and greater.

Mr. Frank Campbell who keeps a restaurant at 22 Liberty street, has sent to the City Clerk a bill against the municipality of $19.50 for damages to his meat and matting by reason of the inability of the gutters to carry off the heavy rains.

"For two or three years," Mr. Campbell tells a PRESS reporter, "the buildings in that section of the city have been flooded whenever there was a shower. I can't afford to employ a lawyer, but shall try by personal demands upon the Council to get redress."

Flood Facts.

During the flood on Tuesday night the water rose to such a depth on Tenth street, as to be about one foot above the top of the picket fences.

All day yesterday workmen were engaged filling in the wash-outs and grading on Tenth street, but the heavy rains during the afternon stopped the work and again washed out what work had been done.

Mr. F. C. Langhorne of Putnam avenue, had an artificial lake planted directly alongside of his house by the high water on Tuesday night. It will require a team and a gang of workmen to repair the damage done to his premises.

Yesterday's shower was the cause of again swelling Cedar Brook into a rushing torrent. At one time during the afternoon the water rose so high as to overflow the Putnam avenue bridge, and inundate several of the nearby dooryards.

The future destiny of the flooded district in the Second Ward is foretold by Tuesday's flood. Already several persons have given up their homes and will hereafter reside in another part of the city.

During the past few days the New York papers have contained columns of rot concerning the flood in this city. The accounts have invariably been exaggerated.

The crowds of spectators which visited the "Notch" and the devastated lands at Feltville yesterday, were fully as large as on the preceding day.

The wife of Capt. William Hand of Netherwood, had a thrilling experience during the storm on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hand was visiting some friends who reside on the hill leading from the fur mill at Scotch Plains to Feltville. When the water in Green Brook began to rise, Mrs. Hand started to drive home, and had just left her friends house when a torrent of water came rushing down through the mountain, crossing the street but a few feet in the rear of her vehicle. The lady next encountered the flood on Front street, but she managed with difficulty to drive through it, and reached home in safety.

Petitions for a New Bridge.

Petitions are being circulated and generously signed, both in this city and in North Plainfield, and the same will be presented to both the Union and Somerset counties Boards of Freeholders, asking for the erection of a bridge across Green Brook on Somerset street, similar to the one on Grove street, with an open throat way.

Experiences of the last few years, have taught the people that the row of old shanties over the brook on Somerset street, have caused much trouble and damage in case of high water, and it is suggested that they petition the Freeholders to have them removed, and to have a permanent bridge erected at that point. Perhaps it may be well to suggest at the same time that an arched iron bridge over the tail race leading from French's mill, would be about the proper thing, too.

An Echo of Harkins.

(From the Somerville Gazette.)

On Saturday last about 100 people braved the chances of rain and went to Plainfield to see the return game between the West Ends of this place and the Crescents of that city, but owing to the heavy rain in New York the West End players there supposed there would be no game and did not put in an appearance.

In order to appease the demands of the 1,600 people who had assembled on the grounds, a scrub nine was picked up with Harkins and Bergen as a battery and a game was played which resulted in a score of 9 to 2 in favor of the Crescents. Keller umpired and he demonstrated thoroughly his unfitness to occupy the position.

—The Central Railroad bridge at the Berckman street crossing has been only temporarily repaired, and the trains are obliged to run carefully over the structure at that point.

THE BRAZILIAN CIRCUS.

It Will Arrive in Town Next Thursday Morning.

Lowande's Brazilian Circus and English Royal Menagarie combined with a Wild West Show will appear at Plainfield two days, commencing Thursday, Aug. 8. The Philadelphia Record says of the performance at Broad and Dickinson streets in that city.

"What distinguished this from other circuses, was that the crowd inside the tent was bigger and more eager to get close to the ring. There was not room for them all, and at 8 o'clock Mr. Rice ordered the sale of the tickets stopped.

"In the ring, bespangled lady riders and acrobatic horsemen disported themselves, half a dozen clows cracked chestnuts, and wonderful gymnasts performed strange and remarkable feats. The elephants went around, the trick mules and dogs cut fantastic capers, and everywhere there was the familiar glitter of tinsel and the flashing of gaudy draperies.

"It is in fact a capital ring show, and it costs but a Dime—with a big D—to see it; hence its great attraction."

Of Interest to Mechanics.

Vice Chancellor VanFleet has decided that "the lien given by our statute to mechanics and others who do work or furnish material in the erection of a building extends to legal estates and interests only, and does not embrace equitable estates or interests." The lien and the mode of enforcing it, he says, are unknown to the common law. The statute itself is an innovation. Independent of the statute, a debt contracted in the erection of a building stands no higher, in point of natural justice, than many other debts, and the lienable quality of such a debt should, therefore, be rigidly restricted to just what the legislature has made of it. Considering only a portion of the statute, the Vice Chancellor thinks it would be easy to reach the conclusion that the lien should take within its grasp every right, interest and estate which it is possible for a person to hold in land. But other sections show clearly that the legislature meant that the lien should extend to legal estates and interests alone. He concludes that the lien created by the statute does not extend to equitable estate. He dismisses the bill of the complainants unless they desire to ask the aid of the court to reach the equitable assets of their judgment debtor and have them applied in payment of their judgment.

How to Make Ice at Home.

The following recipe for home-made ice given by the Colliery Engineer may be found of use. Take a cylindrical vessel and pour three and one-third ounces of commercial sulphuric acid and one and three-quarter ounces of water into it, and then add one ounce of powdered sulphate of soda. In the centre of this mixture place a smaller one holding the water to be frozen; then cover the vessel, and, if possible, revolve the whole with a gentle motion. In a few minutes the water in the small vessel will be converted into ice. The same mixture can be used a second or a third time for making a block of ice. The operation should, if possible, be performed in a cool place—in a cellar, for example.

We Have Not!

The Rahway Advocate is in error when it says: "The ball clubs of Perth Amboy, Plainfield, Somerville and Bergen Point have formed a league, the first game under the new arrangement to be played at Somerville, August 3, between the club of that place and Perth Amboy."

The Plainfield club has not joined. It has games with other clubs scheduled for the entire season at home. It will, however, be ready to meet the winner of the above league, and try and best it.

A Line to Lake Hopatcong.

There is a project on foot for another approach to Lake Hopatcong in New Jersey besides the Lackawanna and the Central of New Jersey roads. It will be from the West Shore from a point near Byron Cove to Stockholm, Sussex county, connecting with the Susquehanna and Western roads. The spur will be nine miles long. W. M. Vorce, a Newark capitalist has the project in hand.

Maybe He Swam Over.

Mr. Charles Bullman of this city, some days ago returned from a business trip to South America. Last week he read the following in the Central Times:

Charles Bullman, of the mining engineering firm of Bullman & Buttman, of this city, is ill at Aspinwall, South America, with fever. Although his friends say that it is not the terrible yellow jack, still steamer captains refuse to give him passage home.

Speaketh From Experience.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "THE PRESS keeps asking when Plainfield will have a public bath and an enclosed base ball grounds. These are two crying needs in Elizabeth, but if Plainfield don't get them before this city does, their base ball players will be very gray and long unwashed.

—The sunflower is seen in perfection and beauty in all parts of the city, and many householders take pride in raising a fine assortment.

A RABID HORSE.

Two Men Bitten and a Chicago Street Terrorized.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—A horse with all the symptoms of hydrophobia ran amuck on Robey street yesterday, and was finally killed beneath the shadow of the Moody tent on Milwaukee avenue. No tiger of the jungle could have created more of a sensation or shown a more vicious desire to exterminate man and beast.

Two men were bitten and eight horses torn by the teeth of the maddened animal. A thousand people joined in the hunt to destroy the brute. For two hours they chased up and down the alleys, pursuing and pursued.

The police finally drove the horse from the street to a vacant lost. Lieut. Penzen made a lassoo out of a clothesline. Standing on the sidewalk he made a throw. The line straightened out in regular Mexican style and settled around the horse's hind leg. The animal started away and the officer took a turn around a convenient post. This upset the horse and in a moment four bullets were fired into his head.

It is said the horse was bitten by a mad dog two weeks ago.

HALSTEAD FOR SENATOR.

His Partner Publishes an Editorial Asking That He Be Nominated.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 2.—The Commercial Gazette nominates Mr. Murat Halstead for the Senate. In a double-leaded editorial over the signature of Richard Smith, Mr. Halstead's partner, it says:

"Mr. Halstead will be home in a few days. It now remains for us to say, in his absence, that the Republicans of Ohio should elect him to take the place of Payne in the United States Senate. He would fill the chair. It is fair to infer that this is what the Republicans of Ohio, and even what the people of Ohio, irrespective of party, desire. For obvious reasons this paper cannot, at a later date, take part in the contest.

"We nominate Murat Halstead for the U. S. Senate, to take the seat misrepresented by Henry B. Payne.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Evarete Caruzo, President of Nicaragua, is dead.

Wilkie Collins is slowly but surely regaining strength.

Hon. Carl Schurz left New York city yesterday for a European trip.

W. T. Johnson & Co., leather dealers, at Boston, have failed for about $250,000.

The public debt statement shows an increase of $1,017,311 for the month of July.

The yacht Sea Fox, reported ashore yesterday near Chatham, Mass., was floated during the night.

There are over 2,000 applicants waiting for Civil Service examinations to enter the New York city postoffice.

The Constitutional convention at Helena, Montana, after a brisk debate, retained the words "so help me God" in official oaths.

Secretary Tracy and Commodore Sicard were in Bethlehem, Pa., yesterday inspecting the ordnance work being done under contract for the Government.

The loss of the steamer Rapel, from Valparaiso to Montevideo, is confirmed. She was totally wrecked at Hannibilin Island, and the chief engineer, purser and eight of the crew were lost.

By a collision on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad, near Oxford, O., a fireman was killed and several men were severely injured. The engineer, whose error caused the accident, claimed to have been on duty thirty hours without a break.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Forecast for New England: Light local rains; slightly warmer; southwesterly winds.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Light showers; stationary temperature; southwesterly winds.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

THE BIG COKE STRIKE

Works in the Connellsville Region at a Standstill.

THE MEN SAY THEY WILL WIN.

They Claim They Are Prepared for a Long Struggle.

A Big Mass Meeting Held and Resolutions Passed Unanimously to Remain Out Until Victorious—It is Claimed that One Firm Will Accede to the Demand. A List of the Works Interested—Puddlers Wages Increased.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 2.—The mass meeting of coke workers at this place was attended by about 3,000 men. Resolutions were passed unanimously to remain out on strike until their demands were acceded to by the operators.

The strikers then marched in a body to the Trotter works to induce the men at work to join the strike. It is known that the men working at four large works in this vicinity will join the strike to-day.

6,000 Men Idle at Scottdale.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 2.—The works idle by the strike include over 3,500 ovens, and give employment to about 6,000 men, or about one-half the coke workers in the Connellsville region.

It was reported to-day that E. A. Humphreys, of the Fountain Works, who has large contracts, will accede to the demand. The leaders of the strike are very confident of success, claiming that it is a question of bread with them.

At a meeting of the general committee to-day arrangements were made to carry on a long struggle.

Works Reported Out.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 2.—The strike in the Connellsville coke region is now an assured fact, and the following works are reported out: Charlotte, Clinton, Davidson, Eagle, Foundry, Frick, Henry Clay, Morgan, Summit, Tiptop, Valley and White, of the A. C. Frick Coke Company; Buckeye, of A. C. Cochran Coke Company; Central, of the Central Connellsville Coke Company; Dexter, of J. B. Stauffer & Co.; Franklin, of B. F. Keister & Co.; Home, of Stauffer & Wiley; Lemont, of Robert Hogsett; Southwest, of the Southwest Coal and Coke Company; Stewart, of the Stewart Iron Company; Tyrone, of Laughlin & Co.; Uniondale, of Reid Bros.; Wheeler, of the Cambria Iron Company; Youngstown, of J. M. Schoonmaker Coke Company.

Puddlers' Wages Increased.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 2.—The Bethlehem Iron Company has announced an increase in the wages of its puddlers from $3.25 to $3.80 per day, and a proportionate increase in the pay of the men at work on dephosorized iron.

POPE AND KING.

Europe Aroused Over the Reported Dynamite Plot.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The announcement in Rome of the threatened demolition of the Vatican Quirinal by dynamite served its purpose by calling forth expressions of dismay and warning leaders from the Conservative press to the effect that such diabolical plots were no more than could have been expected to result from radical teachings and examples. The impartiality of the schemers in proposing to destroy alike Pope and King naturally aroused suspicions in less credulous quarters, and it was found that the alarming information could be traced no nearer Italy than Paris.

La Riforma, Signor Crispi's organ, ridicules the rumor and characterizes it as one of those periodical feelers thrown out by the Church party to sound the public opinion of Europe in regard to the relations between the Holy See and the Italian Government. The Osservatore Romano, the mouthpiece of the Vatican, hopes the direful tidings will prove unfounded, but intimates that it could be surprised at nothing that could happen in the future when it regards what the Church has been compelled to endure for nearly a score of years.

It is stated again positively that the influence of England will be used to prevent the Pope from leaving Rome, partly as a factor in preserving the peace of Europe, and incidentally as attaching still more strongly to the Ministerial party the Catholic Tories represented by the Duke of Norfolk, the Earl of Denbigh and the upper class of the priesthood, whose representations adverse to the Irish Nationalists cause have already proved so damaging to it.

Mrs. Maybrick's Trial.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 2.—At the trial of Mrs. Florence Maybrick for the murder of her husband, to-day, Dr. Fuller, who attended Maybrick, testified that he had prescribed tonics for Maybrick on several occasions. His patient had never hinted that he was in the habit of taking arsenic, nor did he present any indication of having at any time taken the poison.

Emperor William in England.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—On the arrival of Emperor William at Cowes to-day he landed at Trinity pier from the imperial yacht and was met by the Prince of Wales and driven to Osborne, escorted by a body of cavalry. At Osborne the Queen received her imperial grandson in the presence of her Ministers and her Court.

Natalie Cannot Enter Servia.

BULGARIA, Aug. 2.—The conference between ex-King Milan and the Servian Regents to consider the question of the future relations of ex-Queen Natalie and her son, King Alexander, resulted in a decision that Natalie should meet her son only outside of Servia.

Scripps' Delegation in England.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The steamship City of Rome, from New York, July 24, having on board the delegation of representative workingmen sent by the Scripps (newspaper) League to visit the Paris Exposition arrived here last night.

The Shah Meets Buffalo Bill.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The Shah attended the performance at Cody's Wild West show last night. At its close he expressed a desire to meet Buffalo Bill, and on being introduced expressed through his interpreter his admiration of the performance.

Terrible Railroad Collision.

ODESSA, Aug. 2.—A terrible collision occurred near Petchougiat yesterday, two trains, both filled with passengers, crashing into one another. Eight coaches were wrecked and several of the passengers killed and injured.

TO GUARD AGAINST RESCUE.

Chicago Authorities Take Every Precaution for the Safety of Burke.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2.—Chief of Police Hubbard and Lieutenant Ross, of the Chicago police, arrived here yesterday, and are making arrangements for taking Burke back. They have secured a special car for accommodation of the prisoner and the Chicago party now here.

Hubbard says he does not apprehend any attempt at rescue, but will take every precaution. The party will be fully armed, so as to be ready to resent any attack on the train. Mr. Hubbard says that Burke is a principal in the case and is one of the most imporeant men, so that every care will be taken to get him back to Chicago safely. Burke is now reconciled to his fate, as he expects to be well defended in Chicago. The party will leave to-morrow.

FOREST FIRES RAGING.

The Sun Obscured By Clouds of Smoke for a Week.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 2.—The forest fires show no signs of abatement. A great black cloud hangs over the country west, north and south of this city.

The sun has not been seen for six days. It is believed timber to the amount of $500,000 has been destroyed. The buildings and sidewalks of Missoula are covered with ashes.

The fire now raging in Bowider Canon has been very destructive to property. In the neighborhood of Philipsburg the damage has been immense. The town of Granite is in imminent danger of being consumed. The mountains about the city are all on fire. The heat and smoke is almost stifling.

They Allege Conspiracy.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 2.—The Cherry Valley Iron Company and A. Wilcox & Co., small creditors of the iron firm of Graff, Bennett & Co., have filed exceptions to the assignee's final report, alleging conspiracy on the part of the large creditors. The Clinton and Millvale Mills, they allege, were sold to a syndicate representing some of the large creditors for $26,000, subject to a mortgage of $565,000, whereas the Millvale Mill was worth $1,000,000, and the purchasers have been offered $200,000 for the Clinton Mill. The Court is asked to compel the assignee to make a fair and just account of property of the firm sold by him.

Umpire Goldsmith awarded the game to the Athletic, score 9 to 0; at Wilkesbarre, Wilkesbarre 7, Newark 8.

May Die From Bees' Sting

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Jackson Graves, an elderly man, a well known politician in this section, is lying at the point of death as the result of being stung by a swarm of bees. Two of Mr. Graves' colts were attacked by the bees and the owner tried to get them out of danger when the insects settled on his face and head stinging him severely. One of the colts was killed by the bees.

The New York Sheriff's Domestic Trouble.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Mary E. Flack, the wife of Sheriff James A. Flack, the well known Tammany leader, has secured a divorce from her husband on the grounds of adultery. The testimony taken before a referee showed that for two years Mr. Flack has been maintaining two domestic establishments. The announcement of the divorce causes great surprise to Flack's political friends.

Mr. Cleveland to Take a Cruise.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—James Stillman's steam yacht Wanderer has arrived at Marion from New York, and will take ex-President Cleveland on a cruise for a week. On the yacht are ex-Secretary Fairchild, Col. Daniel S. Lamont and James J. Woodward. Mr. Bangs, law partner of the ex-President, who has been visiting Marion, left last night for New York.

Lightning's Peculiar Work.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Aug. 2.—Lightning struck H. L. Sowles' barn at Albaugh yesterday, shattering part of the building, killing two horses, injuring other animals, and more or less prostrating a number of persons in the vicinity. The peculiar feature of the occurrence is that there was no storm within two miles of the spot where the lightning struck.

Emancipation Celebration.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The emancipation of the slaves in the British West Indies was celebrated in this city yesterday, a number of local and visiting organizations of colored people taking part. Mayor Clifford delivered an address, and among other speakers was Prof. J. C. Dancy, of Salisbury, N. C.

Big Fire Loss in a Small Town.

HOLLAND, Mich., Aug. 2.—Fire last night in the village of Fennville, fifteen miles south of here, destroyed the postoffice, opera house, express office, Forest Hotel, two stores, two groceries, two meat markets and two saloons. Dickinson & Raymond, hardware, sustained the heaviest loss.

Ex-Umpire Mahony Has an Offer.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 2.—N. J. Mahony, of this city, ex-umpire of the Atlantic League, has received an offer, stated to be $250 per month, from the International League. Having recently established himself in business here he is in doubt about accepting the offer.

The National Saengerfest.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—The committee in charge of the National Saengerfest to be held here in February, 1890, have obtained all the funds necessary for the festival, and have invited bids for a mammoth building capable of holding 6,000 persons in the auditorium and 1,500 choristers.

Blaine's Nephew Appointed.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 2.—J. H. Manley assumed charge of the Augusta Postoffice last night. He made several appointments of subordinates, among them being that of Walter D. Stinson, a nephew of Secretary Blaine, as Assistant Postmaster.

Street Car Stables Burned By Lightning.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 2.—The City Railway Stables were struck by lightning early yesterday and burned. Sixty mules and horses, together with seven street cars, were consumed. The loss will be heavy.

WOODCOCK HUNTING.

Where they are Found and How to Kill Them

Why Summer Shooting Should Be Prohibited—What Kind of Dog to Use—Some Interesting Characteristics of the Bird

COPYRIGHT 1889.

If I were asked to describe a game bird, I would give as close a description as possible of a woodcock, and any man or dog that is familiar with the "long bill," "snipes," "pee-wee!" or "bogg-sucker," as he is sometimes called, will, I thing, agree with me that he is the most distinguished member of the feathered tribe.

A FAIR SHOT.

To most sportsmen woodcock shooting has a fascination that is found in no other kind of wing shooting. He is a splendid bird on which to work a dog as he leaves a strong scent, seldom runs while the dog is pointing, and lies so close that it is often necessary for the gunner to walk in ahead of his dog to flush him.

He apparently makes no friends, even among his own tribe, and just as soon as he is old enough to grub for himself he lives a life independent of his family. It is seldom that two birds are put up together, and when such is the case it will be noticed that their flights are in opposite directions rather than the same.

His bill, which is conspicuous for its length, answers the combined purpose of drill and tweezers. With this instrument the woodcock probes away down in the soft soil in quest of worms. The end of this horny drill is a centre of nerves and so sensitive as to enable him to tell the instant it comes in contact with a worm, when "Presto!" the drill has changed into a pair of tweezers whose grasp marks the end of the wriggler's earthly career.

It is claimed, and by good authority that a woodcock will devour twice his weight in worms at a single repast. One would hardly imagine that his capacity was equal to this, as he is the owner of but one intestine.

As a table delicacy they rank foremost, and, differing from other game birds, are the finest eating when cooked soon after being killed. They are placed before the consumer still decorated by the long billed head.

A glance at the woodcock will show that he has an unusually high forehead, and when you become cognizant of his peculiar ways, you will have convicing proof that he knows how to use it. There are a number of unsolved problems regarding his habits. For instance, there may be an abundance of birds in the month of July. The arrival of August will disclose the fact that every one has disappeared, and just as suddenly they reappear in September, and are found in the corn fields bordering a stream where the soil is rich and soft. Now, where they were in August and what they were about is a mystery. Some will say they were molting, which is quite possible. But why was it necessary for them to dissapear from the face of the earth to accomplish what other birds do in plain sight? Then, to add to the mystery that surrounds this bird, he does all his travelling and most of his feeding after honest folks are abed. Another interesting and original custom is Mrs. Woodcock's mode of transporting her young, which is shown in the accompaning cut.

MRS. WOODCOCK TRANSPORTING HER YOUNG.

The degree of skill attained by the experienced woodcock hunter is astonishing, and to the novice is almost beyond belief. This bird, on jumping up, will invariably make a nearly perpendicular ascent and disappear over the top of the brush. It is unnecessary for his flight to be visible but for a few feet, as it is only his direction that is required; and he may be well out of sight before the report of the gun, but the chances are about seven out of ten that a few of the shot will succeed in penetrating the foliage and bringing him down.

The mistake an amateur makes is that of shooting to quickly. He realizes that the bird will be almost immediately out of sight and thinks he must fire before the meteor like target has disappeared. This is all wrong. For even if he succeeds in killing his bird by this method, it will be at such close quarters that nothing but a few feathers will remain for his game bag.

In hunting woodcock, a staunch dog is required, and he should be trained especially for this kind of sport. It is essential that he should be a close ranger, otherwise most of the time he would be out of sight in the thick brush, willows or alders, for such are the places that woodcock frequent. He must also be a thoroughly good retriever, for without a persistent retriever nine tenths of the dead birds would be lost. Even then, a number of birds will be left hanging in the top of the brush.

Woodcock shooting may be divided into two kinds, summer and fall shooting.

In the hot days of the former, he is found in the most romantic and picturesque spots, such as along the cool and shady banks of a stream or lake, where he remains all day long under the protection of a spreading brake or overhanging willow. At this season he is mentally and physically but partially developed, and against a staunch dog and fairly good shot hasn't a ghost of a chance. He gets up on weak wings and is such a chump that if fired at and missed his flight will measure but a few yards, when he will drop in most any spot, whether conspicuous or not, and quietly wait to be kicked up and shot at again. This kind of thing will go on indefinitely until the "shoemaker"—(for shoemaker he is—a sportsman would have downed him with the first or second shot, has either killed him by a lucky chance or, as is often the case, left in disgust, swearing that woodcock shooting is no good, anyway.

For this early shooting a light, 28 inch barrelled, 12 gauge, cylinder bore gun is preferable. The shells should be tightly reamed and loaded with 3½ drams of quick powder and 1 oz. of No. 10 chilled shot with two wads over the powder and one over the shot, using wood powder, which is smokeless, in the barrel that is first fired.

Most of the birds will be killed at very short range, and the result striven for is that the shot be evenly scattered over as much territory as possible, for one or two of these small shot would be sufficient to kill the young bird.

Where twenty birds could be found some fifteen years ago, there is but one now. And this pitiable state of affairs is mainly due to the killing of young birds. Luckily, there are but few States at present whose game laws do not protect woodcock in the summer months. The sooner they all have strict laws against the "Slaughter of the Innocents"—for innocents they are until the latter part of August—the better it will please any true sportsman.

Now comes the fall shooting, when No. 8 shot should be substituted for the No. 10, and every woodcock killed will be worth two of the July birds. Proportionately to the bird's increase in size, is his growth in worldly wisdom. And if he is not brought down at the first shot the chances are he will make a long flight and if not killed on the second rise he is off for good.

SEARCHING FOR THE LOST BIRD.

Occasionally, there will be what is termed a silent bird. That is, he gets up without the whistle that the sportsman expects to hear, and his flight is so rapid that he is nearly out of range before the gunner has realized that it is a woodcock at all.

The birds begin working South with the first heavy frost, and when the full moon comes they travel very rapidly. The greatest trouble is found in striking the flight. For instance, a good piece of fall ground may be hunted very carefully today and not a bird put up. To-morrow morning you may hunt that same cover and kill fifteen or twenty birds on it, all of which dropped in during the night. If not disturbed they might have remained there a few days. But if there were a heavy frost, the chances are they would have left during the following night.

The favorite ground for droppers, as the flight birds are called, is second growth timber, especially silver poplars that are situated on high ground, near a swamp or stream. If the nights are very cold the birds will be found under second growth hemlocks or pines. Every locality, however, has its favorite woodcock grounds, where the birds are sure to drop, and other covers that look all right that never hold a bird.

As sportsmen know to their cost, the innocent looking bayseed wearing a truthful John expression always tells a lie when asked if he has "seen any woodcock this season?"

As is often the case, he does not even know what a woodcock is, nevertheless his answer comes without the slightest hesitation.

THE HAYSEED WITH "THE TRUTHFUL JOHN EXPRESSION."

"Yaas, there be quite some around. Half an hour ago I were a-fetchin' th' cows and see Shep scare up a lot of 'em."

"Is that so? Did they fly far?" and the sportsman's eyes fairly bulge from their sockets as he awaits the reply.

"Wall, not not so all-fired far. They sailed off easy like an' lit up in the old button ball ye see yonder."

Here is where we get the bulge on the countryman. It is a well known fact that a woodcock never alights in a tree.

J. W. J.

A Comforting Night Cap.

"It ain't everybody I'd put to sleep in this room," said old Mrs. Jinks to the fastidious and extremely nervous young minister who was spending the night in B. at her house. "This here room is full of sacred associations to me," she went on; "my first husband died in that bed with his head on those very pillows, and poor Mr. Jinks died settin' right in that corner. Sometimes when I come into the room in the dark I think I see him settin' there still.

"My own father died layin' right on that lounge under the winder. Poor pa' he was a speeritualist, and he allus said he'd appear in this room again after he died, and sometimes I'm foolish enough to look for him. If you should see anything of him to-night you'd better not tell me, for it'd be a sign to me that there was something in speeritualism, and I'd hate to think that.

"My son by my first man fell dead of heart disease right where you stand. He was a doctor, and there's two whole skeletons in that closet that belonged to him, and a half dozen skulls in that lower drawer.

"Well, good night and pleasant dreams."

A BRAINY BRAKEMAN.

How a Green Country Boy Made His Way in the World.

It was only a few years ago, says the Washington Post, that a green country boy applied to Division Superintendent Hitchcock, of the Galesburg division of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, for work. Mr. Hitchcock could set him at nothing but braking on a freight train, and disliked to give such work to him because of the lad's youthful appearance and the dangers besetting that vocation. The boy, however, pleaded until he secured the employment. On one of his first trips, if not indeed the very first, it chanced that his train met another freight train at a station where the side-track was not long enough to accommodate either. The conductors were discussing the question which train should back up to a point where they could pass, when the green boy ventured to suggest that neither need back up; that they could pass by means of the short side track if they worked it right. This occasioned a good deal of laughter on the part of the older and more experienced trainmen, but the boy insisted he could work the trains by each other.

"Well, how would you go about it?" asked one of the conductors, confident that the lad would soon be up a stump. The boy took up a stick and traced in the sand a diagram of how he would do it.

"By thunder," or worse, said the conductor, "I believe that will do it."

They tried it and it did do it. To-day every trainman in America probably knows how to "saw by" two long trains on a short side track, but until that inexperienced country boy worked it out of his noddle the practice on the old "Q" road had been for trains either to avoid meeting at such points or, when they chanced to meet, for one of them to run back to a longer side track.

That boy is C. H. Chappell, and he is general manager of the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis road, which when he took hold of it a few years ago was little more two streaks of rust and a right of way, but which is now one of the best equipped and successful lines in the West.

We don't know what has become of the trainmen who laughed at the green country boy. We don't know whether they are watching crossings or have given up railroading altogether.

Didn't Intend to Be Left.

The Palatka (Fla.) Herald is responsible for the following: "A man at a small station on the Florida Southern railway the other day took down the mail sack, which was suspended on the crane, and hung himself there instead, so that he would not get left. When the fast mail came along and the route agent put out his catcher and hauled in the man instead of the mail-bag the fellow, in short breath, said: 'I've been left too many times by this narrow-gauge road and I don't intend to get left any more if it kills me or this infernal old road.'"

I have been ailing for 17 years with nervous dyspepsia and debility, and Kaskine has done me a great deal of good. I am much stronger and better and have good hope of complete recovery. The effect of Kaskine upon my appetite is very marked, and it is only three months since I began using it.—Geo. W. Walker, New castle, Del.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1 00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

NOT LIKELY TO HANG

Mrs. Maybrick's Trial Drawing to a Close.

HER ACQUITTAL LOOKED FOR.

Public Sentiment Completely Changed by the Evidence.

The Medical Testimony Produced by the Crown Very Weak—Doctors Who Attended Mr. Maybrick Contradict Each Other—Police Testimony in Favor of the Prisoner—The Trial Likely to be Prolonged Until the Middle of Next Week.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Interest in the sensational murder trial now going on in Liverpool, grows daily, and the newspapers here print many columns of the evidence morning and evening.

When Mrs. Maybrick was first arrested, and the damaging disclosures made of her relations with Mr. Alfred Brierly, popular feeling was all against her, and little doubt was expressed in any quarter of her guilt or of her ultimate conviction on the charge of poisoning her husband.

Sir Charles Russell's admirable preparation of her case has, however, completely revolutionized public sentiment, and if his work produces upon the jury anything like the impression it has already made upon the public, Mrs. Maybrick's conviction is out of the question. It is generally believed that she will be acquitted, or, at the worst, that the jury will fail to agree.

The medical testimony introduced by the Crown is very weak and is far from supporting the theory of the prosecution. Doctor's Humphreys and Carter, who attended the deceased in his last illness, and upon whose testimony the prosecution relied very largely, flatly contradicted one another on the stand upon some very material points, and upon their cross-examination by Sir Charles Russell, both became confused and showed themselves uncertain of their ground.

One point in the police testimony of today told in favor of the accused. It was an admission on the part of the Police Inspector that no attempt was made by the accused to conceal the packages of poison found in the house, and the cook burned some fly papers she found in the pantry, simply because they were in her way. The expert testimony clogged up the case to such an extent that it looks likely to last till Thursday next.

TURKISH CRUELTIES.

A Wail of Distress from Albani that is Interesting England.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A wail of distress comes to day from the Christian population in Albania, whose echoes will soon be heard in the British Parliament. For years the Christians in that country have suffered the most revolting cruelties at the hands of their Turkish masters. When recently these became unbearable the oppressed people sent a committee to the Turkish Governor at Scutari praying for relief. Every member of this committee, which consisted of the most prominent members of the Christian community, was promptly put in jail by the Governor and they are there yet. Then the aggrieved people put their case in the hands of an eminent lawyer, who undertook to lay the facts before the Government at Constantinople.

This lawyer, Achmet Ali Bey, a Turk and a Mohammedan, who on the point of starting on his mission was arrested by order of the Governor has not yet been released. Not content with this, shopkeepers and innkeepers who supplied food and drink to the unfortunate committees who from time came to seek justice are also imprisoned, while the Christians themselves are invariably so treated.

The chief cause of complaint on the part of the Christians is that the police authorities in a large number of the towns where they reside are in league with thieves and robbers who make a business of plundering them alone. More than this, they charge that the police themselves organize the bands of robbers and cutthroats, and direct their operations, taking themselves the lion's share of the booty.

No offense against a Christian receives any attention, and when the unfortunate people attempt to defend their persons or their property they are at once imprisoned. One of these protected robbers recently kidnapped two children aged eight and ten, sons of a wealthy Christian of Tiranna, and now holds them for a ransom of 50,000 piasters, threatening to kill them both if the money if not forthcoming.

The matter has been brought to the attention of influential members of Parliament, and the attention of the Government will be called to it in the House at an early day.

England Has Heard Nothing About It.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Sir James Ferguson, Under Foreign Secretary, stated in the House of Commons last evening that no authentic information had reached the Government concerning the seizure of British vessels by the United States Government. He also said that no understanding had been arrived at as to jurisdiction over Behring Sea.

Emperor William's Movements.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—At the conclusion of the naval displays at Spithead to-day, Emperor William will leave for Aldershot to witness the military review, arriving there Wednesday. He will return to Osborne in the evening to pay a farewell visit to the Queen, and will rejoin his fleet on the following day for his homeward voyage.

The Royal Grants Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Royal Grants bill has passed through the committee stage in the House of Commons and will come up for its third reading Monday.

PHILLIPS' AFFLICTION.

Philadelphia Physicians Say the Pittsburg Baseball Man Has Paresis.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Horace Phillips, of the Pittsburg Baseball Club, is ill with some brain trouble at the Girard House. The doctors say he has paresis.

When he registered yesterday afternoon, he leaned over in a strange manner and began to reveal to the clerks wild schemes to make money. He was induced to go to his room, and, shortly afterward, a messenger was sent for Dr. Wolford, of No. 1,310 Walnut street. He hurried into the hotel shortly before five o'clock, and was at once taken to the room of the Pittsburg man. Manager Phillips was found sitting in bed, and conceiving gigantic financial schemes. He said that he was going to buy all the big hotels in the country and form a "Hotel Trust."

Manager Phillips said he would make millions when he got control of all the baseball teams of the League, and declared that he would soon have all the clubs formed into a "Baseball Trust." He also spoke of buying Rittenhouse square, and after building a high wall around it he said he would place a cable car station in the square. If the city would sell the square to him Mr. Phillips proposed to give $100,000 to the poor of the city.

Bradstreet's Wheat Report.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Reports to Bradstreet's show visible wheat stocks east of the Rocky Mountains, United States and Canada, amounting to 16,071,576 bushels, 4,312,973 bushels less than July 1, and 13,105,381 bushels less than on August 1, 1888. Pacific coast visible show a net gain of visible wheat during July of 5,623,400 bushels, so that when stocks on both coasts are considered, the visible has increased 1,000,000 bushels during the past month. Flour stocks, east of the Rocky Mountains, aggregate 1,372,734 barrels, a decrease of 68,843 barrels during July, and about 276,000 barrels compared with August 1, 1888.

Lewis Bros.' Creditors.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 3.—The exact amount of the Lewis Bros.' paper held here is hard to determine owing to the reticence of the mill owners and bank officials, but last night it was placed at $1,250,000. The heaviest creditor is the Manville Company, the owner of one of the oldest and best equipped cotton mills in the country. It is reported that they held $791,000 worth of Lewis Bros.' obligations of which amount $600,000 is declared to be protected by pledges of stock, etc. The Phœnix, the Commercial and the Exchange Banks are among the holders of the paper.

Bancroft Mill Property Seized.

MEDIA, Pa., Aug.—The personal property in the Bancroft mills near this city, lately leased by G. P. Denis, has been seized by the sheriff and advertised at public sale. The product of both the Bancroft and Yeadon mill, the latter in Chester, were handled by the firm of Lewis Brothers & Co., and their failure led to the closing of the mills. The sheriff's execution was made on account of the $35,000 judgment entered here on Monday by Amos Gartside, a Chester manufacturer, against the properties owned by G. P. Denis.

Desperate Fight of Hungarians.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 3.—The Hungarians employed on the new Poughkeepsie bridge railroad engaged in a free fight a few days ago in the backwoods near Katellen. Crazed with drink the men used pistols, clubs and axes in the battle. Two named Bansmitz and Bolander were shot and clubbed and are in a precarious condition. Another named Gresh had his right arm cut off with an axe. The injured men have been hurried to New York. No arrests have been made.

The Family Had a Narrow Escape.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 3.—News reached here to-day of a desperate attempt to poison the whole family of James Parsons of Barkers, this county, on Sunday last. While the family were absent from the house some one entered and put a quantity of paris green in the teapot. On their return a son went to the teapot for a drink, but noticed some green spots on the spout and an investigation showed the pot to contain enough poison to kill the whole family.

Death of a Well Known Newspaper Man.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—George H. Jamison, a well-known newspaper man connected with the Washington Post, died in this city of malarial fever. He was connected with the National Republican many years ago, and went from Washington to Chicago, where for a long time he published a commercial paper called "Daily Business." He returned to Washington last February to accept a position on the Post. He leaves a widow, the daughter of Judge J. J. Noah, of this city.

The Murphy Fight Indefinitely Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—The directors of the California Athletic Club have indefinitely postponed the unfinished Murphy-Murphy fight and divided the purse between the two men, giving Frank Murphy $670 and Billy Murphy $575. The fight between the featherweights, Frank Murphy and Tommy Warren, for a purse of $1,800, was also arranged and will probably occur in September.

Death of an Old Bank President.

BELFAST, Me., Aug. 3.—Asa Faunce, for ten years president of the Bank of Commerce and for twenty years President of the Belfast Savings Bank, is dead, aged 76.

TO WORK NIAGARA

The Water Power of the Falls to be Utilized.

ENGINEERS ENDORSE THE PLAN.

The Work to be Constructed by a Syndicate of Capitalists.

Tunneling Through the Rocks with Massive Machinery—With the Water Power Secured Light, Power and Heat will be Furnished to Neighboring Towns. Electrical Railroads to Buffalo, Lockport, Batavia and other Places.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—An important meeting of the directors and stockholders of the Niagara Hydraulic Electric Company was held at their office in Alexandria, Va., for the purpose of receiving reports and perfecting plans to utilize the water-power at Niagara Falls.

This company have secured the grant from the Ontario Government to use the water at the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side. The Hamilton patents for mechanical improvements which regulate the flow of water and contracts its use and power are owned by this company.

Eminent engineers have approved plans which provide for tunneling through the rocks at a point several hundred feet above the Falls, under the bed of the Niagara River, thereby securing a plentiful supply of water for the power needed and without disfiguring or interfering with the beauty of the scenery at the Falls. It is proposed to construct a roadway leading from the Old Maid of the Mist Landing to the mouth of the proposed tunnel so that the massive machinery required can be put in place without occasioning inconvenience to visiting tourists or residents of the locality.

With the water-power secured it is intended by means of electrical dynamos, capable of transmitting strong currents of electricity large distances, to furnish light, power and heat to various parts within a radius of 40 miles. Electrical railroads will be built to Buffalo, Lockport, Batavia and intermediate points and on the Canadian side to Clifton, Hamilton, and other places.

A syndicate of American and Canadian capitalists have undertaken the construction of the work. An adjourned meeting of the stockholders will be held at the hotel Bartholdi, in New York, on Tuesday, August 6, to complete the arrangements.

JOHNSTON'S FAST MILE.

The Great Sidewheeler Goes Under the Wire at Cleveland in 2:06 1-2.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—At the conclusion of the free-for-all race Johnson was brought out to beat Maud S's best time. After one trial Dobie sent the great sidewheeler down the stretch at lightning speed and nodded for the word. He went away like a flash and passed the quarter pole in 1:03½.

When he passed the three-quarter pole watches recorded 1:43¼. He shot under the wire in 2:06½, lacking a quarter of a second of his best time, and beating the fastest time ever made on this track by two seconds.

ON TO MISSISSIPPI.

Champion Sullivan will Present his Own Case to the Governor.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 3.—John L. Sullivan arrived here this afternoon in charge of Sheriff Childs and one of Inspector Byrnes' men en route to Mississippi. He said he had made no attempt to run away from arrest, and if Gov. Lowry had sent for him he would have gone without the officers. He had his side to present to the Governor, and hoped he would act leniently with him. If he was fined he would pay it, but he did not want to go to prison.

His Reception in the South.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—Sullivan is expected to arrive in Jackson to-morrow. He will stay over there a day, thence come to New Orleans and report himself next day to Justice Carter of Purvis, the committing magistrate in this case. The bond will be furnished there, and the remainder of his stay South until the trial will be in New Orleans. A party of his friends will go up from here to Jackson to meet him, and a reception will be tendered him here. Some of his friends deem a demonstration of this kind unadvisable until after the trial. Mr. Marsh Redon, who will go to Jackson to meet Sullivan, and who was in the conference of his friends here to-day, offers to pay whatever fine the Circuit Court may assess if Sullivan will give a sparring exhibition while here. Whether this is accepted or not, some plan will be arranged by which the fine can be paid without Sullivan suffering financially. Several persons to-night offered to serve as bondsmen.

Kilrain Sick and Talking Fight.

HAMPTON, Va., Aug. 3.—Kilrain is still here. He is not well. He stated in an interview that he was not satisfied with his fight with Sullivan and that he will challenge him again as soon as he has his matters arranged. He says he will not fight in Mississippi. He will probably leave here on Monday.

Jem Smith to Fight Wannop.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The pugilists Jem Smith and Wannop have been matched to fight with small gloves September 30. Smith wagering £250 against £200 by Wannop.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—The following fourth-class postmasters in New York State have been appointed: A. A. Hardy, Barr's Mills; A. E. Ober, Fort Jackson; A. M. Mears, Helena; John Shoemaker, Natural Bridge; F. L. Stevens, North Hoosick; H. P. Horton, Philemont; Geo. W. Murray, South Centreville; Eva E. Beecher, South Rutland; N. A. Cook, Washington Mills.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The recent flood in this city was pictured in the New York Graphic yesterday.

—About 150 messages were received at the B. & O. telegraph office here on Wednesday.

—The roadbed on Mountain avenue in the vicinity of Scotch Plains is badly washed out, and needs immediate attention.

—The Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist, and Congregational Sunday School excursion, which was to have gone to Asbury Park yesterday, has been postponed to Thursday, Aug. 22.

—The families of Messrs H. Eggerding, B. A. Mumford and Col. Deitrich, removed from their homes on Arlington avenue, when the water in Cedar Brook began to rise again on Thursday evening.

—As will be noticed by the official advertisement elsewhere, the Board of Freeholders has extended the time of receiving proposals for macadamizing the road from Elizabeth to Plainfield, until Aug., 27.

—All day yesterday there was fully two feet of water in the basement of the Bryant school building, and Janitor Hope was kept busy bailing out the water. He also put on the steam so as to dry out the building.

Plainfield's Real Peril.

From the depths of its inexcusable ignorance, the Elizabeth Herald in speaking of the rot that emanated from the Somerset Street Sensational Shop regarding Plainfield's recent flood, says: "It is such journalistic enterprise that tells, and which the people are looking for."

You are right, brother. It tells, and tells plainly, what fools, and worse, these mortals be. But what the "people are looking for" is some redress for the dire damage done the city by the columns of barefaced falsehoods published in the news and filtered into other papers.

THE PRESS has been solicited by hundreds, including even a member of the Board of Freeholders, to devote its columns to an extended exposure of the scores of lies that have been published to the lasting damage of Plainfield. This we must decline to do. Our readers are the intelligent people of the community, and thoroughly understand the state of the case.

As long as certain timid merchants of Plainfield will permit themselves to be compelled to contribute their advertisements to the support of the news, just so long must the city suffer the seditions of the sheet.

"Smoke Stack" Still Lives.

Mr. Edward Hoover, the celebrated smoke-stack painter whom all the papers have reported as killed recently by a fall from a high chimney at Trenton, has called at THE PRESS office to prove himself alive and well and to ask for a public denial of his death.

"Smoke Stack," as he is called all over the country from Texas to New Jersey, says that the report of his death arose probably through mistaken identity. He was offered the job in Trenton of painting a stack that he considered unsafe. It had stood some time and the iron was probably burned through near the top. He believed that if he swung himself from it the top would break off, so he refused the job. He thinks some amateur then undertook it, was killed and the report spread that the victim was Hoover.

"Smoke Stack" has just finished painting a stack 135 feet high, and 7½ feet in diameter. No one ever lived who has undertaken the jobs of this kind that he has accomplished.

Will They Also Sue the "news" for Damages?

It is said that Messrs John F. Wilson, Morgan S. Taylor, George P. Dupee, Martin I. Cooley, A. W. Haviland and others, who are sufferers by the flood caused by the breaking away of Coddington's dam, have combined to take such legal proceedings as may be necessary to prevent the reconstruction of the broken dam.

He Got a Black Eye.

A free fight took place in a boarding house near Hope chapel on Tuesday evening, and one of the participants now wears a mourning band around one of his optics. The police are "on to" the principals, and they will probably figure conspicuously in the City Court within a few days.

FOR THE PLAINFIELD SUFFERERS.

Contributions Beginning to Pour in—$10,000 Worth of Diamonds, etc., From Former Guests of The Netherwood.

The following received at The Netherwood, yesterday, from former guests now at Saratoga, will give a faint idea of the way in which the people all over the United States will join in aiding the mass of human beings already suffering from the terrible flood that has devastated the city, and in burying the dead thousands who will be drowned when "that other dam" bursts:

GRAND UNION HOTEL,
SARATOGA.
August 1, 1889.

The sad intelligence has reached this city of the dire disaster by flood that has overtaken Plainfield and Netherwood. Our advices are incomplete, and it is left to our imagination to see huge waves rolling through the halls of The Netherwood and subjecting Netherwoodians to involuntary baths. We see the beautiful and spacious dining hall an improvised Natatorium, and the attendants, arrayed in life-preservers, waiting on the guests. It seems almost incomprehensible that Netherwood, so recently "dry," should so suddenly and providentially become "wet." Our hearts go out with tender solicitude and sympathy with our friends at Netherwood now indulging in excessive "wetness," in contrast with the preceding "dryness," that could be illy relieved by ginger ale.

With a realizing sense of your condition, the subscribers have been appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions in aid of the sufferers. Money is scarce in this city; principally absorbed by the hotels and the pool-sellers. It was suggested that small subscriptions be solicited, but what is regularly known as "small change" is even scarcer than capital. It is not permitted to wink at Saratoga under fifty cents, while to smile—involves an expenditure equal to the support of a small family for an indefinite period. Yet every one is disposed to give according to his meanness.

The ladies, with the self-denial characteristic of their sex, have contributed of their jewelry in aid of the sufferers. Gems that erst have sparkled on the brow and breast of beauty have been poured into our laps, and we hasten to forward the first installment. Just what disposition may be made of these choice gifts your house committee must decide. Conscientious scruples forbid our committee suggesting a lottery, and yet it may not be convenient for any one individual to assume, singly, the heavy purchase of even one of the rare stones.

We trust the proceeds will reach their legitimate destination, and that your committee will not deem it advisable that any gem be dissolved, like Cleopatra's pearl, (Rider Haggard says it was an emerald, but the right of authority favors the pearl,) in rich Falernian wine, to drink the health of the Saratoga committee. The committee have taken the liberty of consigning the precious shipment to one of your most popular guests, relying on her wise judgment in disposing of the articles for the best interests of the sufferers.

By order of
MISS ELLA HOLMES,
MRS. C. L. DANA,
Committee.
G. W. FARLEE, Secretary.

Experts Assure Plainfield's Safety.

Much anxiety is felt in Plainfield for the safety of the great dam at Feltville. Several breaks have occurred, but they were immediately repaired. If the dam should break it would destroy a million of property in Plainfield, beside endangering human life.—Somerville Democrat.

The above lie emanates from the news of this city. The readers of THE PRESS need not be told again that there is absolutely no danger from the dam spoken of, nor never was. If the dam should break, there would not be enough water spread over the fields to reach as near Plainfield as Mulford Cole's Hill.

But besides this fact, Chief of Police Carey, and two painters—Mr. Weaver and Mr. Scott—have been sent as experts to examine the dam. They assure the trembling community of the Colorado of the East, that all is well.

They Keep the Rails Warm.

Probably no railroad in the country handles so many trains, within certain hours, as the New Jersey Central. Over four hundred trains of all classes pass the Communipaw station daily. This includes the Newark and New York trains, that branch leaving the main line just west of the station. Many of these, in fact most of them, are local passengers and freight trains. During the busy hours of morning and evening, trains follow each other in and out of the handsome depot with a rapidity that is somewhat startling to the uninitiated.

Prohibition Plainfield's Water Beats 'Em All.

Nearly all the large cities in this part of the country are grumbling about their bad drinking water. Trenton don't grumble, because it don't have to. We have the best and purest water supply in New Jersey.—Trenton State Gazette. Except Phillipsburg, which has the best water in the State, and an abundant supply.—Warren Democrat.

That's What's the Matter With Plainfield.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

The people of Bayonne are driven nearly crazy by the screeching of the locomotives. The engines "screech when they come, screech when they go, and blow off steam when they stand still."

THE OCEAN RECORD BROKEN.

Charles Doane's "Aerial," and Hervey Doane's "Dude" Come Home 657 Miles.

One of the two homing pigeons told of in Thursday's PRESS, that alighted Saturday afternoon, July 27, on the steamship "Othello" of the Wilson line when it was about 260 miles from port, carried a message as follows:

Latitude, 41 degrees, 21 seconds; longitude, 62 degrees. Steamer City of Rome, 5 A. M., July 26.

The homing pigeons "Aerial" and Dude are released at this hour. If fortune favors these birds, one or both should reach land and the ocean record will have been broken. The American Workingmen's Expedition is on the third day out on its voyage to foreign lands. All well on board. Four anxious birds were released yesterday morning. The separation created great interest, and many God-speeds were showered on the winged messengers as they sped from the ship. Yesterday was another calm day. Better weather for the trip cannot be desired. Although this morning has broken cloudy, wind light and from the Northwest variable, a magnificent day is in prospect. The third officer reports that at this hour the ship is 657 miles from Sandy Hook.

(Signed) C. B. WILLIAMS, Correspondent.

By this message it will be seen that the homers were liberated at daybreak of Friday morning 657 miles from Sandy Hook. They alighted Saturday afternoon very much exhausted, on the Othello when about 260 miles from New York.

Remember that during all day of Friday, land could not be seen from any height the birds would rise to, yet they were coming straight for home guided by some instinct that is yet beyond the powers of the World's wisest men to discover. At night they cannot fly, so from dusk of Friday until morn of Saturday, "Aerial" and "Dude" must have rested together on the topmast of some ship. Saturday they pursued their journey on the wing towards home until they overook a vessel going their way, and lighted on it.

The greatest ocean record heretofore was 318 miles made by a homing pigeon belonging to Mr. Baldwin of Newark.

The bird that flew in a house at Stamford, Conn., to rest, carried this message:

STEAMER CITY OF ROME,
ATLANTIC OCEAN,
Thursday, July 25, 5:40, A. M.

Longitude, 69.36; latitude, 40.35. Captain Young just states that we are now 204 miles out. The pigeons are in good condition. Last night they attracted much attention when brought on deck. This morning, though it is still very early, after-deck is filled. Large number of passengers to see the birds start. The weather is delightful, the air being clear and invigorating and the sky almost cloudless. It is cool but not yet time for overcoats. The wind blows lightly from the N. W. The surface of the ocean is ruffled by the light Summer breeze, not enough to perceptibly influence the motion of the boat. All are well. Germanic, three miles astern. ATWOOD.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Robt. H. Cook and family of Washington Park, North Plainfield, are at Ocean Grove.

Mr. R. M. Fairbairn and family of Second place, are at the Delaware House, Lackawaxen, Penn.

Mrs. S. C. Baker, son and daughter, of West Fifth street, are guests at "The Kernwood," Asbury Park.

Ex-Mayor Rockfellow, Freeholder Vanderbeek and Mr. M. M. Thorn, went to Sewaren, yesterday, and got nothing.

Miss Annie Rockafellow of Somerville, is visiting her uncle, Mr. George R. Rockafellow of No. 132 West Front street.

The funeral services of Miss Dumont, which will be strictly private, are to be held at her late home, 284 St. James place, Brooklyn, this afternoon at five o'clock.

The Misses Woodland, of North Plainfield, accompained by their brother, J. Elston Woodland, and Mr. Harry Williams, of Somerset street, left today for Asbury Park.

Mrs. C. M. Smith and daughter, Miss Alice Smith, of 32 West 2d street, who have been spending a few weeks with friends in Orange and Duchess counties, N. Y., have returned again to their home. While away Miss Smith played for a concert at the Church of the Corner Stone, Newburgh. The papers of that city speak highly of her performance.

A Commerce Party at Netherwood.

On Thursday evening at The Netherwood, a very pleasing Commerce Party was held. Those who won prizes and took part were the following:

Mrs. H. D. Brewster won the capital prize—a Royal Worcester Dish. Mrs. Col. Fred Martin won four prizes; Mrs. Buchanan, three; and Mrs. James R. Plum, Mrs. H. D. Brewster, and Mr. F. E. Miller, two each. Those who won a prize apiece were Mrs. E. Kirke, Miss Plum, Mrs. Richardson, Miss Richardson, Mrs. Bridgman, Mrs. F. E. Miller, Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. Smith, Miss Yelland, Mrs. Benary and Messrs Henchman, Tobey, Kirke, J. R. Plum, Jr., Buchanan, Mc Credy, VanZandt, H. Martin, C. Smith, and Yelland.

Those of the players who were not so fortunate, were Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Crossman, Mr. and Mrs. Lattin, Mrs. Tobey, Mrs. McCredy, Mrs. VanZandt, Miss Gillespy, Mrs. Yelland, Miss L. Gillespy, and Messrs F. Martin, Plum, Richardson, Brewster, Bridgman, Crosby, S. Smith, W. Smith, Waddell and Benary.

They Read the Sensational Papers.

Here's another evidence of the injury done to Plainfield by the misrepresentation of the recent flood in this city through certain sensational newspapers, notably the news. Mr. Joseph Sillory yesterday received a telegram from some of his relatives in Trenton, telling him to send his family there to escape the terrible flood here. Mr. Sillory wired back word that his family was all right, and that there was no likelihood of a flood.

But it Isn't Building the City Up Just Now.

It is rumored that the Mayor of the Colorado of the West has wired the Mayor of Colorado of the East—"Draw on me for twenty-six dollars in aid of the sufferers of the writhing, wrestling, vicious, violent, raging, rampant, fierce and furious Plainfield flood. Though the city must go, may the news be spared to build it up once more."

FOUR REASONS.

Charles T. Kissam of Plainfield tells Elizabethans the Need of Y. M. C. A's.

As reported in THE PRESS of Monday, Mr. C. T. Kissam of this city, addressed an appreciative audience in the East Baptist church, Elizabeth, the evening before, on the need of Young Men's Christian Associations.

His topic was, "Why I as a Christian business man, believe in the Y. M. C. A." The Elizabeth Journal published the following report of the address: "He gave four reasons. First, because the association was founded by a Christian business man, and Christian business men have ever since been prominently identified with it. Briefly he told of the establishment of the first association in 1844 by George Williams, a dry goods clerk in London. Mr. Williams still lives, is president of the London association, and the head of the dry goods house of Williams, Hitchcock & Co., with whom he began as a clerk. Today there are 4,000 associations in the World. The association's history presents no page more interesting or inspiring than the honor roll of those faithful men who, out of engrossing business lives, have found time for this branch of Christ's work. Among these are W. E. Dodge, John Hill, W. R. Janeway, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Hon. Charles L. Colby, John Wanamaker, and many others prominent in business, church and national affairs.

"His second reason was because of its aim. The association seeks to broaden and develop the young man physically, intellectually and spiritually, fitting him for better service to his employer. It surrounds him with better companions, and helps to lift him to a higher plane of life. It trains the young man for usefulness in the church, and in winning others to the truth. When it is considered that only ten per cent. of the young men of the land are church members, 75 per cent. do not attend church at all, that only three per cent. are doing active church work, and that 67 per cent. of criminals are young men, it cannot be wondered at that the Christian business man endorses the organization whose aim is to reverse these figures.

"The more money put in the Y. M. C. A., the less will be necessary to pay in taxes for prisons.

"The third reason was that the entire work of the association bears the impress of Christian business common sense, and that thought he demonstrated in a brief review of its methods of conducting finances and other branches of work. The association gives a young man the advantages of athletic sports without profanity and other immoral surroundings.

"His fourth reason why he believed in the work was because of the fruit it has borne. God has used it to work wonders in Christian development of young men, in saving them from lives of degradation, and making them Christians. He had been blessed by it, and if he was of any service to the church, the World and his fellow men, he owed it under God to the training influences of the Y. M. C. A."

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Borough Council last evening was unimportant and there was but little business transacted. All the members responded to the roll call except Mr. Emmons. The minutes were read and approved, and sundry applications for peddler's and cartmen's licenses were presented, referred and subsequently granted.

Claims were presented and referred as follows. They were later ordered paid: T. McDonald, $40.80; Pierson & Gayle, $7.09; R. H. Radford, $12; L. Conrad, $3; J. W. A. Bauersachs, $1.75; J. H. Wilson, $526.92; P. T. B. Nevious, $138.70; M. Powers, $51.80; N. Y. and N. J. Globe Gaslight Co., $269.36; G. Becker, $8; S. Moore, $4; Plainfield Gaslight Co., $14.17; W. Pangborn, $6.

Mayor Cooley made a verbal report. He stated that $130 had been received by him on account of fines, etc., and that a check for that amount had been sent to the Clerk.

Mr. Smalley, as chairman of the Street Committee, also made a verbal report. He said that little work had been done on the streets since the last meeting, owing to the recent rains; in all about $25 has been expended. The iron pipe at Somerset street and Jackson avenue, he said, should be removed, as it was incapable of carrying off the water centering at that point. Some discussion followed, and the matter then dropped.

Mr. McGee from the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee made a verbal report. He said the Chief had reported to the committee the Mountain avenue fire; also that Warren Engine had been used to pump out some of the cellars on Somerset street. The names of W. S. Philpitt and W. D. Adams as members of the Fire Department were submitted for confirmation. Later they were confirmed by resolution adopted.

Mr. Bettman offered a resolution to the effect that the Council proceed to macadamize Willow avenue, at a cost not to exceed $1,100, the property owners agreeing to pay $760 toward the cost of the same. Mr. Bettman said in support of hs resolution that the Street Committee had informed him that it would cost about $200 to fill in the washouts caused by the late freshet, and that it would also cost about $200 to grade the avenue. He thought this would be a good time to macadamize the avenue, as the dirt removed from the same could be used to fill in the washouts. A long discussion followed, and the resolution was finally lost, Mr. Bettman being the only member who voted in the affirmative.

The Auditing Committee reported on the claims sent in during the evening and they were ordered paid by warrant.

Council then adjourned.

The Canada Thistle.

It will be remembered that considerable excitement and apprehension was caused among farmers last Summer by the appearance of the Canada thistle in Piscataway and Raritan Townships. At that time active measures were taken to subdue the dangerous pest.

We are informed that the thistle has again made its appearance in the same localities and in greater profusion than ever before. So far no measures have been taken to eradidicate it, although the time is near at hand when it will go to seed and spread far and wide.

On the Safe Side.

The moonlight shimmered thro' the trees;
They strolled; said he, "Fair Eloise,
Iced cream is ripe, wilt thou partake?"
She shuddering cried, "For mercy's sake!
That stuff is steeped in lees of death—"
Then in a mildly murmured breath—
"There's no adulteration, sweet,
At Collier's, take me there and treat."

—"Canards in the New York Tribune" are what the Chronicle says Bound Brook is suffering from. Plainfield can energetically join in such complaint.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE
Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.
However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

BLUSTER FROM THE HOME ORGAN

The United States Must Apologize or Get Thrashed.

If an Apology is Not Forthcoming the Yankee Navy Will Disappear—The Foreign Office at London Waiting for Authentic Information About the Seizure—Canadians Appealing to England for Protection and Help.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3.—The dullness in official circles has been dispelled by the recent news of the seizure of a British vessel in Behring Sea.

The excitement occasioned by the affair is intense. The Canadians are loth to understand why the American Government should not entertain the same opinion regarding international laws and the three-mile limit on the Pacific as well as on the Atlantic coast. The authorities here will continue to discuss the American pretensions as to exclusive jurisdiction in Behring Sea.

At present the Governor-General is in direct communication with the British Government which favors a cautious policy. The Canadian Government is indignant over repeated seizures on the high seas and has asked England in plain language to protect their interests. The effect of a refusal to sacrifice imperial interests for a domestic one is hard to determine.

The press of Canada is a unit in denouncing the seizures. Of course nobody thinks of going to war.

The dispute has directed attention to Canada's military strength. The active military force exceeds 36,000 men. On the basis of the last census Canada can put 1,500,000 men in the field.

Must Apologize.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—The Citizen, the Government organ here, says: "The recent shameful act of piracy committed upon a Canadian vessel in Behring Sea is absolutely unjustifiable, and has only one redeeming feature, namely, that it will bring the whole question under consideration, and the Washington authorities will be obliged to apologize, as well as to recoup the owners of the vessels they interfered with. If this is not done what is left of Yankee naval effects will probably disappear from more seas than Behring's."

RATHER GAUZY.

Peculiar Explanation of a Church Treasurer as to His Shortage.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 3—Jake Thompson, a colored Baptist of some prominence of Bedford County, this State, was recently made "treasure holder" for a congregation of Baptists who took a collection for a new house of worship. The amount realized was about $700, and Thompson carried it home with him.

On the way he claims to have got soaking wet from the rain and that the $700 in greenbacks was likewise soaked.

When called upon to return the money he reported as above, and further alleges that when he got home he spread the money on a plank in the sunshine to dry and went about other affairs, and that on his return he found that a storm of wind had blown the last dollar of the money away. Nothing has been seen of the treasure since, though diligent search has been made in regions round Thompson's home.

Some of the brethren think that Thompson's story is very thin, but they do not know what course in law to pursue to regain the money.

Thompson has just bought a little farm and built a house on it.

WILL FINISH THE ROAD.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Deeds have been recorded in Luzerne, Carbon, Monroe and Pike Counties, Pa., conveying the property and franchises of the bankrupt Lehigh and Eastern Railroad Company to the newly organized Pennsylvania, Lehigh and Eastern Railroad Company.

The bankrupt company was organized about twenty-five years ago for the purpose of building a ninety mile road from the Lackawanna coal fields at Tombicken, Luzerne County, eastward to a connection with the Erie Railroad at Port Jervis. The company spent about $250,000 in grading and other work and then failed.

The new company is organized with the following Board of Directors: Samuel Pierson, President, Philadelphia; Elias Lowenstein, of Philadelphia, S. P. Wolverton, of Sunbury, E. P. Darling, of Wilkesbarre, J. N. Newburger and S. W. Newburger, of New York, and J. M. Fellows, of Dover, N. H.

The company will complete the road to Port Jervis, with a view of making it a part of the coal carrying line to New England via the Poughkeepsie Bridge.

Suicide in a Peculiar Way.

GLENHAVEN, N. Y., Aug. 3.—James G Terry, a well known citizen of Cortland drowned himself in Skaneateles Lake, in a peculiar manner. He hired a boat, rowed to the middle of the lake and jumped into the water. His lifeless body was picked up thirty minutes later. Mr. Terry was 56 years of age and had been in very poor health for some time.

Destructive Lightning in Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 3.—During a heavy thunderstorm here yesterday the lightning struck the mammoth pottery works of L. B. Beerbouck & Co., setting it on fire. The flames were not extinguished until the building, stock and machinery had been damaged $35,000; insurance $10,000.

Poisoned by Her Mother.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Annie E. Eastman, 5 years old, died in great agony at 300 West 128th street from poison administered by her mother in mistake for medicine. Choosing the wrong bottle in the darkness, the mother gave her a teaspoonful of carbolic acid. The poor mother's distress has rendered her almost insane.

WRECK ON THE WEST SHORE.

An Open Switch Causes a Collision—One Person Killed and Several Injured.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—A southbound Delaware & Hudson through train, in charge of Conductor Acker, ran through an open switch at the Kenwood Junction, near here, yesterday afternoon, and into the northbound West Shore train due here at 4:30. The drawing room car "Argyle" and two passenger coaches of the Delaware & Hudson train were thrown from the track.

A passenger on the West Shore named Thomas Conniff, residing in Albany, was killed. Several others were more or less seriously injured. There were about thirty passengers on the Delaware & Hudson train, and their escape from death is marvelous, as the two cars turned completely over on their side and the inmates had to be taken out through the windows.

The names of the most seriously injured are: Mrs. E. N. Pittman, of Troy, injured about the back and head; Mrs. Hendson, of West Troy, cut on the head and injured internally, not serious; Joseph Perkins, of Binghamton, engineer of the D. & H. train, leg injured by jumping; Matthew Turney, fireman of the D. & H. train, slightly injured about arms by jumping, he resides at Quaker street.

A TEMPEST IN TROY.

Rain, High Winds and Lightning Caused Serious Damage.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A heavy rain storm accompanied by high winds and lightning prevailed in this vicinity yesterday afternoon, flooding the streets, blowing down trees, upsetting wagons and doing other damage.

General consternation prevailed while the storm lasted. A part of the new canal culvert at 31st street was carried away and a heavy loss sustained. A man driving a load of hay was precipitated into the raging waters and was probably drowned.

Minor damages were sustained at other points, which it is not possible to calculate at present.

Criminal Assault, Libel and Slander.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—A sensation was created here by the filing of a suit in the Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Belle McKinney, wife of Frank McKinney, a popular jeweler of this city, against her brother-in-law, Thomas Williams, a wealthy citizen of this place, for $5,000 damages incurred by reason of criminal assault on the 29th of last March. The damage suit is only preliminary to two others for libel and slander which will be brought to-day. Williams denies the assault and says Mrs. McKinney has been his mistress for the past two years. The parties are prominent in society here.

The World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Aug 3.—At the Mayor's office the preliminary work of preparing for the World's Exposition of 1892 is being actively carried on. Resolutions were received which were adopted by the Norwich, Conn., Board of Trade endorsing the holding of the Fair in this city. The different trades and professions are sending in names from which the Mayor will select those to be placed on the committee. Large sums of money are promised daily for the project as soon as funds are needed.

To Welcome Murat Halstead.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 3.—Mr. Murat Halstead, of the Commercial Gazette, who has been in Germany to recover his health, will be given a public welcome to night at Music Hall by the Republican clubs of Hamilton county. Major Mosby will preside. Mr. W. H. Parham will speak a welcome on behalf of the colored people, Mr. M. A. Jacobi on the part of the press, and Gov. Foraker on behalf of the Republican of the State.

Jay Gould Denies It.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Jay Gould denied the report printed in several New York papers to the effect that he was here to attend a meeting of railroad magnates with the object of organizing a "Railroad Clearing House." Mr. Gould further stated that he knew nothing of any such meeting.

For Poisoning Her Husband and Children

HOLYOKE, Mass., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Lizzie Brennan was arraigned here on a charge of poisoning her husband and two children to obtain insurance on their lives. Her preliminary trial was fixed for next Friday. She was taken to the county jail at Springfield.

Ex-President Cleveland's Fishing Trip.

6,500 Men on Strike.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 3.—Forty-five hundred coke ovens are now idle in the Connellsville region, and over 6,500 men are out on strike.

A GAME OF CHESS.

The Young Man Who Beat Sulejmann Half a Century Ago.

How Egypt's Most Famous Warrior and Champion Chess Player Made the Acquaintance of the Great Strategist of the North.

On a summer afternoon, almost fifty years ago, Sulejmann Pasha, commander-in-chief of the Egyptian artillery, sat at coffee in a cafe on the Nile terrace in Cairo, says the New York Sun. At tables near him were many soldiers who had helped him fight the armies of Sultan Mahmud not many months before. Several of them had been with him in the battle of Nizib, when he routed the Turkish armies under Hafiz Pasha and Colonel von Moltke, then in the Sultan's service. But Sulejmann Pasha was not thinking of the soldiers about him, nor of Hafiz Pasha, nor Colonel von Moltke, nor the great battle of Nizib. His whole attention was concentrated on the chessboard before him.

Sulejmann Pasha was a famous chess player. In the first few weeks after his return to Cairo he had beaten dozens of times Ulema Reschid Aga, formerly the champion chess player of Northern Egypt. He regarded his reputation as a chess player as somewhat akin to his reputation as a warrior. He considered chess to be pre-eminently a soldier's game, and never tired of making elaborate comparisons between strategy on the chess board and strategy on the field of battle. Every afternoon he met Ulema Reschid Aga at the cafe on the Nile terrace and beat him two or three games.

On this particular afternoon almost fifty years ago Ulema Reschid Aga was a little late in coming to his waterloo and Sulejmann Pasha was having a preliminary skirmish with himself while awaiting his opponent's arrival. His diversion was interrupted by the appearance on the terrace of a long, gaunt, bony young stranger. The stranger strode right up to the Pasha's table, and, after making a half-military salute, said so loudly that every one in the terrace could hear:

"Pasha, I challenge you to a game of chess."

All the officers on the terrace sat quite still and stared at the thin, pale young man who stood before their great commander. The Pasha looked him over curiously.

"I am at your service," was his answer, after a long pause. "How high do you usually play?"

"Sometimes for nothing, sometimes for a great deal. You fix the stakes, Pasha."

"Well, one hundred ducats will not be too much."

The stranger nodded and sat down. The lots were cast. The game was begun. All the officers in the cafe left their coffee to crowd around the players. The first few moves convinced them that the long, bony fingers of the stranger had moved chess-men many times before. At the end of twenty minutes the Pasha's eyes suddenly brightened and he smiled. He had an invincible combination. He placed his queen before his opponent's queen. The officers began to grumble, for they thought their commander had lost his head. Only Reschid Aga, who in the meantime had joined the crowd of spectators, looked happy. He had guessed his friend's combination, and he, too, was sure that it was invincible.

"He will take the queen," commented the spectators, anxiously.

"Then he will be checkmated in eight moves," whispered back Reschid Aga.

"And if he doesn't take her?"

"He will lose his own," said the ex-champion, triumphantly.

The stranger moved a pawn. Sulejmann took his queen. The officers thought it was all up with the gaunt young man and started back to their coffee. They were called back, however, by the first words the Pasha's opponent had spoken since he sat down to the table.

"Pasha, in twelve moves you will be checkmated."

The interest of the Pasha's friends became intense. They counted each move aloud. One—two—three—four—and the Pasha was already hard pushed. Five—six—seven—eight—nine—and his men were hemmed in on all sides. Ten—the Pasha tried in vain to break the blockade by sacrificing his queen. Eleven—and he drew back his king into a corner. Twelve—and the stranger cried out: "Checkmate."

There was a dead silence and all stared at the Pasha. He thought hard for several minutes without uttering a word. Then he looked searchingly into the stranger's face and said:

"Once before I have seen chess played as you play it. Your strategy is not new to me, although I can not cope with it. The game that your playing reminds me of was much finer than this. It was played with cavalry and infantry and heavy artillery until the ground shook under our feet. The great chess-player from the North who was then against me had 150,000 men. In his hands they were invincible. The mad and envious interference of Hafiz Pasha ruined his combinations, however, and gave us the game."

The Pasha stopped a moment to scrutinize the stranger's face. It was expressionless. Then he continued:

"Young man, you remind me of that great chess-player from the North who all but routed us at Nizib, as you have routed me here. Young man, only one man in the world can play chess like that. He is Colonel von Moltke."

"You have it," answered the stranger, reaching the Pasha his hand. "I am Moltke."

A SMART ALLIGATOR.

He Is Fond of Cider and Music and Very Easy to Teach.

A few weeks ago, says the Eustis (Fla.) Lake Region, an alligator about four feet long was captured by Dan Warner on the sidewalk in the most thickly settled portion of our city. Dan felt as soon as he saw the young saurian that it possessed unusual intelligence, and set about to teach him. It is perfectly wonderful the progress "John"—he has been christened John—has made. The bakeshop is to him a revelation. He will, after the bread has been taken from the pans, take the utensils and pile them in the corner as neatly as a boy could do. The first trick he learned was to stand on his tail and hind feet. It is pathetic to see him as he assumes the position and crosses his fore feet over his breast, awaiting the loaf which is given him as a reward for his skill.

He is very fond of cider, and Schmidt & Warner have found it necessary to place the barrel beyond his reach, as he has half a dozen times turned the faucet. The boys do not mind a single glass, but he does not seem to have learned the art of cutting it off, and he was not discovered until a gallon or more had been wasted.

The music by the band pleased him hugely, and he will lie in front of the band room every practice night until the last note is heard. His harness will not be done for another week, but Dan is confident he will drive well. Dan has given him a huge palm-leaf fan, and he handles this with the utmost grace in keeping off the flies, which seem to annoy him excessively.

A MUSCULAR CHRISTIAN.

He Wipes the Floor with a Scoffer and Then Weeps for His Anger.

The Detroit correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean tells a good story about H. O. Wills, the evangelist, who was long a noted bummer in that town.

Persons who knew Wills in the old days appreciated the struggle he was making toward a better life. A few, however, began with his change of character to jeer and jibe him in season and out of season, seeking to drive him by ridicule back into the gutters. One of these is a man named Dolton, who for several years has sought opportunity to abuse Brother Wills on the streets and especially on the street-cars. Wills, though a powerful man physically, bore this outrage uncomplainingly for a time.

Recently Wills boarded a street-car and found his tormentor there. Several ladies were also in the car. Dolton began his petty persecutions. Wills stood it with remarkable patience for a time; then he begged Dolton to desist. This had no effect, and Wills asked the conductor of the bob tail to quiet his persecutor. Another gentleman passenger also urged the conductor to go to Wills' assistance, but with no result. Then Wills turned to Dolton: "My friend, you must stop this kind of monkey work. I can't do any thing while there are ladies in the car, but I warn you that unless you let up on your abuse I'll trouble you."

Dolton laughed derisively. The ladies got out. Dolton resumed his taunts, becoming more and more abusive. His victim again issued a note of warning, but Dolton believed that the evangelist's religion would not permit him to retaliate.

Suddenly it came clearly to Wills that to get an answer to his prayer for protection from the tormentor he must use the means placed in his hand, and he sailed into Dolton.

He mopped every part of the car with the person of his tormentor. The swish-swash of the body around the car could be heard a block away above the din and roar of the busy thoroughfare.

Dolton cried for mercy, but Brother Wills had a duty to perform, and he did it nobly. Not until Dolton was thoroughly whipped, until he admitted his meanness, did Wills let up. Then, with a parting shake of the trembling man's hand, the evangelist said: "Now you go home and thank God that I did not kill you."

Wills then sank into the seats and sobbed over his giving way to anger. Later he went to Justice Miner and explained the circumstances. The judge congratulated him for the good work, and Brother Wills was happy.

Points for the Housewife.

A scientific journal gives ten good things worth knowing:

1. Salt curdles milk and should not be added until the dish is prepared.
2. Clean boiling water will remove fruit and tea stains.
3. Ripe tomatoes will remove ink and other stains from white cloth, and also from the hands.
4. A tablespoonful of turpentine added while boiling clothes will add to the whitening process.
5. Boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little dissolved gum arabic.
6. Bees-wax and salt will make rusty flat-irons as clean and smooth as glass.
7. Blue ointment and kerosene in equal proportions applied to bedsteads is an unfailing bug remedy.
8. Kerosene will soften boots and shoes when hardened with water and render them pliable.
9. Kerosene will make tea kettles as bright as new; saturate a woolen rag and rub with it.
10. Cool rain water and soda will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

IN BRITISH WATERS

The Black Diamond Sails Into Victoria With Flying Colors

THE CAPTAIN CONGRATULATED.

Only One American Was on Board and Could Do Nothing.

The Matter Reported to Washington. Probability that the Escape Will Cause a Speedy Settlement—The News Gives Great Satisfaction in Ottawa—Senator Hale's Opinion of the Seizure—He Treats it Lightly.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 5.—Victoria is in a great state of excitement, the cause being the arrival of the Black Diamond. She had on board one American seaman, John Hakarson. He was appointed special officer by the captain of the Rush and ordered to take the Diamond to Sitka. Captain Owens told Lieutenant Tuttle he would not sail to Sitka, but would bring his vessel to Victoria. If they wanted the Diamond to go to Sitka they would have to put a stronger crew than the schooner's aboard.

The rush steamed away and Owens sailed toward Ounalaska thinking there were British warships in that vicinity and intending to demand protection. He sailed into Ounalaska harbor and boarded a schooner from Port Townsend. He was told there were no men-of-war in the vicinity. Owens told the American seamen he would sail for Victoria. He landed his Indians on the east coast of Vancouver. The Rush took the Black Diamond's sealskins, about eighty in number. The American seamen had made an official report to American Vice-Consul Marvin, who has telegraphed the facts to Consul Stevens of San Francisco.

The American says he was well treated by the crew of the schooner. The greatest satisfaction is expressed here at the escape of the Diamond. It is thought the United States will demand the return of the schooner, which the British Government dare not give up. It will bring the matter to a speedy conclusion.

Canadians Pleased.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The Government has not received any report regarding the escape of the Black Diamond from the United States authorities. The news of her escape was given to the Cabinet Ministers last night. The news has given great satisfaction here, but the members of the Government decline to express an opinion. Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, has telegraphed for particulars.

No Surprise in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The report of the arrival at Victoria, B. C., of the steamer Black Diamond caused little surprise here. So far as known there has been no official information received on the subject from any quarter. Assistant Secretary Wharton, who is acting Secretary of State, received his first intimation of the arrival of the steamer through a newspaper representative, and said he had no information on the subject.

Senator Hale's Opinion.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Senator Hale has been interviewed on the Behring Sea question. He says that the Senate Committee on Relations with Canada took no testimony on this point, regarding it a matter for diplomatic negotiation. They saw nothing while on the Pacific Coast to indicate any ill-feeling on the subject. Mr. Hale does not see any reason to expect trouble with Canada or England over the Behring Sea matter. On the contrary, he thinks all the governments concerned will cooperate to protect the seal fisheries from piracy. The question of the closed sea need not be raised for this purpose. Mr. Hale disclaimed any intention of speaking for the Administration. As for Mr. Blaine's views, he had no means of knowing them.

An American Schooner Seized.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 5.—A despatch to the American Consul-General announces the seizure at Guysboro of the American schooner Vidette. No further particulars are given.

Fatal Accident in a Paper Mill.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 5.—A portion of Watson's Paper Mills was demolished by the bursting of a huge fly-wheel. The flying fragrants carried death and destruction with them. Engineer Samuel Fuller risked his life to save the building and his fellow workmen and was badly crushed while in the act of shutting off steam. He cannot live. Joseph Propesky was hit by a fragrant and fatally injured.

Two Men Drowned.

PEMBROKE, Mass., Aug. 4.—A sailboat containing five persons was capsized on Silver Lake yesterday. Fred Allen, of Brockton, and Marcus Howe of East Bridgewater were drowned. The others were rescued in an exhausted condition, but will all recover. Both of the drowned men were employed at Tyler's carriage factory at Whitman, Mass. Allen was 34 years of age and leaves a widow. Howe was 23 and unmarried.

TRAINS COLLIDE.

A Conductor's Disobedience Results in a Fatal Accident on the Virginia Midland.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 5.—A fatal accident occurred on the Virginia Midland road near Burleys yesterday. Two freight trains collided on a heavy grade. The engines were smashed and the cars almost entirely destroyed.

Foreman Fox, of Washington, was killed. Charles Davis, the engineer of the south-bound train, was fatally hurt. His leg and arm was broken and he was injured internally. Brakeman Leaser was injured about the head.

Conductor Burnam, of the south-bound train, has disappeared entirely. It is reported that he disobeyed orders in not taking a siding at the bottom of the grade and that the accident is directly attributable to his disobedience.

Accident on the Boston and Maine Road.

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Aug. 5.—A serious accident occurred on the Boston and Maine Railroad yesterday two miles east of Conway. The 9:30 express from Boston collided with a working train, badly wrecking both engines. Both engineers and firemen jumped saving their lives. None of the passengers were injured. Baggagemaster Brabb, a young man named Lancy, and a boy named Fellows, received slight injuries.

HELD UP A TRAIN.

Robbers Board an Express Near Kansas City and Escape with Their Booty.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Express train No. 4, of the Wabash railway, was held up by two train robbers just outside of Kansas City last night.

The men wore masks, and when the train reached Harlem, the first station outside of Kansas City, they boarded the St. Paul sleeper and compelled all the passengers to hand over their valuables.

After robbing the sleeper they encountered Conductor Reach on the platform. He was ordered to throw up his hands. He took in the situation at once and smashed one of the robbers in the face with his lamp and darted back into the coach.

The robbers fired four shots into the coach without effect and then both leaped from the train.

The passengers lost about $1,000 and two gold watches. The robbers escaped.

An Eloping Couple Heard From.

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 5.—Word has been received here that James Dougherty of Birmingham, who deserted his wife two years ago, has been living in London, Ont., with a woman supposed to be Clara Vincent, who left Birmingham the same time he did. Dougherty is a confectioner, and did a thriving business in London, but left there suddenly not long ago. His wife and two children are in destitute circumstances in Birmingham.

An Aged Female Burglar.

BRAINTREE, Mass., Aug. 5.—A female burglar, about 65 years of age, was arrested after a severe tussle about 12 o'clock last night in the residence of Horace Abercrombie, having effected an entrance through the bulkhead. She would give no name, but stated that she had subsisted in the woods on berries for the past few weeks and had no home.

Poisoned by Eating Boiled Tongue.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Thirteen boarders at No. 10 Pemberton Corporation were poisoned yesterday by eating boiled tongue. Three doctors were summoned who did all they could to relieve the sufferers, and it is thought that all are out of danger. The tongue was purchased on Saturday and cooked yesterday.

Bad News for the Sugar Trusts.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Claus Spreckles, the millionaire sugar refiner, proposes to build another refinery here fully as large as the mammoth refinery now in course of erection by him at the neck of the Delaware River. The new refinery will adjoin that now approaching completion, and the work upon it will soon begin.

A Buffalo Editor Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Horace Wilcox, who ranked among the best writers of the city, and who until within the past six months was commercial editor of the Express, is dead, aged 57 years. His humorous articles were widely quoted during his connection with Buffalo journals.

Claims Lizzie Howard is His Sister.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—George Howard, of Unionville, L. I., has telegraphed the police that Lizzie Howard, the young girl who died under suspicious circumstances in this city, Wednesday, was his sister, and that he will arrive to-day and claim the body.

Halifax's Carnival.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 5.—Large numbers of visitors to the carnival are arriving. The steamer Halifax, from Boston, brought 500 passengers, among them a number of newspaper men from the leading cities of the United States.

Two Young Ladies Drowned.

WAUBURN, Mass., Aug. 5.—Miss Jessie Croucher and Miss Ella Olive Parr of Boston were drowned in Horn Pond by the capsizing of a sailboat yesterday afternoon. Miss Croucher's body has been recovered.

IN THE LABOR FIELD

A Meeting of Fall River Spinners to be Held To-night.

TO CONSIDER STRIKES NOW ON.

A Prospect of the Settlement of the Coal Miners' Troubles.

The Pottsville Iron and Steel Company Accede to the Demands of Their Employes—They Returned to Work To-day. An Important Circular from the President of the Federation of Labor—News of Interest About the Trades.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—There is a prospect of the settlement this week by arbitration of the troubles among the coal miners of northern Illinois, who have been locked out since May last for resisting a reduction of wages. Over 10,000 men are locked out, and the number of people, including women and children, affected by the lock-out is about 36,000. The destitution among them has been so great that the business men of Chicago have adopted means of relief, and sent over 100 tons of provisions and supplies during the past ten days. Labor organizations in many parts of the country have also sent contributions. According to the testimony given before the Board of Arbitration, the average pay of the miners who are resisting a 12 per cent. reduction has been from 70 cents to $1 per day, with work for half the year.

Fall River Labor Troubles.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 5.—Secretary Howard has issued the following circular calling a special meeting of spinners this evening. He says:

"You will be called upon at this meeting to decide whether the Metacomet spinners who are on strike shall receive any assistance from the funds of the association. The average wages earned for the last week they worked were $8.94, a sum altogether too small for the labor a spinner has to perform. It is plain to be seen that their wages have been reduced from 8 to 10 per cent. within the past month, and that they had good grounds for complaint. The Executive Committee are entirely opposed to spinners striking without permission from the proper quarters, but there are extenuating circumstances in connection with this case. The pay is insufficient to maintain a family, and out of harmony with the flourishing condition of the cotton trade and large profits realized. The spinners at many mills are complaining of bad work and low wages. Our advice is to bring their grievances before the next meeting and if they want to strike let them get permission and give notice to their officials. The complaints have become so general that the advisability of a suspension of labor for a few weeks will probably be submitted for consideration."

The Strike For Eight Hours.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—An important circular has been issued by President Gompers of the Federation of Labor. He says: "An erroneous impression has gone forth that the resolution adopted at the St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor implied a simultaneous strike of all the working people of the country for eight hours, May 1, 1890. I assure you that nothing was further from the intention of the convention than the adoption of a resolution implying a general strike. The fact of fixing upon a certain date was advocated because it would concentrate the efforts of the working people about a given point, crystalize the discussion of this important question, and encourage the workingmen to become members of their respective trade organizations. I assure you that in the present condition of organized labor no movement looking to a general strike upon so early a date would receive my countenance or support. But we want the eight-hour system, and shall try to aid those who are in a condition to obtain it by May 1, 1890."

A New Yorker Dies at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—John Cruger Mills, of New York, died here yesterday of brain trouble, aged 63 years. He was a member of Tammany Hall, the Union Club, Down Town Men's Club of Pine street, and was a director of the Citizens Savings Bank.

Fifteen Horses Perished.

ROME, Ga., Aug. 5.—C. L. Barker's stable and several adjoining buildings were burned yesterday. Fifteen horses perished, including the valuable stallion Captain Sam Morgan. Total loss $25,000.

A $10,000 Fire at Ithaca.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—This morning at 8 o'clock fire broke out on the fourth floor of a four-story building on State street, the two upper floors of which were occupied by Treadwell's photograph gallery. The inside of these floors were burned out. The boot and shoe stock of G. W. Ingalls and Mrs. L. A. Burritt's millinery and fancy store were badly damaged by water. The total loss will amount to about $10,000.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—A gypsy camp has been established in "Round Park," near the Fair grounds.

—Just think of it, reader, one whole day without rain. Something unusual of late.

—People who have gardens in this vicinity, say that the late rains have proved disastrous to the potato crop.

—The City Council will meet in regular session, this evening, and it is to be hoped that the session will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

—The next session of the Union county courts will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 3, for the purpose of drawing the petit jury for the October term.

—Mr. E. L. Suffern will lead the Young Men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, this evening. All young men are welcome, and a full attendance is desired.

—Will the lady who received a two-dollar-and-a-half gold piece in change instead of a cent, at the counter of THE PRESS office, Saturday, please call and rectify the error?

—The fifteenth annual convention of the Catholic Young Men's National Union, which was set down for August, has been postponed until Sept. 3 and 4. It will be held at Providence, R. I.

—The Young Crescents of this city will play the Young Americans of Dunellen on the latter's grounds, Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. This is the third game, and perhaps the last.

—The monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city, will be held to-morrow at three o'clock P. M. A full attendance is desired, as important business will be transacted.

—On Wednesday evening of this week will be held the regular monthly meeting of Gazelle Engine company, in their parlors. A full attendance is desired as business of importance will be transacted.

—An improvised bridge has been erected over the gulch washed out by the flood in front of French's mill on Somerset street, thus relieving Grove street bridge crossing, the next main thoroughfare between the city and borough.

—Somebody rang the fire call on the District Messenger box in the house formerly occupied by D. H. Mulford, on Crescent avenue, about three o'clock this afternoon. The tower bell was rung and the department turned out. The house was found to be empty of everything, and no signs of any fire.

—As an extra attraction on the occasion of the Reform Club excursion to Rockaway on Thursday next, Prof. Penand from Paris, offers a wonderful trapeze performance. He will make his thrilling jump from a tower erected for that purpose (150 feet high) into Jamaica Bay. Performances in full view from the beach at 2 and 4:30 P. M.

—The committee in charge of the Warren Mission and Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday Schools to Ocean Grove August 9, are doing all they can for the comfort of the excursionists on that day. Reliable parties will be in charge of baggage car to care for baskets, wagons, and parcels, properly marked with owner's name. The same will be delivered free from Plainfield and return to Lake House or Ross Pavilion.

An Inspector for Half a Century.

William M. McCutchen, who died on Thursday at his home in North Plainfield, in his eighty-seventh year, was said to be the oldest inspector of fire insurance risk in this country. He had been an inspector for a half century, and had inspected risks for the Equitable, Union Mutual, Washington, Etna, and other well-known companies.

He was employed by the City Fire Insurance Company of New York, to within eighteen months of his death. He was born in that city, and was originally a master builder. He entered the insurance business in 1840 as inspector for the Contributionship Company, long since out of business.

SHUT OUT.

The Ball Players of All Trenton Fail to Get a Run in Plainfield.

The strongest team of ball players that the Crescents have faced this season, met them on Saturday afternoon. But the perfect work of Gately and Bowes, and the almost errorless support of the home nine, shut the visitors out without a run.

It was a great surprise to the latter. They had brought down a picked nine of most of the best players from all the teams in Trenton's pottery league, and the Crescents were assured they would be beaten. It is no doubt a fact that the Trenton nine of Saturday was composed of some very fine players.

But up to the ninth inning, Springgard was the only one of the visitors who reached second, and the only batter who made a hit. In the ninth, however, Hummill got to third and Randow to second, and it looked as if Trenton would surely get a run. Tiernan had been forced out at second, and Uplander had dropped a fly into McLaughlin's hands, so it all depended on Herneff the Trenton's daisy first baseman.

A smile spread over Patrick J. Gately's biased lips. Three times before Herneff had been at the bat, and each time he had found the ball. But upon this occasion it was different—three times he fanned the wide, wide World, and the game was over.

The Crescent's game was a most creditable one. Lee, whose arm was still lame played second and but three of the Trenton's got there during the entire game. Condon played short when Cadmus did not get in the way, and the latter was on third. Both Cadmus' errors were caused by his running in front of Condon to seize short hits that did not belong to him and which he failed to get. The Crescent's infield works smoother with Lee on third, Condon on second and Cadmus playing short.

Bowes work behind the bat and his throwing to second, was all that could be desired. Manager Gavett has displayed his judgment again in securing so clever a backstop, and Gately seemed so encouraged that he pitched his best game of the season. The Trentons only got two hits off the Crescent's twirler, while all of the home team hit Tiernan except McMurray, Cadmus and Gately.

The score was as follows:

Sight-Seekers at Scotch Plains.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—The town was thronged with sight-seekers and the roads were lined with carriages and footmen, who came for miles around to see the ruins of the paper mill. It looked like old-fashioned camp meeting times to see the crowd coming and going. There was at least 5,000 people there, young and old, and about 1,000 carriages during the day. It was a perfect jam.

The Italians here have been drilling for the last two weeks and yesterday (Sunday) they took possession of the streets, and marched around town with an Italian flag at their head. They say they are preparing for war. There was a score or more of them in line. The men drill and carouse around most every night and especially on Sunday nights until 11 or 12 o'clock, and they annoy the neighbors very much.

There was no service in the Baptist church last evening, but the M. E. church was well attended.

Rev. Mr. A. A. Graves has returned home from his vacation.

Mr. James Baker is sick. He was obliged to send for his wife who was on a visit to her parents in Connecticut. Mrs. B. and daughter returned yesterday.

Miss Hattie Samsel, of Belvidere, N. J., is spending a week with Mrs. I. C. Vannatta, formerly of that place. C.

A Scene on Somerset Street.

A young married couple from this city created a scene at the corner of Somerset and Pearl streets, North Plainfield, about dusk, last evening. It appears that the young man was suspicious that his spouse was unfaithful to him, so he decided to watch her. The latter started out last evening, followed closely by her husband. At the corner of Somerset and Pearl streets, the story is told, the woman met a young fellow and stood conversing with him, when her husband came up and gave both of them a severe tongue-lashing.

The afternoon of the flood, Mr. A. W. Haviland of North Plainfield, had just had his two cows taken from the pasture, and Mr. Dupee had two cows and a valuable horse all removed only five minutes before the torrent of water from the broken dam came down in such a body as to cover the fences where the stock had been pasturing.

The Funeral of Lillian Dumont.

The parlors of the home at 284 St. James place, Brooklyn, were thronged Saturday with the friends of Lillie Dumont, whose death, with its attendant circumstances, has already been noticed in THE PRESS. Lillie Dumont lost none of her charm of feature in death. Her casket was literally covered with flowers, and around it were many floral designs.

The Rev. N. E. Smith, rector of the Union Congregational church, Brooklyn, and for many years pastor of what is now the Trinity Reformed church, this city, officiated. He referred to the fact that he had married the dead girl's parents, that he knew their children, who had been properly reared in the fear of God, and that he sympathized with them in their bereavement. The body was transferred to Greenwood yesterday morning.

NOT A SPEEDY SNAP.

A Correspondent Who Thinks a Water Supply Franchise in This City Would be Unprofitable for Some Time.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: There seems to be an idea prevalent in Plainfield, that a franchise for supplying the city with water must be very valuable, and that any one who gets it should be made to pay handsomely for the privilege.

A growing place, with a population (including North Plainfield) of, say, 15,000, with a fair proportion of wealthy property owners, and a large number possessing homes of their own and comfortable incomes, does seem an attractive location to supply with water, especially to a stranger not familiar with all the modifying conditions.

In the first place, the income from hydrants would never reach a very large figure, owing to the constitutional disinclination of the average Plainfield taxpayer to pay out money for public improvements. Mr. Marsh ably represented this class of people, when, at a recent meeting of the Council, he soberly suggested, as an item of economy in the proposed water works, that a number of the hydrants could be omitted in the vicinity of the present flag wells, which latter would answer just as well; he did not seem to realize that a hydrant, to which a hose could be directly attached, and a stream thrown over almost any house, offered any advantage over a well from which the water must be pumped by a fire engine.

The most serious objection, however, to the mind of an investor, is the quality of the water now used for all purposes. Whatever one may think of the objectionable feature of having our wells and cesspools in such close proximity—and it is not a pleasant subject to consider—it cannot be denied that Plainfield now has an excellent drinking water, and the people like it.

It may readily be seen, that, as no one is obliged to use the public water, it would be a long time before the list of consumers reached a paying basis. No doubt in time every one, even in moderate circumstances, would see the advantage of having an ample supply of water in any part of the house, without pumping or carrying it, but it would probably take years to reach this result.

Reform Hall.

There was a fully attended and very interesting meeting in Reform Hall last evening. Rev. J. B. Cleaver, after conducting the devotional services, delivered an address sparkling with wit, eloquence and pointed argument. He ably portrayed human development, physical, mental and moral, and declared that the great need of the age was perfectly developed men. The learned gentleman in the course of his remarks reviewed and detailed the many enemies of mortal happiness in the shape of vicious habits, ending with that of alcoholic drink, against which he poured a volley of telling opposition, and earnestly requested that every individual should make and enforce for herself and himself a prohibitory law.

Mr. Cleaver commanded the unbroken attention of the large audience. President French being absent, Vice President Harper occupied his chair. The musical programme was finely carried out by Mr. Vanderbeek and assistants—Mrs. King, Miss Hawkins, Messrs King and Spencer, with Miss Alice Smith as organist. Special notice was given of the club's excursion to Rockaway Beach next Thursday, and after the usual offering of the pledge for signatures, the benediction was pronounced.

Officer Flanagan Takes a Tumble.

During the flood on Tuesday evening last, Officer P. J. Flanagan, who began his ten days' vacation on the preceding day, met with a painful accident. The Officer came into town to view the wreck on Somerset street, and returning home early he fell through the Liberty street railroad bridge and sustained injuries to his legs and arms, which confined him to the house for several days. THE PRESS is glad to record the fact that Officer Flanagan is again able to walk out, and has been since Friday.

Viewing the Flooded District.

The travel, both on foot and by vehicle, between this city and Feltville, was never before greater than it was yesterday. Every conceivable mode for transportation was pressed into service to convey the curious to the district visited by the recent flood, and it is estimated that the number who went on foot, doubled the number who rode in carriages. The same state of affairs existed on Somerset street, in the vicinity of the "Notch."

Saturday's the Day.

The West End Club of Somerville will play the second game of the season with the Crescent nine of this city, on the La Grande avenue grounds of the Plainfield Bowling Club, next Saturday afternoon.

LOST IN CRANFORD RIVER.

What Would Happen if "That Feltville Dam" Had Burst.

Last Thursday evening's news contained at the head of the first column of its first page, the infamous falsehood that "the great dam at Feltville, the only one not wrecked by Tuesday's flood, was trembling before the surging mass of water locked within the bosom of the lake and that the resistless tide threatened to rush through its frail and weakening barrier and to sweep the city of Plainfield through its heart."

It will probably be years before Plainfield will recover in any degree from the check given its growth and the indirect damage done its future prosperity, by just such pieces of criminal sensationalism that have recently filled the columns of the news and drifted from thence into other papers of this and other States.

The "surging mass of water" spoken of was "locked within the bosom of a lake" so deep (?) that months ago Fish Commissioners of the State waded all over it and declined to stock it because too shallow.

There was not in the whole lake "resistless tide" enough to "sweep through the heart" of even the vacant meadows of Fanwood. A man might even stand knee-deep in any of Plainfield's brooks and let that dam burst, and he wouldn't get his waist wet.

But that would probably be because the water would all run off in the Cranford river, anyway.

Torn through its heart by a great flood of water, Plainfield today is but a ragged and disheveled likeness of its former self.—Plainfield evening news.

Bound Brook News.

The Commissioners at Bound Brook are negotiating for electric lights to be furnished by the Somerville Electric Light Company.

It is expected that the water works will be in operation on or before the eighth instant. The hydrants are set, and everything is in readiness to turn on the water.

"Jack" Devlin, a graduate from the Jamesburg Reform school, and later a guest in the Mt. Holly and Somerville jails, together with two of his pals from Plainfield, are wanted by the Somerset county authorities, for assaulting Geo. Hummell and his wife without provocation, at South Bound Brook, a few days ago.

Mrs. Charles Judd of Pittsburg, Pa., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Thomas Windsor, at the Windsor House.

One of Bound Brook's greatest needs at the present time, is a lockup.

He's Bit Off More Than We Can Swallow.

Somebody by the name of "Wm. F. Sands," writes to the Chief of Police as follows:

How can the people of Plainfield ever be able to thank you for your noble heroism during the recent disaster which has struck New Jersey's "Queen City" to the heart? Your indefatigable perseverance so generously offered, your assiduity in succoring the people who have chosen your for their guardian, your zeal so faithfully displayed throughout, all go to make up a debt for which the people of Plainfield can never repay you. I feel that I am voicing the opinion of every Plainfielder, great and small.

Gracious! Sakes! Alive! But who are you "Wm. F. Sands," anyway? And, by the way, ain't you assuming a big contract in "voicing the opinion of every Plainfielder, great and small?"

At Trinity Church.

There was a large attendance at both the morning and evening services in the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday. The Rev. Edwin H. Lewis preached on both occasions. His discourse in the morning was an ably written sermon on "Divine Motherhood." In the evening his subject was: "The part of the will, in righteousness."

At the morning service Miss Clara Josephine Mears sang Holden's "Nearer My God to Thee," with pleasing effect. She displayed the possession of a rich soprano voice of much cultivation. Her high notes were very full. Mr. A. W. Dudley was the accompanist.

Only Four Left.

At last the public is permitted to know who constitute the West End hired team that failed to appear in their scheduled game with the Crescents, July 27.

The nine is now as follows: Harkins, pitcher; Sublich, catcher; Bishop, 1st base; Morehead, 2d base; Kelley, 3d base; Williams, short stop; Davenport, left field; Bergen, centre field; Block, right field. Of these only Harkins, Bergen, Kelley and Davenport, played on the Somerville team that Plainfield got away with.

SULLIVAN JAILED.

After Receiving an Ovation in the South Gov. Lowry Sends Him to the Cooler.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 4.—Sullivan's trip to Mississippi was like a triumphal tour. Crowds gathered at every railroad station and cheered the pugilist, and at several points ladies sent bouquets to him.

At Durant, Miss., the crowd numbered several hundreds. The privilege of shaking Sullivan's hand was fairly begged for. Several ladies gained entrance to the car and were introduced to the champion.

At Jackson the crowd was still larger, and no less enthusiastic.

Sullivan was met by Renaud and other sports and taken to a hotel where a spread had been arranged for. The crowd followed and cheered for the pugilist.

Sullivan went into the rotunda of the hotel and held a levee, shaking hands with hundreds of persons.

The Governor, on being informed of the demonstration, was very much incensed, and ordered Sullivan locked up in the city jail. He said he would not allow a prisoner, charged with a serious offence to make a mockery of the law.

Deputy Childs took his prisoner to the jail, where he is now locked up, with but one friend, Matt Clune, who was allowed to accompany him.

The big fellow submitted quietly to the order of the Governor, and rather blames his friends for making his situation worse than it would otherwise have been but for their over-zealous attentions.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Tragic Sequel to a Runaway Match in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—William Dolan, a bookkeeper 30 years of age, shot his young wife dead last night at their elegantly appointed home in East Lanvale street, and then put a bullet through his own heart.

The exact cause of the tragedy will probably never be known, but the mother of Mrs. Dolan, a Mrs. Ballard, says that Dolan was very jealous of his wife. They were married on Jan. 24, 1885, in New York. It was a runaway match on account of the fact that they were first cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolan had attended the opera at the Academy of Music in the evening. They returned home at 11:20 p. m., and the shooting occurred five minutes later.

Mrs. Sarony's Bad Fall.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Napoleon Sarony, wife of the Broadway photographer, fell from her horse yesterday and was badly bruised and shaken.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY

Dervishes Mowed Down Like Grain Before the Reaper.

FIGHTING AGAINST BIG ODDS.

The Battle Described as a Scene of Revolting Slaughter.

England Relieved Over the News of the Complete Rout of Her Enemies in Egypt—The Fanatics Fought Bravely and Stubbornly—Over 1,500 Left Dead on the Field—All Danger of Another Invasion at an End.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—England is drawing a long breath of relief to-day after the news of the complete rout of her enemies in Egypt, on the banks of the Nile.

Further details of the battle received here to-day describe it as a scene of revolting slaughter, such as could scarcely occur where both combatants are civilized soldiers. Nor does the responsibility for the butchery rest upon the English troops and their Egyptian allies.

Long after the fate of the day had been decided, after all hope of recovering their lost ground must have been abandoned by the fanatical Dervishes, they continued to hurl themselves upon their foes only to be mercilessly mowed down as ripe grain before the reaper.

They refused all quarter and gave none, but with a grim determination that knew but two issues to a fight—victory or death—they fought as bravely and as stubbornly, when the deadly fire of their enemies had cut great swathes in their rynks, and when every movement was hampered by the piled up bodies of their own dead, as when first with unbroken front, and confident of victory, they faced their foes.

It was while leading the scattered remnants of his brave warriors in this forlorn hope that the Dervish leader, Wad-el-Njumi, fell pierced by a bullet in his brain. His followers, nothing daunted by his fate, dashed themselves over and over again upon the pitiless and unbroken line of rifle barrels in front of them, and kept up the fight long after every vestige of organization among them had been destroyed, and when nothing was left for the scattered fanatics but to sell their lives as dearly as possible.

So it came that fully one-half of the invader's force was left dead upon the fields. The small number of fighting men which Wad-el-Njumi brought into the engagement is a complete surprise. All estimates heretofore credited him with an available force of no less than 5,000 men, while it turns out that he could not at any time have had more than half that number.

The whole Dervish force is now completely wiped out, and all immediate danger of an invasion from that quarter is at an end.

The Kaiser Confers Honors.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Emperor William has conferred upon the Queen the honorary command of the First Dragoon Regiment of Guards of Berlin, and upon the Duke of Cambridge the honorary Colonelcy of a regiment of Infantry. The conferment of an honorary British Admiral, which the Queen has conferred upon the Emperor, is the first instance of the kind since Frederick the Great received the distinction.

The French Elections.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Second ballots for members of the Councils General were taken yesterday in the cantons where no definite result was obtained last week. The returns show the election of twelve Republicans and thirty Conservatives. M. Laguerre, the Boulangist leader, was elected at La Rochelle.

Emperor William May Go to Spain.

MADRID, Aug. 5.—There is a rumor here that Emperor William, on leaving England, will visit the Queen Regent Christina at San Sebastian.

Burke Starts for Chicago.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—Chief Hubbard, of Chicago, accompanied by Officers Collins, Ross, and Broderick, left by the Manitoba express yesterday for Chicago, with Martin Burke, the extradited Cronin suspect. They expect to reach Chicago late to-night. The witnesses kept here since the trial were also taken south with the party. Burke was taken from jail early yesterday and hidden in the train in the yards, disappointing a large number of curious citizens who had gathered to see the supposed murderer.

Consecrating a New Church.

BERGEN POINT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Trinity Episcopal Church, which cost over $62,000, was consecrated by Bishop Starkey, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. J. Carpenter Smith, of Flushing, L. I.; Rev. Dr. George Herbert Walsh, of New York; Rev. W. S. Langford, of Newark, and Rev. Harold Arrowsmith, the rector. There was a large congregation.

A Relief Agent Stricken.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 5.—Judge Cummin, a member of the Commission to distribute the funds to the Johnstown sufferers, is lying dangerously ill at Cresson Springs, suffering from Bright's disease. His family physician, Dr. Lyon, of Williamsport, is in attendance, but the patient's recovery is reported impossible.

Dr. McGlynn at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 5.—Yesterday Rev. Dr. McGlynn delivered an address at the beech meeting held under the auspices of the Westminister Presterian Church. His subject was "Prayer." His audience was the largest ever assembled here.

SITTING BULL DEFEATED.

Prominent Indians Sign the Treaty and Suppress the Big Chief.

STANDING ROCK, Dak., Aug. 5.—Much to the surprise of everybody at the agency John Grass, Mad Bear, Big Head and their bands have signed the treaty and now 600 names are all that are necessary for the opening of the reservation.

There was a wild scene when Sitting Bull and his band rode up in war costume and attempted to drive the friendly Indians from the council, but he was soon suppressed, and the Indians under the three chiefs above named followed them in signing. Four hundred signatures were secured yesterday and the commissioners are elated over the prospect of success. Chief Gall is still hesitating, but it is believed he will consent within a few days.

It is now reasonably safe to predict that the 11,000,000 acres of land will be opened for settlement.

QUIET AND DRY.

A Very Religious Sunday Observed by the Citizens of Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 5.—The city was unusually quiet yesterday. The only places open for the transaction of business were restaurants, bakeries, ice-cream saloons and drug stores. In the latter only medicines were sold.

Delivery wagons were not to be seen on the streets after 8 a. m., and the brewers resolved not to supply customers after 12 o'clock on Saturday night. Comparatively few arrests for misdemeanors were reported at the various police stations. One saloon was found open in the suburbs and the proprietor was arrested, but he claimed to be outside the jurisdiction of the police court.

CANNIBALISM IN CHINA.

The Drowning of Females Will Hereafter Be a Misdemeanor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The steamship City of Pekin, which arrived to-day brings tidingso of an attempt to cannibalism at Pho Shan Hien, near Shanghi. The proprietor of a public bath there became possessed of the notion that to eat a child would cure him of an illness from which he was suffering. From an old woman he bought a child which he induced a coolie to kill. The body was discovered by the authorities in a large jar ready for cooking. All the persons connected with the crime have been arrested.

The Viceroy of Fukien and Cheklang has issued a proclamation against the drowning of female children, which has been common of late. He notifies families that hereafter the penalty provided by law will be strictly enforced. The penalty is sixty blows of the bamboo and one year's banishment.

The Murderers Became Insane.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 5.—Patrick Coffey, the old man who was sentenced to death in Jersey City for the murder of his paramour, but to whom on Jan. 3 was granted a commutation to imprisonment for life, has just been adjudged insane by the physicians of the State prison, where he is now confined. He will be removed to the State Asylum for the Insane. Jas. LeCaren, the old man who killed John Shea, the iceman, on June 3, has been taken to the State lunatic asylum. His removal was ordered by Chief-Justice Beasley, who acted upon the report of Dr. Ward, Superintendent of the State Asylum and Dr. Lalor, of this city.

A Confessed Forger Disappears.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 4.—Frederick Wrecker, a tanner of this city, has disappeared after having confessed that he had forged the name of Jacob Reichley to notes to the amount of $8,600. The notes are held by the Western National City, and York County National banks. He left his home on Friday last and his whereabouts are unknown. Before leaving he promised to make restitution.

A Well-Known Bicycle Rider Drowned.

WESTBORO, Mass., Aug. 5.—J. Bruce, aged 25, a well-known bicycle rider, was drowned while bathing in Chauncey Pond yesterday. Bruce was the son of a Louisiana planter. He lived several years in England and was a member of the famous Ripley Rod Club. He had taken part in many races, and had written on cycling subjects for the Minneapolis Tribune and other papers.

INTERESTING BREVITIES.

THE total indebtedness of the various States of the Union foots up $220,000,000.

A ROSE lately picked in a garden at Lockport, Cal., measured two feet in circumference.

A GEORGIA hen which was set on seventeen eggs hatched out eighteen chickens and left four eggs unhatched.

THERE is a plan on foot to erect in New York a great mausoleum capable of holding the remains of 30,000 people. The projectors propose also to put up similar mausoleums in other cities.

A RESIDENT of Newark, N. J., is in possession of a letter written by him to his wife in Dresden in 1861, which failed to reach her there owing to her sudden departure, and which has for the last eight years been traveling about Western Europe.

THE diamond—or, as the mediæval Italians called it, "Pietra della reconciliazione," because they believed it maintained peace and happiness between man and wife—is generally recognized as an appropriate gem for the betrothal ring. For generations it has been recognized in gem lore as the emblem of power and devotion.

CHICAGO is now the largest city in area, and perhaps the second city in population on the American continent. The area of the city was formerly forty-three and one-half square miles, to this was added 131 square miles, making a total of 174 square miles, with a length of twenty-four miles and a breadth of from four to eight miles.

THE remains of Catherine Sevier, the wife of Tennessee's great Governor, lie in a mote-grown corner of an abandoned graveyard at Russellville, Ala. Now that the bones of her distinguished husband have been laid beneath the monument erected to his honor, it is proposed to open the neglected grave of his wife and place her remains beside those of her husband.

FORTUNES IN TRIFLES.

Pocket-Books That Cost More Than They Ever Carry.

A Rage for Articles in New Kinds of Leather—Elephant Skin and Lizard Skin in Common Use—Walking Sticks with Jeweled Heads.

Half the well-dressed women of New York carry pocket-books that cost more money than they ever inclose, says the New York Star. Just study the ponderous, metal-bound leather cases, which every woman grasps in her little fist when she goes shopping, and you'll learn something that few men have hitherto suspected. The practice of carrying the feminine purse high aloft in the fist will not die out so long as this furnishes a chance to exhibit costly trifles in leather to a wondering world of men.

Nearly $100 for a little bit of gold-bound leather that scarce fills the rosy palm for which it was made! That is the price. The leather is a gold-tinted lizard skin, with all the scales shining. The gold is richly chased. Every thing within and without is costly and beautiful. Perhaps New York has not yet reached the point of making silk purses out of a certain material proverbially unfit for such use, but very pretty pocket-books are made out of the polecat's skin. Odorous! Not in the least; the beast has been slandered. Its skin is beautifully grained, soft and pliant. A famous concern in this town has recently been making odd experiments in leathers. The result is that the Australian rabbit, the American elk, the peccary, the reindeer, the anteater, the badger, the monkey, the coon, the buffalo and even the elephant have yielded up their outer covering to gratify the whims of fair women. You may buy an elephant purse for $20 or $30. The skin looks like cork, being of neutral tint, with odd pin holes penetrating the surface. It is tough and marvelously durable. A few traveling bags have been made of it. They weigh a good deal when shaving case, brushes, combs and flasks have been fitted in, and they fetch rather more than $250 apiece. Pocket-books of buffalo skin are pretty, and the leather is extremely pliant, though stout.

All these new leathers have driven out the old-fashioned morocco. Every thing must be expensively ornamented with silver or gold. The lizard skin comes in twenty or thirty varieties. They are brought ready-cured from South America. They are big enough, by careful piecing, to be made into small traveling bags. There is a popular notion that every scaled and mottled skin is that of a snake. As a matter of fact, snake skins are comparatively rare.

The last elephant skin used in New York was cured here, and very successfully cured. It went into pocket-books, note-books, portfolios, traveling bags, and what not. The thickest portions had to be split. It is so tough that it has to be worked with specially strong tools. When all the skin had been worked up one of the great feet was made the pedestal of a unique umbrella stand. The great toes, looking like big and badly-brushed teeth, had an odd appearance. The body of the stand is of brass, with a large elephant's head in front armed with fantastically exaggerated nickel-plated tusks.

Among the rich there is a rage for unique objects, such as pocket-books, purses, traveling bags. These things are made up for the general public in sufficiently costly form, one would think, but with men to whom $500 is a trifle, costly things that have duplicates will not serve. Traveling bags costing $200 to $300 are constantly made to order. They are wrought of curious leather, and the customer picks out silver mounted flasks, brushes, razors and the like to make up an expensive dressing case, which is fitted into the bag. Odd and original designs in hammered silver are made to order as binding for leather pocket-books. There is no limit to the cost of gold-netted purses for ladies. Some of them have a great jewel in the bottom. A tiny one to serve as a watch charm and, perhaps, to carry carfare, is marked $16, while $150 is not a high price for larger sizes.

Walking sticks are made the excuse for curious indulgence of extravagant tastes. Nobody buys gold-headed canes now except to present to public men, who never carry the showy gifts. Much costlier canes, however, are those ornamented with enamel or gold. One has a small head of Etruscan gold enameled in garnet and three shades of blue. Not many buy such a stick for $45. Another has a head of red rhodonite in a network of gold. It costs $100. Still another has for head a delicately wrought golden coronet topped with brilliant rhodonite in imitation of red velvet. A costlier one still has a great star sapphire set into a head of rich Etruscan gold. It sells for $200. A head made of a cluster of children's heads in silver sells for $90. Prices then run down to $50, $40 and $20. On such sticks the heads have more or less familiar designs.

The costliest sticks are malacca. A certain variety of small diameter brings, unmounted, more than $30 per stick. Prices then run down to $2 per stick. An odd stick is of wood completely veneered with tortoise shell. It looks like a solid stick of shell.

There is something of a rage for turning relics into heads for umbrellas and walking sticks. One man had the handle of a handsome old dagger placed on an umbrella. Ancient coins are also turned into cane heads.

CHARMING BOOK-AGENTS.

How She Makes a Handsome Income—Tricks of the Trade.

I was an observer a few days ago, writes a New York correspondent, of a well-known book-agent's methods, as they were plied in the down-town office of a wealthy New York lawyer. The agent is an exceedingly pretty woman of about thirty-five, I imagine. Her face is singularly beautiful, and her figure would delight the soul of an artist. She is what is called truly "fetching," and her descent upon a male victim means success almost every time. In this instance, she sold her unwilling purchaser an encyclopedic set for $173. She calls only upon men and cleverly receives all the attentions which are continually paid her. She is married, but never goes to any pains to tell the fact. If by accepting a theater invitation she thinks she can make a sale of moment, she partakes. She is an upright woman in every respect, a model wife and a devoted mother, but she understands men thoroughly. This knowledge means from $5,000 to $7,000 a year to her, and what is not needed for family expenses is added to a bank account which already has reach five figures. I have watched this woman upon several occasions, and have seen her transform the coldest man into an almost admiring slave. Not long ago I saw her in the high-priced seats of a theater in company with a well-known broker. Two days after I saw an order from her on the books of a large publishing house showing a sale of several hundred dollars to her Wall-street escort. She dresses plainly and richly, wears no jewelry, but knows to a dot what sort of a gown will show off her figure to the best advantage, and what kind of a bonnet most becomes her.

A WEALTHY HERMIT.

He Has Plenty of Bonds, But Lives in a Hole in the Ground.

On the Winnebago Indian reservation, about twenty miles down the Missouri river from Sioux City, Ia., in Thurston County, Neb., dwells a hermit whose history is of much interest. His name is Charles Ebes, and he is forty-nine years old. He lives alone, not in a hut or cave, but in a hole in the ground, having dug an apartment in the earth about ten feet from the surface to the floor. This is entered by a trap door, which is only about two feet square and which can not be seen until a person is close to it. His habitation is in a rough, wooded gully running back among the clay bluffs of the Missouri river and is very seldom visited by men. Your correspondent has visited the place and has heard Ebes' story. He is a native of Indiana, and in 1862, when twenty-two years old, he was working at the cooper's trade at Vincennes, Ind. He was engaged to be married to a young lady named Minnie Garrett, whose parents lived near that city. In the spring of that year Miss Garrett's parents moved to New Ulm, Minn., and settled on a farm on what was then the frontier. Soon after they arrived at their new home the girl wrote to Ebes that she was dissatisfied with the place and wanted to go back to Indiana. The lover was without means, except his wages, but he saved what he earned for several months, and that, together with the price of a colt that he owned, made a little over $200. With this he planned to go to Minnesota, marry the girl and take her back to the old home, and he wrote her that he would start on the Monday morning after the date of the letter. On the night before he was to start he went out with a company of young men, visited a gambling house, and when daylight came he was penniless, having bet and lost every cent. Then he was compelled to write to his intended and postpone his visit and the wedding, but set again to work, planning to go in the latter part of September, when he should have saved up money enough. Before he again heard from Miss Garrett the Sioux Indians had attacked the white settlement at New Ulm, and the girl and her parents were among the killed. When Ebes heard this story he was broken-hearted, left his work and began to roam about the country. He visited New Ulm, and found the story was too true. In 1869 he went back to Vincennes, and there was apprised of the fact that an uncle in Tennessee had died and left him nearly $40,000. He secured the money and spent about $3,000 in traveling about seeking a place to locate, but found it impossible to settle down among his fellow-men. In 1872 he invested his money in bonds and for ten years he lived a hermit's life in Wisconsin. In 1883 he came further west, and since then he has lived in the hole in the ground, where he will probably spend the remainder of his days. Besides his bonds that bring him a regular income, he has a good-sized bank account in a Sioux City bank, and he draws on this for the scanty needs of his house and home. He has a fair education and has many books with which he whiles away the time in his lonely habitation, which is so dark that he keeps a lamp burning night and day. His only companions are two tame badgers, which he keeps in a box in one corner of his dirt den.

SAVED HER CHILD.

The Ingenuity of a Mother Whose Babe Was in Danger.

A most remarkable rescue from death took place at the farm of Wendell Russell, about three miles from Venice, Ill., the other afternoon, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Mr. Russell had removed the pump from the well to make some repairs and had partially covered the aperture with boards. A little four-year-old boy playing in the vicinity got on these boards and fell through, one of the boards going with him. His mother heard his cries and rushed to the rescue. There was about twelve feet of water in the well, and the distance from the top to the surface of the water was about fifteen feet. She could see the little one clinging to the board and floating on the water. No assistance was at hand and she was thrown on her own resources. Her wits worked quickly and she acted with great promptness. Securing a stout rope that was near at hand, she fastened one end of it tightly about the body of her nine-year-old daughter and then let her down to the water, where she grabbed the little one and shouted to her mother to pull her up. Her mother could not do it. While it was a comparatively easy matter to lower the girl steadily and to hold her it was quite another thing to haul her up, and the mother's strength was not equal to the task. She, however, found a way out of the dilemma. With a few words of encouragement to her loved ones clinging to each other just above the surface of the water, she made the rope fast above and ran to get a ladder that was leaning against the house. This she let down the well, but it reached only a little below the surface of the water, and there was nothing for it to rest on. She secured a stout piece of timber and placed it across the top of the well between the top rounds of the ladder, thus giving it a firm support, though the lower end swung in a manner somewhat dangerous to an unsteady climber. Then she took the rope by which her daughter was suspended and swung her to the ladder. The girl seized the ladder with her left hand, and with her little brother tightly clasped by her right arm, climbed the ladder, assisted by her mother with the rope. Both were brought up safely, and the only injuries sustained were a few bruises and a thorough ducking to the little one.

How Jesuits Teach Latin.

By these learned men of the Society of Jesus the student is saluted upon his first arrival at the school with "Good morning" in Latin. From this beginning he is taught to put phrase after phrase into actual use; the instruction in the classes is conducted in Latin, not in English; and the student, when sufficiently advanced, is required to take part in extemporaneous discussions in Latin, in which, as of course he does not know what point his antagonist is going to make, he is emphatically put to his stump, and no set phrases, studied up in advance, will serve. And yet no doubt there are Latinists who would find the Latin taught by these Jesuit fathers rather ecclesiastical and somewhat corrupted, and, moreover, would maintain that, as there is really no use for Latin as a spoken language, but plenty of use for it as a purely literary tongue, the instruction in it may properly be adapted to a literary rather than a conversational need.

Tree-Planting and Weather.

Major J. W. Powell, who is as good authority as we have, writes that in his judgment tree-planting does not increase rainfall or aid in reclaiming arid lands in that easy and direct manner. But trees serve to equalize atmospheric conditions and aid the soil and air in retaining the rain that does fall. He believes that by tree-planting, to supplement irrigating methods, nearly all arid lands may be reclaimed for tillage, and that some of our worst wastes will become our best pasture lands and most productive farms. It must, however, be allowed that other good authorities believe that rainfall is directly affected by forests.

Labor Notes of Interest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The Tailors' National Convention is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, next Monday. . . . The secretary of the Carpenters' Union advises carpenters to keep away from New York city on account of the dullness in trade. . . . The New Jersey Eight-hour League will send a delegate to the annual congress of the New Jersey Federation of Trade and Labor Unions, which is to be held in Jersey City August 19th. . . . The Potters' National Convention at Steubenville created two Executive Boards, one with headquarters at Trenton, N. J., and the other at East Liverpool, Ohio. . . . President Weihe of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers has been re-elected President and his salary advanced to $2,000 per year, an increase of $500.

Good News for Iron Workers.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 5.—The Pottsville Iron and Steel Company have acceded to the demands of the men, and between 500 and 700 men returned to work to-day. By the agreement the wages of the men will be advanced about 12 per cent., the rates paid prior to the reduction last February. Puddlers are to be paid $3.76 per ton.

Children Starved to Death.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 5.—Twin children belonging to the wife of one of the locked-out miners died here and the physician who attended them pronounced it starvation.

Good News From Governor Ames.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Aug. 5.—Governor Ames continues to improve rapidly. He drives out every day when it is fair, and will probably go to Boston the last of this week.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

SPOKANE'S SCOURGE

THE LOSS SAID TO BE $14,000,000

An Incompetent Fire Department to Blame for the Awful Calamity.

There Was a High Wind and a Scarcity of Water—Very Light Insurance and Much Suffering—The Citizens of the Flourishing City Cheerful Under Their Misfortune—Contributions Already Being Sent In.

Spokane Falls, W. T., August 6.—Owing to the destruction of the telegraph offices here it was impossible to send full particulars of Sunday night's fire, and the brief despatches that were sent from Helena were very conflicting. The estimated loss is $14,000,000.

The blaze started in a lodging house on Railroad avenue at 5 o'clock p. m. A large number of frame buildings and several grain elevators were near the lodging house and soon after the fire broke out they were ablaze. A strong wind was blowing toward the city at the time and the blaze was soon beyond the control of the firemen.

The fire leaped from street to street, and nothing could be done but let the flames have their own way until they reached the river and then endeavor to prevent the fire from reaching the buildings on the opposite side.

The flames swept throughout the city and one business block after another was consumed, everything being burned to the water's edge.

The fire department was stationed on the other side of the stream and prevented flying timbers from setting fire to the buildings there. Only a few dwellings were destroyed.

There were no fire engines, but by the system in use five or six good sized streams of water could be concentrated upon any block in case of fire. The fire department was a volunteer one. As to insurance, the best information here is that no large amounts were carried. Buildings that cost $30,000 to $40,000 are known to have had but $9,000 to $10,000 insurance.

The City Council met this morning and appointed a committee on relief. It was decided that provisions should be sent for, and the needy supplied free.

The militia is out in force, and all persons without passes are forbidden to enter the burned district. Five out of the seven banks destroyed were again doing business to-day, all being in the Crescent block, the only business structure left standing.

Notwithstanding the extent of the calamity the people wear a cheerful air and bear their losses bravely. Many business men have already signified their intention to rebuild.

Spokane was one of the most prominent of the many new cities in the infant State of Washington. Situated on the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad close to the Cœur d'Alene mining region, the city has been the site for many large industrial establishments, such as smelters and kindred enterprises. Expensive public edifices had also been recently erected, and the population was easily supporting two prosperous daily papers.

Spokane's Losses and Insurance.

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—An insurance journal estimates the total loss by the Spokane Falls fire at $6,000,000, and the total insurance at $2,339,300; of which $1,840,700 is held by companies having agencies in this city, and $489,600 by Oregon, Seattle, and various eastern companies not represented here. The losses are widely distributed, the single amounts ranging from $2,500 to $80,000.

$1,000 for the Sufferers.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 6.—Jonathan G. Clark of this city, owner of a flour mill in Spokane Falls, W. T., telegraphed a contribution of $1,000 toward the relief of sufferers by the fire there.

A Prominent Methodist Dead.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 6.—Dr. C. R. Robbins, a prominent Methodist worker, died at his home here, aged 72. Early in life he practiced medicine in Rochester, N. Y., but since 1860 has been a manufacturer of court plaster.

Ice Cream Poisoning.

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 6.—It was learned to-day that Richard J. Smith, his wife and two sons ate heartily of ice cream at their home here, and shortly after all were taken violently ill. A physician was summoned and found the four rolling on the floor in agony. The victims are now out of danger although still very sick. They had previously used the extract with which the cream was flavored without evil results.

Crosby's Suit Against Russell Harrison.

New York, Aug. 6.—The suit of Col. Schuyler Crosby against Russell B. Harrison for $100,000 damages for libel, came up in the Supreme Court Chambers, before Judge Ingraham, on a motion to compel the defendant to put in an answer. After hearing argument on both sides the Judge reserved his decision.

DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.

Six Masked Men Stop an Express on the Denver and Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 5.—The south-bound Fort Worth and Denver mail and express train was robbed by six masked men between Cheyenne and Tascosa, Texas, about three hundred and seventy-five miles from Fort Worth.

The passenger coaches were detached from the locomotive and the engineer forced to pull his engine ahead a few yards and then walk back and force the express car open with a pick.

Express Messenger Marsh, realizing the situation, concealed all the express packages and put out the lights, and the thieves secured but three packages of express matter, which was but a small portion of what was in the car.

The mail agent was next compelled to open his car, and the mail matter was searched for valuables. The mail agent managed to hide the most valuable registered packages, and the entire amount of money secured in both cars will not exceed $2,000.

The passengers were not molested.

After the robbery the bandits ordered the engineer to pull out and fired a parting shot at the train. They then made their escape.

A BLAZE IN NEW JERSEY.

Several Buildings in Stanhope Destroyed and Alleged Incendiaries Arrested.

Stanhope, N. J., Aug. 6.—A fire here yesterday destroyed the fancy goods store of George Rosary in the Cresson building, causing a loss of $4,000.

The Stine, the Valentine and the Krumcolt buildings adjoining were also damaged to the extent of $12,000. All the buildings were only partially insured.

Rosary and his wife were arrested on suspicion of having set the buildings on fire.

They both claim the fire was the result of an accident, caused by throwing a lighted match on the floor.

A Collision at Portage.

Portage, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Yesterday morning while the morning train for Rochester on the Western New York and Penna. Railroad was being made up here, the through freight, east bound, dashed around the curve and struck the passenger coaches, demolishing one and derailing others. Conductor W. S. Godfrey of the passenger train had his shoulder broken and Express Messenger Frank Bristol received serious internal injuries which may prove fatal. Fortunately no passengers had boarded the train at the time of the accident. The cause of the collision is to be investigated.

A Carriage Dealer Skips to Canada.

Rockville, Conn., Aug. 6.—The stock of Fred. H. Scharff, manufacturer and dealer in carriages, wagons, etc., has been attached by Cyrus White. Scharff left the city last week and his present whereabouts are not known to his creditors. It is thought that he has gone to Canada with a considerable sum of money. The liabilities are large and the assets here small. It is stated that he bought on time a number of carriages which he sold for less than cost. He has a number of notes outstanding due to-day.

The Wilkesbarre Club Disbands.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 6.—The Wilkesbarre Baseball Club has disbanded. It was to have played at Newark yesterday and the members were on their way to the depot when they were informed by a messenger who had come from a meeting of the directors, that it had been decided to disband. The management claim that the club had been discriminated against by the New England clubs of the Atlantic League. All the players, it is said, will be paid in full.

Members of Parliament Indignant.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 6.—Last night in speaking of the seizure of the sealer Black Diamond, in Behring Sea, D. W. Higgins, M. P., said: "In the face of the President's proclamation, false and misleading as it is, the United States must either recede from their absurd, unrighteous claim, or go ahead, even though the peaceful relations of the two countries are smashed. The attitude of the Washington Government is untenable and outrageous."

John Grant, M. P., Mayor of Victoria, said: "While the contention and acts of the Government of the United States as to control over Behring Sea in connection with the sealing industry are unwarranted and extraordinary, the lack of action by the British Government on the same question is more culpable and prompts one to ask if the subjects of the Dominion of Canada are under the protection of the British flag or not."

Robert Ward, president of the British Columbia Board of Trade, said: "The tardy settlement of the claims of the schooner seized by the United States, and the recent capture of the Black Diamond have combined in producing a strong feeling of distrust and irritation which it might be difficult to restrain, unless steps are at once taken to prevent a repetition of outrages on the British bottoms engaged in lawful pursuits on the high seas."

Anxious to Go to State Prison.

Poughkeepsie, Aug. 6.—Officer Morgan arrived yesterday from Nashua, N. H., with John C. Bradley and wife, who desired to be brought back to jail for robbing Vail's store in Hibernia. Both will plead guilty and will gladly serve their sentence.

A CABINET EXODUS

The President and His Secretaries Leave Washington.

TO GO TO BOSTON TO-MORROW.

Mr. Harrison Will Visit Secretary Blaine at Bar Harbor.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker in Saratoga—Important Appointments by the President—Wm. T. Harris of Massachusetts, Commissioner of Education—A Collector of Customs for Vermont—District-Attorney Walker's Resignation Accepted.

Washington, Aug. 6.—There was a Cabinet exodus from Washington today. The President, accompanied by Secretaries Windom and Proctor and Private Secretary Halford left here at 9:40 this morning on a special car attached to the regular train on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

At New York this evening they will take the Fall River boat for Boston, arriving there to-morrow morning. Secretaries Windom and Proctor will not accompany the President to Bar Harbor, but will remain in Boston to transact some business.

Solicitor Walker Blaine will meet the President at Boston and escort him to Bar Harbor on Thursday. Messrs Windom and Proctor will be away about a week.

Secretary Tracy, who has been suffering from a slight attack of dysentery, will go to Brooklyn this afternoon for a short stay. Attorney-General Miller will leave for Indianapolis this evening. He will return in two weeks. Secretary Noble will probably take a short vacation beginning at the end of this week.

A Batch of Appointments.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The President yesterday made the following appointments: Joseph A. Clark of Maine, Pension Agent at Augusta, Me.; William T. Harris of Massachusetts, to be Commissioner of Education; John T. Rankin of Pennsylvania, Deputy Auditor of the Treasury for the Postoffice Department; Granville G. Benedict of Vermont, Collector of Customs for the District of Vermont; Henry Hebing of New York, Collector of Customs for the District of Genesee, New York. Secretary Windom said to-day that Captain M. M. Hurley, who was recently appointed Third Auditor of the Treasury Department, declined to accept the position because he was tendered a more lucrative one with a Southern railroad company.

Mr. Wanamaker at Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker, with his family, arrived here last night from Philadelphia, and is quartered at the States, where he expects to spend several weeks.

His Resignation Accepted.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The President accepted the resignation of Stephen A. Walker, United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, to take effect when his successor is appointed.

A Dinner to the Blaine Family.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Patterson, daughter of Joseph Medill of Chicago and sister of Mrs. McCormick, wife of the Secretary of Legation at London, gave a dinner at the Walvern last night to Secretary Blaine and Mrs. Blaine's guests, Walker Blaine, the Misses Blaine, and the Misses Simpins and McComb. Afterward the party attended a dance.

Rev. Dr. Geo. Z. Gray Dead.

New York, July 6.—The Rev. Dr. George Zabriskie Gray, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge, Mass., died yesterday at Sharon Springs, N. Y., after a long illness, from Bright's disease. He was 51 years of age.

SULLIVAN OUT AGAIN.

He Is Removed from Jackson to Marion County, Miss., for Trial.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 6.—John L. Sullivan was taken from jail yesterday for a hearing before Judge Campbell upon a writ of habeas corpus. The Judge ordered that he be at once taken to Marion county to answer for the crime charged against him, the courts of Hinds county having nothing to do with the case.

Doubts About Kilrain's Arrest.

Baltimore, Aug. 6.—There is considerable doubt here as to the correctness of the report that Jake Kilrain had been arrested. Two despatches have been received from different sources in Virginia, and it is a case of "pay your money and take your choice." One despatch is from Norfolk which says that Kilrain was arrested at Ocean View and taken back to Hampton; the other is from Hampton, saying that Kilrain had not arrived there and that he was not under arrest.

Death of a Noted Hotel Keeper.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 6.—Horace Leland, one of the celebrated family of hotel proprietors of that name, died in this city yesterday morning.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The next holiday is Labor Day, falling on Monday, Sept. 2.

—There is one crop that has never been known to fail and that is the crop of flies.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders today made a tour of inspection of the bridges throughout the county.

—Builders desiring to bid for the erection of a two-story frame house at Bergen Point, will do well to consult our "Want" column.

—Jacob Snyder was brought before Judge Stillman, yesterday, charged with using foul and abusive language. He was fined five dollars.

—Prof. Reynard, from Paris, will jump from a tower 150 feet above Jamaica Bay, in full view from Rockaway Beach, on Thursday next, at 2 and 4:30 P. M.

—The odor, last evening, from an arrogated dumping ground at Grove street and Green Brook road, North Plainfield, was most unhealthy and unpleasant.

—The New Jersey sons of temperance will have a grand reunion at Boynton Beach to-morrow. Members of Howell Division of this city will attend.

—There is said to be an unusual number of tramps for the time of year. Probably they are the advance guard of those who will visit the city in the Fall and Winter.

—The Union County Freeholders solicit proposals for grading, improving and macadamizing county roads from Elizabeth to Plainfield, Rahway and New Providence.

—There are said to be huge spots on the sun now, but what's the use of calling attention to them when the sun doesn't stay out long enough to allow a glimpse of them?

—A number of young men who were acting in a disorderly manner on the Boulevard, Sunday, will be given a hearing before the City Judge, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

—At a late meeting of the Executive Committee of the Fifteenth Regiment N. J. Volunteers, held at Newark, it was decided to hold their annual reunion this year in Lambertville, on Thursday, 29th inst.

—Mr. W. Love, of Three Bridges, will hold his annual clam bake on Packer Island, on Thursday, August 8. The Clinton Cornet Band will be present during the day, and Frazee's orchestra, of Plainfield, in the evening, to furnish music for dancing.

—The Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central railroads are using slag from the Pennsylvania iron furnaces for ballast in place of stone. It is light and absorbs the water quickly, and is a good deal cheaper than stone, while it makes a good road ballast and a bad walk for tramps.

—If you want to enjoy the finest trip of the season, go along with the Reform Club excursion to Rockaway, per steamer Grand Republic, (both ways), on Thursday next, 8th inst. The great improvements made there within two years, renders it one of the finest watering places on the coast.

—Travelers by rail are complaining of the unusual damages to trunks this season by baggage-smashers. There is talk of a law requiring baggage to be sent in a train by itself, and then there would be time to handle it with care. Under the present system it is fired out of the cars to allow the trains to make time.

—Joseph Sullivan of W. Third street, was a defendant in the City Court, today, charged by Chief Carey with keeping "open house" and selling liquor on Saturday and Sunday last. He pleaded not guilty on both charges, and Judge Stillman held him in the sum of $200 bail to appear for trial in the City Court room to-morrow at 10 A. M.

Death of Mr. Peter Kaeding

The sad announcement is made today of the death of Peter, son of William and Henrietta Kaeding, which occurred at his parents' residence, in North Plainfield, yesterday, from consumption. The deceased was in the twenty-first year of his age, and had been ailing for a long time. A brother of the deceased was lying in the same room suffering from the same complaint, and nearing the end, when the angel of death entered the bed chamber and called one of the brothers to his long home. The other son will doubtless soon follow.

The funeral will take place at Warren Mission chapel on Thursday at 2 P. M.

IS THIS RACHEL'S HUSBAND?

He Tells How He Got a Wife Through a Matrimonial Broker and Wound up in Jail.

A New York reporter has been making a visit to the Bastile in Ludlow street, that city, where poor debtors are held in confinement indefinitely and shut off from their friends. Among the prisoners interviewed was one who is said to be the late husband of Miss Rachel Drier of this city.

He is described as a bright, handsome young man, under thirty years of age. He had no hesitation in presenting his case and asserted that he is the victim of a conspiracy to harass and destroy him. He is a foreigner and some years ago was in business in New York city selling dry goods. All his troubles arise out of a matrimonial speculation, and he is quick to declare that, according to his experience marriage is a first-class failure. At a date not very far back the friend of a "matrimonial broker" called on him with the inquiry if he would like to marry. The result of this inquiry was that a meeting took place in the broker's office between this young business man and a woman and her daughter, living then and living now in a Jersey town not many miles from New York. The woman wanted a son-in-law, the daughter wanted a husband, and the services of the brokers were engaged. A visit to the Jersey town followed in a few days. The young woman's parents were in comfortable, not to say affluent circumstances. She herself was good looking and an engagement took place. The old people agreed to give a dowry of $1,500, and a check for that amount was deposited in a Jersey bank to the joint credit of the young business man and the prospective bride. They were married and in due time living in New York city, with the money, less a few hundred dollars paid to a partner for his interest in the business, snugly laid away in a financial institution not far from the Cooper Union.

A CLOUDED HONEYMOON.

This matrimonial venture did not prove a fortunate or a happy one, and the mother-in-law and bride of a few months wanted a divorce. There were no grounds for one, and the mother-in-law and wife persuaded him to furnish cause, which he did. He was assured that in the event of a divorce being obtained they would never trouble him again and let the dowry go. The papers in the case were then drawn up and on the assurance of not being molested in the future in any way, whether for alimony or anything else, he consented to go to Europe and let the divorce proceedings go ahead in the courts without offering a defense. Previous to his departure, however, he gave his wife, at the request of her mother, a written paper which may be vaguely described as a certificate of character. "She was going to be married again," the mother said, "and it was for the purpose of making everything all right." Having succeeded so easily in this, she (the mother-in-law) endeavored to induce him to give a check for the $1,500 on the Jersey Bank, where there was now no money.

The old lady declared that it would never be presented. The sole object was to show the friends in the Jersey town that the parents had got their money back as well as their daughter. The prisoner says he did sign a check for the amount, but something having excited his suspicions that all was not right, he tore it up. While in Europe he regretted having consented to a divorce and wrote repeatedly offering to renew relations as man and wife. His letters were never answered. On his return he sent a friend over to the Jersey town to ask if they were willing to withdraw the suit, but receiving no satisfactory reply he went to a distant Western State, and after a few months drifted back again to New York.

COMEDY AND TRAGEDY.

What tragedies and comedies are going on every day in the streets of this city, if they could only be known! Walking one day along Park Row, this prisoner up in Ludlow Street Jail, who had been so curiously married, who had gone to Europe as a step in getting himself unmarried again, who had been writing letters across the ocean from London and Paris and Amsterdam to the little Jersey town and never getting a reply, who had gone to a far Western State and come back again—this young man, as he was walking along Park Row, met the old matrimonial broker, who said to him: "If you want to marry back that girl I can bring it about."

He wanted $200 for his services, which was cheap or dear, according to the way it is looked at. Her father and mother were not very sure that it would be possible to have another marriage of their daughter to the man from whom she had been divorced; but he wrote her a letter and one morning mother and daughter took a train at the quiet station to come to New York on this curious errand. There was a meeting at one of the ferries; visits to several restaurants at which the wine flowed, and in a few hours the former wife had on her finger an engagement ring, studded with diamonds, that had cost several hundred guilders in Amsterdam during that European trip which had been made to enable her to secure a divorce. But to make an ending. The result is that there is a prisoner in the Bastile, sued on a note for $1,500 by the old people in the quiet Jersey town, which note he solemnly declares bears his forged signature. He freely declares that they do not care for the money; that they do not want it and that he is merely the victim of their malice and of mother-in-law hatred.

—It is really pleasant—the weather today.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Now We Know We're Safe.

The following communication was read at last evening's meeting:

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Since the late freshet, Mr. Isaac W. Pangborn, master mason and builder, and myself, have made a careful personal examination of the dam, known as the "big dam," at Feltville, and we became entirely satisfied that at present there is not the slightest danger to be apprehended from that source.

This communication is submitted to your honorable body in justice to Mr. Warren Ackerman, the owner of the dam, who has done all that could be demanded during the exciting period of alarm through which we have just passed, and further, in order that the public may know that there is no present cause of alarm.

Respectfully submitted,
ISAAC W. PANGBORN,
JOB MALE, Mayor.

Aug. 5, 1889.

Why Not Try it Here?

The following printed notice has been sent out among the property owners in North Plainfield, and in almost every instance has been complied with:

OFFICE OF THE STREET COMMISSIONER.
NORTH PLAINFIELD, N. J., 1889.

MR. :——— You are hereby notified and requested to have the branches of the trees, along the street in front of your premises, trimmed to a height not less than ten feet from the surface of the ground; in accordance with the requirement of Borough ordinance, passed Aug. 9, 1888.

By order
GEO. CONOVER,
Street Commissioner.

Township Committee Meeting.

A special meeting of the North Plainfield Township Committee was held last evening, with President Coddington in the chair. All the members were present. About the only important business transacted was the adoption of a resolution authorizing the expenditure of $3,000 for repairs to the roads which suffered by the late flood.

Under a new law the Township Committee has the power to raise money for similar purposes without calling a special election to have the voters decide upon the amount. The money will be borrowed on three notes of $1,000 each, payable annually, the first note to mature in 1890.

How the news Builds Up the "Queen City."

The feeling of indignation against the news by those who have already commenced the building of apartment houses in this city, has become very intense.

The effect of the publication in other papers of reports from the news to the effect that Plainfield is "torn through its heart" and is now "only a disheveled likeness of its former self," will be to drive away any who were, or might have been, coming to this city to live.

A Barn Destroyed by Lightning.

During the heavy shower between seven and eight o'clock Saturday morning, the lightning struck a large barn on a road between El Mora and Roselle. Instantly the flames burst from the roof, and the building was destroyed. The barn was some distance from the Central Railroad, but the occurrence was witnessed by the passengers of a passing train. The barn was the property of Mr. Kipling.

Escaped from the Borough Lockup.

During yesterday afternoon Special Marshal Pangborn of North Plainfield found a drunken man on Craig place, and escorted him to the borough lockup, where he was assigned a cell and given an opportunity to sober up. Between five and six o'clock the prisoner kicked out a section of the cell and escaped, coming direct to this city.

Who Is He?

A New York paper this morning says: "Henry H. Allen, 46 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height, medium build, dark complexion, black eyes and hair, and wearing when last seen a dark suit and black derby hat, is missing from his home in Plainfield, N. J. His friends say he is insane. He carried a leather satchel and two umbrellas."

MID-SUMMER'S NIGHT'S MEETING.

Council in Regular Session Last Evening—Bids and Specifications Received and Read for Water Works—The "Dam Question" Placed on File—The Mayor Reports no Danger at Feltville.

When President Dumont called the Common Council to order in its regular meeting, last evening, there were present besides himself. Councilmen Dunham, Erickson, Jenkins, Marsh, Moffett, Myers and Newhall. There were absent, Messrs Gallup, Squires and Watson. The hour of beginning was 8:20. The hour of closing was midnight.

Mayor Male, Corporation Counsel Marsh, Street Commissioner Angleman, County Road Surveyor Dunham, Chief of Police Carey, ex-Tax Collector Brown, Chief of Fire Department Doane, Assessor Hubbard, about a dozen would-be contractors for the city's coming water works, and Mr. Hugh Gilligan, were also present, but Mr. Hugh Midity was gratifyingly absent. On a chair at the left of the clerk's table, was a huge pile of bids for the water works franchise and specifications therefore.

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the President instructed the clerk to read any communications he had received in relation to the matter of water works. As the documents were piled up, the clerk read from the top, and the last received was read first. It was from Wheeler & Parks of Boston, and the testmonials attached were omitted; but the accompanying certified check of $2,000 as a guarantee of good faith, was not overlooked.

After an elaborate specification of what they would build in the way of a plant, and what service would be guaranteed, the bidders proposed to pay the city $5,000 for an exclusive franchise until such time as the city might choose to purchase the works. They would furnish water free to all public buildings, including schools, public drinking fountains, and for the flushing of sewers. The city to pay $6,000 a year for the 200 hydrants specified, and $30 per annum for each additional hydrant. After ten years the city should have the privilege of purchasing the works at their original cost, plus ten per cent. and six per cent. per year in addition. Or the bidders, Wheeler & Parks, would enter into contract to complete the works as required and indicated at actual cost thereof with an added compensation not to exceed 15 per cent.

The Commonwealth Water Company of Newark, stated that after a careful examination of the specifications presented by the Council, it was found impossible to make a proposition under them that would be satisfactory, although their company was particularly well fitted to furnish the city of Plainfield with a satisfactory water supply. The correspondent requested a conference with the Water Committee.

Messrs Malcolm Peters, of Philadelphia, John Lockwood & Son, of New York, J. M. Lowe, of Kingston, Moffett, Hodgkins & Clark, of Watertown, Chas. K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell, E. C. Woltmann and E. F. Fuller, and Francis H. Smith, of New York, also presented bids and specifications which were read and referred to the Water Committee to be reported on at a meeting of the Council to be held on the 16th day of September.

The various specifications provided for the procuring of the water from subterranean wells, from Green and Cedar Brooks, and from the Passaic River near Union Village. The water to be thoroughly filtered and pumped into steel stand pipes thirty feet in diameter with an altitude of 202 feet above the level at Park avenue and Front street. The works to be completed in from six to twelve months.

The different bids offered the city hydrants at $15, $30 and $45 respectively—the highest price being in case the water supply was obtained from Passaic River.

Each bid was accompanied by a certified check of $2,000, which the clerk was instructed to hand the treasurer for deposit in the bank, unendorsed, for safe keeping.

Charles Hand proposed to erect a City Hall on Second street and rent it for five years to the city with privilege of purchase. It was referred.

L. W. Serrell asked the Corporation Counsel to obtain injunctions against the rebuilding of any broken dams, and to discover if the public have any rights that the dam owners are bound to respect.

Mr. Marsh moved that this dam question be filed, and offered a resolution in relation to it.

Mr. Marsh's resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That the Corporation Counsel be requested to inform the Council by the next meeting whether the city can in any action at law prevent the building or rebuilding of any dam on Green Brook within or beyond the city limits, not required for milling purposes, and also whether the city can require adequate flood gates in any dams along said Green Brook that may be built or rebuilt.

Resolved, That the Mayor and Corporation Counsel are authorized and requested forwith to confer and co-operate with county and township authorities in any action that may be deemed necessary in the premises or to proceed independently in behalf of the city of Plainfield to protect the city and the citizens of Plainfield against improperly constructed dams.

The following claims were presented, referred, and subsequently ordered paid, amounting to in the general fund, $2,525.19; fire department, $735.58; poor fund, $779.50:

The treasurer's, collector's and city physcian's reports were received and filed.

The mayor reported that there was not the slightest danger from the big dam at Feltville, which report was endorsed by Isaac W. Pangborn.

It was moved that when the Council adjourned it be to meet on the 20th day of August.

Samuel H. Allen, janitor at the public library, was nominated by the mayor as a special policeman and confirmed by the Council.

A crosswalk was ordered laid across Third place at Ninth street.

Mr. Marsh, from the Committee on Streets, reported that Mr. Daft had repeatedly assured them that the only delay in his exhibition of his proposed electric street railway was because of the delay in the construction of the special car for the purpose. The Committee than suggested that an ordinary car be fitted up. Subsequently, early in July, Mr. Daft told the Committee that he had countermanded his first order for the model car, and had ordered one from another firm, that would be ready in about twenty days. Since then Mr. Marsh said, no communication had been received from Mr. Daft.

It was thereupon by the Council unanimously resolved, that the time allowed Mr. Daft be extended until the first day of September, and if the promised exhibition be not arranged by that time, all privileges granted him will be annulled and the street railway propositions of others be then opened for consideration.

Fifteen hundred dollars were appropriated for street repairs.

Councilman Jenkins suggested that the Council consider the lake behind the awful Feltville dam as a source of water supply for the city.

The Council then adjourned.

A BIG REVENUE.

The Government's Receipts From the Sale of Postage Stamps.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A statement prepared by the Post Office Department shows that annually about two billion postage stamps are used in this country, for which the Government receives $40,000,000.

These stamps cost the Government as follows: Common variety, a fraction over 6 cents, special delivery 18 cents, and postal cards 40 cents per 1,000. As the lowest denomination sell for $10 per 1,000, the Government reaps enormous profits, which go toward paying the expenses of carrying the mails, etc.

In the sale of stamps the New York postoffice heads the list and disposes of one-tenth of the total quantity sold. Other leading cities follow in the order named: Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, San Francisco, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Kansas City, Rochester, Washington, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Louisville, Providence, Albany Indianapolis, Newark, Hartford.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

RIOTING STRIKERS

The Trouble at Connellsville Becoming Serious.

OVER 11,000 MEN NOW IDLE.

Houses Broken Into at the Alice Mines and the Inmates Forced Out.

It May Become Necessary to Order Out the Militia—A Larger Number of Men Idle Than in the 1886 Strike—Only Two Plants Working in the Coke Region. Mass Meetings Held To-Day—Nail Makers on Strike at Wheeling.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 6.—The strike in the Connellsville coke region is becoming a serious matter. There was a riot at the Alice mines yesterday when thirty of the strikers broke open the doors of the houses occupied by workmen and compelled the inmates to flee. Some of the men and women were seriously hurt. They were told that if they returned to work again while the strike was on they would be severely dealt with.

The sheriff of Uniontown has been notified and will order deputies on duty but in may become necessary to call out the militia.

11,000 Men Out.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 6.—The works of J. W. Moore & Co. and J. M. Schoonmaker & Co. are the only large plants in the Connellsville region that are working. The strike leaders expect that the men now working will join the strike this afternoon. The number of men now idle exceeds 11,000, which is a much larger number than engaged in the strike of 1886. The operators have little or nothing to say. Mass meetings are being held to-day at all the places where men are at work.

Nailers Strike at Wheeling.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 6.—The McLaughlin nail mill yesterday started to make cut steel nails of the lighter gauge, equalizing the number per pound with wire nails. After working two hours, the nailers generally struck, claiming the reduced gauge made a reduction in the earning of a machine of 20 to 30 per cent. The Western Cut Nail Association recently adopted the small gauge, and when put into effect in other mills the strike will in all probability become general.

On Account of the Coke Strike.

READING, Pa., Aug. 6.—On account of the scarcity of coke caused by the strike in the coke district, the blast furnace at Topton, which was to have resumed operations this morning, will have to be idle for some time.

Puddlers Ask for an Advance.

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 6.—The Lebanon Iron Company's, Light's Rolling Mill and the West End Rolling Mill puddlers have notified their employers that after August 10 an increase of 35 cents would be expected.

A DOZEN INJURED.

Serious Accident on the Reading Railroad at Tabor Station.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Yesterday a collision occurred on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Tabor Station, between a wild engine and the down-train by which a number of persons were injured, and some of them quite seriously. Both engines were considerably damaged, and the baggage-car and smoker were partly telescoped. The injured were all men, only those in the baggage and smoking-car being hurt. Those who received the worst injuries were as follows:

F. Pulaski, of 1818 Franklin street, Philadelphia, hurt about face; P. W. Fallady, Glenside, hurt about face and lip; James McGonigle, Ashbourn, face and jaw injured; George Fry, Philadelphia (engineer of the wild engine), arm fractured; Robert Mercer, Oak Lane, cut about the face; Rudolph F. Grichwitz, 734 Sansom st., Philadelphia, cut about the face; E. Tibbebaum, Georgia, incised lip wound.

They were taken to the Jewish Hospital, which is only about 300 feet away from the scene of the accident, upon the order of President Hackenburg, of the institution, who was on the train. The accident was caused by Engineer Fry on engine 99 losing control of it at Wayne Junction, while going north on the south bound track. He states that when he attempted to reverse the engine there the valves would not work, and despite all his efforts it went ahead up the track. He threw rails in front of it several times and filled the boilers with water, but this appeared to do no good.

Pronounced Ridiculous.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 6.—The scheme to buy up the cotton mills of this city and of the country as well is looked upon by mill owners as absurd. "A syndicate could gain nothing by purchasing a controlling interest in cotton mills in this country even if it were practicable," said a well-known manufacturer. "The only possible object a trust of this kind could have in view would be to corner the market in cloth. As soon as that was done, the printers would build their own mills, or if the syndicate forced prices high enough English manufacturers would come in and flood the country with goods. The idea is a ridiculous one."

100 Young Women on Strike.

READING, Pa., Aug. 6.—Owing to a reduction in wages from 14 to 12 cents per dozen in stockings over 100 young women employed by the Reading Hosiery Mills have gone on strike. The girls held a meeting and resolved not to go back until their grievances were righted.

The Vidette Released.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 6.—The American schooner Vidette, seized at Canso for customs violation, was released this morning.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S STATEMENT.

Her Account of the Deeds of Which She Is Accused—Sensation in Court.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 6.—The evidence in the Maybrick poisoning case was conducted yesterday after Mrs. Maybrick read her statement.

She explained the presence of fly papers in the house by saying that she had bought them for use as cosmetics. For many years she had used a cosmetic prescribed by Dr. Griggs, of Brooklyn, which contained arsenic. She had lost the prescription and wishing to make a substitute she soaked the fly papers in elderflower water and lavender water, and had covered the vessel containing the mixture with a plate and a towel to exclude the air.

Continuing, Mrs. Maybrick said: "On the night of May 9, after the nurse in attendance upon my husband had given him some meat juice, I went and sat by his bead. He complained of being very sick and depressed, and implored me to give him a powder. Earlier in the day he made a similar request, and I had declined to administer the powder. But that evening I was overwrought, terribly anxious and miserably unhappy.

"His distress unnerved me, and as he said the powder was harmless and I could put it in his food, I consented to mix it with some meat juice, which I gave to him. After taking it deceased fell asleep, and appeared better on awakening. I was not anxious to administer the powder. Afterward I placed the bottle containing the meat juice on the washstand, where it remained until Michael Maybrick, my brother-in-law, took possession of it.

"The day before my husband died I made a full confession to him of a fearful wrong I had done him and received his forgiveness."

The statement caused a sensation in the court room.

BURKE IN CHICAGO.

Landed Safely Behind the Bars at the Harrison Street Station.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Martin Burke, the Cronin suspect, handcuffed to two detectives, was dropped from the St. Paul train about six blocks from the Union Depot last night, and from there driven in a carriage at lightning speed to the Harrison Street Station and placed in a cell.

At the depot was a squad of policemen waiting ostensibly to escort Burke from the depot, but really to act as a decoy for the reporters.

There were very few people about the police station, and no one save the police authorities knew of Burke's arrival until he had been safely placed behind the bars.

Worthington Has a Sister in Vermont.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Aug. 6.—Crawford, the bigamist known in New York as A. Bentley Worthington, has a sister here, but she knows nothing of his whereabouts, and had not heard of him for years until the recent revelations of his career were published. Some persons who were interested in tracing him have been watching for him in this vicicinity but have given up the search.

Shot and Thrown Into the River.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—At the autopsy over the body of the unknown man found floating with the tide opposite Cedar Hill yesterday, the Coroner decided that the deceased did not meet his death by drowning, but that he had been shot and thrown into the river. A 32-calibre bullet was found at the base of the brain. Nothing is known of his identity.

Have Bandits Captured Her?

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 6.—Word reaches here via Bar Harbor, that Mrs. George Pendleton Bowler has been captured by bandits in Italy. She is the widow of George Pendleton Bowler, of this city. She has travelled in Europe for many years, living chiefly in Paris and London.

Had Enough in Two Minutes.

BUFFALO, Aug. 6.—Paddy Brennan, a big Buffalo bruiser, tried to earn $200 last night by withstanding the blows of the Australian pugilist, Peter Jackson, for four rounds. The fight lasted two and a quarter minutes, when Brennan's nose was split and he was retired for repairs.

A Dam Gives Way in Maine.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 6.—The Cameo Mill dam at Bonny Eagle gave way yesterday and 100 feet of it was washed away. The water was lowered six feet, leaving thousands of logs high and dry on the shores of the pond. The immediate damages are $2,000.

A Turf Scandal Promised.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Peter Walden is displeased with the start which his horse Drizzle got in one of last week's races at Monmouth, and he has prepared written charges of such a character that their investigation promises to develop a great turf scandal.

Stole Because She Was Starving.

QUINCY, Mass. Aug. 6.—Susie Brown, the female burglar who was caught in Horace Abercome's house at Braintree, was arraigned here to-day. She plead guilty and said she had to steal because she was starving. She was committed to Dedham jail.

Tramps Blow Open a Safe.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The safe of Dye Bros., merchants, of Alleghany, was blown open by burglars this morning and a large sum of money and bonds were stolen. The robbery is believed to have been done by a gang of tramps.

No Fall Meeting at Pimlico Park.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—At a meeting of the executive officers of the Maryland Jockey Club here it was decided not to hold a fall meeting at Pimlico Park this year.

Mgr. Doane Made Prothonotary Apostolic.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A cable despatch has been received from Rome announcing that the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Doane, of Newark, N. J., has been made Prothonotary Apostolic.

A MODERN SOLOMON.

How He Won the Undying Love of Womanhood.

Rough-and-Ready Decisions Handed Down by a Philadelphia Justice of the Peace—A Woman's Right to "Sass" Her Lesser Half.

"A woman has a right to 'sass' her husband."

"A man who has lived for six years with a woman who has a tongue like a bell-clapper has had a full share of punishment."

The Solomon who utters these decisions, which have a smattering of common sense if not of law, is big bluff Magistrate Bob Smith. His correct name, says the Philadelphia Record, is Robert R. Smith, but he is addressed by his full name only by utter strangers. From one end of the city to the other he is known as "Bob."

"Bob doesn't care so much for the law, but he goes in for justice. The place for him is in the common pleas or in the Supreme Court. We want less law and more justice these days, and that's where he's strong," said one of the habitues of police headquarters.

This opinion is shared by all the frequenters of Fifth and Chestnut, and each year adds to the luster which the upright justice's decisions have given to the Central station ermine. He has been holding court there on and off for nearly fifteen years, and previous to that time he dispensed even-handed justice as an alderman. No magistrate is so well known in Philadelphia, and the fame of his decisions and judicial utterances has been carried to distant States. The magistrate is of sturdy frame, with a ruddy face and bright eyes, and he speaks in a sharp, off-hand way that carries terror to the evil-doer. He has passed the half-century mark by several years, but carries his age with a careless, easy grace, and still delights in red neckties and button-hole bouquets.

The especial antipathy of the judge is a wife-beater or a husband who has in other ways been remiss in his marital relations. His language to such offenders is severe. "You big, hulking brute," he said to one of those creatures awhile ago, "it's a pity the whipping-post was ever abolished. Fellows like you ought to be tied up and lashed."

The judge is an ardent advocate of the restoration of the whipping-post for certain offenses committed by men, and it has been said that he also favors a return to the ducking-stool as a method of punishment for women of unruly tongue. He looks upon a common scold as being almost as bad as a wife-beater.

"Now shut up and get out of here, all of you!" he has been heard to say when a lot of wrangling women get to squabbling and bandying words in the sacred precincts of his court. "I've heard all I want to from you. Skip now, or I'll put you under bail."

But the most recent decisions of the magistrate have won for him the undying love of womanhood. He has decided that it is a woman's right to "sass" her husband. The occasion of this queer decision arose from a suit brought by an up-town woman against her husband.

"He beat me until I was black and blue," the woman testified.

"What did you do that for, you brute?" said the justice.

"She sassed me," replied the husband.

"Well, a woman has a right to sass her husband," retorted Justice Smith. "Find $1,000 bail. Madame, you go home and leave this fellow to me."

The ink had scarcely dried on the decision in this case when another attracted the attention of the justice. A woman with a rather lively tongue appeared against a man she called her husband. The fellow was as meek as Moses, and about twenty-five years older than the woman. She started off with her story at a 180-words-a-minute gait.

"Hold on!" cried the magistrate.

"He's a beast," said the woman.

"How long have you been married to that tongue?" asked the justice.

"Six years," replied his meekness in the dock.

"You've been punished enough. Open the gate and let him go," said Smith.

If there is one point more than another upon which the justice prides himself it is his memory of the faces of criminals and others who have stood before him at the bar of justice.

"How long since you served time?" he thunders at a culprit whom he thinks he has seen before in his court.

"Why, judge, I never served time," the trembling wretch answers, in all probability.

"Hold up your 'forks'" (the criminals' slang for hands).

Taken by surprise, the prisoner often holds up his hands, showing conclusively that he understands the jargon, and is in all probability a criminal. The crooked class all fear the justice, and would sooner meet a caged lion. He can address hundreds of them by their first names, and when he does not know it he frequently pretends that he does in a spirit of pleasantry.

Beginning life as a machinist, Judge Smith in these latter years has turned his attention to agriculture, and is famous as a gentleman farmer at North Wales, on the North Penn railroad. He carries into farming the same direct methods that have distinguished him as a justice, and sometimes uses his knowledge of farming with great effect in his court.

"So you are a farm hand, are you?" he has been known to say to some unfortunate brought before him at Fifth and Chestnut streets, and who has given that as his occupation. "Well, now, how would you irrigate a field of rutabagas?"

This generally has the effect of breaking up the supposed farm hand, and the judge smiles triumphantly at his unmasking of such deception.

Curing a Nervous Horse.

A Brooklyn horse lately suffered an injury to one of his feet, and for some time traveled on three legs. Finally the wound was perfectly healed, but still the animal refused to put that hoof to the ground. A veterinary surgeon was called in, who made an examination and then pronounced it simply a case of nervousness. "Strap up the other hind foot and you'll see," he said. This was done and the injured foot was thus forced into use. It did not take a block's travel to show the horse that his nervous fears were groundless, and when the strap was removed he trotted off squarely on four feet.

Married Somewhat Late.

From Warasdin, in Croatia, a correspondent hears that a spinster named Catharina Dominico, aged eighty-three, has been led to the matrimonial altar by a tramway conductor of that district, thirty-seven years her junior. To make the case still more imposing, the bride was accompanied to church by her mother, who is no less than one hundred and seventeen years of age! The old lady is said to have been in an ecstasy of delight at having been allowed to live long enough to see her "child" married.

POOR JOHN ASTOR.

A Member of the Wealthy Family Who Has Had Hard Luck.

John Astor, of 418 East Sixteenth street, is a member of the famous Astor family, whose aggregated wealth in New York amounts to some $300,000,000. John Astor's appearance, education, business and mode of life, however, give no indication of the kinship, writes the Boston Herald's New York correspondent. His income is rarely more than $8 or $9 a week, and he earns it by making cigars nine hours every day in an East side factory. He lives in two rooms in the rear of a crowded tenement house. His bedroom is little larger than an ordinary wardrobe. In his best room are no velvet carpets, nor old masters' pictures, nor editions of books de luxe, nor Italian bric-a-brac. A stout rag carpet half covers the clean hemlock floor. A few tea chromos and half a dozen cheap prints of German landscapes are on the walls. A small cooking stove occupies the space reserved by the other Astors for a tiled fireplace. Some big seashells on the mantlepiece, and a stone china wash-bowl and pitcher on a pine shelf in a corner are the only substitutes for bric-a-brac. A copy of Volks-Zeitung, the socialistic newspaper of New York, is about the only bit of reading which finds its way into the room. Altogether, the furniture of Mr. Astor's two little apartments would not bring half enough at auction to buy the brown stone steps before the residence of John J. Astor on Fifth avenue.

The writer found Mr. Astor in his shirt sleeves at the window of his best room. There was a three-quart "growler" on the table before him, a corncob pipe in his mouth and the Volks-Zeitung on his knee. His shirt was not clean. He recited his claims to a place in Mr. McAllister's "Four Hundred," laboriously, wearily, unwillingly and exactly. Though he owns but a very small twig of the Astor family tree, he knows just where the twig is and how it grew. His grandfather and the original John Jacob Astor were first cousins, and lived within a few rods of each other many years ago in Walldorf, Baden. They and their families were as thoroughly intimate as relatives in Germany usually are. John Jacob Astor came to America before John Astor was born. In 1862 John Astor's father sent him from Walldorf to New York, with the admonition that he should seek the help of his relatives here, and make money as they had made it.

"I have been in New York ever since," said John Astor, slowly. "I have seen John J. Astor twice, once in his summer garden and once in his office. The last time he gave me five dollars. The Astors here don't know me, and I don't know them."

In the early part of the seventies John Astor was well-to-do. He owned a cigar store with a good trade. He fell ill, however, and his business went to pieces. It was shortly before he was sold out in 1876, he says, when John J. Astor helped him with a five-dollar bill. For the last twelve years he has been a journeyman cigar-maker. He is phenomenally phlegmatic. One evening early in this month, when he returned home from work, his wife told him she had taken a dose of Paris green. He listened to her story, and then went to bed. The next morning he summoned a doctor, shortly before she died. His bad luck has left its mark upon him. Though but fifty-six years old, he looks like a man of seventy. His mustache and side whiskers are thin and gray. His broad shoulders are bent. He moves slowly and wearily. His large, deep-set eyes are expressionless of interest or emotion. Altogether, he is a discouraged, hard-working, honest man, with as little interest in the world as the world has in him.

CANINE BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Well-Bred Dogs Who Enjoyed a Special Fashionable Reception.

A canine party doesn't begin to cost as much as a lady's afternoon reception, and it is ever so much jollier, says the New York World. When the petted terrier has a birthday cards are sent out to every lady on his mistress' visiting list who keeps a chamber in her heart for a favorite pug or skye, and the replies are written in the dog's name. Gifts are imperative, whether the invitation is accepted or regretted. If doggie hasn't any maid, or if he is too precious to be trusted in strange hands, "mamma" accompanies him to the birthday in person.

Not long ago Mrs. Eugene Clark, of West Twenty-eighth street, whose dogs have never entered a kennel club exhibition without capturing a desirable prize, gave a canine party that will serve as a model for some months to come. The host, a most sagacious little animal, born in the far away Japanese Empire, was assisted in receiving his canine friends by an elder cousin, also from the Orient. One lay in a black walnut bedstead, dressed in a white lace counterpane spread over rose-colored satin, and the honored dog stood at the entrance of a real glass house lined with blue silk cushions. Each guest on arriving entered the drawing-room carrying his birthday present, which he laid before the delighted host, who in turn made himself agreeable by saluting the donor and removing the gift to a corner reserved for that purpose.

What were the tributes? Every thing that the heart of a well-bred dog could desire—but juicy bones. There were collars in leather, silver and worsted work, hung with little silver bells and bright ribbons; bridles of steel, bronze and sterling silver; blankets embroidered in Kensington patterns; shell combs and ivory brushes; imported soaps; porcelain bath-tubs; balls by the dozen; drinking bowls of decorated china; feeding pans of German plate; games, with rats attached; fancy pillows; sleeping and traveling baskets, lined with quilted silk; and last of all, bouquets of tea-roses, which the honored Kito devoured on the spot. After the reception the dogs were taken to the dining-room, seated about the table on stools and regaled on bread and milk. For dessert there were soft cream candies, ice-cream and cake. The favors were taken from a game, and consisted of Japanese balls wrapped in paper napkins.

Ootah, the custard and white beauty, in whose honor the party was given, came from the private kennels of the Mikado, and Kioto, his foster-brother, has a pedigree that ranks him in the first row of aristocratic dogdom. Mrs. Clark is proud of her pets, and keeps them in fresh ribbons and musical bells, and sends them out for their constitutionals with a bridle-rein made of linked silver.

The Place She Wanted.

"Now," said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip, "let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. Are you the president or vice-president of this society?" "I want to be neither president nor vice-president," she answered. "I will be content with a subordinate position." "What is that?" "Treasurer."

How to Scatter a Crowd.

A new way to scatter a crowd has been discovered. A man who found himself hemmed in by a dense throng near the corner of State and Washington streets, Chicago, while a circus procession was passing, pulled a bottle of ammonia from his pocket and spilled the contents promiscuously about. He had the entire sidewalk to himself in less than a minute.

Dropped Dead from Heart Disease.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 6.—Capt. James H. Rigby, commander of the 1st Maryland Artillery U. S. A., known as "Rigby's battery," in the late war, dropped dead from heart disease yesterday at his home, No. 1728 East Madison street. He was 55 years of age.

Tree-Planting and Weather.

Major J. W. Powell, who is as good authority as we have, writes that in his judgment tree-planting does not increase rainfall or aid in reclaiming arid lands in that easy and direct manner. But trees serve to equalize atmospheric conditions and aid the soil and air in retaining the rain that does fall. He believes that by tree-planting, to supplement irrigating methods, nearly all arid lands may be reclaimed for tillage, and that some of our worst wastes will become our best pasture lands and most productive farms. It must, however, be allowed that other good authorities believe that rainfall is directly affected by forests.

A JERSEY ROMANCE

Trouble for Two Families by a Matrimonial Complication.

THE GOVERNMENT INTERESTED.

A Soldier's Widow and His Paramour Each Got His Pension.

A Prominent Warren County Farmer, Now Deceased, was a Bigamist—His Wife No. 2 Now Married to a Well-Known Resident of the County—She Received $1,700 in Pension Money on a Fraudulent Claim.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 7.—Special Pension Examiner Potter of Bethlehem, Pa., has been spending some time in Hackettstown, Warren county, and vicinity, trying to recover for the Government about $1,700 pension money fraudulently paid out.

In the course of his investigation the agent has discovered a state of things in which the domestic relations of two prominent families are involved, the revelation of which has created great excitement all through that region.

It has come to light that the wife of a respected farmer was not the widow of the man with whom she lived as wife before she contracted her present marriage.

Robert S. Millham, now deceased, was well known in Warren county, where he had lived several years. When a young man he married Elizabeth Hazzard, of Washington, with whom he lived at the breaking out of the war. Children were born to them and they were happy in their martial relations. Millham enlisted and went to the front, where he served until mustered out. Then he deserted his wife and family and took up his residence with Martha J. Wright, at or near Schooley's Mountain. He finally married her, but soon after was indicted in the Morris County Court, was tried, convicted and imprisoned in the county jail for one year.

Millham made application for a pension for disabilities received while in the service, but favorable action was not taken on it until after his death. Special Agent Patterson was dispatched to Hackettstown to take the widow's deposition in the case and to prove death and the rightful heir to his property.

The death was easily proven, the bigamous life of Martha was not brought out and the Government paid over $1,700 to Martha J. Wright, with a small monthly allowance. Martha was soon after joined in honorable wedlock to Alexander Beatty.

Some years after the rightful Mrs. Millham of Washington heard of the affair, and laid her claims as the real widow of Robert S. Millham before the department. Her claim was easily proved, and the claim of the woman who had unlawfully usurped her place was easily disproved.

The Government has paid over for the second time the $1,700 to Mrs. Millham of Washington, and is now through its agent endeavoring to recover the $1,700 paid to Miss Wright, now Mrs. Beatty, but with little success

Saloon-Keepers Ask Forgiveness.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 7.—In the Police Court yesterday afternoon the attorney for the saloon-keepers who were arrested on a charge of violating the Sunday closing law, asked that the cases against his clients be indefinitely postponed. "They have all agreed to obey the law hereafter", he said, "and ask forgiveness of the Court." Judge Ermston continued the cases thirty days to give the offenders a chance to prove their sincerity.

Cigarmakers on Strike.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The general dissatisfaction among cigarmakers of this city has resulted in strikes at several factories, and the trouble is spreading. The men claim that the tenement house system, which was checked for a time by the enactment of a law on the subject, is again in full swing, and that wages are very low.

Invited to Meet the President.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 7.—Major Aulick Palmer has issued invitations to 150 prominent society people to meet the Presidential party at luncheon at 6 o'clock Friday.

Death of a Baptist Minister.

He Prefers to Remain in London.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Unless his extradition is demanded, in which case he will sail for New York, Gen. Boulanger says he has decided to remain in London.

Weavers Want More Pay.

DEXTER, Me., Aug. 7.—The weavers in the Stone Mill are on strike for an increase of pay of one half a cent a yard. The mill has shut down.

Kilrain Still Free.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Hampton, Va., says that the specials of yesterday reporting the arrest of Jake Kilrain at Ocean View were not true.

SECRETARY RUSK'S SCHEME.

In Conference with Railroad Men To-Day in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Secretary Rush is holding an important conference here to-day.

A number of representative railroad men and Senator McPherson met the Secretary at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at 10 a. m. to discuss matters connected with diseased cattle in trans-shipment.

The Secretary wants to have the railroads so arrange matters that that they can centralize the cattle coming over their roads at convenient points where they may be inspected the more thoroughly.

It is the intention of the Agricultural Department to do all in its power to prevent the exportation of diseased cattle. Dr. Salmon, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry in the Agricultural Department, is present at the meeting.

Suspect Burke Photographed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Burke was taken from his cell to-day to the photographing department of the police and there quietly sat for his picture. He was also measured according to the Bertillion system, after which he was returned to his cell pending his removal to the County Jail.

She Was Tired of Life.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Mrs. John Finch, wife of the night watchman on the ferry boat Fishkill-on-Hudson committed suicide yesterday by drowning in the Hudson river. She left a note for her husband saying she was tired of life. Her body was recovered.

Surrendered by His Friends.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 7.—Mayor Crombie offered $200 reward for the apprehension of Michael Sullivan, who mortally wounded George Kane of this city July 23. Last night Sullivan's friends delivered him to the police and claimed the reward.

The Town Nearly Destroyed By Fire.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 7.—Delhi, a town of 1,000 inhabitants in Delaware County, barely escaped total destruction by fire yesterday. Twelve buildings, among them the postoffice, telephone office, Odd Fellow's Hall and two hotels were destroyed.

An Unexpected Inheritance.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., Aug. 7.—Charles H. Kessel, a laborer in the employ of the Birmingham Iron Foundry, received a check on Sunday for $22,000 left him by his grandfather in Germany. It was a surprise to Kessel, who had not heard of the old gentleman's death.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed in New York State to-day: Nathaniel Owen, Catlin; C. M. Bates, Cherry Valley; Wm. Bierce, Danby; W. C. Snell, East Creek; Geo. W. Gage, Taylor.

First Episcopal School.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass. Aug 7.—The corner-stone of St. Mark's school to be erected at Southboro, was laid this afternoon. The building will cost $225,000 and will be the first episcopal school in the country.

Voted Against Prohibition.

ROME, Ga. Aug. 6.—Floyd County has voted against prohibition by a majority of 600 out of 4,000. The election was quiet and orderly, though the campaign, which lasted three weeks, was a vigorous and exciting one.

The Striking Girls Weakened.

READING, Pa., Aug. 7.—Seventy-five of the 100 girls who struck yesterday at the Reading Hoisery Mills have returned to work. The others declare that they will not yield.

Big Sugar Works Burned.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 7.—The Topeka Sugar Works, the largest plant of the kind in the West, which were only completed last year at a cost of $250,000, were burned to the ground last night.

To Receive the Massachusetts Rifle Team.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—At a meeting of the National Rifle Association steps were taken to receive the champion Massachusetts rifle team upon their arrival here from Europe on Saturday next. They will be given a reception at the Mayor's office and afterward entertained at lunch at the Normandie Hotel.

Ex-President Cleveland at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7.—Ex-President Cleveland is receiving many attentions from cottagers. Yesterday he lunched with John Cadwallader, attended Cornelius Vanderbilt's reception and dined with Sydney Webster. To-day he will lunch with Gov. Ladd and leave to-night on the yacht Wanda.

Sullivan's Trial Set for Next Tuesday.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 7.—Sullivan was arraigned before Justice Carter. He waived examination and was placed under $2,000 bonds to appear before the Circuit Court, special term, to be held here August 12. Sullivan left for Pass Christian to-day and will remain there until the court meets.

Noble to be Supreme Court Judge.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The question of filling the vacancy in the Supreme Court created by the death of the late Justice Matthews, has been settled, it is said, and Secretary Noble is the successful man.

THE INDIANS SIGNED

The Great Sioux Reservation Opened to White Men.

OVER 11,000,000 ACRES SOLD

The Government Will Pay the Red Men $14,000,000 for the Land.

Exciting Scenes When Chief Gall Signed the Roll—He Hopes to Live in Peace with the Whites in Future—Seventy Thousand Families Can Be Supported on the New Territory—The Sioux Indians Disgusted with Sitting Bull.

STANDING ROCK AGENCY, Dak., Aug. 7.—The requisite number of signatures for the opening of the great Sioux reservation have been finally secured, and the sensation of the day was the signing by Chief Gall. Gall made no speech as was expected, but with his faithful followers around him and in the presence of those whom for years he had influenced against giving up the lands he marched silently to the roll and touched the pen, amid the applause of the friendly Indians and the disapproving grunts of the Sitting Bull band when it was announced that Gall had signed.

This settled it. The Blackfeet and Upper and Lower Yanktonians followed Gall and signed with a rapidity and eagerness that proved the wonderful influence of this powerful chief. All day the Indians signed, and now 11,000,000 acres of land to which the whites have been looking longingly for years are theirs. The commissioners are rejoiced over their success.

Gall was sought out by a correspondent. "I have given my consent," said he. "My Indians have signed because I told them to, after learning that the Government could take our lands for nothing if it wanted to. The whites have now got our lands, and I hope they will be satisfied and let us live in peace in the future."

John Grass said he had been holding out for better terms, but when he found the Indians at the lower agency were signing he thought it best to do so. "We hope," he added, "to receive such help from the government and the white people as to help us to become like them, that is, to become civilized. There is one big log in our camp, though, and that is Sitting Bull. He is utterly worthless to us and keeps us back more than he helps us. He is of no consequence to us, and if the whites think so much of him they had better come and get him. He never was a chief and is always noisy and making trouble. He has gathered around him a band of bad men having no idea of civilization and all he seems to want is notoriety. He has not only opposed the present treaty but always has opposed civilization and always will be a bad man to get along with."

ANOTHER DAM GIVES AWAY.

Seventy-five Acres of Water Turned Loose Two Miles Above Meriden, Conn.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 7.—Garlick's Dam, holding back 75 acres of water, 10 feet deep, two miles above here, broke yesterday and allowed a torrent of water to sweep through a wild valley to the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, a half mile away. The water here poured through a small culvert into the Peat Works pond on the other side. The culvert was too small for the tremendous volume and a pressure was soon exerted which tore away 30 feet of the rock ballast on the north bound track, the breach extending under the ties.

A gang of men with car loads of stone were put to work and the damage was repaired so that trains could pass slowly over the spot by 10:30.

Had the dam broken in the night and not been discovered as soon as it was the tracks would have gone.

Water is still rushing through the culvert, but with proper precaution no further damage will result.

Sneered at by Foreigners.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The proposed Congress of American Republics at Washington is attracting some attention from the European press, but is nowhere treated as an event likely to lead to important results. The German press sneers at the proposal as an obvious aping of the methods of European diplomacy by the great American Republic. The Vienna Tageblatt ridicules the idea of a great confederation of American Republics such as is proposed, and says such a confederation would be even more grandiose than the Eiffel tower.

The Great Cronin Demonstration.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—The Cronin Committee has issued an appeal to the business men of the city to suspend business at noon on the day of the Cheltenham Beach demonstration. Dr. McCahey, of Philadelphia, and John Devoy, of New York, have promised to speak.

Rose Up from Her Coffin.

ELKHART, Ind., Aug. 7.—A young daughter of F. M. Boshilier, after a long sickness, was pronounced dead yesterday by a physician and was arrayed in a shroud. Preparations were made for the funeral, when the girl was restored to life and sat up in her coffin. She is in a fair way to recover.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Nearly all of the clergymen are at present absent from the city.

—An interesting meeting was held in Warren Mission chapel, last evening, led by Mr. E. I. Case.

—The quarterly meeting of Gazelle Engine company will be held in their parlors, this evening. A full attendance is desired..

—Messrs Pierson & Gayle. the contractors, are propping up the frame shanties over Green Brook on Somerset street, preparatory to their occupancy again. The shanties are doomed, however.

—"Talking about natural pictures," said a home artist, "I painted a hen on a scrap of paper so natural that when I threw it in the waste basket it laid there." Writers on the "sunflower" and "beautiful snow," should profit by the foregoing.

—The excursion of Warren Mission Sunday school to Asbury Park, will take place on Friday of this week. The train will leave this city at 8:15 A. M., and will stop at Dunellen, Evona, Grant Avenue, both ways, leaving Asbury Park at 6 P. M., on the return trip.

—A Pennsylvania editor has discovered —several centuries late—that everything in nature is playful. He says: "The lightning plays, the wind whistles, the thunder rolls, the snow flies, the waves leap, and the fields smile. Even the trees shoot and the rivers and streams run."

—One of the finest trips of the season will be that of the Reform Club excursion to Rockaway Beach, to-morrow. The elegant steamer "Grand Republic" will convey the excursionists both to and from the Beach, and this announcement alone is a sure guarantee for the comfort and convenience of the excursionists.

—A horse attached to a light open-top buggy, belonging to Mr. Theo. Dunn, and left standing along the curb on North avenue, wandered away last evening, and it was at first supposed that the rig had been stolen. Chief Carey, however, traced the missing horse and buggy to Mr. John Jeffries barn near Evona, where the animal wandered during the night.

—The reports from the New Jersey agricultural districts are cheerful and promising. With the exception of the oats in Somerset, Mercer and Middlesex counties, where the heavy and almost incessant rain damaged the crop on hundreds of acres, the yields of hay, grain, potatoes, fruit, vegetables and berries have been as large as any harvest in the history of the State.

—Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall have undertaken to write a full account of the life and education of their father's deaf, dumb and blind pupil, the late Laura D. Bridgman. They will be very glad to receive any letters or papers relating to the subject. All documents should be sent to Mrs. Hall, Scotch Plains, N. J. She will preserve them carefully and return them to the senders.

Election of Officers.

The members of the Dunellen Social Club held a meeting at the residence of Mr. G. E. Lowry, last evening, to take into consideration the matter of holding a series of sociables during the coming Winter. The club also decided to give an excursion to Lake Hopatcong on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2. Officers were elected as follows:

President—G. E. Lowry.
Vice President—Geo. Day.
Secretary—P. A. Benbrook.
Treasurer—John S. Milliken.

Pumping Out the Cellars

Many of the cellars in the Second Ward have been relieved of the surplus water by the aid of pumps within the past few days, and there are yet many cellars in that district filled with water from the late flood. A prominent physician in this city says that it will require at least one month to sufficiently dry out the cellars, so that the houses may again be tenanted without endangering the health of the occupants.

At Boynton Beach.

A merry load from Plainfield and adjacent cities spent a most delightful day at Boynton Beach, yesterday. One of the most enjoyable features was the masterly way in which Capt. Hand handled the ribbons over his double team of spirited Montanas. Boating, bathing, crabbing, quoits and ring toss were indulged in, and a brisk drive home by the light of a young moon finished the day's festivities.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Frank Hedden is at the Commercial House, Asbury Park.

Mrs. C. S. West and family of Central avenue are at Monticello, N. Y.

Mr. H. A. Pope and wife will spend the coming few weeks at Stony Point, N. Y.

Miss Stokes of Philadelphia is the guest of Miss Mabel Woodruff of East Second street.

Miss Nora Thorn of East Second street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. M. Perine of East Orange.

Mrs. R. S. Manning and son, Harry, of Franklin place are at Maple Cottage, Saulsbury, Conn.

Fish Commissioner Wright of Newark was in town today, looking after the interests of the commission.

Mr. E. V. R. Sofield, who has been visiting his grandparents at Perth Amboy, returned home yesterday afternoon.

Miss Leonie A. Martin left yesterday for Dingman's Ferry, Pa., where she will spend the remainder of the Summer.

Miss Addie Winter of East Fifth street, has returned from Lake Mahopac, N. Y., where she has been sojourning for the past two weeks.

The Misses Edith and Grace Perine, of East Orange, are the guests of their grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Thorn of East Second street.

Mr. James F. Martin, of Linden avenue, returned home today after a two weeks' visit with friends at Three Bridges, Hunterdon county, much improved in health.

An unusual happy smile was visible upon the countenance of Mr. J. E. Yose, today, the occasion being the arrival of a young son, this morning. Mother and child are doing well.

Mr. W. D. F. Curtis' residence on Rock View avenue, North Plainfield, was struck by lightning early last Tuesday morning, and the chimney was shattered into fragments. The family were absent from the city at the time, but the neighbors notified Mr. Curtis of the damage done.

Capt. Fred Duncan, wife and family, spent yesterday with their friends, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Carman, of North Plainfield. Mr. Duncan is Captain of the sailing vessel "Florence," of Bath, Me., and has recently arrived from Hull. He is a son of Capt. Duncan on whose ship Mark Twain's "Innocents" went abroad.

A reception will be tendered, Thursday evening of next week, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, to Mr. Andrew G. Carpenter by the Carpenter chorus choir of which he has been the leader for over a year past. Mr. Carpenter has recently accepted a business position in Virginia, and will leave for there about the first of September.

Base Ball.

The Young Crescents of this city again defeated the Young Arlingtons, also of this city, in a game of base ball this morning, on the Crescents ball grounds, by a score of 22 to 12. The Young Arlingtons put G. Mattis in the box, the first inning, and he was knocked out. Then they put up F. Coverly, and he fared no better. F. Carver followed and he proved a great deal better.

The features of the game were the batting of H. VanCleef, the running catch of C. Sutphen, and the first base playing of W. Rice. The catching of M. Heffering, was good. The batteries were M. Heffering and F. Winn, of the Young Crescents. F. Coverly, G. Mattis and F. Carver for the Young Arlingtons.

Umpires—Little and Duffy.

Born in Plainfield. Married in Alabama and Honeymooning in Ocean Grove.

The Birmingham, Ala., News of Friday last, has the following to say of the wedding of a former Plainfield young lady, announced some weeks ago in THE PRESS:

"Last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. T. Lee, on Nineteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, by Rev. P. T. Hale, Mr. J. M. Wharton was united in marriage to Miss Susie S. Lee. Only a few friends of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Wharton left on the 9:53 P. M. train for Ocean Grove.

"Mr. Wharton is proprietor of Wharton's extensive furniture establishment on Second avenue, and his bride is one of our fairest and most estimable young ladies."

Bitten by a Mad Dog.

A young child named Hand is reported to have been bitten on the face by a mongrel dog, which showed signs of the rabies, on Peace street, near Fifth, a few days ago, and the animal has since been closely watched. Yesterday the vicious brute was seen on Peace street near the railroad bridge, and he was shot without ceremony. The dog has undoubtedly bitten other canines, and owners of dogs would do well to keep a close watch on their animals, or dangerous results may follow.

Torn through its heart by a great flood of water, Plainfield today is but a ragged and disheveled likeness of its former self.—Plainfield evening news.

—September comes next with an R in it. Then comes the delicious "bivalvular crustaceous shell fish" called oyster.

—The case of the City against Joseph Sullivan accused of selling liquor in Prohibition Plainfield without a license, was adjourned this morning until Monday at 10 o'clock A. M., at request of the defence.

"PRESSES AHEAD OF ANY COMPETITORS."

What Mr. Scott and Mr. Potter are Turning Out at Their Plainfield Works.

A journal of New York—devoted entirely to newspaper men and newspapers, and the machines that print the thoughts of the former on the blank pages of the latter—is just now devoting a portion of its columns to a symposium of opinions from practical and experienced printers as to the best presses manufactured today.

An expert judge in this relation, says in this week's issue that Walter Scott, is a level head Scotchman who made a new departure in Web presses about nine years ago and became such a formidable rival to the great Hoes that they eventually bought him out for a handsome sum which he put in a plant at Plainfield, N. J., where he went to work and invented an entirely new and different web machine with paster, folder, stitcher and trimmer attachment.

Besides this he has made a line of other presses such as a Stop Cylinder, Two-revolution, and Drum, covering all the wants of the most exacting printer. These last named being the ones under consideration for book, job, and newspaper work. These presses are perhaps in many respects ahead of any of his competitors. By his ingenuity he has avoided nearly all the objectionable features of the other makers, and added many important and valuable adjuncts not possessed by them. His presses are substantially and artistically made, and in their convenience and operation they deserve the favorable consideration of the craft.

The Potters, the writer continues, have kept up to the front rank of press makers in the many experiments and improvements they have made. Their aim has been to make a machine that would fill the daily wants of the buyer and the operator. Their "tapeless delivery" was an improvement and their "slow down" was an experiment which taught them valuable lessons in their latest and most important appliance in their Two-revolution press. It is an arrangement by which the impression is brought down by a screw instead of a toggle-joint.

This is the invention of that genial gentleman and accomplished pressman, Thomas McIlroy, who has been associated with Mr. Potter for more than twenty years. No one makes a mistake in dealing with him, because he goes with the press to see it set up, shows the workman all the ins and outs, makes ready a form and gives the pressman who is to run the machine all the information he can pump into him; he leaves everybody well pleased and his press filling the bill. All of those who have used these presses for years, speak highly of them for all classes of work; book, colored or newspaper.

The Flood Brings Needed Improvements.

Plainfield is to have three handsome new bridges of the same style as that over Green Brook at Grove street.

The Committees of the Union and Somerset County's Boards of Freeholders, decided yesterday to build truss bridges over the brook at Somerset, Water and Richmond streets. The Somerset Committee at first objected to such costly bridges, but eventually submitted.

As soon as the Boards meet and confirm the decision of their Committees, bids will be asked for, the contracts awarded and work commenced at once.

Hymeneal.

Mr. George Frederick Odiorne and Mrs. Anselene Weller, were quietly married at No. 8 Craig place this afternoon, by Rev. B. B. Tyler, of the Church of the Disciples, New York. Several friends witnessed the ceremony, which was a very pretty one. Afterward the bride and groom took the 3 51 train for New York. They will live in Brooklyn.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Frank Willits Runyon, and the groom a Custom House broker of New York.

Meat for the Crows.

James Thornall and John Acken, of Metuchen, killed twenty-five rats in Thornall's corn crib the other day, and skinned the rodents for their pelts. The bodies were left in a pile near the crib for the time being, and the men went to their dinner. While they were eating they saw two crows circle over the bodies of the rats and finally swoop down on them. Each crow picked up a rat and flew away, only to return and repeat the operation.

Mangled His Foot.

Walter, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. Geo. Sherwin of Somerville, attempted to run alongside of a coal train at that place Monday afternoon when he stumbled and fell against a switch, and rolling on the ground one of his feet was caught under the wheels of the passing train and horribly crushed. The lad was carried home where he was attended by a physician. The injured boy is a nephew of Mr. H. M. Sherwin of this city.

THIS COUNCIL SHOULD SETTLE IT.

Yet the Plans and Propositions Submitted. Seem to Have Brought the City no nearer Water Works.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The labor of the Councilmanic Mountain seems to have brought forth the proverbial mouse. Thirty-six copies of the specifications for the construction of Water Works, the concentrated and consolidated product of the present Council, were a few weeks ago distributed to contractors and hydraulic engineers as far East as Boston we are told, West as far as Chicago and South as far as Memphis. This distribution has brought forth but eight responses. In these eight replies there is not to be found one that complies with the terms of the specifications, and a large majority have ignored them altogether. Thus it is shown that the labors of the Council and the expenditure of $300 for an expert engineer and an additional $300 for the advertisement for proposals have practically amounted to nothing. Seemingly the simple adoption by the Council of a resolution calling for the submitting of proposals would have brought forth better results, as it is plain that many professional men of the first class have been forced to refrain from making propositions by the ambigious and contradictory requirements of the specifications.

More than this, among the eight competitors for the privilege of giving this city the benefit of pure and wholesome water for domestic use and fire protection there appears to be not one who contemplates risking his own capital in the enterprise. Each applicant refers to and apparently relies upon a banker to see his undertaking through to completion. Does it not occur to the public mind that a fair request from a city like ours would meet with a most hearty response from home and foreign capital if the conditions of the project were such as to attract the legitimate investment of funds?

Obviously it would be unfair and unbusinesslike for the Council to accept any of the propositions now before the Water Committee as they are not in accordance with the official requirements, but in themselves there were several propositions submitted on Monday evening which the Council would do themselves great credit to consider seriously and systematically.

The propositions of Messrs Wheeler & Parks, J. M. Low, Woltman & Fuller and Francis H. Smith, present features which should command the investigation of the Board at least. The application of Messrs Moore & Lovell evidently contemplates the immediate acquisition of the works by the city when completed. The extraordinarily low hydrant rental asked is so far below the average for cities of this size and corresponding location that it invites suspicion. The average hydrant rental of the propositions submitted including Moore & Lovell, is say $29.60 and that figure is nothing more than fair.

Woltmann & Fuller's proposition appears to be a very taking one, so far as any details were given. The hydrant rental asked was, however, higher than any other, except one, for similar services.

Mr. Francis H. Smith had evidently not received a copy of the amended specifications. His plan and application were incorporated with a sewer system and the latter the Council naturally refused to consider. Like in all the other applications the specifications were ignored in almost every particular, but taking everything in consideration, it was quite the completest paper offered even down to the details of issuing bonds which might at some time be necessary to complete the works. It was unfortunate that the sewer plan could not have been submitted because it is said the two systems were intended to be operated jointly and a provision was incorporated therein which contemplated the lease of the sewers to the city at a very low rate. As a majority of our citizens are apparently more interested in sewers than water it might be well to publish as much of this project as can be obtained for the general information.

Although it cannot be seen yet that the Council has made any progress in the water and sewer enterprise, it is apparent that the citizens are becoming better informed and more interested in the matter and it is possible that sometime in the near future the labors of the present day will bear fruit, and you may depend upon it that whenever there is money enough in a franchise to warrant active competition, one will be obtained. This is one reason why many citizens believe that this question should be disposed of by a competent and intelligent Council and are averse to postponing it to a distant day when the complexion of the Council may not be so satisfactory as it is at present.

Circus is Coming.

Lowande's Brazilian Circus and English Royal Menagerie combined with Sioux Bill's Wild West Show, will visit Plainfield, to-morrow, for two days.

They announce to the public that Don Martinho Lowande's Circus will exhibit a short season in this city. "The simple fact of remaining as long as we do, shows conclusively that we are confident of pleasing our patrons, and remaining the length of time we do, places us entirely on our own merits. The question is often asked, how can a first-class combination afford to exhibit for so low a price of admission? The profits of a combination do not accrue from the amount charged per single individual, but from the total amount received from the public. Crowded seats at 10 cents are more profitable than small gatherings at 25 and 50 cents. Feeling certain that if you attend our first performance you will be the best advertisement we can have."

They Were Quite Safe.

A family living in the suburbs of this city received a day or two since, a telegram from some anxious friends asking if they were safe. The inquirers had received some of the exaggerated reports sent abroad about the damage by the rains in this vicinity, and fearing that another Johnstown calamity had overwhelmed us, sought immediate information.

Here's another instance of the pain and misery caused by the sensational accounts in the newspapers (?). Mr. S. Snyder of West Fourth street, also received a telegram from his parents in New York State, soon after the flood, asking if his family was all right, and stating that in case no answer was received, his parents would take the first train for Plainfield and prepare for the worst.

The Thistle Pest.

The Canada thistle is again causing apprehension among the farmers of Middlesex county, particularly in the neighborhood of Piscatawaytown. Repeated attempts have been made to rid the soil of this pest, but it has defeated every effort in this direction. The thistle has made its appearance in the same localities and in greater profusion than last year. So far no measures have been taken to eradicate it, although the time is near at hand when it will go to seed and spread far and wide.

THE PRESS is informed upon good authority that there is a good sized bed of the Canada thistle nestling alongside of a hedge on Richmond street, north of Front. If this be the case, it should be removed at once.

Jesse T. Eddy Dead.

Jesse T. Eddy, a prominent member of the New York Cotton Exchange, died at his home, corner of Front street and Plainfield avenue, this city, yesterday morning. Mr. Eddy was 45 years old. He went to New York from Fall River in 1884 to become a member of the firm of E. R. Robertson & Co. Since 1887 he has operated on the exchange on his own account. He leaves a wife and child.

LIGHTNING'S PRANKS.

A Chapter of Serious Capers Cut Up Recently in Connecticut.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 7.—Lightning cut up queer capers about here during the recent storm. Reports of the full effect of its doings are just coming in.

The steeple of Byram Chapel was split in two. Mr. H. C. Boswell's barn was struck and his horse made stone deaf. George Bodie's house was unshingled and the chimney tumbled over. Two young ladies, daughters of Charles Eddy, received severe shocks while sitting near a window.

Patrick Smith's house, in East Portchester, was struck and nearly consumed by fire. Three hundred dollars which he had saved and hid away in the garret was consumed. Five men, George Kelly, James Fox, Robert Dillon, John D. Kelly and William McCarty, were sitting in the foundry. The windows at the front and rear were open. They heard a whirling and hissing noise, and then all of them felt stunned.

The lightning had gone through the building and they had received a shock. George Kelly and William McCarty were seriously affected, while the others soon recovered. Kelly was insensible for six hours. He was buried up to his knees in the earth, as it was thought that would drive the fluid out of his body. He is now mending and will recover. Although the lightning did a great deal of damage, no loss of life resulted from it

Letters from Mary Anderson.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

THE SEIZED SEALER

Views of the Canadian Minister of Customs.

HE DOES NOT REGRET THE ACT.

Something Will Probably Now be Done to Protect the Seal Ground.

The Canadian Government Will Take No Action Except to Forward All the Papers to the Colonial Office—A Belief that England Will Not Protest—It Is Rumored that the American Sailor Will be Arrested as a Pirate.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—The Minister of Customs was officially informed of the arrival of the Black Diamond at Victoria. The Deputy Minister of Fisheries said to-day that he did not regret the seizure of these schooners, as he believed the seal fisheries should be protected from the wholesale slaughter and devastation to which they have for a long time past been subjected. He has no doubt that some joint arrangement will be arrived at between the maritime powers to preserve and protect the seal fisheries, which are now rapidly becoming devastated.

A prominent official of the customs department said to-day:

"We shall not take any action on this matter. What is there to do? The United States authorities only put aboard a prize crew of one man on purpose to allow the Black Diamond to effect her escape. They wanted to make it a warning to other sealers, and after doing this, it was the easiest way of getting out of a grave difficulty; but the Government will take no action except to forward all the papers to the Colonial Office, and the imperial authorities will have the management of the case. I do not think that they will do anything."

Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, referred to the possibility of the Captain of the Black Diamond ordering the arrest of the sailor placed in charge of his vessel by the commander of the Rush as a pirate, which he believed would soon bring matters to a settlement between Great Britain and the United States regarding Behring Sea.

Spinners' Troubles.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 7.—At a large meeting of the Spinners' Association the sum of $50 was voted to the Metacomet Mill strikers. The trouble at the Tecumseh and the Durfee Mills was discussed and the Tecumseh Spinners were authorized to strike if they so desired. It was suggested, however, that a deputation be sent to the agent to seek an amicable settlement.

An Italian's Brutal Crime.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Roanoke, Va., says that Antonio Millette, an Italian of that place, outraged a twelve-year-old girl to-day. The latest report was that Millette had been captured and would be lynched.

The Atlantic Baseball League.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 7.—The Atlantic Baseball League failed to arrange a schedule at last night's meeting, although the delegates remained in session long after midnight. Another meeting will be held to night. The Metropolitan Club of New York wish to join the League, provided the salaries of its players are guaranteed. The South Norwalk Club also wish to join and does not ask a guaranty. No action has yet been taken on the Hartford-Worcester protested game. The members are very reticent concerning the proceedings of the meeting and are not entirely harmonious.

CUTS THEIR THROATS.

Gen. Hippolyte Attacks Port-au-Prince, and is Repulsed With Heavy Loss.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Port-au-Prince states that an attack was made on the capitol by the rebel troops under Gen. Hippolyte, who were repulsed with great loss of life.

So great is the excitement that Legitime has been obliged to cut the throats of his prisoners in the market place to satisfy the morbid craving of his troops. It is only a question of time when Hippolyte must enter the city, and the foreigners within its walls are afraid of their lives. They expect no mercy.

The same code of signals is still kept up between the American vessels in the harbor and the United States consulate. As soon as the danger signal goes up the blue jackets will effect a landing and endeavor to protect the foreigners from the bloodthirsty mob.

The Kearsage has made several trips to the northern ports, calling at St. Marc, Gonaives, St. Nicolas and Cape Haytain. The Ossipee, upon the return of the Kearsage, will also visit the northern ports, but under no consideration will Port-au-Prince be left without a United States man-of-war.

KEYSTONE REPUBLICANS.

The State Convention in Session To-day at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—The Republican State convention will nominate Henry K. Boyer, of Philadelphia, for State Treasurer, and re-elect W. A. Andrews, of Crawford county, chairman of the State Committee, and will adopt a platform reaffirming the cardinal principles of the Republican party.

There is no opposition to Speaker Boyer.

The only issue is upon the liquor question.

A Sad Shooting Accident.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 7.—Benjamin Erb, a Coitsville farmer, equipped himself for hunting squirrels yesterday afternoon. As he was about to leave the house he stooped down to kiss his two-year-old baby boy. The child tried to climb upon its father's knee, and in so doing, struck its foot against the trigger of the gun, which was discharged. The top of Erb's head was blown off and his brains spattered against the ceiling. Death was instantaneous.

His Body Horribly Crushed.

READING, Pa., Aug. 7.—Philip W. Dougherty, the engineer in the iron works at Bechtelsville, this county, where Thomas A. Edison's new invention, an iron ore separator, is being tested, had his clothing caught in one of the big belts and his body was drawn between two rollers through a space half an inch wide. The entire machinery, weighing many tons, will have to be removed as the body is still fast between the rollers.

Mrs. Harrison Bakes Bread.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 7.—General Tyner has felt quite exhausted since coming up from Washington, but it is expected he will rapidly feel the benefit of the change. Mrs. Harrison accidentally heard that the sick man craved what good housewives proudly call "home-made" bread. She at once went to the kitchen, "set" yeast, and General Tyner made his supper last night from a loaf made by the hands of the President's wife.

A Tragedy at a Wedding.

MADISON, Ind., Aug. 7.—William Johnson, a well-known young man, with his sweetheart, Miss Sadie Athey, served last night as attendants at a wedding. After the ceremony he begged her to marry him. This she declined to do, when he suddenly drew a revolver and fired, fortunately missing her, but thinking he had killed her, he placed the weapon to his head and blew his brains out, dying instantly.

Knitting Mills in the Sheriff's Hands.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Sheriff Van Buren of Oswego county has seized the knitting mill factories at Oswego Falls on an attachment of $402,000 of A. D. Julliard & Co. wholesale dry goods men in New York. The mills are temporarily shut down. They belong to the Riverside and Oswego Mill Company of Providence. Their value is estimated at $1,000,000, and employ 1,000 hands.

New Haven's Old State House.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 7. — The work of demolishing the old State House has been stopped by the serving of an injunction granted by the Supreme Court at Hartford on behalf of the people, the petitioner being Benjamin Noyes, of life insurance notoriety, in this State and elsewhere. The injunction will probably be dissolved in a few days.

Arbitrators Unable to Agree.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Col. John P. Rend, Hyman J. Gage and J. E. Williams, who were appointed a committee of Arbitration to settle the mine trouble at Streator, Ill., announce that they are unable to agree, and present separate propositions for the consideration of those concerned. A conference between the mine owners and the men will be held, to settle if possible, the differences existing between them.

The Big Coke Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 7.—Private despatches from the coke region report nearly all the ovens idle this morning. There has been no rioting, and the leaders of the strike say there will be no breach of the peace, as force will not be used to intimidate the men or induce them to quit work.

The New York Sheriff's Trouble.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Sheriff Flack's divorced wife, Mary E. Flack, left Newburgh secretly yesterday, bent on getting away from her son William and on moving to have the decree of divorce set aside on the ground that it was obtained in her name by fraud and without her knowledge.

SOCIETY GIRLS AT TENNIS.

Wealthy New York Beauties and Their Skill With the Racket.

The Bewildering Way in Which They Manipulate It—The Famous Players of the Leading Clubs—Modest Players and Those Who Flirt.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

"She's a decidedly awkward creature. Just see how clumsily she handles her racket. One would almost think she had never been in a tennis court before."

And the fair but critical matron indicated with a wave of her fan, a young girl who was taking part in the game and certainly not without embarrassment. She missed play several times and her partner, a tall young fellow with a high-bred air about him, had all he could do to keep her from "faulting" at every stroke. It was evident she was a beginner.

"I should hate to give my partner so much trouble," resumed the critic by my side, as she rocked her chair lazily on the piazza from which we overlooked the players. "Every young lady ought to know tennis and indeed almost all do. I make it a point with my own daughters to have them fairly proficient in whatever amusement is popular in society during the season, and tennis is the rage just now you know. Everybody plays."

"Rather intricate for a beginner, isn't it?" I ventured to suggest.

"Not a bit more so than any other game in which young people, particularly young girls, can appear to advantage. Croquet was too ridiculously slow, you know. Besides it didn't allow any freedom of movement as tennis does. One doesn't get tired handling a racket, especially if one has a clever player for a partner."

CHIC COSTUMES.

Tennis is, in truth, the pet fad of the upper ten just now. It would almost seem as though society had gone wild over it. The fashionable young girl of the period is a crack tennis player and can manipulate a racket with a dexterity equal to the society young man and with infinitely more grace.

"It's a terrible game for those who are disposed to flirt, isn't it?" continued my companion.

"Indeed!" I interrupted.

"Just look at Miss Blank, over there, girded in her little Norfolk jacket, with her skirts well bunched up and showing a glimse of hosiery above a rather neat ankle and those fetching tan-colored canvass shoes. Isn't she at her best just now? Come, confess it."

And this worldly-wise dame indicated a trim, little figure, to the left of the court, serving the ball with a deliberation and skill, first to the right and then to the left, her foot on the line and her lithe and graceful body poised in an attidue such as Atalanta might have assumed when she was about to start on her famous run with the golden apple.

It is just a little over eight years since lawn tennis began to be affected by American girls. It was the rage in London and all through England when the first American Lawn Tennis Convention was held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel New York, in 1881, when the National Association was organized. Since that time tennis clubs have sprung up everywhere, the best known among them being the New York Tennis Club, which is now three years old, and among whose members are many well known society ladies, including some of the shining lights of the Four Hundred.

Almost any fine afternoon "the Meadows," on One Hundred and Second street, New York, west of Fifth avenue, are made a centre of attraction by the brilliant play of the young uptown fashionables who turn out in droves to share in the sport. With their striped dresses of bunting, their cute little shoes and Scotch caps, they enter the field merry as crickets, swinging their racket bags and prepared to capture the honors of the court from the gentlemen who are marshalled around in "blazers," canvass shoes and the loosest and coolest of flannels, to oppose them. And they make a pretty picture moving about swiftly and gracefully on the smoothly mown grass, or darting hither and thither in the exciting intricacies of the game. Other favorite grounds of the "upper ten" are Mount Morris Park, at One Hundred and Twenty-first street, the Central Park Common, the New York Athletic Club grounds at Traver's Island, and the splendid new grounds of the Country Club at Throgg's Neck—the latter being the most exclusive of all. There are also well patronized grounds at St. George, on Staten Island, where the elite of Richmond County and many fashionable parties from New York play when the best of town drives them to seek the sea breezes. The New York Tennis Club has its own grounds in Westchester County near Baychester village, and there game is played, not as a mere dilletante amusement, but in true scientific style, all the rules of the National Association being rigidly observed by the players. The different armories are used by some of the clubs as winter grounds.

Notable among the experts is Miss Hargous, who was interested in the recent performance at millionaire James M. Waterbury's amateur cirque near Baychester, when five hundred of New York's best known society people witnessed the extraordinary show given by a number of versatile and fun-loving young maidens from Fifth and Madison avenues. Miss Hargous plays a remarkably strong and well-balanced hand at tenuis, is the coolest in the "court," delivers the ball with the facility and strength of a crack pitcher on the diamond field and "strikes out" with the unerring accuracy of the famous Mike Kelly himself. She is not strikingly handsome, but is finely proportioned and is exceedingly graceful in her movements

MISS PERKINS AND MISS BREESE.

The Misses Remsen are also known as specially skilful with the racket and seldom lose a stroke. Both are distinguished by their easy carriage and grace in the field. They wear the regulation tennis suits, which show off their fine physique to advantage. Sir Ronald Cameron and sister are both noted for their will at play and when here seldom miss an opportunity to enjoy the game. They play in the English style, which differs in some minor details from the rules laid down for American players, but they are both regarded as strong additions to any side of the "court."

Miss Mariquita Serrano, the handsome daughter and heiress of the rich Cuba sugar merchant, is one of the finest players in New York and is a most attractive figure in the field. Slender and seemingly delicate, yet as agile as a kitten, she never lags in the game, and is a keen sportswoman and a dangerous opponent. She is equally clever either in a three-handed or a four-handed game, and when the field is large she shines by contrast with the weaker players.

The Misses Potter, daughters of Howard N. Potter, and near relatives of Bishop Potter, are both brilliant players and are beautiful girls, besides.

Miss Griswold, whose brother is a noted amateur horseman and patron of athletic sports, is another remarkably handsome figure in the tennis court. Miss Breese, a rich young heiress, with the contour and physique of a Cleopatra, great lambent, dusky eyes, and a soft, peach-like complexion, is one of the queens of the field and is a most attractive figure behind a tennis net. Her playing is a combination of rare skill and gracefulness. The Misses Hoyt and Morgan, Miss Bronson, sister of Howard and Frederic Bronson, and ex-Mayor Hewitt's daughters are also notable players. The Misses Hewitt are equally at home with the violin or tennis racket. Still another young lady who plays a remarkably strong game is Miss Perkins, the daughter of a wealthy retired merchant, whose sweet face and winning ways and trim lithe figure, while not conspicuous in the field, is nevertheless hailed by the party on whose side she is enlisted for the tourney.

One of the crack players of the New York Tennis Club is Mrs. H. G. Budgeley, the handsome wife of a prominent Wall street broker. She is possessed of a splendid physique, is a tireless player, and as fine an illustration of the perfect development of the feminine figure by outdoor exercise as could be imagined. She has captured several prizes at different tournaments during the past three years. Other noted players in the same club are Mrs. Brock, a pretty blonde; the two Misses Hobart Miss Voorhees, a slightly-built girl but a capital sender and striker, and Miss Bailey. The best record at play has been made for the ladies by Miss Platt, a Poughkeepsie girl, who is both remarkably handsome and enormously rich. Naturally she is much sought after wherever the lime-dust is spread for the sport.

None of these ladies affect the extreme style of dress at tennis. "Blazers," while they are intended to be worn by either sex, have thus far been confined almost exclusively to masculine use, in fashionable sets, on account of their conspicuous appearance. The popular toilet for the ladies is a dress of blue or striped goods or flannel, surmounted by a snug-fitting Norfolk jacket or a neat cutaway of the most gossamer-like materials. The dress is "kilted" up, permitting the short, embroidered skirts to be seen, beneath which one gets just the merest revelation of a cool-looking silken stocking above the dainty little rubber-soled tennis shoes, or canvass slippers. The dress must fit snugly, yet so as to permit the freest action of the limbs.

The game of lawn tennis is now so popular that it does not need description here. Complete equipments vary in cost from $12 to $50, the latter including everything necessary for the enjoyment of a four-handed game in the most approved way. Much impetus has been given to tennis by such wealthy sporting amateurs as the Iselins, the Hecksehers, Livingston, Beeckmans (who has invented and patented a racket now called the Beeckman) and others.

DAVID WECHSLER.

Laura Bridgman and the Dictionary.

The late Laura Bridgman, blind, deaf and dumb, was fond of reading the dictionary. This book she would peruse by the hour, and herein she showed her wisdom, since the exact meaning of the words and the correct use of synonyms certainly present very great difficulties to a person in her condition. With orthography she had no difficulty, and would correct any one who misspelled a word. Fairy stories she did not care for; she said they were not true. She was fond of fun, and never outgrew her love of innocent frolic.

A Strange Expression.

Winks: "What a sad, anxious face that man has." Jinks: "Yes, I noticed it. He has a strained, haunted, afraid-I-won't-catch-the-train expression. I guess he works in the city and lives in the suburbs."

Judge Cummin Improving.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 7.—Judge Cummin, of the Johnstown Commission, has greatly improved, and his consulting physician believes that the crisis has passed and also thinks that his recovery is possible.

A Noted Confederate Dead.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Richmond says that Capt. William Davison, who was Quartermaster of Stewart's famous Confederate Cavalry, died in Fauquier county.

Will of the Late Maria Mitchell.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 7.—The will of the late Prof. Maria Mitchell leaves a fund of $1,000 to Vassar College to aid needy students. The remainder of the estate goes to relatives.

The President in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—Shortly after one o'clock to-day the President and his party left the Vendome Hotel under cavalry escort for Faneuil Hall, where an immense crowd had assembled, and a reception took place lasting two hours. After the reception the Presidential party returned to the Vendome, remaining but a short time, when all started for a trip to the suburbs. The President and Mayor Hart rode in the first carriage, which was drawn by four horses. This evening there will be a band concert at the Vendome in honor of the President.

His Mind Unbalanced.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—George Pohl, an official of the Acme Lubricating Oil Company of Franklin, Pa., was found wandering about the streets of this city last night in a demented condition. He was identified and cared for by officers of the Standard Oil Company. He had started for Germany for his health, which had been impaired by overwork.

A Delicate Hint.

"Well, sir," said the old gentleman, indignantly, "what are you doing around here again. I thought the delicate hint I gave you just as you left the front door last night would give you to understand that I don't like you very well." And the speaker looked at his boot in a reminiscent way.

"I did," said the young man, as a look of mingled pain and admiration came over his face, "but I thought I would come and ask you——"

"Ask me what?"

"If you wouldn't like to join our football association?"

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

DEATH ON A YACHT

Three Children Killed and Several Persons Injured.

NAPTHA CAUSED THE EXPLOSION

Spectators Witnessed the Burning to Death of Two of the Children.

The Yacht Owned by Mr. Crocker of Buffalo Who was About to Take His Family on a Pleasure Trip—He Is Almost Insane With Grief Over the Terrible Calamity and Death of His Children—A Belief that the News Will Kill His Wife.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Late yesterday afternoon, while the yacht Cedar Ridge, owned by Mr. L. L. Croker of East Buffalo, was being got ready for a trip down the river, and just as the engineer had started the fire, two explosions followed in rapid succession.

The yacht at once took fire, and burned to the water's edge. Of those on board the following were killed: Ethel and Lamey Crocker, girls, burned, and Howard Crocker, boy, drowned.

The people who hurried to the scene were first attracted by the sight of Mr. Crocker's little son, who stood on the yacht's deck in a dazed condition, almost surrounded by flames.

He seemed unable to move, and when a man named Charles Schweigel reached a pike pole to him the boy did not take hold of it, and a moment later he fell back into the fire and was burned to a crisp.

Attention was now drawn to John Rugenstein, the carpenter, a man about 30 years old, who was clinging to a board in the shed that extended out over the yacht.

He could not be reached, and after hanging a few moments he apparently became suffocated and dropped into the flames below. He leaves a widow and five children.

The tragedy was due to the explosion of naphtha, by which the boilers were heated. Mr. Crocker is the superintendent of the New York Central stock yards at East Buffalo. He was the father of the three children killed.

Mr. Crocker himself barely escaped with his life. He is almost crazed by bereavement. His wife has been very ill, and it is feared she cannot survive the shock.

The condition of Miss McLean and Charlotte Crocker was reported to-day as serious, but not necessarily fatal.

Another Brewery Gobbled In.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Lawyer Untermeyer, who recently returned from England after several months' absence, stated to-day that he had perfected the sale of the Henry Elias Brewing Company of this city while abroad. The price to be paid by the English syndicate is $850,000. Mr. Untermeyer also stated that there is no abatement in the interest which the English money market takes in American industries.

Wiggins, Forestville; David Courtney, Hyde Park; Ernest Olday, Little Valley; H. D. Harrington, Marilla; Lucy B. Abrams, Piseco; J. B. Gerow, Platteville; E. C. Drake, Pleasant Valley; John Stagner, Wrightson.

DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.

Passengers Forced to Give Up Their Money and Watches.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 8.—A despatch received here this afternoon says that the Rio Grande Western train, known as the "Modoc" was held up by train robbers near Crevasse last night.

They forced the fireman to attempt to chop through the door of the express car, but as he was unable to force the boiler iron door, they gave it up and went through the train with drawn revolvers and collected $900 and twenty watches.

Most of the passengers were successful in hiding their valuables. A posse has started in pursuit of the robbers.

A Big Forgery in Street Car Stock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Eben S. Allen, president of the Green Line Street Car Company, has been arrested for forging certificates of stock for about 700 shares. He has been president of the company for a long time and connected with the road for 25 years. The amount of his defalcation is $130,000. He has made a confession.

Northfield's Centennial.

NORTHFIELD, Vt., Aug. 8.—The centennial celebration of the settlement of this town by Benjamin Waite was held yesterday with a large attendance. Hon. F. Palmer of Waterbury delivered the oration, D. A. Kneeland read a poem, and there was a number of other speeches.

His Neck Broken.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Ralph D. Beach, aged 18 years, of this city, had his neck broken while on an excursion train near Mayfield. Beach leaned out from the platform of a coach to look at a hot journal and his head came in contact with a telegraph pole.

The President Off for Bar Harbor.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—At the Vendome last night there was a brilliant illumination and a fine band concert. The President appeared on the balcony at intervals to please the eager thousands. He left for Bar Harbor at 9 o'clock this morning.

Worcester Receives a Present.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 8.—Thos. H. Dodge, who recently gave a site for an Odd Fellows' home at the north end of the city has now presented the city with thirteen acres of land touching the Odd Fellows' site for a public park.

Col. Quay and His Party.

Died of Arsenical Poisoning.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Coroner's jury in the Ramsey case brought in a verdict that David Ramsey died of arsenical poisoning under circumstances that point to Mrs. Ramsey as the murderer.

The Delaware Peach Crop.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 8.—The peach market has opened at Wyoming quite lively. Fine fruit is the rule. Mountain Rose sells direct to city buyers at from 80 cents to $1.10 per basket, and yellow peaches from $1 to $1.40.

A Sloop Sunk and Three Men Drowned.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 8.—The Old Dominion Line steamship Old Dominion ran into and sunk the sloop Ella May in Norfolk harbor yesterday. The sloop's crew of three men were drowned.

Gov. Burleigh Sick.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 8.—Gov. Burleigh being too ill to meet President Harrison at the State line, Adjutant-General Sprague has been detailed to represent the Governor.

A Ball Player Shot.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Aug. 8.—Clarence Grant, a local ball player, was shot by Elijah Williams, a colored man, in a drunken row at a dance last night. His condition is critical.

Russell Harrison Must Answer Soon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—In the libel suit of Colonel Crosby against Russell Harrison, the court has limited the time in which the defendant must file an answer to ten days.

The Order of Foresters.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The High Court of the Order of Foresters has granted the demand of the loyal courts of America to establish a Subsidiary High Court in that country.

Riverside Mill Attached.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8.—An attachment was placed on the Riverside Mill here in favor of the National Revere Bank of Boston for $40,000.

The Tennis Tournament.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8.—J. S. Brown has won in the tennis tournament, and will play H. W. Cozzen's for the championship cup this afternoon.

COKE STRIKERS FIRM

Bosses Willing To Compromise But Their Terms Refused.

A DEMAND FOR UNIFORM WAGES

There is Not a Car of Coke to be Had in the Entire Region.

A Mass Meeting Attended by 10,000 People—The Gallitzen Works Grant the Advance—Serious Rioting at Braddock. An Attempt to Run in Men at the Carnie Furnace Results in the Shooting of a Deputy.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 8.—The cokers at the Red Stone works of J. M. Schoonmaker have joined the strike. This together with the information that the operators at Gallitzen had granted the advance asked for filled the strikers with joy and renewed confidence.

It is reported that Frick & Co. have offered an advance of 10 per cent. over former wages, but that the strikers will not accept the terms. The offer, however, is 33⅓ per cent. of an advance over that made yesterday.

It is also reported that McClure & Co. have asked for a compromise on a 10 per cent. advance, but this, it is said, will also be refused.

The mass meeting last night was the largest ever held in the coke region. About 10,000 strikers were present. A resolution was adopted demanding uniform prices for all grades of labor; that one cent per bushel shall hereafter be the minimum rate, with a proportionate advance for all day labor and coke drawing.

There is not a car of coke to be had in the entire region, and cars from Western iron and steel mills are standing on the side tracks of all the works.

It is stated here that some of the works in Ohio and Illinois are badly crippled on account of the strike.

Rioting at Braddock.

BRADDOCK, Pa., Aug. 8.—An attempt was made to break the strike at the Carnie Furnace by bringing in new men. Several had been driven away and others got off the train at Keating and were met by deputies. The strikers followed and opened fire with a volley of stones. These not having the desired effect pistols were used and one of the deputies was shot. The injured man was carried to the furnace office.

BURKE ONLY A DUPE.

Direct Evidence Against Coughlin Said to Be in the Possession of Chicago Police.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The police authorities claim to be in possession of evidence which proves that Burke was one of the actual murderers of Cronin. At the same time they intimate that both Burke and Cooney were in this matter the dupes of Coughlin and Coughlin's bosses. They hold, therefore, that he is not responsible for the murder; that it grew out of Burke's and Cooney's Irish fanaticism.

A rather startling admission was made by a police captain to-day. He said: We have evidence showing that Dan Coughlin was in the Carlson cottage when Dr. Cronin entered. This evidence is not hearsay but straight and direct. It supplies a much needed missing link.

The State's Attorney is after a North Side city employe who is a Senior Guardian of one of the Clan-na-Gael Camps, and who threatens with bodily injury any Clan-na-Gael who urges his fellows to tell all they know about the Cronin murder. This man is frequently drunk, carries a revolver, which he sometimes flourishes, and is quite free in using the epithets, "traitor" and "spy."

Worth Fighting For.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 8.—An interview with Henry A. Glidden, ex-Secretary of the Republican State Committee, who was Treasury Agent at the Seal Islands in Behring Sea for three years under Secretary Folger, is published. Mr. Glidden says the islands are worth fighting for and that unless protected the seals will soon be exterminated. The seals and blue foxes are the only valuable products of the Islands.

Gov. Ames Feeling Better.

NORTH EASTON, Mass. Aug. 8.—Gov Ames last evening received a telegram from President Harrison at Boston, regretting that the Governor's health prevented his being there. The Governor saw a reporter to-day and said he was feeling much better and would have gone to Boston but for the advice of his physician who; dreads the excitement. For the past two days his pulse has remained at 76 which is lower than it has been before at any time since April.

The Steamship Montreal Wrecked.

FATHER POINT, Quebec, Aug 8.—The steamship Montreal of the Dominion Line, which left Montreal July 31 for Liverpool, is totally wrecked on Belle Isle. The passengers and crew were saved. They have plenty of provisions and will await the arrival of another steamer of the line to take them to their destination.

Sudden Death on a Race Track.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—Walter Davis of Hamilton, Ont., died of heart disease in the betting ring at the race track.

BY THE WAY.

—This is a perfect day.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—A new brass band has been organized at Bound Brook.

—The Salt Water Days this year are Saturdays, Aug. 10, 17, 24 and 31.

—The Aurora Singing society of New Brunswick will visit this city on the 17th instant.

—Fourteen car loads of Plainfielders left this morning on the Reform Club excursion to Rockaway Beach.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at the Court House in Somerville, on Tuesday next.

—Tuesday was observed as a strict fast day in the Jewish church, being the anniversary of the destruction of Solomon's temple.

—Yesterday atoned for much of the meteorological cussedness of the past fortnight. The weather growler scarcely peeped.

—Open your cellar windows and give air a chance to get at the walls, which must have been dampened by the recent heavy rains.

—The First Baptist church of Somerville has extended a call to the Rev. Addison Parker, of Morristown, to become its pastor.

—Mr. M. C. Bird has erected a windmill on the top of his new building on East Fourth street, which is to be used for pumping water.

—The Democratic State Committee decided yesterday to hold the State Convention on Sept. 10, in the Taylor Opera House, Trenton.

—A fresh young man attempted some difficult feats with a home-made bicycle on North avenue, about dusk last evening, but he didn't "feat" worth a cent.

—President Hammel, of the New Jersey Odd Fellows' Home, has issued a call upon the lodges for assistance in wiping out the debt of $2,000 on the institution.

—Lowande's circus arrived in the city at three o'clock this morning. Its first performance will be given this evening. To-morrow there will be performances both afternoon and evening.

—A number of boys formed a group on the sidewalk under a street lamp, at the corner of Fourth and Liberty streets late last evening, and amused themselves by playing poker with a five-cent limit.

—The following fourth-class Postmasters for New Jersey were appointed yesterday: Basking Ridge, P. C. Henry; East Millstone, Sanford Snyder; Harlingen, C. L. Williamson; Millstone, Arnold Owens.

—At Elizabeth yesterday the Commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the property, over which the Pennsylvania Railroad will run a track, met and gave $17,625 damages to property owners.

—Out of a total of thirty-one notices sent out to property owners in North Plainfield, requesting them to trim their trees in conformity to the borough ordinance, twenty have complied with the notice, and the result is that the street lighting is much better than heretofore.

Grand Regatta.

A grand regatta will be held on Staten Island Sound, on Saturday, August 17, 1889, under the auspices of the Columbia Yacht Club of New York. The races will be sailed under the rules of the Columbia Yacht club, and the following clubs will be represented: "Yonkers Corinthian, Sing Sing, Tappan Zee, Hudson River, New Jersey, Raritan Bay, Newark Bay, Jersey City and Sewaren.

A full view of the races can be had from the Sewaren House.

A Curious People.

Three families of English gypsies are in camp on Park avenue near the Driving Park. They have come all the way from Ohio since Spring living in their handsomely furnished wagons. They are intelligent and courteous people, and a visit to them with a peep into their strange ways and means of living, is quite a rare treat.

Plainfield's Population Increased.

Within the past few days the population in this city has been increased to the extent of three, namely, a son born to Mr. Louis Kline of East Second street, a daughter born to Mr. Robinson Pound of the same street, and yesterday morning a son was born to Mr. Richard Seamon of East Third street.

ENCLOSED GROUNDS.

What the Bowling Club Will do if It Gets Another Lease.

At last evening's meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club, the committee in charge of the Crescent ball nine was authorized to have the grounds at LaGrande avenue and Richmond street entirely enclosed provided another year's lease could be obtained at a fair rental.

It is therefore probable that by Saturday afternoon, the grounds will be completely fenced in. Reasonable rates for spectators will then be charged—15 cents for general admission for all, with ten cents extra for seats on the grand stands. In consideration of the high-priced games the management has scheduled for the remainder of the season, and the fine team of players that represents Plainfield, the above rates will surely be considered low enough.

Other business of the meeting was the election of Messrs F. O. Herring, G. W. Endicott, E. E. Anthony, Frank P. Huff, Thomas Kellar and C. D. Boice, as active members; and the enrollment on the list of honorary members, of the resident members of the ball team as long as they shall be active players, viz: D. Condon, W. Lee, A. W. Demarest, Jas. McMurray, George Cadmus and McLaughlin.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. E. M. Rodman and family have gone to Atlantic City.

Miss Munn of Newark, is the guest of Miss Hedden of West Fourth street.

Mr. A. W. Fish and family of 19 Franklin place, are at The Leadley, Asbury Park.

First Assistant Postmaster George Godown, is enjoying a vacation at Point Pleasant.

Mr. Cortlandt Evans, and family, and Mrs. John H. Evans, of "Oakwood," have gone to Beach Haven for two weeks.

Miss Annie Doliver of Somerville, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Doliver of Manning avenue. She is a sister of Mr. Doliver.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Herring left this morning for a month's rest on one of the islands in Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, Canada.

Mrs. L. Adams, the milliner, left this city yesterday for Suffield, Conn., where she will spend the remainder of the present month.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Slevin and family, of Franklin place, are spending a few weeks at the Land's End Hotel, Point Pleasant, N. J.

Mrs. Mary Fhan has returned to her home in Jersey City after a two week's visit to her aunt, Mrs. David Conover, of Stiner place, North Plainfield.

Mrs. John M. Agans, of Three Bridges, Hunterdon county, is visiting her daughters, Mrs. William L. Beekman of Dunellen, and Mrs. Mary A. Martin of North Plainfield.

Mrs. F. A. Church and son, Warren, with Mrs. Church's mother, Mrs. P. M. Demarest, left this morning for Ghent, Columbia county, N. Y., where they will spend several weeks.

Elizabeth, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanton of Prospect place, died this morning of cholera infantum. She was not yet a year old. Interment will be made at convenience of the family, in Trinity cemetery, New York.

Among the hotel arrivals registered at Asbury Park yesterday, were Miss Ida M. Wilson, at the Grand Central Hotel, and Mrs. D. M. and W. J. Moore, E. A. Moore, H. E. Moore, S. and C. F. Moore, all of this city, at the Minot House.

Mr. Geo. Tobin of this city, was riding a bicycle in the neighborhood of the "Notch," a few days ago, when the machine run into a rut, and the rider took a "header." The result was painful injuries to Mr. Tobin's side and wrist. Dr. Mattison dressed the wounds.

Sued Her Employer.

The case of Winnifred Ferguson vs. Mr. David Pond, to recover $16 wages alleged to be due to the complainant, came up before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. Mr. W. R. Codington appeared for the plaintiff and Assemblyman Ulrich represented the defence. It is claimed that the woman, who was employed as a domestic by Mr. Pond, was discharged for cause before her month was up, and she brought suit to recover a full month's pay.

Neither the defendant nor his witnesses were in court yesterday, and the justice rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff. Counsel for the defence thereupon filed an appeal bond, to contest the case in the District Court at Elizabeth.

A Sad Announcement.

It is with sorrow that we record today the death of Mary A., the beloved wife of Thomas G. Cole, which occurred at her home on Terrill road, yesterday, in her 39th year. The announcement is particularly distressing from the fact that the deceased gave birth to an eighteen-pound child on Tuesday, which was the direct cause of her death.

The funeral will take place from the Church of Our Saviour at Netherwood, to-morrow morning at 11.15 o'clock.

—A lawn tennis league has been proposed, to embrace Somerville, Belle Mead, Dunellen, Evona and Bound Brook. If this league be formed a tournament will probably be held at Bound Brook in the latter part of September. The Bound Brook club, with a membership of 35, has this Summer become the social feature of the neighborhood.

DENOUNCED ON ALL SIDES.

The "news" Receiving Its Just Deserts at Last for Its Falsehoods and Foolishness.

(From the Central Times.)

As a specimen of the ridiculous talk about the flood is the following sentence which began the account of the flood by the Plainfield news: "Torn through its heart by a great flood of water, Plainfield today is but a ragged and disheveled likeness of its former self." It can be truthfully said that a stranger to the topography of the city who had come to Plainfield the morning after the flood might have spent a long time in searching for the effects of the flood before he came upon any "ragged and disheveled likeness" of anything whatever, even among the few low places that were flooded.

* * *

The New York papers have fairly revelled and rioted in our misfortune, and, in the ecstacy of their wild mendacity, have magnified and distorted the facts over which their reporters gloated. The New York Tribune, in particular, which lays special claim to be a truthful journal and free from sensationalism, has within the past few days outdone the extra sensational journals in its plunging and preposterous romances about the Plainfield flood. To say the truth, one of our local daily papers has been hardly less sensational and absurd. We hear it denounced roundly on all sides as having done more harm to Plainfield by its falsehoods and foolishness than all the floods that ever visited us.

An Abstainer's Argument.

The well-known total abstinence advocate, Thomas A. Murphy, was in Chicago recently, and when asked by a reporter what he thought of the prohibition movement which he has always opposed, Mr. Murphy said: "The prohibition cake is dough. I knew it would prove so and hope they are beginning to find out you can't legislate a man sober. Prohibition means free whisky and that's all you can make of it. The idea of a prohibition law proving effectual in Chicago, for instance, is ridiculous. In a sparely settled country or in small towns perhaps it could be made so, but never in the centres of population.

"I believe that a prohibition law would simply tie our hands as to restrictive measures, and then with prohibition that did not prohibit, where would we be?"

"What do you think of the submission of prohibition amendments in South Dakota?"

"Are they going to do it? Well, they will carry them. They can do it out there where the people are scattered, and possibly when they are passed the laws may actually prohibit, but I maintain that it is against all reason. Only think of it, telling a man he shall not produce an alcoholic beverage, when the natural tendency of every fruit of the garden and orchard is toward fermentation. You can never prohibit, but men can quit getting drunk if they will."

The Tax is Always Right, the news is Always Wrong.

To the Editor of The Press:—During the years of slavery, it must have been unpleasant for the unfortunate delinquent slave to take up a South Carolina newspaper and see a picture of blood hounds, slave drivers, etc.,—unpleasant rememberances to be resisted that he might be free. In this city of churches, Sabbath schools and reforms, the tax driver uses the local press with his threatening advertisement, "Pay your taxes or go to jail." Recently the evening news scared the people into leaving their homes and walking the streets during the dark and wet nights of our great rain storm.

How many poor devils in the fear of jail have pawned their all to raise the unpopular and doubtful poll tax, that the pocket of the collector might swell with exhorbitant costs and penalties, and the treasury have its deficiencies, caused by no license, swelled from the pockets and trinkets of the poor delinquent! Surely Plainfield holds forth strange inducements for strangers between its tax drivers and scare-crow editors.

Charity.

Saturday's Great Game.

The great game of the season will be played at 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, on the LaGrande avenue grounds, between the Crescents of this city and the West Ends of Somerville.

The home team will be the regular one excepting a substitute in the field in the place of Demarest, who is away on a vacation. The West Ends, however, have strengthened themselves by the hiring of at least five professionals for the occasion. Therefore the Plainfield team will not have the same team against them that they defeated by a score of 7 to 6 on June 8, at Somerville.

The Crescents, however, will do their best, and if they win again, or come anywhere near winning, they will deserve the unbounded ovation that will be given by the thousand people present. But if Somerville wins with her New York contingent, no glory can be accorded her.

Would Not Tell a Lie.

A truthful (?) exchange says: "A farmer, while cutting oats near this place, made a mislick, and the sharp blade took off his right ear. He coolly picked up the detached member, wrapped it in his handkerchief and carried it home. His wife sewed it back into position, and it was knitted nicely and is doing business at the old stand."

AN ACCOMPLISHED HOSTLER.

The Educated and Musical Gentleman Who Cares for the Horses at Taylor's Hotel.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: When a good citizen is called away from his accustomed place of business, or from his home, he is always missed by those with whom he comes in contact. This is the case with a certain young man of this quiet little village by the name of Joseph H. Johnson, hostler at Taylor's Hotel, who has gone to spend a few weeks in the Catskills.

Few men acting in the same capacity are endowed with so many of nature's gifts. He possesses a good education, a thorough knowledge of horses and their various ailments, with a faculty for pleasing all classes of people who have dealings with him. He is also a good musician, both vocal and instrumental, and possesses all the requirements which go to make up a gentleman.

He has been with the Taylors for the past five years, and through his indefatigable efforts to keep his stable and hotel surroundings in perfect order, has made himself the talk of the neighborhood. You would actually think you were driving into a gentleman's flower garden instead of a hotel shed.

His room is nicely fitted up, and is filled with different musical instruments, as well as quite a library of some of our best authors, and works of art. He is strictly temperate, and the great care he takes of any animal entrusted to him has made his name famous amongst the driving class of people. And undoubtedly he has been instrumental in making Taylor's Hotel what it is today—one of the best family road houses in the State. If anyone doubts this, give Taylor a call and see.

Dunellen, Aug. 4.

Meeting of Public Library Directors.

A regular meeting of the Directors of the Library building was held last evening, present Messrs Male, Tyler, Tracy, Baldwin and Stillman.

The following bills were ordered paid: Miss E. L. Adams, salary for July, $50: Samuel H. Allen, salary for July, $40.

On motion the Librarian was granted a vacation of two weeks, and the employment of Miss Petrie was authorized at the compensation of $1 a day during her absence.

The thanks of the Board were extended by motion to Director Tracy for his gift to the Library of 8 vols. of Abbott's National Digest.

The librarian's report for the month of July was read, approved and ordered on file, as follows:

E. L. ADAMS, Librarian.

"Al" Drakes New Venture.

The "Man-about-town of a New York paper, has this to say of the Hon. A. A. Drake, of Westfield, whose wife is the sister of Mrs. Joseph Sandford of West Seventh street:

"'Al' Drake, who used to be one of the gayest of the stock shouters in Exchange Court, has recently settled down and gone into fancy tiling. He abandoned 'stock raising' on the Street and in the Jersey wolds some time last year; but he has not forgotten his old methods of rushing things on a customer. I met him at the Westminster Hotel not long ago, and began to catechise him about the Street. He shut me off instanter, and, pulling a piece of tiling from his coat pocket, opened fire on me like Colonel Mulberry Sellers anent the virtuous superiority of this specimen over all other lapidary decorations known to architects, and finally wound up by assuring me in his most robust and voluble manner that, so far as he was concerned, philanthropy, not avarice, had driven him into this new branch of trade. 'Al' is a sort of clairvoyant, he claims; I hope he sees his way clear to success in tiling."

To-morrow's Excursion.

Those who go on the annual excursion of the Warren Mission and Dunellen Presbyterian church Sunday schools to Asbury Park, to-morrow, cannot help but be assured of a good time. The indications are for a favorable day. The tide table is also favorable for a day's sport for the bathers, as well as the lookers on. The committee in charge have arranged for all baskets and parcels properly marked and delivered to baggage car, to deliver the same from Plainfield and return to Lake House and Ross' Pavillion. Tags will be furnished at depot for all those who wish them. Train leaves Plainfield 8:15 sharp.

—The West End club of Somerville set Saturday for a date to play in Flemington, and the game has been noted in the Democrat of that place. The date, however, has been canceled and the West Ends will play at Plainfield with the Crescents.

MR. WOLTMANN'S REPLY.

Some Facts About His Bid, and Other Observations for "Observer."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: Allow me to correct some statements made by your correspondent, who signs himself "Observer," and whose letter you published in your last evening's issue.

In referring to my bid, he says: "Woltmann & Fuller's proposition appears to be a very taking one, so far as any details were given. The hydrant rental asked was, however, higher than any other, except one, for similar services." Your correspondent is evidently mistaken, for the hydrant rental asked for in our bid, is, in fact, lower than any other for "similar services." All bids were based on a supply drawn from wells and pumped into a stand pipe; the hydrant rentals asked ranged from $8,000 to $5,000, the latter amount being the sum named in our bid as the yearly compensation for 200 hydrants, at $25 each. All additional hydrants (after the first 200) to be paid for at the rate of $20 each.

In order to comply with the request made by Council in the notice appended to the specifications, we also named a sum for hydrant rental, should the water be pumped in a reservoir on the first mountain, as also for the Passaic River scheme. In the former case our bid asked for $6,500; in the latter $10,000. The difference in both cases is accounted for by the fact that the expense is much greater than would be the case if the well and stand pipe plan is adopted. One other bidder made an estimate for the Passaic River scheme, in addition to the plan just referred to.

Your correspondent seems to be taking exception to the fact that not one of the eight competitors "contemplates risking his own capital in the enterprise," but seems to rely upon some banker to see him through. This is not nearly as strange as your correspondent thinks. The water works in Plainfield will probably cost from $200,000 to $250,000, and, speaking strictly for myself, and my associate, Mr. Fuller, I am bound to confess that we do not have the amount named in bank just at the moment. Neither do I think that any of our competitors could produce the sum in question, although this is merely a surmise on my part. If your correspondent will enquire of bankers, or other wealthy men, he will probably find that ninety-nine out of every hundred water works are built by contractors or engineers, who borrow the money needed from some banking institution or other.

Will "Observer" favor me and others, by kindly explaining what is the meaning of the last paragraph of his letter? I have read it over repeatedly, but I do not understand what is meant when he says: "You may depend upon it that whenever there is money enough in a franchise to warrant active competition, one will be obtained." If he desires to confer an additional favor let him sign his name to the letter, which will lend weight to the communication.

Yours truly,

E. WOLTMANN.

OUR PATRIARCHS.

Plainfield's "Oldest Inhabitants."

It may be interesting to our readers to know that at the present time there are forty-two citizens residing in this city who are over eighty years of age, and the aggragate age of them all is 3,512. The oldest citizen on the list is Mr. Israel Hetfield whose age is 94 years. The list is as follows:

	AGE
John Simpson	83
Jeremiah VanDeventer	84
Voorhis VanFleet	83
Peter Wooden	88
John Berry	82

MORE TROUBLE IN SAMOA.

Tamasese's Actions Causing a Stir in German Quarters.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The latest news from Samoa is causing a stir throughout Germany, and if the advices which have been received here through German channels are confirmed, there is reason to fear new and serious complications which may entirely undo the work of the recent Samoan Conference in Berlin.

According to these accounts King Mataafa, who had been brought back to Apia by a German man-of-war, with the express understanding that the status quo should be maintained until the treaty drafted by the Conference could be ratified by the United States Senate, has entirely repudiated this agreement. Immediately upon his landing he gathered his followers together and compelled King Tamasese to hand over to him the prison and the police force of Apia. He dismissed the German police Superintendent, Herr von Wolffersdorff, and released from prison several natives who had been arrested by his order.

At last accounts the entire municipal government of Apia was in the hands of Mataafa whose men were patrolling the city armed, and Tamasese, though nominally King, kept himself perforce very secluded.

Budd Has a Bad Record.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Frank C. Budd, who came here about a year ago and secured a position as bookkeeper, has mysteriously disappeared. He was quite a social leader for the short time he was here and livery men, clothiers and florists are mourning his departure for quite large sums. It now turns out that he had just been released from the Elmira Reformatory when he came here where he was serving a two years sentence for heavy embezzlement committed in New York. He also lived at one time in Bridgeport, Conn., where he forged the names of the mother of the girl he was going to see, for which it is claimed he realized $20,000. He then eloped with a variety actress, was arrested and some of the money recovered.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It has been decided to give the Petrel another trial.

Farmers at work near Peoria, Ill., unearthed fifteen skeletons.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

ENGLAND SURPRISED

The Conviction of Mrs. Maybrick Unexpected.

LIVERPOOL GREATLY EXCITED

An Attack Upon the Judge Prevented by the Police.

When He Appeared on the Street He Was Greeted with Howls of Rage and Cries of "Shame"—Steps Taken to Secure a Stay of Execution on the Ground of Newly Discovered Medical Evidence—A Pitying Scene When Sentence was Passed.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 8.—The announcement of the verdict of guilty in the Maybrick case caused great excitement among all classes of people here, who have been watching the trial with great interest.

After the verdict became known thousands of people assembled around the entrance to the court room and waited for the departure of the presiding judge.

As soon as he made his appearance he was greeted with howls of rage, and the hooting of the crowd was kept up for a long time. There were incessant cries of "shame," and an attack upon the judge's carriage was prevented by police interference.

The feeling in Liverpool against the verdict is intense. Steps have been taken to secure a stay of execution on the ground of the discovery of new medical evidence.

A Pitying Scene.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—When the clerk arraigned Mrs. Maybrick and asked the customary question whether the prisoner had anything to say before sentence of death was passed. She stood up, haggard and trembling, and with a respectful bow addressed His Lordship in these words: "My Lord, evidence has been kept back from the jury which, if it had been known, would have altered their verdict. I am not guilty of this offense."

Having said this, she sat down, gasping for breath and seemingly more dead than alive. The poor creature sobbed like a child, while the Judge, assuming the black cap, in solemn tones sentenced her to be hanged by the neck until dead.

At this moment there was an awful hush upon the court and a pin could have been heard drop amid the painful stillness. Some women present were in tears; great, strong men were seen stealthily wiping their eyes, as if ashamed to be seen weeping. The Judge himself was visibly moved and the barristers—Charles Russell was not in the ranks—were very grave. It was all over in less than five minutes.

Mobile Believes Her Innocent.

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 8.—The conviction of Mrs. Maybrick, who is favorably remembered here, is a great shock to the citizens of Mobile. She was a very charming young girl when she left this city, and nobody who knew her believe that she is guilty of the awful crime for which she is under sentence. The announcement of the verdict reached here early in the afternoon and to-day is the universal theme of conversation.

EXPLODED BY A BASEBALL.

A Dynamite Cap in Edgar Howard's Pocket Will Cause His Death.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 8.—A very peculiar and sad accident occurred yesterday in Brownsville. Some of the young men and boys had gathered on the playground in the centre of the village and were engaged in a ball game.

It had progressed for several innings when Edgar S. Howard, 14 years old, went in to bat. Almost the first ball sent to him was wildly pitched, and the players and crowd were shocked when they saw it strike him in the stomach. An explosion followed in an instant, which enveloped him in a cloud of smoke.

The boy had been near some railroad construction work which is in progress and had been given a dynamite cap. When he went to play ball he put the cap in his pocket and forgot all about it. The ball had struck fairly upon his pocket, causing the cap to burst with terrible effect. The whole fleshy portion of the lad's right arm was blown away, but his other injuries were even more severe; it tore into his right side, lacerating the flesh in a frightful manner.

Millionaire Balbach Dying.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug 8.—Edward Balbach, sr., thrice a millionaire and head of the Newark Smelting and Refining Works, is dying at his home, 10 Fergurson street, this city. On Saturday he was stricken with paralysis, and although the attending physicians were confident of his ultimate recovery, a relapse occurred which has ended all hope. Mr. Balbach is 85 years old.

Silk Hands Out on Strike.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 8.—One hundred employes of the hand-silk department of the mills of R. & H. Adams, in this city, struck in consequence of a proposed reduction of 5 per cent. in their wages. Notice of the reduction had been given them a week ago.

Rev. Mr. Hartman's Appointment.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—Rev. A. S. Hartman, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, has tendered his resignation to accept the general secretaryship of the Board of Home Missions of the Lutheran Church in the United States, which has recently been tendered him.

Democratic State Convention Call.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 8.—The Democratic State Committee decided to hold the State Convention on September 10 in the Taylor Opera House here. Allan L. McDermott, chairman, said no other name but ex-Gov. Abbett's would be heard in the Convention.

DUPED AND ROBBED.

A Connecticut Farmer Has an Encounter With a Highwayman.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 8.—Edward Dewolf, a Salem farmer, was robbed of six hundred dollars here.

A man claiming to live in New London has for some time been negotiating with Dewolf for the purchase of the latter's farm. They agreed upon terms and the stranger tendered in payment a check exceeding the amount agreed by six hundred dollars.

Dewolf accepted the check and the two men drove to Salem where the farmer drew six hundred dollars from the bank. They then started back to Salem. On the way they were stopped by a highwayman who demanded their money. Both men handed over their money, including the farmer's six hundred dollars.

They then drove on but before they had proceeded far the stranger requested the farmer to alight from the carriage while he (the strauger) started in pursuit of the robber. The farmer got out, and the other man drove back.

It has since been learned that he was soon joined by the highwayman and that the two drove to Norwich together and took a train for Providence. The authorities are on the lookout for them.

FINISHED THEIR WORK.

Pennsylvania Republicans Again Urge High License.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 8.—The Republican platform, as unanimously agreed to, indorses high license and suggests that the next Legislature widen the scope of the Brooks law to embrace the sale of liquors by wholesale, thus giving the courts the same discretionary power they now possess with reference to granting retail licenses. A liberal construction of the pension law is advocated, and the protection tariff indorsed.

Henry K. Boyer, of Philadelphia, was unanimously nominated for Treasurer, the only State officer to be voted for in November.

References in the speeches by the temporary and permanent chairmen to Quay's management of the Presidential campaign and to Mr. Blaine were rapturously applauded. William H. Andrews was re-elected chairman of the State Committee.

A $300,000 Forgery.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—Jno. S. Blaisdell a well known man here has been robbed of something like $300,000 by forgeries. It is made public to-day that J. Frank Collom, of Rockwood, Collom & Co., attorneys, is the forger. The forgeries extend over a period of several years and the money has been lost in speculation. Collom confesses his crime and says he has no desire to defend himself, he simply wants to go to the penitentiary. He was the attorney for Mr. Blaisdell and had free access to his papers. He is but 35 years old and of a good family. He is under arrest.

Don't Think Bandits Have Her.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Edmund Pendleton, a relative of Mrs. Pendleton Bowler, reported captured by Italian brigands states that she has been in constant correspondence with Mrs. Bowler and has no information of the capture. Mrs. Bowler is at St Moirtz, Switzerland, her last letter having been received by the Pendletons two weeks ago.

Officers of the Chautauqua Railroad.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The stockholders of the Chautauqua Lake Railway have elected the following officers: President, A. O. Granger, Philadelphia; Vice-President, J. M. Gazzam, Philadelphia; General Manager, J. Murray Africa, Huntington, Pa.; Secretary, D. H. Post, Jamestown; Treasurer, George H. Burt, Boston.

Chas. A. Dana's Birthday.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—The Journal editorially refers to the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun, who was born at Hinsdale, N. H., August 8, 1819. The Journal in the course of a highly complimentry tribute, says: "Mr. Dana holds to-day, by the common consent of his co-workers, the enviable position of the leading journalist of this country."

Committed to an Insane Hospital.

SANDWICH, Mass., Aug. 8.—Judge H. P. Harriman on the evidence of doctors, has committed Mrs. Mary Rowell to the insane hospital at Westboro. Mrs. Rowell is a grand daughter of Gen. Stark of Revolutionary fame. She is sent to the institution at the request of herfriends.

Portsmouth Municipal Election.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 8.—In the municipal election Edmund S. Fay, Democratic candidate for Mayor was elected by 590 majority. The Democrats elected their entire ticket in wards 1 and 3; the Republicans elected an Alderman in ward 2. The election in ward 4 will be contested.

New Jersey Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The following fourth-class postmasters for New Jersey were appointed to-day: Bashing Ridge, P. C. Henry; East Millstone, Sanford Snyder; Harlingen, C. L. Williamson; Millstone, Arnold Owens.

The Atlanta's Test Without Accident.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8.—Not a single accident occurred aboard the Atlanta, during the tests, despite the rumor ashore to that effect. The machinery remained intact throughout.

Woolen Mills Burned.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8.—The Centredale Woolen Mills of Centredale, R. I., owned by the Dyerville Company, were burned yesterday. Loss $20,000. Insured.

Parnell's Health Impaired.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Mr. Parnell's health has shown signs of impairment and he has been advised by his physician to go to the south of France to recuperate.

A NIGHT IN WHITECHAPEL.

A New York Journalist Visits the Wickedest Spot in the World.

The Resort of Thieves, Prize Fighters and Low Women—An Appalling Saturday Night—Drunken Women and Children.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

English romancists have had no more fruitful topic than crime and criminals, and for many years the Seven Dials and Petticoat Lane have been the localities where the villians of fiction were supposed to have their habitation. No novel was complete without reference to the crooks of the localities named. The Seven Dials was indeed a thug's paradise, and Petticoat Lane a place where murderers, thieves, prize fighters, scarlet women, and robbers held high carnival. But time has changed all this. The two sections of London above referred to, are bad enough, in all conscience, but Whitechapel has completely eclipsed them, and to-day the East End of London has no rival in the world as the hot bed of sin, misery and squalor. Denver, the Black Hills country, and the mining camps of the far West, and Australia, never in the midday of their sin could hold a candle to Whitechapel. It is a new Sodom and Gomorrah, and stands alone among the big cities as the wickedest spot in the world. New York and Chicago are wicked enough, but they are as suckling babes to Whitechapel. Paris is a city of gilt-edged sin. It is below the surface, and is done with an art that may somewhat palliate its enormity. Berlin, Vienna, Brussels and Liverpool may well hang their heads in shame, but none of them can in the slightest degree approach Whitechapel.

IN THE GROGGERY.

The recent unequaled perfomance of the skillful carver who hid his talent under the anonimity of Jack the Ripper, has brought Whitechapel squarely to the front, and the dashing American tourist, bent on taking in London town, first enquires the route to Whitchapel. There are many ways of seeing it. If you go in a hansom in daylight, and simply drive along the Mile road there is little to be seen that cannot be duplicated in the city proper or in Liverpool, Berlin, Vienna, San Francisco, New Orleans, Chicago or New York. If you go on top of one of the four horse busses, as many persons do, you come away with a confused idea of dirty children, drunken women, a blare of yellow lights, and the sickening odor of decayed fish and vegetables. If you would see it at its worst, go on a Saturday night and remain until Sunday morning. Walk from any point beyond the Bank of England through the crooked streets and alleys, with only here and there a light, and you will see Whitechapel at its worst and at a time when you will remember it to your dying day.

It was my good fortune to fall in with a Scotland Yard detective, who, for a consideration, agreed to accompany me. He was a typical English detective, a looker on more than a worker, brave as a lion, a man known to most of the wretched gang who make up the London crooks, and who had won the blue ribbon of his bureau for personal bravery and acuteness.

"Put on the oldest and shabbiest clothing you have," he advised me, "and leave at home your jewelry, your valuables, and all your money, but enough to carry you through and meet me at the Three Nuns Tavern at 11 o'clock. Don't take any firearms. It might be well, however, to carry a good, keen-edged knife. A London crook is afraid of a knife. You will not have to use it, but, if we should get into a tight corner the sight of it will make the rascals fly."

It was a beautiful night, a trifle warm, but fairly comfortable. A big, glorious harvest moon hung in the sky like a ball of molten fire. Myriad stars looked down from a perfect sky. The streets were thronged with humanity. The doors of the Three Nuns Tavern swung to and fro, a thirsty crowd surging in, and a drunken mob elbowing its way out. A dozen or more bar tenders were on duty. They were collarless, wore their shirt sleeves rolled up to their elbows, and now and then wiped their sweaty faces with a greasy beer soaked rag that they also used for wiping the mugs and counter. In the crowd were 'longshoremen, blue jackets, children who had never known childhood, teamsters, clerks, women young and old, and children from babes in arms to young men and women. Everybody was drinking. The men smoked and swore. The women shouted coarse epithets at their husbands, brothers, or fathers. The girls stood at the bar in a brazen style, while the men kissed and hugged them with perfect freedom. Where some peculiarly atrocious thing was done or some unusually filthy suggestion made the girls smiled a half tipsy smile, while the men leered at them. Or, perhaps, one woman not quite so drunk as her neighbors, took umbrage at the liberties, and spat in her companion's face or dashed a mug of foaming beer over him. This was always the signal for a wild guffaw that could be heard across the street and attracted more visitors. A policeman pushed open the door, playfully chucked a girl under the chin, took her mug of beer from her, drank it himself and continued his round.

A breath of fresh air was welcome indeed. We passed along a few doors to another place where a big sign in gold letters, "Gin Palace," told that its proprietor was at any rate candid. A peep through the door revealed scenes somewhat like those which we had witnessed in the "Three Nuns." Along a block or two we moved and a neighboring clock chimed 12. The electric light and the ill-smelling petroleum lamps made the street as light as day. Here is an old clothes store, and next to it a gin place, then a cheap restaurant, where "stinking" fish are frying in the window, and going off like hot cakes at a penny each. They are still hot, and are wrapped in dirty newspapers for purchasers, who sneak away in some dark alley to devour them. The odor was paralyzing. Now and then we came upon big fine looking stores and sometimes a group of innocent looking factory girls, in smart red Jerseys, eager for a frolic. But these were rare. Unless appearances are deceptive the maiden tribute is still paid in Whitechapel, for the stamp of sin and degradation seemed to be set on half the women encountered. Hucksters thronged the streets and shouted their wares in stentorian tones. There are Punch and Judy shows, places to try your skill in shooting, machines for inflating your lungs, and all sorts of places for the sale of penny gimcracks. The men smoke their pipes as they move along, now and then singing and shouting. The women join with them and high above the song is often heard a paralyzing oath. So it goes on block after block. As we come full upon a crowd of young ruffians on a street corner, they see my companion, the detective, and in a twinkling, like scared rats, have scattered and hidden themselves. They knew the detective's face.

"I had one of them up on suspicion of being 'Jack the Ripper,'" the detective sententiously remarks, "an' I guess they thought it would be safer to run."

We turn into a dark alley and moved along slowly. Heads bobbed out of windows and hurried conversations tell that we are watched. A quick footstep from behind and a blear-eyed, dirty-faced, unkempt man is up to us, and whispers mysteriously:

"Diamonds or silk?"

The detective turns on him and says:

"Anything cheap?"

The dirty chap with the tousled head moves across the alley rapidly into a dark doorway, pulls a bull's eye lantern from his pocket, lights it, holds it up to my face, eyes me steadily to see if I can be trusted, turns to my friend the dectective and does the same and as the light falls full on his face utters an oath and turns to run. He has recognized the detective but the latter's strong hand holds him in a vice like grip.

"Show us your diamonds!" he commands.

The thief pleads eloquently for his release and says he hasn't any.

"Don't lie to me" says the detective. "I'm not after you to-night. Show my friend your diamonds or down you go to the jail on the old charge. We don't want to buy. We want to see them."

A STREET SCENE.

The detective releases his man. The fellow looks him calmly in the face, then thrusts his dirty hand into the bosom of his greasy shirt, pulls out a little package covered with a dirty cloth, and turning his bull's eye lantern full on them reveals a dozen stones of the purest water.

"Stole 'em, every one," says the detective as we move on. "He can nip a diamond pin better than any man in London. Sells 'em cheap, too."

The thief shuffles off as we are accosted by two women. A sickly candle from an opposite window throws its light upon them. The oldest is thirty perhaps, but drink has made her appear to be forty. The youngest says she is seventeen although she doesn't look a day over thirteen, a tall thin sickly girl, who has lived a fast life and is now on the verge of delirium tremens. They are scantily clad, filthy looking in appearance and repulsive in their talk. The youngest offers to escort us through the district for two shillings, but her companion underbids her a shilling. Finally they agree to remain with us till morning for a shilling apiece, and as we move on a step they offer themselves for a sixpence and a pint of gin.

Is there any spot outside of Whitechapel where women sell themselves so cheaply? In the course of another two hours walk we are accosted at least five hundred times, and in each case the sum finally asked was only sixpence or twelve cents of American money.

Hour after hour we walk through the streets. The glorious harvest moon is melting away. In the East the first gray signs of dawn are visible. From a hallway where half a dozen persons are stretched on the floor asleep comes the moaning of a woman. In her arms she holds the cold form of a three months' old babe. Its life went out with the tide, and her shrieks are pitiful to hear. How long the babe has been dead no one can tell, nor whether it died from natural causes, a fall or suffocation. We know not. And the mother can tell nothing. She, like all her companions, laid down in her drunken stupor to sleep, and when she awoke her lifeless child lay at her side.

It is seven o'clock as we emerge into the Mile Road and start toward the city proper. The streets are still crowded. St. Paul's bells are pealing out the glad tidings that another Sabbath has come, and as we pass by the Three Nuns, tired of head and feet, we see the lights still burning, a score of men standing at the bar and the drunken mother with her baby boy lies snoring soundly in an adjoining alley. The little fellow has lost his only garment, and is as naked as when born. As we step over him a childish smile illumines his face, and the dimple in his sickly cheek was moving.

Who can tell what stirred his boyish brain and made him smile this glorious Sunday morning? DAVID WECHSLER.

More Cases of Bloody Flux.

CARLTON, Ill., Aug. 8.—Thirty deaths from blood flux have occurred up to date. The physicians are unable to check or give a cause for the terrible epidemic.

Neal Dow's Erudite Daughter.

Very few people know that General Dow has an invalid daughter in Nashua, N. H., who is even more of a wonder than the old man himself. She has not been able to move from her chair for years, but she has been an indefatigable student, and has mastered the French, German, Spanish, Russian and Greek languages. She recently performed the feat of repeating a long passage from her Greek Testament, verbatim, from memory, a month after she had read it.

SAFE AT BAR HARBOR

The President Welcomed by Secretary Blaine.

CROWDS CHEER HIM ON THE WAY

His Carriage Collides With Another on the Route to Mr. Blaine's Home.

The President Greeted at Bar Harbor by the Firing of Salutes and Rousing Cheers from the Residents—He Walked Arm in Arm with Mr. Blaine Along the Wharf. A Visit to Moosehead Lake and a Big Reception Being Arranged.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 9.—President Harrison and party arrived here last evening from Boston. The party were met at Mt. Desert by Secretary Blaine, who had gone over on a special boat to await his arrival. Mr. Blaine walked along the platform between the people, and, stepping into the private car, greeted the President. With but a few moments' delay the President and Mr. Blaine, followed by the others of the party, left the cars and walked through the crowd to the steamer Sappho, which was gaily decorated.

The Sappho had but few passengers beside the Presidential party. On arriving at the wharf at Bar Harbor the revenue cutter Woodbury fired a salute which was re-echoed from the yachts in the harbor, most of which were prettily decorated. At the same time the crowd on the wharf sent up rousing cheers, and the band played a spirited air. The President and Mr. Blaine walked arm in arm along the wharf to the street, where carriages were in waiting.

While the livery carriage containing the President and Mr. Blaine was turning a corner, it ran into another carriage, and a wheel of the latter vehicle was smashed. Mr. Walker Blaine, Mr. Halford and Mr. Lodge followed in a carriage drawn by Mr. Blaine's horses, and a number of other carriages fell in behind, making quite a procession through the main street, while the piazzas of the hotels were filled with on-lookers. Many of the buildings were decorated, and at several points along the route cheers for the visitors were raised. But when the procession turned out of Main street, to proceed to Stanwood, Mr. Blaine's cottage, the streets contained no crowds and few decorations.

On reaching the cottage the President and party were welcomed by Mrs. Blaine, and quickly made themselves at home. Last night the President dined quietly with the Blaine family. Just what he will do to-morrow is a little uncertain. He took luncheon to-day with Aulick Palmer, and this evening will enjoy the hospitalities of the Canoe Club. A visit to Moosehead Lake and a popular reception at Bar Harbor are among the features in prospect.

The President was the recipient of much attention along the route from Boston to Bar Harbor.

At Waterville a salute greeted the President as he left the train for the first time since the departure from Boston. He was escorted by the Governor's staff to a platform near by, and was introduced to the people by Mayor Maeder.

The band played for a minute or two, and then President Harrison spoke as follows:

The preparations which have been made here are more suggestive of a speech than those I have seen at any other place on my route. I came from Washington with a resolute purpose to make no speeches. The purpose of my coming to Maine, as you well know, was to visit your distinguished citizen, my personal friend and Cabinet officer, James G. Blaine. I beg you will, therefore, allow me simply to thank you for the cordiality with which you have greeted me; to wish you all good, and to bid you all good-bye.

MORE ATTACHMENTS.

The Riverside and Oswego Mills Company Pushed by Their Creditors.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 9.—The attachments which have been put on the property of the Riverside and Oswego Mills Company in Olneyville, this city, have caused a wave of excitement in the financial circles of the State. Other attachments are expected to follow at once.

The firm of Stoddard, Lovering & Co., of Boston, importers of machinery and mill supplies, is said to be a heavy creditor of the Riverside and Oswego, and is expected to drop down upon the company in a few hours.

Here the attachments are looked upon as indicating a failure. The firm has been doing business through the Merchants' National Bank, of this city, and the cashier, John W. Vernon, said yesterday that the attachment would operate as a failure, compelling the shut down of the mills in a day or two.

The prospect last night was that there will have to be an assignment made to prevent other attachments being levied and to lift those already on.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 9.—The National Bank of Redemption of Boston placed an attachment of $50,000 on the Riverside mill property to-day. J. C. Wallace & Bro. of Philadelphia have placed an attachment of $3,000.

The Flack Divorce Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Flack, wife of Sheriff Flack, has retained Wm. M. Evarts for counsel, and Judge Bookstaver has granted an order reopening the case of her divorce from the Sheriff.

SULLIVAN GREETS LOWRY.

The Champion Assures the Governor of His Distinguished Consideration.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—It has been learned that John L. Sullivan, while going from Jacksonville to Purvis, had an interview on the train with Gov. Lowry of Mississippi. Sheriff Giles introduced the champion saying, "Governor, at Mr. Sullivan's request I have brought him to see you."

Sullivan, hat in hand, said in substance: "Yes, your Excellency, I wanted to pay my respects to you. I have no idea that you have any ill feeling toward me personally, and I want to say that I have no hard feeling toward you, and do not blame you for doing your duty as Governor of your State. But, Governor, if you knew me, you would know that I am not a bad hearted man. I don't want to break your laws. I didn't know the fight was to come off in Mississippi till the last moment and it was too late for me to do anything. It was then fight or be called a coward. I know, Governor, you would be like I was. You wouldn't let them call you a coward without fighting. I wanted to pay my respects to you, Governor, and say to you that I wish you well, and hope you will have success in life and all your efforts to enforce your laws, which, I assure you, I had no intention of breaking. I am yours truly, John L. Sullivan."

The champion then bowed himself out, the Governor courteously acknowledging Sullivan's greeting.

The Governor has not given his impression of Sullivan, but those who were near say he was evidently impressed by Sullivan's gentlemanly demeanor. He was heard to say: "He hasn't got a bad eye by any means."

Fifty Years a Priest.

BALTIMORE, Aug 9.—Elaborate preparations are making for the celebration of the jubilee of the Very Rev. Edward McColgan, Vicar-General of the Baltimore diocese. On September 1 he will have been in the priesthood fifty years. The celebration, which will take place on October 23, at St. Peter's, where he is pastor, will be attended by churchmen of high degree from all over the country. Bishop Foley of Detroit, a former assistant of Father McColgan's, will say the jubilee mass.

Where Women Have a Show.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 9.—School district No. 1, has elected Miss Mary B. Cushman, Tax Collector. Miss Cushman belongs to a prominent Quaker family and last year was State Superintendent of the suffrage department of the Woman's Christian Union. Mrs. Minerva B. Cushman was elected District Clerk. A number of ladies voted.

HIGHLAND, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Riverside has again elected Mrs. T. C. Alberston, School Librarian. Several ladies voted.

Executions Against a Hat Maker.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 9.—Executions have been issued against George Bollman, of Reading, owner of a large hat factory in Adamstown, this county, for about $20,000. An attachment was recently issued by Edward H. Green & Co., wool merchants of Philadelphia, against Bollman. Asa Peck of Providence has a claim against Bollman but it has not yet been executed. Bollman's liabilities are $30,000. Assets not yet ascertained.

Wages Increased.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 9.—A notice has been posted in the Works of the Columbia Iron Company announcing an increase from $3.50 to $3.85 per ton for puddling and other wages in proportion. When the reduction in wages was made four months ago a promise was made that when the trade became better the wages would be increased, hence the advance.

Atrocities in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 9.—It is reported from Covington county that near a place called McFeill, a few nights ago, three young men went to a house occupied by a widow and two grown daughters, made a criminal assault upon the women and destroyed the furniture. Then they went to a neigboring cabin and tortured an old negro, and when his son protested they shot the young man dead.

Serious Floods in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—The steamship Arabic, which arrived last night from Yokohama, brings advices to the effect that 100 persons were drowned, 12,000 houses washed away and about 8,500 acres of cultivated land seriously damaged in four of the seven cantons which suffered from the overflow of the Chikugo in Fukuokaken by the recent heavy rains.

Found Dead in the Hay.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Patrick Flanagan, aged about 60 years, living on Vine Street, disappeared mysteriously on Tuesday morning. Search for her proved unavailing until to-day when she was found in the barn, buried in the hay, dead. It is supposed she fell from the loft head first into the hay and being very fleshy was unable to extricate herself.

Australian Ballot in New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 9.—The Australian ballot bill was summarily disposed of in the House yesterday, and the report of the Committee to postpone it to the next session being adopted by a viva voce vote.

BALL PLAYERS RILED

The Boston Club Receives a Breezy Dispatch.

DENOUNCED FOR POOR PLAYING.

The Members Indignant and the Manager Threatens to Resign.

Excitement Over the Struggle for the Pennants—The New York Giants Badly Beaten by the Hoosiers—Boston Still Leads in the League Race—The Brooklyn Club Working Hard for First Place in the Association Contest.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—A Chicago dispatch says that a storm of indignation is sweeping through the Boston ball team over a dispatch received by Manager Hart yesterday from Boston, and which used uncalled for language.

On learning its contents the players became indignant and Manager Hart felt the insult so keenly that he was tempted to tender his resignation; also that the dispatch has done more to demoralize the team than the loss of every game on the trip.

The dispatch was from one of the directors and read as follows: "What is the matter with the team? You are disgracing the Boston public and Music Hall is filled with hisses daily. You had better put Madden, Johnston and Smith in cotton. What is the matter with Radbourne? Ain't he going to pitch any any more? This kind of work is losing the club thousands of dollars. Do you want to force one of us to go West?"

Manager Hart wrote a six page letter to President Soden and enclosed the telegram. He wrote: "I am a business man and want to be treated as such." He said afterward: "I never heard of such a thing in my life. A club leading in the race getting a send off like this from one of the owners of the club. Why, it's only worthy of a crazy man."

Lou Knight Made a League Umpire.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 9.—President Young, of the National Baseball League, is visiting here. To-day he appointed Alonzo Knight, an old player and umpire, to the position of League umpire.

Lawyer Kennedy Interviews Burke.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Attorney Kennedy succeeded in securing an interview with Burke at the county jail. Mr. Kennedy said after the conference that if he was living when the case came to trial he would surely represent Burke. His client, he said, did not look like a man who had been persecuted—in fact he was quite good-natured.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The case of Joseph Sullivan for illegal liquor selling, has been adjourned for a week.

—The Young Crescents of this city will play the Young Americans of Dunellen, at the latter place, Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

—The New Jersey Central Railroad company announces the next excursion to Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko on Wednesday, August 14.

—Lowande's circus performed to a large audience, last evening. To-night the company will close its engagement here. It is said that they give a good performance. The circus shows in Bound Brook to-morrow.

—The hop given in T. A. B. Association Hall, on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society was a grand success. About two hundred persons were present, and danced to Prof. Cahill's music until the early hours in the morning.

—The Pennsylvania railroad has made an offer to the Elizabeth City Council to elevate its tracks through the city, on completion of the new four-track through line, provided the C. R. R. of N. J. will do the same. A handsome station will be erected if this scheme goes through. Several hundred trains a day pass over both roads.

—We have received a copy of The Carthage (Mo.) Press, and an illustrated catalogue with map, descriptive of the city of Carthage and Jasper county generally, showing it to be the most prosperous city and county in the Southwest. Rich in mineral and manufacturing products, and the best grain and farming land in the State. Everybody is prosperous and wealthy, and there is abundant room for comers to make a fortune in a few years, either in business or farming.

A Trial by Jury.

An amusing case was tried before Justice Wadsworth and a six-men jury, yesterday afternoon, which resulted in the jury awarding the plaintiff $25. Mr. Abram Q. Fine of West Front street, brought suit against his neighbor, Ferdinand Smith, to recover $50 damages alleged to be due him on account of the defendant's chickens scratching in his (the complainant's) yard. Corporation Counsel Marsh appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. W. A. Coddington for the defence. The latter, however, was taken suddenly ill when the case was called, but he held out pluckily, and ably defended his client.

The jury rendered a verdict of $25 for the plaintiff.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union takes this method to thank the trustees of the Methodist church for kindly allowing them to hold the memorial services therein, on Sunday, July 28, and every person who in any way aided to make the meeting a success.

The anniversary services of the W. C. T. U., will be held on Sept. 5. Mrs. Ellis will deliver the address, and will spend a week in Plainfield. Notices of meetings will be given hereafter.

Do not forget the Thursday afternoon meetings at 4 o'clock.

Fell From a Coal Train.

John Witteman, a lad about sixteen years of age, and night operator in the telephone office in this city, fell from a coal train at Westfield between eleven and twelve o'clock today, and terribly crushed his right hand. The boy also received some deep scalp wounds.

Drill Engine, No. 30 brought the unfortunate boy to this city, and he was transferred to Muhlenberg Hospital where Dr. Endicott amputated three of the fingers and dressed the wounds.

Sons of Temperance at Boynton Beach.

Wednesday was truly Sons of Temperance day at Boynton Beach, 800 members of the Order being present, who passed the time in dancing, singing, speech-making, bathing, fishing, playing games, etc. The grand march was led by the G. W. P. and G. W. A. Howell Div., No. 97, of this city, had a large representation present. Nothing occurred to mar the happiness of any, and, as a result, a jolly good time was had.

IN PROHIBITION PLAINFIELD.

How One "Temperance" Man Gets His. When the Proprietor is Out.

A member of the Reform Club with a medical friend, went into a Plainfield pharmacy, the other day, and presented the following prescription:

℞

Tr. Gentian C	drm 1
Spiritus Frumenti	oz 6
Aq. Carbonat	oz 5
M et Div in Haustus No. 2

The young clerk put up the prescription and administered it as directed. In plain English it called for an infinitesimal portion of tincture of gentian, a glass full of rye whiskey and some plain soda. "Mix and divide in draughts for two," were the instructions at the foot, and the Reform Club member and his medical friend each drank a dose.

Just as they finished the proprietor of the pharmacy entered, and upon seeing the prescription he indignantly remarked that if he had been in the pair would not have got what they came for. One of them then offered the pay for the prescription, but this the proprietor refused with the assertion that he did not keep a saloon nor sell rum in defiance of the law.

ALL'S READY.

The People Expectantly Awaiting the Second Game Between Plainfield and Somerville.

It will be a great ball game, to-morrow, and everybody will be there. The grounds will be entirely enclosed. General admission at 15 cents will include a seat if you are early. Ten cents additional will be charged for seats on the grand stand.

The names, positions and batting order of the two nines will be as follows, though subject to slight changes. The Somerville team is as named by Manager Mack:

WEST END.	CRESCENT.
Bishop, 1b	Lee, 3b
Kelly, 3b	McMurray, 1b
Williams, 2b	Condon, 2b
Harkins, p	Demarest, cf
Moorehead, ss	McLaughlin, lf
Davenport, lf	Hayden, rf
Sublich, c	Bowes, c
Freilinghuysen, rf	Gately, p
Carbonell, cf	Cadmus, ss

The only change in the Crescent team as above, will be a substitute in place of Demarest who made the winning run in the game at Somerville. He is away on his vacation. Freilinghuysen is also away and may not be back in time, and Carbonell may be too ill. Otherwise the team will be as given.

Mr. Wm. Cadmus, who was selected by the West Ends to umpire the game at Somerville, will also umpire to-morrow's game here. No fault can be found with his ability and honesty.

Beat 'Em Shooting Too!

For a month or so past a shooting gallery firm in Somerville have had three prizes on exhibition, which were to be presented to the three persons making the best record at rifle practice. Since then the "hayseeds" from the neighborhood of the pottery field, have nightly blazed away at the bull's eye in the gallery, and occasionally a stray bullet would hit the target—that's all. Last night was the time set for awarding the prizes, so five of our local sportsmen went up to Somerville and brought home every prize.

In the classification shoot, last night, there were about twenty-five entries, including the five from here. The first prize, a handsome banjo, was won by Harry Meeker, who scored 48 out of a possible 50; William Patterson scored 49 and won the second prize, a rifle, and Max Hanson scored 46 and eloped with the third prize, a pair of boxing gloves.

In what next would our neighbors like to engage?

German School Organized.

A new German school has recently been organized under the auspices of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, and the first session will be held in the Society's Hall on Somerset street, on the second Saturday in September. The session for boys will be from 1:30 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and for girls from 3:30 to 5 P. M. Competent teachers will instruct the members' children free of charge, but a small tuition fee will be charged outsiders.

Application for membership should be made to Mrs. Beiter, East Front street, this city.

But a Short Gap Between Trains.

Probably no railroad in the country handles so many trains, within certain hours, as the New Jersey Central. Over four hundred trains of all classes pass the Communipaw station daily! This includes the Newark and New York trains, that branch leaving the main line just West of the station. Many of these, in fact most of them, are local passenger and freight trains. During the busy hours of morning and evening trains follow each other in and out of the handsome depot with a rapidity that is somewhat startling to the uninitiated.

Five Thousand Dollars Damage at Summit.

The committee appointed by the Board of Chosen Freeholders to examine the bridges in Summit to ascertain the damage done by the recent rains, have gone thoroughly over the district. They found the township roads in a bad condition, and nearly all the bridges damaged. The committee was accompanied by John H. Pheasant, one of the town committeemen. They have estimated that it will cost about $5,000 to repair the bridges and culverts.

MAYOR MALE'S BRAVERY.

Like THE PRESS, He is Not Afraid to Tell the news His Opin on of It.

And now we learn that even His Honor, Mayor Male, could not restrain his indignation, but personally and vigorously told the editor of the news to his face, that his paper had done more to damage the prosperity of Plainfield than all the floods it has ever experienced.

And we have the word of Julian Scott—one of those who held that Night Watch at the awful Feltville dam—that he has requested the editor of the news to keep his name out of the sheet.

For their safety we will not publish a list of those who have stopped taking the news because of its falsehoods and foolishness. A list of the advertisers who would withdraw from its columns if they dared, we also refrain from publishing just now.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. A. M. Runyon of Madison avenue, is spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Miss Kurtz, of this city, is visiting her sister, Mrs. B. Amerman, of Liberty Corner.

Mr. J. D. Titsworth and family of Madison avenue, started for Asbury Park, this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Carniff and daughter of Le Grande avenue, have returned from Sheepshead Bay.

Mrs. James Whitfield, daughter and son of Tenth street, leave town to-morrow for a month's absence at Pine Bush, N. Y.

The Misses Carrie T. and Sarah T. Moffett of Philadelphia, are visiting their uncle, ex-Postmaster Wallace Vail, at Evona.

Officer McCue begun his ten days vacation today, and Officer Flannigan having completed his ten days leave of absence reported for duty again this morning.

Miss I. S. Arnold, a teacher at Miss Kenyon's Seminary, left the city today for Painted Post, Steuben Co., N. Y., where she will spend the balance of her vacation.

Little Gussie Force, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Force, was given a birthday party by her parents, at the residence of the latter on West Fourth street, Wednesday evening.

Mr. A. V. D. Honeyman, editor of the Somerville Unionist-Gazette, dropped in THE PRESS office yesterday. He was looking unusually well upon his return from the seventh of the Gazette's vacation tours.

At her home on Central avenue, yesterday, occurred the death of Mary, widow of the late Samuel Valentine, in the 84th year of her age. The funeral will take place from the house on Sunday at 2.30 P. M.

The only good picture published of any of the paths of Plainfield's late freshet, appears in the current issue of the New York Illustrated News. It is a reproduction of a photograph by Mr. Ernest Marx, of East Front street, showing the break through Somerset street.

Mayor Male says that the false statements concerning the recent flood, published in the "Torn-through-its-heart-by-a-great-flood-of-water" sheet, and other sensational and unreliable papers, have done more damage to Plainfield than a hundred floods could have done.

The Misses Hattie and Lizzie Milligan, daughters of Mr. Edward Milligan of Brooklyn, N. Y., who are summering at their pleasant home, "Maple Cottage," in Washington Valley, were among those who accompanied the Reform Club excursion to Rockaway Beach, yesterday. They report having had a delightful sail, but prefer their own cozy home to the sands and fakirs of Rockaway.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Wharton of Birmingham, Ala., are visiting friends and relatives in this city, while on their honeymoon. Mrs. Wharton, nee Susie S. Lee, is the youngest daughter of John T. Lee, Esq., a former resident of this city, being also a grand-niece of John W. Laing, Esq. Mr. Wharton is one of Birmingham's prosperous merchants, being engaged in the furniture business there.

The Fascination of Danger.

"Why, how's this, Mr. Cashere!" asked Pennywait, who had just returned to town after two weeks' absence. "When I left, the great volume of travel was on the south side of your business street, and now that side is almost deserted and the north side is thronged with pedestrians. What has effected the change?" "The crowd," explained Mr. Cashere, "was only diverted to the north side about an hour ago, and will not last long. A new building is going up down at the corner, and a stone weighing nearly a ton has been left suspended fifteen feet in the air directly over the sidewalk, owing to an accident to the derrick, and not less than two hundred persons have passed under it within the last fifteen minutes. The danger of being mashed as flat as a pancake seems to have an irresistible fascination for most people."

Four Geographical Points.

The most eastern point of the United States is Quoddy Head, Me.; the most northern point is Point Barrows, Alaska; the most western is Alton Island, and the most southern Key West. Working from these four points, many will be surprised when they locate the geographical center of the United States.

A Pleasing Laxative.

Whoever has taken HAMBURG FIGS will never take any other kind of laxative medicine. They are pleasant to the taste, and are sure in their action, a few doses curing the most obstinate case of torpidity of the liver. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

A PRIOR CLAIM.

Mr. Hanigan Disputes Mr. Woodruff's Place as Our Oldest Subscriber.

Reading in THE PRESS that a sneak thief had stolen from its office "a five dollar bill, the first subscription to the paper, and paid in May 1, 1887, "Mr. Edward H. Hanigan, of South Orange, sends a canceled check for five dollars, dated April 30, 1887, which he claims is a voucher that he was THE PRESS' first subscriber.

He writes: "Enclosed I mail to you the check that paid for the first subscription to your daily paper. You will see that the date, April 30th, is just one day before Mr. Woodruff, then proprietor of the Hotel Netherwood, paid in the five dollar bill noted in your issue of July 25th, as having been stolen from its frame in your office. The canceled check will not present the same temptation if hung up, as did Uncle Sam's promise to pay."

Somerset County Freeholders.

A special meeting of the Board of Freeholders of Somerset county was held at North Plainfield, on Tuesday, to take action in repairing the damages caused by the recent floods there. After an inspection of the damages the Board met at Blatz' Hotel and directed that repairs should be made as follows:

The bridge near John Stine's to be rebuilt; to be an A truss, iron stringer, ten feet longer and abutments two feet higher than the former one; material for the abutment and wing walls to be discretionary with the committee.

The bridge at Rockview avenue is to be of iron, 60 feet span, 16 feet roadway, new abutments and wing wall.

The bridge on the extension of Grove street is not to be repaired for the present.

Mr. Jones with the committee is to proceed to repair the bridge over Green Brook near Mr. John F. Wilson's. The material in the wrecked bridges is to be collected and used in the repairs as far as possible.

The members of the committee are Messrs Jones, Bullman, Wyckoff, Kirch and Staats.

That Elizabeth Railroad Crossing.

Yesterday morning there was an informal conference in Elizabeth, over the matter of the abolition of the grade crossings of the railroads in that city.

There were present General Superintendent Olhausen and Division Superintendent Peddle of the Central Railroad company, Superintendent of Maintenance of Way, Edward F. Brooks of the Pennsylvania railroad, City Attorney Bergen, City Surveyor Meyer and Councilman Connolly.

There was a pleasant and interesting talk over the situation, and it was ordered that maps and plans be prepared for consideration at a conference of the city's representatives and the railroad officials to be held at the City Hall, Elizabeth, on Tuesday evening next, at which time it is probable definite arrangements will be adopted for the doing away of at least the grade crossing at North Broad street and Morris avenue.

The 100th Performance.

Francis Wilson and company will celebrate on Monday, Aug. 19, the 100th performance of "The Oolah," which opera is still drawing large audiences to the Broadway Theatre, New York, and has acquired such popularity that it might easily run through the Winter. But it will be played in New York up to Oct. 12, and then be taken to Brooklyn and Chicago.

Very handsome souvenirs will be given away at the 100th performance which the management claim will surpass in value, artistic design and utility any form of memento ever presented to our audience. Francis Wilson's friends and admirers intend making this 100th performance the occasion of a congratulatory ovation for the pluck, enery and ability he has displayed in making "The Oolah" the great success it is.

Democratic State Convention.

The State Democratic Convention will be held at Trenton on September 10. The formal call is as follows:

The Democratic voters of New Jersey are requested to meet at such times and places as may be designated by their local committees, to elect delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held at Taylor Opera House, in Trenton, on Tuesday, the 10th day of September, 1889, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor of the State of New Jersey.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each two hundred Democratic votes cast at the Gubernatorial election of 1886, and one for each fraction of the same over one hundred; but each ward and township shall be entitled to at least one delegate.

ALLAN L. MCDERMOTT, Chairman.

George Pfeiffer, Benj. F. Lee, James Inglis, Jr., Gottfried Krueger, Daniel F. Crean, Manning Freeman, Joseph W. Ballentine, Holloway W. Hunt, James Smith, Jr., John Edelstein, Jno. H. Blackwell, Democratic State Committee.

The Reform Club Excursion.

The excursion of the Reform Club to Rockaway Beach, yesterday, was a pronounced success, both from a financial and social point of view. The excursionists numbering 607 persons arrived home about 10 P. M., tired out but well pleased with the day's sport. The club will realize about $150.

Stole a Variety.

PLAINFIELD'S FRESHET.

A True Statement of Facts by One Who Lived in the Midst of It.

A well-known resident of this city has written a communication to the Newark Daily Advertiser, in relation to the exaggerated reports of the recent "flood" in this city.

We also give the editorial comments of the paper on the matter, as follows:

The serious consequence of exaggerating news has been very well illustrated in the case of Plainfield, in this State, which was damaged somewhat by the recent freshets. Residents of this region were amazed and confounded when they read in the New York papers, day after day, that Plainfield was destroyed. "Plainfield fuit" was the burden of their song. After the freshet had subsided, and the worst was known, these same excited newsgatherers graciously consented that none of the threatened dams should, would or could burst; and peace and safety returned. As a matter of fact, the story of Plainfield's destruction was a work of fiction. Students in history will find the truth stated in a communication printed on another page of this paper.

The communication is as follows:

TO THE DAILY ADVERTISER:—"Do you think Plainfield will be rebuilt?" asked a facetious Newarker the other day, seriously, after reading the wildly extravagant newspaper accounts of our freshet, and one acquainted with the facts might wonder if there were much of a flood at Johnstown. Green Brook, upon which the dams near Feltville were built, flows through the block upon which the writer lives, yet his family had no thought of a flood until after the water had fallen in consequence of the break in French's dam. No one in the neighborhood suffered any loss and no cellar was flooded. Save the rainfall, no water was in sight. Only one dam of the five within the city limits was injured, and there the water burst through the embankment where the flood gates were situated. The dam proper, of heavy masonry, was not harmed. The writer's boat, lying within fifty yards of the break, was not carried away, nor did the frail dock to which it was moored receive any injury.

The most serious damage was at Somerset street, a block below, where the stream is crossed by a stone bridge with three small arches. These were soon obstructed, and as a row of one-story frame shops covered the upper end of the bridge, the water rose and covered the street. One of the shops was carried to the middle of the bridge and wrecked, and two were turned partly around but not injured. No other building in the city was moved from its foundations. The raceway of the mill was also washed out at this point, causing the street to cave in, and obstructing travel for a time.

Of the many bridges on the stream, but two small wooden ones were carried away. These fell after the water had fallen several feet, owing to the washing out of abutments, and lodged a few hundred yards down stream. Both were used by foot passengers until a few minutes before they fell, as there was no water in the streets leading to them. Even the light rustic bridges on Mr. John Taylor Johnston's grounds were unharmed.

Cedar brook is on the east side. It formerly ran through the centre of a low meadow. When the march of improvement reached it, the stream was confided between stone walls, the meadow was raised to grade and Tenth street was opened and built up. The flow of water in the upper part of the city was so small that it passed under the streets and railroads in a cast iron pipe. When the dams burst and the flood passed Scotch Plains, it was high enough to allow a portion of the water to flow across the valley to the head of Cedar brook and the little stream became a torrent. When it struck the line of improvement, there was no room for it and it spread over several blocks, but beyond flooding cellars, displacing plank walks and pushing over a few fences, there was no damage to private property. The surface of Tenth street and a few others suffered somewhat, but our drives are still the finest in the State.

Of course, though no life was lost, there was much inconvenience and anxiety and some suffering. Then we learned from the New York papers, a day or two afterward, that the upper dam at Feltville was likely to give way and complete our destruction. As some timid people were frightened, precautions were wisely taken to guard against a second surprise from that direction. But the dam was safe, and even if it had broken we should have received but little water in comparison with the previous flow. The plain is two miles wide and the soil sandy and porous, and it would require a flood like that which Noah saw to drown us out.

The above simple statement of facts applies only to the city of Plainfield. A mountain stream did serious damage in North Plainfield, and much land was overflowed where the water crossed from one stream to the other, but it was beyond our limits. In many localities freshets are frequent and create little excitement, but this was a new sensation for us, and, verily, we made the most of it. T. B.

WILKESBARRE'S TYPHOID.

Atmospheric Conditions Have Nothing to do With it.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 9.—The investigation and finding of the Luzerne County Medical Society relative to the cause of the typhoid fever will be of considerable interest.

The disease started in this city a little over two months ago. At first the physicians thought the disease was only local and were not alarmed, but as time went over the number of cases increased and a sort of a panic ensued. Dr. Taylor, of the State Board of Health, visited Laural run dam, where the Wilkesbarre Water Company gets its water. He made a thorough examination of the water. He was accompanied by Prof. Woodbury, of Philadelphia.

The physicians then went further in their searches. They found that out of the 208 cases of typhoid in the city 204 lived in the district which is supplied by water by the Wilkesbarre Water Company. In that section of the city which gets its water supply from the Crystal Spring Company there are only four cases, and these four victims caught the disease by drinking Laurel Run water while at work in another part of the town.

Dr. Taylor, when interviewed by a correspondent, said: "We have made wonderful discoveries, viz.; That atmospheric conditions have nothing to do with typhoid. It is all in the water." All the other physicians now concur with Dr. Taylor.

ANOTHER HIGH JUMP.

Steve Brodie Leaps from Pawtucket's Big Bridge Into the River.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 9.—Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper, leaped from the Main street bridge, spanning the Pawtucket River at Pawtucket, and was taken from the water 200 yards below the bridge in good condition, although suffering somewhat from the shock. As is well known by sporting men in New York city and vicinity, Brodie has been filled for a long time with a consuming desire to rival his notorious predecessor in jumping—Sam Patch.

Brodie is so much pleased with the success of his undertaking that he intends to erect a monument over the grave of Sam Patch in the cemetery at Rochester, N. Y.

Is This Young Tascott?

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 9.—William B. Tascott, the alleged murderer of the Chicago millionaire, A. J. Snell, is said to be in custody here.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Heavy rain and hail storms prevail in Minnesota, Dakota and Montana.

It is announced that the Italian War Minister, General Viale, will shortly resign.

Judge Groff of Nebraska is talked of for the Commissionership of the General Land Office.

The survivors of the Fifteenth New York Volunteers held a reunion at Syracuse yesterday.

The man arrested at Scottsboro, Ala., on suspicion, was not ex-Treasurer Tate of Kentucky.

Another Cronin suspect, it is understood, is being shadowed in Montreal and will be arrested in a few days.

The committee to examine the books of R. H. Stedman, County Treasurer, at Vinton, Ia., return a deficit of $11,500.

The report that Burke had made a full confession of the Cronin murder cannot be verified. The officials will not talk.

The schooner King Philip of Eastport, Me., was run into and badly injured by the schooner T. P. Dixon of New York, near Vineyard Haven yesterday.

Two tramps, John Randall and Thomas Fayle of Syracuse, N. Y., while stealing a ride, were killed in a collision between freight trains near Columbia City, Ind.

J. W. Lanford shot and killed Barnett Langston, at Sanford, S. C. Both are well to do farmers. Langston talked about Standford's daughter which led to a quarrel.

Captain Jennings of the Steamship Catena, at Quebec, from Glasgow, reports having passed three hundred icebergs, one hundred and ten at one time being counted between Belle Isle and Point Armour.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

SEEKING A REPRIEVE

A Popular Movement in Favor of Mrs. Maybrick.

THE JUDGE CONVICTED HER.

His Virulent Charge Responsible for the Unjust Verdict.

The Counsel for the Crown Expected an Acquittal—Mrs. Maybrick Seriously Ill—Berlin in a Flutter Over the Publication of Sir Morril Mackenzie's Notes—The Trial of Boulanger Commenced—Death of a Prominent Italian Statesman.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The popular movement in Liverpool, as also in London and elsewhere in England, to obtain a reprive for Mrs. Maybrick, is assuming enormous proportions.

The verdict is attributed entirely to the judge's charge, which, in the lost two hours of its delivery, was characterized by a virulence which exceeded even that of the prosecution.

That the verdict was a complete surprise, not only to the public generally, but to the prosecution as well, is now certain. Mr. Addison, the prosecuting attorney, in a conversation with Sir Charles Russell, the counsel for Mrs. Maybrick, on Tuesday, told him that he considered an acquittal certain, as there was really no evidence to convict. He said further that in the event of a disagreement of the jury, the Crown would not force a new trial, but would permit the accused to be set at liberty, although perhaps sureties would be required for her appearance when wanted. This conversation was had after the judge had begun his charge, but before its conclusion.

It is stated that Mrs. Maybrick's admission of adultery very seriously injured her defense and but for this admission it is believed she would have been acquitted.

Mrs. Maybrick is seriously ill. She had an interview with her mother today in which much affection was displayed by both.

ROYAL SCANDAL.

A Publication that Will Throw Berlin Into a Flutter.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The German Emperor will probably not be as much pleased as the scandal mongers with the report which is given currency to-day that a copy has been surreptitiously made of the manuscript of the work of Sir Morrell Mackenzie, in which he relates his experiences during and after the late illness of Emperor Frederick. This work it is said gives numberless choice bits of Court scandal calculated to throw all Berlin into a flutter, and several delightfully aggravating personalities are being circulated as extracts from the future volume. The book, it is confidently stated, will be printed in Belgium or Holland, where the wrath of the German Emperor cannot reach the publishers. It will, undoubtedly, have a large sale, as Sir Morell has given his word that his authorized version shall not be published during the life time of the Empress Frederick.

Boulanger's Trial in Progress.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The High Court of Impeachment, for the trial of Gen. Boulanger, Henri Rochefort, Count Dillon and others, on the charge of high treason, opened its sittings this morning. It is generally understood that an indictment will be framed which will be so worded as to give the English Government no alternative, should the accused be within its jurisdiction, than to assent to their extradition. It is given out that in that event, the General and his companions will lose no time in getting on the high seas en route to the United States.

Signor Cairoli Dead.

ROME, Aug. 9.—Signor Benedatto Cairoli, the eminent Italian statesman, twice Prime Minister of Italy, died at Naples to-day, aged 62 years. Signor Cairoli fought with Garibaldi and was wounded at Palermo, in 1860. In 1878 he was stabbed while protecting the person of King Humbert. He was the leader of the Extreme Left in the Italian Chamber.

Beats the Ocean Record.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 8.—The new steamship Columbia of the Hamburg American Packet line, which arrived here this forenoon from New York, has beaten the record to or from Southampton by 33 minutes and 24 seconds, her corrected time being six days twenty-one hours and twenty-three minutes.

A Dinner to American Workingmen.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, spoke last evening at a dinner given at Tavistock in honor of the fifty "Scripps League" workingmen.

Tommy Hickey's $40,000.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 9.—A twelve-year-old boy named "Tommy" Hickey, of the Fourth Ward, Hoboken, has fallen heir to several thousand dollars. The boy's parents never did much for the boy, and when they died about eight months ago, within a few weeks of each other, he was left destitute and dependent on the charity of neighbors. Brother Stanislaus, of St. Francis's College, Brooklyn, has been looking for the young outcast for the past three weeks, and yesterday, with the assistance of Policeman Stanton, succeeded in finding him. The Brother told the officer that an uncle of the lad, who was a farmer in County Tipperary, Ireland, died six months ago, leaving several hundred thousand dollars to be divided among the surviving relatives. Tommy's share is said to be $40,000.

New York Democratic Meeting.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The Democratic State Committee has been called to meet in Saratoga August 20.

THE STRIKERS WIN.

The Difficulty in the Coke Region Ends in a Victory for the Men.

EVERSON, Pa., Aug. 9.—The coke strike is definitely settled and the men have won.

At a conference here yesterday afternoon between the operators and the men, which lasted six hours and was very lively, the strike was settled on the 95 cents per hundred bushel rate. This is an advance of not less than an average of from 15 to 20 cents in some instances and nearly 50 per cent. in others.

A pacific clause has also been put in the scale that no man shall be discharged for participating in the strike. About 11,000 ovens will start immediately.

This is a great victory for the men, and will be the means of strengthening their organization.

GEN. DUPONT DEAD.

The Oldest Powder Manufacturer in America.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 9.—General Henry Dupont, the head of the great powder firm of E. I. Dupont, DeNemow & Co., died in this city yesterday from general debility, aged 77 years. He was born August 8, 1812. His wife and six children survive him. He was a close friend of Abraham Lincoln, and the product of his mills was an important factor not only in the Civil War, but in every war both of this country and of Europe since 1812, when they were the sole source of powder for the American troops. Gen. Dupont was a Republican Presidential Elector in Delaware five times, the last time a year ago.

The Dupont estate is worth over ten million dollars.

JOHNSTOWN VICTIMS.

Three More Bodies Taken Out of the Ruins. The Suit Against the Fishing Club.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—Three more bodies have been taken out of the ruins near the lower end of the town. One was a little girl and was found in the middle of Market street.

At a meeting of business men last night it was decided to heartily support Messrs John Thomas & Sons in their suit against the South Fork Fishing Club. The suit will be entered within a few days.

Mr. Fessenden Injured.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 9.—The yacht Manatee has returned here because of a compound fracture of the right thigh sustained by Mr. Fessenden. The party are at the Stockton Hotel for a week, and Mr. Fessenden will probably be detained much longer. He is doing well, but no one is allowed to see him. The other members of the party are Senator Quay, W. C. Goodloe, Col. A. L. Conger, Col. Snowden, Senator Fassett of New York and Capt. Ben Sooy.

Electric Light Men End Their Labors.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 9.—Before adjourning the National Electric Light Association appointed a committee to present the resolutions on the subject of electrical execution to Governor Hill and agreed upon St. Louis as the place for holding its next convention. A new constitution was adopted.

Eloped With a Widow.

NEW BRITAN, Conn., Aug. 9.—Wm. H. Holmes, a marketman at this place, has eloped with a woman named Bowers, leaving his wife and children in destitute circumstances. Holmes was doing a good business and was popularly supposed to be making money. Many creditors mourn his departure.

The Gamblers Will Not Refund.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 9.—It transpires that the baronet, George de Pardonnet, has not been reimbursed by the Pennsylvania Club for the amount he claims to have lost at baccarat there, and that he will not be. In the words of a gambler, "The place will be set on fire first."

A Surratt Witness Dead.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Benjamin F. Spandauer, who was the principal witness against Mrs. Surratt, hanged at Washington, 1865, on the charge of conniving at the assassination of President Lincoln, died yesterday in the Maryland Penitentiary.

A Ticket Agent Missing.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Burt Jeffery, ticket agent and operator of the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad at Miller's Station, between Niagara and Orleans counties, has been missing for several days. He is short in his accounts.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The following postmasters were appointed in New York State to-day: J. F. Smith, Merrick; Daniel O'Leary, Redford; W. McMartin, Scioto; Robert Murray, Warrensburgh.

Married a Colored Barber.

CARLSTADT, N. J., Aug. 9.—Barbara Seifried, a young German girl, surprised the town yesterday by marrying a young colored barber named Louis Bullock, who lived across the stable.

UPON WHAT MEAT?

The Sort of Books That Statesmen Feed on.

A Great Book City—Bancroft's Library. Mrs. Cleveland's Tastes—Hoar and Sumner—Judge Bradley as an Inventor—The Cabinet Ladies.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

"What do our Supreme Judges and Cabinet Ministers and Congressmen read?" I asked one of the best-known booksellers, in Washington.

"They don't read anything!" he exclaimed with a sniff of disgust, pushing his fingers through his grey hair.

"To be more accurate and more explicit," he explained, "our law-makers do not read broadly, as the statesmen of former generations did. They read narrowly and confine their reading to certain limited lanes—finance, wages, interest, heavy ordnance, patents, or what not."

PROF. SIMON NEWCOMB.

The misguided cynic only meant that the day of brilliant smatterers is past, and that our statesmen, like our workmen, are now specialists; they read at a mark, instead of firing pigeon-shot into the air, which fact, on the whole, is a compliment to them. In this age of encyclopedic knowledge and of universal machinery no one man can either do much or know much, and he is wisest who confines himself to limited spaces. Ever since Moses, men of one idea have moved the world.

There are far more books in Washington than in any other city of its size in the world—the great Congressional library being flanked by twenty other public libraries in the Departments, aggregating pretty nearly a million books in all.

The largest private library, I guess, is George Bancroft's, numbering some 12,000 volumes. He has a copy of Don Juan which Lord Byron gave him with an autographic note pasted in it, and he has poems which Wordsworth gave him. He is an old man and reads no more.

Mrs. Cleveland stirred up the booksellers here with her passion for good books. She entertained her callers by deftly turning the conversation upon books, and ascertaining what there was worth reading that she had missed. I once mentioned "Lonra Doon" to her, and with her permission sent it to the White House. The next time I saw her was at a crowded diplomatic reception, but she found time to say: "Thanks; it is one of the great books of the world." Later, my wife called her attention to "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and sent the book to her. Mrs. Cleveland returned it the next day with a note in which she said: "You know from your own experience how much I have enjoyed the reading of it. I finished it five minutes ago with tears very near in my eyes for the sweet, manly little heir to the Earldom of Dormcourt."

Judge Hoar is probably the best scholar at all points there is in the Senate. He is a great reader, a good Greek, Latin and French scholar, and an extensively informed man in every direction. In thoroughness he is the equal of that omniverous reader, his predecessor, Charles Sumner. Sumner was more universally accomplished, having made a study of French, Italian and German literature, of engraving and the fine arts; but it must be aded that Hoar is far more accurate than Sumner, who was careless in citations and whose speeches abounded in errors of fact. The senior Senator from Massachusetts has a large and very select library, especially strong in history and biography.

The private library that stands next to Bancroft's numerically is, I think, that of Judge Bradley, of the Supreme Court. His books run to law, history, mechanics, high mathematics and rare old tomes. He has the famous first folio of Shakspeare, a number of editions of his works, and everything of importance ever written about the great poet. He is always grubbing around bookstores for ancient calendars; he knows all the occult systems of notation, and he frequently indulges in abstruse mathematics. Moreover, he has inventive genius and has patented a "perpetual calendar" telling the day for any year for any century. He is the right bower of the Court, so to speak, whenever any case is up involving machinery or trigonometry.

Congressman Hitt, of Illinois, who, before he married a fortune, was Lincoln's phonographer, has a fine library here. He possesses scholarly acquisitions and a culture and taste quite exceptional in the House. He is fond of rare and handsome editions in tree calf and old illuminated volumes. He probably reads more French and German books, especially novels, than any other member of either House, not excepting his intimate friend, Phelps.

Hitt finds a rival in John Hay, as a snapper-up of luxurious editions, nothing being too sumptuous for the poet. Hay's library is worth a visit, for it is the handsomest in Washington, quite fitted for his superb mansion opposite the White House. It is on the ground floor, and its ceiling is heavily paneled in old oak with circular disks which sparkle under the soft light of the chandeliers as if sprayed with gold dust. The books are in low cases all around the walls, forming a rich and decorative base for the choice paintings above and a harmonious frame for the great carved oaken desk in the middle of the room. Hay delights in rare editions of Don Quixote and Thackeray, of Omar Kharzam, and the Vedas, and the Zend Aresta, and Elihu Vedder's grotesqueries, and books written and painted on Vellum. He is a good French and German scholar, reading and speaking both, as does Mrs. Hay, and by the way there is scarcely a noted dwelling in Washington in which French novels are not read.

One of the most discriminating readers of the Senate is Cash. K. Davis, of Minnesota. He is a good Latin scholar and doesn't permit his knowledge to rust; he is well acquainted with the French and German languages and literatures; is an expert on Shakspeare, and has a more comprehensive knowledge of the literature of the Napoleonic wars than any other Congressman, perhaps, than any other American.

Prof. Simon Newcomb, one of the country's most renowned scientists, has his library in his wife's great parlor, his desk occupying a large bay window. Few literary workers could avoid being out of place in such elegant surroundings, but Prof. Newcomb keeps his desk marvelously neat. His library is largely composed of mathematics and political economy, and "A Plain Man's View of the Labor Question" (one of the twenty books he has written) is an admirably clear treatise and has a very large circulation.

Prof. Lester F. Ward, who stands at the head of the paleontologists of the country, replied to my question "What do you read?" by saying "I read nothing but what my work requires me to read. I never read novels or poetry. Before taking the time to read any book I thoroughly canvass the necessity for it, get the opinions of others who have read it, and satisfy myself that it is indispensable. And I never permit myself to read a translation. If I conclude to read a book written in a tongue unknown to me, I go and study the language for the purpose."

Major J. W. Powell, Director of the Geological Survey, in answer to a question as to his favorite novels, said:

"Here are the dozen preferred. Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, Vicar of Wakefield, A Man Made of Money, Douglas Jerrold, Ivanhoe, David Copperfield, The Three Guardsmen, Les Miserables, (if you could cut out Hugo's preaching, this book would be grand), Uncle Tom's Cabin, The Cloister and Hearth, A Strange Story, Lorna Doon and Middle-March. Neither Thackeray nor Wilkie Collins ever had a masterpiece, I think. George Sand repels me with her wildcat philosophy."

Major Powell enjoys poetry even better than prose fiction, but he is punctilious in the matter of art in rhyme and rythmn in which respects Whittier, Longfellow, Burns and Wordsworth often "Cause the judicious to grieve." He is intolerant of Walt Whitman and says, "When I want exclamatory emotional frenzy I prefer to go straight to the Indians."

Thurman is a great reader of French romance, but he is not content with taking Hugo in course, but he wants to go back to the hits and romancers before Rabelais and the Lorraines. His daughter, Mrs. Cowles, who lives at Richmond, just out of Brooklyn, speaks French elegantly.

Henry Cabot Lodge has a good many fine books at home, it is said; to Washington he brings only an obvious acquaintance with them. He keeps up his studies even in the midst of his work on the election's committee, and he always reveals the possession of a fine literary taste and even skill—the art of putting things.

Senator Berry's loss of a leg in the army made a great reader and student of him. His tendencies are towards novel reading and he especially likes translations—Hugo and Balzac, prominently.

Senator Sherman has a finely stocked library of standard books, but he practices the theory of Gladstone, "never read a book till it is a year old." He buys all rare and valuable books on finance and informs himself of their contents. He knows the history of prices, and has a theory of his own about what creates values.

Judge Lamar lost his fine library during the war, but he is rebuilding it with immense industry and discrimination. He possesses a keen, quick and penetrating intellect, well stored with classic traditions.

Judge Gray, also of the Supreme Court, has a Massachusetts love of luxury, and he is found in the amiable emulation for the possession of handsomely printed and bound books. When the edition de luxe is in the market it finds in Judge Gray an admirer. He reads French "with avidity," like Miss Rapperly, and it is suggested that he has drawn from the Congressional Library a thousand French novels of the better class in the last five years.

The ladies of the present Cabinet circle seem quite able to hold their own in society, but of their bookish tendencies little is yet known in Washington. Mrs. Windom, living with her family in the elegant mansion of Prof. Gardner Hubbard, finds herself surrounded with an immense library, containing some of the rarest of antique volumes.

The wife of Gen. Noble, Secretary of the Interior, has given Washington a glimpse of her only at the two or three receptions of the spring. It found her agreeable and prepossessing; but she is said to be also scholarly, and to have a well defined ambition to know something of the world's best books. In St. Louis, the Noble household has been a sort of intellectual and literary centre, where thoughtful people of congenial tastes meet to consider the latest utterance concerning science, art, philosophy or imaginative literature. Mrs. Noble has no children, but will be accompanied in Washington by two brilliant sisters, one of whom has published a book and the other of whom is the wife of one of our wealthy citizens.

England Will Promptly Interfere Says a Member of the Dominion Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—The Dominion Cabinet was in session for four hours yesterday. The Black Diamond case came up, but it was decided to take no further action until the official report reached Ottawa.

The members of the Cabinet are not disposed to talk about the so-called high-handed policy of the United States in Behring Sea. One of them, however, admitted that England will interfere without delay.

Representations in regard to recent events were made to Lord Salisbury, but it is only natural to suppose that no action could be taken before the Imperial Government had fully considered the situation. Intelligence of further seizures is expected here daily.

A State's Witness Poisoned.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—Harrison Fox, a colored man, in jail here awaiting the trial of some accused barn burners, against whom he has turned State's evidence, became violently sick and unconscious to-day, and it was discovered by the physicians that he had been poisoned. It is believed the poison was placed in the tin cup from which he drank coffee by some one in the hire of the barn burners, who had committed some petty offense in order to get himself put in jail for that purpose.

Five Bloody Rounds.

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 9.—The prize between John Abbott, colored, and Pat Shea, which took place eight miles south of Arkansas City, in the Indian Territory was won in five bloody rounds by Shea, in 12 minutes, 35 seconds. The purse was $500 a side, with the receipts, which amounted to $900 additional.

Married Somewhat Late.

From Warasdin, in Croatia, a correspondent hears that a spinster named Catharina Dominico, aged eighty-three, has been led to the matrimonial altar by a tramway conductor of that district, thirty-seven years her junior. To make the case still more imposing, the bride was accompanied to church by her mother, who is no less than one hundred and seventeen years of age! The old lady is said to have been in an ecstasy of delight at having been allowed to live long enough to see her "child" married.

COVERS THE EARTH

A Scheme to Control the Sugar Markets of the World.

AN ENGLISH-GERMAN TRUST.

Over $100,000,000 Necessary to Accomplish the Gigantic Undertaking.

The Surplus Stocks of Unrefined Sugar in Germany and France to be Shipped to America to Curtail the Supply—A Plan to Make 25 Per Cent. on the Capital—A Trust Formed to Control the Glass Trade in America.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Reports are in circulation here that the sugar trust has about completed negotiations with an English-German syndicate to get the sugar markets of the world under one supreme control.

The plan contemplates bonding for a short term all the principal plantations of Cuba, the Philippine Islands, Java and Mauritius, which would place the main sources of the raw supply under the control of the syndicate.

The surplus stocks of unrefined beet sugars of Germany and France are to be accumulated in store for shipment to America at the proper time. The supply of raw cane sugar will be curtailed by at least three-fifths. All surplus unrefined beet sugar will be shipped to America. This would create a deficiency in Germany, France and England, while the American supply would still be short.

It is estimated that the sugar trust and the Anglo-German partners would at least pay 25 per cent. upon a capital of $100,000,000, which, according to the rumor, will be necessary to accomplish this gigantic scheme.

A Big Glassware Trust.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—A gigantic trust, to control the manufacture of table glassware, it is said, is being organized, and that the principal factories of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia will be included in the combination. The headquarters will be in Pittsburg, and all of the manufacturers of that city are said to have joined in the movement.

A Mine Foreman Suicides.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 10.—Thomas P. Evans, a mine foreman committed suicide here yesterday by cutting his throat. Ill health is supposed to have been the cause.

A WILD ENGINE'S DAMAGE.

One Man Killed and Another Injured While the Engineer Was Asleep.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 10.—A wild engine yesterday dashed into a caboose lying on a siding of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Penn Haven Junction. In the car, which was reduced to splinters, were Conductor Otto Sanders and Brakeman William Ganen and Mark Christman. Ganen was instantly killed and Christman fatally injured. Landers escaped unhurt. Ganen was unmarried; Christman has a wife and three children. The engine was running at high speed and the engineer, Bennett, was asleep and ran by the signals.

RANCHING IT.

Embezzler Plunkett, of Hartford, Said to Be Alive and Well in Mexico.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The "Chronicle" professes to have discovered that Thomas F. Plunkett, who three years ago mysteriously disappeared from Hartford, Conn., and was subsequently found to be a defaulter in the sum of $300,000, and whose death was recently announced from Mexico, is alive and well there. At the time of his disappearance Plunkett was President of the Hartford Silk Manufacturing Company, whose funds he misappropriated.

The "Chronicle" states that several letters have been received here from Plunkett recently, the last one yesterday. The recipient of the letters is Robert A. Emply, who was a lieutenant in the Riel rebellion a few years ago.

It is alleged that Plunkett is carrying on an extensive ranch business in Mexico, and that the despatch announcing his death was instigated by him.

Strike of Western Switchmen.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—There is a strike on the Northwestern road. The eleven one-armed night switch turners employed on the road between Western avenue and Fortieth street, struck last night for higher wages. They receive $45 and demand $50 a month, with two Sundays off each month. The company refused to grant the demand and they quit work. Not a switch was turned last night in their district except by officials.

Tried to Sell His Daughter.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 10.—Oliver C. Monbleau, a French Canadian, about 40 years old, and the father of eight children, has disappeared with a pretty French Canadian girl of questionable character, to whom he had for some time been paying marked attentions. Before his departure Monbleau made an attempt to sell one of his daughters, 15 years of age, to his brother-in-law, who lives in Springfield, this State, for $50.

The Man Identified.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—The man who committed suicide in the boarding house No. 42 Bennett street yesterday, by turning the gas on, has been identified as William T. Kane, aged 39, an electrician, who came to Boston last March. He had relatives in Worcester.

Caught in the Shafting and Killed.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 10.—John T. Casey was instantly killed at the works of the Gould Manufacturing Company at Geneva Falls, yesterday. While endeavoring to put a belt on a pully he was caught by the shafting and beaten against joists overhead. He was terribly mangled.

On Account of the Lewis Failure.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—The mills of G. P. Denis, at Chester, were to have been sold by the Sheriff yesterday on account of the Lewis failure, but New York creditors caused the sale to be enjoined. Mr. Denis's Bancroft Mills, at Todmorden, will, it is stated, also be closed.

Suicide of a Young Woman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Lena Carpenter, a young woman aged twenty, living on the corner of Chestnut street and Ridgewood avenue, Brooklyn, committed suicide by throwing herself down a fifty foot well in the yard of her home.

Big Fire, No Insurance.

ST. ALBANS, Vt. Aug. 10.—At St. Albans Bay yesterday afternoon three barns and a shed belonging to Ebenezer Brooks were burned with 100 tons of hay and 200 bushels of barley. No insurance. The fire was caused by sparks from a tobacco pipe.

The Rates Not Satisfactory.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 10.—The miners here do not think that the miners at Streator, other than those working for the Coal Run Coal Company, will go to work at the 72½ cents a ton rate agreed upon by the arbitration committee in Chicago.

The Philadelphia Man Knocked Out.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 10—Frank Shipley, of this place, and James Clark, of Philadelphia, fought fifteen rounds with soft gloves at the old Hot Springs. In the last round Clark was knocked insensible and the fight was awarded to Shipley.

The Marquis Won't Sue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Marquis De Chamburn is out of the city. His son says that no suit against President Harriso for wages due as White House cook has been put in his hands, and that he would not undertake such a suit.

ESSENCE OF YOUTH

Startling Experiments With the Elixir of Life.

REMARKABLE CURES REPORTED.

Tests Made on a Dozen Subjects by a Cincinnati Professor of Dermatology.

The Brown-Sequard Discovery Injected Into the Arms and Legs of an Old Man Over 70 Years of Age—He was Bent and Crippled With Rheumatism but Rejuvenated so that He Could Run Around the Room and Dance.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A despatch from Cincinnati says: Dr. Robert Longfellow, Professor of Dermatology in the Cincinnati College of Medicine conducted a series of experiments with Brown Sequard's discovery.

Tests were made on a dozen subjects. The first two patients were Thomas Alburn, an Englishman, 55 years old, and Fielden Weir, a colored ex-slave, 70 years of age.

The latter was bent and crippled with the rheumatism, and Alburn had been lamed with erysipelas.

The liquid was injected in the arms and legs.

When both subjects returned in the evening they could walk with ease, and to show his rejuvenation Weir kicked with both feet as high as his head and danced about the room.

The exhiliarating effect on the Englishman was equally noticeable. He walked a dozen squares and declared all pain and stiffness had left his limbs. Both experiments were pronounced eminently successful.

Dr. Longfellow reports this morning that in all the cases to whom he administered the fluid the effects were similar except one. That was in the case of a man 35 years old, in full health and in no need of a tonic. He experienced slight sickness. He reports further that the old colored man whose rheumatism was completely cured, says that he still retains his restored strength and that his family and friends regard his cure as little short of a miracle.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

What is Being Done to Secure the Exposition for New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The work continues and from every quarter there comes renewed assurance of belief in the big fair of 1892. The enthusiasm is of the most pronounced character, and there is but one general opinion expressed: "New York must and shall have the fair."

Mayor Grant is having hard work in selecting the four committees of twenty-five each that are to have charge of the arrangements of the coming World's Fair. He can only appoint 100 persons, and he is already in the possession of five times one hundred names, and so his task is not an easy one. The Mayor thought he would be able to appoint his committees without any trouble. He has not been in New York twenty-four hours, but he has found out that he has a most important and delicate piece of work on his hands. So he is not hurrying about it.

The other important thing now is the raising of money for the Quadri-Centennial. It will be raised without much difficulty. The question now is as to the method. It is estimated that it will cost $11,000,000 to erect the buildings on the Exposition grounds. But, of course, all this will not be paid out by the committee.

It seems to be the general opinion of all interested that at least 1,000 acres of ground will be needed for the use of the Fair.

Chicago Bound to Get It.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The local committees are pushing the arrangements for the World's Exposition with resistless energy. At headquarters an army of clerks is busy preparing the initial work for these committees, and by next week the most important committee of all, the Press Committee, will have another array of clerks in the field, whose work will be especially directed at the newspapers throughout the land, who are exected to be so effectually bombarded that they will fall in line and advocate in tones of thunder the claims of the Garden City.

Shot by His Brother.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 10.—William Walker, aged 20, was shot and instantly killed in a saloon in Wescott near Stamford street last night. The proprietor was trying to put Walker out when some one in the crowd fired a revolver, the ball entering Walker's brain. Walker's brother Edward, aged 25, was arrested, and the pistol from which the shot was fired, was found on him. He was taken to the Bridgeport jail. The coroner will hold an inquest to-day.

Ran Away with His Wife's Daughter

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 10.—Mrs. J Huff, of Fairchance, Pa., has a warran out for the arrest of her husband, wh has eloped with her sixteen-year-ol daughter by her first husband, Lillie A Haywood. They lived formerly i Monongahela City, Pa., where Mr Haywood was divorced from Meshec Haywood, and married Huff.

BY THE WAY.

—Full moon, today.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Bryant school building on East Sixth street is being embellished with an attractive coat of paint.

—It is reported that a boy named Brainer fell and broke his arm in the Gesang and Turner Hall, last evening.

—Lowande's circus left the city for Bound Brook during last night, where it is billed to appear this afternoon and evening.

—Two grand baloon ascensions are among the attractions being planned for the Hunterdon county fair at Flemington, next month.

—Mr. Charles Morgan, of Front street, has a daughter, Carrie, who was entirely blind. He rubbed Home Oil on her eyes, and Carrie seen.

—Mr. Isaac Brokaw, North Plainfield's popular assessor and successful real estate and insurance broker, presents his card in our professional notices today.

—Six homing pigeons belonging to Mr. Chas. Faber and one of Mr. R. F. Steven's birds were liberated at Charlotte, N. C., at five o'clock this morning. The distance is 525 miles.

—A year ago today, Maxwell, the murderer of Preller, was hanged at St. Louis. One hundred and seventy-one trains, with over 51,000 passengers, passed over the Long Branch road.

—The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church, are cordially invited to attend a special meeting of the Society in the lecture room of the church next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock.

—Within the past year the Central Railroad of New Jersey has added twenty-five consolidated freight engines, five passenger engines, 250 box cars, and 1,500 hopper bottom coal cars to its equipment.

—The opening of the Plainfield Seminary for young ladies, is announced elsewhere, for Sept., 19. A new feature of the coming term will be a Kindergarten for the little folk. Particulars may be obtained by addressing Miss Kenyon, the principal.

—In 1791, there were only six post offices in New Jersey—Newark, Elizabeth, Bridgeton (now Rahway), Brunswick, Princeton and Trenton. The total of their receipts for the year ending October 5, 1791, was $530, of which the postmasters received $108.20—leaving $421.80 as the net revenue.

—John Witteman, the young man who had his hand crushed by falling from a coal train, near Westfield, yesterday, is doing as well as can be expected at Muhlenberg Hospital. The injuries to the right hand were of such a serious nature that the physician found it necessary to amputate the hand.

—Elsewheret he Holly Grove Farm advertises its celebrated butter, cream and milk, and offers to deliver it daily to consumers. The entire herd, which is known all over the country, consists of registered Jersey cows only, and their butter products have won the first prizes in competition with all the dairys of the United States.

—The Reform Club excursion to Rockaway on Thursday, was a very enjoyable trip and was also a success financially. The officers of the Club speak in the highest terms of their treatment at the hands of the railroad officials, and especially so of Capt. Holton and Purser Hoffmire, of the steamer Grand Republic, whom they found the most courteous and gentlemanly of officers.

The Great Dr. Vincent.

The Chautauquan says: "Bishop John H. Vincent, formerly of Plainfield, tells a good story which is partly at his expense, but chiefly at the expense of an enthusiastic father. In travelling one day he was accosted very warmly by a strange gentleman, who said: 'This is Dr. Vincent, I believe. I am glad to meet you for my own sake, but most of all on account of my little boy in the next car, who will regard meeting you as an epoch in his life.' The boy was brought in and informed with great impressiveness that 'this is Dr. Vincent.' I don't know him,' said the urchin. 'What!' exclaimed the embarrased father, 'you often heard of him.' 'No, I aint,' maintained the boy. 'Why, just think a moment; you've heard his name connected with something. What is it?' The boy, realizing that something was expected of him, asked, hesitatingly, "is it Dr. Vincent's Tooth Powder?'"

It Can't Change Its Record.

This is what the news of Aug. 8, says it said:

The news the day after the occurrence placed the loss at $50,000 in Plainfield.

This is what the news the day after the occurrence, did say:

Torn through its heart by a great flood of water, Plainfield today is but a ragged and dishevelled likeness of its former self.

Knights of Honor.

A meeting to arrange for the organization of a local Knights of Honor fraternity was held in Ivy Hall, Bound Brook, Tuesday evening, John Roland in the chair, and W. A. Coddington Secretary. Knight C. J. Feytel of the Grand Lodge and Wetumpka Lodge No. 3,401 of this city, was present and made an address.

Hibbard, for the past three months a resident of this city, where he has made many warm friends, has severed his connection with the Electric Construction and Supply Co., with offices at No 18 Cortlandt street, N. Y., and accepted a lucrative position with the Brooklyn Illuminating Company.

Mr. Charles W. Francis, a member of the Brooklyn Police force is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Mary A. Staats of Richmond street. Mr. Francis, like many others who read the exaggerated accounts of the recent flood in this city, expected to see Plainfield "torn through its heart by a great flood of water," when he reached here. He will return to Brooklyn, tomorrow, accompanied by his cousin, Miss Gussie Staats.

A Dinner to Robert Brown.

A dinner was tendered and accepted by Mr. Robert Brown, late Superintendent of the Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph Company of New York, on Monday evening last, at Naething's.

The dinner was superb and given by twenty-three of his friends previous to his departure for Europe on Wednesday last on the "City of Paris." It goes without saying that it was a most enjoyable affair. Toasts, speeches and songs enlivened the evening's entertainment, and when the party adjourned to their several homes it was with sincere regret.

Mr. Robert Brown has been for many years connected with telegraph and telephone interests, and will doubtless be remembered by many of Plainfield's citizens.

The guests present were: Messrs Robt. Brown, Stephen G. Condit, Edw. Cooper, John Lange, Wm. Harper, C. D. Disoway, Jas. Thoubboron, Fred D. Clapp, S. S. Hemmingway, W. H. Naething, John A. Seely, J. Laing and Nelson's Excursion.

Messrs Laing and Nelson will conduct their annual family excursion to Long Branch, Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, on Wednesday, August 14th, and those who accompany the excursion are promised a rare treat.

The special train will leave this city at 8.15 A. M., and returning, will leave the Park at 6:30 P. M. There will be surf bathing all day, besides the many other attractions at the Park.

—Mr. H. J. Martin today took possession of his new horse-shoeing establishment on Somerset street. See his card in another column.

"TOBY'S" TRIBULATIONS.

How a Plainfield Visitor Lost and Found Her Pug.

Last evening's PRESS told of the fact that the Misses Moffett, of Philadelphia, were visiting ex-Postmaster Wallace Vail, and wife, in this city. The Bound Brook Chronicle of yesterday, tells the following incident of their journey:

"Last Saturday a lady arrived from Philadelphia at the Central depot in Bound Brook, having with her a pug dog and a bandbox. Her destination was Plainfield, but as the local train was not yet due she tied the dog to the bandbox and, leaving them on the platform, went into the waiting room. The canine caught on to the chance for some exercise and started up the track, dragging the box and closely pursued by Hackman David Taylor, who succeeded in grabbing the box, but just then the dog slipped his collar and made off at a speed that defied competition or capture.

"The lady was rendered disconsolate and nearly distracted by the sudden and unexplained departure of her traveling companion, but offered a liberal reward for his detention if found, and took her train for home, singing, 'O where can my little dog be?' Monday and Tuesday she returned in a carriage and was told that an energetic search had been prosecuted and the animal seen on several occasions, but not close enough for capture. She persevered, however, and was rewarded Tuesday morning by finding her pet running about the gravel pit. She took Toby to her arms and peace and happiness were restored to the family of ex-Postmaster Wallace Vail of Plainfield."

WE TOLD YOU SO.

Unnecessary Whistling to be Checked.

The recent complaints of THE PRESS and other newspapers of towns along the line of the Central railroad, have been the means of calling forth from General Superintendent Olhausen the following circular, addressed to the locomotive engineers under his charge.

THE PRESS said that the Central's Superintendent was an accommodating man who would abate the nuisance if his attention was called to it:

There is much complaint by residents of cities and towns through which this road passes of the loud, prolonged, frequent, and in many cases useless whistling indulged in by our locomotive engineers, and your attention is called to the matter with a view to removing the cause of complaint.

Whistles must be used in accordance with Rules 42 to 50 inclusive, and the requirements of Rules 334 and 335 concerning the use of whistles must be strictly carried out. In using their whistles engineers must exercise proper judgment as to how loudly, how long and how frequently they should be blown. If the man for whom the whistle is intended is close at hand the valve must not be opened as if calling or answering some one miles away. In calling for a switch, or calling in the signal man the whistle must not be sounded louder or longer than is absolutely necessary. There is no occasion for these frequent complaints if engineers follow the rules and exercise proper judgment in carrying them out, and prompt discipline will be enforced if this is not done.

The Rev. Mr. Koechli's Appeal.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: Will you kindly allow me a few remarks about the unfortunate Mrs. Fliege. A few weeks ago my attention to her was attracted by an appeal made by the Chief of Police, but having been unwell I was unable to see her until lately. The other day I saw her and had a long conversation with her. I do not intend to tire the reader with an unnecessarily lengthy report of my visit, but allow me to state the following:

Her mental disorder, which has been nothing else than the natural consequence of the heartless treatment she suffered, and of the helpless condition she was in, is entirely gone, but she is still feeble.

I think her's to be one of the most pitiable cases, taking all in all, which ever came to my knowledge, and she not only needs, but is worthy of, all the help we can give her.

Therefore, I support the appeal made by Mr. Carey a few weeks ago, with all my heart, and hope God may open a good many hearts more in her behalf. Especially I would appeal very urgently and cordially to all Germans whom God has blessed with earthly means—and there are many of them. Remember the word: "Wohlzuthun und mitzutheilen vergesset nicht, dennsolche Opfer gefallen Gott wohl."

I will be thankful for every cent given to me for this poor lady, and will place it in proper hands. I am still unwell and therefore cannot go around myself, otherwise I would gladly do so.

F. KOECHLI, Pastor.

Lawn Tennis at Dunellen.

(From The Bound Brook Chronicle.)

Miss Helen Craven and Mr. F. H. Cook played Miss Bessie Smith and Mr. Runyon of the Dunellen Club, at Dunellen, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Jas. Wood, Jr., acted as umpire and Miss Maud Craven as scorer. The Bound Brook players won two out of three sets. The score was as follows: 6—0, 5—6, 6—0.

The Dunellen Club have very pleasant grounds in the park to the North of the village. A number of the members of the Bound Brook Club accompanied the players, encouraging them by their applause. The two games already played with the Dunellen Club are merely preparatory to the match game arranged to be played at Bound Brook this afternoon.

—The usual Saturday evening meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms will be led this evening by Mr. Davis of Western Virginia. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., and a full attendance is requested.

PROPOSALS FOR GRADING, IMPROVING AND MACADAMIZING COUNTY ROAD FROM ELIZABETH TO PLAINFIELD.

Sealed proposals will be received at the place of meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., until the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon on Tuesday, the twenty-seventh day of August, 1889, as follows:

For the grading where necessary, and macadamizing or telford paving for the width of sixteen (16) ft. in the centre thereof of Bay Way and North ave., through the township of Union, County of Union, N. J., from the boundary line of the City of Elizabeth to the boundary line of the township of Cranford.

It is estimated that the following quantities of work and material will be required to be done and furnished on said Road and Avenue.

Seven thousand (7,000) cubic yards of earth excavation and twenty-five thousand three hundred and sixty two (25,362) square or superficial yards of mecadam or telford pavement.

Also for the grading where necessary, and macadamizing or telford paving for the width of sixteen (16) feet in the centre thereof, of said North ave. and Eastman street, through the township of Cranford, County of Union, State of New Jersey, from the boundary line of the township of Union to the boundary line of the township of Westfield.

It is estimated that the following quantity of work and material will be required to be done and furnished on last aforesaid Avenue and Street.

Two thousand (2,000) cubic yards of earth excavation and twenty thousand six hundred and thirty-six (20,636) square or superficial yards of mecadam or telford pavement.

Also for the grading, where fencessary, and macadamizing or telford paving or the width of sixteen (16) feet in the centre thereof of North ave., Elmer and Picton streets, Westfield and South avenues, through the township of Westfield, County of Union, State of New Jersey, from the boundary line of the township of Cranford to the boundary line of the township of Fanwood.

It is estimated that the following quantities of work and material will be required to be done and furnished on last aforesaid Avenues and Streets.

Two thousand two hundred and fifty (2,250) cubic yards of earth excavation, and twenty-one thousand seven hundred and twenty-nine (21,729) square or superficial yards of macadam or telford paving.

Also for the grading where necessary and macadamizing, or telford paving for the width of sixteen (16) feet in the centre thereof of South avenue, through the township of Fanwood, county of Union, State of New Jersey, from the boundary line of the township of Westfield to the boundary line of the city of Plainfield.

It is estimated that the following quantities of work and material will be required to be done and furnished on last aforesaid avenue: six thousand (6,000) cubic yards of earth excavation and sixteen thousand and nine (16,009) square or superficial yards of macadam or telford pavement.

Plans and specifications and also the conditions only under which said proposals or bids shall be received may be examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, engineer of the county roads, Plainfield, N. J. Printed copies of the specifications and con ract, and also of said conditions under which said proposals or bids shall be received, can be had at the office of the aforesaid engineer and also at the office of E. M. Wood, county collector, Elizabeth, N. J.

All bids or proposals to be addressed to J. F. Hubbard, Director, Court House, Elizabeth, N. J. The right to reject any or all bids for the above work is reserved by said board as may be deemed for the best interest of the county. And notice is hereby given that the bids shall be opened publicly at a meeting of the board of chosen freeholders to be held on said twenty-seventh day of August at three o'clock in the afternoon, at their place of meeting in the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLDBY DRUGGISTS

FELTVILLE DAM SAFE.

Facts About That Big Scare—Scotch Plains and its Surroundings Recovering From the Freshet—The Seeley Mills Will Not be Rebuilt.

Things at Scotch Plains are recovering their old appearance and the great flood of 1889 has become a matter of history. There is a demand for good men to work on the roads and on private grounds so great as to exceed the supply, but this does not seem to lessen the number of incompetent men who work for low wages and who are dear at any price.

Mr. Olaff Jonsen, I believe, has the contract for laying the sidewalk on Front street. Although that is one of the busiest thoroughfares of the village, it has remained for a long time comparatively neglected. It is to be hoped that when repaired it will be as good a walk as that on Park avenue. Two deep gullies running right across the sidewalk, one at Mr. Clark's and one at Mr. Treadwell's, need immediate attention, and the loose stones along the old Thys' estate render that part of the walk very troublesome, not to say dangerous. And while the road master is about it, wouldn't it be a good plan to trim off the lower branches of the trees, as was done in Mr. Kyte's district?

Mr. Ackerman has had men constantly at work on the big Feltville dam, on Sundays as well as week days, and he says that the dam is now perfectly safe.

But haven't we been borrowing a good deal of trouble about that now famous dam after all? Old residents say that the danger was greatly exaggerated, and that no such awful consequences would have ensued if the Feltville dam had burst. Mr. VanVolkenburgh says that the average depth of the pond is not over four feet. E. M. Johnston, who probably knows as much about the topographical formation of this section as any man in Union county, says that the amount of water back of the dam is very small. "I worked on that dam forty years ago," said he, "and the deep water does not run back for more than two hundred feet. There are two tongues of land projecting from the hills which border the pond, and these two meet in the shape of V a little way above the dam. This forms a basin which is very deep, but it is all the deep water there is in the pond. Two hundred feet above the dam the water is not over one's head. At the head of the pond the water divides, and what remains in the Feltville lake simply covers the ground for about a mile."

From this it would seem that we were a long way off from Johnstown last week, and even from the danger of rivalling that ill fated town.

Feltville has been mentioned in the Metropolitan papers a great many times during the last two weeks, but the free advertising it has received is not of a kind that will attract great multitudes to it as a Summer resort. And yet as a matter of fact, the cottages there were well up on the bluff, and were perhaps in the safest place of any in that district, but strangers reading in the papers about Feltville and its great flood of water can hardly be expected to understand this.

It is to be noticed that in all the accounts of the flood which have appeared in the newspaper, reference is continually made to the "Feltville dam," but nowhere do we find any mention of "Glenside." This only goes to show what a difficult matter it is to arbitrarily change the name of a place, so as to have it known by an appellation different from that which has been used for years and years.

The gutter on Park avenue between the Women's Exchange and Guttridge's butcher shop is in a very bad condition. It should be filled up so as to afford a good driveway for the wagons that are constantly passing to and from the interior of the block.

Mr. Seeley says now that he will not build the mill again, and so the employes are looking for other work.

Mr. McNair thinks that the loss to the mill will not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars, or perhaps thirty.

The sensational accounts of the flood which filled the columns of the Metropolitan press, and the still worse exaggerations which appeared in the Philadelphia papers have been the cause of the sending of numerous kind offers of assistance by the friends of the Scotch Plainsites. Any number of letters had been received, proffering clothing and shelter for the inhabitants of this bereaved town. The "ragged and disheveled likeness of its former self" which a sensational paper represented as being the condition of Plainfield, has evidently been received as the true situation of Scotch Plains.

THE PRESS has already spoken of the great crowd which thronged to Seeley's mill last Sunday. A party of three young gentlemen, to wit, Messrs William Hazell, Frank Roulstone and Ernest Hand, proceeded from there to the Feltville back pond, and in coming back lost themselves. Taking by mistake a wood-cutter's road, which ended in a peach orchard, they at last made their way to the East gate of Feltville, back of Mountain avenue. Starting thence for the tower they became confused by the numerous paths and crossed the mountain and came out at the other Feltville gate before they knew where they were. During the latter part of their journey they had no guide but the setting sun, and if it had not been for that they might have wandered about all night, or they might possibly have started to walk around in a never-ending circle and be walking around there yet.

The remarkable parade of the Italians, headed by Sig. Macaroni, has also been mentioned in THE PRESS. Sig. Spaghetti and Sig. Cheepasaba formed the band. Sig. Bananapeela, who acted as Colonel, told me that they were only marching "for fun," to imitate "ze soldats in Italia."

Mr. Baker is better than he was, but he is still a pretty sick man. Mr. Baker has worked very hard for a great many years and when he was attacked by nervous prostration he had to give in.

Mr. Robert T. Johnston, the librarian of the Public Library, and Mr. William Noble, Secretary, are spending their vacation at Ocean Grove.

Miss Sadie Binns, formerly of Scotch Plains, has been visiting with her friend and former next door neighbor, Miss Frentz.

While at the Library the other night, I heard divers strange noises in the direction of the goat closet belonging to the Royal Arcanum. The goat recently assisted at the awful and blood-curdling ceremonies which attended the initiation of Mr. William Strong. But that is a long story, and must be reserved for next week.

BIG FIRE AT SALEM.

Thirty-Five Thousand Dollars Goes Up in Smoke and But Little Insurance.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 10.—Fire was discovered yesterday in the big brass foundry of G. J. Godsland, in the rear of Dodge street. The large four-story building on the corner of Dodge and Lafayette streets, occupied by Damon & Goodell, manufacturers; the three-story building in the rear, occupied by Hamilton & Balcomb, contracters, and Richard Quirk, shoe manufacturer, and a small building occupied by Weymouth, inner soles and stiffenings, were soon ablaze.

The entire fire department was called out and help was sent from Beverly and Peabody.

The loss is fully $35,000; insurance small, owing to heavy rates, the situation being the worst in the city.

The fire was completely under control at 2 a. m., and the two large four-story wooden buildings adjoining the burned structures were saved.

THE BASEBALL ROW.

All the Directors of the Boston Club Send Telegrams.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—President Soden said to-day that Mr. Billing's telegram to Manager Hart was wholly unauthorized by the Board of Directors of the Boston Club and that he and Mr. Conant do not endorse it. He thought that Mr. Hart was wholly wrong, however, in making public the contents of the telegram, which was clearly private.

Mr. Soden has received a letter from Mr. Hart, who is willing to resign if requested and feels very sore over the matter. The affair is not worth half the fuss that has been made, and had Mr. Hart pocketed the telegrams, acting on them as he saw fit, there would have been nothing to disturb the feelings of the players.

A conference between Messrs. Soden and Conant to-day resulted in the following:

Manager JAMES A. HART, Boston Baseball Club, Chicago, Ill.:
Don't let Billings telegram bother you. We have every confidence in you and the players. Go ahead and win all the games you can.
SODEN AND CONANT.

Signing the Coke Scale.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug 10.—Quite a number of independent operators have signed the coke sale and the few who have not already signed have asked for a copy of the scale and will likely sign at once as they say they will pay the same as the other operators. Several of the large coke works in the region were running to-day.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The carnival at Halifax has proved a great success.

Col. James Curry, U. S. A., died suddenly at Fortress Monroe.

LOVERS OF CHOCOLATE

Are praising our "NEW PROCESS" Chocolate Cream and Chocolate Ice Cream Soda! As the result of recent experiments we are dispensing a Chocolate Drink so good that only our modesty prevents our claiming it to be THE BEST to be had in all Jersey and New York. Chocolate is very nutritious, hence relieves the fatigue caused by hot weather.

However, if you don't like Chocolate, call for Peach-Crush: It is made from new Southern peaches: Good now, but will be better next month: It had a great run last season: Original with us it was soon imitated,—a proof of merit!

NEWS FROM ABROAD

Petitioning for Mercy for Mrs. Maybrick.

A JUROR'S STUPIDITY PROVED.

He Had Only a Confused Notion of the Evidence Presented.

Boulanger's Arraignment in Paris—A Daring Feat by Blondin—He Will Walk a Rope from the Top of the Eiffel Tower for a Wager of $2,000—The Czar to Visit Berlin—A Well-Known Fenian Dead.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—An interview published with the foreman of the jury which convicted Mrs. Maybrick not only justifies the popular indignation at the verdict, but cannot fail to have a tendency to bring over those who, up to this time, have been disposed to approve of it. The foreman exhibits the most astonding stupidity, his comments on the evidence and its influence on his own mind and those of his fellow jurors amounting to idiocy. Such an utter failure to grasp the salient points, either on the one side or the other, could scarcely be credited of a man with any claim to sense.

Since the publication of the interview it is the universal opinion, and no one hesitates to express it, that if all the jurors are of the same calibre as their foreman, Mrs. Mabrick's innocence or guilt might as well have been decided by the toss of a penny.

The publication of this interview gives a new impetus to the agitation in favor of a reprieve, and the movement gathers force daily.

Eight hundred brokers and merchants of Liverpool have signed the memorial to the Home Secretary in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick.

Judge Stephens, in open court, protested against the abusive letters which are sent to the newspapers. The jury, he thought, had conscientiously done their duty.

BOULANGER'S TRIAL.

The Procureur-General Makes Some Damaging Charges.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—The Procureur-General, continuing his arraignment of General Boulanger before the High Court of Impeachment, charged that Boulanger held a veritable political court at Clermont-Ferrand; that he organized secret intrigues, electoral agitation and a system of corrupting officials; yet he wrote to the War Office disclaiming any personal connection with what had been done in his name.

The Procureur was here interrupted by vigorous protests from the Senators of the Right against the severity of his language, but he was still more severe when he was allowed to proceed.

"The document before the Court," he said, "marked Boulanger's downward path from insubordination to intrigue, falsehood and conspiracy. The evidence showed that Boulanger tried to have Prince Bismarck informed that he (Boulanger) only desired to be appointed Consul for life."

The Czar to Visit Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—It is now expected that the Czar, accompanied by the Czarewitch, will arrive in Berlin on August 24 and remain several days.

Blondin's Big Wager.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Blondin, the daring tight-rope performer, has accepted a wager of £4,000 to walk on a cable stretched from the Eiffel Tower to the dome of the main building in less than five minutes. M. Blondin will attempt the feat as soon as the arrangements are completed.

A Fenian Leader Dead.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—John Leonard, the Fenian leader, died in this city yesterday. Leonard was one of the foremost of the band of Fenians whose plots are hatched here.

MILL AGENTS EXCITED.

Bad Statements Concerning the Riverside Mill Trouble.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 10.—The rumor is current here that Treasurer Gideon P. Brown before he vanished from Boston issued a block of the Riverside and Oswego Mills paper and that he holds the proceeds. There was also a report that big blocks of paper were placed in banks here on Saturday and Monday.

It is further stated that a statement made by Treasurer Brown last November to local banks set forth that the company had a surplus of $300,000 and adds: "In view of this statement the attachments of Juilliard created amazement."

Last night it is said a cursory examination of the company's books did not show any such surplus, and Brown's figures have added to the suspicion that there has been crookedness.

The air is full of rumors of a shortage and the treasurer's explanation is sought for.

Brown's Wife Almost Insane.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—The wife of G. P. Brown, of Brown, Steese & Clarke, wool dealers, lately failed, is in an almost insane condition, resulting from the suspense caused by the continued absence of her husband who has not been heard of since last Tuesday. The brother of the missing man expresses the opinion that the business affairs of the firm have driven him crazy. The friends of Mr. Brown say he has either committed suicide or has absconded to Europe or Canada, or else is wandering about the country in a demented condition. Not a line of intelligence has been received from him by any one.

Dakota's Constitutional Convention.

BISMARCK, Dak., Aug. 10.—The Constitutional Convention has adjourned until Tuesday, when the delegates will sign the Constitution

BAR HARBOR'S GUEST.

President Harrison Enjoying His Visit. Programme for Next Week.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 10.—President Harrison rose fairly early this morning, after a good night's sleep. After breakfast he received visits from the summer residents of the place.

The programme for the week is now said to be substantially as follows:

Monday the President will go to Ellsworth and remain the guest of Senator Hale until Wednesday morning when he will go to Bath and lunch with Arthur Sewall.

Wednesday afternoon he will go to Manchester, N. H., and spend the night with ex-Governor Cheney.

Thursday he will visit Concord by invitation of the New Hampshire Legislature and on the afternoon of that day will start for Boston, where he expects to arrive in time for the Fall River train. Mrs. Harrison is expected to meet him in Fall River.

TWO DEAD AND ONE DYING.

Terrible Effects of a Compressed Air Explosion in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—A terrible explosion occurred at Oliver Brothers & Co.'s South Side mill at 6:05 last night while workmen were testing pipes. It was caused by air pressure.

John Miller, aged 17 years, had his neck broken, and died almost immediately.

John O'Connor had his skull crushed and died instantly.

John Greiner is so badly injured that he can not live. Fourteen or fifteen others were more or less injured, some seriously, by being thrown against the building.

The pressure in the pipes at the time of the explosion was but 60 pounds to the square inch, while the foreman says the pipes should stand 75 pounds to the square inch.

A New Land Company.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The New York and Northern Land and Improvement Company, incorporated yesterday, has for its incorporators and trustees Henry F. Dimock, Daniel S. Lamont and Sherman Evarts, who propose to purchase, improve and sell real estate in the city and county of New York. The capital is to be $50,000, consisting of 500 shares.

Whirled Around a Shaft 300 Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 10.—Walter Crews, aged 15, while playing in the Clack saw mill yesterday, was caught on a shaft and whirled around nearly 300 times in a minute. He was alive when extricated, though both legs and arms were broken and he was terribly lacerated about the body. He died this morning.

Lancaster Millioners Fail.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 10.—Astrich Brothers, the largest dealers in millinery goods in this county, have failed for $50,000. Two of their heaviest creditors, Julius Loeb of Lancaster and Effinger Brothers of Hoboken, N. J., had attachments issued on the firm today; the former for $11,748, and the latter for $9,709.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The following named fourth-class postmasters, among others, were appointed to-day in New York State: G. A. H. Armstrong, L de Grass; B. H. Kent, East Stuben; W. J. Harmes, Meadow Brook; A. H. Woodruff, Moriah Centre; G. F. Wettle, Makefield, C. D. Aldrick, Athol.

A Car Load of Fighters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A terrific fight occurred in one of the second class coaches of an Omaha train yesterday morning, which was participated in by forty or fifty "log sailors." The sides and floor were bespattered with blood, seats were broken and windows smashed. Several were seriously injured.

Embezzling Newspaper Funds.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—William H. Bradley, manager of the "Weekly Press," has been arrested on a charge of embezzling the funds of that paper: The amount of his shortage is said to be over $5,000. The embezzlement began in 1886.

Sold Liquor in Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 10.—Col. Charles D. Hendrickson, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, seized a restaurant on Kingsley street on a charge that the owner had violated the laws by selling liquor without paying the necessary tax.

A Chinaman Hanged.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug 10.—A Chinaman named Chee Gong was hanged here yesterday for the murder of Lee Gick, two years ago. He made a long speech declaring that his conviction was the result of a Chinese conspiracy, and protesting his innocence of the crime,

Three Men Drowned.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Ex-Attorney-General Garland has been appointed resident attorney of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company at a salary of $25,000 per year.

HATERS OF WOMEN.

A Physician Relates His Experience with Misogynists.

Hatred of the Fair Sex Pronounced a Disease Akin to Insanity—Several Cases Illustrating the Truth of This Plausible Theory.

"Women-haters? Plenty of them!"

A reporter for the New York World had met a well-known physician in a popular cafe and interrupted a conversation that the doctor was holding with a friend over a cigar and a bottle of claret. He spoke easily and with confidence that he knew his subject.

To hate a woman, especially one of the dainty, loving kind, upon whose glances men hang enthralled, or for whose kindly glances men would sacrifice their souls, seemed incredible. Perish the thought! And yet the visitor's mind brought into remembrance cases in which men had sworn they hated women, only to be captured and put in bondage by a pair of bright eyes.

The physician struck a fresh match and watched the smoke from his cigar roll lazily upward as he related a few strange incidents that had come under his observation professionally.

"One case that I recall," said the doctor, "was that of a German, a member of all the musical societies, who late in life acquired and betrayed an intense hatred of all women. He had been happily married, and no one suspected him of this new feeling that began to creep over him and destroy the love he had for his wife and the respect for his mother.

"He struggled against it and fought it, but it was no use, and the disease, if such it may be called, began to show itself to his family and friends, and an instant estrangement from his wife was the result. He ran away from his home and was finally returned hopelessly insane.

"Now," concluded the doctor, "there was a man who was a woman-hater, only he did not know it, because he was insane." The physicians had diagnosed his case aright.

The conversation turned then on a case that had been mentioned by Oliver Wendell Holmes in his book. A very young boy had been left in charge of a nurse, and she had suddenly gone insane. In her maniacal frenzy she tried to strangle her innocent charge, and only desisted when she thought she had succeeded in her object. Then she killed herself with a razor, which left her a most shocking sight. The boy revived, and the first thing his eyes fell upon was the corpse.

From that day throughout his childhood and up to the hour of his death the sight of a woman was enough to throw him into convulsions. His nurses were men, and his family decided it best to seclude him. No woman ever entered his apartments, but all the work of taking care of him devolved upon men. He died in those rooms.

"Yes, that is very strange," said the physician, meditatively. "But I think I know of one nearly as remarkable," and he went on to relate the following:

"In the spring of '81 I was called in by a prominent banker to attend his son, who had suddenly become afflicted with a strange state of mind, which proved to be a hatred of women. This his family could not understand, as he had always been a leader in social events and fond of ladies' society.

"I found the young fellow's constitution very much run down, and made him admit that he was a victim of the opium habit. He also confessed to me an adventure that had happened to him, but which I will not repeat, as it is too long, in which he had been scared nearly out of his wits by a woman.

"It was easy enough for me to see that unless the impression caught and retained by his mind in its enfeebled state could be removed, he would remain a woman-hater all his life."

"Was it ever removed, doctor?" asked one of the listeners.

"Never," was the answer, and the party relapsed into silence for a moment.

A diversion was caused by the waiter's removal of an empty bottle and the substitution of a fresh one, and the conversation was resumed.

"Tell us another, doctor," insinuated the newspaper man.

"I could tell you several more, but would have to do so briefly, as a patient is waiting for me," he responded. "I recollect a gentleman who stood very high in all affairs connected with education in New York. He, too, was a woman-hater. As his opinion on school affairs was considered valuable, many teachers, especially ladies, used to run to him for advice, but, as he was deeply engaged in study, their calls were a source of annoyance to him and irritated him into the state of mind that I have mentioned.

"He was a bachelor, but he finally discharged all his women servants, substituting men. And orders were given that no woman was to be allowed to set foot within his doors. He has often told me that women had prevented his reaching the highest rounds of science and that he could never regain the time lost.

"I know another case where a man intrusted his entire fortune to a woman, and she made away with it and made a woman-hater out of him. He could never address one.

"But," concluded the doctor, impressively, "I think that designing mothers are responsible for many of the woman-haters, as they frequently prevent their daughters from marrying the men of their choice, and when a girl deserts the man she loves and marries another it is very apt to do mental injury to the first."

ENERGY OF STORMS.

Some of the Laws and Theories of Meteorological Phenomena.

H. A. Hasen, in discussing the subject in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, states that the theory was advanced by Espy in 1835 that the energy of our storms and tornadoes was entirely due to the latent heat set free in the condensation of the aqueous vapor in the air. He supposed that a primary impulse was given to an ascending current by the heat of the sun falling upon a certain limited portion of the earth, and that saturated air in this ascending current, through expansion and cooling, had its moisture condensed. This condensation liberated the latent heat stored up through the process of evaporation, and this in turn heated up the air, producing a rarefaction and an increased upward motion. The longer this process went on the more intense the action became, the more heat was evolved, and thus more and more force was evolved. Prof. Ferrel adopted this view in part, and said that without the action of some constant force the primary impulse would rapidly lose its intensity through friction, and thus the disturbance would quickly come to an end. This constant force he maintained was the heating of the air through condensation, etc., as set forth by Espy. Prof. Mohn, one of the most prominent meteorologists of Europe, has gone still further, and has computed the amount of energy brought out in developing a single Cuban hurricane during October 5, 6, 7, 1844. He says: "The Cuban hurricane, in moving the in-flowing air, developed at least 473,500,000 horse-power in these three days—that is, at least fifteen times as much energy as comes from all wind mills, water wheels, steam engines, locomotives, man and animal power of the whole earth at the same time." He states that all this power needed in the storm generation came from the latent heat set free in the process of condensation.

This, then, must be considered the chief corner-stone of theories in regard to storm formation. It seems exceedingly probable, however, that this enormous development of energy is purely and highly imaginary, and that it is an attempt to make something out of next to nothing. While undoubtedly latent heat will be evolved if vapor be condensed, yet this evolution would seem to bring certain death to the very process of condensation. Suppose we have a mass of air and could condense its moisture without altering its temperature, the latent heat set free would make just enough sensible heat to again evaporate the moisture, and there would be no rain, but every thing would remain in statu quo. Suppose, however, we take away enough heat to cool the air 10 degrees for each cubic foot, this would amount to the heat necessary to evaporate one-seventh of a grain of moisture and must be taken in part at least from the surrounding air. If we cool the air 1 degree it will condense a certain amount of moisture, depending upon the temperature, and this will liberate exactly the same amount of heat that was used in the original evaporation. In order to absorb this heat it is necessary to cool the condensing air, and this can only be done by imparting still more heat to the surrounding air, so that we have increased the temperature of the environment in two ways, and thus have put a stop to all further development.

For example, let us cool a cubic foot of saturated air from 80 to 79 degrees, and let us suppose that the heat imparted to the surrounding air is all concentrated in a single cubic foot close by the first. We now have 1 cubic foot of saturated air at 79 degrees and another of unsaturated air at about 81 degrees. The cooling to 79 degrees has condensed one-third grain of moisture, and this has liberated latent heat which can be disposed or only by heating the adjacent cubic foot to 2.3 degrees. We have, then, if there is no flaw in the reasoning, one-third grain of moisture as rainfall, 1 cubic foot of saturated air at 79 degrees and another of unsaturated air at 83.53. Suppose we mix these, we shall have 2 cubic feet of air at about 81 degrees and unsaturated, hence no further rainfall can occur till this is again cooled, and it can not be cooled except at the expense of the surrounding air. It is plain that this will be the effect even with the most infinitesimal cooling and condensation, hence we must conclude that no appreciable rainfall can occur by these processes, and the enormous energy developed is a figment of the imagination, or else that the heat evolved has been changed to electricity or radiated into space or disposed of in some other way. The processes herein set forth seem to be exactly analagous to those taking place when two masses of saturated air or widely-differing temperature are mixed together, in which case all meteorologists are agreed there can be no appreciable rainfall, and, of course, no development of energy.

This seems a very startling result, and some will ask: What can we substitute as a cause of storms? It is believed by a great many intelligent people that meteorology has not yet taken its first step toward a satisfactory solution of its profoundest problems, and there has been scarcely a well-authenticated principle established even in the simpler problems. We may well conclude that the principal reason for this has been the extreme proneness to adopt doubtful hypothesis, which has greatly hampered investigation. One of the first steps is to disprove these theories before we can lay the foundation of a better structure. The only possible way in which we can hope to learn the formation of our storms and the laws governing their movement is to investigate them in the open air, where, as it is now admitted by all, their power lies. This knowledge, it will be readily admitted, would be of incalculable benefit to all classes of people, but especially to those living in tornado districts, to seafaring men and to farmers. It is to be hoped that those interested will turn their attention to this subject, but if not, in this evening of the nineteenth century there will undoubtedly soon be a demand from many classes of people that the investigation be undertaken. With our modern appliances this may be made at very slight expense and with entire safety to the investigator.

WORKS AND WORKERS.

COLONEL FORSYTH, in San Francisco Report: I saw in Venice the most skilled lace workers in Europe, and the highest wages they were receiving was 50 cents a day, without board. I saw in Austria and in other parts of Europe girls from eighteen to twenty years of age carrying heavier hods of mortar than our American hod-carriers do, and these girls carried these loads to the top of four-story buildings. All that they got for their hard work was 22½ cents a day, without board or lodging. I saw women cleaning streets, chopping wood and carrying coal around, working as hard as the common laborer.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

VICTIMS OF NEGLECT

Three Railroad Accidents Due to Careless Employes.

A NUMBER OF PERSONS KILLED.

Two Trains Wrecked in Pennsylvania on Account of an Operator's Blunder.

A Collision on the Rock Island Road Caused by Employes Who Disregarded Orders. One Man Was Killed and Several Injured—A Neglect of Proper Signals Caused the Accident Near Rochester and the Injury of Several Persons.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 12.—A collision occurred on the Rock Island Railroad, one mile west of this city, yesterday, between the St. Joe express and a construction train.

Both trains were running fast and they came together with a terrible crash on a curve.

The two engines, an express car, three freight cars and the caboose were wrecked.

Express Messenger L. M. Courter was instantly killed, and Postal Clerk Daly badly injured.

Both firemen were mangled, and will be cripples for life; and one of the employes on the freight train had his leg cut off.

Superintendent Allen says the accident was caused by the carelessness of the conductor and engineer of the construction train, who misunderstood their orders.

The loss to the company will be about $50,000.

Another Accident Due to Carelessness.

BRADFORD, Pa. Aug. 12.—Two freight trains were wrecked at Whistletown, Elk County, Pa., yesterday. Bert Andreson, an Erie brakeman who belonged in this city, was killed instantly and two engines and 20 cars were wrecked and burned. The operator at Johnsonburg should have held the Philadelphia and Erie train, but neglected to do so, and it crashed into an Erie freight going west with the above result.

LIVES LOST BY NEGLIGENCE.

The Railroad Collision Near Rochester was Caused by Improper Signalling.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 12.—It has been ascertained that the railroad collision on Saturday at Forest Lawn Station, nine miles east of this city, was caused by the neglect of proper signals. The Station Agent at Forest Lawn set a flag to stop the westbound express but it was not seen in time by the engineer.

The baggage and first passenger car were totally wrecked and all the injured passengers were on that car. The wounded were brought to this city.

The injured are: H. M. Perrin of St. Johns, Mich., head and face bruised and injured internally; Mrs. H. M. Perrin, St. Johns, Mich., collar bone broken and badly bruised. Mr. and Mrs. Perrin are parents of the young lady killed, but were not informed of her fate, as it was feared the shock might be fatal. Andrew Tiffany of Oswego, injured internally; Mrs. Lewis Moore of Gratroick, N. Y., right leg cut off and toes of left foot amputated. The engineer of the eastbound train, John Barker, is badly injured. He was taken to his home in Oswego. Miss Mary Hannon of Siskyon, Ont., right leg broken and face and head badly cut.

The fireman has since died. John Joy of Oswego, died just as he was taken into the hospital.

A Minister Dies of Apoplexy.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The Rev. M. D. Jackson, pastor of the M. E. Church at Greenwood, N. Y., an old Chautauquan, and for thirty years a member of the Genesee Conference, died here of apoplexy last night.

Cincinnati's Quiet Sunday.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—The Sabbath was generally observed here yesterday, the saloons being closed and few arrests made. A few cigar stores kept open to test the constitutionality of the law. Altogether it was a quiet day.

Estimating Spokane's Loss.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Aug. 12.—It is now found that the total losses by the recent fire, including buildings and stock, will not exceed $8,000,000, while conservative estimates place the losses at not over $6,000,000.

A Buffalo Attorney Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Robert H. Stevens, a well-enown attorney, and at one time a frequent contributor to the newspapers and magazines, died yesterday, aged 86 years.

To Bear Mrs. Hayes' Name.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—The Woman's Home Missionary Society have issued a circular appealing for contributions for the purpose of founding a training school for missionaries as an industrial school to bear the name of Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes.

Will Fight the Jute Trust.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 12.—The State Farmers of Alabama has consolidated with the Farmers' Wheel. Both orders have united against the jute bagging trust and will fight it to the death.

THE PRESIDENT AT CHURCH.

Accompanied by Secretary Blaine and Congressman Lodge.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 12.—President Harrison went to church at Northeast Harbor yesterday morning in company with Secretary and Mrs. Blaine, Congressman and Mrs. Lodge, Miss Harriet Blaine, Walker Blaine and Private Secretary Halford.

The service was held in the Episcopal chapel of St. Mary's-by-the-Sea, a quaint little building about twelve miles from Bar Harbor, with accommodations for 300 or 400 worshipers.

Bishop Doane of Albany, who has a summer residence at that resort, preached the sermon. No mention of politics or direct allusion to the Presidential party was made.

After the sermon there was a short prayer, in which the President, Governors, counselors and others in authority were remembered. The usual collection was not forgotten.

The President went with Senator Hale to Ellsworth to-day. He returns for the driving parade to-morrow, and it is said will leave on the early train Wednesday

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY.

A Widow and Her Two Daughters Assaulted and Murdered.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 12.—A horrible butchery is reported from McDowell County. The particulars are meagre.

It appears that a widow named Gillis lived in a remote district of the county with two daughters about grown. They were poor but respectable people. Neighbors have found them all dead.

They had evidently been criminally assaulted and murdered. There is entirely no clew to the perpetrators of the deed.

Y. M. C. A. Summer Encampment.

EASTPORT, Me., Aug. 12.—One hundred and fifty members and friends of the Young Men's Christian Association opened the summer encampment of the association at North Lubic with a reception in George S. Avery's large tent. To-day the programme of work and recreation begins and will be kept up until August 25.

Struggle with Train Robbers.

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 12.—There was a supposed attempt at train robbery last night on the Iron Mountain Road, near Newport. Two men got on the track and had a fight with the baggage master and a porter, in which the former was killed. One of the men escaped but the other was captured.

"Practical Christianity."

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker spoke for half an hour yesterday afternoon before the Young Men's Christian Association on the subject of "Practical Christianity." There was a very large attendance, and at the close a large number shook hands with Mr. Wanamaker.

An Orphan Asylum Burned.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 12.—The Augusta Orphan Asylum was almost entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The children were gotten out safely. Two firemen were injured by falling timbers. A lack of water hindered the efforts to save the building. The loss is estimated at $80,000.

The Rifle Team at Home.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The rifle team arrived home from their English trip yesterday morning, and were given a breakfast at Young's Hotel, many officers of the State militia being present. The city gave the team a breakfast at Young's this morning

Murder and Suicide.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 12.—John H. Henning, a painter, shot and killed Mrs. John Shellars in her husband's candy store and then shot himself dead. It is supposed that Henning was in love with Mrs. Shellars, who did not encourage his advances.

Killed by Jumping from a Train.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 12.—H. Webb, of Wilkesbarre, aged 34, and Herman Newmayer, of the same place, aged 45, jumped from a Lehigh Valley train at Chain Dam yesterday. Webb was instantly killed and Newmayer was fatally hurt.

Hon. Samuel Fessenden Recovering.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug 12.—Hon. Samuel Fessenden, who received a fracture of the right thigh while fishing off Chincoteague, Va., on Friday last, in company with Senator Quay and others, is rapidly recovering at the Stockton Hotel here.

The Peeper Still at Large.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 12.—The Elizabeth police found that they had not arrested the notorious peeper who has been frightening women in different parts of the city, although they supposed they had when they captured a man named Cobb. Last night the peeper made his appearance in East Jersey street, and entered a house, where he frightened a young woman into hysterics. He mysteriously disappeared before the police could be summoned. Gobb has been released.

Judge Cummin Dead.

CRESSON SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 12.—Judge Hugh H. Cummin, of Williamsport, died here yesterday of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

ARMY DESERTIONS

The War Department Alarmed at the Big Increase.

REMEDIES TO BE SUGGESTED.

A Stop Must be Put to Soldiers Doing Work Around the Officers' Quarters.

When a Man Enters the Army He Expects to Become a Soldier.—But He Finds that He Has to Do All the Work Around the Garrison—The Report of the Agricultural Department Gives Promise of Abundant Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Army officers of late have been looking into the causes which depopulated the army. Late statistics show that desertions are on the increase.

During the six months ending June 30, 1889, the records show an increase of 135 over the number reported for the corresponding period of last year. For the past six months of the present year there were 1,467 desertions against 1,209 for the same time of 1888. Fully seven-eighths of the desertions took place during the first year of enlistment.

The importance of these figures is appreciated by General Schofield and Adjutant-General Kelton, each of whom has given the subject much thought and discussion lately, and some plan of action looking toward the modification of existing articles of war will receive their earnest advocacy and be presented to congress.

The number of desertions, especially from the larger army posts, are the source of much anxiety to the officials in the War Department, and they will strike at the root of the evil if such a thing is possible. Quite a number of officers believe that one of the best ways to break up desertion would be to put a stop to a soldier doing so much extra work. When a man enters the army he expects to become a soldier. When he finds that, in addition to his duty of a soldier, he has to do all the work around the garrison and officers' quarters the soldier feeling dies out, and he deserts at the first opportunity, generally in the first year of his enlistment. A decrease in the useless calls at the army posts would also, it is thought, result in fewer desertions.

ABOUT OUR CROPS.

The August Report of the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The August crop report of the Department of Agriculture makes the condition of corn 94.8; spring wheat, 81.2; spring rye, 95.4; oats, 92.3; barley, 90.6; buckwheat, 95.2; potatoes, 94.3; tobacco, 84.4.

Corn has made an improvement during the past month of 4⅕ points and is now less than one point lower than at the same date last year. The August return of condition has not stood more than one point higher during the past nine years, and the present return has been equalled but three times during that period. The figures for the principal corn States are: Ohio and Indiana 87; Illinois, 90; Iowa, 100; Missouri, 96; Kansas, 102; Nebraska, 101; Texas, 99; Tennessee, 98; Kentucky, 97. The general average for the seven surplus States is 95; against 90 last month, and 96 for August, 1888.

Spring wheat has suffered a further falling off during the month, the decline amounting to nearly three points. Condition is now nearly three points higher than in 1887, and one above that of 1886. With these exceptions, it is the lowest since the very small crop of 1881. Averages in the principal States are: Wisconsin, 90; Minnesota, 98; Iowa, 94; Nebraska, 91; Dakota, 57; Washington, 78. The quality of the crop will be better than usual, especially in the extreme Northwest.

Rye and barley each decline one point, the falling off being mainly in Nebraska and Dakota. Condition of oats, while two points lower than reported last month, is higher than August of any year since 1885. Potatoes have maintained their high condition of a month ago, and now stand one point higher than at this date last year.

Tobacco has fallen off materially on account of excessive rain. The decline is especially marked in the Atlantic States and in Indiana. Averages in leading States are: Pennsylvania, 99; Maryland, 96; Virginia, 80; Kentucky, 81; Ohio, 92; Indiana, 55; Wisconsin, 93.

The average condition of cotton is 89.3, an advance of nearly two points during the month. Since 1880 the average has been exceeded but three times—in 1882, 1885, and 1887.

Driven to Death by a Phantom.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Elizabeth Hasse shot and killed herself at her home yesterday morning. The body was not discovered until evening. The suicide had a happy home and a kind husband but her mind had been affected for some time, and she believed that she was the ojbect of a malicious persecution.

The Asbury Park Carnival.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 12.—The annual lake carnival will occur to-morrow evening. Wesley Lake, which is a mile long, will be illuminated from one end to the other.

Broke His Own Arm Pitching.

Fred Moffett who was pitching in a game at Sterling, Saturday afternoon, broke his arm just above the elbow while delivering the ball.

The unfortunte young man was about 18 years of age, and a very clever pitcher. As he threw the ball a sharp snap was heard, and Moffett called out, "Who struck me?" Just then his arm swung around, and his hand hanging loosely struck him in the back.

Dr. Jones, of Basking Ridge, set the bone which was found to be entirely broken in two. Moffett will pitch no more.

Bishop Wigger Home Again.

Bishop Wigger of this diocese, arrived home from a prolonged tour through Europe and the Holy Land, Friday morning, on the steamer Hammonia of the Hamburg line. He was met at Hoboken by Vicar General Salt and a number of Catholic clergymen.

HONORS ARE EASY.

SOMERVILLE BUYS THE SECOND GAME.

A New York Nine Does Plainfield Up, and the Victories Stand One Apiece.

Oh, somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright.
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light.
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout:
But there is no joy in Plainfield—John Harkins struck us out.

The second of the games between the Crescent nine of Plainfield and the West End Club of Somerville, is at last, after many postponements, a thing of the past, and there is crepe on the door of the Bowling Club.

On Saturday afternoon last the Somerville management placed in the field a team of stalwart players picked from the best of New York's semi-professionals; yet in spite of their weight, experience and previous expectation, the big ones were not able to score until the eighth inning, and then only by luck.

The Crescent nine was composed of the regular players, but of the West Ends only Harkins, Davenport and Bergen were among the players that composed Saturday's team from Somerville. The game was an exciting one because of its closeness besides the intense local feeling that is an environment of the Plainfield-Somerville contests for the past two years. Almost two thousand people witnessed it—a quarter of which number were of the gentler sex—and all yelled themselves hoarse with approbation and heeded not the broiling sun which seemed desirous to make up for past days of obscurity.

Considering the array of sluggers that stepped to the plate before him, Gately pitched a reasonably good game. With the help of his support, who pulled eleven flies down in safety, he held the Somerville employees to six hits. But Davenport was the only one who smiling Patrick was able to strike out—and it was all Davenport's own carelessness, too—while even the courteous Bergen, who Somerville does not seem to appreciate, savagely lifted the ball through the atmosphere in four long drives that would each have been good for two bases at least if Mc Laughlin and Hayden had not gobbled them as if big hits were just pie to them.

Bowes, as usual, caught a great game, and shut them all out by his superb throwing to second. Only one base was stolen by the West Ends and that on one of Lee's four errors. Billy's lame arm would not permit him to play his old place on third, and a consequence seems to be that he has made more errors in the last two games than during the entire season.

Captain Dave Condon played short in good shape, with a record of three assists, three put-outs and not an error. Cadmus, too, on third, accepted every chance given him, besides making a two-bagger and the first run for Plainfield in the eighth inning, although he had been put at the bottom of the batting list. Farrer who was "filling" Demarest's vacant place, caught one fly, was three times at the bat and went out each time for assaulting the wide outside.

McMurray played an errorless first, but the credit which he was receiving from the assembled multitude, was entirely blotted out in the eighth inning when he spoiled the Crescents' prospect of at least three runs.

But if ever one man won a game for his team, it was Mr. John Harkins on Saturday afternoon last. With a mouth full of gum but wearing that same old aggravating sneer, he shot the regulation leather sphere across the plate in the same old way that made him a terror to Plainfield last year. As shown by the score below, he mowed down eleven men on strikes, including every one but Bowes, Hayden and Gately. Every ball he threw seemed to sing a song of but two words, "Ah, There!" and it was lost in Sublich's mitten.

A muff by Moorhead of a rather badly thrown ball, was the West Ends' only error. Block was the only fielder who had a chance, and he captured four high flies, thus spoiling the base hit records of McMurray, Bowes, Condon and Gately. Only Bishop, Harkins, Davenport and Block succeeded in making safe hits—Bergen's three bagger in the ninth just tipping McLaughlin's fingers as it went over his head and thus giving him an error instead of a credit to the batter.

There were only two earned runs in the game, and they were both made by the Crescents. In the eighth, after two balls and a strike on him, Cadmus hit a little safe one that just rolled in the crowd so that he could reach second easily but he kept on to third. The ball was fielded to Williams—whose name was Nichols when he was blacklisted by the professional Louisvilles—and he touched the grand stand's favorite out three feet from the base. The umpire did not see it, declared the runner safe and he came in on Lee's single. The other earned run was by Bowes in the ninth, when he made a safe hit and stole every base including the home plate. McMurray in the eighth stepped off of first base in a fit of carelessness, and was easily touched out.

The West End's runs were made by a streak of bad luck for the Crescents in the eighth inning, that took the heart from out of Gately and the smile from off his lips, in the ninth. In the eighth Block went to first on a hit; Bergen went out by a beautiful catch of Hayden's; Bishop reached first, and Block took second on the former's hit; and Moorhead was given his on balls, thus filling the bases with but one man out. Williams then knocked a short hit to Condon who quickly returned it to the plate, but Bowes dropped the ball and Block, who was being forced home, kicked it far enough out of the way to let two more in. Harkins and Sublich were speedily retired, but the game was lost. In the next inning Gately was freely batted. He seemed to have given up all effort to win. For seven innings but one hit had been made, yet in the eighth and ninth, four safe ones were lined out by the New Yorkers and one by Davenport. In the ninth three more runs were added by the West Ends, and the score closed as follows. Mr. Wm. Cadmus' umpiring was most satisfactory, and even the Somerville attendants did not complain. But then they won, you know; and that make a great difference:

Mrs. A. G. Hooley, child and nurse, and Miss Lulu Balen, all of this city, and Miss M. Lee Hooley of Philadelphia, started for Asbury Park today, where they will be registered at the Kernwood.

On Thursday evening last, High Priest Jos. G. Miller worked the Royal Arch Degree upon two members of Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., of this city. The candidates were Messrs John E. Beerbower and D. C. Adams.

At his home in North Plainfield, yesterday, occurred the death of Wm. Kaeding, aged 22 years and 6 months. The deceased was a victim of that terrible disease, consumption. His brother was buried on Thursday last. The funeral will take place in Warren Mission chapel, to-morrow at two P. M.

Messrs George F. Giles and Isaac Giddis of Dunellen, are spending a short time at Jones' Point, N. Y., the home of Mr. Giles daughter, who married Mr. Frank Tinsman, a nephew of Mr. Tinsman of Dunellen, formerly conductor on the N. J. Central Railroad, but now holding a more important and lucrative position with the same company.

MR. WOLTMANN ANSWERED.

Observer Has Something More to Say of Interest to Everybody.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In your issue of the 8th, Mr. Woltmann's requests some further criticism of his water works plans, in reply to which the writer begs leave to offer the following:

According to the official report of the Council proceedings, Messrs Woltmann and Fuller among a number of other applicants, have solicited the privilege of introducing water into the city by any of three different plans; that is to say, from Passaic river, Stony brook or Green brook, or wells. The hydrant rental asked is $50 for the first plan, $25 for the third and $32.50 for the second.

Now being contractors as were all the other applicants it is plain that the chief object is to secure a franchise. Practically it makes little difference to them what the city pays for hydrant rental; their interest being solely to lay so many miles of pipe, build so many cubic feet of masonry, provide reservoirs, pump house and machinery. But it is necessary to have funds to do all this and Mr. Woltmann confesses that at the present time neither himself nor his competitors have the wherewithal to talk business.

Now all contractors are unfortunately for their own ends between two fires so to speak in this matter. They are obliged to submit a plan that will be attractive in all its features to the residents of the place while at the same time they must skillfully arrange the scheme so as to interest their bankers to the extent of advancing the necessary financial assistance.

The Passaic river source of supply, it would naturally seem, is the best for a contractors purpose for it gives so many more miles of trenches to be excavated and pipes to be laid. But miles of unproductive pipe and the high hydrant rental would drive off the banker and frighten the native. So that it is not so much the quality of the water that is feared in using the Passaic as a source of supply, as it is the inability to secure the means to carry on the enterprise, and we assume this to be the fact in Mr. Woltmann's case when he shows in his communication a willingness to bring water from the Passaic and at the same time disparages the use of it on account of its impurity.

Difficulty would also be encountered in procuring funds to build and operate works where it was contemplated to draw the water from wells and Mr. Woltmann knows it.

Contractors are aware that, let it be understood by a banker that the city has, at two or three different times in the last ten years, employed engineers to locate a supply and that the latter have recorded the opinion that there is no certainty concerning the subterranean supply of water and that were it found at all it might subsequently have to be supplemented by brook water, and funds would not be readily forthcoming if they would be advanced at all.

The only feasible plan then for the contractor is the final proposition of Mr. Woltmann to draw water from the pure mountain streams, to impound it in a reservoir at a proper elevation, and if necessary to construct in addition a stand pipe to afford the desired pressure for fire purposes.

Competent hydraulic engineers we are told, never resort to the experiment of seeking for water underneath the surface of the earth when there is a bountiful supply, hygienically pure, to be found in plain sight and which can be calculated upon accurately for years to come. The writer naturally assumes therefore that Mr. Woltmann's experience in these enterprises would dictate the most favorable location to draw his supply from, and this is certainly suggested in his proposition No. 2, which stipulates to provide water for fire purposes for $6,500 per annum for 200 hydrants at $32.50 each. Other contractors contemplate taking water from the brooks or wells, and but two out of the eight applicants name a figure higher than Woltmann & Fuller's. The average is $29.50. So much for this.

Although Mr. Woltmann may not be aware of the fact, the undersigned is perfectly familiar with the method of financering water enterprises as he is also cognizant of the fact that it is more difficult today to secure funds to carry on these projects than it has ever been before in the history of water works. It may occur to Mr. Woltmann that a large water works contractor failed and "laid down" on his bankers to the extent of $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 a year or so ago, and that two of the largest financial institutions in the city of New York are today carrying a load of securities covering the properties organized and built by him upon which the interest on the bonded indebtness is not likely to be earned for years yet to come. This is one reason why capital is not rushing to Plainfield to build water works under the specifications recently issued by the City Council and it will also work disadvantageously for the bidders now striving for a franchise in this city if they ever get so far with their schemes as to require the services of a banker. After all this, take Mr. Woltmann's own plan and fancy if you can how it will strike the intelligence of the average capitalist. Woltmann says that it will require $200,000 or $250,000 to construct a proper system in this city. Assume now that a banker agrees to provide the funds to carry out the plans of the contractor. 6 per cent. interest on $250,000 is $15,000, add $5,000 for operating expenses and we have a charge of $20,000 to be provided for annually. Now where is the banker coming out? All Woltmann & Fuller say they require from this city for hydrant rental is $25 each for 200 hydrants which amounts to only $5,000 annually. You may say that private consumption of water will provide the difference, but Woltmann realizes as does the writer, that Plainfield people will be very slow to take water as they fondly believe that there is nothing on God's foot stool in the way of water to equal our well water. Hence the chances are that it would be years before even 1,000 consumers could be obtained at say an average of $15 each. During all these years who is to carry the enterprise, the contractor? Not much, the banker or capitalist every time.

One can scarcely imagine that Mr. Woltmann would have any difficulty in comprehending the last paragraph of the writer's communication of Wednesday last wherein "active competition" is referred to. Any one who goes so far as to tempt the cupidity of a Common Council with an offer of $6,000 for the privilege of benefiting the city must know that a great many people look upon this sort of thing as a mild sort of bribery, and naturally feel that an engineer who receives his compensation from the contractors directly, or indirectly, must feel under obligations to his employers, or risk his remunerative position. There was active competition in the Broadway surface railway you will call to mind and its consequences. Not at the present day, but some time in the dim distant future some progressive individual who of course will wish to benefit the city exclusively will take it into his head to come the "blocks of five" scheme on the city, and then you will be blessed with a water system with sewers and street railway and all the trimmings regardless of expense.

In conclusion the writer with all due respect to Mr. Woltmann's wishes, desires to suggest that it is not the name always that gives weight to a communication, but the argument, hence for the present he will sign as heretofore, simply

OBSERVER.

THE PRESS Will Fill the Bill.

An exchange says truly, that people do things in the wrong way, when they might just as well do them in the right way. Business men sometimes torture their brains to find novel ways of advertising. Money enough is thrown away on utterly senseless modes of advertising to fill all the newspapers with advertisements at high rates. All other methods of advertising are hardly equal to the medium that meets a possible customer's eye under all circumstances and at all times.

The newspaper goes into the home, the counting room, the office, the factory, the shop, on the railroad car, the steamboat, the coach; it is found on all news stands, and in the stores, on ferries and in boats, in New York and San Francisco, in America, Japan, China, Europe, Africa, and the islands of the sea. In fact, the newspaper is always everywhere a type of ubiquity.

A New York firm not long since got an order of considerable amount from a distant country. They were so much puzzled by the receipt of the order that, when they sent the goods, they wrote to the party asking how it was they had received the order. The reply was that a package of old papers had been bought, and in looking them over the advertisement of their goods had been seen and the order had followed. Paper is the hardest thing in the world to destroy. If it is packed in bundles it is practically fireproof. Put a sheet in the fire, and as it curls up you can read the advertisements on it by firelight.

President French Confesses and Resigns.

There was a full attendance in Reform Hall last evening. Vice President Harper occupied the chair, Rev. Mr. Cleaver read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer, and the music, as usual, was led by Mr. Vanderbeek.

The speakers were Dr. Burnett and Rev. Mr. Cleaver, both of whom delivered able and very appropriate addresses, dwelling largely upon Charity and Mercy as foremost among the fundamental teachings of Christ and necessary to be obeyed by all His real followers. Mr. Cleaver also set forth the broad mission of the Reform Club of Plainfield, which was instituted to rescue the perishing, lift up the fallen, strengthen the weak, and to labor for and encourage all to stand upon the solid rock of total abstinence.

When signers to the pledge were called for, President French came forward from the audience and re-took the obligation. He subsequently ascended the platform and manfully and honestly avowed that he had been induced to violate his pledge, stated particularly the circumstances under which he went astray, and feelingly regretting the fact, renewed his connection with the Club and its cause, declaring that he would in the future dedicate increased efforts on behalf of its grand and good purposes. The remarks of Mr. French produced a marked effect, and at the close of the meeting many took him by the hand and spoke words of kindness and encouragement. Great interest was manifested, and the large audience received a most beautiful and touching benediction from the lips of Mr. Cleaver.

This morning Mr. French sent to the Executive Committee of the Club, a peremptory resignation of his office as President.

DEMPSEY-LA BLANCHE FIGHT.

Great Preperations for the Fistic Encounter at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—The impending battle between Jack Dempsey and Geo. La Blanche for a purse of $5,500 is now the principal topic in sporting circles in this city. Both have been going through a regular training routine—La Blanche at Dexter's at San Salito, under the mentorship of John Donaldson of Minneapolis, one of John L. Sullivan's first opponents, while Dempsey has been doing his work at Portland, Ore., under charge of Dave Campbell and Denny Costello. Several bets have been made of $100 to $80 on Dempsey. La Blanche has made a host of friends since his arrival here, and judging from the talk they are making, will back him heartily. La Blanche is confident. La Blanche will weigh between 160 and 165 pounds, while Dempsey will probably weigh 158 or 160 pounds.

MOVED A BRIDGE 450 FEET.

The Work Was Done in 12 Minutes and in 58 Minutes a Freight Train Crossed It.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 12.—Master Carpenter W. K. Beard, with 100 men and jacks and trestles, moved the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge, near Mile Creek, yesterday.

The bridge is of iron, 258 feet long, and weighs 250 tons.

It was moved 450 feet in twelve minutes, and in fifty-eight minutes after the work was begun a freight train and two engines passed over the structure.

Several thousand persons watched the engineering feat with interest.

Both Legs Cut Off.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 12.—An unknown woman about 50 years old, dressed in black, was run over by a Brooklyn, Bath & West End railroad train last evening at 38th street and 9th avenue, and both her legs were cut off. She was taken to the Seney Hospital in an unconscious condition, and has little chance of recovery. She had been visiting Greenwood Cemetery. There was nothing on her person by which her identity could be learned.

Rev. Flemon Acquitted.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 12.—The first ballot taken by the jury in the Yedell murder trial resulted in a vote of 11 for acquittal and 1 for conviction. The jury soon afterward unanimously agreed upon an acquittal. The verdict seems to meet with the approval of the public generally. The prisoner is greatly broken down, his nervous system having given way.

IRISH PEST HOLES

Excitement Caused by the Condition of Ireland's Prisons.

THE GOVERNMENT CENSURED.

Political Prisoners Die from Fever Contracted While in Prison.

Men Who Enter the Prisons the Picture of Health Come Out Physical Wrecks—Petitions in Mrs. Maybrick's Behalf Assuming Immense Proportions—Another Interview with Her Mother—Boulanger Shared in the Divvy.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Reports of the unhealthy condition of the prisons in which Irish political prisoners are confined are causing considerable excitement, and the Government comes in for its share of the blame.

Many of the more excitable critics of Mr. Balfour do not hesitate to charge that the worst pest holes among the Irish prisons are purposely selected for the incarceration of those convicted of violations of the Crimes Act.

The condition of the prison at Falcarragh particularly, is referred to as a disgrace to civilization, and it is pointed out that, although the attention of the authorities has been called to it repeatedly within the past year, nothing has ever been done to remove the danger of an epidemic, to which its filthy condition has been a standing invitation.

On Thursday last John McGee was released from this pest hole, in a pitiable condition, and when he reached his home it was only to die the next day of typhus fever. He had entered the prison a picture of health and strength. He came out a physical wreck. Another prisoner, a man named Frieze, who was only released a few days ago, is also dead from typhoid fever contracted while in confinement.

MINISTERS ASSISTING.

Petitions Circulated in Liverpool Churches in Behalf of Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Maybrick had another long interview with her mother, who was permitted to remain in her cell for several hours. The condemned woman is much better to-day than she has been at any time since the death sentence was pronounced. She has been assured by all who have access to her, that everything possible is being done to save her from the terrible fate which stares her in the face, and she has in a great measure recovered her spirits, and now looks more hopefully into the future.

The petitions to the Home Secretary in her behalf are assuming immense proportions, hundreds of people in different parts of England having interested themselves to secure signatures. Petitions were circulated in all the Dissenting churches in Liverpool yesterday, the ministers taking pains to explain to their congregations that the statements that the expense of the defence had been borne by Brierly, the unfortunate woman's paramour, were untrue.

Boulanger Shared in the Divvy.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The letters of Boulanger which were produced before the Senate Court tend to prove that he had shared with Buret the commission paid by the army contractors. Mme. Pourpre, the mistress of Boulanger, has written to Louis Michel certain disclosures concerning the General.

Mail Lost at Reading, Pa.

READING, Pa., Aug. 12.—For the past few days Inspector Bayard of the post-office has been here investigating the great losses of mail matter recently suffered by merchants of this city and neighborhood. Some business houses, it is said, lost from 10 to 40 letters in the mails which reached here from New York, Philadelphia, and the West. These losses have been so enormous that the President has in several instances been appealed to. Mr. Bayard having finished his investigation left for Washington yesterday to make his report.

Won't Recognize Him as Consul.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12.—Advices from Honolulu state that when W. H. Severance arrived in that city by the steamer Australia, to assume his office as United States Consul-General His Majesty King Kalakaua declined to give him an interview and also refused to accept him as Consul-General. The reasons given by His Majesty for his action are that Mr. Severance was dismissed from office as the Hawaiian Consul in San Francisco for cause. His Majesty feels that Severance's appointment marks a lack of courtesy on the part of United States officials.

Fierce Forest Fires.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12.—A fierce forest fire is raging in Washington county about fifteen miles from here. Near Cedar Mills the people are hastening to the opening country. The road between this city and Cedar Mills is impassable on account of the fire, several farm houses and barns have been burned and the loss will be heavy. There has been no rain for nearly two months, and the whole country is very dry, small fires are reported in many directions.

Shot His Wife While Insane.

TURNER'S FALLS, Mass., Aug. 12—M. Slattery, aged 45, shot his wife four times and then shot himself in the mouth, blowing off a portion of his face. Both are still alive, with fair chances of recovery.

A Big Fish Firm Goes Under.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 12.—The firm of I. O. Downs & Co., who conduct the largest meat and fish business in this city, has been attached at the instance of out of town creditors.

BROWN'S WHEREABOUTS.

His Partner Believes He is in Canada or Mexico.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Amasa Clarke, of the firm of Brown, Steese & Clarke, today said that he had no doubt that the missing member of the firm, Gideon P. Brown, was either in Canada or Mexico, or some other place outside of the United States.

He was entirely confident that Mr. Hale was not mistaken in the man he saw in Albany Wednesday morning, because Mr. Hale had known Mr. Brown for years.

"Mr. Brown's coachman," said Mr. Clarke, "led us to believe that he had taken Mr. Brown to the Providence station to take the 11 o'clock train Tuesday night. On that assurance I sent a detective to Westerly, R. I., where his family was, but I found that I was entirely on the wrong track. Since then the coachman has admitted that he drew Mr. Brown to the Albany station and that he took the 11:30 train. I can't tell whether Mr. Brown had any money to speak of with him. I have been in business with him for fifteen years and, while I knew he was very careless, I never had supposed him dishonest. He had entire charge of the finances, and in the last week he had borrowed an immense amount of money on the firm's credit. What he has done with it I don't know. He may have spent it in the interest of the firm."

It has been authoritively stated that no statement can be made of the affairs of the firm until an expert has been through the books and straightened affairs somewhat.

Note broker Clarence A. Dow is a creditor to the amount of $7,500 for a note negotiated Monday. The note was taken back for a change in the endorsement and Dow did not get it again, although Brown got his money on it.

Amasa Clark Estate Attached.

BOSTON, Aug. 12—The Hide & Leather National Bank has placed an attachment in Dedham against the estate of Amasa Clark, of the firm of Brown, Steese & Clark, wool dealers, who recently failed.

An Awful Charge Against Her Father.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Carrie Jenkins, aged 15, who came to Geneva on Thursday night died Saturday at the residence of Mrs. James Townsend, of consumption. Before her death she charged her father, J. J. Jenkins, formerly of Geneva, now of Auburn, with incest, claiming that he forced her in Geneva about a year and a half ago. The doctors say that this criminal intercourse brought on the consumption, which caused death.

The Suit Discontinued.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The suit of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company against the Adams Express Company for the recovery of $84,272.42 has been discontinued by the counsel for the Reading Company. The action grew out of the contract for the carrying of express matter which formerly existed between the companies, and which was terminated last February, when the United States Express Company began sending its matter over the Reading's lines.

Won't Allow the Cattle in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12.—The Customs Department has refused permission to the directors of the Union Agricultural Society of the Eastern Townships, the animal show in connection with which is to be held at Clarenceville, Que., next month, to bring in from the United States cattle, sheep and swine for competition at the exhibition, although the animals would only be in Canada two or three days and be but a few miles across the border.

Horton's Conduct Was Bad.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—John B Horton of Veteran, is under arrest here charged with forgery. It is alleged that Horton realized a large sum of money by forgery. He abandomed his wife and children in Veteran, sold his farm and came to this city a year ago and lived with a woman who had left her husband and children in Tioga county. He confesses.

Mrs. Eliza Sutton Dead.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Eliza Sutton, the wealthiest resident of Peabody, distinguished for her beneficence, died Saturday at her summer home at Centre Harbor, aged 83. She endowed the Ebendale Sutton Reference Library here with a fund of $20,000, and spent as much more in fitting up the same as a memorial to her son. The library contains 3,000 rare volumes. Deceased was prominent in local charities, and a liberal giver to the Unitarian Church.

Appointments By the President.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 12.—President Harrison has made the following appointments: Samuel F. Phillips, of North Carolina, Commissioner on the part of the United States under the Venezueland and United States Treaty concerning the adjustment of claims; Charles G. Pope, of Missouri, Consul at Toronto; Richard G. Lay, of the District of Columbia, Consul-General at Ottawa.

Unknown Disease Among Illinois Cattle.

QUINCY, Ill., Aug. 12.—A large number of cattle have been dying off in North Hancock county recently from some unknown disease. Farmers are much troubled about it. Some think it is the "bots," and others attribute the epidemic to different causes.

Killed By Lightning.

PIPER CITY, Ill., Aug. 12.—Mrs. N. Preman and her 12-year-old daughter were killed by lightning near here yesterday afternoon as they were coming to town in a storm. A seven month's old babe in the mother's arms was not injured.

National Republican League.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A meeting of the National Republican League Executive Committee will be held at Saratoga Springs to-morrow.

SOME RICH WOMEN.

Widows and Maids Worth a Million Dollars or More.

Most of Them Live in New York—Some Are Found in Society and Some Are to Be Found in the Whirl of Wall Street.

Mrs. Moses Taylor, the widow of the famous dry-goods merchant, says a New York paper, comes generally first into the mind of the New Yorker who bethinks him of the famously rich women of Manhattan Island. As a widow she seems to acquire the pre-eminence among her wealthy sex which widowhood gives to a beautiful woman among her unmarried sisters. Mrs. Taylor is carefully estimated to be worth not less than $15,000,000.

Mrs. Robert L. Stewart, the widow of the successful sugar merchant whose refineries were so long objects of interest along the North river, inherited from him $500,000 outright and a life interest in $10,000,000. Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts, who is often pointed out as the most desirable parti among fashionable widows, has a life interest in $1,000,000. This is much lower, and it is believed to be much nearer the truth, than most current estimates of her pecuniary charms.

"The Widow Hammersley" that was, now her Grace the Duchess of Marlborough, has a life interest in $5,000,000. She has it right here in this city, too, in custody of New York courts, so, as long as she lives, she can not cease to be a New Yorker. Mrs. Augustus Schell, widow of the famous Democrat and banker, has twelve solid millions of money while she lives. She can't will it away, however. Mrs. Frederick Stevens that was, now the Duchesse de Dino, is a New Yorker still to the tune of ten real golden millions of her own, and now, one may say, the Duke's, too.

Mrs. Robert L. Livingston, who is Elbridge Gerry's mother-in-law, is worth $5,000,000 "if she's worth a cent." That's the way an old crony of hers puts it. "But, la bless you, don't mention my name." And so the old crony's identity shall remain a secret. What she doesn't know about the rich women of New York is inaccessible, too. "There's Mrs. Frederick Gallatin," says she, "whose million is in cold cash and securities, most of it. It's finely fixed she is. And Mrs. Bradly Martin, who came from up the Hudson, who brings over her own brands of champagne, and who entertains with the best of the fine ladies in Scotland and England, too, bad cess to them. She's got two millions of her own besides all her husband's money.

Mrs. Robert Winthrop has a private fortune more than adequate to the maintenance of even such a fine old family name as hers. She has $10,000,000. Mrs. Percy Pyne has $10,000,000 of her own. Mrs. Fred Neilson, Freddy Gebhart's sister, has a cool million. It must always be remembered that a cool million seems the most desirable kind of a million. The same cool million represents also the private fortune of Mrs. Matulin Livingstone. Nobody will be surprised to hear that Mrs. Ogden Mills has a million of her own.

But O, ye young bachelors and middle-aged and old bachelors in search of rich wives, think what you have lost in the way of opportunities when you hear that the two elderly Misses Rhinelander have $5,000,000 between them and bid fair to leave it to collateral heirs with wonderfully fat accumulations!

Now, take Mrs. James P. Kernochen. She has $1,500,000 in money and real estate at a low estimate. All these estimates are low indeed. By the same apportionment Mrs. John C. Green has at least $3,000,000, and Mrs. Mason Jones, so often called by queer old people "Lady Mary Mason Jones," she has $1,000,000 of her own and is contesting the Hammersley will besides.

And so gossip goes on.

Mrs. Josephine Ayer, the widow of the doctor who made a fortune in patent medicines, is said to have received from him about $5,000,000. Mrs. Martin Bates was left by her husband $1,500,000, which he made in dry goods, and Mrs. James Brown, who lives in a fine house on Park avenue and Thirty-seventh street, received from her husband's estate about $4,000,000, which he accumulated as a banker. Mrs. W. E Dodge is worth $4,000,000, much of the income of which she sends to the heathen. Mrs. Robert Goelet is worth $3,000,000, and Mrs. John C. Green, the widow of the Princeton College patron, is reputed to be worth $10,000,000. Mrs. John Minturn is another wealthy New York widow; she is said to be worth $2,000,000, and her father was an Aspinwall. Governor Morgan's widow is worth several millions; Clarkson Potter's widow has an immense income from his estate, and Mrs. Edwin Stevens, who owns "Castle Point" at Hoboken, is one of the richest widows in America, and counts her wealth by millions. Mrs. Paran Steven's husband made $6,000,000 in hotels and left her the Victoria and a share in the Fifth Avenue.

But after this plethora of millions feminine, who is the richest woman in New York, and consequently, without much doubt, the richest in the United States, and perhaps the richest woman in the world? She isn't young and she isn't handsome, but she made her money and keeps it. Where does "Hetty" Green live? Look in directories and you won't find out. Ask the Chemical Bank people and you might, if they thought proper to tell you. Who knows where "the richest woman in New York" lives?

She is about forty-seven years old and is worth at a conservative estimate about twenty-five million dollars. She married E. H. Green, of New York. Mr. Green was worth $700,000, and it is said Miss Hetty had an ante-nuptial contract with him whereby he agreed to pay all of the household expenses and to leave her property of $2,000,000 and more in her own name. After her wedding she kept up her activity and through her husband got into Wall street speculation. She did the speculating herself and made while her husband lost. She could buy large blocks of stock and would bull or bear the markets as she thought best. She made money right along and is now "reputed" to be worth forty-odd millions. She is economical withal, and though her income must be immense, her total household expenses are not over $5,000.

Grant as a Wood-Cutter.

Grant used to chop cord wood in a peculiar way, says Judge Lanham, in the St. Louis Republic, cutting the tree all round instead of half down one side and then on the other, like the ordinary axeman. While President he visited St. Louis, and I went with him to his farm, and, passing the spot where he once chopped wood, I said: "General, the fellow who cut those stumps was a poor wood-chopper, don't you think so?" The President replied with a sigh: "That might be true, Judge, but, to tell the truth, I was happier then than now. I cut my wood, hauled it to the city, got my price for it, returned to my family, and was happy; but now the burden of a Nation is upon me, and I know no rest. Those were happy days, Judge."

A Precocious Baby.

A five-year-old child in Monson, Me., is said to speak three languages.

FACTS ABOUT PERFUMES.

The Corsage Sachets and Delicately-Scented Wardrobes.

The sweetest thing in the garden of fashion is the society bud, who breathes of violets one week, of lotus beds the next, elderberry the third and lemon-verbena when the moon is waning. A couple of years ago, says the New York World, it was the proper thing for a girl to rinse her lace handkerchief in her scent-bottle; such a proceeding now would be considered a vulgarism, for if there is any one article in a fashionable toilet which is not perfumed it is a handkerchief. Hosiery and gloves slumber in beds of sweet grass and rose leaves; laces, wraps and underwear have their separate sachet pillows; dresses are hung among the bags of sweet clover that perfume every closet; even bonnet-boxes emit fragrant odors when uncovered, and in the linings of many overcoats the wadding is dusted with orris, but not a trace of scent hangs about the sheer little square of lace-edged mull.

The deficiency, however, is more than counterbalanced by faint sweet odors that linger about the folds and hem of dress skirts and the bows of ribbon pendant from jeweled garters. Even card-cases and pocketbooks are perfumed, and so is the small blotter bought with fashionable stationery. But these items are insignificant compared with the cost of perfuming a summer outfit which requires the services of a maid and an outlay equivalent to that expended for gloves or shoes.

For instance, there is the corsage sachet made of fine satin to match the dress and filled with a perfume too delicious for description. The sacks, which are an inch square, retail at nine dollars a dozen, and it takes about twenty to go round the edge of a Josephine dress. Of course every low corsage has to be sacheted, and if a belle cares to buy them by the hundred she is charged at the rate of fifty cents each. Another perfume trick is to pour scent over the hair just back of the crimps or frizzes. Every woman rubs the stopper of her scent-bottle across her lips and eyebrows before leaving the mirror, and the habit of dousing a feather or satin fan with wild rose or bluebells of Scotland is as old as vanity itself. The puffed sleeves of the hour are also used to sweeten a woman's presence, the essence of chypre, magnolia or jasmine being poured among the gathers at the elbow where it is least liable to be detected and most readily perceived. Desirable perfumes cost seventy-five cents an ounce, and the least popular girl in society will dash twelve dollars' worth over a two weeks' visit and half a dozen summer toilets.

A BOSTON HEROINE.

An Old Lady Scares Off Robbers with the Silver They Are After.

There is an old lady living on Columbus avenue, writes the Boston correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, whose particular weakness has always been a dread that she would be robbed of her silver. She has a great quantity of valuable old family plate, some of it dating back to revolutionary times, when such treasure was not so very plentiful among the early colonists. For fear of burglars she always keeps it in her bed-room at night, a maid-servant assisting her each evening to lug it up in a big basket to the third story front. One night last week the robbers so long expected came. The old lady, ever on the alert for such an event, heard them below. She was frightened for her own safety, nobody else being in the house at the time but the maid-servant aforesaid, and yet her chief anxiety was for the silver. No pistol or other weapon was at hand, as she was afraid of fire-arms. She might howl from the window for a policeman; but suppose none would be within hearing. The predatory ruffians might come up and take the plunder before help would come. The case was desperate and called for corresponding action, no sooner thought of than performed.

She seized the big basket by the handle at one end, and, having opened the door softly, dragged the wicker receptacle with its precious contents as noiselessly as possible along the entry to the stair wall. She looked down and distinctly saw, by a ray of moonlight that came through an entry window, two men, who presently disappeared, presumably into the dining-room. Without losing a moment she strove to get the basket on the top of a trunk which stood against the rail at the landing. By a great effort she succeeded, and another hoist balanced it fairly on top of the rail. A turn of the hand and the entire mass of knives and spoons, tea-urns, napkin-rings, mugs, etc., was dumped out and precipitated two stories' distance to the hardwood floor of the hall below. The crash was something appalling. The robbers must have supposed that hades had broken loose. They were so frightened that they jumped through a glass window from the dining-room to the garden and ran into the arms of a policeman on the next corner. And the old lady's friends say she ought to be embalmed in history as a heroine, together with Moll Pitcher and other locally celebrated females of dauntless courage.

New Universal Language.

A Scandinavian genius has invented a new universal language which he thinks will take the starch out of Volapuk and the rest of the crop. His root words are entirely derived from the chief languages of modern Europe. Prof. Max Muller has published, without comment, a letter addressed to him by the inventor written in the new language. It looks outlandish enough, but anybody who has even a moderate acquaintance with English, German, French, Spanish and Italian will find that he can read it very well at sight, though at the first glance his impression is that the type has been pied. This new language somewhat resembles the dentist who, with his forceps firmly grasping the offending tooth of his patient, illustrated by a series of tremendous twists the barbarous methods of rival practitioners; then when at last the tooth hangs only by a shred, he exhibits with pride his own easy and painless method of extracting. After one has acquired all the chief modern tongues he will find that the proposed universal language comes quite easy.

Romance and Reality.

"It is easy for married couples to quarrel and bring themselves to the point of divorce," said a well-known New Yorker recently to a New York Sun reporter. "After I had been married three months I came sadly home one night to tell my wife that business would keep me away from her the next twenty-four hours. She was girlish, and by way of reply she gave herself a little hug, with a little wriggle of her body thrown in, and expressed her feelings in an exclamation of unmistakable joy. Deeply pained, I said to her that I never supposed she desired my absence enough to gurgle with joy at the mere proposal of it. Many a man would have gone off angry or darkly suspicious. Instead I questioned her. 'Why, you goose,' said she, 'when you said you were going away one thing popped into my head to the exclusion of every thing else. That was, now he's going away, and I can eat some raw onions with salt and vinegar. That was all. I have been dying for raw onions ever since our wedding.'"

Gen. Pryor's Courage Again Questioned

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A despatch from Dubuque, Ia., says: A recent statement from Gen. Roger A. Pryor, published in the New York papers, in which he indignantly denies that he deserted from the Confederate army, is pronounced untrue by a veteran Union soldier of this city. He says he saw Pryor in full uniform march up to the Union lines and permit himself to be taken prisoner and led to the rear.

Kilrain Will Surrender.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 12.—In response to a question, the Sheriff expresses the opinion that Kilrain will surrender himself here for trial. Referee Fitzpatrick, Captain Jameson and Mr. Rich are here. It is stated that indictments will be found against Kilrain, Muldoon, Cleary, Johnston, Mitchell, Dennis Butler, the two Murphy's, Wakely, Stevenson and Barnett, and officers will then be sent for them. The trial of those who waived examination will begin to-day.

To Suppress Riotous Huns.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—The Sheriff of Westmoreland county organized a posse of forty men here yesterday and armed them with Winchester rifles. They will do duty in the coke regions. The officers say that the rioters at the Hecla Coke Works must be suppressed, and that full protection will be afforded to the men who want to work. In the event of the Huns creating any disturbances to-day prompt steps will be taken to suppress the disorder.

A Suit of Long Standing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—The suit of W. S. Chapman, arising out of the great wheat deal of Isaac Friedlander, has just been decided by Judge Hogue in the Superior court in favor of the bank of California. About $1,500,000 was involved in the suit.

Germicides for Consumption.

It is satisfactory to know, says Research, that to some extent two germicides for consumption have been discovered, the one gaseous and the other liquid. Salicylic acid, however, appears to be the more lastingly successful. Perhaps a better germicide may be found, yet the principle of the method of treatment is quite revolutionary. In consumption the blood contains living bacilli-tubercles; and this system introduces into the blood by injections the microbes of salicylic acid to kill the bacilli. When the bacilli are destroyed nature will have a chance of repairing the damage done.

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the breath material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

TWO WEEKS TO LIVE

Mrs. Maybrick Sentenced to be Hanged August 26.

A REPRIEVE IS LOOKED FOR.

Minister Lincoln and the American Colony Petition for Mercy.

Members of Parliament Believe that the Home Secretary Will Wait Until the Last Moment Before Taking Action—Brierly, the Paramour of Mrs. Maybrick, Makes a Statement—A Vote in the Senate Foreshadows Boulanger's Conviction.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The execution of Mrs. Maybrick has been fixed for August 26.

A member of Parliament whose relation with the Home Secretary are intimate expresses the belief that he will postpone action in the case of Mrs. Maybrick until the last moment, with the idea that she may yet confess.

This was the course Mr. Matthews pursued in the case of Lipsky, and, while the whole English nation was howling for his pardon as an innocent man, the murderer very ungratefully confessed his crime, and Mr. Matthews was vindicated.

This maneuvre, however, can hardly be expected to work twice. Mrs. Maybrick has undoubtedly been posted, and if she is guilty will be led to expect a pardon up to the moment she ascends the gallows, and so a confession is hardly among the possibilities.

Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, and nearly the whole American colony in London have signed petitions to the Home Secretary for a reprieve for Mrs. Maybrick.

The number of signatures to the petitions praying for clemency for the condemned woman already reaches 100,000.

A Statement from Brierly.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Maybrick's paramour, Brierly in an interview today, declares that his intimacy with the condemned woman, extended over a very brief period. He blames Judge Stephen, for assuming in his charge, that their relations were continued durthe whole time covered by the trial.

Brierly has sent to Mrs. Maybrick's solicitor statements proving that the accusations against her were due to females who were her enemies.

BOULANGER'S TRIAL.

His Supporters Will Take No Further Part in the Proceedings.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Senate met again yesterday as a High Court of Impeachment to try the charges against Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort.

Immediately on assembling the leader of the Right moved that the Senate was incompetent to try the cases or to render a legal judgment, since the allegations contained in the indictment were not of such a nature as to constitute treason, and since, upon charges of treason alone, is the Senate competent to sit in judgment.

An effort was made on the part of several of the Boulangist Senators to discuss the motion, but the President declared that all discussion was out of order and the motion was put. The result was that it was rejected by a vote of 212 to 51.

After the announcement of the vote the members of the Right withdrew from the Chamber and held a caucus, at which it was unanimously decided to take no further part in the proceedings.

The vote in the senate is regarded as foreshadowing Boulanger's Conviction by a decided majority.

Getting Ready for Russia's Attack.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—In view of the Russian military movements on the Armenian frontier, the Porte has issued orders to expedite the construction of new fortifications at Erzeroum. A large force of men are already engaged in constructing redoubts. Russia, it is understood, is organizing corps of irregular cavalry throughout the Caucasus.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—The village of Sachsenburg, in Waldeck-Pyrmont, has been entirely destroyed by fire which has been burning since Saturday.

Bishop Reinke Dead.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 13.—A cablegram was received yesterday by the officials of the Moravian Church here from Herrenhut, Germany, stating that Bishop Amadeosa Reinke, of New York, had died there of apoplexy. Bishop Reinke went to Herrenhut last spring as a delegate to the Moravian General Synod of the world. He was senior member of the Moravian Church and was 71 years old.

25,000 in Attendance.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Twenty-five thousand persons attended the annual athletic exhibition of the Clan-na-Gael yesterday. The profits, amounting to $5,000, will be devoted to securing the arrest and punishment of the Cronin murderers.

Organizing A Protective Association.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Yesterday 260 of the Steam Railroad employees of East Cambridge and vicinity organized under a charter from the Steam Railroad Men's Protective Association.

ENTERTAINING THE PRESIDENT.

He Returned to Bar Harbor To-Day and Will Visit New Hampshire To-Morrow.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 13.—The President was royally entertained by Senator Hale at Ellsworth and returned here to-day in time for luncheon with W. B. Howard at Mosley Hall. He will leave here to-morrow morning for Bath.

The Trip to New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 13.—President Harrison will be met at Manchester Thursday forenoon by the committee of the Legislature and escorted to Concord arriving here in a special train at 11:20 o'clock. Mayor Humphrey and Adjutant-General Ayling will receive him at the station and he will be escorted by Grand Army posts of Concord, West Concord and Penacook to the State House where Govenor Goodell will welcome him on behalf of the State. Immediately afterward the President will go to Representatives Hall and be introduced to the joint convention of the Legislature. This will be followed by the presentation to the public from the platform in front of the capitol, and a visit to the government building and lunch at the Eagle Hotel. The Presidential party will then leave for Fall River by a special train at 2:30.

TO HANG TOGETHER.

The Death Watch Placed on Five Murderers in New York To-Day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The death watch was placed on the five condemned murderers, Carolin, Packenham, Giblin, Lewis and Nolan, at 8 o'clock this morning. Under Sheriff Sexton will manage the affair, owing to the unpleasant notoriety attained by Sheriff Flack.

Warden Osborne of the Tombs has provided a net cage the length of the corridor of the new prison, which cuts off the condemned men from all communication with the four hundred other prisoners in the Tombs.

Shot by an Italian.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 13.—An Italian named Luige Preute shot Section Boss Cushing, of the Meriden and Waterbury Railroad, yesterday evening. Preute had been lounging about the railroad and refused to go away when ordered off. Cushing tried to force him away, when the Italian drew a revolver and shot Cushing in the stomach, inflicting what may prove a mortal wound.

Not a Candidate for Secretary of State.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The use of Postmaster Fleckenstein's name for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State is wholly unauthorized. He said this morning: "I am not a candidate for the office in any sense of the word and would not accept the nomination if it were tendered me."

A Veteran of 1812 Dead.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Keyes P. Cool, one of the oldest business men of this place and a pensioner of the War of 1812, is dead, aged 94 years. He was born at Vergennes, Vt., and settled here in 1828. He engaged in the manufacture of lime, and was the pioneer of that industry in Northern New York.

Dead at the Age of 95.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Ursula Hall died here on Saturday, aged 95. Mrs. Hall was of the historic Wadsworth family of Connecticut Her father fought in the Revolutionary war. She was danced on the knee of Washington during a call the General made upon her grandfather in 1779.

With Each Pill One Cigar.

HYNDMAN, Pa., Aug. 13—The Law and Order League is bothered by a local druggist who evades the Sunday law by selling pills at five cents each, and giving cigars away with them. He labels the boxes "Law and Order Pills." A test case will be made against him.

The World's Fair Finance Committee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A meeting of the World's Fair Finance Committee has been called for Tuesday afternoon of next week in the Governor's room in the City Hall. The first meeting of the Committee on Sites and Buildings will be held two days later at the same place.

Death of an Old Sound Captain.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 13.—Captain William J. Merritt is dead, aged 80. For many years he commanded a large packet plying between New York and here and was one of the oldest and best known captains on the sound.

Slavin Challenges Sullivan.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A cablegram from London states that Frank Slavin, the Australian heavyweight, has deposited $500 forfeit with a challenge to Sullivan to fight under London prize-ring rules for $5,000 and the championship of the world.

Two Indictments Against Allen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The Grand Jury has presented to the Court of General Sessions two indictments against Eben S. Allen, ex-president of the Forty-second Street and Grand Street Railroad Company, charging him with forgery.

Killed in a Drunken Quarrel.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 13.—At Tunkhannock last night William Rott, of Evans Falls, was struck on the head with a monkey wrench by Jesse Phelps and instantly killed. The men were engaged in a drunken quarrel. Phelps is in custody.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

Remarkable Stories About the Elixir of Life.

DR. HAMMOND'S EXPERIMENTS.

Four Patients Rejuvenated and Crutches Thrown Away.

Alleged Cures in Different Places—The Secret of Youth Apparently Gained—An Old Lady Becomes Frisky and Aged Men Are Doing Wonderful Things—Statements that Must Be Accepted With a Liberal Sprinkling of Salt.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Dr. William A. Hammond killed another sheep and treated four patients with the elixir extracted from the animal. The first patient operated upon was a man of 62. He was a victim of muscular rheumatism of his left arm that prevented his raising it above his head, besides giving him a great deal of acute pain. His good arm was bound to the elbow. The doctor cut off a bit of the skin and ran the needle of the syringe in half an inch or so. Thirty drops of the elixir were injected into the rheumatic's circulatory system. His arm is much better now, and he can use it almost as well as ever. He has been taking injections at intervals of two or three days for a fortnight.

Patient No. 2 was 68 years old, and had some sort of heart trouble. His pulse used to skip every third beat. He had been taking the elixir about a week, and now his heart beats regularly.

Case No. 3 had the elixir injected but once before. He said that he felt much better. His trouble is nervous prostration.

The fourth patient to have the hypodermic needle stuck into his arm was 38 years old, suffering from impotence, resulting, probably, from insomnia, of which he is also a victim. He hadn't much to say about the effect of the elixir on himself, only that he felt much better.

Dr. Hammond says it is too soon to arrive at a conclusion yet and he dislikes talking until his experiments are completed. He will continue to use the elixir in cases where there is reason to believe it to be beneficial until he finds it to be of no real value. He treated none but male patients, but he has in view a lady of middle age who is a victim of melancholia, on whom the elixir may be tried. The doctor characterizes the Brown-Sequard discovery as a most valuable remedy for muscular rheumatism if nothing else.

Successful Out West.

LIMA, O., Aug. 13.—Dr. S. S. Herrmann has made three experiments with Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir. Two of the experiments were successful, while the other was not.

Old Men Restored to Youth.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 13.—Dr. John W. Palmer, a prominent physician here, has been experimenting with the "elixir of life," and with remarkable results. The patients were 60 and 70 years old respectively. The elder man was decrepit, and had been in failing health for years. The first injection seemed to put new life into him, and with the second administration the effect has been remarkable. He walks erect and has the appearance of a long life ahead of him, and says he feels stronger than for years.

THE CRONIN MURDER TRIAL.

It Will Commence on the 26th, and May Continue Over Eight Weeks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The trial of Dr. Cronin's murderers will positively commence on the 26th.

The entire force of the State's Attorney office is working day and night, laying out the case and preparing evidence. There will be 200 witnesses for the State summoned, and the trial is likely to last over eight weeks.

State's Attorney Longnecker is in possession of a large quantity of extremely sensational evidence never yet even hinted at in the press, which, it is said, will shake to the center the Clan-na-Gael throughout the country.

Old Mr. and Mrs. Carlson were taken to Burke's cell and both declare positively that he was "Frank Williams," their tenant of last spring. This identification evidently settles the question as to what part in the murder was taken by Burke. He was one of the "Williamses."

Pat Cooney was the other, and these two, with Dan Coughlin, are picked out by the State as the actual murderers of Dr. Cronin.

New York United Friends.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The Grand Council of the Order of United Friends of New York State meet here to-day for three days' session. The Order is a fraternal, beneficiary organization and though comparatively young is already one of the strongest in the country.

Bought John Brown's Scaffold.

BALTIMORE, Aug 13.—A despatch from Charlestown, W. Va., says: John M Coyle & Co. have sold to James B. Coi of Washington, D. C., the lumber o the scaffold on which John Brown wa hanged on Friday, Dec. 2, 1859.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—There are eighty-five canning factories in New Jersey.

—The old inhabitants say we are going to have an early Fall and cold Winter.

—About the only subject discussed on the streets during yesterday and today, is Saturday's ball game.

—In the City Court today, John Kane, a witness in the Sullivan liquor case was fined $20 for contempt of Court.

—The coming rabbit season promises to be a good one, hundreds of young ones being reported over South Jersey.

—A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. will be held in the post room on East Front street, this evening.

—The work of soliciting subscriptions for the soldier's monument which is to be erected in Hillside cemetery, is progressing favorably.

—Odd Fellowship carries on its work under the flags of thirteen different nations. Every day about $16,000 is spent for the relief of distress.

—One of the best ball games of the season will be that on Saturday, between the Crescents of this city, and the Buttermilks of New York city.

—The number of honorable discharges issued to officers and enlisted men of the national guard during the year just closed is two hundred and seventy-five.

—Mr. Cokefair's handsome residence on Crescent avenue has been wired throughout for incandescent lighting and electric bells by the Electric Construction and Supply company of New York.

—What are called the dog days will end on the 29th of this month. In the meantime a popular superstition makes the season an unhealthy one and the human system an easy prey to disease.

—Director Hubbard and Freeholder Vanderbeek, constituting a committee of the Union County Freeholders, are at Springfield this afternoon, examining the bridges and roads which were damaged by the flood.

—Mr. H. Willett now takes second place with a score of 231, in the three-months' bowling contest for the $100 worth of prizes offered at Olympia Alley. Mr. C. Krewson is still first with 233, while C. VanWinkle drops to third place with 227.

—A number of strangers who belong to the fraternity known as tramps have been prowling around town lately and begging from house to house. Keep your windows and doors well barred against these tramping individuals as they are on the watch for opportunities to make a raid.

—Messrs Homan & Ryerson have just completed for VanEmburgh & White, a delivery wagon that is a credit to both the makers and the successful dry goods firm who have been compelled by their increasing business to keep a horse and driver going all day long to accomodate their customers.

—This evening has been appointed for the meeting of the Elizabeth Council committee and representatives of the Pennsylvania and Central railroads for a conference about the elevation of the tracks and the abolition of the grade crossings throughout that city. It is probable the committee will be able to report at the Council meeting, Thursday evening next, some definite plan.

A Gifted Preacher.

A large congregation gathered Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church, to listen to the Rev. R. S. Holmes, formerly of this city, and now pastor of a large church in Warren, Pa. His text was: "Except a man be born again, he cannot enter the kingdom of God." He was listened to with the greatest attention by the audience, and his sermon was pronounced by many to be the best interpretation of the text ever heard. Mr. Holmes' sermon in the evening was equally as good. He is a gifted speaker, and the people of Warren are to be congratulated on their possession of him.

It Can't be Done.

The case against Joseph Sullivan who is charged with keeping one of the sixty-three unlicensed liquor-selling places in Prohibition Plainfield, was again adjourned, yesterday afternoon.

Chief Carey, however, says: "It's a long lane that has no turning." and he still lives in hopes of the accomplishment of that utter impossibility—the stopping of the sale of liquor by refusing licenses.

THE FIRM OF T. P. & W. DISSOLVED.

George Thatcher Explains Why He Will No Longer Train with Primrose and West.

The Thatcher, Primrose & West minstrel party dissolved partnership on Saturday night, and thereby hangs George Thatcher's tale of woe. "The whole thing," said Mr. Thatcher, "seems to have been carefully prepared. Billy West, who has not been with us all Summer, remained in New York to look after that end of the game, and Primrose, in whom I have had the most implicit confidence, but who, I think, has been influenced by his wife, who dislikes me, waited until he got me out of San Francisco, where he knew he would have me at a great and unfair disadvantage, and then he notified me one night that this season would end our copartnership, giving as his reason that he was going to retire, and that my habits had proved a detriment to the show. I sought lawyers, and placed my case before them, but found that nothing was to be gained by a lawsuit. There is only a prospective value to a business enterprise of our kind, and the only property involved is the trade mark. Neither of us can use it, so there was nothing to quarrel over.

"I desire, however, to let my friends know that Primrose and West have done me great injury in advertising my social habits so extensively as they have done in the newspapers. This is the first time I have talked for publication, and I now expect that the testimony is all in my favor. That I have not been a detriment to the show is shown by its prosperity. In the seven years that we have been together our profits have netted over $250,000. We never made less than $33,000 and last year we made $40,000. I have $25,000 worth of property in New Jersey and a good bank account besides. Primrose, who is very close fisted, is not worth more than $30,000, and West, who might buy lots of wine if it were 30 cents a bottle, is in his own name not worth more than $40,000; so you see conviviality could not have cost me so very much, and inexpensive conviviality is not, as a general thing, injurious to anybody.

"I believe myself that Primrose, looking into the future, came to the conclusion that owing to certain business circumstances the receipts of the show next year would be too small for three to divide, and made up his mind to get rid of me. He and West have been together fourteen years, and while West is unfortunately blessed with a certain amount of personal beauty and nothing else, he is a pretty good sort of a fellow, and Primrose carries him through. They fight all the time like cats and dogs. Last Spring, however, Primrose wanted to get rid of him. He is a nonentity in the show, and Primrose came to this conclusion, and asked me to help him oust West from the firm. We went to Lawyer Hummel, who told us that we could not get him out unless we resorted to underhanded means. I refused to entertain the proposition, and here is what I got for my pains. I am made the victim of a similar trick."

Mr. Thatcher goes to New York on Saturday night. There are some rumors of a copartnership between himself and Dockstader, but no step has been taken in that direction by either of the men.

Only One of Two Thousand, Complains.

The Press received too late for publication, yesterday, a complaint from Dr. W. E. Mattison of North Plainfield. He asserts in substance that he was refused a 15 cent ticket at the ball grounds Saturday, and was compelled to pay 25 cents for general admission and a grand stand on his feet.

Twelve hundred seats were provided by the management, Saturday, and if there were many who came afterwards and were compelled to stand, they all—except possibly Dr. Mattison—realized at a glance what an extraordinary occasion it was, and appreciated the fact that the management had done its best.

As to the extra charge our correspondent claims he was compelled to pay—it is positively denied by the gentleman who sold Dr. Mattison. The former tells the Press reporter that the doctor said he wanted a good place and a seat, and he was then told he must pay twenty-five cents.

Any one who is not satisfied can at any of the ball games get his money back by asking for it before the second innings commence.

A Sweet and Cultured Vocalist.

During the past two weeks, the guests of Hotel Netherwood have been favored with the presence of Miss Clara Josephine Mears, a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Music, whom some of The Press readers were so favored as to hear at Trinity Reformed church, during the morning service of Aug. 4.

Miss Mears evinces the highest musical culture, and is equally well versed in rendering operatic and classical selections, Italian and English, and in Grand Oratorio, or the more simple ballads. She proposes to spend the coming season in New York, and The Press prophesies a successful future for her.

We Are the People's.

Saturday's issue of The Press published eighteen notices of different church services for the following day, while Saturday's news contained but nine. Verily the evidence that we are the people's only newspaper, is varied, extended and plain to see.

A "STARTLING" CHARGE.

G. W. B., Thinks the Cesspool Cleaners Have the Pull, and that What a Council Has Done a Council Can Do.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I have read in your paper a great deal recently relative to water and sewerage in Plainfield. I am willing to confess my ignorance regarding the laws of your State pertaining to sewage, but it seems to me remarkably strange that as a previous Council had the power to grant a franchise to private corporations to build sewers, why the present Council hasn't the same power? The North avenue and Peace street sewer was built by the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, by permission from the Common Council granting them the privilege. Now did that Council commit an overt act? Of course it was done by the advice of their attorney, and was their attorney so unsophisticated in the law as to allow that Council to commit so gross an error, or have there been new laws enacted by the State Legislature annulling such powers as did then exist?

Will the present corporation counsel publish wherein he finds his decision prohibiting this present Council from granting a franchise to any private party or parties, so long as the city is saved harmless from expense therefrom. Does it become necessary to make two bites of the plum in order to retain the taste? Why not grant both water and sewerage? Both are necessary and cannot be done too soon for the growth of the city.

Perhaps some one has a big pull on the cesspool business? Yours respectfully,

G. W. B.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. John Kilbride of Peace street, is spending a week with her brother at Manhassett, L. I.

Miss Clara Force of West Fourth street, has returned from a six weeks' visit with relatives in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. VanNeste returned from their wedding tour, yesterday, and are at their home on East Second street.

Miss "Neal" McKee is assisting in making the time pass pleasantly at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Leader, of Duer street.

Mrs. G. W. Rosche, and children, of Jersey City, returned to their home on Saturday evening, after a week's visit with friends in Plainfield.

Master "Bertie" Sofield, of Perth Amboy, who has been visiting his uncle and aunt at 32 W. Second street, this city, left for his home this afternoon, in company with his mother and sister.

There was a gathering of friends and relatives at the residence of Mr. Chas. Smith, No. 4 West Front street, Sunday last, to witness the christening of Pauline Anna Otilia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith. The Rev. Mr. Koechli officiated.

Mr. F. E. Busby, formerly associated with Mr. W. A. Woodruff in the insurance business here, but now the general Western agent for the Washington Life Insurance company of New York, with offices in Denver, Colorado, was in the city, last evening. Mr. Busby with his family will remain East for a brief period.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Barnes of New York, are visiting at the new home just purchased by their son, Mr. B. T. Barnes, one of Plainfield's progressive merchants. The elder Mr. Barnes is a remarkably well preserved old gentleman of 90 years, and his wife is 81. They have three sons and five daughters living and any number of grandchildren, all of whom evidence by their health and comeliness, the good stock from which they sprang.

Supt. J. C. Reilly, of the N. Y. and N. J. Telephone company, and Asst. Supt. H. G. McCully, stopped in The Press office the other day to talk through our marvellous long-distance phone to New York. They expressed themselves thoroughly pleased with the fine service that Manager Runyon is giving his Plainfield patrons, and promised that as fast as could be arranged connection would be made with other offices throughout the country.

Edward Frank Sheeran, the twelve-year-old son of James and Margaret Sheeran of Easton, Pa., died at the residence of Mrs. Mary Muldoon, corner of Third and Liberty streets, yesterday morning, from meningitis. The deceased was living in this city, and was attending the parochial school. The funeral will take place in St. Mary's church, to-morrow morning at eight o'clock, when a requiem mass will be offered up for the repose of the deceased's soul. Interment will be made at Easton.

Coming Ball Games.

That strong team of amateur ball players, the Buttermilks of New York, will play the Crescent nine on the Bowling Club's grounds, next Saturday afternoon. Gately and Hayden will probably be the home team's battery.

The fat men in all the glory of their razzle-dazzle uniforms, will play the thin men, of this city, on the LaGrande avenue grounds, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 22. It will be the game of the season.

Watch if the Ball is Up.

Whenever there is a ball game on the home grounds, the management of the Crescent nine will run out a flag from the corner window of The Press composing rooms across Park avenue at North, the same as was displayed last Saturday afternoon. The flag is white, with a round red center.

BIG FIGURES IN WATER.

Some Interesting Facts About the Water Works of the United States.

The water works question is one of the most important connected with municipal government. Few persons are aware or stop to think of the immense amount of capital thus invested, and the enormous interests it represents. There are about 1,700 cities and towns in the United States which have water works representing a total cost of $435,000,000. This is nearly one-tenth as much as is invested in railways. The New England States, which lead the rest of the country in this, as in many other respects, have nearly one-quarter as much invested in water works as in railroads. The State of Rhode Island has nearly twice as much in the former as in the latter. The miles of water mains in New England are nearly equal to the miles of railways.

In Massachusetts 78 out of 133 water works are owned by the people. This proportion does not hold in any other State, and it shows Massachusetts' leadership in public enterprise. In the New England and Middle States, the reservoir and stand-pipe system generally prevails, while the Holly, and other kindred systems predominate in the West. The Middle States, including New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland, have $156,522,264 invested in water works. Out of 287 works in those States, 119 are owned by the city or town. The five States of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, have 329 works, costing $69,460,428. Of these, Indiana has forty-three, costing $5,656,200.

The proportion of water works owned by cities and towns is much less in the Western States, than in the New England and Middle, and the proportion in Indiana is less than in Ohio, Michigan or Illinois. Indianapolis is, with two exceptions (San Francisco or New Orleans), the largest city on the Continent which has trusted to private enterprise for its water supply.

Fruit Thieving.

Probably no produce raiser in this locality suffers more loss by fruit thieving than Mr. Halstead Compton of West Front street, and that gentleman is determined to put a stop to the practice even if it takes all Summer. This petty thieving has been carried on for several years past, and more particularly so within the past two years. The boys not only steal the apples and other fruit while it is green, but they club the trees and damage them to a great extent. Last year Mr. Compton realized only four baskets of apples from his entire orchard, and the preceding year he got scarcely enough apples for his own use. Mr. Compton's melon crop is now about ready to harvest, and for the benefit of the melon thieves it may be stated that Mr. C.'s shot gun is also in good work ing order.

Thomas Flynn, John Shannon and James Dunavan were defendants before Justice Nodyne, this morning, charged with stealing apples from Mr. Compton's orchard. The former pleaded not guilty, but the two latter pleaded guilty to the charge. Nevertheless the young men were each obliged to furnish $100 bail to wait the action of the Grand Jury.

A Lecture on Fools.

An exchange says: "Last year, at the New York Chautauqua, when Dr. Hensen of Chicago, came to lecture on 'Fools,' Bishop J. H. Vincent introduced him thus: 'Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to have a lecture on 'Fools,' by one of the most distinguished'—there was a long pause, for the Bishop's inflections indicated that he had finished, and the audience roared with delight, so that it was some time before the sentence was concluded—'men of Chicago.' Dr. Henson, whose readiness of wit holds every emergency captive, began his lecture when silence was at length restored, by saying: 'Ladies and gentlemen, I am not as great a fool as Bishop Vincent'—and here he stopped, apparently through with the sentence, while the audience again wildly applauded, finally concluding—'would have you think.'"

To-morrow's Excursion.

The indications are that to-morrow will be a delightfully cool day at the seashore, and many persons will doubtless take this opportunity to accompany the Laing and Nelson family excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. There will be surf bathing at the shore all day, besides boating, fishing, crabbing, and numerous other attractions for which the place is noted. A special train will leave this city at 8:15 A. M., stopping at Long Branch both ways, and returning will leave the Grove at 6:30 P. M.

Freeholders' Proceedings.

The members of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at Elizabeth yesterday, and received the report of the Committee on Bridges, with reference to the damage done by the recent flood. The total number of bridges, large and small, washed away by the high water, is about 20, and the total loss to the county, including the damage to bridges, washouts, roads, etc., will aggregate about $30,000.

Falls On the City.

The fifty dollars in cash which the Board of Freeholders decided to contribute toward sending the dememented woman, Lena Flege, back to St. Louis, was yesterday refused. Counsel for the Board gave an opinion to the effect that the Board had no right and power to appropriate money for such purposes. The city must make the appropriation if there be any.

RUN OVER HIS OWN SON.

A Miraculous Escape From Accidental Death.

Mr. Wm. Gaddis of Dunellen, a well-known dealer and carter of hay to Newark, has of late had very bad luck, having first lost one of his team of iron grays valued at $700, and then he ran over his seven-year-old boy, last Thursday, with a load of hay weighing 4,500 lbs.

Mr. Gaddis had just bought a horse to match the one left, and was driving in the lane from the road with a large load of hay, when his little boy came out and asked, "Papa, how do you like your new team?" The reply was, "First rate! Best team I ever had! Look out; don't get near the wagon." As he drove in the gateway, however, the little fellow was hit by the hay and thrown to the ground. The hind wheel passed over him just below the ribs. The little fellow got up and walked about 10 or 12 yards, but then dropped exhausted.

The father had at once climbed down from the load as he felt the jar of the wagon, fearing the very accident that had happened. The unfortunate lad was at once carried home, and Dr. Brakely summoned. Upon examination no bones were discovered broken. The mark of the wheel was plainly to be seen where it passed over him.

The child is now doing well, and if inflamation or mortification does not set in, in due time the doctor expects he will be around as usual.

Since writing the above the PRESS reporter has seen the little fellow and he appears bright, looks well, talks freely and has a good appetite. Great hopes are entertained for his speedy recovery.

Weather and Crops.

The Weather Crop Bulletin of the State Weather service for the week ending Aug. 10, is as follows:

The temperature during the past seven days has been about the weekly average in all the counties of the State, except Monmouth and Burlington, where it was below, but with no harmful effects.

The rainfall during the past seven days has been above the weekly average, and has affected nearly all crops injuriously except cabbage and late grass. The very little amount of sunshine and excessive dampness (nights and mornings) during the week have greatly retarded the maturing of all crops. Careful inquiries among the peach growing localities show that the crop will be light. Some growers say that they will have almost no fruit, and what they will get will be of poor quality.

Must File Their Diplomas.

Unless the veterinary surgeons of Union county quickly file with the County Clerk their diplomas, or affidavits that they have practised five years, they will, according to an act passed by the last Legislature, be disqualified from practising, and, if they attempt to do so, will render themselves liable to a fine of $100 and imprisonment. The time for filing diplomas and affidavits expires September 6, and up to date not one of the large number of veterinary surgeons practising in the county has complied with the law although County Clerk Crowell has prepared a book for this special purpose. The Clerk says that those who fail to qualify will be vigorously prosecuted for practising illegally should they attempt to follow their profession.

Two Sudden Deaths at Bound Brook.

John Merllett, a mason by trade, was found dead in bed Sunday morning, at the residence in Bound Brook of his son-in-law, Thomas Davenport.

John Holak, a Polander, was killed Saturday, at Middlebrook, on the Central Railroad. His remains were brought to Bound Brook and H. G. Wagoner, the county physician, notified. Holak was a married man and was on his way from the Pennsylvania coal regions to New York city. His remains were buried by Undertaker Bush in the Bound Brook cemetery.

The Washout at New Brooklyn.

A special committee of the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county, with their counsel, Mr. H. B. Willis, went to New Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon to confer with the towwnship committee of Piscataway and Mr. Baker, the owner of the mill at the point where the washout occurred during the late flood, with a view of ascertaining who must make the repairs to the road, it being very necessary that work should be commenced immediately.

Beat the Record.

One of the six homing pigeons belonging to Mr. Chas. Faber of North Plainfield, which were liberated at Charlotte, N. C., on Saturday at 5.35 A. M., reached its loft on Sunday at 4.15 P. M., having covered a distance of about 525 miles. The bird is a blue checker, numbered "564 N.," and is known as "Rain Crow." Mr. Faber is anxiously awaiting some tidings from his five other birds. Saturday's fly beats last year's record by about a day.

Base Ball.

The Young Crescents of this city defeated the Cuban Giants, because they didn't show up, by a score of 9 to 0, on the Crescent's grounds, this morning.

The Young Crescents of this city will play a nine from North Plainfield on the Crescent's ball grounds to-morrow morning at 9.30.

—The recent wet weather and dull times with our farmers have made dull times with our storekeepers to a certain extent.

THE COKE REGION QUIET.

The Men at Work Will Help Those Who are Out.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Word received to-day from Hecla says everything is quiet there. The men who were working Saturday have committed themselves to remain out until the scale is signed.

The Bessemer and Standard works are still idle but will probably resume to-day.

There are still 3,000 ovens idle in the coke region and 11,000 men now working have pledged themselves to furnish sustenance to those striking.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 13.—Reports from the coke region received here to-day state that the Calumet, Mammoth and Mutual Coal Companies on Sewickler branch refuse to sign the new scale.

The Hungarians at these works will not permit the plants owned by Frick and others who have signed the scale to resume operations until the above companies sign their scale.

Many of the independent operators say that they cannot afford to pay the new scale of prices as they get only 90 cents per ton from the larger operators who sell their product for them, realizing $1 per ton.

W. J. Rainey, iron manufacturer, of Cleveland, uses his own product of coke and has coke plants at Moyer, Paull and Fort Hill. Rainey signed the scale for his Moyer Works only, which produces sufficient coke for his mills, leaving the other works idle. The cokers at Paull and Fort Hill say they will not permit the Moyer works to resume until the scale is signed at Paull and Fort Hill also.

ROBBED BY HIGHWAYMEN.

Farmer Shurts Kindly Invited by a Stranger to Take a Drive.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 13.—A highway robbery was committed yesterday between Washington and Hampton Junction.

William Shurts, a farmer living near the latter place, went to Washington and drew out of a bank $3,500 and started to walk home. He was overtaken by a stranger in a wagon, who invited him to get in and ride.

When they got near a strip of woods they were met by a second stranger. Mr. Shurts was seized by the man in the wagon and the other man jumped in and robbed him of the $3,500. The two robbers then drove rapidly out of sight. The farmer was so confused and excited that it was with difficulty that he related his loss. A liberal reward is offered for the arrest of the robbers.

For Murdering His Brother-in-Law.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 13.—William Sulgosky, a pole, has been arrested charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Peter Selitzski, last night. Selitzski boarded at Sulgosky's house, about two miles from here. Last evening the murdered man's child was christened and both men became intoxicated. During the night they had a quarrel, and it is supposed that Sulgoski stabbed Selitzski to the heart. The dead body of Selitzski was found in a building adjoining the house.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The plumbers will hold a convention in Washington in October.

A great log jam has formed in the dells of the St. Croix at Stillwater, Minn.

Caroline Knopf, aged 15, of Canton, O., was shot and instantly killed by Harvey Smith, aged 13.

Wilbur Percival, aged 21, of Laconia, was drowned in the Cocheo River at Dover, N. H., yesterday.

About 600 delegates are in Minneapolis attending the National Convention of Foresters which opened to-day.

Mrs. Margaret Wallace, of Philadelphia, who was severely burned by a lamp thrown by her husband, is dead.

John Davis, night engineer at the Chicago postoffice, has been detected stealing registered packages and placed under arrest.

An effort will be made to reopen the case of Dr. Tanner, the Parnellite Member, now serving two months' additional imprisonment for contempt of court.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as sometimes we are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

SLUGGERS INDICTED

The Grand Jury Find a True Bill Against the Fighters.

CONSTERNATION IN THE CAMP.

Mississippi Law Will be Dealt Out to the Ringleaders of the Mill.

A Distinguished Array of Counsel Employed Sullivan's Friends Trying to Compromise—A Southern Lawyer Believes that the Mississippians Will Make it as Hot as Red Pepper for All Concerned.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 13.—The Grand Jury to-day presented to the court an indictment against John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain and the backers and abettors of the late prize fight.

There is great excitement over the announcement, as it was not believed a true bill would be found.

The foreman of the Grand Jury is T. R. White, a millionaire and merchant of Poplarville, who, it is said, was at the fight and was injured by the falling of one of the platforms. The jury is an intelligent gathering of men.

A well-known Southern lawyer was asked to-day: "Do you think anything more than a fine will be imposed on them?"

"I am afraid yes," was the response. "You see public opinion down here was not so greatly outraged by the fight as many might suppose, but Governor Lowry was not only defied but ridiculed afterward. Mississippians are very pround spirited, and if they once get it into their heads that their State has been made little of or degraded in the eyes of sister States through the fight they will make it as hot as red pepper for all concerned."

The defense will consult this afternoon and it it is not improbable that an offer of a compromise may be made.

There is a distinguished array of counsel employed, and great interest is being manifested in the result of the trials.

Superintendent Tyler, of the Queen Crescent Railroad, is here in a special coach and will remain here until the case is concluded.

Before the Grand Jury reported Sullivan sat on the balcony of the hotel with Duffy, Fitzpatrick, Jemison and others. The champion seems contented and never speaks of the case, not even in jest. He mingles with those around him and does not seem to be the centre of attraction here where everybody has seen him.

DIED IN A DENTIST'S CHAIR.

Her Tooth Had Been Pulled, When She Fell Back a Corpse.

MILLVILLE, Pa., Aug. 13.—The funeral of Louis M. Demott, wife of H. J. Demott, proprietor of the Millville Hotel, was held at the Friends' meeting house in this place yesterday afternoon.

Last Thursday Mrs. Demott, accompanied by her husband, went to the neighboring town of Bloomsburg to have some teeth extracted. The dentist administered an anæsthetic. After one tooth had been extracted Mrs. Demott exclaimed: "That pained me so badly I will not have any more teeth extracted now, but will come again." Almost immediately she fell back in the dental chair a corpse.

OVER A HUNDRED.

Mrs. Fillmore is the Oldest Lady in New York State.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Lavina Atwell Fillmore, relict of the late Rev. Glezen Fillmore, who was a first cousin of the late ex-President Fillmore, is celebrating her 102d birthday to-day at her quiet home in Clarence, this county.

Mrs. Fillmore is without doubt the olderst person in Western New York, and retains her faculties to a remarkable degree. She was born August 13, 1787, and was married to the pioneer Methodist preacher, Glezen Fillmore, September 20, 1809.

SUICIDE IN A CELL.

A Man Arrested for Causing His Baby's Death Hangs Himself.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 13.—Harry Sullivan was arrested here charged with having caused the death of his two-week's-old baby. His wife made the complaint.

Last evening Sullivan committed suicide by hanging himself to the bars of his cell window, using a rope made from the lining of his trousers.

An autopsy of the remains of the babe indicates death from scalding.

The Duelists May Be Arrested.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 13.—Pat Calhoun returned to Atlanta yesterday and J. D. Williamson is in Rome. Gov. Seay of Alabama yesterday announced his intention of demanding the extradition of the duelists. Gov. Gordon, of Georgia, says he will honor the requisition as the duel was fought on the State line. There is just uncertainty enough about it to raise the troublesome question of jurisdiction. It is not certain that the spot could be identified as the parties got off in the dark to fight the duel and hastily left the ground.

They Met a Just Fate.

CATTLESBURG, Ky., Aug. 13.—The two Hollis brothers who criminally assaulted and then murdered Mrs. Gellis, a widow, and her two daughters, in McDowell County last week, met a just fate yesterday. The captain of the push-boat that arrived from Pikesville, down the Big Sandy River this morning says that the two men were captured by the Regulators, strung up by the heels to the limb of a tree and then shot to death.

A Pennsylvania Hotel Man Suicides.

READING, Pa., Aug. 13.—George W. Dries, formerly the proprietor of the American House at Lyons, this county, and a hotel man well known throughout this section of the State, committed suicide last night by hanging himself in the stable of the hotel. He left a note giving directions as to his funeral and wound up by saying, "Good night to all my friends."

The Guests Had Narrow Escapes.

PARIS, Ky., Aug. 13.—The Hotel Arlington, at the famous Blue Lick Springs, burned last night at half past twelve o'clock. Loss, $35,000. No lives were lost, but the guests lost most of their clothing and jewels. Senator J. S. C. Blackburn and family and ex-Chief Justice Hargis and family narrowly escaped with their lives. The hotel had about 150 guests.

The Sugar Trust Very Active.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 13.—Some weeks ago the St. Joseph Glucose Works closed, the Sugar Trust agreeing to pay the company $18,000 a year for three years. The same trust has made a flattering offer to the Coulter-Welch Manufacturing Company of this city, which the company is now considering. These are the only sugar works along the Missouri River.

Scharf Arrested in Montreal.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Aug. 13.—Fred. H. Scharf, the absconding carriage dealer, has been arrested in Montreal for forgery. The First National Bank, of this place, has a number of notes with endorsements said to have been forged by Scharf, and Cashier Kite and Deputy Sheriff Dickinson traced the fugitive to Montreal and secured his arrest.

Charged With Killing His Brother.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 13.—The Coroner's inquest in the Walker murder case adjourned until Friday after hearing a number of witnesses. The testimony was very conflicting, five witnesses swearing that Walker was shot by his brother, while four others testified that the saloon-keeper did the shooting.

An Old Hotel Stewart Dead.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 13.—Albert G. Thompson, stewart of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City, since its opening thirty years ago, died at his summer home, Pittsfield, yesterday, aged 73. He was formerly owner of several stage lines in this State and afterwards landlord of well-known hotels in Boston and vicinity.

Lawn Tennis Tournament.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 13.—The lawn tennis tournament opened here yesterday and will continue during the week. The entries are more numerous than in any former tournament in this country, the total for the preliminaries and first rounds numbering over fifty.

STEAMSHIP STATISTICS.

The Enormous Profits Made During the Summer Months.

Immense Quantities of Delicacies and Necessaries Consumed on an Ocean Passage—Disagreeable News for Prohibitionists.

There is an enormous profit in the steamship business during the spring and summer months, the gross receipts, according to the Boston Herald, from a single voyage frequently rising above $100,000. When the Etruria, the Umbria, the City of New York or any other of the great liners leave their docks with from 500 to 600 passengers, as they do regularly every week between the middle of April and the middle of July, receipts from the cabins average more than $100 for each person, and represent in the aggregate $60,000. The other sources of income from the ship, such as freight, the mails, the steerage and the bar, amount to almost as much again. There is not a vessel on the ocean that can seat more than 250 people in the main dining-room. For this reason there are two dinners served when the passenger list runs above that number, and you are asked at the office whether you prefer the first or second dinner—one at 5:30 the other at 7—and this, with the number of your room, is put on the purser's list with the number of your place at table, and when it is once fixed no change will be made. An officer presides at each of the main tables and the highest honor is to sit at the captain's table—if possible on his right or left—and great tact is required to arrange the seats satisfactorily and give no cause for jealousy among the passengers. The perishable food only is bought in this country and such things as melons, oysters, peaches, cigars, tomatoes and other articles that are cheaper and better here than abroad, together with the necessary supply of coal to carry the ship across the Atlantic. All of the groceries and wines are purchased on the other side, the supply being laid in for the round trip.

When a vessel of the first class is lying at her dock in New York in the spring months, with nearly a thousand people to feed for seven or eight days, she lays in an enormous amount of provisions, which are put in the ice-room. Of fresh beef the usual amount is 12,500 pounds, with 760 pounds of corned beef, 5,230 pounds of mutton, 850 pounds of lamb, 350 pounds of veal and the same amount of pork, and about 2,000 pounds of fresh fish. These figures may well make the thrifty house-wife stare in open-eyed wonder. What could she do with the fifteen tons of potatoes put aboard every ten days. These ocean greyhounds are well supplied with game, as the list of the head cook, which was recently seen by the writer, showed 200 brace of grouse as being put aboard for a single voyage, with 600 fowls, 300 chickens, 100 ducks, 50 geese and 80 turkeys, besides thirty hampers of vegetables, 220 quarts of ice-cream, 1,000 quarts of milk and 11,500 eggs. It is said that if the ocean dried up you could trace the route of the transatlantic steamers by rows of empty champagne bottles between here and Europe, which is not surprising, seeing that the Cunard line alone use about 26,000 bottles of champagne per year. The bar is a most important department on a large passenger ship, and the profit from this source is said to often exceed $5,000 from one trip. All of its goods are put on at Liverpool for the round trip, or at Havre or Bremen.

The consumption for one voyage includes 1,100 bottles of champagne, 850 bottles of claret, 6,000 bottles of ale, 2,500 of porter, 4,500 of mineral water and 650 bottles of various spirits. Lemons are used on an average of 1¼ per head per day, apples 2¾ per head per day and oranges at the rate of 3 per head per day. The groceries for the round trip include 650 pounds of tea, 1,200 of coffee, 1,600 of white sugar, 2,800 of moist sugar and 750 of pulverized sugar. The round trip takes 22 days, during only one-half of which are the passengers aboard; yet it consumes on one ship 1,500 pounds of cheese, 2,000 pounds of butter, 3,500 pounds of ham and 1,000 pounds of bacon. Rough weather is expensive to the steamship company in the large breakage of crockery which it entails among cabin passengers and stewards, and the record of a recent voyage showed among the broken articles 900 plates, 280 cups, 438 saucers, 1,213 tumblers, 200 wine glasses, 27 decanters and 63 water bottles. The steamers of one line running between New York and Liverpool sell 64,000 cigars per year, 57,000 cigarettes and 35,000 pounds of tobacco. Among the other items of the yearly supply which appear in the annual report, covering the entire fleet of 16 ships, are 1¼ tons of mustard and 2 tons of pepper, 7,300 bottles of pickles, 8,000 tins of sardines, 15 tons of marmalade, 22 tons of raisins and currants, 13 tons of split peas and 15 tons of barley, 50,000 loaves of bread of 8 pounds each, 54 tons of ham, 33 tons of salt, 34 tons of oatmeal and 10 tons of yellow soap. Over 2,000,000 pounds of meat are consumed every year by this one line, and nearly 1,000,000 eggs.

ABYSSINIAN SLAVE GIRLS.

Dusky Beauties That Fetch Fancy Prices in the Galabat Market.

On the route to Khartoum is Galabat, famous as the great slave market of the Eastern Soudan. It is here, says the Philadelphia Times, that the Soudanese, in their slave-catching expeditions against the hated Christians of the highlands, bring their trains of beautiful Abyssinian girls and sell them to dealers, who make a business of supplying the harems of Khartoum, Kassala and Mecca. Only two or three travelers have been able to describe the busy and piteous spectacle in the slave booths of Galabat, which is all the more interesting and deplorable because the victims are girls, torn from their mountains to live like caged birds behind the lattices of harems from the Nile to Mecca. They are as highly prized by the lords of the harem as the famous beauties of Circassia. Dr. Junker, in the book of travels he is now publishing, tells of the beauty of many of these maidens and adorns his volume with well executed engravings of some of them.

Even while the Soudan was under Egyptian control the harem traffic at Galabat thrived, and we can easily imagine that since this last disastrous war the town has been in the heydey of its prosperity. Mr. D. Cosson, who visited Galabat some years ago, said that the merchants sat smoking beside the booths that concealed their slaves from public view. When customers appeared a piece of cotton cloth was thrown over the head of each girl, which concealed her features until it was her turn to be inspected. "Many of these young girls," he wrote, "are beautiful. Their color is often no darker than that of a Spanish gypsy, their features are small and delicate, their form proportioned like a Greek statue, and their eyes large and lustrous." A few years ago one of these fair prisoners in Jeddah threw herself from a window to the pavement below, preferring death to captivity. No doubt when they gaze from their prisons upon the hot sands of Arabia the thought of their own green mountains only aggravates their unhappy lot.

JILTED BY STEWART.

A Pretty Irish Girl Who Was the Millionaire's First Sweetheart.

Near Lakeview cemetery is an old burying ground formerly used by the people residing in Euclid and surrounding villages, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Among other lots is one containing three green mounds, carefully kept and planted, over each of which is a modest slab of white marble. On one is cut the name of William Morrow, on another that of David Morrow, and on the third that of Abbie Morrow. An old resident of the locality said of the family: "I knew the Morrows well. William and David were brothers, and Abbie, their sister, kept house for them. They were nice quiet people, although somewhat peculiar. The sister was never known to smile, and no wonder, for she died of a broken heart."

The Morrows lived near Belfast, Ireland, on a farm they called "The Knock." They were in comfortable circumstances, had been well educated, and were Presbyterians in faith. Near by them in Ireland lived the father of the late A. T. Stewart. The two families were intimate and the children grew up together. Young A. T. Stewart and Abbie Morrow were childish lovers, although Stewart was several years her senior.

When a lad Stewart, as is well known left Ireland and made his way to New York to better his fortune. He corresponded regularly with his little sweetheart across the waters, and it was understood that when he had prospered he was to go back to Ireland and marry the lass he had left behind. Years rolled by and death came. First it took away Abbie's father, and a few months later the mother, unable to bear her grief, followed her husband. The children retained the farm and prospered fairly. Stewart's father was dead and his old mother lived on her little place and strained her eyes hopefully toward America. Finally she died and Stewart went to Ireland to settle the estate.

While there he renewed his engagement with Abbie Morrow and spoke so well of the United States that William and David Morrow were induced to sell their farm, and, with Abbie, came with their former friend to New York. Stewart realized about $600 from his mother's estate, which he invested in Irish linens and laces. These he had shipped to New York, and they formed the foundation of the great establishment that afterward bore his name.

The Morrows had friends in Northern Ohio and so they came to Cleveland. They purchased a farm in East Cleveland township, built a comfortable house, and were soon known as substantial citizens. This was nearly sixty years ago. They seldom visited the village of Cleveland unless it was to purchase supplies or dispose of produce.

A few months after they came to Ohio A. T. Stewart paid them a visit. He was cordially welcomed as the fiancee of the sister, remained a few days and returned to New York. That was the last Abbie Morrow ever saw of him. He was doing well in New York and was rapidly making a fortune. His letters became brief and less frequent, and finally ceased altogether. Finally the news of his marriage reached the brothers. They kept it from their sister as long as they could, but were at last compelled to tell her of her lover's inconstancy. She was too high-spirited to peddle her grief among her acquaintances and kept about her household duties in a quiet manner for thirty years. Then they laid her away on a hillock in the center of the farm. Afterward her remains were taken up and interred here. Every year during her life Stewart sent her a silk dress, but she never wore any of them. As fast as she received them they were laid away untouched, and when she died the brothers returned them all to the donor. She received many offers of marriage, but never again put her trust in man.

A WOMAN'S COURAGE.

How She Disposed of a Mad Dog Under Trying Circumstances.

There are very few men who can rise superior to the terrible fear excited by the appearance of a mad dog, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. A doctor whose name is one of the best known in Pittsburgh told me the other day of an experience that he had a good many years ago.

"There had been many reports of mad dogs in the village in which I then lived, and there was a certainty that at least one of the reports was true. It was blazing hot weather. Late one night, or rather early one morning, I was called by a barefooted boy to hurry as fast as possible to the bedside of his brother, who lay sick with typhoid fever in a sort of shanty cottage on the river bank a couple of miles away.

"I got on my horse and rode rapidly over the quiet road. There was a little moonlight. The sky was cloudy and the moon would be covered and disclosed again every minute. The silence was a little trying, and I was glad when the low roof of the shanty for which I was bound came in sight. But as it did so my horse swerved so violently that I was almost thrown from the saddle. Every hair on my head immediately stood on end. My horse had shied at a large dog which crossed the road running at full speed and dragging after it a long iron chain. I knew at once that the dog was mad. It had broken loose evidently from some house, and I thought that it looked like a dog I had seen at the shanty to which I was going.

"I spurred my horse to a gallop and a minute later sprang down at the door of the shanty, where the sick boy's mother stood ready to receive me. I was nearly out of breath, but I managed to say, as I hurried her inside the house: 'There's a mad dog about; you'd better shut the door.'

"As she turned to swing the door to there was a clanking sound and the dog my horse had shied at rushed through the door-way and into the room. It's a tough story to tell on one's self, but the truth is that when I heard the clink-clank of the mad dog's chain I jumped on the table in the middle of the room. The sick boy lay upon a mattress spread upon the floor just by the threshold. The dog stood within a yard of me for a minute glaring about him. There was froth on his muzzle and dust all over him. To my surprise he lay quietly down on the mattress beside the sick boy. The woman had remained standing with her hand on the door-latch. She was dazed for a moment, but only for a moment. Suddenly she took two strides to the bed on the floor, caught up the iron dog-chain, and then, with a force that seemed superhuman, whirled the beast in the air and slung it as if it were a pebble through the open window. Her strength was sufficient and her aim was good, for there was a rattling of the chain for a second or two and then a prodigious splash told that the dog was in the Ohio, which flowed rapid and deep at this point but a few yards from the house.

"I shall never forget how ashamed I was as I got down from the table and looked that plucky woman in the face. Nor does my memory fail on other points about that night's adventure—the gallop home and the haunting clank of the mad dog's chain. I never saw that dog again, but he was not drowned. Some one shot it next day on the road."

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The following postmasters in New York State were appointed to-day: Alexander Lainhart, Dunnsville; S. Van Voorhes, Fishers; E. J. Brandt, Gallatinville; T. Barton, Tiovili.

50,000 Women Voted.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 13.—The returns from the school elections, which have come in very slowly, show that about 50,000 Kansas women have voted. Many ladies are elected to office.

The Body Identified.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The body of the woman killed by a train near Greenwood Cemetery has been identified as that of Mrs. George Thompson of West 32d street, New York.

Gross Earnings of A. T. & S. Fe R. R.

BOSTON, Aug. 13—The gross earnings of the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe railroad for July were $1,878,399, a decrease from the same month last year of $170,739.

Suicide of a Buffalo Soldier.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug 13.—Lansing Rottman, private of Company D, 75th Regiment, committed suicide here by drowning himself in the Hudson. He lived in Buffalo.

Arrested for Murder.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Charles Adams, a Pole, was arrested here to-day on the charge of murdering Patrick Lafferty on November 24 last.

Puddlers' Wages Advanced.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 12.—A notice is posted at the Columbia and Susquehanna Rolling Mills announcing that after August 19 they will pay puddlers $3.90 per ton instead of $3.85 as announced last week.

Publicans Pay the Cab Fares.

The heads of the Danish police have introduced a way of surpressing intemperance which is both simple and original. If a man is found drunk in the streets or at public places a cab is hired and he is taken home. If he is too intoxicated to be communicated with he is taken to the police station and kept till he is able to give his address, when he is taken home by cab. The best part of the performance is the fact that the publican who has given the last glass of drink to the victim is made responsible for the cab fares, which sometimes amount to a considerable sum.

A POWERFUL TONIC.

A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

Mrs. J. C. Scarboro, of Selma, N. C., wife of the ex Superintend't of Public Schools of that State, suffered from excessive nervous depression, exhaustion and neuralgia, from malaria. She was rapidly cured by Kaskine. She says: "I can now go to sleep in my chair."

"I was all run down with nervous depression, for which I had, by the advice of physicians taken a great deal of quinine and iron, without benefit. After I had used three bottles of Kaskine people expressed their surprise at seeing me looking so well."—Isaac Knox, Newark, N. J.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

FLOODS IN THE WEST

Rivers Overflow Their Banks in Nebraska.

RAILROADS GREATLY DAMAGED.

Over Five Hundred People Driven From Their Homes in Lincoln.

Sick People Caught by the Flood and Their Beds Afloat in the Water—Rumors of Loss of Life—The Homeless People in Lincoln Being Cared for by the City—All the Railroad Tracks in the State Under Water.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 14.—The most disastrous floods the State has experienced for ten years are now in progress.

The Nemaha River, the Blue, the Salt, and dozens of smaller streams are over their banks, and the waters have shown no signs of abating. Much property has been destroyed, and the damage to railroads is great.

The Burlington & Missouri, between Lincoln and Atchison, is badly washed out. The Lincoln & Northwestern, near the city, is under water, and the tracks are gone. The Union Pacific is in a precarious condition.

The waters have risen to Sixth street in this city, and about 500 people have been driven from their homes.

Not one-third of the people who left the flooded district brought more than their clothes with them. In a number of cases sick people were caught by the flood, the waters rising until their beds were afloat.

The water extends over the bottom lands to the Salt Basins, but unless it rises several feet more will not cause a great amount of damage. The people who have been driven out of their homes are being cared for by the city.

Only two out of ten railroads were totally blocked to-day, but all will have serious trouble probably before morning. The water is still rising. Rumors come in of a loss of life in one or two places, but it is impossible to verify them.

CHICAGO MEANS BUSINESS.

A World's Fair Company Organized With a Capital of $5,000,000.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 14.—Among the new organizations filing papers of incorporation with the Secretary of State is the World's Fair Company of 1892 of Chidago.

The purpose announced is the holding of an international exposition or world's fair in the city of Chicago, to commemorate, on its four-hundreth anniversary, the discovery of America. The capital is $5,000,000.

De Witt C. Cregier, Fred, Peck, Geo. Schneider, Anthony Seeberger, W. C. Scipp, John R. Walsh and E. Nelson Blake are the incorporators.

They Favor Washington.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 14.—A meeting of business men of this city was held at the City Hall for the purpose of advocating Washington as the place for holding the celebration of the Four Hundredth Anniversary of America. Governor Jackson presided. After a general discussion it was resolved that Washington was neutral ground, the city of the Nation, and the Capital of the oldest and foremost American Nation and is the only proper site for the commemoration of the discovery of America; that Baltimore, waving all claims of her own, casts her vote for Washington and invites all cities to make the three Americas Exposition worthy of the greatness and grandeur of the Western Hemisphere.

GOV. LOWRY BALKED.

A Requisition for Supt. Carroll Not Honored by Gov. Foraker.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 14.—GOV. LOWRY, of Mississippi, who is now engaged in prosecuting the Sullivan-Kilrain prize-fighters and those who assisted in arranging for the "mill," is anxious to get a hold on Supt. Richard Carroll, of the Queen and Crescent Railroad, over whose lines the party traveled, to the fighting ground.

He made a requisition on the Governor of Ohio for the extradition of Mr. Carroll. Gov. Foraker returned from the East at 1 o'clock, and at once took up the case.

It appearing that Mr. Carroll was not present in the State of Mississippi at the time of the fight mentioned in the requisition, and had nothing whatever to do with it, the Governor refused to honor the requisition for the return of the superintendent.

Flemon Returns to Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—Rev. E. F. Flemon, accompanied by his attorney, Col. Echols, have arrived in this city from Edgefield, S. C. He was met at the depot by quite a number of friends but no public demonstration was made as had been intended. Rev. Flemon intends putting his experience in the form of a lecture in order to raise funds for the purpose of liquidating the expense incurred during his trial.

Mr. Fessenden's Condition Serious.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug 14.—Hon Samuel Fessenden is not so well to-day. His temperature is higher and he is in fever.

ON HIS RETURN TRIP.

The President Leaves Bar Harbor and Goes to New Hampshire.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 14.—President Harrison said good-bye to Secretary Blaine and his family this morning and commenced his return trip to Washington.

He was accompanied to Bath by Secretary Tracy, Private Secretary Halford, Congressman Lodge and Walker Blaine.

It has been decided that the President will not visit Providence on his return trip, but will take the boat at Fall River.

Planning to Receive the President.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 14.—President Harrison is expected here tomorrow afternoon at 5:20 o'clock, stopping about ten minutes. The citizens will extend a reception, and a public meeting has been called. It is probable that he will review the Second Brigade of State Militia, which this week is in camp here.

President Harrison Will Visit Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 14.—Information has been received from President Harrison giving the positive assurance that he will visit Indianapolis the 22nd inst to remain two or three days. The occasion for his return will be the corner stone laying of the Soldiers' Monment, and the visit will also afford the President an opportunity to attend the reunion of his old regiment, the Seventh Indiana, the date of which reunion has been changed to suit the President's convenience.

Gov. Ames Improving.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Aug. 14.—Gov. Ames rode out yesterday, walked out this morning and will ride out again this afternoon. He relishes his food, his appetite is good, and he is pronounced by his physician to be rapidly improving. To-morrow, should the weather prove favorable, he will visit the camp at South Framingham.

Meeks Forced to Resign.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—J. W. Meeks, who was the referee in the Flack divorce case, has resigned his position as Chief Search Clerk in the County Clerk's office. Had he not done so County Clerk Reilly would have dismissed him, owing to the decision by Judge Bookstaver that the divorce proceedings were fraudulent.

Suicide in a Cell.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 14.—Harry Sullivan was arrested here charged with having caused the death of his two-week's-old baby. His wife made the complaint. Last evening Sullivan committed suicide by hanging himself to the bars of his cell window, using a rope made from the lining of his trousers.

Extending the Shepaug Railroad.

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 14.—A syndicate to build an extension of the Shepaug Railroad from Hawleyville to Westport and Saugatuck has been formed, and they call for $100,000 to be raised along the proposed line. Of this amount $65,000 has been subscribed in Westport.

Big Car Factory Burned.

HUNTINGDON, Pa. Aug. 14—The erecting and machine shops of the Huntingdon Car Manufacturing Co., together with 30 cars in various stages of completion were burned last night. Loss $30,000; insured. New York capitalists own the plant.

Snow Balling on Mt. Washington.

FABYAN HOUSE, N. H., Aug. 14.—The summit of Mt. Washington is covered with snow to the depth of an inch and a half. This morning the guests indulged in a lively game of snow balling. The thermometer stands 38 degrees.

Burned to Death in His Room.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—James Jonas, aged 77 years, living in Waterford, was burned to death yesterday by flames in his room, caused by the overturning of a lamp while he was reaching for some medicine.

Slugger Jackson Didn't Sail.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Parson Davies and his protege Peter Jackson, the colored Australian heavyweight, although booked to sail on the Wisconsin, were not on board that steamship when she sailed for Liverpool.

The Flack Divorce Set Aside.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The argument in the Flack case before Judge Bookstaver in the Court of Common Pleas, lasted over an hour and the motion to set aside the decree of divorce was granted.

Weavers Will Resume Work.

DEXTER, Me., Aug. 14.—The striking weavers at the Stone Mill are now satisfied that the company is paying fair wages for the times, and will return to work on Monday.

Archbishop Elder's Brother Dead.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—Francis W. Elder, a prominent citizen of Baltimore and brother of Archbishop William H. Elder, of Cincinnati, is dead.

A Special Passport.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Senator Evarts, who is going abroad to have his eyes treated, was granted a special passport by the State Department.

A SERIOUS LOCK-OUT

Over 6,000 Glassworkers Out of Employment.

THEIR ULTIMATUM REJECTED.

The Manufacturers Would Not Consider the Advance Demanded.

The Men Insisted Upon Their Terms and Would Not Compromise—Every Glass House West of the Allegheny Mountains But One Included in the Lockout—Probability of a Long Fight as Both Sides Are Well Organized.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—The final conference between the manufacturers and window glassworkers on the scale for the coming year has resulted disastrously.

The Conference Committee met at the Monongahela House and after a very brief session adjourned sine die.

The workers' committee announced that they would insist upon the advance demanded at the previous conference, This was their ultimatum and they would accept no compromise. When the manufacturers heard this a motion to adjourn was made and carried.

The advance demanded by the men on their new scale is "C" glass 12 per cent., double strength, sheet-glass 8 by 12 to 12 by 18 quality about 55 per cent. and on the entire list of sizes the advance is 5½ per cent. This increase was to include blowers, flatteners, gatherers and cutters.

As a result of the conference there is now a lockout in all the glass houses west of the Allegheny Mountains, excepting Chambers & McKee's tank factory at Pittsburg, which will start up September 1. This firm is no longer a member of the Manufacturers' Association. Six thousand men are out of employment.

ELIXIR KILLS.

A Negro Injected With the Life Restorer Dies in Great Agony.

PARIS, Ky., Aug. 14.—Dr. Henry, of Bank Lick, tried Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir, compounded by himself, on an old negro, who died in terrible agony from blood poisoning.

The negroes became so incensed that Henry was compelled to flee to save his life.

The Elixir a Failure in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Two reporters to whom Professor Boenning, of the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, administered doses of the Brown-Sequard elixir yesterday, were made ill by it and were confined to their beds. They complained of severe pains in the head, high fever and soreness in various parts of the body. Professor Boenning says the elixir has not been a success in Philadelphia.

The Pope to be Represented.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—Pope Leo has decided to send a representative of the Holy See from Rome to Washington next November for the purpose of attending the dedication of the Catholic University. The functions of this legate will be nominal, the object of the Pope in sending him being to give further assurance of his hearty accord with the projects of the founder and promoters of the University.

Heavy Windstorm in Kansas.

ATCHISON, Kan., Aug. 14.—A heavy windstorm accompanied by heavy torrents of rain, unroofed a large number of houses here yesterday, including the Arlington Hotel. Miss Kate Sheehan had a thrilling experience. She was blown from the sidewalk into the gutter and the torrent of water carried her away toward the sewer. She was rescued within three feet of the manhole. E. Wankler, a merchant, was fatally injured by a falling porch.

Allen Pleads Guilty.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Eben S. Allen, late President of the Forty-second Street and Grand Street Ferry Surface Railroad Company, has pleaded guilty to the first indictment against him in General Sessions. He was charged with overissuing stock of the company. Counsel for Allen asked for a postponement of sentence for forty-eight hours and there being no opposition by the District-Attorney, sentence was suspended until Friday.

One Ahead of the English Syndicate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Carry's Brewery in Northeast Washington, has been sold to the Washington Brewery Company. The price paid was $400,000. The company is made up entirely of New York men, and was incorporated under the laws of New York State. The English Syndicate tried to buy this place but failed.

Diphtheria Epidemic at Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The Board of Health held a meeting last night to take measures against the spreading of dyphtheria, which it is feared will become epidemic. It was decided to keep a strict quarantine on houses where dyphtheria patients are confined and enforce the rules of the State Board of Health in the matter of disinfectants.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Vacation days for the school children are numbered.

—People who can afford it are putting in their next Winter's coal.

—The drug store clerk complains that he gets too much fizzical exercise.

—Three thousand enumerators will be engaged in taking the census next year.

—The coming Saturday will be another of the salt water days at Boynton Beach and Florida Grove.

—Four lady racers, on horseback, attracted considerable attention on East Front street, yesterday afternoon.

—The tramps are now inspecting the maps of the United States, and marking out lines of travel for the Fall and Winter.

—A joke is well enough, if not carried too far. People should never try to make others bear the brunt they are deserving of themselves.

—The second annual excursion of the Plainfield Reform Club to Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, will take place on Wednesday, September 11.

—John Harkins, who defeated the Crescents on Saturday, will pitch for the Unions of New Brunswick in their game with the Acme's, to-morrow.

—It is understood that a certain North Plainfielder will apply for a liquor license next year, in the building recently vacated by Mr. Otto Arend on East Second street.

—The scholars of the Washingtonville Sunday school spent the day at Boynton Beach, yesterday. Capt. Hand took them over in his mammoth stages, and returned them home safety about 8:30 o'clock last evening.

—A four-horned cow and a no-tailed shoat will be on exhibition at the Flemington fair next month. The curious and wonderful as well as the progressive and useful will be found there, and everybody should go to see the grand display.

—The Directors of the Waverly Trotting Association have decided to close the entries for their Fall meeting on Thursday. The meeting will be held this year on Sept. 15. The races will comprise a 2:30 class, 2:35 class, 3:00 class and a free-for-all.

—A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was held last evening. Among other routine business transacted was the presentation of one application for membership, and the paying in of subscriptions by the members for the Soldier's Monument fund.

—Willie Cunningham, the boy struck by the train last week on the Bound Brook Railroad, has been taken to the City Hospital, Trenton, where a delicate operation was successfully performed. A portion of the skull was removed and clots of blood taken from the brain, and the boy is doing well.

—A Committee of the Hunterdon county Board of Freeholders met Tuesday, to estimate the damage done to bridges, etc., by the recent floods, and to make arrangements for replacing and repairing the structures injured or destroyed. The loss will reach close to $20,000.

—Lively—"Where are you going to spend your Summer vacation?" Slowly—"I am not needing rest for a vacation, and if I did I could not afford it. I find my store right here in Plainfield, a very quiet resort." Lively—"Oh, certainly; I had forgotten that you do not advertise in THE PRESS."

—There will be more State and county fairs this season than in any previous year, says a contemporary. Fairs promote the breeding of better stock, the farmers are brought in contact with one another, newer and more systematic methods of cultivation are taught and improved implements are inspected.

—It is stated by a publication called Tobacco that for the year ending June 30, 1883, the enormous number of 2,151,515,330 cigarettes were made in this country. And, if we may judge from the sickening pollution of the air in some quarters hereabouts, we should say that a full half of the nasty little rolls were smoked in Plainfield.

—Some one has taken the trouble to find out how far a farmer has to walk to put in and cultivate forty acres of corn. To plow the ground with a sixteen-inch three-horse plow, he travels 350 miles; to harrow the ground thoroughly before planting, he walks 50 miles; to cultivate it afterwards he will have to travel 300 miles, besides gathering it.

—The New Jersey apple crop is estimated at only a little more than half of the average.

—Decided improvements are being made to the High school building on Fifth street.

—"The Old Homestead" will begin its second year at the Academy of Music, New York, Sept. 2.

—The convention of the Society of American Florists will be held in Buffalo, N. Y., on August 20.

—Some farmers of this vicinity have tried to save their potatoes by digging them, but they have only rotted on their hands.

—On account of the rain storm today, Laing and Nelson's excursion to Asbury Park, has been postponed to next Tuesday, Aug. 20.

—It will soon be time for the Summer sojourners to return to their homes in the city, and the hotel keepers will then foot up their Summer's proceeds.

—The Young Crescents of this city, will play the Young Arlingtons also of this city, on the Crescents ball ground, to-morrow morning, at 9:30 o'clock.

—Devoe predicted the biggest storm of the season between Aug. 5th and 12th. Devoe is a descendant of Ananias, but his predicted storm failed to materialize.

—Among the names of camps at Lake Hopatcong are St. George, Juniata, Oklahoma, Protection, Concordia, Ivanhoe, Marion, Leon, Linden, Philharmonic, Guess, Pioneer, Columbia, Moonlight and Weequahick.

—Two of the watchmen in the Jersey Central yards at Phillipsburg have been removed and other men appointed in their placee. One of the discharged watchmen has been in the company's employ nearly thirty years.

Wild Man at Piscataway.

For several weeks past, a man supposed to be of the wild species has been terrorizing the women of Piscatawayton, a small hamlet a few miles South of this city, and on Saturday night a search was made for the unknown man.

A party of seven, led by Mr. W. H. Brundage, started for Dunham's Hill, where the stranger had been seen to frequently enter a small stretch of woodland and disappear. The moon shone brightly and the searchers had no difficulty in finding the dilapidated hut in which the man had slept.

There was evidence that the place had been occupied, but no trace of the stranger could be found. He had disappeared and took with him a large bundle of clothing which he had been seen to carry.

The mysterious man is described as being about 45 years old, with a villainous cast of features. He has visited almost every farm house in the village during the absence of the men and terrorized the females by demanding food.

One Benefit of the Floods.

The heavy rains of the past weeks caused much damage throughout the State, in the loss of crops. In some sections, as told in THE PRESS, large quantities of hay and oats were cut, but had not been gathered when the storm commenced. In low places the fields were covered with water, and the crops were washed about the fields. Much of the hay and oats caught in this condition, is considered by some of the farmers to be worthless, and they report that they will not attempt to gather it.

But its an ill rain that brings nobody good, and many will be glad to hear that up in the Vernon valley the onion fields were badly washed, and in places the water was knee deep. This was also the case on the Great Meadows in Warren county. The onion raisers in these districts say they will lose thousands of bushels, in fact, that the season's crop is "torn through its heart."

Prof. Sam's Great Head.

(From the Flemington Democrat.)

W. R. Love, the Three Bridges caterer, has again demonstrated his ability as manager of a clam bake. The one he gave last Thursday on Packer Island was a great success. The clams were of exceedingly fine flavor and nicely baked by "Nipper" Cole. They could not have been better. The afternoon attendance was not large, and that is where the public missed it, for the Clinton Band was present and rendered plenty of rare music. In the evening the attendance was pretty good, and there was much dancing that seemed to be highly enjoyed by the young folks. Music by Prof. Frazee's orchestra from Plainfield. The Professor has a great head for conducting a dance. We think that all were satisfied with the entertainment.

The Record Broken.

At the Olympia bowling alley this morning, Mr. John D. White scored 258 points, thereby beating all previous records at bowling since the alley has been in operation. Following is a list of those who have scored 200 and over:

J. D. White	258	C. H. Borden	211
C. Krewson	233	Walter Bird	210
H. Willett	231	Al. Vail	209
C. VanWinkle	227	Geo. Swain	208
Chas. A. Reed	219	S. G. Smith	205
J. W. Drayton	214	Howard Teel	204
A. C. Wyckoff	213	P. VanAlstyne	203

Base Ball Bulletin.

Mr. R. J. Shaw, the druggist, has a base ball bulletin posted on the window of his store on East Front street, every evening, announcing the result of the day's games played in various parts of the country. This bit of enterprise on the part of Mr. Shaw is appreciated by the people in general.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. O. T. Waring and family have returned from Lake George.

Miss Kate Savard of College place, is spending a few days at South Plainfield.

Contractor Jas. Hardy, wife and child, of Duer street, North Plainfield, are at Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Homan and family, will leave on Thursday for a few weeks' vacation at Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. M. C. VanArsdale and family of North Plainfield, will spend the coming two weeks at Pluckamin, Somerset Co.

A party of young people from New Brunswick and Millstone drove over to this city, last evening, in buggies and suppered at the city Hotel.

The Misses Capitola and Emma Conover of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, are enjoying the sea breezes and bathing at Asbury Park, for a short time.

Mrs. L. Coles, Mrs. VanSickle and Miss Lillie Coles, of Duer street, North Plainfield, leave to-morrow for a few weeks' visit among friends at White House.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Jr., and family, have gone to East Boston, Mass., where they will make a visit to relatives of Mrs. Murray's, followed by a trip to Newport.

Assessor Isaac Brokaw has rented Mrs. Anna E. Mulholland's new house on Rock View avenue, North Plainfield, to Rev. M. E. Dwight, a retired minister of Fairfield, Iowa.

Mr. Walter Irving Clarke, for the past two years on the reportorial staff of the news of this city, will on Friday sever his connection with that concern, and accept a lucrative position with a paper at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. Clarke has won a host of friends and acquaintances during his stay here.

The New Brooklyn Washout.

Yesterday Director Thos. Acken, with, Freeholders Tice, Campbell and Garretson of the Middlesex County Board, and County Attorney H. B. Willis, went to Metuchen, whence they were taken by Freeholder Tice, with a Lehigh Valley locomotive, to South Plainfield, and from there they walked to the washout near the New Brooklyn bridge.

The testimony before the committee showed that the damage had been caused by the breaking of the dam at Seeley's mill, on the stream some distance above, which had raised the water at the rate of a foot in fifteen minutes.

The conclusion arrived at was that the county is not responsible for the damage. It is an unfortunate affair for the township of Piscataway on which the cost will fall. There have been threats made that suit will be brought against the county to compel it to assume the responsibility, but any such suit, if brought will be defended on the part of the county.

The township was represented by Mr. Gray, of Dunellen, Chairman of the Piscataway township committee.

A New Electrical Contrivance.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company is experimenting with an electrical apparatus which, it is claimed, will prevent a locomotive slipping on grades. The invention is the idea of a Baltimore party and is being placed on coal engine 447 in the machine shops in Reading. The electricity is generated by a small dynamo, which is run by the engine. The current thus generated is passed around the driving wheels and thence to the rails, which become magnetized, and the drivers are prevented from slipping. It is claimed that a locomotive can haul as many cars up grade with the attachment, as on a level.

If the experiment proves satisfactory the invention will no doubt be adopted by the Central Railroad.

"As Water is to the Thirsty Soul,

So is good news from a far country." How true! If you have friends and relatives residing at a distance you must know how anxious they are to hear from "the old home." You do not always have time to write. If you desire to gratify their wishes and make them think of you continually have THE PRESS sent to them for a year. It will cost you but $5 and you would willingly spend that amount for their pleasure at any time. Our list of miscellaneous subscriptions is already large, the paper reaching nearly every State in the Union. THE PRESS will also be left at your door for ten cents a week.

Temperance Convention.

The temperance people throughout the State will hold a convention at Newark on September 11, to take action to have persons elected to the legislature who will pledge themselves favorable to having the law re-enated giving the citizens the right to vote at county and city elections on local option. Temperance people from all parts of the State have been invited to be present.

A Nurses' Registry.

The Plainfield Medical Association has arranged for a registry of nurses, at Reynolds' drug store, corner of Park and North avenue. All nurses—both men and women—are advised to place their names on this register, which the public will find convenient to consult when wanting nurses.

Children Cry for It.

If a child will take a medicine with pleasure, you may know that it is not in any way offensive to the taste. Children like HAMBURG FIGS, and it is no longer necessary to disgust them with castor oil. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLDBY DRUGGISTS.

HE'S ONTO HIM.

Mr. Woltmann Discerns a Negro in "Observer's" Wood Pile of Arguments, and Says So—With a Good Word Also for Consulting Engineer Rudolph Herring.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your correspondent, who discreetly hides himself behind the pseudonym "Observer," says that I request some "further criticism of my water works plans," but I do no find any such request in the letter, which I sent you and which you kindly published on the 8th inst.

"Observer" also mentions in his communications various matters which I am supposed to have admitted, said, done or requested, but all of which are really the outcome of his evidently fertile imagination. For instance, he says that I admit that at present neither I nor my competitors have the wherewithal to talk business. Now, as a matter of fact, I said nothing of the kind, and no one knows it better than "Observer," but it suits his purpose to put the above interpretation on my language.

He talks about contractors, who care only for laying pipes, regardless of the fact what the city pays for hydrant rental. He pities them, because they have to make things attractive to the city as well as to their bankers, and he states that difficulties would also be encountered in procuring funds to build works with a supply drawn from wells. He makes further wild statements as to the Passaic River source and at last he gives it to be understood, that the "only feasible" plan is my second proposition, viz: to draw water from the pure mountain streams, etc.

This may be of interest to some of your readers, to me it is not, because I see therein a very ill-disguised attempt to "draw me out," and by that means obtain some information of which "Observer" is in need. If no money can be obtained to build the works according to my ideas, why so much the worse for me. But it occurs to me, looking at "Observer's" lengthy communication and his evident anxiety to bring up points against me, that he is afraid I might possibly get the money and obtain a franchise, in which case certain friends of his would get left.

I am well aware of the fact that "Observer" is perfectly familiar with the method of financiering water enterprises, so are the stockholders in the water works companies which are being managed by a firm not unknown to him. But this does not justify "Observer" in saying that money cannot be had to build the works in Plainfield, for he will find in due time that it can be had, although perhaps not from a Wall Street house.

In regard to the failure of a large contractor some time ago, all I can say is that I have nothing to do with that. I am trying to follow the golden rule "to mind my own business," and if "Observer" will follow my example I think he will have enough to do to keep him busy.

"Observer" is almost becoming funny in his "summing up," wherein he charges me with tempting the cupidity of a Common Council with an offer of $6,000 for the privilege of benefiting the city, which, he says, is a "mild form of bribery." Again he willfully misstates what I propose. I do not benefit the city, nor do I tempt the cupidity of anyone, least of all of our Common Council. I recognize the fact that the city cannot place itself in the hands of any contractor unreservedly—not even if the contractor be a gentleman, with whom "Observer" is acquainted—and that it is necessary for the city to employ a competent engineer to superintend the work, so far as the interests of the city are concerned. That being so, I ascertained what amount of money I could afford to give for that purpose, the result being my offer of $6,000. Thereupon "Observer" says, that I must naturally feel that an engineer, who receives compensation from the contractors, must feel under obligations to his employers, etc.

When we made our proposition, it was an open secret that Mr. Rudolph Herring would act for the city, and as "Observer" seems to think that that gentleman could be "bribed" or "influenced" by a payment of $6,000, I am reluctantly obliged to believe one of two things, viz: that "Observer" does not know Mr. Herring's record, or else that he has associated with engineers who are totally different from those with whom it has been my good fortune to come in contact. I will say here, for your correspondent's information, that we are not personally acquainted with Mr. Herring, although the writer once had the pleasure of a casual introduction. All we know of the gentleman is that he is an eminent engineer, who would doubtless examine any work very carefully and critically. But as we do not propose to do work other than first-class, we have no need to fear such inspection.

In conclusion let me say, that I agree with "Observer" on one point, viz: that the name does not always give weight to a communication, and this is the case with his letters. If he would give his name, it would disclose the presence of a colored individual in the wood pile, and would at the same time cause his argument to lose the force which he now thinks it possesses. All of which "Observer" can fully appreciate. Yours truly,

E. WOLTMANN.

Shooting Tournaments.

The fifth annual tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club will take place early in October. The shooting will be at the club's grounds at Dunellen on October 8, 9, 10 and 11, and the first two days will be devoted to live bird shooting. $1,300 in cash is guaranteed. The committee consists of Messrs. W. Fred Quimby, T. H. Keller, M. W. Mulford, N. Apgar and Wm. Sigler. Particulars and programmes can be had upon application to Mr. W. F. Quimby, 291 Broadway or Mr. W. L. Force, the Secretary, Plainfield.

The New Jersey State Sportsmen's Association has decided to hold its annual tournament on the grounds of the Jersey City Heights Gun Club at Marion, N. J., on September 24, 25, 26 and 27. The first two days will be devoted to inanimate target shooting under American Association rules, and the last two days entirely to live birds. The feature of the live bird days will be a sweepstake at 10 birds, open only to residents of the State of over 55 years of age, old Long Island rules, one barrel, gun below the elbow to govern.

Tom Nicholl's Big Catch.

The beauty and healthfulness of Lake Hopatcong is attracting many Summer guests to its shores, and the hotels and cottages are filled with boarders who are enjoying the pleasures afforded at that most beautiful place. The evenings are cool and delightful and the fishing is beginning to improve.

Among the most notable catches this season, was that of Mr. Thos. J. Nicholl of Fanwood, on Saturday afternoon, while fishing in the Lake with Dr. S. P. Harned and his son of Woodbridge, N. J. Tom succeeded in capturing a black bass weighing 5½ pounds on a light 6oz rod. The Doctor also succeeded in landing a 4½ pound bass.

The fish were served up at the cottage of Mrs. James VanOver, where the party are stopping. This cottage has become a popular resort on account of its home-like accommodations and reasonable charges.

The Flood Losses in Union County.

The cost of the late floods and freshets to Union county, as ascertained by the Freeholders on Monday, will be not far from $30,000. The damage to the Plainfield bridges is $10,900; Westfield, $5,375; Summit, $4,300; Springfield, $3,600; Fanwood, $2,400, and Union, $1,900, and the damage to the Elizabeth and Rahway bridges is yet to be figured up. Both bridges at Summit, one costing $2,500 and the other $1,500, will have to be replaced.

A resolution was adopted authorizing destroyed bridges to be replaced by iron structures, and all the repairs to be made in a substantial and durable manner.

The money for these bridges and repairs cannot come from the levy of this year, and under the law of 1883 the Director and County Collector were authorized to borrow such amount as will be nessary.

The Coast Sinking.

Prof. Cook, the eminent State geologist, gives little comfort to those who expect to live long on the New Jersey coast. He shows by indisputable evidence that the ground is gradually sinking and the sea gradually encroaching upon the land. Within a short period of geological time there has been a sinking of the coast or a rise of the water level to an extent of from ten to twenty feet. If this keeps on Long Branch and Asbury Park and the other Summer resorts will have to move inland to escape being overwhelmed by the sea, and the places that now know them will be but a waste of water.

Another Ruler Writes the Rulings, Now.

A correspondent in THE PRESS, yesterday, asked how it was that the city granted the Central Railroad Company permission to construct a sewer from their North avenue station, yet now, under the ruling of its corporation counsel, the city has "no right" to grant a franchise for the construction of a sewage system for the service of the whole community!

The only reason THE PRESS can give for it all, is that the city has a different counsel, now.

The Preparatory School for Boys.

The people of this city know nothing that is not in the highest praise of Mr. Leal's school, and can commend it to all who want the best sort of preparatory school for their boys under the pleasantest auspices.

These columns have recorded from year to year the large list of graduated students that have been admitted direct from Mr. Leal's school into Yale, Harvard and other colleges they have personally preferred.

One of Plainfield's Worst Enemies.

A recent volume devoted entirely to the English sparrow and issued by the Agricultural Department at Washington, gives this damaging opinion of the little foreigner: "The English sparrow is a curse of such virulence that it ought to be systematically attacked and destroyed before it becomes necessary to deplete the public treasury for the purpose, as has been done in other countries." No one will be arrested for shooting an English sparrow in this city.

Pernicious Effects of Tobacco.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY is the only antidote against the influence of tobacco which the smoker or chewer of the weed has, and it should be taken regularly to prevent the heart from becoming diseased. Descriptive treatise with each bottle; or address Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

RELIGIOUS FRENZY.

Terrible Hallucination of Three Alabama Negroes.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 14.—Three young negro men driven to religious frenzy the other day by the exhortations of an old negro named Tobias Jackson, who claims to be Daniel the Prophet, were persuaded to believe that they were representatives of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three Israelites who entered the fiery furnace of Nebuchadnezzar, of old.

Under the influence of their new prophet the negroes, Dan Williams, Peter Burttamp and Bill Verdier, deliberately entered the gate of the cupola of the Schloss furnace and rushed into the white heat of the melting iron. When they failed to come out, Jackson, the prophet, proclaimed that he saw them rising in the air with the smoke of the furnace, attended by angels, and said they would revisit the earth again next Sunday.

The negroes propose to meet at church next Sunday and will continue in prayer all day, Tobias Jackson leading, and will await the descent of the three children of Israel.

Glass Factories Resume Operations.

FINDLAY, O., Aug. 14.—The five flint glass factories of this city have resumed operations after the usual summer shut-down, with 643 hands. The six window glass houses and the lamp chimney shop will begin the regular season September 1, thus increasing the number of hands to 1,500. No trouble regarding wages is expected before January 1, at which time the present contracts expire, and a new scale will be put on from which trouble is apprehended.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Six prisoners escaped from the Dixon, Ill., jail.

Truckee, Cal., was nearly wiped out by fire yesterday.

Wheeling, W. Va., is suffering from incendiary fires.

The Senate Court at Paris found Gen. Boulanger guilty of conspiracy.

Al. Daggett, the noted Brooklyn politician, was shot at in New York city last night.

Warden Hatch of the Michigan State Penitentiary denies that Tascott is confined in that prison.

A water spout near Pawnee City, Neb., flooded everything. Bridges are gone and much damage done.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

BOULANGER GUILTY

He Is Convicted of Treason Against the State.

NOT ELIGIBLE FOR ELECTION.

Dillon and Rochefort Declared Guilty of Being Accomplices.

The Election in the Cantons Which Elected Boulanger Annulled—The General Tries to Explain Away the Embezzlement Story—People Who Saw Him in Paris When He Paid a Visit to the City in Disguise.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The Senate Court discussed at length its course of procedure and its competency to try Gen. Boulanger. It was finally decided by a vote of 201 to 7, that the Court was competent to try the General on all the counts of the indictment. Two of the Senators refrained from voting.

The Court then, by 206 votes, found the General guilty of conspiracy. Six of the Senators did not vote.

The Court also found M. Dillon and M. Rochefort guilty of complicity in the plot. It also decided by a vote of 198 to 10 that Boulanger was guilty of a treasonable attempt against the State in connection with the Lyons depot incident.

The Conseil d'Etat (Council of State) has annulled the elections in twelve cantons in which Gen. Boulanger was elected to the Councils General on the ground that he was not legally eligible for the position.

Gen. Boulanger has written a letter in which he states that he gave the sums of money which he is accused of embezzling to the chief clerks in the War Office, to be used for the relief of widows and orphans of soldiers.

Five lodgers in the house of Mme, Pourpres, the former bonne amie of General Boulanger, have sworn that the General was in Paris on July 15, 1887, the day on which it is alleged he visited the city in disguise.

Natalie Will Go to Belgrade.

VIENNA, Aug. 14.—Ex-King Milan, of Servia, having refused to give his parental consent to King Alexander's meeting his mother outside of Servia, ex-Queen Natalie will start for Belgrade on August 22, and hold the meeting there. Natalie is undoubtedly backed by Russia in this action and trouble may possibly arise from her return to Belgrade.

Mrs. Maybrick Constantly Moans.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick, the condemned murderess of her husband, almost unceasingly moans and calls for her children. She weeps copiously and welcomes the visits of the prison chaplain, whose ministrations she fully appreciates.

The Triple Alliance.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 14.—The "Noroe Vremya," in an inspired article, says: "The outside powers will make themselves sorely felt when the triple alliance attains its real object, that is, war."

Healy's Bill Passes First Reading.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—In the House of Commons, last evening, Mr. Timothy Healy's bill, providing for the appeal of all criminal cases in Ireland, passed its first reading.

RIVERSIDE MILL TROUBLES.

The Property Transferred to Assignees and the Attachments Removed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 14.—The Riverside and Oswego mill propery in Rhode Island and New York State was assigned last evening to C. D. Owen of the Atlantic Mills, Providence; James B. Case, vice-president of the Bank of Redemption, Boston, and Charles O. Braman of New York city, confidential adviser of A. D. Julliard.

All attachments on the property were at once removed.

Received the Veil.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—Impressive services were held at Malinck-Rodt Convent, the mother house of the Sisters of Christian Charity in this country, yesterday. Bishop O'Hara, assisted by twenty priests, were present. Twenty-six ladies received the black veil and thirty-one ladies received the white veil.

Prof. Loomis Very Ill.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 14.—Prof. Elias Loomis, for the past 30 years professor of astronomy at Yale, is very ill at the New Haven Hospital from a complication of stomach disorders, and is not expected to live. He was taken sick a few days ago while spending his vacation in the interior of the State.

CRAZED BY LOVE.

A Young Dressmaker Attempts to End Her Life to Meet Her Dead Lover.

READING, Pa., Aug. 14.—Miss Lizzie P. Speyer, aged 26, a prosperous young dressmaker, has been taken to the Harrisburg Hospital for the insane. Her case is a very sad one. Her insanity is hereditary, but the predisposing cause was disappointment in love.

Some two weeks ago she rose in the night and procuring a pair of scissors cut all the clothing she possessed, including some very handsome dresses and wraps, into strips. The next day she was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, it being hoped that her dementia was only temporary.

Three days after that she escaped at night and wandered barefooted and almost naked over Penn's Mountain in search of water to drown herself. When found, her feet were badly lacerated from climbing the rocks. She imagines that her lover has been cut to pieces in a Penn street hotel, and she wants to end her life so as to meet him in the next world. She made a number of attempts to take her life, and while being taken to Harrisburg attempted to jump from the cars while crossing the Lebanon Valley bridge.

GIANTS LEAD.

The New Yorks Relegate the Bostons to Second Place.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—The Giants are in the lead. Their defeat of the Infants yesterday and Boston's defeat at Pittsburg accomplished that long-looked for result.

The New Yorks have made a great fight, being heavily handicapped by disabled players and poor playing grounds during a great part of the season.

To say that it was a jolly crowd who sat around the Giants' dinner table last night would not half express it. There was a big grin on each player's face and the men shook hands all around and congratulated each other over and over again.

THE SEASON'S DELIGHTS.

Toilets for the Hops at the Summer Hotels.

Picturesque Dancing Gowns for Matrons and for Maids—White Dresses and Diamonds—The Witchery of Lace and the Poetry of Flowers.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The most brilliant display of beauty and fashion to be seen in midsummer is witnessed in the ball room of a great summer hotel at one of the fashionable resorts when the evening is well under way and the dance music sounds. There seems to be a continually increasing tendency towards more richness of dress at all public entertainments and at the Summer hops the long rays of light sent out by the jewels, the blending of soft rich colors, the gleam of fair white arms and uncovered shoulders, the gay and spirituelle combinations of tulle and flowers, the shimmer of silks and the splendor of brocades make a picture bright with color and variety.

WHITE SILK AND BROCADE.

White is the principal wear, as it has been in London and Paris throughout the season, and diamonds blaze from the hair, the neck and the front of the gown. Often the portion of the bodice that is trimmed with lace from shoulder to shoulder is one mass of gems and more than one great lady wears a diamond stomacher. It cannot be said that the glitter of so many jewels is universally becoming. The flashing, glowing, scintillating suns of life and light and color suit only a moderate proportion of faces and those of the more dignified and stately order. However, there is an imposing appearance about the sparkle of so many jewels that prevents one examining too nicely into the mere becomingness of the display.

A notable feature of the hop gown is its revolt against New York conventionalism. In August in the ball room we get for the first time the Empire and Directory fashions unsubdued, unmodernized, not reduced to rigid uniformity by dressmakers' rule. New York is not a picturesque city; it has been under the dominion of the tailor gown too long. New York hates the suspicion of being extreme. It takes the Directory coat and makes an old-fashioned polonaise of it; it takes the Josephine robe and turns it into a prim bodice with a broad sash. But the casino is unterrified. The casino turns the summer corsage into something so shirred and folded and puckered, gathered up so softly about the shoulders like a baby's waist over a white guimpe or flying back from a waistcoat of white, heavy with gold embroidery, so jauntily that it becomes as beautifully incomprehensible as one of Robert Browning's most esoteric poems.

The casino delights in soft, silky, yellowish India muslin, and indeed it is a beautiful material on a girl with a delicate complexion and dark hair and eyes. The casino likes to see it made with the waist high up under the arms, and edged with a yellowish lace about the shoulders. The sleeves have a round puff above, kept in form by fine wire hoops inside, and the rest fits loosely to the curves of the arm like the wrinkled top of a glove. The skirts are extremely narrow and are finished very probably with scallops of gold thread. Above these are embroidered rose garlands festooned in graceful curves with knots and fluttering ribbons. In the back these muslin draperies touch the ground. In front they are shorter, showing the satin slippers laced about the trim ankles, sandal-wise. The hair is wound about a high gold comb pierced into lace-like intricacy after the old tortoise shell designs, and bandeaux of narrow white ribbons confine the little bunches of curls hanging over the temples. This belle carries no flowers, but she wields with a grace that might have been learned at the Fan Academy an exquisite gauze fan.

CASINO TOILETS FOR AUGUST.

The decollete gown is conducting itself with moderation. Now and then one sees a narrow ribbon or a strip of gauze doing duty for a shoulder, but as a rule the bodice is cut higher in a pretty heart-shaped outline, and sleeves require no microscope to bring them into view. They have a quaint and pretty fashion at Saratoga of draping the bodice on a sultry summer evening. A very long scarf of tulle or lace is carried around the throat, leaving a bit of white skin exposed just under the chin. The scarf is fastened here and there with little glistening gem-set lace pins, and then brought down a trifle below the waist and the airy folds caught in snugly under a large clasp or buckle. The long straight ends are simply hemmed, and these often reach to the foot of the gown.

Another pretty and popular fancy is to let in long scarfs of silk muslin to the seams at the back of the bodice and bring them round over the shoulders like fichus, tying them upon the bosom and letting the sash ends hang on the skirt. A lovely gown of this kind, well suited to the graceful girl who wore it, was seen a week ago; the material was a rich white and silver brocade opening over a front of tulle, the outer veil of which was lightly and delicately embroidered in silver. The scarfs were of silver threaded tulle, edged about with small silver tassels giving the most picturesque effect imaginable.

Another dress which attracted general attention on the dancing floor was a Greek gown of a delicate golden green crepe, with embroidered border of pale pink roses. The chiton, or long shawl, draped over this was of the faintest amber brown silk tulle. The loose folds streamed like the hair of a wind goddess as the music waxed mad, but draped in statuesque lines again as soon as the Maid of Athens was still. White, embroidered with pink or blue, is a favorite color for these popular Greek gowns.

A flower-like girl bloomed in a dress that was meant to last that evening only. A web of anemone pink gauze hung about her, the color hardly as deep as the faintest tint on the sea shell. This diaphanous cloud was nearly covered with natural flowers, the fine shimmering blooms that New Englanders call "babies' breath" being the blossoms chosen. The wreath on her hair was of the same posies and diamonds in invisible settings were strewn over the flowers and shone like the dew at sunrise. No cooler and more aerial toilet has been seen this summer, but the few hours that were the limit of the fresh loveliness of the blossoms were all that it was expected to serve.

A weird kind of a ball dress was made of a soft ribbed yellow silk, very simple and plain. From the shoulders depended a long scarf drapery of a misty, gray green crepe. It passed from the shoulders to the waist and was left so loose that it did not disguise one curve of the form. It hung from the shoulders in long shawl draperies trailing behind on the floor.

Artistic simplicity is with the buds the order of the day. White muslin, the girlish fabric that Miss Edgeworth's and Miss Austin's and Washington Irving's heroines affected is once again the very height of the style, and it is made in the most youthful manner possible. The more juvenile and ingenuous the debutante can look the more closely she approaches her ideal. The muslin is frequently that exquisite silk muslin which falls in such graceful folds. It is made in Empire fashion with the border finished in daisy petals or edged with a band of embroidery in Greek designs. The bodice is folded softly across the bosom and has no garniture but a broad muslin sash which may be five, six or seven yards long. If the debutante is slender, it is wound about her waist two or three times and then tied at the back in an enormous bow with long ends. The sash of this season is simply astonishing. The debutante tilts and minces under it much as the 2-year-old did three or four seasons ago.

NEW COIFFURES.

White is the wear, but the tints of the colored gowns are so soft and delicate as to seem copied from the pinkish-white Newport roses, the wisteria blossoms and the greenish-blue of the summer sky above the sunset. An ideal summer ball gown showed five unhemmed airy skirts, one above another, all of a faint blue gauze, with pink hedge foliage bordering the fourth and veiled by the fifth hanging over them. Each skirt fell straight all around from a bodice of pompadour brocade in patterns of roses and leaves on a bluish-white ground. This bodice is half low in the neck, with elbow sleeves end and shoulder and corsage sprays of ferns and wild roses.

Another gown bringing in the witchery of lace and delicate textures was of lilac crepe and creamy embroidered net falling in straight folds at the back; on one side was a floral panel, the blossoms embroidered in silks of the softest hues brightened with gold thread and combined with that subtle art which we have copied from the Orientals, which subdues the tinting only to enhance the effect. This embroidery was repeated on the edge of the skirt, where it was partly veiled by a lace flounce headed by a ruche of crepe from which fell a cascade of pink and lilac ribbon. The coat bodice was of embroidered net, the lace basque of which formed a peplum, knotted behind. The lace revers showed an embroidered waistcoat barred by three rows of pink and lilac ribbon. The full sleeves reached just to the bend of the arm and were edged with lace and trimmed with small bows of ribbon.

Heavy gold embroidery appears on the beautiful white cashmere and veiling evening gowns. Fine white cashmere draped over a gold-embroidered white silk skirt makes the prettiest combination of materials possible. Plain tulle, it is fair to say, has entirely superseded the fancy and beaded kinds. Some of the richest summer evening gowns are of black gauze or lace or net over black silk and gold or silver embroidered.

The hair is no longer dressed in the towering, aigrette-adorned puffs of a year ago. A low classic knot bound with a fillet, a simple knot at the back of the neck, an arrangement of braids on the back of the head with curls twisting about the neck and ears, these and a dozen low and half low arrangements admitting the use of flowers and ribbons are the summer styles.

The summer sorties-de-bal are gorgeous, some of them being made of thin white materials like veiling or chalit adorned with cascades of lace and tied with ribbons.

ELLEN OSBORN.

FASHION'S FAVORS.

Several exquisite shades of pale yellow now rival the green tints in popular favor.

Primrose yellow and a pinkish violet tint are combined effectively in dancing costumes of crepe de chine or crepe lisse.

Flower toilets are fashionable abroad. One just imported represented a poppy, the top of the skirt and the entire front being covered with very large poppy petals, made of plaited, crinkled silk the exact hue of the flower. The full, gathered back is of poppy red tulle.

Despondency Caused the Rash Act.

TAUNTON, Mass., Aug. 14.—Elkanah A. Babbitt, a machinist about 50 years of age, living at 35 School street, put a pistol ball into his head with fatal effect. Despondency and illness was the cause.

Curing a Nervous Horse.

A Brooklyn horse lately suffered an injury to one of his feet, and for some time traveled on three legs. Finally the wound was perfectly healed, but still the animal refused to put that hoof to the ground. A veterinary surgeon was called in, who made an examination and then pronounced it simply a case of nervousness. "Strap up the other hind foot and you'll see," he said. This was done and the injured foot was thus forced into use. It did not take a block's travel to show the horse that his nervous fears were groundless, and when the strap was removed he trotted off squarely on four feet.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

JUDGE TERRY SLAIN

Shot in a Railway Station by a United States Marshal.

HE MEETS A VIOLENT DEATH.

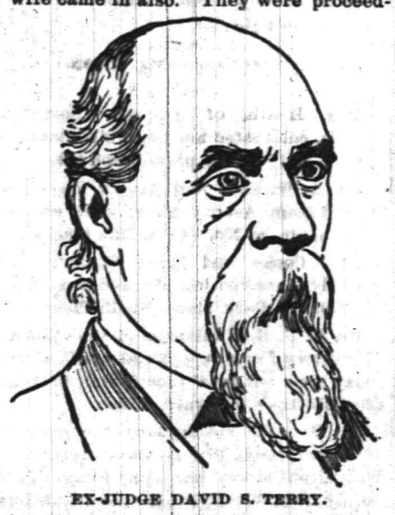
After Slapping Justice Field in the Face A Bullet Pierces Terry's Heart.

Sarah Althea, the Dead Man's Wife, Creates a Scene Over the Body—Terry's Assassin is Arrested—Justice Field Arrives in San Francisco—He is Under Police Protection by Orders from Washington—Terry's Remarkable Career.

LATHROP, Cal., Aug. 15.—The shooting of Judge David S. Terry by Deputy United States Marshal David Nagle, has created the wildest excitement throughout the State.

Upon the arrival of the Southern overland train here, United States Supreme Judge Stephen J. Field and Deputy United States Marshal David Nagle walked into the depot dining room for breakfast, and sat down side by side.

Soon after Judge David S. Terry and wife came in also. They were proceeding to another table when Mrs. Terry, evidently recognizing Justice Field, did not sit down but retired to the train for some unknown purpose. Before she reached it, however, and as soon as she had left the dining room, Judge Terry approached Justice Field and slapped his face.



EX-JUDGE DAVID S. TERRY.

At this juncture Deputy Marshal Nagle arose from his seat and shot Terry through the heart. As he was falling Nagle shot again, but missed him, the bullet going through the floor. Both shots were fired in very quick succession.

A Scene of Wild Excitement.

The Judge never uttered a sound after being shot. He had hardly fallen before Mrs. Terry rushed to the side of his body and threw herself upon it. Then ensued a scene of the wildest excitement. People rushed from the dining room and others rushed in.

During this time Justice Field and Deputy Marshal Nagle retreated to a sleeping car, where they were securely locked within. At times Mrs. Terry would call upon the citizens to arrest them.

During the time the train was standing at the depot Mrs. Terry was running wildly, alternately from the body of her husband to the sleeper, demanding admittance that she might slap Justice Field's face, and at the same time begging that they be detained and have their examination here.

Constable Walker took Deputy Nagle from the train at Tracy, and proceeded with him to Stockton, where he is now in jail.

District-Attorney White ordered the arrest of Justice Field upon his arrival at San Francisco.

The News in 'Prisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—The announcement that ex-Judge Terry had been shot and killed at Lathrop caused extraordinary excitement in this city.

The possibility of an encounter between Terry and Justice Field has been recognized ever since the imprisonment of Terry for contempt of court, owing to the known temper of the man.

Newspaper articles have been printed lately intimating that it would be dangerous for Justice Field and Judge Terry to meet personally, as it was thought the latter might insult the former, while the fact was also recognized that Justice Field would be quick to resent an attack from Terry, knowing it could only result fatally to one or the other, in view of the latter's record.

Justice Field's arrival here created great excitement. He was closely guarded by officers in order to prevent Terry's friends doing the Justice any violent harm. Justice Field drove at once to the Palace Hotel, where he was joined by his wife. He was not arrested, and the notice to the Chief of Police claimed to have been sent by the District-Attorney of San Joaquin, ff forwarded in that form, was not carried out.

Protection was accorded to Justice Field, it is asserted, by authority of United States Attorney-General Miller, who telegraphed from Washington to the Marshal of the district to see that the Justice was protected.

Judge Terry's Career.

David L. Terry was born in Todd county, Kentucky, in 1823. He served in the Texan Army under Sam Houston. He came to California in 1849 and settled in Calaviras county. In 1856 he was elected Justice of the Supreme Court of California on the Native American ticket, and upon the death of Chief Justice Murray in 1857, Judge Terry became Chief Justice.

He was opposed to the Vigilance Committee of 1856, and stabbed one of the members of the Committee who had attempted to arrest a friend of Terry's. Terry was held by the Vigilants, but afterwards released. He killed Senator Broderick in 1859 as a result of political differences.

IRISH DEMONSTRATIONS.

Excitement in Chicago Over the Cronin and Anti-Cronin Gatherings.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—No public demonstration in Chicago ever caused so much or so widespread excitement as attended the Cronin and anti-Cronin gatherings at Cheltenham Beach and Ogden Grove to-day.

Senator Grady, of New York, Judge Fitzgerald, of Cincinnati, and the Rev. Dr. Pepper, of St. Louis, spoke at the physical force gathering in the grove.

Congressman Foran, was the central figure in the Cronin affair, with Devoy, McCahey, Luke Dillon and Patrick O'Donnell, of Washington.

The triangle anti-Cronin people outnumbered their opponents three to one.

The Croninites distributed a quarter of a million copies of a leaflet reciting the virtues of Dr. Cronin and vindicating his course in connection with the Clan-na-Gael and calling upon law-abiding citizens to show their regard for justice and right by supporting every effort to get retribution for his murder.

SIGNING THE COKE SCALE.

About 2,500 Ovens Idle But No Indications of Rioting in the Region.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 15.—About 30 non-union men are working at M. J. Rainey's Moyer Works, The regular employes are on strike until Mr. Rainey shall have signed the new scale for his Paull and Fort Hill Works also. Pinkerton guards are on duty at Moyer.

Several of the independent operators signed the scale last evening. About 2,500 ovens are yet idle in the entire region.

There are no indications that rioting or acts of violence will be renewed.

The Cambridge Malpractice Case.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The latest development in the Cambridge malpractice case is the arrest of the nurse employed at Dr. Harper's, who is considered an important witness. She was placed under bonds for her appearance. She is held as a witness only and is not charged with being concerned in the malpractice. She says that Dr. Harper is in France and that he is expected home September 20. Dr. Stanford and McCloud have been unable to give bail.

Peeping Tom's Mystery.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 15.—The mystery that envelopes the so-called "Peeping Tom," is almost as dark as that which conceals Jack the Ripper. Philip Montgomery Renfew, is still in jail at this place, but the circumstantial evidence against him is fading in strength as the investigation proceeds, and the Chief of Police expresses his opinion that neither of the Renfrew brothers had any thing to do with the case.

Ghastly Finds at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 15.—A large force of workmen are now at work clearing out the debris from the cellars and as a consequence more bodies are being found. Four corpses were recovered to-day—two women and two children. It is expected that many ghastly finds will be made during the next few days until all the excavations are made.

Scharf in Jail in Montreal.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Aug. 15.—Sheriff Dickinson, who went to Montreal to arrest Scharf, the absconding carriage dealer and forger, has returned. Scharf is in jail in Montreal awaiting the arrival of extradition papers. He will be brought here August 28. His creditors meet August 21 to appoint a trustee.

Trains Collide and No One Injured.

READING, Pa., Aug. 15.—At a curve on the Reading Railroad near Hamburg the Williamsport express ran into the rear end of a freight train standing on the track. There were sixty passengers on the express train, but no one was injured.

Swept Overboard and Drowned.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 15.—John Henderson, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Bernard McKinnon, of Philadelphia, two of the crew of the schooner Marion Manson, from Bath, Me., for Baltimore, were swept overboard and drowned on August 5.

No Change in Price of Coal.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The coal sales agents met yesterday but adjourned for two weeks without changing the present schedule of prices.

BAY VIEW, Mich., Aug. 15.—Rev. Dr. J. H. Bayliss, of Cincinnati, editor of the "Western Christian Advocate, died here yesterday.

HIS SUN HAS SET!

The Idol of the People of France and Idol No Longer.

GEN. BOULANGER SENTENCED.

The Senate Court Orders that He Be Deported to a Fortified Place.

Dillon and Rochefort to Go too—Their Extradition Demanded as Soon as the Decree of the Court Has Been Formally Promulgated — The Parisian Populace Accept the Verdict Very Quietly—End of the Famous General.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Great excitement prevails and Boulanger's friends are filled with dismay over the result of the Senate Court.

The Senate Court has pronounced judgment upon General Boulanger, Count Dillon and Henri Rochefort. The accused are condemned to deportation to some fortified place and there held as prisoners.

The Court adjourned in order to frame the text of the decree, which will be voted on in secret session and then read at a public sitting.

The different Republican groups in the Senate held a meeting immediately after the adjournment of the Court, and passed resolutions requesting the Government to enforce the decree after the dissolution of the Court. They called attention to the gravity of the conduct of some of the Ministers in absenting themselves during the trial, and demanded that steps be taken to bring to justice the other officials implicated with Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort in their treasonable plots for the subversion of the State.

His Extradition Will Be Demanded.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Whatever the admirers of Gen. Boulanger may have thought yesterday of his chances of making himself dictator of the destinies of France, certainly no one to-day is foolish enough to expect anything of the sort. His sun has set, and the "brave General" will probably long remember the 14th of August as the day upon which he was thrust into the darkness of the retirement which awaits him.

It is not that the High Court of Impeachment found him guilty—that was to be expected. Nor that his sentence was pronounced to-day—at that he could afford to laugh. But that the Parisian populace should accept the whole thing with a quiet nonchalance, and go about their business without paying the slightest heed to the great condemned or his affairs, marks a change in the popular current which even the convicted Boulanger cannot ignore. The boulevards showed no ripple of excitement. No one even whispered the "Vive Boulanger," which so recently was shouted from a million throats, and it is clear as the mid-day sun that the "idol of the people" is an idol no longer.

Magic lantern bulletins about the newspaper offices announce that Boulanger's extradition will be demanded as soon as the decree of the High Court has been formally promulgated.

Mr. Leslie is Alive and Well.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A large number of telegrams have been received here within the last twenty-four hours asking for verification of the report circulated in New York and elsewhere in America that Fred Leslie, the comedian, had died here. Mr. Leslie himself is authority for the statement that he is alive and in excellent health in this city.

Hangman Berry Dislikes the Job.

LONDON, Aug., 15.—The official executioner, Berry, declares that he will refuse to hang Mrs. Maybrick, and if the petitions for clemency in her behalf are not successful, the authorities will have to find some one else to preside at the execution. Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, had a long conversation with some of the counsel in the Maybrick case to-day.

Terrible Storm in Easton, Pa.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 15.—The rainstorm here last night was the most violent ever seen in this section. Within two hours the water in the Lehigh River rose eight feet. Two bridges and a dam on the Clinton branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and all Warren county bridges between Phillipsburg and Stewartsville have been swept away. The banks of the Morris Canal have broken in two places. The damage to the streets in this place will reach about $2,000.

Newport's Sweepstake Race.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 15.—There is considerable interest in the grand sweepstake race to take place off Newport next Monday. Ten of the best forties are in it, with an entrance fee of $100 each.

The Building Collapsed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The Old Burlington Building that was gutted by flame a few weeks ago collapsed yesterday and Joseph Hopp was taken from the ruins dead. Three others are still in the debris.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The water in the Raritan River is reported to be rising rapidly today.

—One hundred boys are advertised for as wanted at Reform Hall, to-night.

—Quantities of golden rod is already being gathered in various parts of the State.

—10th street has been graded up by the street commissioner, and is again in a passable condition.

—The heavy rain storm of yesterday raised the streams in this vicinity to a considerable extent.

—The game of base ball has become as great a craze as rollerskating, but it bids fair to continue much longer.

—The regular mid-week meeting of the Reform Club will be held in Reform Hall, this Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock.

—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will hold another meeting at Elizabeth on Tuesday, the 27th instant.

—The first katydids appeared here about July 20, and if the old prediction is true, we will have frost about Sept. 1.

—Most of the oats crops in this section has been beaten to the ground by the heavy storms, causing a considerable loss.

—Throughout the county the various road overseers are at work repairing the damage done to the roads by the recent rains.

—The Jersey Central locomotives are being supplied with stove-pipe stacks of the same style as used on the P. and R. railroad.

—Should the weather prove favorable, there will be some good trotting on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday afternoon.

—Under the new contract for postal caads there are to be three sizes, the ladies' size of pearl gray, the middle size and a larger size for business purposes.

—Teach boys and girls the actual facts of life as soon as they are old enough to understand them, and give them the sense of responsibility without saddening them.

—Edward Sheridan of Elizabeth, whose nine-year-old boy was found dead in bed on Sunday morning, disappeared on that day from the city and has not been seen since then.

—The Crescents of this city and the West Ends of Somerville will cross bats again on the home grounds on Saturday, August 31, and on the following Saturday the Crescents will play at Somerville.

—Since the recent flood, several springs have broken through the concrete flooring in the boiler room of THE PRESS office and water has flowed in the room to such a depth as to put out the fire in the furnace.

—The latest fancy in house painting is to forward a photograph of the house to a company manufacturing prepared paints which passes into the hand of an expert, who selects the colors, and forwards instructions as to how they shall be put on.

—Although Mr. John H. Tier beat the city in his Sunday selling case, he has decided not to keep his iced cream garden open on Sunday, and besides he can make enough money during the week days, to enable him to close up on the Sabbath.

—Those who expect to attend the ball game between the Crescents and the Buttermilk team on Saturday, should go early in order to secure a good seat. The game will be one of the best of the season, and will doubtless be witnessed by a large audience.

—There are but few localities in this section of the country which have not suffered from the continuous rain of late, and perhaps outside of the Johnstown and Williamsport floods in Pennsylvania, no place has suffered to a much greater extent than Plainfield.

—The duty of the hour to parents is to see that their sons and daughters are properly educated, to meet the demands, especially, of a business career. The business college meets that want, and in a comparatively brief time, and at a moderate expense, fits for life's duties.

—One of the surest ways of capturing black bass in Summer is by either trolling or casting with two of the largest kind of earth worms on a single hook. Leave at least an inch of the ends of the worms free, so they may wriggle, for your bass loves a live bait—the livelier the better.

BASE BALL AND BATHING KILL JESSE DAYTON.

Lockjaw Resulted From a Cold in a Torn Finger.

Mr. Jesse Dayton, a popular young man residing near New Market, died yesterday of lockjaw. He leaves a wife and two children.

The indirect cause of his death happened about two weeks ago, when playing ball he unfortunately had one of his finger nails torn off. The wound was properly treated at the time, but at Boynton Beach, Wednesday of last week, he caught cold in the finger, while bathing.

Saturday Dayton was at the races at the Park Avenue Driving Park. He there complained to his physician, Dr. Nelson, that he felt very bad effects from the sore finger. The Doctor advised him what to do, and promised to call on him the next day. This he subsequently did on Sunday, and discovered the terrible symptoms of lockjaw.

Dr. Endicott, of this city, was called in, but the consultation was of no avail. The unfortunate victim could not be saved.

Dayton was about thirty years of age and much admired among a host of friends in this city and about his home. He was the son of one of the oldest residents in Piscataway township.

An Enterprising Citizen.

For months, the Elizabeth Herald says, it has in every possible manner agitated the necessity of smaller houses and lower rents. One of its enterprising citizens, by the name of Durlach, who is a large property-holder in that city, has concluded to see what he can do toward benefiting the laboring man in that respect. Mr. Durlach proposes at an early date to erect a number of small houses which can be rented for six and eight dollars a month; also to remodel several large houses and make tenements of them. Mr. Durlach has carried a similar plan out in the city of Plainfield, and is perfectly satisfied with the result which has been attained, and feels fully satisfied that it will work equally as well in Elizabeth.

It is asserted that Mr. Durlach has offered a large cigar firm in New York, that if they will remove their business to Elizabeth, he will erect a factory for their accommodation, which he will let them use free of rent. The firm is said to employ a hundred hands.

That Demented Woman.

Editor William J. Leonard has interested himself in the case of Leina Fliege, the demented woman, to whom reference is made in another column, and has removed her to his home on West Front street, where she will be cared for until sufficient funds are collected to send the unfortunate woman back to Germany. Chief Carey who first took charge of the case, succeeded in collecting $76. Of this amount the Chief has paid out $18 for the woman's board, $10 to Mrs. Lynch for caring for the demented woman while she was confined in the lock-up, and $10 to Mrs. Mattox for sitting up with Mrs. Fliege at night.

The balance of the money Chief Carey has turned over to Mr. Leonard. About $150 is needed for the woman's passage to Germany.

Washout on the Central Railroad.

A serious washout occurred on the New Jersey Central Railroad at Annandale, last evening, and delayed travel over the road at that point for several hours. Passenger train No. 7 from Easton which is due here at 8:31 P. M., did not reach Plainfield until about two o'clock this morning, having been detained at Annandale on account of the washout, and was only allowed to pass that point by means of an improvised track.

Wedding Bells.

At St. Mary's church at 5:30 o'clock last evening, was consummated the marriage of Miss Bridget McFadden of this city and Mr. James McCarthy of New York, Rev. Father Smyth officiating. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents on West 4th street, at which the newly-wedded couple received the congratulations of their friends and acquaintances. The gifts were numerous and costly.

Fire To-night.

A free exhibition will be given this evening of a chemical fire extinguisher, at the stone yard on West Third street and Madison avenue. Fires will be built of the most inflammable materials and smothered with an application of gas generating fluid forced out of a hand engine.

A Prize for the Crescents.

Mr. Frank P. Huff, the merchant tailor, has offered as a prize a handsome pair of custom-made pantaloons to any member of the Crescent ball nine who steals the most bases between now and the close of the season.

Cornet Band Meeting.

Members of the Plainfield Cornet Band are requested to meet at headquarters, No. 29 West Front street, to-morrow (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock. Business of importance will come up for consideration, and a full attendance is desired.

—The Young Crescents of this city will play the Chatham street nine to-morrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, on the Crescent's grounds.

—It has been suggested that since the Crescents grounds have been enclosed, a series of athletic games may be made to pay there during the coming Fall. Who will start the ball a rolling?

THE SAD CASE OF MRS. FLIEGE.

A Chapter in the Life of an Unfortunate Stranger in a Strange Land.

(From the Central Times.)

The readers of the Times have been informed somewhat of the case of the ill-treated German lady, Mrs. Liena Fliege, who arrived at our railway station, sick and sad, a total stranger, four weeks ago. During the past week an American lady who could converse with her in her own language, felt impelled to make her acquaintance and found her to be a well bred and thoroughly educated person, and withal, a devout christian whose religious faith and philosophy have alone sustained her in the dark hours through which she has been, and is still, passing.

It was natural, perhaps, for the depot attendants and police officers who first met her in her desolate condition upon her arrival here to suppose that her mind was unsound, but that proves to have been an entirely erroneous view of the matter. Her mind has been perfectly sound through all her terrible experiences, and her suffering has been all the more keenly felt in consequence.

The lady is 55 years of age, and has been engaged in teaching in private schools in Germany for thirty years. She gave up her position at the earnest solicitation of a brother in St. Louis, from whom she had been separated since a child, who desired her to make her home with him the rest of her life. She reached his home last November, but it was anything but a home to her, but more of this anon. As a final act in his brutal course, he hustled his sister into a train for New York, without making the slightest provision for her comfort and safety.

She is here penniless, and wishes to return to Germany as soon as possible. Chief Carey has kindly busied himself to raise some funds to aid her. He needs more than he has received. Let all humane persons contribute to help a worthy woman whose burden of sorrow is almost greater than she can bear.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Heath, of Peapack, Somerset county, celebrated her 100th birthday recently, and had her photograph taken.

Mr. A. W. Fish and family have returned from Asbury Park, and are at home again, at No. 19 Franklin place.

Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Sammins of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Winckler of Park place, North Plainfield.

Mr. R. F. R. Huntsman of the Central New Jersey Times reportorial staff, starts today for a ten days' vacation at Cottage City, Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

Mr. Geo. L. VanEmburg the popular and enterprising dry goods merchant of West Front street, has today removed his family from Westfield in his handsome new residence on East Second street.

Chief of Police, Tunis J. Carey, and family, will spend the coming two weeks at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, N. J. The Chief will take a horse and carriage with him, so that he can ride about and enjoy himself to his heart's content.

Mr. George LaMonte, the Prohibition nominee for Governor of New Jersey, President of the First National Bank of Bound Brook, has been invited to deliver the annual address before the National Bankers' Association at the next annual meeting in Kansas city in September.

Messrs Geo. Godown and Joseph F. Shepard, of the post office force, have again returned to their post of duty after a two weeks' vacation. Mr. Edward Van Winkle, and Mr. John Force, two more of the employees in the office will begin their vacation on Friday and Saturday respectively.

Mrs. Huldah L. Allen, aged 70 years, died at her home on Front street, Scotch Plains, yesterday. She was the widow of Wm. Allen, a life long resident of Washington Valley, and removed to her late home upon the death of her husband. The funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Base Ball.

Saturday's game between the Crescent team and the New York "Buttermilks," promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. The Buttermilks have only lost two games out of twenty-two, this year.

Admission prices will remain the same as last Saturday. The red season tickets will admit the owner to any of the grand stands and all of the privileges of the grounds.

The batting order and positions of the visiting club of Saturday, are to be as follows: Cribbins, 2d base; Slocum, 1st base; Derry, 3d base; Bach, left field; Cunningham, or Meyers, pitcher; Moore, centre field; Crombie, right field; Morris, catcher; Donohue, short stop.

The management of the Crescents are talking of arranging Wednesday games on the home grounds also. Good enough! The people want them and will undoubtedly support them.

The Young Crescents of this city, defeated a picked nine on the Crescent's grounds, this morning, by a score of 19 to 9. The battery for the Young Crescents were T. Duffy and M. Hefferen. The battery for the picked nine were J. Shepherd and F. Coverly. A home run was made by M. Sutphen. Umpire, C. Lyman. Time of game, 2:20. Following is the score by innings:

Young Crescents	8	2	1	3	0	2	2	1	*—19
Picked Nine	1	0	2	0	2	0	2	2	0— 9

MR. STIMSON'S INSTITUTE.

A Scheme for the Advancement of Art and Artisans, That Appeals to All.

The first annual report of the New York Institute for Artist-Artisans, of which Mr. John Ward Stimson, of this city, is the founder and general superintendent, has just been issued. From it is gleaned the following in relation to the scheme:

The Institute was established a year ago under the superintendency of Mr. Stimson, the former Superintendent of the Metropolitan Museum of Art Schools. The institute was called into existence by a popular movement in protest against the policy of the management of the institution in Central Park.

In every direction possible, the institute has recorded a pronounced and wonderful success. The classes have steadily increased in numbers until they have outgrown the lecture and demonstration rooms, and the demand for admission still continues. The range of the curriculum has been extended gradually from the first beginnings, until now it covers eight branches of study in the arts calculated to dignify, ennoble and make beautiful the daily labor of the artist-artisan. Mr. Stimson's idea from the beginning of his singularly successful work has been to make popular the study of art.

Support has come from the two sources most in interest—the students and the manufacturers of certain lines of art goods with whom the graduates of the institute find profitable employment. Mr. Stimson's earnest efforts have been warmly commended by manufacturers of jewelry, silverware, pottery, tapestries, wall paper, and art furniture, and several of them have taken pupils from their desks in the Institution before their courses of study were finished and given them employment at good pay in their designing departments. Others are frequent applicants for new designs for use in their factories and shops, and every little while a pupil disposes of a sketch which has been prepared in the course of a study without any other purpose than the working out of some fundamental principle of illustrative art or some suggestion, or form, or color in nature. Others also, private persons who have become acquainted with the purpose and scope of the institute, and have felt that it was worthy of support, have made occasional contributions, as, for instance, a philanthropic lady, who would only give her initials—"O. S."—sent her check for $250 a few days since; Judge Russell sent his $100, and a United States Consul, home on leave of absence, sent $50 in bills to the support of the institute.

Among the firms that have subscribed to the maintenance fund during the year, were Tiffany & Co., $500; Herter Brothers, $100; Cottier & Co., $100; Howard & Son, $100; Mr. Cheney, the silk manufacturer of Paterson, N. J., $200; The Whiting Manufacturing Co., $50; The Gorham Manufacturing Company, $50; Calvert Vaux, the landscape architect, $50, and Warren, Fuller & Lange, and Frederick Beck & Co., the wall paper manufacturers, have been liberal supporters of the enterprise.

The N. Y. World says: "The N. Y. Institute for Artist-Artisans, has alone been selected from all the Art Schools of this city to compete with the Philadelphia School and Boston Museum, for the Annual Prizes offered by the U. S. Potters' Association, for the best designs for pottery. In view of the fact that this Institute is only in its first year of existence, the distinction of being chosen by this large and influential Guild of Manufacturers, to measure weapons with the Art Schools of Boston and Philadelphia, is a mark of approval which is both flattering and encouraging. Mr. J. W. Stimson established the Institute last Autumn, and has continued his singularly successful endeavors to popularize Art."

The close of the first year finds the institute in the same financial condition in which it began the year without any accumulated fund, although all its expenses have been by careful and economical management fully met. The future of the enterprise is in the hand of the citizens of New York. Some steps have been taken already by a new guild of the manufacturing jewelers and silversmiths towards raising a subscription to carry forward the work. But these efforts must be supplemented by liberal subscriptions from friends of the institute. The leading clergymen and heads of literary publications in this city, the artists engaged in magazine work, and some of the leading educators, are doing all they can consistent with their regular employments.

How to Reduce Your Weight.

A prominent Philadelphia physician gives the following advice to fleshy people: "To reduce the weight eat lean meat to the extent of satisfying the natural appetite, let your vegetables be turnips, potatoes and cabbage. Drink lime juice, lemonade and acid liquids; tea and coffee with a little milk is allowable. Above all things don't neglect to exercise freely, and discharge your coachman or give him a vacation. Drink but little water. Many people persist in eating fat meats and lots of butter. These tend to increase the weight, as do beets, carrots, oatmeal, peas, pastry and custards.'

A Pleasant Time.

On Sunday last the members of the Park Avenue and Oriental Social Clubs and their friends went to Florida Grove, where they spent a very pleasant day at boating, bathing, fishing and other outdoor amusements. Light slouch hats were worn, which were very neat and attractive.

EPISCOPAL STATISTICS.

Reports of the Respective Churches in this Diocese.

The journal of the 105th annual convention of the Episcopal church in the diocese of New Jersey has just come to hand in a pamphlet of 188 pages. Besides the report of the proceedings of the last convention, the document contains many statistics that are of interest to religious circles, irrespective of denominational lines. The diocese includes all that part of New Jersey lying South of the counties of Essex, Morris and Warren.

There are in the diocese 123 churches, including missions and chapels. The communicants number 11,840, of whom 1,420 were added to the church the last year. The number of Episcopal families is 7,132. There are 11,116 Sunday School pupils, and 1,294 Sunday school teachers.

The total receipts from pew rents, offerings, donations, etc., during the year were $212,349.77. Of this amount $4,825.02 were given for domestic missions, $2,357.70 for foreign missions, $8,195.37 for missions in the diocese, $703.78 for missions to colored people, $382.14 for Indian missions.

The Episcopal churches and missions of Plainfield make very interesting reports, from which is gleaned the following:

The Buffalo Fly is Not Fatal.

Prof. John B. Smith, the accomplished and well-informed entomologist of the State Agricultural College at New Brunswick, spent a day or two last week inquiring into the reported ravages of the pest known as the Buffalo fly. The Professor informs an exchange that a careful investigation of the stories printed in the newspapers about the fatal effects of the fly are mere exaggerations. There have been no fatalities at all. He says that possibly a few cows have knocked a horn off by striking them against trees in their efforts to dislodge the pests that most do congregate at the base thereof, but that the assertion that the flies are capable of loosening the horns is the veriest bosh.

No doubt, as the Professor says, the fly is calculated to so worry the cattle by their persistent biting that the supply of milk is seriously lessened, but he is not in possession of evidence that assures him of their ability to kill the animal they infest. The farmers should make an earnest and uncompromising war upon the industrious pests and rout them. It can be done by prompt and determined action.

Real Estate Transfers.

Thus far in August real estate transfers have been made in North Plainfield, as follows:

Aug. 2—Wm. White et ux. to G. D. Hallock, property in North Plainfield, $1,500.

Aug. 3—J. T. Dunn to Peter Dunn, property in North Plainfield, $2,700.

Aug. 5—Isabella B. S. Nichols to J. B. Bonnell, property in Plainfield and North Plainfield, $6,475.

Aug. 8—Wm. White et ux. to Emily C. Hartley, property in North Plainfield, $1,500; W. W. Tunison, Sheriff, to John B. Brown, lot in North Plainfield, $205.

Funny Weather, This!

The "oldest inhabitant" says he does not remember a Summer that can equal the present, so far as its rain fall and thunder showers are concerned. The ground is at present so full of water, that springs of bubbling water are breaking through the surface in many places. The damage done by the wet weather in this vicinity will never be known, but aside from that to the crops, it will be great, and will foot up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

—The annual boat carnival on Wesley Lake at Asbury Park, was held Tuesday night, and was very successful. Over a hundred and fifty boats participated in the beautiful marine parade, making the circuit of the lake. The boats were trimmed with hundreds of bright-colored glass and Japanese lanterns and festooned with flags and bunting.

MORE RAILROAD SHOPS.

The Penn. Road Will Increase Their Shops at Altoona, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. have decided to increase their work at Altoona. For a long time their present works situated there have been inadequate for the amount of work that is required of them.

A new site has been chosen for a large number of shops to be erected. This ground is situated about two miles from the present works. There will be an erection boiler, machine and blacksmith shops, boiler house, electric and hydraulic houses, office and storehouses, paint shop and paint storehouse. The works will be large enough to employ between 600 and 1,000 men and the different shops are so erected that at any time they can be enlarged. The capacity of the new works at first will be 150 locomotives per year and will be capable of being extended to 500. It is also contemplated to erect another large foundry. These buildings will be only one story high, except the machine shop and the office and storehouse which will be two stories in height. The ground will be about 2,200 by 780 feet.

CAPTURING BIG FISH.

Sherman Bros. & Co.'s Business Manager Arrested in Minneapolis.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The big fish concerned in the Sherman defalcation are rapidly being gathered within the meshes of the law. Frank H. Tyler, the former business manager for the firm, was arrested at Minneapolis yesterday upon an order from the chief of police here.

Wilson Sherman, though located at Victoria, just over the river, is practically in the clutches of the law. It is expected that he will return here voluntarily when wanted, but if he should decline to do so he can be extradited. Stephen Sherman and E. C. Loveridge are still in jail, not having been able to procure bail.

ALL ARE INDICTED

Sullivan and Kilrain Fighting Mississippi Justice.

THE CHAMPION VERY NERVOUS.

Gov. Lowry Willing to Let the Law Take Its Course.

Jake Kilrain Is Arrested in Baltimore on His Arrival from Norfolk, Va.—Mississippi Officers on Their Way to Take the Pugilist South—Requisitions Will Be Issued for the Arrest of Muldoon, Cleary, Donovan and Others.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 15.—The wording of the indictment found against Sullivan charges that, by and in pursuance of a previous appointment and arrangement made to meet and engage in a prize fight with Jake Kilrain and for a large sum of money, he did unlawfully engage in a prize fight in a ring, commonly called a prize ring, and did then and there beat, strike and bruise the said Jake Kilrain, against the peace and dignity of the State of Mississippi.

The indictment gives the names of six of the Grand Jurymen as witnesses. They were at the fight. Indictments were also found against Referee Fitzpatrick, Kilrain, Muldoon, Cleary and Donovan. That against Kilrain is similar to the Sullivan indictment, and those against the others merely charge them with aiding and abetting the fight, without specifying in what manner this was done.

In the case of the indicted persons who are now outside the State of Mississippi, copies of the indictment will be forwarded to Governor Lowry so that he may issue the requisitions for the apprehension of the offenders wherever they may be found.

Sullivan is feeling nervous over the prospect of long imprisonment.

Sullivan's lawyers are arguing their side of the case this afternoon, their point being that the court has no jurisdiction to try the case on the indictments.

Kilrain Arrested in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—Jake Kilrain arrived in this city yesterday on the Norfolk boat. He was immediately arrested and brought to the Central Police Station, where he will be held. Marshal Frey is in possession of the necessary papers.

Marshal Frey received a telegram from Governor Lowry requesting that Kilrain be held until the officers from Mississippi arrive to take him in charge

More Incendiary Fires in Danbury.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 15. — There were two more incendiary fires here. The large tenement house on Ives street was fired from the cellar. A slight fire, originating in the same way, was discovered in a factory later.

HE IS IN MONTREAL.

Absconder Brown Sends Instructions to His Wife from Canada.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 15.—Treasurer Brown's family were seen in Westerly yesterday by a reporter and the wife and three daughters who have been at Noyes Beach, left for home at Allston, Mass., on a late train.

They received a telegram from Brown from Toronto on Saturday, and more news from Montreal on Monday, the latter information was to the effect that they had better leave their summer resort and go at once to their former home in Allston and secure as much of his property as they can and at the same time hold all their own personal property, and see that it is beyond the reach of the Sheriff. After receiving the news and as soon as they could clear up their affairs where they were stopping, which was with Brown's own people, they left for Allston, taking a late train yesterday afternoon.

After Mrs. Brown has settled up her affairs she will probably join her husband in France, if he decides to go there. He may stay in Canada and have a reunion of the family there, but the opinion of the members of the family seems to be that he will sail for France.

In his letter Brown said nothing about the amount that he had taken or how much he had with him, but simply gave the advice to the family to cover their personal property, realize as much as they could from it, and join him, he notifying them as to his whereabouts from time to time.

FORESTS IN FLAMES.

Destructive Fires Raging in Dakota and Causing Great Alarm.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 15.—The atmosphere for miles around is thick with smoke and cinders and burning brands are falling in showers. All the northwestern country seems to be burning up in forest fires.

In the harbor the smoke has had the effect of fog, and steamers have been required to blow their whistles every few minutes to avoid collision

It is estimated that the total damage by forest fires in the northwest this year will amount to nearly $500,000. Fires are beginning all along the railroad lines and rivers and at night illuminates the hills and mountains.

Several farm houses have been burned with stables and produce and stores, with quantites of wheat of this year's crop. Several thousand cords of wood have been consumed. Monday the flames swooped down upon the settlement of Cedar Mills and left the country barren. The people, in some instances, had scarcely time to escape and had to hurry through the woods, the fire being so thick along the regular road.

An extensive fire is raging along the Southern Oregon, south of Rosebud, and a number of houses have been burned.

President Harrison's Trip.

BATH, Me., Aug. 15.—President Harrison was given a regular New England greeting on his arrival here. At the reception in the Federal building Mr. Harrison made a short address to the throng. After referring to the principal industry of Bath—shipbuilding—he said: "In every way that I properly can, whether as a citizen or as a public official, I shall endeavor to promote the rebuilding of our American merchant marine and the restoration of that great carrying trade which we once possessed in every sea."

Madame de Struve Dead.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—A cable message has been received at the Russian Legation announcing the death of Madame de Struve, wife of the minister to the United States at their country residence, Kielmarky, near St. Petersburg. Madame de Struve left this country about four years ago, going home to try to regain her health. She was noted at the time she was here for her brilliant receptions. Her husband left this country about two years ago on account of her illness. He will probably return.

The Missing Atwood Found.

ORANGE, Mass., Aug. 15.—Charles Atwood who has been missing for some time was found yesterday in his barn, his clothing torn and his watch and money gone. He was lying on his face in the hay. When aroused he said, "You are not the man that struck me." He was taken to the house where he now lies in a critical condition.

He Was Too Confiding in Absconder Brown

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 15.—Mr. William H. Carter, a well-known woolen manufacturer and an old resident, is seriously embarrassed through the failure of the firm of Brown, Steese & Clarke. His trouble is due to accommodation notes given by him to the firm as a matter of personal friendship to Mr. Brown, the absconding partner.

Letter Carriers Will Not Resign.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 15.—Postmaster Sides, last night, requested the mail carriers attached to the Portsmouth Postoffice to resign, their resignations to take effect September 1. The carriers, with one exception, refused, preferring to receive their discharge from the Postmaster General.

Alarmed at the Spread of Diphtheria.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 15,—Aurora, Cayuga county, is much excited over the prevalence of diphtheria. In one family five deaths have occurred since last Thursday. Many other cases are reported.

Monell Leaves Tammany Hall.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Civil Justice Ambrose Monell, who was counsel for Sheriff Flack in the recent fraudulent divorce proceedings, has resigned from the General Commitee and the Organization Committee of Tammany Hall.

Another Victim of Hydrophobia.

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 15.—Henry L. Hilton, the second victim of the mad dog which ran amuck through the town June 10, died of hydrophobia. Mary E. Rooney, the first victim, died a week ago.

AL RICKER GOT SQUARE.

But the Drug Business Was Ruined in Blakeville, Me.

He Paralyzes the Business of a Rival, But Kills off the Customers in the Town. Revenge Is Sweet But It Takes a Business Head to Steer It.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Way down on the Maine coast, where the dampness of the sea fog struggles with the dryness of prohibitory legislation I met a long, thin man who mistook me for a drummer. I know that he mistook me for a drummer because he asked me if I had a flask concealed in my clothing. I shook my head sadly, and he gasped with a violence that rattled the dry lining of his throat.

"There was a man that looked a sight like you," said he, "that was around here 'bout three months ago. He had a rubber lining to his coat, and a tube that ran up inside his collar. He was a very pop'lar man while he staid in town."

"I should have thought that the rubber would have made the whiskey taste bad," said I.

"Well, it didn't stay in there hardly long enough for that," he replied, with an innocent smile.

"This town looks rather dull" I ventured to suggest, "is there any profitable business here?"

SOUR MASH IN AL'S DRUG STORE.

"No; there aint none now," he said sadly. "There used to be money in the drug store here, but Al Ricker ruined that, he was the druggist you know—hung himself a year ago this month. That's his store up on the Main street."

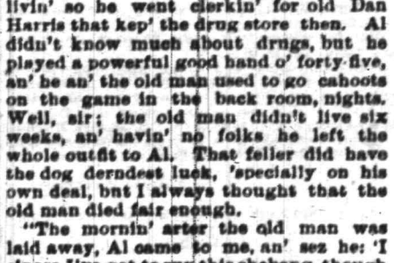
"Why don't somebody take Ricker's old shop and open it up, if there's so much money in drugs? I shouldn't mind doing it myself."

"Don't you do it young feller," he said, solemnly. "Thar ain't nothin' in it, an' I'll tell ye why. Ye see when Al Ricker struck this town 'bout six year ago he was obleeged to remain. He only had money enough to take him half way to the next town which is tother side 'o the bay, and old Cap'n Hellum wouldn't a carried him a boat's length beyond his fare if the water 'd been a hundred fathom deep where he'd had to get out. So Al stopped.

"He had to do something to make a livin' so he went clerkin' for old Dan Harris that kep' the drug store then. Al didn't know much about drugs, but he played a powerful good hand o' forty-five, an' he an' the old man used to go cahoots on the game in the back room, nights. Well, sir; the old man didn't live six weeks, an' havin' no folks he left the whole outfit to Al. That feller did have the dog derndest luck, 'specially on his own deal, but I always thought that the old man died fair enough.

"The mornin' arter the old man was laid away, Al came to me, an' sez he: 'I s'pose I've got to run this shebang, though I dunno no more about drugs than a cow!' An' it was a fact, he dind't know salts of senna from a stomach pump. But I told him it didn't make no difference what he sold so long as he looked out for the bottles that the old man had marked poison, an' kep' a good quality o' sour mash in the back room—an' Al was a good judge o' whiskey. I will say that for him, an' he never made a fuss about a feller's pourin' out a good thick drink. But Al was scared to have the drugs around, so he traded 'em all off with the doctor for the price of enough sugar to fill up the bottles that had solid stuff in 'em. The others he filled with Allen's General Restorer, a patent medicine that he bought of a drummer for 37½ cents a gallon. It was harmless stuff an' it came in nine different colors so that women that got tired o' takin' blue medicine year arter year could have red or yaller for a change. Customers that didn't like to pay much got the Restorer, an' others got the sour mash or perhaps a mixture. I used to find that the corn juice with a little blue Restorer made a very handsome remedy for almost anything.

"What with the sour mash an' the Restorer an' the forty-five Al did a rushin' business an' I'm bound to say that the general health o' the community was never better. So it went on for more'n four years, an' Al was layin' up money when, kind o' sudden like, he noticed a fallin' off in his trade. The Restorer sold as well as ever, but the back room wasn't so full nights. Some of his best customers were droppin' off. There wasn't no temperance revival goin' on nor anything o' that kind an' Al was puzzled. He thought perhaps they'd taken to goin' right home after prayer meetin' or the lodge, as he watched for some of 'em, but no; they came home just as late an' seemed to require as much of the sidewalk as ever.



THE WAY IT WAS WORKED.

"Then he knew that somebody must be in the business agin him.

"It took Al a long time to find out who it was. He kept asking people but o' course they wouldn't tell. At last he tracked Deacon Stevens one night and saw him go into Dosser's ship chandler's store. That settled the place, but it was a mystery how Dosser got the stuff into town. The law's very strict about bringing in any except for medicinal purposes, and there's just enough cold water cranks in town to seize any stuff that couldn't give an account of itself. It's pretty hard to smuggle whiskey in with rope or oakum or canvas, and that was about all that Dosser bought. Al might have stopped Dosser's business by puttin' the law and order people on to him, but he was afraid that would wake 'em up too much so he just lay low and watched.

"One day thar was a schooner came in and brought some freight for Dosser. The stuff was put out on the wharf and lay there over night. After it was dark Al went down there an' nosed around. Who should he see but Deacon Stevens pokin' around among some casks of white lead. There was a little moon and Al could watch the operation. Pretty soon the Deacon got out an augur and ran it into the cask a couple o' times. Then he got out a straw.

"'Jingo,' said Al, coming out from his hiding place, 'didn't you know white lead was pizen?'

"'Derned slow pizen, this is,' said the Deacon, 'or you an' I'd a been dead long ago.'

"That put Al onto the snap. He went home an' debated some time with himself whether he'd give Dosser away, but finally it seemed better not to do it. He allowed a better plan would be to ruin his business in some other way, an' by an' by he got up what he allowed was a first rate plan. He bided his time, an' by an' by, when Dosser was goin' to have another load o' stuff come Al telegraphed up to Boston an' had a case o' genuine white lead put in with the cargo.

"The vessel got in all right and the freight was shoved out on the wharf. By that time pretty near all of Al's best customers had heard of the little game that had been played by Stevens the night Al caught him, so the day Dosser's second vessel hove in sight there was probably more augurs bought in this town than there ever was before or will be again. The night came on dark. I don't mind tellin' you that I was the first man on the wharf. I had just got the cask up onto two single sawbucks, and was puttin' in my augur when somebody came along an' scared me away. Just in time, by jingo. Mysterious are the workings of Providence. I hid behind a post an' watched the proceedings. The man that had scared me was Stevens. He was always a lazybones, an' when he saw the cask up on the sawbucks he got a great scheme. He just bore his air hole in the top an' then lay down with his head under the cask an' bored straight up into the keg holdin' his mouth open. I saw a little of the stuff trickle out an' then the Deacon rolled away into the darkness mighty sudden.

"I wondered at his gettin' satisfied so soon. It did not go well with what I knew of him, but just then I saw another man coming so I supposed the Deacon was getting out of the way. It did not take the other fellow two seconds to tumble to the game and he got right down where the Deacon had been. I heard him say something wicked an' then he too rolled out o' sight. That must be mighty bad whiskey, I thought to myself.

"In half a minute there was another feller at it, an' for half or three-quarters of an hour they kept at it pretty steady, so that when I finally got a chance to come out the cask was empty. I tumbled over two or three men on my way up the wharf, but I supposed they'd sleep it off before mornin'. But by Jimmy Neddy, they never did sleep it off for when the morning dawned the best people in this town was scattered all over the wharf thick, I tell ye, and they were the deadest set o' men I ever experienced.

PASSING AROUND THE WHISKEY

"Well, it ruined Dosser, and Al had a few brief days o' triumph while his rival was bein' driven out o' town. Then he sot down one day and thought it all over and, as I said before, he hung himself."

"Remorse, I suppose, drove him to it," said I.

"Remorse!" echoed the stranger, "well I don't know much about remorse, but don't you see what the derned fool had done? He'd killed off nearly all his best customers. He might a' got 'em back from Dosser but the cold and clammy tomb is another matter. No, sir; he was ruined himself, and there's the moral of it. Young man, revenge is sweet but it takes a business head to steer it."

HOWARD FIELDING.

Celluloid Products.

Umbrella and cane handles, collars, cuffs and scores of other articles of convenience, utility and even elegance, manufactured from celluloid, are in daily use by large numbers of the people. The question is asked: "May they be safely used?"

Celluloid is made from gun cotton, the powerful and violent explosive compound. Gun cotton is made by saturating absorbent paper with a mixture of two parts of nitric acid and five parts of sulphuric acid. The cellulose of the paper, derived from the cellular tissue of the cotton in common use, is changed by the combination, and becomes gun cotton.

To make celluloid, the excess of acid is washed out by a free use of water, and by pressure carefully applied. After the removal of all uncombined acid it is reduced to a homogeneous, pulpy mass, strained until it becomes nearly dry, and is then mixed with about one-third of its weight of gum camphor. These materials are mixed as uniformly as possible by careful manipulation with wooden instruments, and then by grinding. The pulp which is turned out by grinding is spread out and reduced to slabs of various thicknesses, and rolled between steam-heated rollers, and then becomes moderately elastic in strips of medium thickness. In this form it is worked up into the various articles which are offered for sale and use.

He Did Attempt to Dissuade Them.

A Berlin Judge, the other day, addressing a locksmith who appeared as a witness, spoke as follows:

"I should have thought you would dissuade your workmen from going to law for such a trifle."

Witness—That's what I did. I said: "Children," said I, "the clerk at the lawyer's will take your coat, and the lawyer will strip off your shirt, and, as for the judge, why, man, he'll skin you alive!" You see, I talked sensibly to the folks like that, but it was all of no use!

Not the Sight He Wanted.

Girl (who has received orders to wake boarder very early so that he can enjoy the sight)—If you please, sir, if you now! want to see the sun rise you must get up.

Boarder (who has been sitting up late with a few friends)—Oh, bother the sun rise! Let me know when it sets!

Virginia Democrats in Convention.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 15.—The Democratic State Convention is in session here to nominate a Governor and other officers. Over a thousand delegates are in attendance. The candidates for Governor are P. W. McKinney, who seems thus far to have the inside track, Editor R. F. Beirne, Congressman C. T. O'Farrell, S. W. Venable and J. H. Tyler. The nominations will probably be made this afternoon.

New Haven Supports New York.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 15.—At an enthusiastic meeting last night of the Chamber of Commerce, at which Lieutenant-Governor Merwin presided, and speeches were made by Messrs. N. D. Sperry, H. G. Lewis, Joseph Sheldon and others, it was unanimously resolved to support the claims of New York city to the World's Fair of 1892.

A Generous Donation.

MALDEN, Mass., Aug. 15.—Hon. E. J. Converse has presented to Dr. John L. Sullivan, President of the Malden Medical Association $12,000 and a valuable lot of land off Vesta street, containing four and one half acres, for the erection of a hospital. It is proposed to erect a building to cost about $40,000.

An Old Iron Master Dead.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 15.—Judge John Irwin died yesterday, aged 81. He was one of the oldest iron masters in this vicinity. He was an Associate Judge of this county several years ago.

Another Embezzler Bagged.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Herbert N. Connington, bookeeper for Soley, Gay & Dow, bankers and brokers, has been arrested on the charge of having embezzled $5,000 from the firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Leave Marion.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 15.—Ex-President Cleveland and wife left Marion this afternoon for Fall River, where they will take the second boat for New York.

The Place She Wanted.

"Now," said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip, "let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. Are you the president or vice-president of this society?" "I want to be neither president nor vice-president," she answered. "I will be content with a subordinate position." "What is that?" "Treasurer."

MAY SAVE HER LIFE

New Evidence in Mrs. Maybrick's Favor Discovered.

BAD RECORD OF A WITNESS.

Mrs. Yopp, Who Testified Against the Doomed Woman, a Perjurer.

She Fled from This Country to Avoid Prosecution—Citizens of Portland, Me., Ask the State Department to Intercede—Home Secretary Matthews Considering the Case—Conflicting Opinions About Mr. Maybrick's Arsenic Habits.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—There is still a chance for Mrs. Maybrick. The lawyers who have been interested in her case, Messrs. Roe and Macklin of 156 Broadway, have received some information which, if it proves true, will undoubtedly have some influence on the opinions of the English authorities, and bring hope to Mrs. Maybrick and her friends.

Alfred Monck, a lawyer having an office at 1725 Notre Dame street, Montreal, sends a letter in which some remarkable facts are disclosed. He states that a Mrs. Yopp, answering the description of the Mrs. Yopp who was the chief witness against Mrs. Maybrick, had to leave Montreal about three years ago to escape the possibility of being indicted for perjury. At that time a man named Melvin Smith brought an action against his wife for separation. Mrs. Yopp was the chief witness for Smith, and gave very damaging evidence against the wife.

It was shown however, that Smith's mistress and the woman Yopp had, with Smith's aid, plotted a conspiracy to blacken Mrs. Smith's character.

The evidence was all knocked sky high, however, and Mrs. Smith's honor remained unblemished. Mrs. Yopp fled the country immediately afterward. She was a married woman about 40 years of age.

Another communication was from Dudley M. Holman, editor of an evening paper of Portland, Me. It stated that the residents of Portland were greatly excited over the sentence passed upon Mrs. Maybrick, she having once lived there and enjoyed an excellent character. He stated they were getting up a petition to Secretary Blaine, requesting him to interest himself in the case.

Considering Mrs. Maybrick's Case.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, is innundated with letters and telegrams urging him to one course or another in the Maybrick case. The study and consideration of the evidence given at the trial absorbs his time to the exclusion of all other business.

Conflicting Opinions.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 16.—Mr. Stewart, an analytical chemist of Glasgow, has written a letter stating as his deliberate opinion that James Maybrick died from the effects of his secret habit of arsenic drinking, the poison being taken as a desideratum. Mr. Stewart was prepared to testify at the trial of Mrs. Maybrick, and is the witness whose evidence the condemned woman declares was kept back.

The London "Lancet," the most noted of medical journals, prints a five-column review of the trial and comes to the conclusion that the verdict was warranted by the evidence.

Awarded to a Honesdale, Pa., Boy.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—John Boyle O'Reilly has awarded the Scranton "Truth's" prize of $100 to Homer Greene of Honesdale, Pa., for the words of an American sea song. There were over 200 competitors for the prize. Mr. Greene's song is entitled "The Banner of the Sea," and Mr. O'Reilly says it possesses the elements of an admirable national song. The publishers of "Truth" will now offer a prize of $100 to be competed for by composers desiring to set Mr. Greene's words to music.

The Situation in the Coke Region.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 16.—The few men working at J. W. Rainey's Moyer Works, have refused to work longer until Mr. Rainey signs the scale for the Paull and Fort Hill Works also. Mr. Rainey's 500 ovens at the three places are all idle. Robert Hogsett, owner of two plants near here, refuses to either pay the advance or sign the scale.

Call for Mass Meeting of Weavers.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 16.—The Weavers' Protective Association has called a mass meeting of weavers for to-morrow afternoon to consider the matter of an appeal for an advance of wages from the weavers as a body outside of any association.

Mr. Cleveland in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland arrived in this city to-day from Fall River, Mass. They were received by a large number of friends.

BARON PARDONNET SKIPS.

He Didn't Appear Against the Long Branch Gamblers.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 16.—Baron de Pardonnet did not show up at the hearing of Messrs. Marks & Jolly, the well-known gamblers, before Justice Vandorn, nor did he keep an appointment he had with the Justice. As the Baron's counsel was also absent Justice Vandorn dismissed the complaints with some disgust.

Baron de Pardonnet has left the West End Hotel, taking his very scanty luggage and leaving his very comfortable bill for board, which is nearly $500.

People are beginning to question now whether the Baron lost the money which he said he did. He is in Philadelphia at present.

Must Have the Firemen.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—At a meeting of citizens of Watertown the Hon. R. P. Flower subscribed $1,000 for the entertainment of the State Firemen's Convention here in 1890, and it was decided to raise $5,000 in all for this purpose. A strong committee of citizens, headed by Mr. Flower, will go to Plattsburg next week to invite the convention.

Result of a Family Quarrel.

RAHWAY, N. J., Aug. 16.—J. W. Ackerman of this place shot and probably fatally wounded his son-in-law, J. H. Thoop. The shooting was the result of a family quarrel of long standing over the disposition of $7,000 which Ackerman claims Thorp defrauded him of. Ackerman was locked up to await the result of Thorp's injuries.

Used the Elixir and Died.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 16.—George Robertson, of Mt. Cambel, who had been given up by the physicians who had treated him for chronic diseases and for inflammation of the bowels, was given the Brown-Sequard injection Tuesday, while unconscious. It aroused him to consciousness and he felt better, but yesterday evening he died.

A Reception to Secretary Tracy.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 16.—An informal reception was given Secretary Tracy and his daughter, Mrs. Wilmerding, on board the Despatch last night, about fifty personal friends being present. Secretary Blaine, accompanied by his daughter Harriet, Congressman Morse and Mrs. Lieutenant Mason assisted in receiving.

Advance in Bessemer Pig Iron.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—The announcement was made to-day of an advance in Bessemer pig iron from $15.50 @$16.00 to $16.50@$17.00 per ton. The advance was made in view of a prospective advance in coke and freight rates. The trade is more encouraging than for months.

Killed While Woodchuck Hunting.

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 16.—Otto Peterson was lying in the bushes near here last night watching for woodchuck when Ed. Simmons came along, and, seeing Peterson's head in the brush, fired at it thinking it was a woodchuck. The ball passed through Peterson's head, killing him instantly. Simmons surrendered himself, but was released.

Death of Prof. Loomis.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16.—Elias Loomis, LL. D., Munson Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy at Yale University, died at the New Haven Hospital late yesterday afternoon. He had been connected with the University for thirty years.

Mrs. Harrison Starts for New York.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Harrison left here to-day at 12:30 for New York via the Fall River line. Mrs. Harrison expressed herself as much pleased with her visit here, especially because she has found welcome retirement.

Dragged in the Water by a Dog.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Last night George Dayman, aged 12 years, led his dog to the Hydraulic Canal to give him a swim. The dog dragged the boy in and he was drowned. The body was recovered.

An Extra Session of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The impression still prevails that an extra session of Congress will be called, and that it will probably open in October. Candidates for the various offices of the House are developing with great rapidity, though the Speakership probably lies between Reed and McKinley.

Turner Won in Eight Rounds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 16.—The fight to a finish, Queensberry rules, for a purse of $800 between Charles Turner (colored) of Stockton, Cal., and Paddy Gorman, of Australia, was won by Turner in eight rounds.

AFTER JUDGE FIELD

A Warrant for His Arrest Has Been Issued.

THE JUDGE STILL UNDER GUARD

No Excitement Over the Funeral of the Murdered Man.

The Coroner's Inquest Hold Deputy Marshal Nagle for Trial—Excitement Still at Fever Heat Over the Shooting—It is Believed that When Mrs. Terry Threw Herself on Her Husband's Dead Body She Took a Weapon from Him.

STOCKTON, Cal., Aug. 16.—No new facts were developed at the coroner's inquest over ex-Judge Terry's body. A number of witnesses were examined, the proprietor of the railroad hotel at Lathrop among them. The coroner's jury then brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death from the effects of gunshot wounds inflicted by David Nagle at Lathrop.

There was no excitement over the funeral of Judge Terry, which took place this afternoon.

A Warrant for Justice Field.

STOCKTON, Cal., Aug. 16.—A warrant was issued for the arrest of Justice Stephen J. Field, on complaint of Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry, who charges him with complicity in the killing of her husband.

Sheriff Cunningham left here for San Francisco to arrest Justice Field. The attorneys who have been engaged to conduct the defense of Deputy Marshal Nagle, who shot Terry, promised that Justice Field would appear when required, but Mrs. Terry's complaint was made against both.

Still Talking About the Shooting.

LATHROP, Cal., Aug. 16.—Excitement over the shooting of ex-Judge David S. Terry by United States Marshal Nagle does not decrease a jot as the hours after the tragedy go by.

The story of the shooting is being told and retold all the country around, and with it are recalled the legends of the dead Terry's coolness and desperation, as evinced at the time of his duel with Senator Broderick in 1859.

Almost the last expression on the face of the ex-Judge was one of incarnate rage, which Justice Field says was positively terrifying.

Justice Field at Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—Justice Field has resumed his judicial duties. He is still under the protection of a deputy marshall, as is also Judge Sawyer.

It is the theory of those about the United States Marshal's office that Mrs. Terry, when she threw herself on her husband's body, took a weapon from him, for, when the body was searched, no weapon was found.

No course has been outlined by the friends of Justice Field as to the action he will take when arrested.

SULLIVAN'S TRIAL.

A Verdict from the Jury Looked for This Evening.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 16.—After many moves and counter moves between the State and the defendant, the Sullivan case ripened into an actual trial.

Several hours were spent in procuring a jury, which was obtained from the regular panel of twenty-four jurors and eighteen talesmen.

Sullivan upon formal arraignment, standing erect before the bar of the court, in a firm voice pleaded not guilty to each charge in the indictment. The State then proceeded to examine witnesses to establish the allegations of the indictment. They examined six witnesses. None were introduced by the defendants.

It is claimed that the State had failed to show a technical prize fight to have taken place, except by circumstantial evidence, it not being clearly shown that any money or other valuable thing was fought for.

The jurymen were locked up in the court room last night.

The Judge delivered his charge about noon and it is expected that a verdict will be rendered this evening.

Bets are being made that Sullivan will be acquitted.

Kilrain Released on Bail.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16.—A writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Jake Kilrain was sued out before Chief Justice Harlan, and Kilrain was released on $2,000 bail for a hearing on Thursday, the 22d inst. The man sent by Gov. Lowry is expected here to-night, and will have to wait a week here before he can take Kilrain South.

Dead at the Age of 104.

DECKERTOWN, N. J., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Rebecca Sidnor, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Richard Sutton, in this town, yesterday, at the age of 104 years. She was born on January 3, 1785, in Wiretown, Warren county, N. J., and was the mother of thirteen children, five of whom survive her. Her death was caused by a fall received last Sunday.

—The Jersey City Journal says: "Master Mechanic C. G. Williams, of the New Jersey Division of the Central Railroad, has ninety-seven locomotives under his care. About twenty of these are shifting engines used in the yards, and the remainder are first-class freight and passenger engines. They receive more care and attention in the big round house at Communipaw than many children get from their natural guardians. But then a good locomotive costs a lot of money, whil; children—well, they come cheaper.

HIS JUST DESERTS.

A South Plainfield Milkman Likely to Come to Grief.

The audacious and persistent attempts of a South Plainfield milkman who, by the way, is a married man, to wrong a young girl who is at present keeping house for her brother-in-law in this city while the latter's wife is away on a visit, has at last come to the notice of THE PRESS, with the request that if thoroughly ventilate the matter. To save the man's family the humiliation of being brought into public notice, we withhold all the names of those concerned, until such time as they may be subpœnaed to appear in court.

The girl above referred to is also a resident of South Plainfield, and the story is told to the effect that about two weeks ago, while she was returning home from a grocery store in that place, the milkman grasped her and made insulting proposals, which she indignantly repulsed. A few days ago the girl came to this city, and on Tuesday morning the fellow called at the house where she was stopping and requested to be shown through the house, at the same time using disrespectful language.

The girl became frightened and left the house, and in a short time the man went away. Yesterday morning he called again, and it is alleged he took hold of the girl again, which she resented, and escaped by running through the kitchen and out into the door yard. Being unable to accomplish his design, the man left, only to return in the afternoon, but this time he was refused admission to the house. On the two former occasions he walked into the house without even knocking.

As before stated the fellow has only escaped arrest and imprisonment on account of his family, but if he continues in his advances toward the girl, his arrest will shortly follow.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. D. G. Atwood has returned from a month's trip in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Kissam have returned from Jock's Lake.

Mr. Howard Leggett is back from his vacation at Portland, Me.

Mrs. Mooney, and the Misses Mooney, are at the Madison House, Asbury Park.

Miss Minnie Force and Miss S. Van Winkle, have returned from Philadelphia.

Miss Freeman, of New York, is the guest of Miss Whitman, of East Front street.

Mr. Harry VanEmburgh, of East Second street, is spending a week at Asbury.

The Rev. Dr. Lewis is home, having arrived in New York yesterday, on the City of Rome.

Miss Anna A. Moore, of New street, is making a two weeks' visit with relatives at Long Branch.

Mr. Fred Everitt, of Orange, N. J., is visiting his aunt, Mrs. P. G. Kline, of Summit avenue.

The Misses Hasbrouck, of East Fifth street, have gone to Asbury Park, where they are stopping at the Madison House.

Messrs VanDeventer & Co., the carpet manufacturers of this city, were this week granted a patent for a trademark on ingrain carpets.

Mr. "Ed." Apgar, the courteous clerk at the City Hotel, will spend next week at Little Washington, Lake Hopatcong and in that vicinity.

The funeral of Jesse Dayton, whose death from lockjaw was exclusively told in yesterday's PRESS, will be held at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the New Brooklyn Baptist church.

The members of the W. C. T. U., tendered a reception to Mr. Andrew Carpenter, their choir leader, at their headquarters on West Front street, last evening. Singing, recitations and refreshments made up the programme for the evening.

The United States Hotel at Easton, Mr. "Abe" Kershaw, proprietor, was partly destroyed by fire at 10:30 o'clock last evening, and among the guests who were driven from the hotel was Mrs. E. Meader, the Central Railroad agent at Evona.

Mr. James Sheeran of Easton whose twelve-year-old son was buried from St. Mary's church in this city on Wednesday morning, is lying sick at Phoenixville, Pa., and was unable to attend the funeral. The body was interred in St. Bernard's cemetery, Easton.

It is with extreme sorrow that we today record the death of Miss Marion Tingley, of 17 Orchard place, which occurred at Springdale, yesterday, after a lingering illness from consumption. She was but nineteen years old, but had endeared herself to a large circle of friends and acquaintances who will all mourn her loss. The funeral will take place from the house on Sunday at 2 P. M.

The Young Crescents Still Winning

The Young Crescents of this city, defeated the Chatham nine of North Plainfield, this morning, on the Crescent grounds. C. Colthar of the Young Crescents pitched a good game. The catching of M. Hefferen was also first-class.

The features of the game were the batting of E. Sofield and T. Duffy, the catching of J. Sutphen and the running catches of C. and M. Sutphen. The battery for the Young Crescents was, C. Colthar and M. Hefferen; for the Chathams, F. Pope and C. Cumpton. Umpire, James McMurray. Scorer, Ed. Eaton. Time of game, 2:10. Score by innings:

Young Crescents...0 3 2 2 1 2 4 * *—14
Chathams.....3 0 0 0 0 4 2 1 1—11

BASE BALL.

To-morrow's Game and the Contesting Nine.

The game to-morrow between the Crescent team and the "Buttermilks" of New York, should be an interesting one. The home nine will be slightly changed in its make up, and will probably consist of the following:

Gately, the mute, will pitch, and Hayden, the mute, will be behind the bat. Bowman will play first base: Condon, short stop; Lee, second; Cadmus, third; McLoughlin, left field, Hull, centre field, and McMurray, right field.

The batting order and positions of the visiting club to-morrow, are to be as follows: Cribbins, 2d base; Slocum, 1st base; Derry, 3d base; Bach, left field; Cunningham, or Meyers, pitcher; Moore, centre field; Cromble, right field; Morris, catcher; Donohue, short stop.

Admission prices will remain the same as last Saturday. The red season tickets will admit the owner to any of the grand stands and all of the privileges of the grounds.

Vacation Days.

What all of the school boys and school girls contrive to do to wile away the days of vacation is a question that can scarcely be answered by parents themselves. Of course many are away from the city for a portion if not all the time, and time does not drag so heavily on their hands as on those who remain. Boys can spend a great deal of their time in playing ball, which has a tendency to develop their muscles if it does nothing else. They make things lively for the clothier and shoemaker, at all events. They cannot go fishing all of the time, the circus doesn't come to town every day, and what are they to do? A few of them find employment, and in this way earn a little. Trips to the country are taken after wild flowers, apple orchards are inspected, and wagons are climbed into. With many swimming is an every day pastime, and books are read by a few.

The girls find vacation days dragging heavily on their hands, too. They cannot all go out of the city, although it would be a good thing for many of them if they could spend a few days at the seashore or in the country. Some no doubt assist in household duties, thereby fitting themselves for the coming days. Very few school books have been pored over since the days of vacation began, nor is there need that it should be so. The boys and the girls are entitled to all the relaxation and exercise they can secure. It will not be many weeks before studies will be resumed, and then good-bye to vacation days until the holidays.—Ex.

Bowling Match.

The last of the series of bowling contests between the five members of Singing section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein and a like team from the Turners, took place on the Society's alley, Wednesday evening, and was won by the former team, making three out of the five games which the singers have won.

The gold medal offered as a prize by Mr. Hugo Weigmann for the member making the highest score of the series, was awarded to Mr. Charles Dresselt of the Singing Section, he having scored 517 points in the three games The medal was presented by the donor, who also invited the players to a collation on Tuesday evening next.

Mr. Henry Haurand, on behalf of the Turners, congratulated Mr. Dresselt for his success in securing the prize, and also thanked Mr. Weigman for presenting it.

President French's Resignation Filed.

The Reform Club had a fully attended and very enthusiastic meeting last evening. The resignation of President French was received through the Executive Committee, and, after due consideration, it was placed on file.

Remarks for the good of the club being in order brought forth interesting responses from a number, including several ladies. At the close of the meeting seven persons stepped forward and affixed their signatures to the pledge roll of total abstinence.

Rural Publishers Made Happy.

The Commission to designate the newspapers to publish the laws of the last legislative session concluded its labors at Trenton, yesterday, to the great joy of many rural publishers who only keep alive off the State pap, and who had begun to fear that no papers would be designated this year, owing to the State's straitened financial condition. The list includes about the same papers as last year. The rate paid is 40 cents a folio, and the total outlay will be about $70,000.

—Women have got 65 per cent. of the 329,000 divorces granted in the last 20 years.

—To-morrow, Saturday, will be another of the salt water days at Boynton Beach and Florida Grove.

—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will hold another meeting at Elizabeth on Tuesday, the 27th instant.

—One of the best ball games of the season will be that of to-morrow, between the Crescents of this city, and the Buttermilks of New York city.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

THE ENEMY'S VIEW.

They Claim the West Ends Could Have Shut the Crescents Out.

(From the Somerville Gazette.)

On Saturday the West End Club played the long delayed and looked-forward-to game with the Plainfield Crescents at Plainfield. The game was the most exciting ever played by either club, and the 2,500 spectators did not permit the excitement to wane in the least. Up to the eighth inning neither side scored, but in that inning the West Ends got three men on bases with one man out. Williams hit a ball to short-stop who threw to the plate to cut off the run, but the catcher let the ball through his hands and become blocked, and two more runs came in. The Crescents were given a run in their half of that inning by two unfair decisions of Cadmus, that were, without doubt, intentionally unfair. Cadmus, a brother of the umpire, hit a ball in the crowd back of first base that was foul by twenty feet, but the umpire called it fair and coached the player around. The ball was secured and thrown to third and the runner touched out, but the umpire declared it safe. But for these decisions the Crescents would have been shut out, as in the next inning with two men out, and a man on third, Harkins sent his catcher back to the backstop and let the runner cross the plate.

WRECK ON THE CENTRAL.

An Engine and Eighteen Cars Thrown Down an Embankment at Glen Gardner.

A bad wreck occurred on the New Jersey Central Railroad at Glen Gardner, late last evening, which resulted in the total destruction of a locomotive and eighteen loaded coal cars. At about ten o'clock engine No. 118, attached to a heavy coal train, bound East, ran off an open switch and down a high embankment. The engineer and fireman only saved their lives by jumping, but two tramps who were stealing rides, were seriously injured.

Travel over the road at that point was blocked until about six o'clock this morning. The loss to the railroad company will aggregate several thousand dollars.

New Jersey's State Fair.

The New Jersey State fair at Waverly will be inaugurated September 16. Every preparation has been made by the society to insure success to the thirty-first annual exhibition, and it is expected that with the close of the fair September 20, the record will prove one of which the State and society will be proud. The rules governing the fair and character of the exhibits will be similar to those of last year. Over $20,000 will be distributed in prizes. All premiums, except for trotting events, will be awarded October 10. Speed prizes will be awarded at the close of the race. As on former occasions, the speed prizes will prove one of the most interesting features of the general programme. Monday, the 16th, will be devoted to the reception of exhibits. At 9 P. M., it is announced everything will be in "apple pie" order. "Governor's Day" will occur Tuesday, when Gov. Green and the State officials will be present.

Robbed of Their Sleep.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I would like to call the attention of the police, through the columns of THE PRESS, to the disgraceful brawls and fights which are of nightly occurrence in the vicinity of the "Boulevard."

One of these fights occurred last night, about 12 o'clock, near the T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street. A ring was formed by the friends and backers of the two contestants, and a regular slugging match took place. The encouraging cries for the fighters and foul oaths by the crowd in attendance made night hideous and awakened people from their slumber some distance from the scene.

Cannot this evil be remedied?

PEACEFUL CITIZEN.

Plainfield, Aug. 15, 1889.

Prison Contracts Awarded.

The Board of State Prison Inspectors held a meeting at Trenton on Wednesday, and awarded the following contracts: To Rothchilds & Co., New York, 200 convicts for the manufacture of shirts and pants; to the Consolidated Brush and Manufacturing company of Philadelphia, 125 convicts for the manufacture of brushes; to John B. Iredell of Philadelphia, 100 convicts for the manufacture of shoes.

These contracts, together with those awarded some time ago, will take about 625 convicts to fill. The contracts are all made for four years, and are subject to the approval of the Governor.

Want to Do Like Plainfield.

The Elizabeth Herald says: "What has been done for Plainfield by cheap homes for the workingmen can be done in Elizabeth, and the only wonder to us is that, having so many wealthy land-owners among us, that none have thus far seen sufficiently into the future as to invest in what we feel assured will in the immediate present be a very profitable investment."

General Drake's Mother Drops Dead.

Mrs. Eunice Drake, mother of General Drake of the Veteran Zouaves, dropped dead yesterday of heart disease at her daughter's home in Eliabethport. Mrs. Drake was 73 years of age.

ROBBED BY TRAMPS.

A Young Man Who Says He Came From Plainfield, Attacked at Roselle.

(From the Elizabeth Herald.)

Wednesday evening a young man evidently a Polish Jew, aged about sixteen years, was attacked and robbed at Roselle by five tramps, four white men and one negro. He at once came to this city and informed the police of the outrage, and word was sent to Roselle asking that a lookout be kept for the miscreants. Shortly before midnight Chief Austin received word that the tramps were in Roselle and for him to come and take them.

The Chief believing from the tone of the message received that the men were in custody or definitely located, in company with five officers left for Roselle on the 12.15 train, but on his arrival was informed that the fellows he was in quest of had been seen in a certain locality and were likely there yet.

Chief Austin and his men at once went to the location spoken of, but were unable to find the tramps and at once started for home, feeling thoroughly disgusted and in anything but in a dry condition.

Thursday morning the young man informed Justice Hetfield that he had been up to a day or two ago employed by a Mr. Creger of Plainfield, but as that gentleman had no further work for him he had left his employ in quest of a situation. On his journey he met the five tramps and accompanied them to Roselle. Wednesday night two of his tramp companions, a white man and a negro, attacked him, the negro holding him while the white fellow relieved him of his coat, vest, hat and $4 in money, every cent he possessed.

He said that he had only recently paid $10 for the coat, having bought it in Plainfield. When asked how he came to go by the same name as that of his late employer he said it was because his proper name was very hard to pronounce in English and Mr. Creger had told him to adopt his, which he did. When asked as to what he intended to do, and where he expected to go, he replied that he would at once look for a situation, as he was a baker by trade.

Justice Hetfield gave him a half dollar and told him to get something to eat and see if he could find employment among some of the bakers in the city.

HEAVY SEAS.

Great Damage at Asbury Park.

One of the heaviest seas ever known in Asbury Park in the Summer season thundered on the coast yesterday. It resulted undoubtedly from the storm of the previous night. All night and during the greater part of the day the waves beat on the coast with disastrous effect. The sand to a depth of twelve feet was cut out of the beach at the foot of Asbury avenue, leaving the piles of the board walk largely exposed. The great iron gate, weighing 1,100 pounds, which furnishes the motive power at the Bond Wave Power Company's pier, was bent double and partially broken by the waves.

A wave of unusual force seized and swept out into the surf young L. C. Craig, of Detroit, Mich., who was standing too near the beach. The undertow carried him violently further into the surf, where he was pounded unmercifully by the water in the sight of thousands of people on the plaza. The lifeboat was launched, but was hurled against the piles of the pavilion and dashed to splinters. Several strangers plunged into the water, but were unable to cope with the waves, and themselves escaped with difficulty. Bathing Masters Slocum, Clayton and Kittle labored fully half an hour before they were able to rescue the lad.

Late yesterday afternoon Charles E. Schwartz, who came on an excursion from Philadelphia, was knocked down by the waves. An attack of heart trouble followed, and he is now lying seriously ill at the Jackson House.

Wandered Away to His Death.

A body was found floating in the Rahway river at Cranford, Wednesday night, and yesterday was identified as that of James McManus, of Elizabeth, who wandered away from home last Friday when suffering from a severe attack of typhoid malaria which affected his mind. Mc Manus was 31 years of age and was highly respected. He was a member of the Young Men's Catholic Literary Society.

When the news of his death reached his family his wife, to whom he had been married ten months and who was in delicate health, was completely prostrated. Great sympathy is felt for the poor mother, whose condition is critical. The infant, a fine boy, is doing as well as could be expected.

Lost Both Legs.

Michael Gallagher, aged 23 years, a brakeman in the employ of the Central railroad, was the victim of an accident Wednesday night while engaged at his duties at Bergen Point.

Gallagher was riding on the front of the locomotive as it was running on a coal siding. It had been raining, the step was slippery, and it is supposed Gallagher slipped off. He fell on the track and the train passed over him, mangling both legs at the ankle. The injured man was taken to the Elizabeth Hospital.

FATAL LIGHTNING.

Great Loss of Life and Property in the Missouri Valley.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—The recent storm which passed over the Missouri Valley was the most disastrous experienced in this section.

Thirty persons were killed by lightning and the damage in animals killed, and ruined crops will reach over half a million dollars. This, of course, includes the damage to railroads. Among those killed were a son of H. H. Silver of Cortland, Neb.; Geo. Warner and George Richardson of Dawson, Neb.; E. Winkler of Winthrop, Mo.; H. Hunter of Hamlin, Kansas and Fred. Case of Olathe, Kansas.

Reports from other towns state that there were fatalities, but as yet give few particulars.

The storm extended over a considerable part of Kansas and Nebraska. St. Joseph, Hiawatha, Atchison, Leavenworth, and as far west as Pawnee City, report damage by water, hail and lightning.

William Curran, a huckster, 60 years old, was drowned in a swollen stream near Ford's Branch Monday night and his body was found.

Riot Between Negroes and Italians.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 16.—A riot occurred at Petersburg between a gang of Italian railroad laborers and a gang of newly-arrived negro laborers. The negroes armed themselves with revolvers, clubs and stones. In the melee one of the Italians was shot dead, another had his head split open with a stone and several others were seriously hurt. The Italians were driven out of the town.

The Foresters Separate from England.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 16.—The Subsidiary High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters has voted to sever all connection with the High Court of England and organize as an American High Court. The differences arose over the admission of colored men to the order, the English High Court insisting on it and the Americans objecting.

Snow Storm in Pennsylvania.

GREENSBUSG, Pa., Aug. 16.—The vicinity of Mammoth, this county, was visited by a snow storm yesterday. The white flakes fell until the ground was completely covered.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It is now positively asserted that the Emperor William will not go to Spain.

A cyclone 200 feet wide by a mile and a half long struck Russell, Ill., yesterday.

The Republicans of Iowa nominated J. G. Hutchinson for Governor on the 25th ballot.

The first Mohamedan mosque ever built in England, has just been completed in London.

An engine which was being repaired at Charlotteville, Va., exploded, killing two men and injuring several others.

Alexander Kennedy, who is wanted in Chicago for shooting a man named Quinlan, surrendered himself in Indianapolis.

The Europeans at Zanzibar are much alarmed lest the Mussulmans shall become riotous during the Moslem New Year festivities.

A. G. Stone shot and probably fatally wounded Dr. Hitchcock at Comanch, Iowa. Both influential men. No cause known for the act.

H. J. Flentje, cashier of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company at Winona, Minn., has disappeared. He is short in his accounts.

During the floods at Salt Creek, Neb., a baby was born while the water was within a couple of feet of the mother's bed. The water is now receding.

Ollie Smith fatally shot John Gallagher at Chicago last night. The men were heavy weights and matched to fight Saturday. No cause for the shooting is given.

A six-year-old daughter of Jacob Mann, who runs a hotel at Hidesville, L. I., drank half a pint of whisky yesterday and died within two hours after the dose.

The Republican City Convention of Richmond, Va., adopted a resolution recommending the State Convention to be held next Thursday, to nominate General Mahone for Governor.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as sometimes we are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

PARNELL'S LETTERS

Are They Opened by the English Government?

MR. SEXTON MAKES THE CHARGE.

Home Secretary Matthews Denies Tampering With the Irish Leader's Mail.

An Official Inquiry Into the Matter Now Being Made—Sounding the English Government Regarding Boulanger's Extradition—Honors Asked for Columbus—King Ludwig's Prayer-Book is Sold for a Big Sum.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Thomas Sexton, Member for West Belfast, stated that it had been told him that the Home Office had authorized the postal officials to open all letters which came from America addressed to Mr. Parnell by his mother. He asked if this was correct, and also if the Home Office had directed the postal officials to open and examine the letter sent to him (Sexton) as Mayor of Dublin, by President Harrison.

Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, stated very emphatically that he had not authorized the opening of any of the letters to which Mr. Sexton referred, nor, said he, was there the slightest ground for believing that President Harrison's letter to the Mayor of Dublin had been opened by anyone connected with the Postoffice department. If it was opened at all, before it reached the hands of Mr. Sexton, it was done without the knowledge of the Home Office.

Regarding the surreptitious opening of letters from America addressed to Mr. Parnell, the Home Office was likewise without any information on the subject. Mr. Matthews could only say that the inquiry as to the alleged tampering with President Harrison's communication to Mr. Sexton was progressing.

BOULANGER'S EXTRADITION.

A Report that the French Ambassador is to Sound Lord Salisbury.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—A report is current that the French Government has instructed M. Waddington, the Ambassador of France, to sound Lord Salisbury as to how a demand for the extradition of Gen. Boulanger and his friends, condemned by the High Court of Justice, would be received by Her Majesty's Government.

This report revives the rumor of a few days ago that in case of his extradition being demanded Boulanger would sail for New York.

The Pope Asked to Title Columbus.

MADRID, Aug. 16.—The archbishops, bishops and patriarchs of Spain, to the number of 800, have sent a petition to the Pope praying that he confer upon Christopher Columbus the title of Venerable prior to the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of his discovery of America.

A Costly Prayer-Book.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The British Museum has purchased the prayer-book of the late King Ludwig, of Bavaria, paying therefor the sum of 37,000 marks.

Russell Harrison's Request Refused.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Counsel for Russell B. Harrison made an application before Judge Ingraham in Supreme Court Chambers in the matter of the libel suit of Col. Schuyler Crosby against Mr. Harrison. The application was a request to be permitted to examine Crosby before trial and Judge Ingraham denied it. The request involved questions in detail of the Colonel's private life and financial condition. Crosby's suit is for $100,000 on account of an article in the Western paper of the President's son.

Lynched a Saloon-Keeper.

ROSLYN, Wyo., Aug. 16.—Fred Loshmen, a saloon-keeper, shot Thomas F. Thomas last night because the latter owed him $2. Loshman asked him for it, but Thomas said that he did not have it. Then Loshman fired. An angry crowd took Loshman from the jail and lynched him, hanging him to a beam in the engine house, 150 yards from the jail. Loshman was a hard character.

Big Order for Freight Cars.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to order 1,000 more freight cars, making in all 6,000 cars. The reason of this large order, it was stated by a prominent official, is that President Roberts is fully awake to the necessity of having more available rolling stock, and not to have the shippers complaining of the want of cars.

Homeward Bound.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The President arrived here this forenoon and immediately left for Washington. He is expected there at 5 o'clock. To-morrow afternoon he will start for Deer Park, where he will stay a short time before going to Indianapolis to lay the corner stone of a soldiers' monument.

Burned to Death in Her Home.

HOLLEY, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The residence of Patrick Sweeney, in East Holley, was burned yesterday. Mrs. Sweeney was burned with the building. It is believed a lamp in Mrs. Sweeney's room exploded, causing the fire. Her charred remains were recovered.

Pittsburg's Breweries Captured.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—It has just been learned that the agent of the English syndicate has secured control of all the large breweries in this city.

President Gibson Fails.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 16.—Montgomery S. Gibson, of the Preble and Ottawa Hotels, has failed. He is the president of the Hotelmen's Association.

DIVIDING THE FUNDS.

A Plan Agreed Upon for Distributing Money to the Johnstown Sufferers.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16.—The subcommittee of the flood relief committee concluded their conference with the local committees to-day and agreed upon a report which provides for the distribution of $1,149,614 to all of the classes as rated by the Board of Inquiry.

The first three classes are to be paid in full respectively $1,000, $900 and $500 each, while the others are to get 30, 22 and 15 per cent. of their losses.

If, after a re-adjustment, the calculation of the committee holds out there will yet remain $600,000 to distribute, which will require another distribution, unless it should be determined to give the amount to the eighteen counties that suffered by the flood in the eastern part of the State.

RELATIONS BADLY MIXED.

A Jersey Marriage Which Makes Two Men Their Daughter's Stepsons.

EATONTOWN, N. J., Aug 15.—Rev. Dr. Franklin, of Shrewsbury, performed a marriage which mixes up relations pretty badly. The contracting parties were Miss Ella Clayton and Albert Phillips. The groom is 56 years old, and the bride a few days short of 14 years. A few years ago Cyrenius Clayton, the father of the bride, who was a widower, married a daughter of Mr. Phillips.

By the marriage of Mr. Clayton's daughter to the father of his wife, Ella becomes her father's stepmother-in-law. Mr. Philip's daughter, who married Mr. Clayton a few years ago, also becomes her father's stepmother-in-law.

Each of the men is the father-in-law of the other, and each of the women is the stepmother of the other. Each man becomes his daughter's stepson. There are a great many other complicated relationships arising from this marriage, and when children are born to either couple the relationship will become four times as complicated. An Eatontown clergyman could not be induced to perform the ceremony.

STORMS ON THE JERSEY COAST.

Long Branch, Ocean Beach and Asbury Park Flooded on All Sides.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 16.—The storm of yesterday washed the streets here badly. The surface water rushed in torrents down the bluff, cutting gaps in several places.

At Ocean Beach Sylvan Lake overflowed its banks and flooded the avenues on all sides.

At Asbury Park the storm was the heaviest electrical one that ever visited that section. The rain fell in torrents and the water backed up into the houses west of the railroad to the depth of six feet. Part of the railroad embankment was undermined. Fences and small buildings were swept away and considerable other damage was done.

LOADED FOR ANTELOPE.

How to Get Within Gun Shot of the Game.

The Best Rifle for Antelope Hunting. They Are Hard to Kill—A Few Well Selected Antelope Yarns. The Game Thinned Out.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

As an old plainsman once said to me, "If you are going to hunt antelope much, go and buy a lead mine first," and my own experience would almost warrant following his advice. They will carry off more lead and not seem to feel it, than any other animal that I know of. Here is an instance of what a tremendous amount of lead they can carry. One day a neighboring ranchman and myself were riding home from the stage station, where we had been for our mail. As we got to the top of a little hill we saw a bunch of six antelope just ahead of us. I wanted some fresh meat at the ranch, so pulled my six-shooter and fired at the leader, a big buck. The ball (a 44 calibre Colt's) struck him in the right shoulder, breaking the bone and rendering that leg useless. He gave a

SNEAKING UP TO THE GAME.

spring, and turning round started off. Just then a ball from my companion's rifle struck him in the left hind leg, breaking it just above the hock; and another from my pistol lodged in his side. Notwithstanding all this, he ran for nearly a quarter of a mile before dropping. When we came up to him it took another shot to end his sufferings. Then I dressed it and tied it behind my saddle, and we had antelope steak for a week after. The meat of the antelope when properly cooked, is one of the best dishes ever put on a table. Tender, juicy, and with just enough of "wild taste" to give it a flavor, it is far ahead of beef or any domestic meat. Visit almost any ranch in the Western country, and hanging to the meat pole you will see the whole or quarter of an antelope. At meal time you will get a piece of it, cooked in a style peculiar to the country; and after you have got back to civilization again, you will wish many times for a piece of properly cooked antelope steak. The fall of the year is the best time to hunt antelope, as they have been feeding on the nutritious grasses during the summer, and are fat and in good condition. As to weapons it is hard to choose any particular kind. Fancy has a great deal to with the matter. I prefer for all around use, the 40 70 Winchester repeating rifle, while some use a Martini of the same calibre, still others use telescope rifles of different makes, and some old hunters use an old battered single-shot Pacific Ballard and it is due to the latter to say that they generally "git thar," when it comes to bringing down game at long range. I came across an old fellow in a greasy buckskin suit, one day, who was hunting for the market. He would kill and dress enough to load two wagons, then take them to Cheyenne or Denver and dispose of the whole lot to the commission men or butchers. He was just going out for some game a short distance away, so I went with him. He had a single-shot "Sharp's" rifle, 40 bore, and a telescope attachment on the barrel. The advantage of the telescope is that it brings the game near to your eye, and by sighting your game through it, and bringing the hair sights on the end, to bear in the proper place, you are sure of your game almost every time. Arriving at the foot of a small slope above which was a flat plain, we dismounted, and crawled to the top. Peering over the edge we saw a bunch of seventeen antelope feeding. The old fellow laid flat, poked his rifle over the edge of the hill, squinted through the telescope and fired. A big buck sprang into the air and fell dead. The others seemed frightened and disturbed, but not seeing us or anything to run from, presently stood still. Another shot, and a doe, after a run of a few rods, dropped down. The herd were as badly rattled as before. A shot, a death, an hysterical running about for a little time, but seeing nothing they soon quieted down. The old hunter kept squinting and shooting, till seven antelope lay on the ground. Then the remainder seemed to locate us, and in an instant they were off across the prairie, far beyond the reach of bullets. Another way of hunting antelope (which I now look upon with disfavor,) was practiced by a friend of mine once—and only once. He came from Boston to visit me in my Western home and was very anxious to shoot an antelope as he wanted the head to take back to Massachusetts. One day he rushed in saying there was a big buck feeding alone about half a mile from the house. I gave him my Winchester, and filling "the magazine," he hurried away on foot. He had never shot anything in the way of game, and as he was too excited to even hit a barn, I paid no attention to him. Soon after he left I started on horseback down the river bank to get a bunch of cattle. As I was riding along a bullet whistled by my head, and looking round I saw the antelope running straight toward me, followed by my friend yelling like a madman and shooting as he ran. "Zip!" and another ball was uncomfortably near. I jumped from my horse, who ran off a little way, and swung my arms and waved my hat to stop my friend shooting, but to no purpose. On came the buck in a bee line for me, and the bullets from the gun of the lunatic behind him were falling all around. I dropped to the ground, pulled grass out by the roots, in a vain endeavor to pull myself out of sight. To say I was scared is putting it mildly. My hair, which was long and fell over my shoulders, now stood straight up, making me look like a native Circassian. The antelope passed by me a few feet away, a few more bullets buried themselves near me, throwing the dust all around. In a few moments my friend stood beside me, ammunition gone, breathless, and gasped, "Did you see him? I most got him." I got up, took his gun, spoke a few lines of curse words to him in a gentle voice, and told him to go to the house. He went. It was a month before he mentioned "antelope hunting" again.

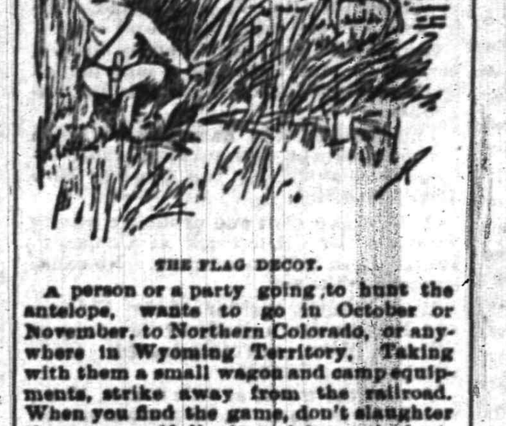
Another method of getting a good shot at this game is to get on the edge of a hill, or in tall grass, near a bunch, always to the leeward, and then tie a red or white handkerchief to a ramrod or stick. The antelope is full of curiosity, and once he catches sight of your flag, he will try to discover what it is. He gives a little snort and cautiously steps towards it, you keeping still the while. Then you gently wave your flag to and fro, letting it drop out of sight for a moment, then showing it again. The antelope will draw near, then run off a few yards, give a "whistle" of mingled surprise and fear, and then come up again, each time coming closer than before. Now he is pretty close, only a few yards off and standing "side to." You have placed your flag staff in the ground and have your rifle ready. Aim just back of the shoulder and a little above the body line. Fire! with a spring in the air he drops and you run up to find him in his last gasp, shot through the heart.

The head of a buck antelope well-mounted, makes a trophy any hunter will prize, and before many years it will be very hard to procure one. The antelope used to roam in large numbers on the Laramie Plains, Wyoming, and in the North and Middle Parks in Colorado. They are to be found there yet, but the bunches are small. I was on a hunt a few years ago in the "Medicine Bow" range, and one day we ran across a large band of over a thousand, coming down Big Creek from North Park on their way out to the plains for the winter. There were some meat hunters at hand, and they just aimed at the mass, which were going through a narrow canon, and shot down quantities of them. It is such butcheries as this that have thinned out the game in the West. Should it be allowed to continue, antelope will in a few years be as scarce as Buffalo.



THE FLAG DECOY.

A person or a party going to hunt the antelope, wants to go in October or November, to Northern Colorado, or anywhere in Wyoming Territory. Taking with them a small wagon and camp equipments, strike away from the railroad. When you find the game, don't slaughter them unmercifully, but pick out the best, kill and dress it, preserving the good heads, and when you get back to the railroad town, you can sell your meat and what hides you don't want to take home and the proceeds will pay a good part of the expenses. To an Eastern man I would say, go on an antelope hunt by all means, camp out, sleep in the open air, it won't hurt you, have a good time, kill some game, bring home some heads for your library or office wall. Then every time you look at them you will think of the good time you had and wish yourself back on the open prairie chasing the fleet-footed game. But, don't get "rattled" and pepper your best friends.

R. L. FARNAM.

A Woman's Pocket.

Yellowly—Why, Brownly, how bad you look this morning. Did you sleep any last night?

Brownly—Not a wink.

Y.—Anybody sick?

B.—I am.

Y.—What's the matter?

B.—Well, you see my wife has been in the habit of going through my pockets at night, and I thought what was good for the gander was good for the goose, so after she fell asleep last night I arose and set out to go through her pockets.

Y.—Get anything?

B.—No. Searched the dress over and over, spent the whole night at it, but couldn't find the pocket.

Plenty of Exercise.

Friend—So you have another race booked. I haven't seen you taking the regulation exercise spins to get in condition, while I have met your opponent religiously preparing himself for the encounter.

Famous Sprinter—Oh! I take my exercise at night.

Friend—Where and how?

F. S.—At home. The baby gives me all the exercise I need, and more too.

Back From the Country.

Policeman—What, returned to the city so early in the season?

Tramp—Yes, boss, the city's good enough for me.

P.—Why so. I supposed the country was a paradise in summer, to those of your kind.

T.—So it was once, boss, but the farmers are now all takin' summer boarders and work off their cold vittles on 'em.

In the Cemetery.

Mr. Cynic—Ah! doctor, this is a solemn place to visit. Do you come here often.

Doctor Squills—No. I have never been here before.

Mr. Cynic—Indeed! Isn't that neglectful on your part, since so many of your patients are here?

Mrs. Brown—Why don't you say "Thank you," Johnnie, for that piece of cake?

Little Johnnie—'Cause you said you would lick me if you heard another word out of me the whole evening.

Smoked Himself to Death.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 16.—William C. Van Wyck, an inveterate smoker, has died from the effects of nicotine poisoning. His last illness had many of the symptoms of a cancer in the stomach. A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that so thoroughly was system impregnated with nicotine that the stomach and other organs of the body had become unable to perform their functions.

Huns to Give Way to Negroes.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Owing to the late riots of Hungarians in the Connellsville coke region several operators are seriously considering the advisability of sending colored workers into the region to take the places of the Huns now at work.

Will Leave the K. of L.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—Marble Cutters Assembly, 6680, K. of L., at a largely attended meeting voted unanimously to return their K. of L. charter and form an open union.

BARON MUNCHAUSEN.

He Turns Up Again as Alive and as Chipper as Ever.

A native newspaper published at Bitlis, in Asiatic Turkey, narrates the following remarkable story: Three Mussulman travelers were lately journeying to Poulank. On arriving at a spot called Ahist on the Lake of Van one of them approached the water and began his ablutions. As he was dipping his feet into the lake he uttered a scream. His leg had been seized in the jaw of a marine monster, which was dragging him into the water.

His companions ran to his assistance, and, taking him by the hands, they succeeded in bringing him ashore; but what was their surprise when they saw the monster also emerge from the water, firmly attached by the teeth to the calf of his leg. Knives, sticks and every thing else that was brought to bear upon the monster proved unavailing, and at last the ingenious travelers bethought themselves of a heroic measure. They lighted a good fire, and on it the jaw of the obstinate animal holding the man's leg was placed, the companions of the victim, who was yelling with pain all the while, standing near to watch the result.

The heat apparently roused the animal from its torpor; it began to move its body, and suddenly flew into the air, still holding the man by the leg. After flying up to a height of about forty yards it directed its course toward the lake, in which it plunged with a mightly splash, burying its victim in the depths of the water.

THE RAILS SPREAD

Plunging a Passenger Train Down an Embankment.

WAR VETERANS IN THE WRECK

Two Persons Killed and Twenty-Eight Seriously Injured.

The Accident Occurred on the Butler Branch of the West Pennsylvania Railroad—Heartrending Scenes at the Wreck—Rotten Timbers on Which the Rails Were Laid Caused the Accident—The Company Denounced.

FREEPORT, Pa., Aug. 17.—An excursion train on the Butler branch of the West Penn Railroad, loaded with veterans returning from the reunion of the 102d Regiment at Butler last evening was wrecked at Sawer's, seven miles east of this city, two passengers being killed instantly; three or four others perhaps fatally injured, and 25 more or less seriously hurt.

The wreck was caused by the rails spreading on the end of a small bridge that spans Buffalo Creek, the timbers on which the rails were laid being so rotten that the spikes had been forced out the side by the weight of the train passing over them.

The train consisted of a smoker, day coach and combination coach. The engine stood about a hundred yards from the wreck still uninjured on the track. The smoker was smashed in splinters and fell fifteen feet down the embankment. The front truck of the coach was also thrown over the embankment, the hind truck remaining on the track. The combination also remained on the track.

Of the twenty passengers in the smoker one was killed and nineteen injured, it being marvellous that all were not killed.

On receiving intelligence of the accident here, Supt. Kirkland and four doctors at once left for the scene on the Butler market train which was just starting out.

On arriving at the wreck the sight was truly heartrending. On either side of the track for a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile injured veterans were lying on cushions and in some instances on the bare ground, women and children, wounded and bespattered with blood, sat and lay around pieces of the wreckage.

The doctors and passengers on the market train at once set to work to care for the injured. Broken limbs were set and heads bandaged. Two persons were found dead, being killed outright—a Mr. Powell, of Pittsburg, and a six-year-old girl named Farrell, of Butler. Twenty-eight others were wounded, three of whom will probably die. The twenty-five others were more or less injured, but none fatally.

The railroad officials are severely censured by all the passengers for negligence. There being no telegraph office nearer than this point, (7 miles away), it was fully two hours before the alarm could be given and doctors procured. The wounded meantime lay where they had crawled out of the wreck or had been carried by fellow-passengers.

Conductor Gray, of Butler; Brakeman Kearns, and a Mrs. Duff of Lawrencevillee will probably die.

The following is a list of the killed and injured:

Killed—W. Powers, Pittsburg; a daughter of Mrs. Farrell of Butler, aged about six years.

Injured—Capt. D. A. Jones, Pittsburg; Capt. Lowery, Allegheny; Col. Kilgore, Pittsburg; W. A. Hook, Mrs. Catharine Keefer, Butler; Conductor J. S. Gray, Butler; Ex-Mayor Major K. W. Lyon, Pittsburg; F. Groff, Pittsburg; Mrs. F. Groff, Pittsburg; Mrs. Mantzeer, Butler; John L. Wise, Wheeling, W. Va.; a daughter of Capt. Fullwood, Pittsburg; Charles Seitz, Fairview, Pa.; Jackson McDonnaha, Tarentum; Mrs. McConnaha, Tarentum; Thomas Welsh, Allegheny; W. H. Hamilton, Phillipsburg; Z. Mendel, Cincinnati; Mrs. D. A. Jones, Pittsburg; Mrs. Farrell, Butler; Charles Kearns, Butler; Mrs. Denis Puff, Lawrenceville; Gen. Thomas Rawley, Pittsburg, John Duff, R. A. Kingan, Robert R. R. Lowery, Allegheny; J. A. McLaughlin, Bellevue; John W. Divemer, Indiana, Pa.; Katie Farrell, Butler; three-year-old child of Mrs. Farrell, Butler; George Dorr, Sarver Station; child of Capt. Fullwood, Pittsburg; Mrs. Menton, Butler; Rev. Father Gregory, Lawrenceville; Mr. Nebaum, Lawrenceville; W. P. Dripps, Pittsburg; J. P. Kennedy, Blairsville; J. K. Depew, Homer City; W. Greenawalt,

A DEATH CRASH.

Many People Injured by an Explosion in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A terrific explosion of pent-up gas utterly demolished the crockery store of Thomas J. McCabe, at the corner of Clinton and Grand streets, a few minutes before 8 o'clock last night, and hurled the fragments of the shattered front into the dense crowd of passers-by, mowing them down as if by a discharge of grape-shot.

One boy was killed outright and a score or more of people, among them many women and young girls, were injured by the shower of glass and other debris.

The explosion was heard for blocks, and was accompanied by a shock as of an earthquake.

CLAN-NA-GAEL QUARRELS.

John F. Finerty Denounced by Congressman Lawler as a Coward and a Liar.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Trouble is considered certain if John F. Finerty and Congressman Lawler happen to get in each other's way. At the Cheltenham Beach Cronin demonstration Lawler denounced Finerty as a coward, poltroon, liar and scoundrel, because the latter had declared that the demonstration was made up of Englishmen, Orangemen and other enemies of the Irish race. Finerty is headstrong and impulsive, and his friends think he will go guning for Lawler.

Found Standing Erect, but Dead.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 17.—Frank Stevenson, colored, aged 17 years, a resident of Williamsport, was overtaken by a storm and took refuge in a hollow tree. Lightning struck the tree and young Stevenson was instantly killed. His body was found standing upright in the tree.

Betrayed by Her Uncle.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Lillie Richardson, aged 19, died here yesterday under suspicious circumstances. It is reported that her death was the result of criminal practice. It is alleged that the girl was wronged several months ago by an uncle named Mayberry, who fled to Canada.

Epidemic Among Horses.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Glanders is epidemic among the horses in the stables of the Lincoln Ice Company at Wrightwood and South Park avenue, in Lake View, and it is said there are other cases in that part of the city. Seventeen horses have been shot at the barns. The Health Department has been notified.

BOSTON, Aug 17.—The Fitchburg Railroad has made the rate for G. A. R. delegates from Boston to Milwaukee and return $21.55. The company has given notice that it will resume the payment of commissions to ticket agents about August 31.

AN INDIANA SENSATION.

An Alleged Conspiracy to Kill Five Farmers Unearthed.

WINAMAC, Ind., Aug. 17.—A conspiracy to kill five of the best known farmers of this vicinity was made known to-day by Charles Lyttle, who filed an affidavit against John Sutton charging him with conspiracy with him (Lyttle) to put strychnine in whiskey and give it to five men, neighbors of Sutton, and then burn their barns and also the Odd Fellows building at Star City. Lyttle was to receive the small sum of $5 for the work when completed. Lyttle had the strychnine in his possession and gave it to Sheriff Barton.

Sutton is one of the wealthiest farmers in this locality, owning about one thousand acres of land and real estate. All the parties live near Star City, six miles south of this place.

A previous quarrel with his neighbors is Sutton's reason for forming a conspiracy to kill them. In the Spring of 1888 one of his neighbor's boys, William Bonnett, and Sutton's son were playing with a gun when it exploded and shot both of the boys. Sutton sued for damages and was defeated and placed the blame on the Odd Fellows, claiming they helped to defeat him.

Sheriff Burton arrested Sutton at his farm and brought him here, where he will have a preliminary trial and await the action of the next term of court.

Allen Gets Fourteen Years.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Eben S. Allen, ex-President of the Forty-second Street and Grand Street Railroad Company, who on Tuesday last pleaded guilty in the Court of General Sessions, to the fraudulent issue of stock of the company, was sentenced by Judge Gildersleeve to fourteen years imprisonment in State Prison.

JUDGE FIELD ON BAIL

The Supreme Court Justice Was Arrested.

HABEAS CORPUS INVOKED

The Writ Granted and the Justice Released in $5,000.

Attorney-General Miller's Relation to the Shooting—He Thinks the Killing of Terry was Justifiable—Deputy Marshal Nagle's Hearing Will Take Place Next Wednesday—Terry's Friends Raising Money to Engage Col. Ingersoll.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. Aug. 17.—The Sheriff of San Joaquin county late yesterday afternoon served a warrant of arrest upon Judge Field at the latter's chambers in the Appraisers' building. There was some doubt as to whether the warrant would be endersed by a judge of San Francisco county as required by law, but this endorsement was obtained. Immediately after the warrant was served a writ of habeas corpus was sworn out before Judge Sawyer of the Circuit Court, and heard by him in Chambers.

He promptly granted the writ and Justice Field was immediately released on $5.000 bail.

The preliminary hearing of Deputy Marshal Nagle will come up before a Justice of the Peace at Stockton Wednesday next. A strong effort will be made after the examination to secure bail. If it is refused the matter will be appealed.

Trying to Retain Ingersoll.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—It was currently reported about town to-day that the friends of the late ex-Judge Terry had made up a big purse and had telegraphed to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll at New York asking him to accept a retainer for the prosecution of Justice Field and Deputy Marshal Nagle. There is no doubt but the friends of Terry will do all in their power to avenge his death. No answer has been received from Colonel Ingersoll up to a late hour.

THE MURDER JUSTIFIABLE.

Further Views of the Attorney-General in the Terry Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 17.—Attorney-General Mills was seen again at his residence to-day, and asked if he had anything further to say about the shooting of Judge Terry by Marshal Nagle. He replied:

"I see from the papers that the action of the deputy is pretty generally endorsed. It appears to be considered that Nagle's presence was necessary and his action justifiable. I do not care to speak of the legal aspects of the case. I do not know any case analagous to it in our history, and I do not recall that it has ever been necessary before to provide protection for a United States Judge. If the case comes to trial I suppose I will be called to testify, but I question whether there will ever be a trial. The Grand Jury may refuse to act in the case. I have not examined the legal side of the question, however.

"I thought the protection of the officers of the law might be necessary, and I knew something about the desperate character of the man with whom Justice Field had to deal. I thought of trouble when the trial began, but of course I did not look for it at a way station or upon the train. If the Justice's life was in danger, he was as much entitled to the protection of an officer at an eating house as in a court-room or upon a bench."

Though the Attorney-General was very guarded in his utterances his manner indicated very plainly that he believed Deputy Nagle fully justified in shooting Terry.

$30,000 for Injuries in a Railroad Accident

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 17.—Two Brockton shoemakers, Nelse Bofin and Hugo Slattengren, who were badly injured in the railroad disaster at Bradford, January 10, 1888, received a settlement in full this week for their injuries amounting to about $30,000. Slattengren injured his spine, which will disable him for life, while Bofin is deaf, as a result of being hit on the head.

Funeral of Francis Elder.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 17.—The funeral of Francis W. Elder, brother of Archbishop Elder of Cincinnati, took place from the Cathedral in this city yesterday. A high mass of requiem was sung by Archbishop Elder and an eulogy and final absolution were pronounced by Cardinal Gibbons. A number of the clergy were present within the sanctuary and a large number of prominent business men attended the funeral.

Minister Phelps at Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 17.—Hon William Walter Phelps, United States Minister to Germany, accompanied by his daughter, arrived here to-day and will be the guest of Mr. Blaine for a week or ten days.

Took an Overdose of Chloral.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 17.—Harry L. Nelson, son of Judge Nelson, of the United States District Court, was found dead in bed last night, death being caused by an overdose of chloral.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The members of the Plainfield Cornet Band are spending the day at Boynton Beach.

—It shows progress when our business men have neat delivery wagons, nicely lettered and painted.

—The West Ends of Somerville, are playing ball with the Perth Amboy Athletics at Perth Amboy, this afternoon.

—Hope chapel has been wired for electric lighting, and its new library will be ready for distribution to-morrow afternoon.

—The sunflower is seen in perfection and beauty in many yards and gardens about town, and householders take pride in raising them.

—All of the shade trees about Mr. F. X. Schoonmaker's residence on Putnam avenue, have been trimmed of their lower branches to a height of about fifteen feet from the ground, thereby adding beauty to the surroundings.

—Regular Sunday meeting under the auspices of the Reform Club will be held in Reform Hall to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. There will be speaking and the usual devotional and musical exercises. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

—Mr. J. B. Carey, of Jersey City, expects to complete the stone work on the new addition to the Crescent Avenue church, in about two months. The stone used is from the Martinville quarry, and it is carted here on wagons. The stone used in the construction of the church proper, came from Nova Scotia.

—Amateur astronomers and others will find some interest in trying the following: To see the attending moons, take a hand looking glass and with your back toward Jupiter, place the face of the looking glass towards the planet and you will see on either side two bright stars, and, perhaps, three stars can be seen. These stars can't be seen with the naked eye.

The State Fair Trotting.

Mr. Wm. L. Tompkins, Superintendent of the Speed Department of the State Fair, has issued a circular stating that $4,850 will be offered for speed premiums at the ensuing fair. On Tuesday the premiums will amount to $900; Wednesday, $1,150; Thursday, $1,900: Friday, $900. On the latter day there will be a hurdle race.

Going on With the Work.

Work has been resumed on the row of unfinished brick houses, in the rear of the First Baptist church on Grove street, and the buildings will be enclosed before cold weather sets in. Mr. Peck the mortgagee is proceeding with the work. He will also convert the large house, known as the Bronck house, into two distinct dwellings, and the large barn standing in the rear of the premises, will be removed to the Prospect place side of the property, and remodeled into a dwelling house.

A Just Comment.

Concerning last Saturday's ball game in this city, the Bound Brook Chronicle says: "The Crescents sustained a defeat last Saturday, but have the satisfaction of knowing that, with the single exception of Mr. Davenport, the 'West Ends of Somerville' accomplished this end by employing a nine composed entirely of paid professionals from New York. Somerville can scarcely take local pride in such a victory.

Lawn Tennis.

The third match game of the season by the Dunellen tennis club will be played with the Belle Mead Club on the Bound Brook's grounds this afternoon. The game will be called at 4:15. Evona has been challenged to play at Bound Brook on the 24th. The club have erected stop nets and placed the grounds in very good shape. Seats will be furnished for those who desire to watch the game.

German Sunday School Picnic.

Next Thursday afternoon there will be held a picnic for the Sunday school of the German Reformed church, in Mr. Berry's grove. The children will assemble at 2 o'clock in the Sunday school room. Parents and friends are cordially invited.

The Aurora's Trip.

The Aurora Singing Society of New Brunswick, will pay a return visit to the Plainfield Singing Society to-morrow. The society will leave in stages at 10 o'clock in the morning and an excellent time is anticipated.

SHOT BY HIS FRIEND.

The Terrible Death of Clarence Pell Formerly of This City.

Clarence Guest Pell, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Pell, formerly of this city, was shot and instantly killed by his friend, Ellis H. Roberts, Thursday morning, while they were hunting in the Adirondack woods.

The unfortunate victim of the accident is well-known in this city, where he lived many years. His parents then occupied a house they still own on East Third street. Clarence attended Mr. Leal's school here, and after being graduated went to Yale. He was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

He was a law student at the college, and President of the Yale Football team. His father received a letter from his son Wednesday morning, telling him that he was enjoying his vacation and that he expected to leave for a hunting expedition after deer on the 15th. He would have been twenty-one years old next month, and was about to begin his second year's course at Yale.

The terrible accident occurred in this way: Pell and two companions, Cox and Husted, were camped near the river with their guide, Wm. Pell, an old woodsman. At 5 o'clock in the morning, when the mist was just rising from the woods and the sun was just beginning to creep up they made their way towards the deer lick. By a fatal coincidence Roberts and a companion named Sherman, who had their camp about a half mile above Lake Pansalla, had chosen the same lick. They arrived there about ten minutes in advance of the other party, and with rifles ready quietly waited for the coming of the game.

In the woody shadows the light was indistinct, and objects were not clearly discernable at a great distance. It was Roberts' first experience of the kind, and perhaps he was a little excited and eager to secure the first shot. He did not have to wait long. Suddenly, in the opposite direction, was heard the cautious breaking of twigs and the unmistakable moving of shrubbery. Then the sounds ceased.

The two hunters were ready with their weapons with their attention centred in the direction from which the sound came. A movement on their own part had evidently warned the game. The sounds began again and the young men were on the qui vive. Suddenly, about ten rods away, Roberts saw a tan colored object, evidently the back of an animal. Quickly as his excitement would permit, his rifle was brought up to his shoulder. He took a quick sight and fired. The object dropped.

With a shout of exultation Roberts rushed forward, followed by Sherman and their guide Spinenr. The intervening distance was quickly covered, and instead of a deer laid low by a bullet, they saw Pell lying in the arms of his guide, the blood gushing from a wound in his right side. He wore at tan-colored coat. When Roberts realized what he had done he was overcome with grief. Pell made a cry when he was struck, but never spoke afterwards. He died in a short time.

It was a sad party that returned to the little camp. The two young men were good friends. Owing to the distance from any telegraph or telephone station, the news had to be carried miles through the wild country by Pell's companion. The young man who unwittingly caused Mr. Pell's death is a grandnephew of Assistant United States Treasurer Ellis H. Roberts of New York. He is only 16 years old.

"Two Little Boys Drowned at Plainfield."

Under the above caption the New York Star today say:

Michael and Johnny Murphy, sons of Daniel Murphy, who is employed at the Inclined Plane, at Plainfield, were sailing their boats on the Morris Canal Thursday when they fell into the canal and were drowned. The boys were 5 and 6 years old, respectively.

We are at a loss to know where the incline plane is located in this city, and besides the name of "Daniel Murphy" does not appear in the directory.

After the Delinquents.

Delinquent tax collector, Justice V. W. Nash, is making things uncomfortably warm for the delinquents. Already he has had paid in about $3,500 in back taxes, and he is now calling personally upon those who are in arrears with their taxes. On Thursday he visited over fifty persons all of whom made satisfactory arrangements and promised to "come to centre."

The justice has also levied upon one shoe store, a hotel, a fruit store and a private dwelling in the Second Ward.

Nearly Lost His Life.

A boy about fourteen years of age, whose name we are unable to ascertain, came near being shot at the Crescent ball grounds, yesterday afternoon. The lad was sitting on one of the benches, when a thrown ball struck him on the right side, discharging a revolver which he carried in his coat pocket. The boy turned pale, and soon left the ball field.

A Year of Fridays.

Persons who have a superstitious dread of Friday will not be pleased to hear that this is a year of Fridays. It came in on Friday and will go out on Friday, and will have fifty-three ill-omened days. There are four months of this year that have five Fridays each; change of moon occurs five times on Friday, and the longest and shortest days of the year occur on Friday.

—Some of the dwelling houses on Tenth street are being raised up and set on stilts, so as to be in readiness for the deluge when the Feltville dam gives way.

CURED BY WHISKY.

Mr. Rounder's Lucky Recovery From a Snake Bite.

A copperhead snake, one of the most poisonous reptiles of its kind, bit Rynehart Rounder on the back of his hand, Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Matthews was at once called to the unfortunate man's relief, and by his prompt attendance and the administering of a quart and a pint of whiskey to his patient, Rounder's life was saved. He is now rapidly recovering from the combined effects of the bite and the dose.

Rounder lives just back of Bound Brook where he farms the old camp grounds of the late General George Washington. He was at work in the field when attacked by the snake.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST, BRIGHT and CHEAPEST

A FURIOUS FREAK.

Lightning Tears a Sickle From a Lad's Grasp, and Twists it Out of Shape.

Gustav Sutterlin, aged 17 years, and his little brother, Albert, aged 10, sons of Mr. G. Sutterlin, were cutting grass near their father's home on Green Brook road, North Plainfield, Wednesday afternoon last when the severe storm came up.

A severe flash of lightning suddenly seemed to strike in the very faces of the boys, and for some moments they were blind and dizzy. When they recovered and opened their eyes, Gustav found that all that remained of the sickle with which he had been working was its handle, which he still grasped in his left hand.

Search resulted in finding the blade of the sickle six feet away. It had been torn out of its handle by the lightning and was curled up like a pine shaving. It was twisted so tightly that it is impossible to straighten the steel again.

The escape of the boys is miraculous. Gustav complains of a numbness in his arm yet, and Albert feels a slight pain in his side. Anyone doubting this tale is requested to call at THE PRESS office and see the twisted sickle as evidence.

At the Crescent Avenue church, the regular services to-morrow will be: Morning, 10:30. Evening, 8:00. Sunday school, 9:30 A. M. Strangers are welcome at all services. In the evening, pews are free. In the morning ushers will provide seats for all as promptly as possible. The Rev. A. H. Tuttle, formerly of this city, will preach both morning and evening, to-morrow.

Poker Playing.

Any pleasant afternoon a poker game can be seen in full operation under the cedar trees which line Carlton avenue, just East of the Crescent ball ground. Boys ranging in age from fifteen to twenty-five years, spend their time there and gamble away their loose change. It is also stated that poker playing is a daily occurrence in a certain barn on Broadway, less than a mile from the Crescent Avenue church.

THE LETTER AND THE LAW.

Information for Those Who Kick at Their Poll Taxes.

How strange it is that men of principle will live in and enjoy the benefits of a free country, and yet kick because they are asked to pay a dollar a year for the privilege of being a "citizen."

The following is but one of many like letters received by THE PRESS within the past few weeks;

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS: Our delinquent tax collector seems to have frightened many of our poor working men with his printed notices, "pay or go to jail." For the benefit of those who have not read the law, would you be kind enough to publish the law or act upon which he bases his authority for such, and oblige A SUBSCRIBER.

Plainfield, Aug. 15, 1889.

The Corporation Counsel has furnished the following laws in relation to the matter, now in force:

From Revision, Title, General Tax Law, Section 18:

"And the said warrant shall further direct that if goods and chattels of the delinquent cannot be found, or not sufficient to make the money required, the constable shall take his or her body if to be found in the county, and deliver the same to the Sheriff of such county or his jailor, to be kept in close and safe custody until payment be made of the tax with costs."

Above was amended in 1879 (P. L. p. 237) so as to take away the power to arrest and imprison in cases of non-payment of taxes assessed on real estate. As to all other taxes, the above cited law from the Rev. is in full force.

The law of 1879 is as follows:

CHAPTER CXLVII.

An Act to prohibit imprisonment for default in payment of taxes on real estate.

WHEREAS, It has been held by the court of errors and appeals that taxes duly assessed for and on account of real property are not necessarily first liens thereon, but are to be deferred to mortgages which have been made upon such property previously to the assessment of such taxes thereon; and whereas, the equity of redemption or legal title to real property to a very large extent is vested in persons who, by reason of the depreciation in value of such property, or other misfortunes, are unable to pay the taxes thereon; and whereas, constables and other officers charged with the collection of taxes, finding it impossible to collect the same from owners who cannot pay, and from mortgagees who will not pay, may obtain warrants for the imprisonment of the bodies of such owners so delinquent, under and by virtue of section eighteen of an act concerning taxes [Revision of Statutes of New Jersey, page 1142], to the great hardship, suffering and disgrace of such owners and their families, and to the discredit of this State; therefore,

1. BE IT ENACTED BY THE SENATE AND GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY, That hereafter no warrant shall be issued by any justice of the peace or other officer of this State, to any constable or other officer directing or authorizing the arrest or imprisonment of any person for or on account of any default or delinquency in the payment of taxes on real estate; but nothing in this act shall be construed to affect or in any wise to abridge or impair any provision other than arrest and imprisonment, for the collection of taxes.

2. AND BE IT ENACTED, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 14, 1879.

COL. SCHWENK'S AMBITIOUSNESS.

First in War, and Now First in Peace.

Very few of those Plainfielders who are favored with the acquaintance of Sam'l K. Schwenk, proprietor of the celebrated Holly Grove Farm, and who have noticed and been charmed with his unostentatious ways, modest bearing and genial good-fellowship, are aware of the grand record placed after his name on the Army Register of the United States.

A few official extracts are are follows: "1st Lieut. 50th Penn. Vols., 1861. Captain, 1862. Brevet Lieut. Colonel, March 25, 1865, for constant gallantry before Petersburg, and in the assault on Fort Steedman. Brevet Colonel Vols., and Brevet Brigadier Gen'l Vols., July 24, 1865, for meritorious service during the war. Brevet Captain, March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious service in the battle of Spottsylvania, Va. Brevet Major, March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious service in the Battle of Ny River, Va. Brevet Lieut. Colonel, March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious service in the Battle of Cold Harbor, Va. Retired, May 17, 1867."

Col. Schwenk has now settled quietly down with his family on one of the loveliest farms in the State, and is giving his entire attention to the World-famed herd of registered Jersey cattle that stock the place. The spirit that placed him first in war, has now incited his ambition to be even first in the peaceful profession of a gentleman dairyman. Butter from his cows has won the gold medals in all competitions of note wherever it has been entered.

The Holly Grove dairy and farm is a treat to visit. The most celebrated buttermakers oversee the manipulation of its products, and every appurtenance and process is gilt-edged and of the most approved modern means. The herd are fed on only the best of wholesome food, and no brewer's grains are used. It is indeed a model place in every way.

The Way They Look at It.

(From the Somerville Democrat:)

The team that met the Crescents on Saturday were the West End Club as constituted at present. The West End Club have hired men; so had the Crescents. The West End Club does not send out the impression that it is composed of Somerville men. It is, however, managed by Somerville men, and supported by Somerville men, and the citizens feel proud of it. They are proud that the management has sense enough to hire good players, and it makes no difference to us whether they come from New York, New Brunswick, or any other place.

The West End Club is distinctly the West End Club, and is just what it represents itself to be. The New Yorks, the Bostons, the Chicagos, all get credit for the games they win. Those clubs are composed of hired men, and the players are not all from the cities whose name they bear, but are picked up from all sections, yet those cities claim them as their clubs, and are interested in them accordingly.

Life's Problem.

"Is life worth the living?" he moodily asked,
While his face in a cloud of depression was masked.
"Of course," she returned, "while we've such a resort
As Collier's, where daintiest jewels are bought."

THE CHEROKEE STRIP.

Chief Mayes's Long Expected Reply to the Commission.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., Aug. 17.—Chief Mayes's long expected answer has finally been given to the Cherokee Commission. It is a voluminous document of over 2,000 words, the burden of which is a discussion of the title to the outlet. Mayes says that matters would not be hastened by calling the Council in extra session at this time, as no action could be possibly had until the Council following the general election in Aug. 1891.

In conclusion he says the Cherokee people take it for granted that Congress will not legislate against the Cherokees in the interest of citizens who desire to despoil them of their rights, and the Cherokee people trust that their weakness as a people will not encourage the power of the United States to enact legislation looking to that end.

The reply of the Commissioners to Chief Mayes goes over the ground covered in original letters and states the position of the Government more fully.

TANNER PRAISES NOBLE.

He Thinks the Secretary is One of the Most Lovable of Men.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The attention of Pension Commissioner Tanner was called to a published interview in Chicago with Assistant Secretary Bussey, in which he is represented as speaking of Secretary Noble's relations with the Commissioner.

Mr. Tanner said: "Assuming that General Bussey was reported correctly, I object most decidedly to his creating the impression that there are any personal differences between Secretary Noble and myself. Mr. Noble is one of the most lovable of men, a man of broad views, and, while there may be some official differences between us, these differences are not of a personal character. Any statement tending to create any other impression is untrue.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as sometimes we are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

SHE WILL NOT HANG

Life Imprisonment for Mrs. Maybrick.

WAITING THE QUEEN'S ASSENT.

Her Majesty Asked by the Home Secretary to Commute the Sentence.

The English Government Makes an Ignoble Surrender of the Tithes Bill—The Pope's Serious Illness Creates Alarm—Italy Will Honor Edison—King Humbert to Confer on Him the Dignity of a Grand Officer of the Italian Crown.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Mr. Matthews, the Home Secretary, has advised the Queen to commute the sentence of death passed upon Mrs. Maybrick, to imprisonment for life. The reprieve will be announced after the formal assent of the Queen has been received.

The members of the House of Commons who have signed the memorial to the Home Secretary urging clemency for Mrs. Maybrick now number 88.

Pope Leo's Ill Health.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The health of the Pope is causing considerable uneasiness in Europe. It is known that he has been suffering with a complication of disorders for some time past, and now the announcement from Rome that, owing to the Pope's continued ill health, all receptions at the Vatican have been discontinued, naturally excites the gravest fears.

Italy Will Honor Edison.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Edison is expected at Milan in September, where elaborate preparations are being made for his reception. Nowhere in Europe are Mr. Edison's genius and his services to the cause of science better recognized than in Italy, and on his visit to Milan King Humbert will confer on him the dignity of a Grand Officer of the Italian Crown.

THE TITHES BILL.

An Ignominious Surrender by the English Government.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—If "he who runs away" is destined always to "fight another day," Lord Salisbury's Government will last forever.

Their Tithes Recovery bill, which was introduced with a great flourish of trumpets early in the session, and a determination of the "sink or swim, survive or perish" variety to pass it at all hazards, has been ignominiously abandoned. Their treatment of the measure, involving a shifting of position from the Tory to the Liberal view, then to the Radical, and finally ending with no view at all, contains excellent material for a work on "How to Stand from Under."

Opions vary as to the reasons for the withdrawal of the bill. That the Government had brought a perfect hornet's nest about their ears, and Tory hornets at that, by their endorsement of the Liberal amendment after it had been defeated, is certain, and the landed interests, without regard to party affiliations, were furious at this exposal of the Radical principle of taxing the owners of land instead of the tenants. The Speaker's decision that the bill must be withdrawn in view of its altered character, by reason of this amendment, was a welcome relief to the Government from their anomalous position, and there is little doubt that Mr. Peel, the accomodating Speaker, received a quiet tip from them to assist him in his interpretation of the rules.

A RELIGIOUS TRIBUNAL.

The Pope Establishes an Ecclesiastical Court of Appeals in this Country.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The appointment of a high ecclesiastical tribunal by the Pope, which shall have jurisdiction of all cases in which the church in the United States is concerned, is believed to have been consummated, to consist of Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan and Archbishop Corrigan.

A prominent clergyman of this diocese says the object of the tribunal is to relieve Rome of the burden of hearing appeals from this country. Appeal will not be entirely shut off, but it is expected that but few appeals will be made from the decision of the new tribunal.

Raiding the W. U. Wires in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Over 300,000 feet of wire was taken down from the Western Union Telegraph Company's poles on the east side of Broadway from Liberty to Beaver streets, by Commissioner Hess's men this morning. Early tomorrow morning a force of men will remove all the poles standing on the West side of Broadway between Fulton street and Battery place.

The Suit Against Russell Harrison.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The fight between Col. Schuyler Crosby and Russell B. Harrison has been removed from the New York State Courts to the Circuit Court of the United States. Col. Crosby is suing Mr. Harrison as editor of the "Live Stock Journal" for $100,000 damages for libel. Judge Ingraham, of the Supreme Court, has signed the order on the petition of William A. Sweetzer for Russell B. Harrison, who is still sojourning in Europe.

Pugilist Killen Convicted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Pat Killen, the pugilist, his manager, W. E. Gooding, and Edward Hoover, manager of a local variety show, were convicted of violating a local ordinance prohibiting sparring exhibitions where liquor is sold. They will be sentenced this afternoon.

Wanted in Pittsburg.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—R. B. Ford was arrested here last night by Detectives McDonnel and Bender, and he will be taken to Pittsburg as soon as the papers are ready. Ford is wanted in Pittsburg to answer an indictment for conspiracy.

SHE WAS A MISER.

An Aged Widow Found Dead in Hartford With $40,000 in Her Home.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 17.—A aged widow who lived alone in her house at Winthrop and Pleasant streets, was found dead in her kitchen, having evidently been dead at least two days. She has lived the life of a hermit and miser. She had no nearer relatives than cousins.

To-day two relatives, by advice of the Probate Judge, searched the house and discovered good bonds and stocks of the value of $40,000. No will was found, but one is believed to be in existence.

The property has been deposited with a trust company to the order of the Judge of Probate pending the settlement of the estate. The relatives making the search are Hezekiah Gaylord and John M. Newberry. There are also relatives in the West.

Under the new collateral inheritance tax law, five per cent of the value of the estate goes to the State of Connecticut.

IN A BURNING MINE.

Two Americans Try to Rescue Eight Mexicans and All Are Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 17.—The Mexican steamboat Alejandro arrived from Guaymas, Eczico, yesterday, bringing word that in the early part of July a fire broke out in the 1,500-foot level of the Triumfo mine near the town of the same name, and ten miners lost their lives.

Eight Mexican miners were in the mine at the time of the fire and two unknown Americans, formerly of San Francisco, volunteered to go to their rescue. The shaft was full of smoke and gases, and when the bucket was hauled to the top the Americans were found to be dead. The fire lasted several days and finally burned itself out.

SULLIVAN IS GUILTY.

The Jury Return a Verdict Against John L., Who Hopes to Escape With a Fine.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 17.—The jury in the Sullivan case rendered a verdict of guilty on the prize fight count.

The Court will fix the sentence this afternoon.

Sullivan expects only a fine, as he telegraphed for sleeping-car berths for himself and Mat Clune on the Cincinnati express.

The chances are that he will not take the train he expects, and that he may lie in jail for a week or two after paying the fine.

Kilrain is Cheerful.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 17.—If Jake Kilrain is annoyed by the thought that he is to be summoned to Mississippi for trial for his participation in the recent fistic encounter with the invincible John L., he possesses the happy faculty of suppressing it. He regrets the tenor of recent editorials published concerning the fight, and that the matter is still agitated. He has made no arrangements for the future, and will not until his present trouble is straightened.

Big Fire at Pennsville, Pa.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 17.—The large general store of H. Younkin and the dwelling of L. L. Drill, at Pennsville, were with contents totally destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire was of unknown origin. Loss $16,000; partly insured.

Pressmen Strike.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The pressmen on the "World" went out on strike at 1 o'clock this morning.

A STARTLING THEORY.

Prof. Thickstun Pronounces the Earth a Huge Bomb.

Is There a Probability That We May All Be Blown Into Eternity by a Natural Gas Explosion?—An Explanation of the Problem.

Apropos of a recent interview with Prof. L. W. Thickstun, of Metuchen, N. J., concerning the possibility of an upheaval of the earth caused by a natural gas explosion, a New York Herald correspondent secured from Mr. Thickstun an explanation of his ideas, which is as startling as it is important.

"Natural gas in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and in some other parts of the country," said he, "is one of the things the public is thinking about with some degree of apprehension. Capital in large amounts has been invested in its production, or rather in its capture, and in its application as a heater and as an illuminator. Millions of dollars find profitable employment in this manner all over the extensive territory known as the oil regions.

"In Pittsburgh alone enough natural gas is consumed daily to give sufficient amount of light for the needs of the largest city in the world. North of Pittsburgh one hundred and twenty miles, at Erie, and all the way between the two places, natural gas is found in nearly every neighborhood where proper tests have been made. In all other directions from this busy and prosperous manufacturing center gas has been found in quantities apparently inexhaustible.

"A reservoir of vast proportions, or many reservoirs, must have been provided for by nature to contain what gas has already escaped from wells and what is yet stored away in the bowels of the earth. Extensive deposits have also been found in the western counties of our State as well as in Pennsylvania and Ohio. How far the openings extend below the earth's surface is not known, but the subterranean cavern or caverns where gas abounds must be of great magnitude.

"Gas began to appear in large quantities soon after the first wells on Oil creek were finished. Colonel Drake drilled the first oil well near Titusville, Pa., during the summer of 1859, and at a depth of sixty-nine feet he struck oil. That was a pumping and not a flowing well. From it a small amount of gas escaped, as in the case with most pumping wells. Subsequently many other wells were opened—thousands and tens of thousands of them, some pumping and some flowing.

"All flowing wells are gas as well as oil wells. In flowing wells oil is thrown out by escaping gas. Big 'spouters' began to appear eight or ten miles below Titusville along 'the creek' early in 1860. Since then they have been opened in hundreds of other localities from the source to the mouth of the Allegheny river, and along many of its tributaries.

"Among the most noted and the most profitable of all flowing wells was the Noble well, seven miles below Titusville, struck on the 23d of May, 1863. It began as a 1,500-gallon well. It was a 'boomer' of the first order. Gas and oil came from a crevice in the sandrock, 140 feet below the bed of Oil creek. Twenty rods lower down the stream was the Caldwell well. It was a good 700-barrel well. Oil was reached in it at about the same depth as in the Noble well. By the 28th of May the production of the Noble well ran up to 1,800 barrels, and the Caldwell had fallen off to 400 barrels a day. Before the middle of June the latter was so nearly exhausted that it flowed not more than seven or eight barrels, and the former was pouring out a flood of 2,200 barrels of petroleum every twenty-four hours.

"The Noble well did nobly, ran about twenty-two months, produced over five hundred thousand barrels of oil, an immense amount of gas—wasted on Oil creek air—and then it, too, was a worthless hole in the ground. Water fills the place the gas and oil occupied and no one fears danger from that quarter.

"Not very far from the Noble well there is another kind of a blower. This has no water or oil in it, and that comes out at such a rate that you might hear it pulsating and fairly pounding a mile or two away on a still, summer evening. This, like other wells, was sunk for oil, and this is the kind in which danger lurks. This well never fills up with water, and probably never will. There are hundreds and thousands scattered over the oil regions just like it. We are anxious to know what sort of a place is under our country where this treacherous substance comes from.

"If the Noble well threw out 500,000 barrels of oil and as much gas besides in less than two years what are those purely gas wells doing? What have they been doing a score or more years? Will some one rise to his feet and explain?

"Thinking people are growing uneasy about it. Where does the enormous production come from, anyway? Where is the vast gas storehouse or storehouses located? Do these subterranean reservoirs fill up as rapidly as they are emptied? Does our atmosphere rush in to take the places vacated, or is gas forming constantly to keep the leaking tanks full? Will too much of our atmosphere move from the outside to the inside of the earth to the injury or extinction of animal and vegetable life?

"Worst of all, will the air mingle with the gas under our feet and thereby enable it to ignite and explode? If an explosion comes will it blow up all the oil regions from the great lakes to old Virginia, and will the Allegheny mountains stand between us and all harm? Do oceans of natural gas extend from Titusville to the mountains, and from the mountains to New York, and is it possible for these lakes—as unmanageable and unsafe as dynamite—is it possible for them to be set on fire at the same instant?

"Some of these interrogatories may seem absurd and not worth the ink it takes to print them or the time it requires to read them; but, then, again, suppose they are all pertinent. Suppose the last one turns out to be a fact as well as a question, what then?

"Might not an explosion occur which would be simply terrific? Instead of a torn-up and devastated oil field beyond the mountains, we might have a ruined and fragmentary planet. No wonder people grow nervous and wish the owners would plug up every gas well on earth."

Interesting Muscle Reading.

You can tell pretty well how a girl feels toward you by the way she takes your arm. If she doesn't care a cent you know it by the indifference of her muscles. If she has a great confidence in you the pressure tells it; and friendship is as distinct from love in that mode of expression as in words or looks. A woman can take the arm of a fellow she likes very much with perfect comfort, even if she is six feet high and he is four. But even if the two are just matched, she can make him feel disdain, contempt, discomfort, dislike, any thing she likes, by the way she does not hold on to him. I am told there is a great deal of difference, too, between the way a girl fits her waist to one man's arm as compared with another, but I hardly believe it.

SUNSET COX: "Last year our corn crop was 2,000,000,000 bushels. It was raised upon 75,672,763 acres. It would require 3,000,000 cars, with over 60,000 locomotives, in a train to draw it to the seaboard. It would take a year to pass such a train through Chicago.

AS AMERICAN watch-making, exhibited at our centennial, amazed the Swiss and compelied them to adopt American machinery despite their pauper labor, so the American exhibit of jewelry, tableware, silverware, etc., at Paris is gaining a market in the "paupers'" own field.

THE international labor congress at Berne got a letter from the Pope. He cordially commends their efforts to effect a saving of the forces of life, to protect infancy and innocence, to take mothers from work-shops and restore them to their homes, and to secure for working-men the leisure and opportunity for observing a day of rest. The Christian Union says: "Protestantism can not afford to give the Catholic church a monopoly of such wise and sympathetic expressions."

SIGNED THE PLEDGE.

But When They Asked for Whisky There Was Trouble.

"It was a strange scene," said the Major to a New York World man, "and I will not soon forget it. Here I was, out on the plains, the center of an admiring group of Indians, standing on a stump, dealing the drink habit some of my most terrible blows. I told them that whisky was the curse of the white man, and gave some notable instances right here in New York that I need not now repeat. I said that the curse of our civilization was whisky! whisky! whisky! and these benighted children of the forest drew closer about me and listened with rapt attention. In my closing remarks I said: 'Now, my dusky friends, will you forego whisky? Will you put the accursed firewater behind you? Will you cast rum to the dogs, and be better, truer men and women?' I indicated that I awaited their reply, and was gratified to receive an affirmative grunt all around the circle.

"I got out my pledge book and went around for them to sign. None could write, of course, but all were glad to affix their marks and the work went on with positive enthusiasm. After I had their signatures I thought it well to again ascend the stump and offer them a few words of congratulation. I had not proceeded far when a large-sized warrior interrupted me with the remark:

"'Ugh! heap talk! where's the whisky?'

"I paused a moment, thinking I had not understood him, and he repeated the observation.

"'Whisky, my friend?' I replied in much surprise, 'I have no whisky.'

"The silence which followed was broken by half a dozen braves and a squaw or two repeating the same ridiculous observation:

"'Ugh! white man talk much! Where's the whisky?'

"I saw it all," said the Major. "These poor children had taken me for an Indian agent or something, who had come to sell them a new kind of whisky. Their interest in my remarks about firewater, their eagerness to sign my paper—it was all clear now. It was still more clear when a dozen stalwart bucks danced out in front of me, brandished their hatchets, and began to clamor for the whisky. I am not wholly lacking in discretion, if I do have fits, and my course was clear.

"'O, yes, my friends, the whisky,' I began. 'I was just coming to that. I have down here at St. Louis a train-load of the finest whisky that ever came to gladden the life of a noble red man. I control seventy or eighty distilleries near Omaha, and by to-morrow will have pipe-line connections with them, and will then be able to pump whisky out here till life will be a dream of riotous pleasure. All I will have to do will be to turn a stop-cock, and lo! rum will flow to you in a living and everlasting stream.'

"And, telling them that I would take a run down to St. Louis and get the thing started, I reached the place where my horse was tied, and was soon leaving the scene of my triumph behind me."

A Nation of Badge-Wearers.

"This is becoming a nation of badge-wearers," was the statement made by an observant citizen yesterday. "Just stand here on the corner and watch the men as they pass. Nine-tenths of them wear a badge of some description. They range all the way from an expensive society badge costing $30 or $35 down to brass baubles which you can buy for a few cents. They generally are the insignia of some society, and I think that shows the tendency of the American people to organize. Almost every body belongs to some organization, and by the number of badges that men passing here wear, I should judge some of them are on the rolls of three or four."

Hope for Blind People.

The news comes from the University of Padua that Prof. Gravenigo has succeeded in grafting the cornea of a barndoor fowl on the eye of a human subject. The operation is spoken of as most successful, the transplanted cornea being transparent, glossy and convex. If it be as is said, there is a new hope for many blind people.

The Plasterers' Union Win.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The Plasterers' Union announced that their strike for $4.50 per day instead of $4 has been successful, all employers having conceded the demand.

Mr. Bonner Loses a Valuable Horse.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Nutbourne, by Belmont out of the dam of Maud S. and a full brother to Nutwood, died at Mr. Robert Bonner's farm at Tarrytown, of rupture of the intestines. Nutbourne was 12 years old and was valued at $10,000.

Accepted a Call to Newark, N. J.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—Rev. Lyman W. Allen, of the Carondelet Presbyterian Church, has accepted a call to the pulpit of the South Park Church, Newark, N. J. He succeeds the Rev. Hugh O. Pentecost.

Newspaper Change at Haverhill.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 17.—The "Daily Gazette" has been sold by John B. Wright of the Boston "Herald" editorial staff, and another Boston man. A. A. Hill, editor of the "Gazette," will sail for Europe in September.

Windsorville Hotel Burned.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Aug. 17.—The Windsorville Hotel, Windsorville, with its contents was burned last night. The guests escaped uninjured. John Wennish was the proprietor; H. M. Dittrich owner of the building. Loss $4,000; insurance, $2,000. Cause of fire unknown.

How Jesuits Teach Latin.

By these learned men of the Society of Jesus the student is saluted upon his first arrival at the school with "Good morning" in Latin. From this beginning he is taught to put phrase after phrase into actual use; the instruction in the classes is conducted in Latin, not in English; and the student, when sufficiently advanced, is required to take part in extemporaneous discussions in Latin, in which, as of course he does not know what point his antagonist is going to make, he is emphatically put to his stump, and no set phrases, studied up in advance, will serve. And yet no doubt there are Latinists who would find the Latin taught by these Jesuit fathers rather ecclesiastical and somewhat corrupted, and, moreover, would maintain that, as there is really no use for Latin as a spoken language, but plenty of use for it as a purely literary tongue, the instruction in it may properly be adapted to a literary rather than a conversational need.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

ON HIS WAY HOME

Sullivan Greeted by Crowds, Cheers and Bonfires.

TO REACH NEW YORK TO-NIGHT.

He Feels Sore but Hopes to Escape Jail and Lead a Better Life.

The Champion Thinks that Kilrain Will Fare Badly—The Citizens of Richburg Build Bonfires in Honor of John L.—New York Sports Surprised at the Sentence—Rumors that Kilrain Will Go to Canada—Jem Smith's Bluster.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—After an uneventful trip from Purvis, Miss., John L. Sullivan reached town last evening, the train being several hours late. Proprietor Clune, of the Vanderbilt Hotel, New York, who has so steadfastly stood by the champion since his arrest and accompanied him to Mississippi, was with the big slugger.

The big fellow discussed his case, and plainly showed that he felt his conviction deeply. His conviction, and especially the imposition of the extreme penalty by Judge Terrell, was a great surprise to the slugger, and he attributes the fact of his being found guilty entirely to the second charge given to the Grand Jury, which almost forced upon them the finding of a true bill. He had only words of praise for the Mississippians who stood by him.

When his train reached Richburg he said Charles Rich was at the station with a large party of friends. Bonfires were lit and cheers were given for the champion. At Meridian and other towns crowds met the train and cheered the champion as he passed through.

Theonly part of his defense he did not like was the statement made in his behalf that Kilrain was the challenging party and had selected the battle ground, as he would not prejudice his case. Sullivan thought the sentence of one year in jail especially severe, because he had willingly placed himself in the hands of the law. He could have crossed the ocean until his pursuit was ended. He signed an indemnity bond before he left Purvis so as to protect his sureties should anything happen.

John was in a reminiscent mood before he left on the 11 p. m. train. He said: "I'll tell you one thing: When I get out of this trouble—if I ever do get out—I'm going to settle down and look out for the future. I'm done with all this monkey business. There's nothing in it. I didn't want to go into this fight, but I had to. After that Mitchell scrap on the other side I had to begin life over again. I had to whip Kilrain or lose my reputation; for if I hadn't licked him I believe it would have broken my heart. I'm not going to jail if I can prevent it, you bet; but if that sentence is affirmed I'll take my medicine like a man."

Further, the champion said he meant no disrespect to the people of Mississippi, and it was a case of fight or acknowledge himself a coward when he went upon the field which the challenger had chosen. He thinks Kilrain will be convicted, as he will have a poorer legal defense than himself.

The Kilrain Party Greatly Worried.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—Kilrain and his friends are greatly worried over the news of Sullivan's sentence, and they all now see where Kilrain made a mistake in not following the example of Mitchell and Pony Moore in getting out of the country. It is generally understood that Kilrain intends to go to England, and that it was his intention to leave immediately after the fight. Why he did not do so his friends can not understand. It was rumored to-day that he might yet make an effort to get away, preferring to forfeit his bail to taking chances with the Southern court.

New York Sports All Broken Up.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The sporting fraternity is all broken up over the announcement of Sullivan's sentence. The mere fining of Fitzpatrick, the referee, has however relieved the mind of those directly interested, as they now feel that nothing more severe than a fine awaits them.

Jem Smith's New Challenge.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Jem Smith has kept quiet till the cable announced that Sullivan had actually been convicted and that he is likely to go to prison. Now he comes forth with a blare of trumpets, declaring that Sullivan is afraid to meet him, and expressing his willingness to meet Slavin, the Australian slugger, for the championship and $5,000 a side. The opinion is sporting circles here is that Slavin can whip Smith.

Sudden Death of a Railroad Man.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Aug. 19.—Wm. C. Morris Jr., for many years general auditor of coal accounts for the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, was stricken with apoplexy yesterday and expired instantly.

Superintendent Gatchell Resigns.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19.—George S. Gatchell, General Superintendent of the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad, has resigned. The reason for his action is not made public yet.

30,000 ODD FELLOWS.

The Big Gathering Expected at Columbus, Ohio, Next Month.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—One of the grandest assemblages of Odd Fellows ever seen on this continent will be that which will be witnessed in this city during the week beginning September 16.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge will then be in session, and the Patriarchs' Militant, the uniformed portion of the order, will be here in numbers estimated at from six to ten thousand. It is thought that the grand procession will contain 30,000 Odd Fellows in line.

The Order of Rebekahs will also be in session and this meeting will attract many ladies. The drills of the uniformed divisions, for which prizes aggregating $7,000 will be offered, will be an important feature of the meeting. It is expected that several cities will make an effort to have the Sovereign Grand Lodge removed from Columbus.

FOREST FIRES IN MONTANA.

A Section 60 by 100 Miles Burned in Two Days—Several Towns Threatened.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 19.—Forest fires which have been raging all over Montana for three weeks have destroyed hundreds of thousand dollars worth of timber and have reached alarming proportions.

In two days the fire traveled over a section sixty miles wide and 100 miles in length. In Deer Lodge county the town of Georgetown is surrounded by fire, and a strong wind brought the flames within five miles of Phillipsburg.

The mill of the Bimetallic Mining Company, is in great danger, and the fire is traveling toward it with great rapidity.

Newspaper Men Shot At.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 19.—A. S. Witherspoon, of the New Haven Journal and Courier, and J. E. Burroughs, of the editorial staff of that paper, were shot at last evening while seated in the train arriving here at 7:30. The train slowed up in East Bridgeport to make a stop on the bridge. The pistol shots were fired from Crescent avenue through the car window. The glass was shattered and the bullets grazed the heads of Messrs. Witherspoon and Burroughs. The train was stopped and an attempt made to discover the assailants. It is thought that the shots were fired by an unsuccessful litigant. There is much excitement over the affair.

Sunday Ball Playing Stopped in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—The game scheduled here yesterday with the Columbus club was not played. Mayor Mosby informed President Stern if he permitted the game to be played he would arrest everyone connected with it. The Cincinnati club management are making preparations to play the rest of the games scheduled here on Sundays along the line of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad outside the city limits.

Annual Croquet Meeting.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 18.—The annual meeting and tournament of the National Croquet Association will be held here to-day, and continue through the week. The leading clubs of New England and the Middle States have sent delegates. Well known representative and ex-champions are also here. The players will be formed in three classes.

Several Persons Injured.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 19.—Yesterday an incoming passenger train on the Burlington and Missouri Railway was derailed two miles from the city. A broken brake beam threw a switch open and two cars were hurled down a high embankment. Eighteen persons were injured more or less seriously, but all may recover.

Seizure of British Vessels.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 18.—Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, has received the expected official reports of the seizure of the British vessels in the North Pacific by United States cruisers and revenue cutters, for alleged violations of United States laws in United States waters. These papers, it is understood, show that such seizure as far as they relate to ships registered in Canadian ports were effected outside of the marine jurisdiction of the United States, and are therefore unjustifiable, and entitle the owners to compensation for any loss that may have been suffered.

A Brooklyn Regiment Going West.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 19.—The Thirteenth Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., left last night for a week's tour in the West. They go first to Cleveland, and thence to Hamilton, Ont., where they will take part in the carnival parade next Friday, leaving for home the next day.

Killed in a Saloon.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 19.—During a quarrel in a saloon at Pittston, Edward Tates struck Thomas Snell in the neck, felling him to the floor. Snell died a moment later, his neck having been broken. He was a well-known resident of Pittston. Tates is under arrest.

Mr. Wanamaker's Quiet Sunday.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Postmaster General Wanamaker spent yesterday very quietly. He attended service at the Congregational Church, and listened to a sermon by Dr. Patton, President of Princeton College.

THE PRINCE IN LUCK

Albert Edward Receives a Present of $50,000.

THE MONEY SENT IN A LETTER.

The Writer Took Pains to Leave No Clew to His Identity.

He is Sorry for the Prince on Account of Parliament's Action on the Grants—The German and Austrian Emperors Have Strengthened the Existing Alliance—Sarah Bernhardt's Husband Dead—Frenchmen Sympathize With Boulanger.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—If the Queen and her royal offspring have been very much put out over the shameful way in which the Radicals opposed their modest request for more money, the Prince of Wales at least has something with which to soothe his lacerated feelings, as a direct outcome of the agitation instituted by the Radical members of Parliament and their supporters.

The Prince has received an anonymous letter in which the writer deplores the inconsiderate conduct of the disloyal Radicals, sympathizes with his Royal Highness in the unpleasant position in which their agitation placed him, and last, but by no means least, he gives a proof of the sincerity of his sympathy by enclosing ten crisp, new Bank of England notes, each of the denomination of £1,000.

No name is signed to the communication, and the writer has been at such pains to avoid leaving any clew to his identity that no one is prepared even to guess who he can be. The Prince of Wales himself has no suspicion of any one, but in any event it is not likely that the police will be asked to interfere to drag this modest specimen of British loyalty from his anonymous retreat.

BOULANGER SYMPATHIZERS.

London Frenchmen Present the General With an Address of Confidence.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Frenchmen residin London, to the number of 500, called upon General Boulanger, at his residence yesterday, and presented him with an address of sympathy and confidence.

In replying to their spokesman, he entered into the matter of his trial and conviction by the French Senate, and took occasion to deny the charges upon which he was tried.

He said he had never upon any occasion made use of funds belonging to the State except while trying to compass the safety of France when attacked by enemies. If thy had been cited to appear before any regular court in France to make answer to these outrageous charges, he and his colleagues would have hastened to take the first steamer for France. But such a course would not suft the nefarious purpose of those who, for the moment, were usurping the power of the Republic. They formed a tribunal, composed of his personal and political enemies, and the enemies of his colleagues, by which all were virtually condemned, before it met.

Of Frenchmen he said he only asked that he be treated with fairness, and the triumph of their present rulers, of which they boasted so loudly at present, would soon be a thing of the past.

The Germany and Austria Alliance.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—It is reported from Berlin that the conferences there, in which the two Emperors and their Ministers have taken part, have resulted in a very material modification of the alliance existing between Germany and Austria. Heretofore the treaty between the two powers provided for joint action only in case either was attacked. The alteration just effected in the treaty makes it obligatory upon either power to come to the assistance of the other when its vital interests are menaced. This modification is a marked strengthening of the existing alliance.

The Great Sculling Contest.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Searle, the Australian oarsman, is laid up with an abscess of the jaw. O'Connor is working himself into splendid form by daily practice with Wallace Ross and Lee. His backers are quite satisfied with his work and condition. Still Searle remains the favorite, the betting being two to one. Interest in the contest is increasing, and there are prospects of a tremendous crowd.

The Scripps Party Again Entertained.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The Scripps League of American Workman were again entertained by the Paris Municipality at a banquet whose guests also included forty French and twenty Spanish workmen visiting the Paris Exhibition. Later the party was taken in carriages to view many of the famous sights of the city.

A Negro Lynched.

SAVANNAH, Aug. 19.—Walter Asburg alias Berriam, was lynched at Pooler, ten miles west of Savannah, yesterday for assault upon Lulu Kissman, a 11-year-old German girl. The assault was made upon the girl at her home, in the centre of the town, while the family was away.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—A short turkey crop is prophesied. The wet weather killed the young stock.

—Oysters will be plentiful and fat. Only two more weeks before the season opens.

—Snipe shooting throughout Union county on the low lands is pronounced excellent by the lovers of the sport.

—Mr. S. Cahoone leads the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., rooms this evening, at 8 o'clock. All men welcome.

—Washington, N. J., is expecting a big time on Wednesday of this week, when the annual Farmer's Picnic takes place there.

—School children are beginning to look up their books by way of preparation for the opening of the schools for the fall term.

—Housewives are beginning to hunt up all the old stove pipes they can find, and soon smashed and cut fingers will be in vogue.

—The police officers who are on duty at night report great changes in the atmosphere before morning, the thermometer oftentimes lowering thirty and forty degrees.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held in the office of Jackson & Codington, this evening, at 8 o'clock.

—The usual Saturday afternoon trial contests of speed, took place on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday. The track was rather heavy, but in spite of this fact, some good time was made by the local horses. The attendance was large.

—A gentleman from this city hired a horse from a horse dealer, yesterday to drive over to Metuchen. The animal was all right going over, but coming back the stubborn beast refused to draw even a vacant wagon, and the man was obliged to lead the horse all the way home.

—One of a crowd of overgrown boys who were passing along Somerset street, in the vicinity of the Notch at six o'clock last evening, picked up a signal lamp and reflector which had been located to warn pedestrians and drivers of a dangerous washout in the roadbed, and threw them down among the rocks, shattering the glass into fragments. The boys will be arrested and made to answer.

The Rev. Goyn Talmage.

The announcement that the above-named divine would preach at the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning and evening, drew forth a large audience at each service.

His morning theme was the story of the "Samaritan woman at the well," as related in the fourth chapter of the gospel of St. John. The story was told in a lucid, practical way, as only a Talmage could tell it, and the learned divine commanded the undivided attention of those present. His delivery is of a subdued, yet earnest style, and his argument remarkable for its convincing simplicity.

In the evening his text was "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," as found in the 22d chapter of Proverbs. Many and pointed were the truths he drew from the text, and the originality used in putting them, left a lasting impression on his hearers.

The Death Record.

The death is announced of Mr. Daniel P. Martin, which occurred at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Clark, of "Dug Way," yesterday morning, from paralysis. Mr. Martin was 74 years of age. He leaves a son and two daughters. The funeral will take place from Trinity Reformed church, to-morrow at 10 A. M.

Mr. T. J. Halstead, a resident of Fourth and New streets, died of old age on Saturday night. He was in the 84th year of his age, and has been a resident of this city for a long time past.

A Serious Runaway.

A horse attached to a light no-top business wagon, driven by Mr. Fred Harris of Clinton avenue, ran away on Peace street at ten o'clock this morning. When turning into Front street Mr. Harris was thrown out and sustained a severe fracture to his right leg at the ankle. The wounded man was carried into Dr. Probasco's office, where the wounds were dressed, and later he was taken to his home.

The horse was captured on Front street, near the post office.

Don't Miss It.

To-morrow promises to be a grand day for the excursion to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park under the management of Messrs Laing and Nelson. The weather will undoubtedly be just warm enough and the bathing hours are most convenient. The train leaves Plainfield at 8.15 A. M., and returns from the Grove during the evening. Tickets for the trip $1.25; children, 90 cents.

Fell Off a Scaffold.

Christian Muller and Jos. VanArsdale fell off a scaffold, Friday afternoon, and were seriously hurt. They were working on a building owned by Mr. George Roder on Arlington avenue. The scaffold broke, and they fell about fifteen feet. Muller began work again Saturday, but was compelled to give it up.

Sunday Ball Playing.

The Chatham street nine beat a ball team from "Bull Frog City" on the Hyde grounds, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 23 to 8. Sunday ball playing is a nuisance, and should be broken up. Attention, Borough officials!

THE BUTTERMILKS CHURNED.

A One-Sided Game in Which the Crescents Win as Usual.

The Buttermilk ball nine of New York, fell an easy prey to the Crescents, Saturday, because of their own rank playing. The home team did not put up much of a game itself, but it was good enough to sour the Buttermilks.

The game opened with the visitors at the bat, and a poor throw to second and a passed ball, both by Cadmus, let a run in. It looked dubious then for Plainfield. Gately "said" he would have to let up on his catcher, and it seemed as if the Crescents would be snowed under.

But they batted as they never batted before. Condon made four hits, and everybody else excepting Hayden and Mc Laughlin, got one or two. Meyers was so afraid to put the ball over the plate in the second inning, that he sent four to first on balls and forced in two runs. Bowman played a fine second.

The score was:

CLARENCE PELL'S REMAINS.

A Grief-stricken Party Return from the Camp in the North Woods.

The body of Clarance Guest Pell, who was shot and killed accidentally in the North Woods on Thursday by young Ellis H. Roberts of Utica, arrived in New York at 7 o'clock Saturday night. The party arriving with the body was composed of Gen. James W. Husted, and his sons, Thomas D. Husted and James W. Husted, Jr. The last named young man was the college chum of young Pell, and was with him in the woods when he was killed. Pell's funeral will be at his father's house this evening at 7 o'clock. The body will be interred in Woodlawn at the convenience of the family.

Ellis H. Roberts, who shot Pell, is a boy of 16. His companions say that he was simply crazy when he found what he had done. He was several times restrained with difficulty from killing himself, and on the way out of the woods with the body he moaned and cried continually. The fatal accident happened near Pausaucalla Lake, in Herkimer county. From there to the nearest place to where a team could be procured was about ten miles. The companions of the dead boy had to carry his body this distance on an improvised litter of saplings. The bullet that killed Pell narrowly escaped killing Gen. Husted's son, James W. Husted, Jr. Pell, Husted and Roberts were sitting in a line, and just as Roberts fired Husted, who was in the middle of the three, happened to bend his head down to the ground. Roberts' bullet whistled over the back of Husted's neck and hit Pell. The force with which the bullet sped may be imagined from the fact that it cut through a sapling two inches thick before it hit Pell, and then when it struck the young man passed entirely through his body from breast to shoulder blade.

Reform Hall.

A large and appreciative audience met in Reform Hall last evening. Vice President Harper occupied the chair, Rev. Mr. Cleaver officiated as Chaplain, and Mr. Vanderbeek and his efficient choir conducted the musical exercises.

Doctor John H. Shotwell, of Asbury Park, was introduced as the speaker of the evening, and ably and eloquently he responded. Earnestly did he plead for a government devoid of evil, and boldly urged upon all religious professors the duty of actively bringing about such a desirable result. He gave warning of a peril now confronting the people of Plainfield and of this country, far greater than any Johnstown flood, the devastating power of intoxicating liquor, and with marked force of language he recounted the downfall of ancient cities and nations because they persisted in following wicked ways, and argued that our own favored land could not escape punishment for wrong doing.

The Doctor's remarks elicited close attention and gave general satisfaction. He was succeeded by George M. Angleman, who in a few words antagonised the liquor traffic and declared that temperance was the cause of right. After Mr. Cleaver, in a very touching manner had solicited signers to the pledge, the meeting closed with customary form.

—A white horse belonging to a farmer in Washington Valley, dropped dead in the harness in front of Blatz's Hotel, this forenoon.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. W. E. Trewe is at Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Maud Erskine is at Sheffield, Mass.

Mr. L. E. Wright, and family, of Park avenue, are at Point Pleasant.

Mrs. J. D. Runyon, of Park avenue and Fifth street, is at Asbury Park.

Miss Kate Potter is home from her stay with relatives in New Haven, Conn.

Miss Nellie Crawford, of Peace street, is taking a needed rest at Asbury Park.

Mr. Walter Dobbins of this city is among the late arrivals at Ocean Grove.

Mr. Chas. Teeple, of North Plainfield, has accepted a lucrative position in Newark.

Mrs. Gideon Barnes, of Washington avenue, is visiting relatives at Centerville, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Saunders, and family, are registered at Hotel Shrewsbury, Seabright.

The Misses Ida and Clara Williams have gone to the Seaside Sanitarium, at Asbury Park, N. J.

Mr. A. J. Everitt, of North Plainfield, started today for a short visit at Mountrose, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Cox and family, are at the Kimball Hotel, Northeast Harbor, Me.

Messrs Fred Smalley, Charles Stover, and Frank Clawson, are at The Kernwood, Asbury Park.

Mrs. J. P. Laire and daughter have returned from an enjoyable visit with friends in Annandale.

Chief of Police T. J. Carey and Officer Geo. W. Grant, begin their ten days' vacation today.

The Rev. Goyn Talmage was the guest during Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stout, at "The Elms."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Talmadge, and Miss Talmadge, of Netherwood, are at The Breslin, Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. C. H. Munn and Miss Munn, of LaGrande avenue, are at the Hotel Averne, at Averne-by-the-Sea.

Mr. Arthur Crone, cashier for A. M. Griffen, has left Plainfield with his mother for a vacation at Asbury Park.

Messrs John L. Force, James Blair and Augustus Coombs, have gone to Ocean Grove where they are staying at The Alaska.

The Misses Sadie and Annie Searing, of West Third street, left on Saturday for a week's visit among friends at Perth Amboy.

Mr. David N. Thayer, editor of the Hotel Mail, spent Sunday at the home on Duer street of Mr. A. J. Leader who is Manager and part owner of the paper.

Craig A. Marsh, Esq., left for Nebraska today, to look after investments made by him, and to place a large sum of money on seven per cent mortgages for Plainfield clients.

Mr. David Layton, and Miss Sallie Dobbs, of Liberty Corner, N. J., and Mrs. John F. Everitt, and Miss Jennie Everitt, of Orange, N. J., are the guests of Mr. P. G. Kline, of Summit avenue.

Mr. Thomas S. Harris, of Philadelphia, accompanied by his wife and family, is visiting his sister, Mrs. George Meschutt of E. Front street, and Mrs. Harris' brother Mr. L. A. Dunn, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn, of Scotch Plains, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their residence, last evening. About seventy-five persons were present from this city, New York and other distant points, and passed the evening in a social way. The gifts were numerous.

The Misses Jennie and Julia Allen gave a lawn party at their recidence on East Front street, Thursday evening last, at which there were present guests from this and adjacent cities. Dancing was the prominent feature of the evening's enjoyment, and was only interspersed with the serving of supper.

The death of Mrs. Eunice Drake, mother of General Drake of the Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth, at that place on Thursday, as told in Friday's PRESS, recalls to mind the fact that she was in the 73d year of her age, and was born near Plainfield, having removed to Elizabeth about forty-five years ago. She was for many years a communicant of Christ church, and no one was more regular in attendance. The last time she attended service there was a week ago on Friday, on the occasion of the baptism of a grandchild.

Mr. Charles Schermerhorn, Manager of the Western Union office in this city, leaves today with his wife and son for Ocean City, N. J., where his uncle, Prof. Charles H. Schermerhorn, owns a handsome Summer cottage. The telegraph company have granted their representative a two weeks' leave in recognition of his faithful services, and the railroad company have tendered him the courtesies of the road. Ocean City is a new, and rapidly becoming popular resort a few miles below Atlantic City. It is similar to Ocean Grove in its moral character and religious services.

Highway Robbery.

Wm. Connett, a mason, was knocked down on the Peace street railroad bridge in this city, late on Saturday night, and relieved of his watch. This afternoon Officer Lynch arrested Fred Randolph, a colored man, and he will be formally charged with committing the crime. The prisoner was locked up.

IMPUTING THE COUNCIL.

A Disinterested Observer Writes Again About Those Water-Works Specifications and Bids, Merely to Create a Discussion for the Benefit of the Public, You Know.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: When Mr. Woltmann witnessed his recent production displayed in clear, cold type, he must have regretted seriously that he permitted his imagination to get the better of his judgment. His friends, some of whom must be implicated in his stupid admissions, certainly have a just cause for complaint, as in endeavoring to prevent himself from being "drawn out," he has literally spread himself all around in a manner not at all to his advantage or credit. Before referring to matters of more interest, the writer desires to correct some impressions which Mr. Woltmann, even though erroneously, is evidently possessed of.

"Observer" is not in any way interested in obtaining a water franchise for himself or anyone else, under the present specifications. Nor is he connected directly or indirectly with anyone who is. He is simply, as his nom de plume indicates, a looker-on, and claims the privilege of criticising any or all plans presented for the introduction of water, sewers and street railways, or any other public question, with the end in view that the public may possibly by this means obtain some information which the Common Council and its committees seem very chary about providing.

"Observer" may also be deeply engrossed in fathoming the new "pigs-in-clover" financial scheme wherein an applicant is aching to pay the city $6,000 for the privilege of receiving $5,000 for services rendered, and which comprehends the payment of $15,000 of interest, on $250,000 borrowed capital with the aforesaid $5,000.

There is therefore no just reason why Mr. Woltmann should pass any more sleepless nights respecting this matter; neither is it graceful for him to fly into alternate paroxysms of fear and rage every time one sees fit to question the provisions of his very vulnerable application. Neither will it divert public attention from the weakness of his plans to resort to baseless intimations, and this method of procedure might wisely be abandoned. Therefore, in the future, it would be just as well for Mr. Woltmann to be more cautious where he drops his pebbles, as people who reside in glass domiciles oftentimes invite a bombardment.

Now we will drop a nickel in the slot and see from whose wood-pile the Ethiopean emerges, and the operation of showing him up will be as brief as possible.

It will be remembered that as soon as the present Council determined to take the water and sewer question under advisement, it straightway engaged the services of Engineer Rudolph Hering for the absurd sum of $300. In due course his report was submitted. On the evening of the discussion of its provisions, Councilman Marsh was forced to make the statement that it looked very much as if a scheme had already been cut and dried to award a water franchise to some party or parties. On the same night, after adjournment, another Councilman, it is said, made the statement in a public place, that no one gets a franchise from this Council unless Rudolph Hering is engaged as the Engineer, and don't you forget it, or words to that effect. It must be confessed that the action of certain members of the Council before and since that night, would bear out that view of the situation. In the first place the specifications were so drawn that no contractor or engineer could honestly submit a proposition in compliance with them, and as has been before written, only eight out of thirty-six concerns to whom the specifications were sent, responded. Now the question is bound to intrude itself—did Mr. Hering have Mr. Woltmann's $6,000 in mind when he drew the specifications, and was the mongrel thing presented to the Common Council the result of deliberate action to drive away worthy and honorable competitors?

For a long time the writer has wondered who it was that had so much control over the Council to call forth Councilman Marsh's remark, but now Mr. Woltmann kindly comes to the rescue and states that it was his intention to engage Mr. Hering as his Engineer. "Dost thou like the picture?" Mr. Woltmann.

It now seems as if the sable individual was protruding from Mr. Woltmann's stock of fire-wood, and since he has been located, Mr. Woltmann will probably reply to the suggestion and answer all other queries by applying the appellation of "horse thief" to

SCOTCH PLAINS' SECRET SOCIETIES.

And How Mr. William C. Strong Was Initiated in the Royal Arcanum.

I don't know what it's like to be a member of the Royal Arcanum; I don't belong to that mysterious body and probably never will. It was my lot to be the founder of an Order that we used to have in the village, and of which Samuel Pope was the presiding spirit. This ancient organization was know as the Langaway Society, and I fear that we rendered ourselves something of a nuisance to the older and wiser people of the village. But that was years and years ago, and Sam Pope is in England now, wearing all the dignity of an Oxford man, unless indeed, he has finished his course—I really can't say.

Then there was the A. T. Club, composed chiefly of boys and girls at the public school. There was more or less of secrecy about this society and not every one knew that the mysterious letters of its title stood for "Apple Tree Club," so called because its meetings were held during recess beneath the old apple tree near the Methodist church. This juvenile society flourished in the land for a year or two, gave Sunday entertainments—on a small scale—and then dissolved in air.

Contemporary with the A. T., was the Howard Club. "Pete" Cooper, of undying memory among the youth of the town, was one of its bright lights. Will Gere, who, like Charley Cooper, has long since gone from the scenes of his boyhood, was another one prominent in its councils; likewise George L. Johnston, whom his friends never would, under any circumstances, nor by any possibility, call by his name, and who was known from one end of the town to the other as "Grader." The Howard Club has also gone the way of the righteous, and the grass grows green over its grave.

THE IMPROVED ORDER OF RING-TAILED ROARERS, whose sacred laws repose in the secret chamber of the Pyramid of Cheops, still lives and flourishes. The sacred dog of the Order may be seen any day in our streets—but I am keeper of the great seal, and can say no more.

The Knights of Pythias embrace of course the grave and reverend seignors, our very noble and approved good masters, but all their actions are shrouded beneath a secret and inpenetrable veil.

These are a few of our secret societies, past and present, and I now come to the point at which I started—The Royal Arcanum.

Some time ago, before the freshet, and when the sidewalks were kept in order, Mr. William C. Strong, having been duly called and chosen, was put through. Now the method of his initiation was in this wise.

Mr. Strong being at the time in possession of all his faculties, of sound disposing mind and memory and fully competent to make a will, stood in the centre of a dimly lighted room, and saw around him the faces of his friends; he distinctly beheld Mr. Roland Treadwell and a shadowy something far away that looked like John Cook—also Mr. Corey or his image. A fragrant incense filled the air, proceeding apparently from a swinging censer hung by a three-ply cord. The goat stood in a far corner, drowsily blinking. During all this time a low, uncanny music was heard, the source of which could not be ascertained. A figure muffled in a dark veil through which his eyes gleamed with a sepulchral fire arose and motioned to Mr. Strong. Questions were asked, and as each answer was given there was heard a sound like to the clicking of a wheel, and an awful voice, coming seemingly from the depth of Hell, was heard to proclaim at each answer, LET IT BE SO RECORDED.

By hands unseen he was blindfolded, and by hands unseen and led by the wierd and unearthly music, he was guided as he moved—forward—downward—turning but ever downward, downward. At last he paused, and an icy blast, cold as the kiss of death, passed over his throbbing brow. He seemed to be treading on air, and although he could feel no fetters upon him he could neither rise nor descend, advance nor retreat. Suddenly the bandage fell from his eyes; he stood in a blaze of light, but nothing was beneath him, nor could he distinguish anywhere either form or limit or space; there was no attribute to his surroundings but light, nor had he now any bodily sensations, but hung as a disembodied spirit in an ocean of light. Then this ceased; there was a feeling of being carried violently upward, and the cold breeze was changed to a terrific blast of heat. And here his physical sensations returned, and he saw around him the faces of a thousand friends, some of distorted form and dreadful visage, some twisted in a diabolical leer and some of a frightful and terrible wickedness. And as he stood there, he felt, although his lips were closed, that he was laying bare the innermost recesses of his heart and all the past history of his life; then he felt something hard and sharp striking him from underneath; he was again projected upwards through space, there was a frightful ringing in his ears, and discordant sounds; his head was bursting, when suddenly, with an increased upward plunge, and with an awful bursting and crashing sound, with brain on fire and agonies as of the soul parting from the body he was once more on solid ground; he heard the sound of familiar voices around him, and some one was saying "Well, old man, it's all over. You did first rate." It was Mr. Treadwell, and there was the goat, looking at him with half closed eyes.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

SUICIDE AT BOUND BROOK

A Well-known Resident of that Place Shoots Himself in the Mouth, and is Found Dead in an Out-house.

David Mack, an old and respected resident of Bound Brook, committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, at his home, corner of John and Franklin streets, yesterday afternoon. The dead man was found in an out house, about half-past one o'clock, soon after the deed was committed.

The deceased was about seventy years of age, and for many years he was a member of the Bloomington Saw Mill Company. A son of his, Mr. Richard Mack, is a conductor on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. No cause is asigned for the man's rash act.

Mr. Mack was an old "49er," having gone West during the great gold excitement in that year, where he amassed considerable wealth.

County Physician, H. G. Wagoner, of Somerville was notified of the suicide, and gave the necessary burial permit, deeming an inquest unnecessary, and Undertaker Bush took charge of the remains.

THE ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Dr. Hammond Will Not Denounce the New Discovery.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Dr. Hammond, in an interview on the use of the so-called "Elixir of Life," says:

"Judging from the reports in the newspapers of the experiments with the Brown-Sequard fluid, they have been conducted in an extremely unscientific and illogical manner. The reports state that the fluid has been sterilized by the doctors using it. They might as well boil it, so far as the process affects its properties. It is made absolutely dead and useless by being sterilized.

"Again, Dr. Brown-Sequard took fifteen injections, extending over more than a month, before he ventured a report of its effect upon him. There was no immediate effect from it. Having no elixir to-day, I used water. One man who was rheumatic said he felt like a new man. This shows the folly of jumping at conclusions.

The fluid two or three hours old, Dr. Hammond thinks, would not be dangerous, but would have lost its strength. If putrid, it would be dangerous.

IS NOT ENGAGED.

Benjamin Butler Not Secured to Prosecute Justice Fields.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 19.—General Benjamin F. Butler said he had not, as stated in some newspapers, been retainen as prosecuting attorney against Justice Field and Deputy Marshal Nagle. General Butler says he could not be retained in the case, as he would not act as prosecuting officer against Justice Field.

"I do not think the law of the case has been clearly stated in any of the newspapers," said the General. "If a man is attacked, and is in danger of his life, he is obliged to go to the wall before he can take the life of his assailant. It is different in the case of an officer sent to protect the Justice of a Court. It is then left in his judgment to strike when he fears the life of the Judge is in danger from his assailant."

SURPRISED AT THE ARREST.

Chief Justice Fuller Considers that Justice Field Was but a Spectator.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 19.—Chief-Justice Fuller passed through Pittsburg on the limited last night from Cresson Springs, Pa., where he left his two daughters, on his way to Chicago. When asked about the killing of ex-Judge Terry he said:

"I had heard that Terry had uttered threats against Justice Field, but I did not know of them personally. I was surprised when I heard that Justice Field had been arrested.

"I cannot see what he had to do with the murder any more than other spectators. Judge Sawyer has issued a habeas corpus, and Justice Field will no doubt be released."

He said Justice Field was a man not to be deterred by threats, but would do his duty under all circumstances.

Pilgrims to a New York Shrine.

TRIBES HILL, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Over 2,000 persons made a pilgrimage to the shrine of our Lady of Martyrs, at Auriesville yesterday, including a large delegation of priests and deacons from Philadelphia congregations, from St. Mary's Church, Amsterdam, from Sacred Heart Church, Tribes Hill, and from St. Cecelia's Church, Fonda. Rev. Father Dewey, of Philadelphia, took part in the religious exercises, which were conducted under a large tent.

Democrats at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 18.—Already the Democratic politicians are here for the committee meeting. It is probable that the committee will call the convention to meet at Saratoga September 18. It is rumored that Tammany Hall will demand an increased representation in the convention by reason of its recent political successes. This will be stubbornly opposed by the County Democracy.

The Flack Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—All the papers in the Flack case are said to be in the handwriting of Referee Meeks. The lawyers for Mrs. Flack observed this fact when they first examined the papers upon the reopening of the case, and two photographic copies were taken. Civil Justice Monell went yesterday to Cape May, where Mrs. Raymond is supposed to be. It is expected that some interesting developments will be made this afternoon.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

LEADERS TO BATTLE

The New York and Boston Clubs to Meet To-Day.

IT WILL BE AN EXCITING GAME.

The Result of the Series at the Hub May Decide the Championship.

The Philadelphia and Cleveland Clubs Are Close Enough to Bother the Leaders. Chicago Not Likely to Get a Better Place Than It Has—The St. Louis Browns Retain Their Fine Lead in the Association. Standing of the Clubs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—When New York meets Boston to-day will occur a struggle. As the two representative teams are stretching their necks, collectively speaking, for supremacy, these games will have a decidedly important bearing upon the pennant race. As the clubs now stand, the chances are that there will be only a slight margin between them when they come together, and the club which loses the series will go far down on the percentage list. Boston and New York and Philadelphia and Cleveland are still close enough to make every game count, now that the clubs are on the three-quarter stretch. Boston did not make a very creditable start on its Western trip, losing ground in Indianapolis and Pittsburg. Philadelphia and Cleveland are close, but all the chances should favor the former beating the latter out, and anything short of this would cause surprise. Chicago got a severe setback when it met New York, and Pittsburg has lost so much ground that it is not likely to get a much better place than it has, though it will be dangerous if it ever gets into a playing form. Washington is doomed to be a tail-ender, though its improved work makes the fight the more interesting and every club that meets it is required to put up its very best game.

To offset the popular prejudice that the Boston team has been playing losing ball purposely to repay Director Billings for the selfish criticism which he has been passing upon their individual work, a gentleman who is traveling with the club in the capacity of a correspondent writes that a more disappointed lot of ball players never existed than those who comprise the Boston team, during the lead in the present struggle. Their anxiety to regain it made them very zealous, and their desire to do phenomenal work is responsible for the poor game which they put up. The boys say it has been a great strain on them to remain in front, from the fact that every club in the League made a special effort to down the leaders and never paid any attention to the New Yorks.

Philadelphia has played about as steady a game all season as could be desired. This club is by no means out of the race, and the same may be said of Baltimore in the Association. They have both had many ups and downs, but just now they are figuring as dark horses. The desperate character of Harry Wright's team in the past in knocking out would-be champions is known and they loom up in great form just now, and the Giants and Beaneaters are asking themselves the question as to who will be floored by the Quakers this season. They are third in the race, with little fear of being overtaken by the Clevelands or Chicagos.

The past week has been one of fluctuations in the Association. When the Brooklyns encountered the Browns a week ago they were much closer rivals of the champions than they are at present. Three of the most remarkable games ever played by the St. Louis team were those in which they took all the pluck out of the Grooms. They not only defeated them, but they wiped the field up with their remains, and then sent them to Kansas City feeling that they could only battle with the tail-enders. Even with the cowboys as opponents they have had the hardest time to win. From this series of games it is easily seen that the Grooms have lost heart. St. Louis has won most of its games from weak clubs, while the case is just the reverse with the Brooklyns

NEW JERSEY WORKINGMEN

The State Federation of Labor in Session at Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 19.—The twelfth annual congress of the New Jersey State Federation of Trade and Labor Unions opened in this city to-day. Nearly all the labor unions in the State are represented, each union being entitled to three delegates for 100 members.

An address of welcome to the delegates was delivered by Mayor Cleveland.

According to the official call "business of vital importance will be submitted to the congress, and a report of the work of the Legislative Committee will be given."

Among the questions to be brought up are the reduction of the hours of labor, the amendment of the State Factory law, the legal prohibition of Pinkertonism in the State, and ballot reform.

During the past few years there has been remarkable progress in the work of labor organizations in this State, but the Legislative Committee of the congress has expressed its regret that "many of the most important labor measures were strangled at the last session of the State Legislature."

$100,000,000 FOR BEER.

Mammoth Operations in America of Rich English Capitalists.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 19.—J. J. O'Reilly, who is the representative in this city of the English Brewery Syndicate, says that the capital stock of this syndicate is $100,000,000 or more, and the syndicate will not make purchases of less than $1,000,000. None but old and established industries will be purchased.

He states that the syndicate has already closed deals of $7,000,000 for three of the breweries in Pittsburg and Allegheny City, and all that was wanting in the matter was ratification by the company in London.

Forty million dollars have already been invested in America, a large share of it being in Philadelphia. Chicago, Denver and New York. There are at least three big English syndicates in America.

Chicago Breweries Gobbled In.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—It is learned that negotiations have just been completed by which the entire brewery interest of Chicago has been sold to a syndicate of English capitalists. The negotiations were conducted by Mr. Heiser, who has heretofore been more prominent in Masonic circles than in business affairs. The purchase involves millions of dollars and has been kept a secret and is known only in Chicago to the parties directly interested.

Carr Surprises His Acquaintances.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Alfred Carr, who kept a "bucket shop at No. 36 Pine street in the name of Alfred Carr & Co., and whose departure for Europe about six weeks ago was followed by the suspension of business in Pine street, with creditors claiming about $40,000 balances, returned to his home in Orange, N. J., much to the surprise of every one, as though nothing extraordinary had happened or was expected to happen. Carr's attorney said, to-day: "We are trying to adjust Carr's affairs to the satisfaction of his creditors, and there is every prospect we will succeed. By to-morrow he hopes to resume business.

Entertaining Editors.

DETROIT, Aug. 19.—The citizens' executive committee for the entertainment of the National Editorial Association, which meets in Detroit August 27-30, have completed all arrangements. The visitors are to be entertained at Senator Palmer's log house, ex-Postmaster General Dickinson will give them a reception, the Detroit International Fair and Exposition will entertain them at their buildings, and the committee have arranged for boat rides and a banquet at the Star Island House, St. Clair Flats. The finance committee have raised a large amount of money to make the affair a success in all its details.

French War Ships Not Welcome.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—The reason now assigned for the countermanding of the orders for the French squadron designated to visit Quebec is that the French Ambassador at London received a courteous intimation from Lord Salisbury that in the present condition of the public temper in Canada on the subject of French ascendancy in the Province of Quebec it might be undesirable to allow French war ships to anchor in Quebec harbor.

Sanitary Engineers Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug, 19.—The President has appointed Rudolph Hering, of New York City, Samuel M. Gray, of Providence, R. I., and F. P. Stearns, of Boston, to be Sanitary Engineers, to examine and report upon the system of sewerage in the District of Columbia, as provided by a law passed during the last session of Congress.

Mormon Missionaries Attacked.

ELLENBORO, W. Va., Aug. 19.—Two Mormon elders named Devoir and Shinn attempted to hold a meeting at Pine Grove, this county, last night. The crowd attacked the missionaries with clubs, stones and rotten eggs, and they were badly beaten and their clothes ruined. Shinn has a severe cut on the head.

Production of Quarries to Be Reduced.

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 19.—A special from Granville, N. Y., says: The production of thirty quarries of the Vermont State Trust will be reduced to two-thirds September 1, owing to over production and more favorable rates existing for Pennsylvania shippers.

Britain Can Have Him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The trial of Peter Lynch, the sailor who killed the mate of the steamer Morand at Manzanilla, Cuba, has been concluded. The accused will be held for extradition by the British Government, the prisoner meanwhile to remain in the custody of the Sheriff.

SHOES OF HUMAN SKIN.

A Chicago Shoe-Maker Makes Them to Order.

An Enterprising Reporter Is Measured for a Pair and Has an Interesting Conversation with the Dealer in Human Leather.

It has been whispered around that Mr. William Gee could and would make shoes that were more reliable than any to be had in Chicago, and Mr. Gee when approached admitted that it was so.

"They'll never crack on the sides, and they'll never wear out. They are most elastic and shape themselves to the feet so that there can be no possible trouble from misfits."

"I believe I'll get a pair," said the reporter.

"That's right," said Mr. Gee. "You'll never regret it. They'll wear you forever and will fit like moccasins. One doctor I know has a pair of slippers that he has worn seven years, and they're good for another seven. I haven't much left, but I have the skin of one white woman here. I suppose you'd rather have that than a negro's skin."

It was somewhat startling, and if the reporter had not had a warning as to what to expect he would probably have been flurried.

Mr. William Gee sells shoes made from the skin of human beings.

He has done it quietly for some time, and is now making a pair of low shoes from the skin taken, according to his own story, from the leg of a woman. Of course Mr. Gee does not advertise the fact that he makes shoes from human skin, but some of his patrons have been told that they could have some of these "extremely durable shoes" if desired.

These facts were in possession of a Chicago Tribune man, so he promptly replied that he preferred the skin of a white woman. Mr. Gee took a parcel of yellow leather from a case and said:

"Here it is. It is the last white woman's I have. It is pretty hard to get it now."

"Why?" asked the reporter as he felt of the leather.

"Well, it's hard to get it tanned," replied Mr. Gee. "We used to send it out as pig-skin, but before tanning it is too easily distinguished, and tanners are superstitious. I can get the skins easier than I can get them tanned."

"How do you get the skins?"

"I know a man who used to be a medical student and he supplies them to me. He's a practicing physician now."

A question as to who the medical man was seemed to make Mr. Gee suspicious and the matter was dropped for a moment while the reporter's foot was being measured.

"What are the peculiar advantages of human skin?" ventured the reporter after awhile.

"It never wears out," replied Mr. Gee, "and it never cracks. It is the most durable of any leather. You can wear it for years. It stretches well, too, and is a most comfortable shoe."

"Do you make many?"

"No. I haven't had much to do lately. You see it isn't generally known, and then I find it hard to get the skins tanned now."

"Where are they tanned?"

Mr. Gee evaded the question.

Several hours later the Tribune man called again and suggested that the skin was not human skin at all, but that deceit had been attempted. On this call a young woman was working at a machine near the front of the store. Her material was apparently from the same piece of leather that the reporter had seen earlier in the day.

"If any one wants to bet that this is not human skin," said Mr. Gee, "tell me what the amount is and I will put it up and furnish the proof. I can prove it by the doctor who got it for me and by the tanners."

He declined, however, to give the names of either "unless there is something to be gained by it, you know."

"I would like to know, though," said the reporter, "if that is surely from a human body."

The girl at the machine made some sort of an exclamation, and Mr. Gee remarked:

"She hates to work on it."

Then he brought out the skin that he had shown in the morning, unrolled it, and laid it along his body. There had been two pieces cut out.

"You see," he said, as he smoothed it out, "it is a portion of a woman's skin. It runs from the neck nearly to the ankle. One of your shoes"—and he showed the place—"was cut from the breast, and the other"—another illustration—"from the leg."

In both places leather had been cut out to all appearances for a shoe, and the piece he exhibited had every indication of having been originally fitted to that portion of the anatomy he described. To make the matter doubly sure he brought out another piece of skin.

"This is a negro's," he said. "It's taken from his side just under the arm. You can see how thin it is under the arm, and how it gets thicker further down." The matter was demonstrated as he went along.

Going out the reporter asked the girl at the machine how she liked working on leather made from human skin.

"I don't like it," she said, "but then there is no reason to complain now. It doesn't smell."

"Did it at first?"

"Did it?" Her nose went up. "When the sachel first came here—"

"The skin came in a sachel, then?"

"Yes."

"It wasn't tanned?"

"No."

"I have it all tanned myself," said Mr. Gee. "The skin is brought to me and then I have it tanned. That's my greatest trouble."

Recognized by His Legs.

When the Bishop of Edinburgh was in this country he visited Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, at Middletown. Habited in the English Episcopal costume of knee breeches and black silk stockings, he alighted from the train and was at once accosted by Bishop Williams, although the two men had never met each other before. "Tell me," asked Bishop Williams after the first greetings, "how did you know me?" "O, by your face," replied his Lordship of Edinburgh. "I have one of your photographs, you know. But tell me in return how you knew me?" "O, by your legs," replied Dr. Williams, glancing with an amused smile at the well-turned calves of his guest.

Perfume for Ladies' Boots.

It is becoming quite the thing nowadays among fashionable shoemakers to sift either orris-root powder or some lasting sachet powder between the leather and the lining of ladies' boots. They also have in stock dainty little shakers filled with the powder mixed with soapstone, which may be used at will. These shakers are about twice the size of an ordinary pepper-shaker, and can be found in china, upon which are pretty designs, cut glass with silver tops, carved sandalwood and silver, either engraved or hammered.

MR. DEPEW'S MAIL.

Singular Applications Addressed to the Famous Railroad President.

The correspondence addressed to most railroad magnates contains many singular and interesting things, but few, if any, men of note receive so remarkable appeals and requests as those which find their way into the mail of Chauncey M. Depew, writes a St. Louis Globe-Democrat correspondent.

About nine-tenths of the communications sent the president of the New York Central Railroad Company are marked with an unmistakable and conspicuous "Personal," the writers evidently believing that no graceless clerk would dare to invade the sanctity of their confidential outgivings. They seem to think that these gems of "true inwardness" are reserved to Mr. Depew's eyes only, when he sits in guarded closet with barred door to consider their desires. If these admirers of his would take the trouble to reflect a moment they would see that it is a physical impossibility for him to read one in a dozen of these extremely "personal" appeals. Only the most important are brought to his attention, although he does see some of the funniest, for the sense of the ludicrous is strong in Private Secretary Du Val, and when that discriminating inquisitor comes across a letter the flavor of which he knows would be appreciated by his chief he lays it aside for Mr. Depew's own inspection. Mr. Depew never discloses the name of a correspondent of this kind, but he often amuses his friends with verbatim reports of what has been written to him.

Some of the people who address him give ample proof of a large endowment of "cheek." Not long ago Mr Depew received a letter from a man living up the Hudson something less than one hundred miles above New York, saying that he had ordered a suit of clothes in town, but it was inconvenient for him to pay for them just now. Would Mr. Depew be kind enough to call at the tailor's, pay the bill and send the goods to the writer's address by express! He was anxious to come to New York and make a respectable appearance, and from what he knew of Mr. Depew's reputation as a kind-hearted and liberal-spirited citizen he was sure that he would not stand on so small a matter as a suit of clothes when a fellow being's happiness was at stake. Moreover, he was not a man of extravagant tastes, he said, and the bill for the clothes was only fifty dollars; they would answer his purpose quite as well as more costly apparel. The postscript to the letter expressed the hope that a pass from — station to New York and return would be sent with the clothes. By way of reciprocity the writer would do Mr. Depew the favor to call and see him when he came to New York.

"But this was not from an entire stranger, Mr. Depew?" was asked.

"Yes, it was. I never saw or heard of the man before—and he hasn't heard from me since." And Mr. Depew seemed to be enjoying the "wait" the fellow was having

A WEALTHY RECLUSE.

Remarkable Story About a Rich Old Woman in New Jersey.

New Brunswick, N. J., has a genuine sensation to talk of. A genuine hermitess, it is alleged, has been discovered on the banks of the mosquito-laden Raritan, within a few miles of the city.

The hermitess in this case is a woman whose age is placed at eighty. She lives, it is said, with a servant in an old mansion in the woods. She is represented to be very wealthy, and although most of the rooms in the house are never used they are handsomely furnished. The hermitess keeps to her room, and has not looked on a human face but that of the old servant's for thirty-six years.

Years ago, it was alleged, she was disappointed in love, and although a reigning belle and heiress she withdrew herself from all friends and society. Her meals were served to her on gold and silver dishes, and she still possesses the fine dresses and jewelry of her bygone days. She has never slept in a bed since her disappointment in love. The old woman spends her time in reading the thousands of old, musty volumes in the book-cases in her room.

She is the last survivor of an old family, and refuses to hold intercourse with any one. She has twenty-eight cats, fifteen dogs and a goat, which she feeds on the choicests viands, and when any of her pets die she orders that they be buried in expensive coffins by an undertaker, and her wishes are faithfully carried out by the old servant. Her jewels are kept in a curious iron-bound box in her room.

Her estate is also large, and is looked after by a prominent lawyer, who transacts all her business with the servant only, who is as great a mystery as her mistress. The place is thought to be haunted by the ignorant, who shun it. There are people, however, who say they have seen the old servant digging in the woods at night by the light of a lantern. A large amount of money and valuables are said to be buried in the woods surrounding the old house. The name of the hermitess is Merritt.

MR. TOAD'S MISTAKE.

He Swallows a Bumble-Bee, but Finds It Too Hot for His Stomach.

The other day as I lay in my hammock I saw a huge toad winking and blinking lazily under the large leaf of a foliage plant, writes a correspondent of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Journal. He looked contented and happy, and just as if he didn't care whether school kept or not. A bumble-bee came buzzing around the flowers. That toad opened his eyes, looked around, deliberately winked one eye at me, and then, to all appearances, went to sleep again. He was not asleep, however, for the next moment, when the adventurous bee came a trifle nearer, he made a little spring, opened his countenance till I thought he would actually drop in two, there was a red flash—and the bee had disappeared. I was just beginning to wonder where it had gone, when I observed the toad begin to look melancholy. I then noticed that his white vest was puffed out like an alderman's. In less time than it takes to tell it he was the most lonesome-looking toad I ever saw. He seemed to reflect a minute, and then he got into the attitude in which the old prints represent Nebuchadnezzar when he was out to pasture. His big mouth was close to the ground, while his hind feet stood on tiptoe. He had swallowed something hot, and was now going to get rid of it by reversing the process. After several violent efforts, during which his whole anatomy heaved with emotion, the troublesome Jonah was ejected and lay on the grass before him. The toad wasn't winking at me any more. Instead he was venting looks of revengeful spite at the unfortunate author of all his troubles, which, by this time, presented a sorry appearance. Soon he cautiously approached, and, with a lightning-like movement, the bee again disappeared, this time to stay. For a moment the toad moved cautiously, as if to avoid stirring up again that burning fire beneath his vest, and then, seeing that it was all right, hopped back with an elated air and went to sleep under the leaf.

ANOTHER OCEAN RACE.

The Teutonic and City of New York Will Have Another Contest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Teutonic and the City of New York are to try conclusions again. This time the course will be laid from Sandy Hook to Roche's Point, at the entrance of Queenstown Harbor, Promptly at 1:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon the Inman ship will turn her prow seaward. At 2 o'clock the Teutonic will start on her first eastward trip. The City of New York will proceed slowly, and both ships will pass Sandy Hook about the same hour.

It is expected to be a great contest if any kind of decent weather favors the big ships. That they will race is no secret. Of course neither Capt. Parselles nor Capt. Land will admit it, but it is well known that each captain will sail with a grim determination to take the pride out of his opponent.

Even at this early day wagers are being made on the outcome of the contest. Betting is now just the reverse of what it was before the westward trip, and at present the City of New York is conspicuously the favorite. Both ships will be in better racing trim than during their recent trip.

How Acid May Be Found in Vinegar.

Sulphuric acid may be detected in vinegar by moistening white paper with the suspected vinegar and drying it before hot coals or on hot iron. If one hundredth part of the vinegar is sulphuric acid the paper will turn brown or black, It will be a good plan to wet part of the piece of paper with vinegar and part of it with water so as not to confound the darkening of the paper by heat with the charring due to sulphuric acid. This test is more sensitive if the vinegar has been concentrated by evaporation. A pint of vinegar may be evaporated by a gill of the test.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

THE LAW DEFECTIVE

Contract Laborers Can Now Come to This Country.

A BLUNDER MADE BY CONGRESS

The Amended Law for the Return of Laborers Entirely Inoperative.

The Treasury Department Discovers the Mistake While Investigating the Case of the Pennsylvania Glass Workers—Another Hungarian Riot in the Coke Region—Glass Workers' Troubles to Come Up in Cleveland To-day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The Treasury Department has discovered a serious defect in the law to prevent the importation of contract labor.

It was made while the case of the 25 glass blowers imported by Chambers & McKee, of Jeanette, Pa., was under consideration.

The original law provided a punishment for those who imported laborers under contract, but made no disposition of the laborers. The Fiftieth Congress, in the last days of the first session, amended the law by inserting a provision for the return of the laborers at the expense of the steamship company that brought them over. However, it did not give jurisdiction in such cases to any court, and officials of the Treasury Department say that if arrests should be made under it, a writ of habeas corpus would lie in each case.

This renders that portion of the law approved October 19, 1888, entirely inoperative, and laborers imported under contract can remain in this country without let or hindrance.

The cases immediately affected are those of the Pennsylvania glass blowers and the Texas granite workers, which have been before the department recently.

Huns Cause a Riot.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 20.—A riot took place last night among the cokers of Tarr's Station, in which Mike Mislow, a Hungarian, was severely cut about the head and otherwise injured. Several others were seriously hurt. Eleven Hungarians were arrested.

GLASSWORKERS' SCALE.

A Meeting in Cleveland To-day to Consider the Matter.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 20.—The regular meeting of the Western Window Glass Manufacturers' Beneficial Association was held here yesterday.

Every Pittsburg manufacturer in the association expressed himself as determined not to grant the advance, and every firm will send a representative to the Cleveland meeting to-day to induce the Western manufacturers to resist the scale also.

BIG RELIGIOUS EVENT.

The Founding of the Baltimore Diocese to be Celebrated With Great Pomp.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—Preparations are steadily making for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Baltimore, the first diocese of the Catholic Church in the United States.

There will be in attendance a most distinguished gathering of both clergy and the laity. Of the former there will be Cardinal Taschereau, of Canada, whose acceptance of an invitation was received to-day; three or four Canadian bishops; perhaps every archbishop, thirteen in number, in the United States; and of the seventy-three bishops in the thirteen provinces fifty have already signified their intention of coming.

The Pope will send a special representative from Rome who, as stated last week, will also stand for the Vatican at the dedication of the Catholic University at Washington.

Among the interesting relics that will do their mute part in the festivities is the favorite chair of the first bishop, John Carroll. It is a quaint, cumbersome, though comfortable old thing, made from heavy corded marsh grass bound with strips of hickory wattles.

Railroad Sale Postponed.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—The foreclosure sale of the Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore Railroad, which was set for yesterday, has been postponed until September 10 on account of the absence of a large number of people who have not yet been able to get in their bonds.

The Montville Mills Still Running.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 20.—The announcement on Monday that the Universal Mill at Montville shut down was premature. They have a large stock of goods on hand and may have to stop, but the mills are still running.

Florists and Microscopists.

BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—The American Society of Florists and the American Society of Microscopists will meet in this city to-day and continue in session till Thursday, inclusive.

A "Stalwart" Leader Insane.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Ex-Deputy Attorney-General Charles J. Everett, who was the local leader of the "Stalwarts," has become hopelessly insane.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

The State Convention Will Probably Be Held in Syracuse.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Prominent Democrats gathered in force at the Grand Union and began caucusing on the meeting of the State Executive Committee, which will be held to-night at 8 o'clock.

Among those who moved about in the corridors and on the piazzas of the hotel were Chairman Edward Murphy, Jr., George S. Weed, Plattsburg; Wm. Sheehan, Buffalo; Edward Kearney, Senator Langbein, Richard Croker, Bourke Cockrane, Thomas F. Gilroy and J. J. Martin.

The Tammanyites are practically unanimous in support of Saratoga as the place of holding the convention, but it is understood that Governor Hill has given out that he wishes the convention to go to Syracuse. As it looks to-day, the latter city will get it, and the date will be October 2.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

The Defense Endeavoring to Obtain Eminent Counsel.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—It is reported that when the Cronin trial is called the defense will seek a long delay on the ground of insufficient preparation.

They are said to be endeavoring to obtain eminent counsel. The report has it that Ben Butler, W. F. Howe, ex-Judge Fullerton, ex-Judge Curtis and Senator Grady are among those under consideration or already approached. The State has especially retained, in addition to its own staff, Luther, Laflin, Mills and W. J. Haynes.

HIS WESTERN TRIP.

The President Leaves Deer Park To-night for Indianapolis.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 20.—President Harrison will leave here to-night and arrive in Cincinnati at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, where he will be given a reception on that day at 12:30, at the new Chamber of Commerce building, and will pay a short visit to the Builders' Exchange.

He will leave Cincinnati on a special train at about 4 on the "Big Four" Railway for Indianapolis. Accompanying the President will be Secretary Rusk, Marshal Ransdell and Private Secretary Halford.

Injured by Falling Walls.

FORT WAYNE, Aug. 20.—While workmen were engaged in clearing away the ruins of the Centilevre Brewery, which was recently destroyed by fire, one of the walls fell, injuring five men beneath. Charles Rube, Martin Thomas and Lawrence Overly were fatally injured. John Gleason and Henry Keuts were seriously hurt.

Fashionable Newport Will Dance.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Seven balls are to be given during the next two weeks as follows: To-night, Mrs. R. T. Wilson; Wednesday, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. S. F. Barger; Thursday, C. C. Baldwin; Tuesday, 27th, Mrs. G. P. Wetmore; Wednesday, 28th, the Casino; Friday, 30th, Mrs. L. Z. Leiter.

A Female Physician Dies Suddenly.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Miss Mary W. Case, a practising physician of this city, died suddenly at her brother's residence in Lansingburg from an accidental overdose of a drug taken for heart trouble. She was a graduate of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Lowell Taxes the Erie Telephone Co.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 20.—Owing to the action of the Lowell authorities in deciding to tax the property of local stockholders in the Erie Telephone Company, it is intimated that the headquarters of the company may be removed to New York.

Surrendered to Save Lynching.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 20.—John Lasley shot and killed John Lee, a young married man last night. According to his friends the shooting was a deliberate murder. Lasley gave himself up to save himself from being lynched by Lee's friends.

The Riverside Mills Running Again.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 20.—The Riverside Mills are running briskly to-day, although the sixty wool sorters have not returned. The help, whose wages were one week overdue, were paid in full, the wages footing up to nearly $26,000.

An Editor's Body to be Cremated.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—James S. Gordon, a well-known newspaper man of Ohio, once a member of the Ohio Legislature, died at the Fordham Hospital of consumption. His body will be cremated this afternoon.

Suicide in an Insane Asylum.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Perrine D. Matteson, who has been an inmate of the Criminal Insane Asylum in this city since 1874, committed suicide by hanging in that institution last night.

An Old Mennonite Minister Dead.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 20.—Rev. Abram Martin, is dead at his home near Beartown, this county, aged 91 years. He was the oldest Mennonite minister in the country.

Iron Works Resume Operations.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 20.—After an idleness of eighteen weeks the Penn Iron Company has resumed work.

The Boston and New York Clubs Play a Tie Game.

OVER 14,000 PEOPLE PRESENT.

It Was a Desperate Struggle and Stopped on Account of Darkness.

Great Excitement Over To-day's Game—Special Trains Run From Surrounding Towns—The League Record Shows No Changes—Brooklyn Gains a Point by the Browns Not Playing—Record of the Games Played Yesterday.

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—A pitched battle of the greatest possible moment in the baseball world took place between the Bostons and New Yorks yesterday, resulting, after a desperate struggle of eight innings, in a draw.

The fact that the championship of the League will probably be decided by the series had the effect of drawing an immense concourse of people to the South End grounds. Fully 15,000 people passed through the turnstiles, a crowd so vast and enthusiastic that the ball players were spurred on to their utmost.

Neither team won, however, as the game had to be stopped on account of darkness. Each team had four runs to its credit.

To-day special excursion trains were run from Providence and Worcester and other adjacent towns and all came in crowded. The attendance this afternoon will be tremendous.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—"R, there," says the oyster to the clam, "we will soon be in the soup."

—An adjourned regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

—Miss Minnie Gulick, of Plainfield, is visiting Miss Hanna Wilson on Broad street, Newark.

—The golden rod, which promises to be adopted as the national flower, is in the height of its season now.

—There is said to be a dangerous washout on Mountain avenue, between Raymond and Leland avenues, which the township authorities should attend to at once.

—The joint excursion of the Congregational, Park Avenue Baptist and First Presbyterian Sunday Schools to Asbury Park, will take place on Thursday, August 22.

—The announcement of the formation of a class in violin instructions, appears in the advertising columns elsewhere. Those desiring to join, can address as therein stated.

—The members of the Middlesex Gun Club are making extra arrangements this season for their annual shooting tournament, which will be held at Dunellen on Oct. 8, 9, 10 and 11.

—A fair is being arranged by the T. A. B. Society, and already a dozen or more females who are soliciting chances for the various prizes, are canvassing the city from house to house.

—There is a dangerous hole in the roadway at Grove street and Craig place, which the Borough Street Commissioner should have repaired at once before North Plainfield is held liable for damages resulting therefrom.

—Will the overseers of the roads please improve the general appearance of the highways within their respective districts by cutting down and removing the weeds which grow so luxuriantly on the side of the roads. A little labor now will save in the future.

—The young Plainfield dude who had to bury his Sunday clothes, night before last, won't poke at a "kitten" with his cane again. It all happened on Front street about nine o'clock, and the neighbors for blocks around were aware of the circumstances, although nobody said a word.

Concerning the Late Thos. Halstead.

The New Brunswick Times said yesterday:

Thomas Jefferson Halstead died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Gambling, in Plainfield, Saturday evening, aged 84 years. The deceased was a cabinet maker by trade, and carried on an extensive business in Cranbury up to about 1849, when the failure of a large Southern house, owing him $20,000, compelled him to give up what had been a prosperous business. He also carried on extensive undertaking business in Cranbury. He came to this city about 1849 and carried on his business in New street, below George, until the infirmity of old age necessitated his giving up business. Eight years ago he took up his home in Plainfield with his daughter.

Mr. Halstead's wife died nearly two years ago, at the age of 81 years.

Mr. Isaac Halstead and Mrs. James C. VanArsdale, both of this city, are children of the deceased. Mrs. Theo. Gamble of Plainfield is also a daughter. In politics the deceased was a lifelong Democrat.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2 o'clock P. M., from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. James C. VanArsdalen, corner George and New streets.

Jugging the Tramps.

The railroad authorities, at least, are trying to break up the nests of tramps along its lines. Saturday, Detective Morris of the C. R. R., and Assistant Breen, formerly Chief of Police of this city, arrested eleven of the "Knights of the Road" at White House, and two at Dunellen, charging them with stealing transportation on the coal and freight trains.

Cut the Horse's Throat.

A stranger, said to have come from Rahway, but whose name could not be ascertained, cut a horse's throat on Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, this forenoon. The animal fell down and could not be induced to get up again. The man was arrested, but subsequently he was let go.

SURPASSING ALL OTHERS.

This Season at the Hotel Netherwood, Its Best.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

The season at this charming Summer resort, dating from May up to the present writing, may be classed as the most brilliant and prosperous known in the annals of this Hotel. The genial and courteous proprietor, Mr. Frank E. Miller, with his able corps of assistants in every department, have left nothing undone, so far as your correspondent has been able to observe, to render his guests comfortable and happy.

The success of any first-class hotel largely—I may say, entirely—depends upon its management. The closest scrutiny in the thousand and one details incident to an establishment of this character, is required, hence the necessity for unceasing watchfulness on the part of its head. Therefore we may safely state that the present successful season is due to the fact that the requisites mentioned have been fully complied with.

The Chef who presides over the cuisine, has proved himself entirely competent for the important post assigned him. The able steward certainly deserves mention for his excellent provision for the guests. The head of the dining room, for many years with Delmonico, is unceasing in his efforts to please his patrons. Now we enter the office of the Hotel—a favorite resort of the guests—where we find Col. F. H. Whiting, Chief Clerk, presiding over this department, who possesses every requisite for this important position.

The Hotel will accommodate about 300 guests. The rooms are en suite and single, spacious and comfortable. In the way of recreation and amusement—billiard room, bowling alley, lawn tennis courts, croquet grounds, etc. An excellent orchestra provides music for the morning and evening.

The Hotel Netherwood's close proximity to New York, (45 minutes by express trains, with an average of thirty trains daily each way), renders it very desirable for business men, and equally attractive to others seeking a delightful and homelike hotel. Visitors coming here cannot fail to be impressed with the reign of good fellowship existing among the guests, a fact which gives me great pleasure to chronicle.

Progressive euchre, commerce and lotto parties have been noted events of the season, as well as the Saturday evening hops. The Fall season opens on Sept. 1, and promises to be one of the most brilliant and successful seasons, from the large booking, ever known here. Charming entertainments are booked for the Court Month at Netherwood. Your good readers should be advised that the Hotel remains open from May till November.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. R. C. Dingee, of East Fifth street, is visiting friends in Brooklyn.

Miss Mary J. Seeds of East Sixth street, has returned from Asbury Park.

Captain A. D. Holmes, and wife, start today for a week's stay at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Firman Walker has arrived home from a visit with her daughter in Chicago.

Mr. Joseph A. Robinson has returned from his walking tour to Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. E. C. Cloyd and family, are at Overlook Mountain, Ulster county, New York.

Mr. F. C. Langhorn and family, of Putnam avenue, have returned from Asbury Park.

Mrs. E. S. Robinson and daughter of East Sixth street, are registered at "Hotel Gladstone," Asbury Park.

Miss Josie Kissam, of North Plainfield, left the city this morning to visit among relatives on Long Island.

Mrs. David McKee, of Westervelt avenue, has returned home after a week's stay with relatives in Brooklyn.

Mr. E. Wood Perry, of New Orleans, who has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. D. Holmes, left yesterday for Boston.

Mr. S. M. Pettingill, of Boston, the head one of the largest advertising agencies in the country, was in this city yesterday.

Mr. Chas. H. Griffin started today as a delegate to the Seventh-Day Baptist Convention, which is now in session at Alfred Centre, N. Y.

Misses Lillie Baxter and Carrie Totten, of Garside street, Newark, N. J., have returned home after a visit of two weeks with friends in Washingtonville and Plainfield.

Mr. Charles G. Crawford, of East Fifth street, the New York stationer, is making an extended trip through the West. His present address is Midway Hotel, Kearney, Neb.

Messrs John H. Jackson and Charles B. VanWinkle returned last evening from Washington, D. C., where they went on business connected with the French spoliation claims in the Pension and Patent offices.

The Prohibitionists.

Secretary W. W. Winans, of the State Prohibition Executive Committee, has established the party's headquarters at Bound Brook, and opened its office in the Cook Building. Newark has formerly enjoyed the honor of being the headquarters, but as both the candidate for Governor and the State Secretary are residents of the vicinity, the committee advised the transfer to Bound Brook as a matter of convenience.

A CHASE AFTER A TRAMP.

Officer Kriney Captures the Fellow in a Corn Field After a Desperate Struggle, and Justice Nash Holds Him for the Grand Jury.

THE PRESS has frequently called attention to the large number of tramps who rendezvous in the vicinity of Grant avenue and Evona, and who go from house to house in the day time begging food, clothing, money, tobacco, etc., from females who are alone at the time. Despite the vigilance of the police, these fellows continue their depredations, and the nuisance is increasing to such an alarming extent, that it is unsafe for women to be left in the house alone.

One of the fraternity of tramps, however, ran up against a snag yesterday, in the person of Officer Kriney, who jailed him and this morning Justice Nash committed the fellow to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury in default of $500 bail, on a charge of having stolen property in his possession.

It appears that the man, who gave his name as Peter Grames, and a companion known as "Johnny Burnes" were seen loitering around Mrs. Carrie Heffney's residence on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, and one of them entered the cellar through an open window and stole a pair of shoes belonging to Mrs. Heffney's husband. Officer Kriney was notified of the theft, and he chased the tramps. One of them escaped, but the other was caught in a corn field in North Plainfield and overpowered after a desperate struggle.

The fellow was locked up and this morning Mrs. Heffney preferred a charge against him. Officer Kriney also entered a complaint against the prisoner for assault and battery, and on this charge he was held in the sum of $100.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH MR. HOLLY?

He Wants the World's Fair Held Way Out West.

Mr. John I. Holly, of this city, President of the Commercial Union Life Insurance company, of New York, has inaugurated a movement, with his friends, to endorse Chicago as the place for holding the proposed grand quadricentennial fair. The following which Mr. Holly is circulating, speaks for itself:

"DEAR SIR: Are you willing to cooperate with me in the inauguration of a movement looking to the welfare of our whole country in regard to the fixing of location as to where the Exposition 1892 shall be held? I trust you will not take a hasty view of the suggestions which I am about to make, or accuse me of disloyalty to my resident city in the following. It must be apparent to all interested that if this grand exhibition means anything it means more than can be obtained by any localization of the exhibition. We, as residents of the great Empire, are apt to feel that this is a very small portion of the country West of the border line. I am of the opinion that to secure all the benefits which such a display of the ingenuity of man will produce a more central point should be determined upon than New York; and in looking over the ground I see no better point than Chicago in which to hold this grand exhibition. I have fully weighed the consequences to myself personally of the first impression which this suggestion may produce in my own city. But having full confidence in the intelligence and unselfish enterprise of the people of New York, I feel that a broad, rational view of the situation will be taken, and am ambitious that New York shall lead in this as she always does in the development of every national feature.

"Yours truly,

"JOHN I. HOLLY."

Funeral of Clarence Guest Pell.

A large number of the relatives, friends and classmates of Clarence Guest Pell, the Yale sophomore, formerly of this city, who was killed in mistake for a deer by young Ellis H. Roberts in Herkimer county last Thursday, attended the funeral services, which were held as announced in THE PRESS, at 7 o'clock last evening, at his parents' residence, 347 West Fourteenth street.

The Rev. Theodore A. K. Gessler of Grace Baptist church, who had known young Pell from boyhood, spoke of the boy's life, which he said he had watched from its earliest years. The Rev. Dr. Lowry of the Park Avenue Baptist church, this city, read a letter from a Yale graduate, which showed the esteem in which Clarence was held by his classmates. Prayer by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Armitage of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, of which the Pell family are members, completed the services.

All the young men who were in the hunting party with Pell when he was shot, except Ellis Roberts, attended the services. Young Roberts, who is only 16 years of age, is at his home in Utica.

The body was taken from the house at 9:30 o'clock this morning and was placed in the vault at Woodlawn. Only the family attended.

Committed for Highway Robbery.

Alonzo Randolph, a colored youth, was arraigned before Justice Nash at the station house this morning, charged with highway robbery. The complainant was Mr. William Connett who charged in his complaint that on Saturday night Randolph knocked him down with something resembling a sand bag, and stole his watch while he lay unconscious on the ground.

The prisoner demanded an examination, and from the testimony given by the plaintiff and William Manning, a colored boy who was with Randolph when the alleged robbery took place, Justice Nash decided to hold the prisoner in the sum of $500 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury. Constable Moffett took the prisoner to Elizabeth this afternoon. Manning furnished $100 bail to appear when wanted.

TOO UTTERLY CLASSICAL.

Mr. Parse's Aesthetic Signature That Baffles Even Experts.

(From the N. Y. Herald.)

New Jersey is a wonderful State. Another of her phenomenal features entirely unconnected with mosquitoes or red mud has recently come to light, and paralyzed the rest of the world by its incomprehensibility. It is the alleged signature of a man, but it looks more like a fancy sketch of a flash of lightning on a highly original "tear" or the vagaries of a vagabond spider inebriated with ink.

The individual who has earned this new fame for Jersey writes a legible, businesslike hand until he reaches the spot where his signature should be affixed. Then, so he solemnly asserts, a kind of nervous spasm attacks his fingers, he loses control over his hand, which gives a convulsive wriggle and twitch, and then follows a result.

There is fame awaiting the man who can unaided decipher the signature, but if anyone attempts to gain it he will surely die. A wholesale vender of puzzles made a bid for the exclusive use of that signature the other day, but that was on hearsay only. When he saw the scrawl in all its intricacy he admitted that even he dare not risk execration and an early grave by springing it on an unsuspecting and inquisitive public.

A BANK CASHIER TOO.

One would naturally suppose that the writer of such a signature would prefer to keep it at storage during the Summer months or would plead rheumatism or ignorance and choose a plain "X his mark" in preference to indulging the unholy spasm that has such a result, but on the contrary he lets it loose broadcast upon the world from the official desk of a bank cashier. Worse still, he has been doing it for about twenty-seven years. It is a hard matter to pass a bank bill bearing that signature outside of the town in which its owner lives. There he is well known and the natives not only venerate him for his originality but proudly boast to strangers their ability to read the hieroglyphics which puzzle all but the initiated.

It is said that a notorious bunco steerer who was rusticating in that section of Jersey determined to earn a safe livelihood in future by betting with strangers on the meaning of the scrawl and then obtaining the unimpeachable testimony of the bank cashier himself as to his veracity and the true interpretation of the signature. It was necessary to go further afield in order to entrap unwary ones, however; the confidence man had omitted to write down the cashier's name, and after he had made a bet on the signature he failed to remember it and was caught in his own trap.

A business man of the city, had an unpleasant experience with a bundle of nice, new, crisp five dollar bills, which constituted all the cash he had with him on a trip to Western New York. Each bill bore the delirious sign manual and this, combined with the suspiciously new appearance of the paper, made everyone fight shy of them and cast obloquy upon him as a would-be "shover of the queer."

SARCASM LAUNCHED AT HIM.

The unhappy cashier is often the recipient of sarcastic inquiries from distant correspondents. The cashier of a Western bank, for instance, wrote to know whether the fly that was acting as his amanuensis was suffering from sickness when it crawled over a bank note received by him. Strange as it may seem, however, the entire first name of the cashier is spelled out in the long line preceded by the curve in the first part of the signature, and as many strokes of the pen are made as would be used if it were written more legibly, while an abnormally active imagination might expand the entire scrawl into Carman Parse, who is over 50 years of age and for over a quarter of a century has been the cashier of the First National Bank of Plainfield, N. J.

Coming Ball Players.

The Young Americas of Dunellen, defeated the Chatham nine of North Plainfield, yesterday morning, on the Evona ball grounds. The features of the game were the pitching of Smith, catching of Burk and the batting of Harland and Stevens of the Young Americas, and the catching of J. Burk for the Chatham nine. The score was 26 to 18.

The "Victors" defeated the "Stars" on the Crescent grounds, yesterday morning, by a score of 16 to 10. The Victor battery was A. Vail and F. Stover; and the Star was C. Morgan and B. Egan. The pitching of A. Vail was remarkably good.

The Young Crescents defeated the Bull Frog City nine, this morning, on the Crescent grounds, by a score of 11 to 9. The features of the game were the batting of F. Coverly, E. Sofield, M. and C. Sutphen, and T. Duffy. A running catch was made by M. Sutphen. The battery for the Young Crescents was F. Winn and M. Hefferen, and for the Bull Frog City P. Farring and C. Barry. Umpires, Woolston and Littell. Time of game, 2:20. Score by innings:

Young Crescents	0	1	2	3	0	0	0	3	2	11
Bull Frog City	1	2	0	2	1	2	0	1	0	9

The Young Crescents will play the Chathams of North Plainfield, on the Crescent grounds, to-morrow, at 9 o'clock.

$1,473 to Repair One Roadway.

The contract for rebuilding and filling of washout of wall and roadway near Demler's Hotel, has been awarded by the North Plainfield Township Committee to Joseph Sallery, at $1,473. There were lower bids, but the Committee considered Mr. Sallery the most responsible.

THATCHER'S INTENTIONS.

Because the Senior's Heart is Big, and His Partners' Heads are Big, the Firm of T. P. & W. Dissolves.

"Gentleman George," for so many years the head—and shoulders too—of that far-famed minstrel triumvirate, Thatcher, Primrose and West, is home again in his handsome house on West Seventh street, as jovial and genial as ever, but looking even younger and heartier.

Interlocuter West and Tambourine Primrose, have long since given to the newspapers their story of the recent dissolution of the trio in San Francisco, and their future plans, yet until now Bones Thatcher has never entirely unbosomed his feelings and intentions. But he expressed himself, last evening, as glad of a chance to tell his friends through THE PRESS, what he proposed doing.

Everybody who knows George Thatcher can understand how deeply his good nature is touched, and his faith in mankind is shocked, by the action of his partners conspiring together to dissolve the firm for the purpose of freezing him out. Anyone in the profession knows that George Thatcher lifted up Primrose and West, set them on high, and made a fortune for each of them. Now they break the partnership because they think they can walk alone and because, as they say, Thatcher spends his money too liberally in social pleasures with the firm's friends and the firm's patrons. All of which only proves that they have the big head and he has the big heart. They rush into print with a story of Thatcher's social life that is no disgrace, yet if he should retaliate in the same way with tales of their social lives, their summons to appear in a court of divorce might follow.

"I am not going with Dockstader or anyone else, as has been rumored," said Thatcher. "Some of the best managers in the country have made me most generous offers, and unlimited capital is at my command with which to organize and maintain 'George Thatcher's Minstrels,' the company I shall probably take upon the road this Fall. It is late for booking, yet I am assured by theatre owners in all the best cities, that I shall have time arranged for with them.

"I have earned the right and the means to take a long rest at home, yet I am anxious to get out with my own company and give the people the best ministrel show ever organized. I can give a better one than any of my competitors, because I have the experience and, besides, now that I am alone and need not divide the profits in three shares, I can afford to give three times as costly an entertainment. Should I decide to form 'George Thatcher's Minstrels' and start out this Fall, I shall open in Plainfield and trust to the good judgment of its people for the show's auspicious inauguration, and to their good wishes for its future prosperity."

Sounds Just Like Westfield.

"Dr. Ripley" a resident of our quaint and rather ancient sister village, Westfield—ancient so far as its street lights are concerned—has this to say in the Standard, on Saturday, concerning the New Jersey Central Railroad and its management:

"As a great trunk-road, as a first-class road in every respect, we believe the grand conception of a grand railroad president, John Taylor Johnston, of Plainfield, for twenty-five years president of the company, will soon be fully realized. Mr. J. Rogers Maxwell, now the president of the Central railroad system, (himself a man of rare genius and executive ability,) has, unquestionably, gathered much fruit shaken from the tree by his predecessor, Mr. Johnston, so long at the head of that company. Mr. Maxwell has dug wide and deep in rich soil, re-establishing the fortunes of his present trust, making the Central a trunk-road. * * * The future of the Central railroad company of New Jersey, and so the future of Central New Jersey itself, and not less its favored and favorite spot, Westfield, are assured. Westfield has entered the race as a first-class competitor for first place on the line of that popular railroad. It is going to win, too."

What's the matter with Plainfield, with its many miles of macadamized roads, its public school facilities, something Westfield lacks, its street lighting, another thing the place needs and must have, before sane people will locate there. And last but not least, Westfield must abolish the liquor traffic, like Plainfield, before it can expect to grow much. At the present time Westfield is in the consomme.

He Thinks Comment is Needless.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It is not my intention to waste either your valuable space or my time by replying to the effusion emanating from "Observer's" pen, which appears in your issue of yesterday. Your correspondent drops a nickel in the slot in order to see from whose wood pile the Ethiopean emerges. Very well! He has paid his money and he shall have his choice. When I tell your readers, that "Observer,"—the disinterested, public spirited citizen, who expects to guide our Council in its deliberations on water works or similar important matters—is only Mr. Hugh Gilligan, of Plainfield, who is in the employ of Taintor & Holt, bankers and brokers, of 11 Wall street, New York, which firm Mr. Hopkinson Smith in his proposition for a franchise, gave as his reference, and that Mr. Smith's proposition was mentioned by Mr. Gilligan in his letters as being the only business like paper—why, then they will agree with me when I say that "comment is needless." Yours truly,

E. WOLTMANN.

THRILLING VOYAGE.

A Two-Year-Old Child Carried Up By Toy Balloons.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—At a picnic given by the Pioneer Relief and Aid Society for the benefit of the families of the imprisoned anarchists, Sophia Schwab, aged two, in some way became entangled in the strings that held a lot of toy balloons.

In struggling to get loose from them, they became detached from their fastening and sailed into the air, carrying the shrieking child with them. The mother fainted and the utmost excitement and horror prevailed as the balloons gradually rose to a height of about 200 feet, and when the breeze carried the balloons out over the lake, the babe was given up for lost.

About this time Koch, an expert rifleman, who was present, rushed for his rifle and called for a boat. The boat was quickly provided and with two oarsmen followed after the babe. The balloon still maintained its altitude and was fast sailing out over the lake.

As soon as the boat was near enough Kock commenced firing at the ballons, and one after another was pierced until the bunch commenced to settle. Then the boat was rapidly pulled further out, and when the balloons descended the child was rescued before she touched the water. Although terribly frightened the babe was uninjured.

SICKNESS AND DEATH.

Terrible Condition of the Locked-Out Miners in Northern Illinois.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The suffering, starvation, sickness and death among the miners families in Northern Illinois is greater to-day than at any time in the past. The large supplies sent through the Chicago Relief Committee have been exhausted and the people are face to face with hunger. The little ones are dying daily and sickness is greatly on the increase.

It is no longer a secret that the operators have decided to open their mines with non-union men and have already prepared to call upon the sheriffs and governor for armed officers and soldiers to hold their locked-out miners in check. It is impossible to predict what the consequences in such an event will be. Infuriated by hunger, the wretched miners will be in no temper to permit, except under the rifles of the militia, others to take their places in the shafts.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Speaker Carlisle has arrived at Guadalajara, Mexico.

Elias Higgins, the wealthy carpet manufacturer of New York is dead at Narraganset Pier.

Amiel Gusch, a murderer, has been captured at Grand Rapids, Mich. There is talk of lynching.

Considerable sums have been received from America to assist in the defense of Mrs. Maybrick.

An explosion occurred in the Chell, Eng., colliery at Henley, yesterday by which three men were killed.

William Bird, aged 63, employed in the tube works at Syracuse, N. Y., fell dead on the sidewalk last night.

The iron workers in South Wales have demanded of their employers an advance in wages of ten per cent.

Thomas McFarland, a dealer in hard wood at Chicago, has assigned. Assets, $25,000; liabilities, $50,000 to $55,000.

The Hon. Randolph Tucker, ex-member of Congress from Virginia, is reported to be very ill, and his family fear a serious change.

Annie Wold, aged 23, a Norwegian girl, insane from overstudy of religion, jumped from a third-story window at Chicago and killed herself yesterday.

John Flack, a saloon keeper at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., stabbed and probably fatally injured "Butch" Mahoney. He claims it was done in self-defense.

Mr. Conybeare, M. P., who was sent to jail for making home-rule speeches in Ireland, is suffering from a skin disease, contracted in the unclean prison he is confined at.

A small pouch containing $10,000 was lost from the Pennsylvania train at Terre Haute. It was thought at first it had been stolen, but subsequently it was found in the railroad yard unopened.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

A HUMANE SCHEME

America's Effort to Wipe Out Plague Spots.

INVITING ENGLAND'S HELP.

Lord Salisbury Sanctions the Plan But Discovers Many Obstacles in the Way.

Swiss Anarchists Denounce the Bundesrath for Establishing Political Police—A Special Envoy from King Humbert Presents Mr. Edison With the Insignia of a Grand Officer of the Crown With the Rank of Count.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Government is in receipt of an official communication from the State Department at Washington, inviting the co-operation of England in taking measures to prevent the spread of infectious diseases. The same communication it is understood has been sent to the other European powers, and contains a proposal, that well known plague centers, liable from their commercial relations with the world to diffuse the germs of cholera, yellow fever and similar pests shall be declared obnoxious to humanity and the Governments in whose territory they are situated shall be called upon to cleanse them to the satisfaction of an International Commission appointed to regularly inspect them.

Though the object sought to be accomplished is conceded here to be a praiseworthy one, it is thought the United States authorities have underestimated the difficulties in the way of carrying out such a reform. In addition to many Asian ports, the cities on the Southern and Eastern Mediterranean litteral, several West Indian and South American ports must be included in the list of objectionable places. Prejudice, ignorance and national pride, generally strongest among the filthiest nations will have to be inflexibly combatted.

Lord Salisbury says that England will do everything in her power for the furtherance of such an object, in which she is especially interested, but the spirit in which applications for co-operation will be received by the semi-civilized powers may be easily anticipated. To suggest to Turkey and Egypt to cleanse and remodel Constantinople, Alexandria, Smyrna and other cities, would undoubtedly be regarded as an insult and a covert menace to Moslem traditions and religions. Havana, too, may be, as stated, a standing source of danger to the United States, but to order the nuisance abated would be considered in Spain as equivalent to ordering every hidalgo to wash his face.

German Miners to Strike Again.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—News from Rhenish Westphalia indicates that the labor troubles in that region will be very soon renewed, and that the mine owners and their employes are drifting into another struggle for the mastery which promises to be a battle to the death. Both sides are now thoroughly organized, and the coming strike is certain to be general and prolonged. The miners held an enormous meeting at Dorstfeld yesterday and completed the work of organization.

Count Edison.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Thomas A. Edison, the American electrician, has been presented by a special envoy from King Humbert, of Italy, with the insignia of a grand officer of the Crown of Italy. This gives Mr. Edison the rank of a Count in Italy.

Swiss Anarchists Active.

BERNE, Aug. 20.—The leading Swiss anarchists have issued a manifesto, which is being largely circulated, denouncing the Bundesrath for establishing political police and a public prosecutor.

Killed His Wife and Child.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Herr Lachman, editor of the "London Journal," a weekly paper printed in the German language, shot his wife and child today and then committed suicide.

A Bomb Explodes in a Crowd.

ROME, Aug. 20.—While a public concert was in progress on the open square near the Austrian Embassy, last night, a bomb was exploded in the crowd and eight persons were injured.

Spurgeon Asks for Her Pardon.

LONDON, Aug. 20. — Mr. Spurgeon writes to the newspapers that he will sign the petition for the release of Mrs. Maybrick and will commend his congregation to do the same.

The Irish Railway Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—In the House of Commons last night the Irish railway bill was read a third time, after all the amendments to it had been voted down.

Secretary Proctor in Vermont.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 20.—A committee was appointed to-day to arrange a reception to be given Secretary of War Proctor and General Schofield on Friday afternoon. They are the guests to-day of Colonel Cannon. To-morrow they will visit Plattsburg, and on Thursday will attend the muster at West Randolph.

Death of a Philanthropist.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 20.—Dr. Le Baron Russell of Boston died at his summer home here yesterday, aged 75 years. He was noted for his work in behalf of education and as a philanthropist. He enjoyed intimacy with Carlyle and Emerson, and was for 12 years overseer of Harvard College.

Teemer and Gaudaur to Race.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—John B. St. John, Gaudaur's backer, wired to-day from St. Louis that he has forwarded the money to cover Teemer's forfeit for a race for $1,000 a side with Gaudaur at McKeesport, Pa., September 14.

DEATH IN FLAMES.

Nine People Perished in a New York Tenement House Fire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The most disastrous fire, so far as loss of life is concerned, since over twenty Hungarians were burned to death in the Bowery about a year ago, occurred yesterday at 305 Seventh avenue. Nine charred bodies were taken to the Thirtieth street station, some of them burned almost beyond recognition. At the New York Hospital are two more victims, one of whom will probably die from the effects of burns received. The list is as follows:

THE DEAD.

WILLIAM GLENNON, aged 60.
NELLIE McGEOGHAN, aged 20.
MARY WALES, aged 31.
JANE WALES, aged 4.
THOMAS WALES, aged 2.
BERTHA LUSTRING, aged 40.
WILLIAM McKIE, aged 47.
JANE JEFFREY, aged 65.
An unknown woman about 40.

THE INJURED.

WILLIAM GLENNON, Jr., terribly burned about the face and chest.

JOHN GLENNON, burned about the body.

There were several others who were burned quite severely, but not sufficiently for hospital treatment.

The house burned is one of a dozen brown stone five-story buildings. The lower floors of these buildings were used as stores and the apartments overhead as tenements. They are all double tenements, and contain from twelve to fourteen families in each.

The fire originated on the first floor of 305, which is an all-night restaurant. It started in the kitchen at the rear of the restaurant, and it looks now very much as if it were the work of an incendiary, although possibly it may have been the result of culpable carelessness. So far as the police have investigated they seem to think it was not an accidental fire.

SULLIVAN IN NEW YORK.

The Champion Prize Fighter Returns to the Metropolis

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—John L. Sullivan, attended by his faithful friend, Boniface McClune, of the Hotel Vanderbilt, arrived in the city last night by the Cincinnati limited via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He was met at the station in Jersey City by a number of friends. On his arrival on this side of the river he took a carriage and was driven to the hotel, where there was a large delegation of sports, who welcomed the big fellow most heartily.

John L. has grown a good deal stouter since he left here, and his mustache has almost regained its normal proportions. He had little that was new to say about his trial and the prospects of having to serve out his sentence. He has strong hope that his counsel will be able to get a new trial for him in February, though circumstances lead him to believe that perhaps his application may be pigeonholed and there gather the dust of ages.

After a little rest Sullivan will go to Boston and pay his parents a long-deferred visit.

Kilrain Goes to Mississippi To-day.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—Deputy Sheriff Childs, of Marion county, Miss., stated this forenoon that Jake Kilrain had agreed to go to Mississippi without seeking further intervention by the courts of Maryland, and that they would leave for Purvis this evening.

Drowned While Fishing.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Dr. Otto Ritzmann, an Albany druggist, was drowned at North Hess Island, Lake Champlain, yesterday, while fishing with Dr. Murray, also of Albany. An eight-pound pickerel caught his spoon, and in his endeavor to land him the boat capsized. Dr. Murray and the guide clung to the boat and Dr. Ritzmann started for the shore to get help. He was taken with cramps and sank. The drowned man was 31 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

Caught in His Own Trap.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Frank Sorenson, of Nanticoke, arranged a pistol in his barn so that anyone who entered to steal pigeons would be shot. He forgot the trap, and on opening the door to-day he was shot below the heart. The wound will prove fatal. He was 30 years old and married.

All on Account of a Girl.

EXETER, N. H., Aug. 20.—George Chase, aged 33, residing in Stratham, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver. He left a note addressed to a girl who had rejected his suit, attributing his rash act to her indifference.

The Verdict on Gen. West's Death.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The coroner's jury decided that Gen. West came to his death from Bright's disease, and not as a result of the blows received at the hands of the young Government clerk, Sterling Ruffin. The charge of manslaughter against Ruffin was therefore withdrawn.

A Railroad Pension System.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is about to take the important action of establishing a pension system for its employes. The system will be the first of its kind in this country, and is likely to attract widespread attention.

A Minister and Printer Drowned.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—Rev. F. A. Barnes, of Middletown, a retired minister, and Chas. H. Carpenter, a well-known printer of Philadelphia, were drowned by the upsetting of a boat in which they were fishing in Swatara Creek, near Middletown.

Dr. Story to Go to Clark University.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 20.—Dr. William E. Story, formerly of Harvard and Johns Hopkins Universities, has been appointed acting professor of mathematics at Clark University.

UNCLE SAM'S FAMILY.

How the Government's Biennial Blue Book Is Made.

An Official Publication of More Than Ordinary Interest—A Graphic Idea of the Growth and Greatness of the United States.

Once every two years the Government has a private census, says the Washington Star. It is confined to its own household, and only those who are in the official ranks are counted. It is not exactly a taking account of stock, as this phrase is understood in business houses, but it is an attempt to collect the names of "all the hands," as a late official called the employes of a division over which he was called to preside. Every body who was in the service of the Government on the 1st day of July, 1889, is supposed to be counted. The enumeration begins with the President of the United States and goes down through the rank and file to the scrubbers and charwomen, who, as they get the smallest pay, naturally stand at the bottom of the list. The census-takers do not confine their labors to the departments in this city, but they go through this vast country and wherever they find a customs official or an internal revenue agent or a postmaster or postmaster's clerk, they put down the names and include them all in the roster which is made up of those who serve Uncle Sam. When the names are all collected and classified under the proper departmental divisions, then the lists are sent to the Interior Department, where a force of clerks are set to work to prepare them for the Public Printer. After awhile two great bulky books are issued from the Government Printing Office, and then it is announced that the new "Blue Book" is out. The name is derived from the color of the cover, and is very English, because that is the name given to the books issued by the English Government containing the proceedings of Parliament.

The Blue Book has worn such a sleek and prosperous appearance for so many years that some people no doubt imagine that it has always been portly. A set of them arranged on a shelf reminds one, as the eye runs them down, of a large family of children where the oldest is about thirteen years old, and there are some eight or nine younger brothers and sisters. The fact is that the baby Blue Book is pretty hard to distinguish at any distance. It is so thin and small, and if it was put between volume 1 and volume 2, of the year 1887, it would be quite lost. It is old enough to be bigger, but Blue Books reverse the natural law, and the youngest are always the biggest. The first Blue Book was printed in the year 1792. It appeared in the form of a Congressional document, and it shows that the employes of the executive departments, then located at Philadelphia, numbered 134, exclusive of the heads of the departments. The Navy Department was not then in existence, and the General Post-office, with Timothy Pickering as Postmaster-General, is put down as having made no returns. The next Blue Book was sent to Congress by President Jefferson on February 12, 1802, and the number of department employes was stated to be 126. The total amount paid in salaries to officials residing at the capital and connected with the executive branch of the Government was in 1790 $41,868. In the year 1795 the salary account had increased to $71,997, and when the transfer of the Government to this city was made the pay-roll amounted to $125,881. The salary of the President, which was then $25,000, is not included in these amounts. The Secretaries of State and of the Treasury in the year 1800 received $5,000 a year each, and the Secretaries of War and of the Navy $4,500 each. The salaries of the clerks reached the highest point in an annual amount of about $1,350, while many were not paid more than $700. In 1792 the average salary paid to clerks was $500 per annum, but about the time of the removal to Washington there was an increase in the scale of salaries, so that while the number of the clerical employes at the seat of Government was about the same in the year 1800 as in 1792, the total amount paid for clerical service had increased some $80,000. The employes for the first year in the new city were apportioned among the departments as follows: State Department, 8 clerks; Treasury Department, 75 clerks, divided as follows: Secretary's office, 6 clerks; Comptroller, 13; Auditor, 13; Treasurer, 4; Commissioner of Revenue, 5; Register, 18; Superintendent of Stamps, 10; miscellaneous, 6; War Department, 17; Navy Department, 16, and Postmaster-General, 10. Total, 126.

The first Blue Book was transmitted to the Senate by Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, in compliance with a resolution of the Senate.

The second Blue Book was sent to the House by President Jefferson, as he said in accordance with the suggestions made by him in his last annual message. Some fourteen years elapsed before another Blue Book was issued, and then in the year 1816 Congress passed a law requiring the Secretary of State to compile and print once in every two years "a register of all officers and agents, civil, military and naval, in the service of the United States." This was practically the first register of the present series, and the register has been issued every two years since that date. The period of seventy-three years covered by these publications has been one of almost constant growth in the executive branches of the Government. Every biennial register contains more names than the preceding one, and the new one to be issued next winter it is predicted will not destroy the precedent. It is estimated that the new Blue Book will show that there are between 15,000 and 20,000 persons in this city alone in the employ of the Government. The complete roster will probably contain over 170,000 names of employes. This latter number includes the post-office and customs employes and the great army of men in all parts of the country who are needed to assist in keeping in motion the machinery of the Government.

A Swindled Emigrant.

An old German peasant arrived at Castle Garden one day last week whose experience is an example of how foreigners are duped by tales of American wealth. He had been told by an emigrant agent that gold was so plenty in this country that the people gave golden trinkets to the children to play with, and trimmed the carriages, buildings and street lamps with golden ornaments. He accordingly sold his little place, and after buying a ticket to New York, spent the remainder of his money, with the exception of a few francs, in giving his neighbors a banquet. On his arrival here he had just seven francs left. The old man was deplorably ignorant, and when it dawned on his mind how he had been duped, he wept like a child. He will be sent back.

Parrot in Place of Monkey.

The Philadelphia Record says a strolling Italian musician in that city has an improvement on the monkey. It is a parrot which sings operatic music in a soprano voice that is heard for squares and then collects coins from high windows. The bird can fly where the monkey would fail to reach.

THE PORTER'S LUNCH.

Sambo Tells Why He Left the Employment of the Pullman Company.

"I wuz wo'kin ez po'tah on the Louisville & Nashville road two years ago," said the young colored barber to a Chicago Herald reporter, "an' had a great time once while runnin' up ter Nashville. A little German got aboa'd at New Orleans weth a large market basket an' a grip. He han's me over the basket, an' sez he, 'I vant yer ter tek goot keer off dat basket, po'tah; it's my luntch!' 'Yes, sah, su't'nly, sah. I'll take keer on it, sah!' I sez, an' stows it away in a closet. 'Bout 'leven o'clock, after the pass'ngers had all tu'ned in, the sleepin'-car conductor comes 'long an' says: 'Dock, I'm hungry, ain't ye got any thin' ter eat?' 'No, sah, not er bite; feelin' peckish myse'f,' I sez. Well, he rubbed his stommick a minit, an' I sez, jokin' like, 'gotter basket b'longin' ter one o' the pass'ngers.' 'Less see it,' he sez. So I got it out an' opened her up. Chicken san'wiches, pickles, biskets, a roast goose, two dozen seegars, a bottle of cognac, an' another one o' claret, was inside. Lawd! how our mouths did water an' both of us was so hungry! We each tuk er biskit, then nibbled at the goose, an' then the conductor sampled the brandy while I took er pull at the claret. Fust thing I knowed the conductor was pretty full an' I wuz feelin' middlin' so-so. Then we waded inter the chicken san'wiches, helped oursel's to seegars, put back the half-emptied bottles an' fixed up the goose as well as we could.

"In the mawnin' the German calls me, an' rubbin' his han's together, sez: 'Vell, po'tah, I'll hef my luntch basket now, plees.' I shook all over an' sez: 'Yas, sah! yas, sah!' an' flew aroun' an' fixed his table an' then brung on the basket. He took out the cognac first, sorter fondled the bottle a minit an' then held it up ter the light. Say, his jaw fell 'bout six inches! 'Po'tah! po'tah!" he called out, but I was awful busy at the furder end the car, an' didn't yer him. Then he brung fo'oth the goose frame, an' my! he was mad. Jess then I come down the aisle, an' he grabbed me by the arm an' shrieked out: 'Vhere's der goose gone, po'tah!' I kinder stammered an' sez: 'Reckon it flowed away, sah!' He grunted su'thin' an' jerked out what was lef' of the san'wiches, the claret an' seegars. 'I 'spose dese t'ings haf flowed away, too, ain't it?' he yelled, an' say, boss, he was the maddest feller I ever seen. I tole him I didn't know nothin' about it, an' edged away. The rest of the pass'ngers was laffin' fit ter split, an' I reckon I was er grinnin', too. He shook his fist in me face an' swore he'd report me soon's he got ter Nashville. But I didn't wait. I was going to quit anyways, so I jumped the job an' come on ter Chicago an' hev stayed yer ever since."

THE FOLLY OF WORRY.

Grasp the World by the Hand and Grow Old Gracefully.

It is not work that kills, but worry, truthfully observes the Albany (N. Y.) Journal. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction. Work is good for the soul, good for the body and good for the mind. If you want a good appetite, don't worry. If you want a healthy body, do not worry. If you want to stand well with yourself and the world, and want things to go right in your home and your business, do not worry. If you want to size up to one hundred cents on the dollar, do not worry.

The faculty of looking on the bright side of life and making the best of things is a fortune to any one. Fretting only deranges one's temper, excites unpleasant feelings toward every body and confuses the mind. If things go wrong one day there will be opportunities to right them on the days coming; and it is a good plan to just let things take their course and not get discouraged.

Women have a sea of trouble over their housekeeping, and they allow the merest trifles to harass them into ill-temper and nervousness, which is the bane of the American woman. Dirt and disorder in the household are the cause of the most nervousness. The housewife hates dirt, and begins a new campaign against it every morning and hunts it down wherever it hides itself. This would be healthy exercise if she would not worry, but worry is worse than dirt and disorder. They had better live ankle-deep in dirt, take things as they come and be contented than live in grandeur and worry.

This life is just what one makes it. If we worry through the world it stings us. If we grasp it by the hand and get hold of some of the sunshine that brightens it, it will be the best friend one can have. Do not worry. Do not get discouraged. The world is full of human sympathy. If you lose your way or fall down, a large portion of the human family will be ready to pick you up and show you the way if they know of your need. Cultivate a spirit of patience. Cultivate a habit of getting all the enjoyment that your circumstances will permit. Cultivate a cheery disposition that will dispel worry as the sun dispels the dew. Never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you, and you will find that life is worth living and that this world is not so bad a place after all.

Behind the cloud the starlight lurks;
Through showers the sunbeams fall;
For God, who loveth all His works,
Hath left His hope with all.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

Some Pertinent Comments on the Every-Day Affairs of Life.

Fretting cures no evil, writes Frank B. Welch in the Arkansaw Traveler, but it sometimes relieves the monotony of too much happiness.

It is advisable to put our heart into whatever work we may have to perform, but it is wise to think well before we put our money in.

When a person becomes too good to overlook the faults of the unfortunates, then he is guilty of an error which loses to him the glory of his goodness.

The chronically unhappy man who persists in trying to sour humanity, should get him to his closet with his woes and give the sunshine a chance to warm his neighbors.

A man with a red nose is always suspected of men. He may also be wronged of men, for it may be that he is, instead of a heavy drinker, a sufferer from some painful malady.

When you see a person trying to play the fool, and you hear it remarked of him that he is a fool, you may take it as an evidence that he was created for the part.

The trouble with people nowadays is they give much attention to the exterior, to the detriment of the interior. They think more of the sack than they do of the grain. The consequence is there is much poor grain parading in fine sacks.

When tossed on the angry waves of a sea of trouble a good motto is "Never give up the ship." But when the ship manifests a tendency to sink, it is a wise move to swim out and not go down with the wreck.

"Never a rose without a thorn" is an axiom possessing much truth. It follows, then, that the thorns were created for the purpose of protecting the treasures of the bush. So do we often find in human life that beauties of the heart and mind are preserved by the thorns of unshapely bodies, unbeautiful faces or lack of wealth.

DEADLY ICE CREAM.

Several Hundred Persons Knocked Out by Its Charms at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 20.—A big picnic was held here yesterday, at which large quantities of ice cream were eaten. After a short time several hundred persons were attacked with severe pains, all the symptoms indicating that they had been poisoned.

No deaths have yet occurred, but the physicians are unable to determine whether any of the cases will result fatally or not.

Henry George's Campaign Plans.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—In a private letter received here to-day Henry George says his intention is shortly to be able to do in the United States what he has done so well in England—conduct a through campaign covering the entire country.

Boat Capsized and Two Girls Drowned.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—Charles Keller, Mamie and Winnie Colligan went boating last evening and the boat was carried over the falls. The boat capsized and the two girls were drowned. Keller was found a mile below the falls clinging to the boat and was rescued.

Secretary Windom's Vacation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Secretary Windom arrived in this city to-day from Washington and left with his family for Newtown, Mass., Mrs. Windom's former home. The Secretary will spend two months in the Berkshire Hills.

Recognized by His Legs.

When the Bishop of Edinburgh was in this country he visited Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, at Middletown. Habited in the English Episcopal costume of knee breeches and black silk stockings, he alighted from the train and was at once accosted by Bishop Williams, although the two men had never met each other before. "Tell me," asked Bishop Williams after the first greetings, "how did you know me?" "O, by your face," replied his Lordship of Edinburgh. "I have one of your photographs, you know. But tell me in return how you knew me?" "O, by your legs," replied Dr. Williams, glancing with an amused smile at the well-turned calves of his guest.

BIG LABOR STRIKES

Over 20,000 Dock Workingmen Out in London.

A SOCIALIST'S CLEVER RUSE.

He Harangues a Force of Non-Union Laborers and They Quit Work.

An Agreement Signed by the Glass Manufacturers Not to Start Up Their Works. A Fight Between the Owners of $10,000,000 Capital and a Labor Organization of 10,000 Men—Leather Workers Strike Against a Reduction in Wages.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The strike among the London dock laborers is spreading rapidly and 20,000 men are out to-day.

The ship-owners whose vessels are lying at the Millwall docks managed to secure a force of men from Bristol Sunday night and until this morning they were at work loading and unloading day and night.

The vessel-owners took the precaution to provide food and shelter on the docks to prevent access to the men by the strikers and their sympathizers, and the premises being favorably situated for this purpose all the efforts of the strikers to approach the men at their work proved unsuccessful.

At 6 o'clock this morning, however, while the men were at work in a pouring rain, Burns, the Socialist agitator who is taking a leading part in the movement, managed to climb to the top of the high wall which surrounds the docks on all sides, and from this position he harangued the men for fifteen minutes. Before he had finished talking the laborers set up a tremendous cheer and without a dissenting voice all shouted to Burns that they would work no longer.

True to their word they dropped their work then and there, fell into line and marched out of the docks, and with Burns at their head they proceeded to the dock laborers' headquarters close by, every man of them drenched to the skin.

A SEVERE CONTEST.

Capitalists Representing $10,000,000 Will Fight 10,000 Organized Workingmen.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 21.—A despatch from Cleveland, O., says: Every manufacturer has agreed to stand out against the demands of the workingmen for an advance, having signed an agreement not to start up until notified to do so by the Wage Committee.

This agreement means that there is now inaugurated a fight between the owners of nearly $10,000,000 worth of property on one side and a labor organization representing nearly 10,000 workers on the other.

This organization is the wealthiest extant. The representation of the membership of the organization present at the convention is the largest ever gathered together.

Boss Bakers Fight the Union.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The boss bakers of New York and Brooklyn have formed an association to fight the journeymen bakers. Notices were posted in all the bake-shops to-day that hereafter the employes will be treated with as individuals, and the union will not be recognized. The men were required to sign their acceptance of this notice. Rather than to do so about 300 men quit work, and it is expected that a general strike will take place. The men claim that the bosses are beginning an attempt to restore the old system of long hours and starvation wages.

Streator Miners Reject the Compromise.

STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 21.—The compromise rate of 7½ cents for coal mining was rejected by a large mass meeting of miners in the public park this afternoon, and an order was issued calling upon all miners in this section to quit work at once. Sheriff Morrisey, fearing that there may be trouble, has had a number of deputies sworn in, and many extras have been added to the police that may be called on in an emergency, which is likely to arise at any moment.

Strike Against a Reduction in Wages.

WOBURN, Mass., Aug. 21.—The employes of the leather manufactory of Eustin Cummins & Co., this city, struck against a reduction in wages of $1 a week. The affairs of the firm are in the hands of a receiver and the factory was running on full time under an arrangement with the creditors. If Cummins & Co. are successful in this move it is expected that a general cut down in all the factories here will follow.

Bavarian Association in Session.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 21.—The Bavarian Benevolent Association of the United States and Canada is holding its sixth annual session here. Over 100 delegates are present. The reports of the officers show the Association to be in a healthy condition.

Chas. W. Chrisbee Dead.

CASSOPOLIS, Mich., Aug. 21.—Charles W. Chrisbee, aged fifty-four, judge of Berriar and Cass Circuits, died here today. He was Reading Clerk of the National House of Representives for six years, and Secretary of the last three Republican national conventions.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

One Man Killed Outright and Others Injured—The Building a Wreck.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 21.—Yesterday afternoon a boiler in Gangwitch's brewery, corner of Juniata and Magnolia street, exploded with terrible force. Andrew Evans, who was making repairs on the boiler at the time, was blown fifty feet through a brick wall of the building onto the railroad track and was instantly killed.

A Swede, named Johnson, had both arms and legs broken and is probably fatally injured. Miss Lizzie Blasko, a domestic standing in an adjoining yard had her back broken and was otherwise terribly bruised by flying debris. The brewery building is almost a total wreck. Several employes were more or less severely hurt.

FATAL CATTLE DISEASE.

Pennsylvania Farmers Alarmed Over the Appearance of Texas Fever.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 21.—A fatal disease has broken out among the cattle in several localities in this county, and they are dying at an alarming extent. It is known among veterinary surgeons as Texas fever. Samuel Pool, of New Stanton, lost eight valuable cows.

The disease is supposed to have been transmitted through the bringing of a carload of Western cattle into the county by a farmer at New Stanton.

The farmers are greatly alarmed over the presence of the disease. Cattle stricken with the disease invariably die.

Big Guns After the Firemen.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The seventeenth annual convention of the New York State Firemen's Association met here yesterday. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Gamble, Hon. Smith M. Weed welcomed the firemen of the State. President Irish, of Cazenovia, responded for the delegates. The question where the convention shall be held next year has already become one of absorbing interest. Hon. Roswell P. Flower, of Watertown, is here with a delegation to invite the association to meet in Watertown, and it seems almost certain that that place will be selected to-day, though Hon. Warner Miller, with a formidable contingent, is working on behalf of Herkimer.

It Will Be a Great Fair.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 21.—Entries for the trotting, pacing and running events at the Eastern Maine State fair to occur September 3-6 inclusive, closed last night. They are the largest for years and indicate that this will be the greatest exhibition of the kind ever held in Maine. All the leading Maine horses, except Nelson and Aubine will be here. The entries in the stock department, which will not close until Saturday, are already so numerous as to necessitate an enlargement of the accommodations at Maplewood Park.

Two Women Attacked by a Man.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 21.—Two daughters of Justice Mitchell were met last night near their father's residence by a man who drew a revolver and ordered them to halt. One of the young women nearly fainted, but the other ordered the fellow to go away, and, grasping her sister, ran with her across the street. The place where the assault was attempted is within a block of a police station. The fellow fled when the women screamed.

Suing the Stockholders.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—All the stockholders of the Niagara Falls Racing and Fair Ground Association are being sued in the Supreme Court for their proportion of the full indebtedness of the Association, amounting in all to about $20,000. There are about 125 defendants scattered over the country. The Association which at first looked like a success turned out a big failure.

New York Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the State of New York, in session here, elected the following officers: Grand Master, George W. Chapman, of Canistota; Deputy Grand Master, W. R. Spooner, of New York; Grand Warden, Jacob Stern, of Buffalo; Grand Secretary, James Terwilliger, of New York; Grand Treasurer, Sidney J. Rowland, of New York; Grand Representative, John W. Stebbins, of Rochester.

For Forging a $100 Note.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 21.—O. C. Whitney, Superintendent of the Kenka Assembly has been arrested on a charge of forging a $100 note, preferred by Rev. George H. Ball, President of the Central Baptist Association. Mr. Whitney was released on $1,000 bail to appear to-day in this city for examination.

Did Not Think It Loaded.

WALFBORO, N. H., Aug. 21.—Last night Alfred Porter, aged 19, a Dartmouth student was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hands of Herbert E. Towle who was cleaning the weapon and thought it to be unloaded.

Cut Her Throat With a Razor.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Margaret Corwin, wife of Isaac Corwin, Superintendent of the Consumers Gas Company, committed suicide yesterday by cutting her throat with a razor while laboring under temporary insanity.

TRYING TO SAVE HER

Mrs. Maybrick's Case Creating Popular Excitement.

SHE IS IN A SERIOUS CONDITION.

It Is Generally Believed that a Commutation of Sentence Is Certain.

Alice Yopp, the Nurse Girl, Makes Another Damaging Statement—The Condemned Woman's New York Counsel Receive an Important Letter Regarding the Phrase "I am Sick Unto Death"—A Saying Common Among Southern Women.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—In the lobbies of the House of Commons the statement was freely made last night that a commutation of the sentence of Mrs. Maybrick was certain.

Alice Yopp, the nurse whose testimony weighed so heavily against the condemned woman at the trial, in the course of an interview to-day, made the statement that Mrs. Maybrick, shortly before the death of her husband, sent a girl to a chemist's shop with a prescription written by herself, and that the chemist refused to put up the prescription on the ground that it contained a deadly poison, and reported the circumstance to the police.

Mrs. Maybrick's Serious Condition.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—As the day fixed for the execution of Mrs. Maybrick approaches, the popular excitement growing out of the extraordinary efforts being made in her behalf becomes greater, but the suspense and anxiety are positively fearful. This morning the rumor is revived that the condemned women is in a condition which will preclude the possibility of an execution on the day set, pardon or no pardon, and which will necessitate her examination by a jury of matrons before the law can be allowed to take its course.

"I AM SICK UNTO DEATH."

An Explanation of the Term Used By Mrs. Maybrick in Her Letter to Brierly.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Messrs Rye and Macklin, the New York attorneys for Mrs. Maybrick, received to-day from an anonymous correspondent a letter explaining the use of the expression "I am sick unto death," which occurred in Mrs. Maybrick's letter to Brierly and upon which Judge Stephens placed so much importance.

The correspondent writes: "I yield to the solicitations of friends to communicate with you on behalf of Mrs. Maybrick. You will learn from Southerners that the sentence 'sick unto death' used in the Brierly letter and construed by the Judge to mean darkly an intent to kill, is a Southern vernacular in common use among women in the Gulf and other states, to express any painful illness however slight it may be. She would say, "I am sick unto death" if merely suffering from a sick headache or sickness of the stomach. To express dangerous illness she would be very apt to say 'very ill' or 'very sick.'"

Mr. Roe says that this is a very good point as in reading over Judge Stephens' charge he rings in the changes on that one expression and takes particular pains to impress the jury with its importance. "I shall at once submit this evidence to the British Home Secretary," said Mr. Roe, "although we will not present any petition as upon consultation we find that it might not create a favorable impression. Everything is being done over there that can possibly avert the sentence being carried into effect." Continuing, Mr. Roe quoted from a Liverpool paper which he had just received and in which it is stated that Judge Stephens is known as the hanging judge and that a prisoner stands a poor show when brought before his bar.

Edison at the Krupp Works.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Mr. Edison, the famous electrician, will visit the Krupp works at Essen, Germany, before the termination of his visit. He will then return to America by the way of England.

Parnell to Go to Scotland.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Mr. Parnell will not go abroad after the adjournment of Parliament, as was his original intention, but will spend the recess in Avondale in Scotland.

The President on His Way West.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 21.—The train on which the President left here last night for Indianapolis was two hours late, and did not arrive until 11 o'clock. Notwithstanding the late hour quite a number of people went down to the depot to see the party off. Private Secretary Halford said that the matter of an extra session of Congress was undecided, and that the chances for and against it were about equal.

Bethlehem's Coaching Parade.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., Aug. 21.—The coaching parade here was a great success. The weather was fine and the sport was witnessed by about 6,000 people. The procession was nearly a mile long. Governor Goodell awarded prizes for the various degrees of excellence in the turnouts. The prize for the handsomest ladies went to the Highland House. There was a display of fireworks in the evening.

—"If your paper," writes an old journalist, "happens to tread on your toes a little in performing its mission, don't get your back up and abuse the editor, but stop to think for a season, and see if you can't remember some of the favors and kindnesses it has shown you in the past. Then reflect that it may not be long before you may want some more favors again."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Brower are at Megantic Lake, Canada.

Miss L. V. Cole of Emily street, North Plainfield, has gone for a two weeks' visit to Mount Tabor.

Mr. J. H. Manning, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A, and Miss Kittie Manning, started on Tuesday for Chicago and Canada.

Mr. Warren L. Randolph and wife started this morning for a week's outing in Sullivan county, N. Y., where they will be registered at the U. S. Messiter House.

Mr. Dudley S. Miller has returned to his post of duty in the City Pharmacy, after a very pleasant vacation of two weeks, spent at Mt. Cobb, Pa., and at Elmira, N. Y.

Councilman Jenkins who runs a miniature confectionery shop in his desk in the Council Chamber, was accompanied by his bright and intelligent dog, at the meeting last evening.

Mr. C. Herbert Hinke for some time past an assistant in Messrs Fisher & Monfort's photograph studio, left town today to accept a position at Birmingham, Conn. Mr. Hinke took a number of carrier pigeons along with him which he will liberate on the way.

Miss Sarah C. Frazee, cousin of Mr. A. M. Frazee of Peace street, left this city for her home, Peoria, Ill., on Sunday. She came East to take charge of the home of the late Dr. Lewis Craig, and after the death of that estimable man continued with his sons until they leased the old homestead and left the city. She was a most able woman and possesses the love and esteem of a host of friends who are very sorry to part with her. Sickness of her aged mother called her home.

Birthday Party.

Mr. Clarence Oakley entertained his friends and acquaintances at his residence on Arlington avenue, Monday evening, the occasion being the twentieth anniversary of his birth. A large number of young people were present and spent the evening in dancing and in other social ways. Refreshments were served.

The Same Old Scaffold.

The scaffold on which two of the five murderers now awaiting execution in New York, are to be hanged, is the same one on which Bridget Durgan, who murdered Mrs. Coriell at New Market, was put to death at New Brunswick many years ago.

How They Travel at Night.

Last night the police put two tramps on board the 12:43 train from New York and started them out of town, just as another one alighted from the train to take up his residence here. The man beat his way up from Elizabeth.

THE CRESCENTS FLYING HIGH.

Games Scheduled With New York's Strongest Semi-Professional Teams.

The Crescent nine having won thirteen games and lost but three, this season, its management feels so proud that it can't keep itself on the earth and is beginning to soar high. It has had the audacity to schedule a game with the mighty Winthrops of New York, for next Saturday, and also one with the Hackett-Carhart nine for Labor Day morning, Sep. 2. If the Crescents get a half-dozen runs in both games, they may be proud.

Among the clubs the Winthrops have beaten this year, are such strong nines as the New Jersey Athletic Club, Clintons, of New York and Brooklyn Athletics. Their battery is the celebrated Currie brothers whom the N. J. A. C., borrowed when they recently massacred the Rahway Club.

But the Crescent nine will be strengthened in every way, and, consequently, even if the home team is beaten, exciting games should result. The management is right. The people would rather see the playing of the best teams, even if the Crescents are oftener beaten, than a one-sided picnic for the home nine.

It is rumored that hereafter Condon will play on first as THE PRESS has suggested. Bowman, second, Lee, third, and Cadmus, short, will complete the strongest infield possible. Gately will pitch, and the best man possible to obtain will be signed to catch when Bowes is not behind the bat.

New York Bankers Who Are Not Backing a Plainfield Water Works Scheme.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Mr. Woltmann has now written his ultimatum, and it is evident that he retires very much worsted in the controversy. It is to be regretted though that the defense of his proposition so courageously begun, should be concluded in such an undignified way by him. He in fact drops ignominiously from a discussion which he himself invited.

Before retiring altogether, however, he should make another effort, and it is suggested that prior to so doing, Mr. Woltmann shall call on the bankers whose names he makes use of in such an unjustifiable manner. They won't harm him. He will be received kindly and treated courteously no doubt. He will learn, but perhaps not to his surprise, that the Plainfield water franchise has no attractions for them and, further, that they are neither interested nor backing any one who is seeking it. As for the references referred to in Mr. Woltmann's communication of yesterday, it is the duty of the Committee to look them up thoroughly and they will of course do so, not even neglecting Mr. Woltmann who appears to be the only person at present who is abnormally exercised over the water works enterprise.

Then it will be pleasing to see in print another communication from Mr. Woltmann, and no one awaits this with more delight than OBSERVER.

Plainfielders at Lake George.

The Marion House, on the West shore of Lake George, has been well filled with guests this Summer, including many from Plainfield. The house is located in a charming spot, and the recent new additions place it in the ranks of leading Summer hotels in the country. There is a gay crowd there and time is not allowed to hang idly on their hands. Thursday a jolly tally-ho party drove to Glen's Falls, dined at the Rockwell House and attended the races.

The following guests at the Marion House were seated on the top of the coach: Ex-Councilman and ex-Fire Commissioner Rowland M. Stover, of this city, J. W. de Aguero, J. R. Ross, C. A. Walker, R. Baxter, Jr., J. L. Ogden, Jr., D. H. Tenny, F. VanWormer, J. F. Keiley, C. W. Carter, and N. J. H. Edge. Tally-ho parties from the house are almost of daily occurrence.

A Mad Dog in the Borough.

Some time during the month of May, Mr. Mark Lees, of Chatham street, took a hound dog to board from Mr. Wann, of Washington Park. For some four or five weeks past the dog has from time to time been troubled with fits, and also refused his food.

Yesterday he had a more severe attack, having three fits, frothing at the mouth, and breaking his chain twice, showing every symptom of hydrophobia. It was thought absolutely necessary by all who saw him that he should be shot, which mission was performed by ex-Marshal Becker.

Perhaps the Committee Can Answer.

Mr. Thomas McGann, a resident of North Plainfield, and for the past twenty years a contractor by trade, requests us to ask why he was not awarded the contract by the North Plainfield Township Committee on Monday, for the rebuilding of the wall and filling in the washout near Demler's Hotel in the Notch.

Mr. McGann says his bid was $1,259, yet the contract was awarded to Mr. Joseph Sallery of this city, for $1,473. He also says he can find the best of bonds to complete the work.

Your Last Chance.

Those who want to take a salt sea bath before Winter, have but one more opportunity. The excursion to Ocean Grove, to-morrow, of the Park Avenue Baptist, First Presbyterian and Congregational churches and Sunday schools, is the last of the season. Train leaves Plainfield at eight o'clock.

Everybody's going.

THE PLAINFIELD SEMINARY.

Its Plans, Preceptors and Patrons.

The Plainfield Seminary for young women and children, held at "The Chestnuts," West Seventh street, will begin its twenty-second year, Thursday, Sept. 19. Its Principal, Miss E. E. Kenyon, will be assisted by her Associate Principal, Miss Isabelle Arnold, teacher of natural sciences and history, and the following corps of instructors:

Miss Blanche L. Fuller, graduate of Wellesley College, Mathematics and Latin.

Miss Anna Titsworth, pupil of Mr. Charles Roberts, Reading and Elocution.

Miss F. F. Clark, graduate Salem Normal School, Primary Dept.

Mr. A. Venino, Stuttgart Conservatory, Piano.

Miss Alice Holmes, piano assistant, Vocal Lessons.

Madame Saurer, formerly of Paris, French.

Mrs. John Ward Stimson, Drawing and Painting.

Mr. T. J. Dodworth, Deportment and Dancing.

The Kindergarten department, which will open October 1, will be conducted on the Froebel method, by Miss Sarah Bayley, a graduate of Mme. Krause-Boelte. French will be taught by Mlle. Montanari.

The list of patrons of the Seminary, of the term of 1888-89, were: the Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., Gen. James Grindley, Mrs. J. E. Corlies, Mrs. Dr. George Dock and Messrs

IT DIDN'T SUIT HIM.

Another Man With A Long Name, Disgusted With the "news."

(From Saturday's News.)

Mr. Thomas Sherman Earl, a New York journalist of wide experience and highly recommended, begins his duties today as city editor of THE NEWS, succeeding Mr. Walter Irving Clarke. * * * Provided the place suits him he will become a valuable acquisition to the fraternity and the town.

Three days after the above appeared—and less than a week after Mr. Walter Irving Clarke had escaped "the goad of the taskmaster," as he expressed it—Mr. Thomas Sherman Earl also threw up his position on the news and left Plainfield with the explanation that he "guessed he couldn't fill the bill."

Mr. Edward Benedict Daly, one of the news' compositors, has now been persuaded to accept the vacancy.

A Westfielder Jailed.

John L. Reed of Westfield, has been lodged in the Union county jail on complaint of his wife, Corinthia, who said that Reed beat her badly and then threatened to take her life with a razor. The prisoner was arrested by Constable Marsh and taken before Justice E. R. Collins, who committed him to jail for a further examination.

Broke the Record.

About three hundred persons accompanied the Laing and Nelson excursion to Asbury Park yesterday. The day was delightfully cool and the bathing was excellent. The "run" home was made in one hour and twenty minutes, the fastest time yet made between the Park and this city.

Bathing in Green Brook.

Complaint is made against nude bathing in Green Brook in the vicinity of the old Cadmus saw mill. On Sunday Officer McDonald of the Borough captured one of the bathers, and it cost him about six dollars for his discharge. Other arrests will follow if the nuisance is not abated.

The First to Register.

The first man to register in Union and Essex counties under the new law requiring veterinary surgeons practicing in the State to be registered, was W. P. Humphrey, of Elizabeth, who set forth that he is a graduate of Columbia Veterinary college, New York.

Thrown From a Wagon.

A horse, said to belong to a North Plainfield bottler ran away on Park avenue this morning, but outside of a wrecked whiffletree, the other damage done was trifling. The driver is reported to have been thrown out, but he escaped injury.

Realized About 50 Per Cent.

Marshal Bauersachs, of North Plainfield, sold a surrey this morning to satisfy a chattel mortgage of $75 held by L. M. French. The carriage brought $30.

Sealed Proposals.

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Boards of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on Monday, Aug. 26, 1889, at Miller's Hotel, Plainfield, New Jersey, for two low truss iron bridges over Green Brook, one at Richmond street, forty-five (45) feet between walls at right angles, twenty (20) feet clear roadway, and no sidewalks; and one at Water street, fifty-seven and twenty-one one-hundredths (57.21) feet in length between walls, on an angle of 38 deg. 08 sec. from a right angle, twenty (20) feet clear roadway, and two six (6) foot sidewalks with iron railing. The structures to sustain eighty (80) pounds to the square foot on total area, with a factor of four (4) beside the weight of the bridge.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said committee, for the masonry for said bridges.

Specifications for the same can be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The joint committee reserve the right to reject any or all bids for either of the above.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The Assessor's Tax Duplicate Examined and the Various Assessments Decided Upon.

The City Council met in adjourned regular session, last evening, ostensibly to examine the Assessor's tax duplicate for 1889. President Dumont called the meeting to order at 8:25 o'clock, and besides himself there were present Messrs Dunham, Erickson, Jenkins, Moffett and Newhall.

The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with and the regular order of business suspended. Council then proceded to examine the Assessor's duplicate.

Upon re-assembling at 8:55 o'clock, Mr. Erickson offered a resolution, which prevailed, to the effect that the Assessor's duplicate as examined by the Council be adopted.

He also recommended that the per centage as fixed by the Assessor ($2.15 on the $100) be approved, and it was so ordered. Last year the rate was $2.18 on the $100. The following figures will show the total valuation, together with the per centage and the various amounts to be raised by taxation for the present year:

Total assessed valuation			$5,712,115
	Rate.
County	52	Raises	$29,702.99
State school	32	"	18,278.76
Library	4½	"	2,570.45
City	46	"	26,275.78
Poor	8½	"	4,855.30
Fire	18	"	10,281.80
School	40	"	22,850.46
Bonds	14	"	7,996.96
Total	$2.15		$122,812.45

According to the above rates the school tax has been decreased ten cents on the $100, and the city tax has been increased to the extent of five cents. The increased valuation in real estate is about $49,000 over last year.

A petition was received from Mr. A. F. Venino asking permission to erect a dwelling house at the South corner of Madison avenue and Sixth street, said building to be one story of brick and the remainder of wood with slate roof. Referred to the Committee on Fire and Buildings with power; as was also a petition from Mr. E. C. Mulford for permission to remove a one-story frame building from No. 41 to No. 65 North avenue.

Council then adjourned.

Following is a list of last year's assessment:

	Per Cent.	Amount.
County	52	$28,664.65
State school	32	17,315.52
City	41	22,000.00
Poor	7½	4,000.00
Library	4½	2,400.00
Fire	17	9,000.00
School	50	27,811.23
School bonds	14	7,940.00
Total	$2.18	$119,131.40

The Opinion of One of the "Favored."

One of the papers designated to publish the laws, the Newark Sunday Call, says: "The State officials charged with the duty of designating the newspapers to publish the laws last week performed it, after three months delay. As we said a fortnight ago, there was ample reason for refusing to designate the papers if the State finances did not warrant the expenditure. The Governor, Secretary of State and Comptroller appear to be of opinion that the expenditure is justified.

"The complaint fairly made was that there had been no publication of the laws sufficient to inform the people of the statutes they were expected to obey. This was inexcusable, and the blame rested principally upon those in charge of the publication of the pamphlet laws. The course of certain newspaper publishers in organizing a bull-dozing committee on the subject is to be deprecated, and we desire, for one, to be counted out in any such movement.

"The whole subject should be revised by the Legislature, and the cost could be reduced by two-thirds with advantage. Meanwhile, it partakes of the humorous to observe local organs that are living on city printing grow virtuous over what they describe as State 'pap.'"

Kean to the Front.

John Kean, Jr., is now in the lead for the Republican nomination for Governor. It was a close race, with Fred Fish, of Essex, a good second, but the ex-Congressman exhibited greater staying powers and is said to have had the promise of a majority of the delegates.

The Democratic Star of this morning says that "Kean has wealth, political sagacity and a good record. He is a man of tact. From the way his friends talk he is decidedly in the lead. Mr. Kean himself is very modest, and utters no boasts. But there is an air of quiet confidence about him that is very assuring to his supporters. Perhaps it is safe to say that at the present writing John's star is in the ascendency."

Having nominated Mr. Kean, the Fredonian predicts his election.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

Can't Even Copy News Straight.

The news in copying from THE PRESS of the day before its account of the highway robbery of William Connett, spelled his name "Connell."

The news is copying from THE PRESS of the day before its account of the Rev. Mr. Dwight's purchase of a home in the Borough, erroneously added that "he has taken up his residence" therein already.

In the City Court.

Officers Flanagan and Giesse each arrested a drunk and disorderly, last evening. The men loaded up in North Plainfield. Judge Stillman fined them each $3 this morning.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.

How the Little Ones Amused Themselves at Keller's Grove on Sunday—A List of the Prize Winners.

The third annual children's festival of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein took place at Keller's Grove, on Sunday, and was largely attended. Between fifty and sixty of the members, together with their families, from the Aurora Singing Society of New Brunswick, were present, and in all about 150 children were entertained in various ways. They were also abundantly supplied with sandwiches, iced cream, lemonade and candy.

In beginning the festivities all of the children were arranged in a circle on the platform, and Mr. Hugo Weigmann, the President of the Plainfield Society, addressed them thus: "Children! Last year I promised you, that, if you all would be good children, behave well, obey your parents, be ambitious at school, another festival would be tendered to you in the course of a year, and as your parents have told me that you all have behaved well with the exception of a few boys, we have to day arranged another picnic for you and we will give you a better one still next year, if you do the same as you have done the past year."

The children then marched around the platform, and in passing an improvised fish pond, each one fished out, with hook and line, a handsome present.

One of the features was the turning by the pupils of the Turning school, in command of Turnwart Fred Becker, on the horizontal bar. Six prizes were awarded for high and long distance jumping as follows:

High jumping—First, Frank Keller; second, George Hanson; third, Philip Friese.

Long distance—First, Werner Pearson; second, Louis Bimbel, third, George Bremer.

The boys made a fine appearance in their handsome turning suits, consisting of white shirt, blue pan red stockings, brown slippers and a red, white and blue striped belts.

Another feature of the festival was the sack-racing and "pot" breaking by the boys, and the egg-raising by the girls. In the former event Frank Keller, Harry Denklau, W. Pearson and Theo. Kreugfeld got prizes, and in the latter handsome prizes were awarded to Katie Sutterlin, Henriette Maas, Ida Weigmann, Etite Blatz, Lizzie Walten, Allie Grieb, Mada Krone, Mamie Dresselt, Lizzie Denklau, Frieda Gaub.

At about 7 o'clock the visitors started for home with many thanks to the Singers for the glorious day they had arranged for them. Soon after the members with their children also left for home every one satisfied with the day's enjoyment.

Mr. Canby's Share in the Success.

"One of the men behind the scenes who exerts a lot of influence without anybody being aware of it is a slender, gracefully built, and quiet man, who has Comedian Wilson's interest at the Broadway Theatre, New York, in charge. He is a manager of the type who does not put his name on the play bills, but who pushes his star forward in a manner that suggests concealed dynamite."

Such is a well-known critic's opinion of Mr. Al. Canby, who has some warm friends and admirers in Plainfield also. Mr. Canby's faith in Mr. Wilson is deep-rooted and of some age. He began a year ago to mould the fortunes of his star when that energetic gentleman was not moulding it himself, and he has kept at it ever since. People who think managing a big comic opera company with a new star at its head is easy work, are mistaken. The work of the man who is not seen by the public is in some respects quite as arduous as that of the star itself.

The Smith Family Reunion.

The fourteenth annual reunion of the Smith family and friends will be held in the grove on the farm of Peter Z. Smith, one mile East of Peapack, Somerset Co., N. J., on Wednesday, August 28, 1889, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., and continuing all day.

Excellent speakers will deliver addresses at 2 o'clock P. M. Music will be furnished for the occasion by the New Germantown Cornet Band. Iced cream, soda water, lemonade, confectionery, etc., for sale on the grounds at reasonable rates. No sutlers' stands will be allowed on or near the grounds.

If stormy, reunion will be held next fair day. Please give notice in your neighborhood. All are cordially invited to be present,

ISAIAH SMITH, President.
ABM. SMITH, Vice President.
OSCAR SMITH, Treasurer.
JAMES C. SMITH, Secretary.

KILRAIN STILL HERE.

He Will Probably Be Turned Over to Sheriff Childs To-morrow.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21.—Deputy Sheriff Childs was mistaken yesterday when he said that Kilrain would leave for the South with him in the evening. Kilrain is here yet.

The writ of habeas corpus is returnable to-morrow, when Kilrain will probably be turned over to Mr. Childs.

Sheriff Childs said this morning that the session of the present court at Jackson expires on Saturday, and that therefore Kilrain could not be tried until next January. By that time Governor Lowry will have retired, the sheriff said, and Governor Stone's administration will have begun. From what he knows of Mr. Stone, the pugilists need not expect him to show them any mercy.

Kilrain and his friends have been in telegraphic communication to-day with people in Mississippi, arranging for the giving of bail when Kilrain goes down there.

Sullivan in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Sullivan arrived last night from New York. He denied that he was to make a tour of the country with Kilrain, but said he would give the latter $2,500 to spar him in New York. The only two men he desired especially to meet were Slavin and Smith. As to Jackson, he was out of the question.

Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The President has appointed Henry C. Boyer postmaster at Shenandoah, Pa., vice John C. Seltzer, removed.

Fourth class postmasters were appointed as follows:

Maryland—D. McCahan, Fort Washington; R. S. Carry, Newport.

Virginia—W. M. Ackerly, Rapps Mills; M. H. Huffman, Seville.

New Jersey—L. J. McDonald, Jr., Branchville.

Pennsylvania—Philip Goedle, Castle Shannon.

New York—W. O. Haines, Ascord; R. W. Swift, Charlotte; H. J. Connelly, Edgewood; E. H. Manterstock, Hambletville; P. S. Wyckham, Malden; G. M. Slawson, North Franklin; A. C. Hull, Olive.

Massachusetts—E. S. Woss, Leeds.

Connecticut—Mattie C. Blakeman, Oronoque.

Maine—E. G. Waterhouse, West Scarborough.

Department Changes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—William Watkins, Jr., of New Jersey, has been appointed a post office inspector. Frank A. Butts, of New York, a chief of division in the Pension Bureau, has resigned.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Texas cattle fever has made its appearance in St. Louis.

The premium on gold at Buenos Ayres has been advanced to 81¼ per cent.

Newell Snow, President of the Greenfield, Mass., Savings Bank, is dead, aged 78.

Ike Weir, the "Belfast Spider," was arrested at the Boston ball ground for using profane language. He was admitted to bail.

The Prohibitionists of Monroe county, N. Y., have nominated John J. Ryan, of Medina, for State Senator.

Paris was visited by a violent storm yesterday. A thunderbolt struck the Eiffel Tower, but did no damage to it.

Joel W. Pickett, while painting the steeple of the Clarendon Street Baptist Church at Boston, fell a distance of 75 feet and was instantly killed.

The Post Office Department at Washington yesterday ordered the free-delivery service to be established at Mt. Vernon, Niagara Falls and Johnstown, N. Y.

The lumber yard of B. & J. Goodkin, near Tonawanda, N. Y., was burned yesterday morning and 3,000,000 feet of lumber destroyed. The loss will be $70,000.

An attempt was made to wreck a passenger train on the New York Central and Hudson River railroad tracks between Niagara Falls and Sanborn, by placing rails across the track.

An excursion train narrowly escaped being wrecked near Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday. Two large stones had been placed on the track and were discovered by a farmer just in time to avert a large loss of life.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—For New England: Fair; slight changes in temperature; westerly winds.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Continued warm, generally fair weather; southwesterly winds; showers and cooler weather Thursday.

For Western New York: Local showers; stationary temperature; cooler Thursday; southwesterly winds.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as sometimes we are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

BOOMING THE FAIR.

New York Millionaires Organize for Securing the 1892 Exposition.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The gentlemen selected as members of the Finance Committee of the proposed World's Fair of 1892 met at the City Hall yesterday, Mayor Grant presiding.

Among those present were Messrs. Gould, Rockafeller, Belmont, Seligman, Inman, Steinway, Mills and Kelly.

Mr. Gould rose to nominate M. J. Pierpont Morgan as chairman, but yielded to Mr. Belmont, who nominated S. D. Babcock, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Babcock was unanimously chosen. J. Edward Simmons, ex-president of the Stock Exchange, was chosen treasurer.

Mr. Seligman submitted a plan to form a company with a capital af $15,000,000, 2 per cent. on the stock to be guaranteed by the city, the security to the city being the ownership of the buildings.

This and a large number of other plans were referred to an Executive Committee composed of J. Pierpont Morgan, chairman; Messrs. Belmont, Vanderbilt, Inman, Babcock, Simmons and President Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting then adjourned. The Executive Committee will meet to-day.

A Retired Clergyman Dead.

THE GIANTS BEATEN

Boston Scores an Easy Victory Over New York.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM AT THE HUB

The Champions Feel Their Defeat Keenly and Call it Hard Luck.

The Giants Were Never in the Game. Keefe and Welch Both Pounded With the Greatest Freedom—The New Yorks Could Not Bat or Field—Brooklyn Again Victorious—Chicago Lost, and So Did Cleveland.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—The defeat of the New York Giants yesterday was the most crushing of the season, and every member of the team feels it keenly.

The New Yorks were trounced with the greatest ease; in fact, the game was so one-sided as to be robbed of all interest except that taken in the slugging of the Bostons. Keefe started to pitch for New York, but at the end of the third inning, after the Bostons had made six hits and four runs, he retired and Welch was called in.

It made no difference; Boston still kept up its pounding, batting Welch harder than Keefe, ending up in the the ninth with four singles and a triple.

There was no hope to win after the fourth inning, a fact so apparent to some of the New Yorkers present that they quietly slipped away to some more congenial spot, where they could unbend and give full sway to their pent-up feelings.

The ragged playing by several members of the team was a sure indication of the poor form of the men. They are not doing anything like what they are capable of. Whitney was the only New Yorker who gauged Radbourne. The batting of Brouthers and Ganzel was terrific.

The Giant players say they can't understand it, and attribute their defeat to hard luck. Manager Mutrie is highly chagrined. Of course there is general jubilation in this city over the Bostons' victory.

Atwood Says He Lied.

ORANGE, Mass., Aug. 21.—Charles Atwood has confessed that he lied when he told his story about being assaulted by White Caps in the woods. The blood found on his wagon robe was from his own nose. He is deeply in debt, and seems to have had an idea that he could improve his condition by posing as a martyr. He now wants to be considered insane.

FREE MASONS AGITATED.

Mr. Peckham's Resignation From the Cerneau Consistory Creates a Stir.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Masonic circles were greatly agitated by the resignation of Past M. G. Commander Wm. H. Peckham, thirty-third degree, from membership in Cerneau Consistory No. 1, thirty-second degree, this city, thus severing his connection with Scottish Rite Masonry.

This action adds new interest to the bitter feud between the adherents of Albert Pike and those of Ferdinand Gorgas. Every adherent of the latter is, by recent Masonic proclamation, in danger of expulsion from the lodge of Masonry, and the resignation of Mr. Peckham will, it is said by prominent Masons, be followed by many others.

Mr. Peckham was for many years prominent among the Cerneau Rite Masons, and for several years held the highest rank in the body—that of Grand Commander for the United States. Two years ago he resigned and was succeeded by S. F. J. Gorges, of Baltimore.

Mr. Peckham's present resignation, as he states in an open letter addressed "To the Masonic fraternity throughout the world," is because of the affiliation of the Supreme Council of that body to the Grand Orient of France, which does not recognize the existence of a personal God; whereas, Mr. Peckham states, such recognition is the very corner-stone of true Masonry.

SYRACUSE SELECTED.

New York Democrats Will Hold Their Convention October 1, in the Salt City.

SARATOGA, N.Y., Aug. 21.—The Democratic State Executive Committee met in the club house of the Grand Union Hotel last evening, and was called to order promptly at 8 o'clock by Chairman Murphy. The full committee was present.

After the call of the roll, on motion of James L. Williams it was resolved that the Democratic State Convention be held at Syracuse on Tuesday, October 1. Not a dissenting voice was heard.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the Leland House, Syracuse, on September 30.

New England's Big Laundry Gone.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 21.—Fire which originated in the drying room of the Fall River Laundry yesterday gutted the building in less than fifteen minutes. The employes narrowly escaped with their lives. This laundry did 12,000 pieces for the Old Colony line weekly, worked for 27 towns and was the largest general laundry in New England. It was valued at $25,000. Loss, total; insurance, $13,500.

Suit Against Ex-Judge Noah Davis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Henry Villard has begun suit against ex-Judge Noah Davis for $125,000 commissions on a stock transaction which took place several years ago. The defense is that the stock, which Judge Davis bought as an investment for an estate of which he was trustee, was not as valuable as represented, and that the commissions were not earned.

Pennsylvania Knights of Pythias.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 21.—Over 400 delegates from all parts of the State are present at the annual session of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Pennsylvania. The Keeper of the Records' report showed 418 lodges in the State, with a membership of 40,291, and that for the relief of beneficiaries $157,330.59 was paid out during the year.

Mike McDonald's Wife Elopes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Mrs. McDonald, wife of Mike McDonald, the well known ex-gambler and politician, is missing from her her home on Ashland avenue, and is said to have eloped with a Catholic priest, who, it is alleged, has been since unfrocked by the church.

A Convict Cuts His Throat.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 21.—Austin W. Myatt, who is serving a ten-year sentence in the New Jersey State prison for the killing of James E. Cavanaugh in Trenton last winter, cut his throat in his cell with a case-knife, which he had sharpened for that purpose.

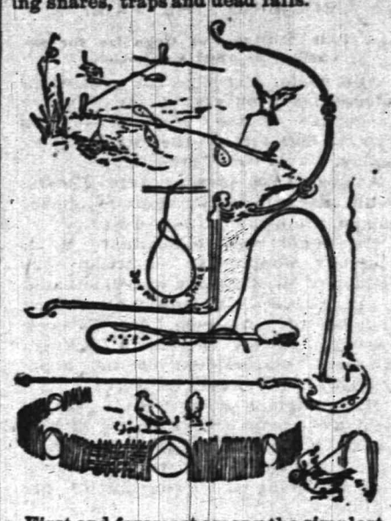
GAME TRAPS AND SNARES.

The Various Kinds and How to Construct Them.

Simple Devices for Capturing Game Invented by the Indians—Some of Them Are the Product of Yankee Ingenuity.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Now that the breech-loading shot gun and rifle are in such general use the old fashioned method of snaring and trapping game are seldom practiced. Still the demands of the bird fanciers and others for live specimens of rare birds, and of the fur market for uninjured furs, keeps alive the art of properly constructing snares, traps and dead falls.



First and foremost among the simplest snares made is what is known as "set lines." To begin with it is essential to find a spot most frequented by the birds you wish to snare. The spot selected should be, for a limited space at least, fairly smooth. Provide yourself with a jack-knife, some strong cord, a quantity of horsehair and two bits of hard wood. Make the two small stakes about six inches long and drive them down into the ground at a distance of fifteen feet apart. Run a strong cord taut and flat on the ground from one stake to the other, taking care to securely attach it at either end. At intervals of a foot or more bind securely to the main cord little branching slip nooses of horsehair. These nooses when spread out should be about six inches in diameter. In the loops sprinkle some grain seeds. The snare is now set, but if you wish to take the birds alive the set lines should be carefully watched lest the snared birds in their exertions to get away should beat themselves to death against the ground.

The partridge snare is a little more scientific in construction, but not at all intricate. The snare proper is simply a slip noose made of strings, but when properly constructed it is very effective. Familiarize yourself with the haunts and habits of the partridge. Bear in mind that partidges and other game birds rarely fly over an obstruction if it is possible to find an opening through which to pass. In constructing the partridge snare begin by erecting a wall of sticks, stones and mud about two feet high and six inches thick. It should be as long as is necessary to enclose a given place, relying on the undulations of the ground or some other natural cause to complete the rest of the enclosure about the partridges' haunt.

Build a few arches in aperatures in the wall. The arch should be a bent piece of wood like a croquet wicket in shape. It should extend to the top of the wall and should be about seven inches wide. Make a slip-noose of a strong piece of cord, just big enough to hang in the arch. Make the free end fast to the top of the arch, spread the loops apart and keep them in this position by catching the strings lightly in either side of the arch. The noose should be one inch from the ground and three inches from the top. The partridges in seeking their usual feeding place will naturally walk into the semicircle, and in endeavoring to get out will poke about until they come to one of the archways. In going through they will be caught in one of the nooses.

Another method of catching small birds is in vogue among the Indians to this day. Get a reed, or better still, a bamboo pole about twelve feet long. Plant one end in the ground so that the pole will lean sideways. Cut a birch twig about two feet long with plenty of leaves on it and place it crosswise on top of the pole, at the same time binding it on securely. Place a horsehair noose lightly over the leaves. Pass the end of the horsehair down through the pole and out through a hole bored a foot from the bottom. Tie this end of the horse hair to a strong cord, which in turn is fastened to a rock. The trap is now set and when the bird alights on the top of your pole his feet will invariably draw the noose tight around them and he is caught in very short order.

The spring snare is a very simple contrivance, but is an excellent method of catching birds. Cut a switch about five feet long and of good thickness. Bend it in the form of a lawn tennis racket—that is, two feet of the small end of the switch should be curved round and fastened to the body. Place this flat on the ground, make a low arch, somewhat smaller than the partridge arch and drive it into the ground over the handle of the switch, at a point one foot from the base. The arch should be driven down to within three inches of the switch. Two inches from the arch and towards the bend of the switch make a notch and drive a little peg lightly into it. To a small sapling, which should spring from the ground a few inches, immediately back of the big end of the switch, attach a strong cord. Bend the sapling and attach the free end of the cord to the peg in the handle of the switch, the cord first passing under the arch. The tension should be strong enough so that the least twitch from the bent sapling would free the peg. Now about midway on the cord connecting the peg and the top of the bent sapling attach a light strong string. This runs out as far as the bend in the switch, where it forms a slipnoose. The slipnoose is spread over the curved end of the switch; grain is strewed about and all is ready for the birds.

A very simple snare is made by weaving a net of silk or horsehair in running nooses. Spread it on ground frequented by birds and fasten it down with pegs. Throw some grain about and your snare is complete. Rabbits may also be caught in this same snare.

Fish snares, not meaning nets, are hardly worth the while wasted on them, but one of the simplest made can be described in few words. The pickerel lift is a slip noose of very light copper wire. It should be about three feet long or adapted to the depth at which the fish are lying in the stream. The free end should be attached to a pole about two feet long. From the bank or from your boat with the utmost quietness lower your noose into the water. Slide it up about the fish, working towards the head. Be very cafeful not to touch the fish with the noose, but when it is about him just back of the gills give a quick lerk, and nine times out of ten you will land your fish.

Dead falls are effective if properly constructed in killing anything from a bear to a ground squirrel, and as the name suggests, carries with it instant death.

The simplest dead fall is made with a flat rock and four hard wood sticks. The weight of the rock depends on what game it is expected to kill. The sticks are put together in the form of the figure four and support the rock. Whittle out four sticks of oak or ash. The first is the trigger stick, and if intended for a mink fall should be twelve inches long, gradually tapering off to a point at one end. It should be at its thickest part one inch through. In the very middle a sixteenth of an inch notch should be cut and at the thick end on the same side two notches close together. The second stick is the ground support. That should be six inches high and an inch through. One end of it should be small and come to a half inch top. The third stick is the perpendicular post, and should be three inches high, one inch thick and come to a half inch bottom at the small end. The fourth stick is the oblique prop and should be eight inches long planed off at either end to angles for supporting the rock and fitting into the notch. The flat stone should be as heavy as the figure four will support. To set the trap the following directions should be observed. Place the ground support in an upright position. On top of it at right angles place the trigger stick so that the part just beneath the middle notch shall rest on the ground support. Fit the oblique prop into either of the end notches. In the middle notch of the trigger stick place the small end of the perpendicular post, the oblique prop resting on the other end of the perpendicular post. Your trap will now resemble the figure four and you will find that the free end of your oblique prop will easily support the heavy stone. Bait the trigger stick with odorous bait and all is in readiness. The animal seizes the bait, loosens the prop and the rock falls on him.

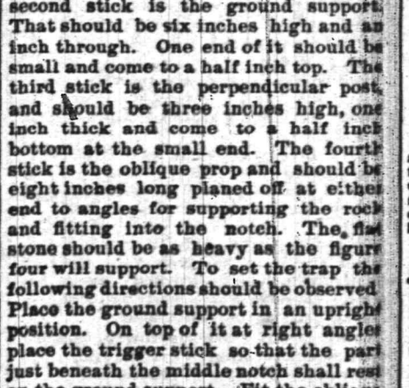
Another dead fall is made by drawing two parallel lines of stakes on either side of a heavy log so as to completely fence in an enclosure save at the ground end of the log, where a little opening is left for an entrance. At one end the log should be elevated and supported by a figure four trap. Put strong bait on the trigger and await results.



Perhaps the simplest trap made is the box trap for squirrel and rabbit. Get a box about fifteen inches long, eight wide and eight inches deep. The ordinary soap box will answer. Halve the box by removing the top and one end. Hinge the top on to the end from which it has just been removed—leather hinges will do very nicely. At the same end nail in an upright position a stick twelve inches high; bore a half-inch hole through the middle of the same end of the box and put through it a trigger of a sure four trap; run a string from the top of the opening end of the box, over the rear stick, down to the trigger; at this end of the string tie a two-inch sliver of wood set in the notch in the trigger and a notch in the end of the box, an inch higher than the hole through which the trigger extends. The box is now open and your trap set. Bait the trigger with sweet apple or an ear of corn. The rabbit or squirrel enters the trap, nibbles the bait and loosens the trigger. With a snap the cover falls and you've bagged your game.

For all large game the familiar snap steel traps cannot be improved upon.

In a wild turkey trap you have to rely in a large measure on the natural stupidity of the bird. A four-sided pen of proportions best adapted to ground on which you elect to erect it, is built of twigs and grasses. The walls should be about two feet high. For a roof use pine or hemlock boughs and weight them down securely; leave one very small opening in your wall and in it leading into the pen strew corn. The turkey eats its way in. Once inside and having consumed all the food, the bird looks for an egress, but in turkey fashion endeavors to get out through the roof. The opening in the side is small and the in-turned twigs prove an effectual barrier. He never thinks of trying to crowd out the way he came in and is, therefore a close prisoner until released.

The handiest kind of an eel pot, and one which can be easies constructed, is made of barrel hoops and strips of wood. Get these ordinary barrel hoops, place them at a distance of one foot apart and nail over it strips of wood. The strips of wood should be an inch wide and half an idch in thickness. Nail these strips on longitudinally half an inch apart. The object of this is to have these apertures of sufficient width to permit the water to freely pass through, but yet not wide enough to allow the eel to escape. At the ends invert your strips to an imaginary point twelve inches within the middle of the pot. When the sticks come to almost a point leave an opening just large enough for the eel to squeeze through. The trap is now complete. Bait it with small fish and ahchor it. Attach a float to a line which connects the trap to a float on the surface of the water. This marks where your eel pot is set.

FOUR MEN TO HANG

To Be Executed in New York City To-morrow.

THEIR LAST DAY ON EARTH.

The Condemned Men Anxiously Awaiting the Hangman's Summons.

Packenham Spends All His Time in Prayer and His Companions Play Dominoes and Try to Be Cheerful—Great Excitement Over Giblin's Respite by the Governor. Hangman Atkinson Has Erected Two Scaffolds for the Execution.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Carolin, Nolan, Packenham and Lewis, the four men condemned to die to-morrow morning, spent last night comfortably in their wire cages.

This morning when they arose they partook of ham and eggs, coffee and rolls, and then started in to play their usual game of dominoes.

Yesterday afternoon Carolin was visited by two ladies, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Kleinfelder. Carolin has not seen these two ladies for some time, and was so overjoyed to see them that he said: "If I was given a pardon I could not feel better than to-day after seeing these ladies." Two sisters of Mercy and Father Pendergast, of St. Xavier's Church, are constantly with the men.

Sheriff Flack and Under Sheriff Sexton visited the condemned men last night and stayed four hours with them. Inspector Williams visited the Tombs to-day to make final arrangements as to where his officers are to be placed.

Packenham is visited at times by his son and daughter. He does not mingle with the other men, but gives all his time to prayer.

Deputy Sheriff Wild, as captain, with Deputy Sheriffs Burke, McCoy, Galligan and six deputies were relieved at 8 o'clock this morning by Deputy Sheriff Carraher as captain, with Deputy Sheriffs Delmour, Fitzgerald, Ferguson and six deputies.

Several letters were received by Warden Osborne to the condemned men, but he positively refused to send them in. One of them reads as follows: "Brace up. God has promised forgiveness to all sinners; so meet your death like men. When in heaven pray for the writer, for he has hard work to control his evil inclinations. Good-bye; cheer up, boys, and look forward to a happier life than you have lived here."

Executioner Joe Atkinson began the building of the scaffolds last night. There will be two scaffolds. One will be built on the Frankfort street side of the prison and the other on the Leonard street side. Two men will be hanged on each scaffold.

Governor Hill yesterday granted Giblin, one of the condemned murderers, a respite of sixty days. When the news went to the other murderers the four fellows came from their cells and one by one told Giblin how pleased they were. Giblin spoke of it later, and he said they were as brothers to him, and his joy was not greater than theirs. But their joy did not last as his lasted. Packenham was the most effusive. He came up with a smile on his pale face, and this time, not contenting himself with merely putting his hand on Giblin's shoulder, he slapped it vigorously and exclaimed: "God is on your side."

MILLIONS AT STAKE.

The Wauregan Cotton Mills, of Rhode Island, Make an Assignment.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 22.—The Wauregan Cotton Goods Mills, E. P. Taft, treasurer, have suspended payment and allowed their notes to go to protest.

The failure is connected with the disaster that overcome Lewis Brothers & Company.

But the mills were reported to be in with Manville & Slaters to the amount of a million, and creditors have been coming down on them.

The company's liabilities are placed at $1,000,000, and the assets, according to the company's figuring, are over $2,000,000.

The Nottingham Mills will also suspend, and the Thornton Worsted Mills have already gone under. Their trouble is caused by the failure of Brown, Steese & Clarke.

The Oldest Dentist Dead.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 22.—Dr. E. Parsons, said to be the oldest dentist in the United States, died at his home here to-day. He was born in Northampton, Mass., in 1806 and had practised in this city since 1843. He invented a number of instruments widely used by dentists.

A Well Known Pittsburg Contractor Shot.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—The well known contractor, John T. Natcher was shot twice by a painter named William E. Lee yesterday. A dispute over business matters was the cause. Natcher will probably die.

Riverside Mills to be Started.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A despatch from Oswego Falls says that the Riverside and Oswego Falls Mill will be started again to-morrow or Monday, under the management of the new re-

M'DONALD'S RUNAWAY WIFE.

She Writes Her Husband a Letter and Does Not Express Sorrow for Her Sin.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—"Mike" McDonald has received a letter from his runaway wife who eloped with the French priest, Father Joseph Moysant. The letter contained neither sorrow nor contrition for her sin, nor a plea for forgiveness.

"All the sorrow she expresses," said Mr. McDonald, "is for these two little boys," and he pointed to his two little sons. "She is still infatuated with that beast of a priest," continued Mr. McDonald, "and says she cannot leave the man she is with. I'm going to get a divorce as soon as my lawyer returns from his vacation, which will be in about a week. I have both pity and contempt for the woman whom I once called wife. She has sunk lower than the commonest, vilest woman on earth."

SAVAGE PRIZE FIGHT.

Kelleher Whips Ellingsworth in Forty-Two Rounds.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 22.—The Southern California Athletic Rooms were crowded to witness a fight between Joe Ellingsworth, of New York, and Denny Kelleher, of Boston, according to Marquis of Queensberry rules, for a purse of $1,500.

Ellingsworth scaled 149 pounds and Kelleher weighed 158 pounds. Kelleher was the favorite at 20 to 15.

In the forty-second round Kelleher got in a terrific right hander on Ellingsworth's face, knocking him down and out. He got up at the call of ten seconds and hung to the ropes, but could not face Kelleher. Ellingsworth came to while Kelleher was being congratulated and shook hands with him. Jack Perry was referee.

Jack Smith Defeats Frank Cox.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 22.—After four weeks of careful training, the fight between Jack Smith, feather-weight champion of Canada, and Frank Cox, the Australian, for a purse of $200, came off yesterday morning in a ring pitched on Navy Island, in the vicinity of Tonawanda. The Canadian was a hot favorite. But five rounds were fought, in the last of which Cox's backers threw up the sponge, the Australian having sprained his hand and become thoroughly dazed by a swing on the jaw.

Saratoga Club Houses Raided.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Complaint having been made that gambling was carried on in several club houses in the village a raid was made on the places designated last night. No gambling implements were found, although the buildings were searched from cellar to garret. The proprietors were arrested and gave bail to appear before the Grand Jury. Among those who were arrested was Albert Spencer, of the Saratoga Club House.

Failure of the Keystone Furnace Co.

READING, Pa., Aug. 22.—Late yesterday afternoon the Keystone Furnace Company, which operates two large furnaces here with a capacity of 450 tons per week, made an assignment. The president of the company, Henry Bushong, attributes the failure to the dullness in the iron trade. The product of the furnaces was mostly sent to the East, and they used none but native ores.

Good Templars' Convention.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., Aug. 22.—A convention of Good Templars from five counties in Pennsylvania was held here yesterday. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. L. C. Partington, of Maine, and Hon. S. B. Chase, of Easton. The next session will be held at Parsons, Luzerne county, in November.

LEARNED IT AT SCHOOL.

A New Bedford Girl Knew How to Save a Babe from Drowning.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 22.—The hero and heroine of South Dartmouth to-day are Miss Lucy E. Hillman, aged 19, and her brother Charles, aged 13, of this city, who rescued Arthur Stowell, 2 years old, as he was sinking for the third time in the waters of Buzzard's Bay.

He had fallen from a wharf, and Miss Hillman's prompt action in using restorative methods after the child was taken from the water probably saved his life.

She graduated from the New Bedford High School last year, and received her knowledge of methods to be taken in emergency cases at school.

Yellow Fever on Board Ship.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The statement of the Surgeon-General at Washington that there are ten cases of yellow fever on board the ship John A. Briggs, at this port from Rio Janeiro, is denied by Captain Hudson, of the tug which brought the Briggs to Breakwater. He says that the illness which caused the death of Captain Balch's wife was the only case that occurred on the ship.

Bud Renaud on Trial To-Day.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 22.—Bud Renaud's trial is in progress to-day. The court room is almost deserted, the interest in the prize fight cases having died out.

Fire at Jamestown, N. Y.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Fire last night damaged the building and stock of the Parks & Hazzard shoe manufactory $50,000; insurance, $33,000.

ANARCHISTIC HUNS

Creating a Reign of Terror in the Coke Region.

FARMERS ARMED WITH RIFLES.

Women Threatened and Men Clubbed by the Lawless Aliens.

Inhabitants of the Town of Mutual Forced to Fly to the Hillsides for Safety—The Citizens Determined to Protect Themselves and Their Families—Governor Beaver Appealed to for Help—Everybody Demanding Their Removal.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—The actual situation of affairs in the coke region is almost beyond description. Anarchy is uppermost in the minds of the Huns, who have been incited to acts of lawlessness and deeds of violence by the ringleaders, Jacob Otto and Christian Body, two confirmed red-flag-and-blood anarchists, who were discharged from the mines because of anarchistic tendencies.

They have gone through the region joining with kindred spirits, planting seeds of revolution and murder among the ignorant Huns. For over two weeks the country side has been in a state of terror, and the hamlet of Mutual is the only place that has not been visited with devastation. Valuable property has been wantonly destroyed and peaceable citizens have been subjected to personal injury and abuse. Women have been threatened and men have been clubbed into insensibility, and some killed outright and others disabled for life.

The inhabitants of Mutual have been frequently threatened, and on several occasions have fled to the hillsides for safety. The reason for their present comparative safety lies in the fact, which has become known to the murderers, that every man in the village has supplied himself with Winchester rifles and revolvers and the streets are patrolled nightly.

The citizens are determined to protect themselves and their families. Petitions are in circulation asking the Governor to provide help and relief. Everybody is alive to the situation, and unite in demanding the removal of the lawless element from the coke region.

Vanderbilt's Ball in a Stable.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—The ball given by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt last night was one of the most brilliant events of the season. The ball was held on the large ground floor of Mr. Vanderbilt's new stable, the hay loft being used as dressing and smoking rooms. The building was finely decorated in designs of grain, fruit, flowers and vegetables. The supper tables were set in the stalls, which were carpeted with straw matting and decorated with Japanese lanterns containing electric lights. The favors of the german were horseshoes, yokes, whips, etc. Nearly all the cottagers attended.

A Big Contract on His Hands.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23—The police locked up a man in the South Precinct station house to-day who imagines that he is under obligations to marry all the women in the United States. His name is J. A. Schach, and his home is in Springfield, Mass. He tramped all the way to Washington, and when arrested by the officer, he was inquiring for the White House, with the object of getting the President to repeal the law which compels him to abolish spinsterhood.

Stenographers in Convention.

WATERTOWN, Aug. 22.—At the annual convention of the New York State Stenographers' Association at Alexandria Bay, Henry L. Beach, of Binghamton was elected president; Charles L. Gay of New York, vice president; and Mrs E. F. Rowley, of Rochester, secretary and treasurer.

Glass Manufacturers Sign the Scale.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22—Notwithstanding the agreement of the window glass manufacturers at their meeting in Cleveland, that they would not pay the advance demanded by their workmen Secretary Coke, of the Union Glass Workers' Association, states that two firms have already signed their scale and that seven other firms have asked that a copy of the scale be sent to them for consideration.

Threw Herself from a Train.

FRANKLINVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Mrs. John Little of Lynden, in charge of some children who were participating in the Fresh Air Fund, when a short distance from here and while the train was in full motion, jumped off, alighting on her head, which was badly crushed. It is feared she will die. No cause is known for her strange act.

There Will Be Plenty of Oysters.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 22.—The report that the oyster crop of Long Island Sound has been ruined by the heavy rains of late is greatly exaggerated. Several large oyster growers who have just returned from the beds say there is a "fair set," and the young oysters on the bottom are in good condition to receive the spawn.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The season for regimental reunions is fast approaching.

—More small houses and lower rents are what this city needs.

—The excursion from this city to Asbury Park, today, consisted of ten well-filled passenger coaches.

—This is one of the days when a fellow feels as if he would like to take off his flesh and lay down in his bare bones.

—What has become of the fat and lean men who were scheduled to play ball on the Crescent grounds, this afternoon.

—The green apple and small boy are running a race. From last accounts the apple was several hundred victims ahead.

—Eel fishing seems to be good at present, and fisherman can be seen nightly angling for the slippery water inhabitant.

—The dog-catcher seems to be a little derelict in his duty nowadays. Only four dogs have been captured thus far in August.

—Every city, town and village is said to have its boss liar. Everybody knows what fills that capacity in Plainfield. It is not THE PRESS.

—The West Ends of Somerville defeated the Acmes of New York, in an exhibition ball game at Morristown, yesterday, by a score of four to three.

—On August 14, W. E. Marsh, Sr., transferred to John Shafer, deed dated April 5, 1873, property in North Plainfield for a consideration of $1,100.

—Mr. R. J. Shaw's base ball bulletin, which he has conspicuously posted in front of his drug store on Front street, every evening, attracts a large number of spectators.

—Street Commissioner Conover, of the Borough, drove his handsome four-horse team with a big stage load of young and old from among the guests of Force's Hotel, to Boynton Beach, this morning.

—Lowande's ten-cent "fake," known otherwise as a circus and menagerie, which exhibited here about ten days ago, was in Bethlehem, a few days since, and while there a child was attacked and nearly killed by a hyena.

—The members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., are requested to attend the regular meeting of the Council held in the S. of T. rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue, this evening, as several members are to be initiated and other important business to be transacted.

—Mr. J. A. McVey, the caterer, has been making some marked improvements to his restaurant in the Roberts' building on North avenue. In the rear of his culinary department he has had two sky lights put in, which not only serves to let light into the kitchen, but also acts as an agent to thoroughly ventilate the place. Mr. O. C. Moore performed the work.

Hit With a Butcher's Cleaver.

Mr. Henry C. Drake, proprietor of the American Steam Laundry on East Front street, was walking along that thoroughfare last evening on his way to Cotiell's butcher shop, when two boys named Demeza, each carrying a club, came up behind him, and in passing Mr. Drake one of the clubs accidentally struck the latter on the hat. Mr. Drake took hold of the club, whereupon one of the boys threatened to strike him with it.

Reaching the meat market Mr. Drake went inside, followed by the boys, one of whom picked up a butcher's cleaver and deliberately struck him on the left hand, nearly severing the first finger. The boy will probably be arrested for his freshness.

Imprisonment for Delinquent Taxes.

The first arrest of a delinquent taxpayer was made yesterday. He was a colored man in arrears for poll tax, and he was locked up in the city jail. Subsequently he made arrangements to settle. Any one who owe taxes for anything and does not pay nor has not property to sell in settlement, is to be served the same way.

A Tax Delinquent Arrested.

Peter Cuff, a colored man, was arrested by Special Officer Mattox last evening, for refusing to pay his poll tax. The thought of going to jail worked upon Peter's mind to such an extent that he made satisfactory arrangements with Justice Nash to pay up his delinquent taxes and he was released.

THE "THOUSAND-DOLLAR CURRIES"

And Other Wall Street Brokers Who Will Meet the Crescents, Saturday.

It is expected, of course, that the Winthrops with their thousand-dollar battery, the Currie brothers, will defeat the Crescents, Saturday. Still the home nine will make the effort of its life to hold the visitors down.

The Winthrops are all wealthy gentlemen who play ball for the love of it. Their pitcher and catcher—W. J. Currie and W. Currie—are considered the strongest amateur battery in the country. They were offered this season one thousand dollars by one of the Staten Island league teams, but they refused the temptation. They are both Wall street men, as are most of the nine.

The Crescent nine will be as published in these columns, yesterday. The people will be glad to see Dave Condon on first base. McMurray has been playing in hard luck lately, and every little mistake has been noticed and magnified when the worse errors of others have been overlooked. But "Mack" will undoubtedly be playing in good form again before many days.

Lee is now fit for third base once more, where he belongs; Cadmus will play short, with Bowman on second. If the last named plays as well every game as he did last Saturday, he will probably be a fixture. But Bowman frequently has had off days, though they may all be past. It is hoped that Bowes will be well enough to catch, Saturday. To-morrow THE PRESS will publish the batting order of both teams, so its readers may prepare their score cards at home.

The game will be called at four o'clock. Come early and get a seat, as the "Thousand-Dollar Curries" will naturally attract a large crowd, especially of the ladies. An umpire worthy of the occasion has been secured.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Sheriff Glasby of Elizabeth was in town today, on official business.

The Misses Sarah and Harriet Manning, are at home from Plattekill, New York.

Tax Collector Johnson has been spending a few days at Landsdown, Hunterdon county, N. J.

Mr. Jeremiah Manning and daughter, Miss Kittie Manning, started Tuesday for Chicago and Canada.

Mr. G. H. Rockafellow, of Elizabeth, is spending a part of his vacation at the home of his father, 132 West Front street.

Miss Etta Gavett has gone to Kennebunk Port, Me., to attend the marriage of her cousin Grace, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Gates.

Mr. W. Adams and daughter of North Plainfield are spending a week with Mr. Adams' mother in Boston. The latter is over ninety years of age.

Mr. Charles DeGraw returned last evening, after an absence of ten days at Asbury Park. The balance of his vacation will be spent in Philadelphia.

The Rev. J. Judson Pierson, of Pemberton, N. J., accompanied by his wife and children, is visiting his mother, Mrs. H. Pierson, at her home on Duer street.

Mr. Walter Wyckoff of West Eighth street, this city, who a few weeks ago left here for Georgia, has returned home and accepted a lucrative position at Johnstown, Pa.

Borough Clerk James K. Arnold and Marshal Thomas MacDonald, returned from a half-day's fishing trip, yesterday, with a fine lot of eels, hard crabs and lobsters.

The Rev. C. E. Dunn of Albany, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, Class of '74, will preach in the First Baptist church, Sunday morning. He is the son of Mr. S. F. Dunn, of Park avenue.

Mr. John I. Holly, who has recently taken possession of his Park avenue farm, has laid out a beautiful lawn tennis court directly in front of the house. The lake in the rear of Mr. Holly's residence will be stocked with choice game fish.

The members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club have presented an engrossed set of resolutions to Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, condoling the death of their son, the late Herbert Winthrop Peck. A copy of the resolutions will appear to-morrow.

Mrs. Charles J. Taggart entertained the Choir boys of Holy Cross church, yesterday afternoon, with a lawn party at her home on Sycamore avenue. There was an abundance of pleasure, iced cream and cake, and a box of candies for each.

A party of pleasure seekers from this city were entertained by Mr. Lambert DeCamp, proprietor of the Hotel at "Dog Corner," last evening. Messrs Frazee and Guttman furnished the music for dancing, which was enjoyed until after midnight, when the young folks departed for their homes.

The death is announced of Mr. Jane VanNortwick, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Van Nest, No. 5 Elmwood place, yesterday, from old age. She was in the 78th year of her age. The funeral will take place from the residence of her daughter on Saturday at 3 P. M. Interment will be made at Samptown.

Arrest the Tramp.

There is a lean, lank scissors-grinder going about the streets of this city, who is a foul-mouthed brute, and should be arrested. The fellow went to a house on Eighth street, yesterday afternoon, and when told by a lady that the family had no work for him, he became insulting and abusive.

CHAUTAUQUA'S GALA DAY.

Bishop Vincent, Dr. Hurlbut and Miss Kimball Take Part.

Recognition day, which to the Chautauquan means the great day of the season, and to the barbarian means graduating day for the class of '89 of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle, arrived yesterday.

The weather was clear and cool, the crowds immense, the Hall of Philosophy and the Amphitheatre were elaborately decorated with flowers, the former's classic outlines and beauty supplemented for the day by busts of Socrates, Plato, Goethe and Shakespeare. The woodwork was hidden by festoons of evergreens, bands of flowers and class and circle mottos.

At 8 o'clock the procession began to form, and from then until 11, when the exercises in the Amphitheatre began, the marching and countermarching, the strewing of flowers, the passing through the mysterious symbolic arches in the hall in the grove, the "Recognition" in the Hall of Philosophy, the class and Chautauqua songs, the gaiety of the throng, the gravity of the graduates and officials, made a kaleidoscopic picture never to be forgotten.

Reaching the Amphitheatre, public exercises of recognition were led by Principal J. L. Hurlbut. The Rev. David Swing, of Chicago, then gave an address to the graduates on "The Beautiful and the Useful."

In the afternoon President Lewis Miller delivered a salutation; Miss Kate F. Kimball, Secretary of the C. L. S. C., read her annual report of the work of the Circle for the past year; letters from absent counselors were read, and diplomas were presented to over four hundred and fifty "Argonaute" of the class of '89 by Chancellor Vincent and Principal Hurlbut.

These graduates represent men and women of all ages, in all the walks of life, from all parts of the land. The broker from Pasedena, Cal., passed through the arches side by side with a tailor from Concord, N. H., while a housekeeper from Fairbault, Minn., was declared a member of "The Society of the Hall in the Grove" at the same time with a pastor's wife from Louisville, Ky.

New Jersey furnished the following graduates: Miss Annie R. Wells, Englewood; Misses F. and S. Steele, and M. V. Cowles, of Newark; Miss Mary F. Freeman, Westfield.

Representatives of the Standard Oil Company telegraphed Bishop Vincent Tuesday demanding the right to have a champion of "Trusts" appear there and reply to Dr. Washington Gladden's onslaught. Bishop Vincent replied: "Send on your man." Probably Mr. James McGee, of North Plainfield, will be the one.

MAY HAPPEN PLAINFIELD.

New Brunswick's Board of Health Warns the Citizens That the Water Supply Is Impure.

The city water supply of New Brunswick is so bad that at a recent meeting of the Board of Health it was deemed advisable to instruct the citizens to boil the water before using. The city draws its water supply from Lawrence's Brook, a small stream about two miles from the town. The stream is dammed up at Weston's Mills, and pumped into a reservoir on the outskirts of the city.

The brook is overgrown with water lilies and weeds, and the farmers' cows and pigs roam through it. The water has got so bad of late that it flavors the tea and coffee in a most disagreeable way. Well water is in great demand, and people carry it for blocks. There are but few wells in the lower part of the city, however, as most of them were closed up by order of the Board of Health on the ground that they were contaminated by the under drainage from the graveyard.

Firebug Jackson's Health.

It is stated that the health of John Jackson, of firebug fame, who is serving out a fifteen-year sentence in State Prison for numerous acts of incendiarism committed in this city, is rapidly on the decline, and that his complaint is bordering on consumption. Jackson has been compelled to quit work and is now confined to his bed, and those who have seen him lately declare that he will never emerge from the prison walls alive.

Muzzle or Shoot the Dogs.

The number of dogs running loose in our streets, is a nuisance and a danger. Already two or three dogs have gone mad, and it is almost a wonder that no persons have been bitten. The law requiring that dogs be muzzled should be rigidly enforced. There ought also to be some ordinance which should compel owners of dogs to keep them in places where their constant barking will not make night hideous for those who would like to sleep.

Staking Out a New Station.

Mr. J. E. Morse, of Franklin place, who is a civil engineer and surveyor for the Standard Oil Company, has gone to Changewater, about two miles from Hampton Junction, N. J., to lay out the ground for a new brick pumping station for the Tidewater Oil Company. At present the oil is being pumped 104 miles to the company's tanks at Bergen Point, but when the new station is at work the distance will be reduced one-half.

Sealed Proposals.

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Boards of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on Monday, Aug. 26, 1889, at Mil'er's Hotel, Plainfield, New Jersey, for two low truss iron bridges over Green Brook, one at Richmond street, forty-five (45) feet between walls at right angles, twenty (20) feet clear roadway, and no sidewalks; and one at Water street, fifty-seven and twenty-one one-hundredths (57-21) feet in length between walls, on an angle of 38 deg. 08 sec. from a right angle, twenty (20) feet clear roadway, and two six (6) foot sidewalks with iron railing. The structures to sustain eighty (80) pounds to the square foot on total area, with a factor of four (4) beside the weight of the bridge.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said committee, for the masonry for said bridges.

Specifications for the same can be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The joint committee reserve the right to reject any or all bids for either of the above.

By order of the joint committee.

SUING THE ASSIGNEE.

The Court to Settle Who Owns a Car Load of Lumber Bought Before a Failure.

On the 25th day of July last, Mr. L. A. Rheaume gave an oral order to the large lumber dealers, Messrs B. & J. Godkin, at Tonowanda, New York, to deliver to him a car load of lumber. No agreement in writing was signed for its purchase and no money was paid for it, and the car load of lumber did not reach Plainfield until July 31 ult.

A few days before the lumber reached Plainfield, Mr. Rheaume made an assignment of all the property, real and personal, he on that day was entitled to. Notwithstanding these facts, Rheaume's assignee, Mr. Wm. Buttfield, on the first day of the present month, seized the above mentioned car load of lumber and claims to be entitled to hold the same as a part of the property assigned to him by Rheaume under the deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors.

Messrs B. & J. Godkin immediately on learning of the—as they claim—illegal seizure of their property, engaged the services of Messrs Jackson & Codington, who at once caused a written demand for the immediate surrender of the lumber. This demand not being complied with by the assignee, a replevin suit was commenced in the Union County Circuit Court, and Sheriff Glasby seized the car of lumber, and the assignee failing to replevy it, the Sheriff delivered it to Messrs B. & J. Godkin.

The question will now be settled in the Union county Circuit Court as to who is the legal owner of the lumber.

He Objects to Being Moved.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A policeman bearing the name of Flanagan, I think, not infrequently exceeds his authority. Last evening about 8 o'clock I was conversing with two gentlemen upon the stoop of the building in which is Pope's dry goods store, the Central Times office and several other business concerns, when this insolent fellow walked deliberately up and without a moment's warning violently pushed me off the stoop.

His manner was such that I told him he was "too officious," but at the same time made a move to go when he ran after me and roughly hurled me off the stoop on to the sidewalk. I then and there took his name and said I would report him, when he went off muttering something between his teeth. All that I say can be attested to by the two gentlemen who witnessed the occurrence.

Now, I wish to know if this man Flanagan exceeded his authority or not? The people are taxed for his support, and he should see to it that he respects them, and not insult and abuse them as he did in this case. The people of this place are law-abiding, and I trust that what I have written may be the means of calling the attention of the proper authorities to the Officer's conduct, and give him to understand that people have rights he should respect, and that if he cannot see things in this light, a more intelligent man should fill his place.

L. W.

[We are sorry our correspondent was offended, but we must confess that our sorrow is entirely overcome by the good news that Officer Flanagan is making an effort, like a faithful officer, to clear away the crowds of men that hang round the street corners, and along the curb stones. Of course, once in a while, orderly citizens like "L. W.," may suffer, but they should bear it with good grace that the corner loafers may be driven out of sight. —ED.]

The Meanest Man in Plainfield.

"The meanest man in Plainfield," said a store keeper of this city to a PRESS reporter, today, "is Horton, who is running that confounded cheap store at 5 West Front street, that everybody is talking about. There was some money in selling goods before he came to town. That young man has put his prices so low that I must give up business or fail. No one can sell anything he keeps, the Hottentot. I tell people that he keeps nothing but broken, rotten, damaged truck, but they go and see for themselves and then call me a big liar. Why he actually sells ties for 25 cents that I always sold for 50 and 75.

"He should be tarred and feathered. I made lots of money before he came here. Articles that cost me 50 cents I could always get a dollar for, and my customers thought they were cheap. Now I am losing all that I made. He sells straw hats at cost; elegant blaziers at $2 75, and flannel shirts way under me. How he makes a living I don't know, but I have my suspicions, and I hinted to one of my old customers, who said he was going there to see what he had, that he had better not, as I thought Horton stole his goods by the way he was selling them. I was surprised when he stuck up his nose and said: 'That's just the party I am looking for.'

"Then he keeps an advertisement running all the time on the first page of THE PRESS and that brings him lots of trade, of course. But I don't do enough business to advertise."

Why Not Try It Here?

Justice Cole of Dunellen, on Tuesday afternoon sent John Reed to jail for 30 days and also imposed a fine of $10 upon him for trespassing on a Central railroad train.

Perhaps nowhere along the line of the Central railroad is there more stealing rides on the cars than in this city. If a few persons were arrested here for trespassing on the railroad property, the nuisance would soon be broken up.

Publish His Name!

(From the Central Times.)

One day last week a prominent young Plainfield lawyer was coming from Newark to Plainfield on the Central railroad, when he did a kind act which made him the hero of the hour in the eyes of the passengers.

Two match boys who had spent all their money for stock to sell in Cranford wanted to ride from Newark to that town on an excursion ticket. The conductor refused both passage on the one ticket, and loudly declared that he would drop them into the meadows. He stopped his train and got ready to carry out his threat, when the lawyer took in the situation.

The lawyer at once offered to make up the deficiency but was refused the privilege by the wrathy conductor, who ordered the overloaded and ragged urchins from the car. Then the legal star laid down the law to that conductor in such a forcible way that he reluctantly pulled the bell rope and started the train. The conductor received the money and hid himself in the baggage car. After he had gone thence a half-dozen ladies and twice as many men waited upon the lawyer and thanked him for the energy which he had displayed in his encounter.

"Personal Favoritism and Official Incapacity."

The Jersey City Journal (Rep.) which was omitted by Comptroller Anderson from the list of Republican newspapers to print the laws passed by the last Legislature, declares that it will, "in due time, give the public the whole story of this petty business and apparent official unfaithfulness and misuse of authority." The Journal would be more effective if it should summon the State Board before the Supreme Court, and compel them to state by what warrant they refuse to publish the laws in a paper of 12,000 circulation, and then pay the State's money to a paper of 500 circulation in the same county.

The law relative to the publication of laws in the newspapers requires the State Board to select those papers representing the two political parties having the largest circulation. There is no Republican paper in Hudson county that can pretend to one-fifth of the circulation of the Journal, and nothing but the personal favoritism and official incapacity of the Comptroller, backed by the official courtesy of the Governor and Secretary of State, could have effectuated so glaring a violation of law.—True American.

Desperate Tramps.

Peter Grames, the tramp, who was arrested in a corn field in North Plainfield, by Officer Kriney after a long chase and a desperate struggle on Monday afternoon, as told exclusively in THE PRESS of the following day, is belived to have been implicated in the recent tramp outrage at Roselle. The other tramp, "Burns," who escaped from the officer, and who Grames said had come from Bound Brook with him, where they had been drinking beer, turns out to be a brotner of the prisoner Justice Nash sent down from here to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The day following the tramp outrage at Roselle the Grames were arrested in Elizabeth on suspicion by Officer Gerstung. They were held at police headquarters but not being identified were discharged. It is believed, however, that they were concerned in the assault on Albert Trager and the firing of Mr. Suydam's barn at Roselle, recently. An effort will be made to identify them.

The Prophet of the Woods.

The Katydid is known to farmers and others as the prophet of the woods, and its cry in the late Summer season is taken as an infallible indication of colder weather. In the suburbs ten days ago this never failing herald of a waning Summer and a positive coming of frost within six weeks, was heard. To judge from this, the indications point to a severe Winter.

This littte insect has been celebrated in song and story, and is famous as the subject of many a nursery tale and rhyme. It is about an inch and a half long, and its body, which is about an inch long, is in color a pale green, with darker wings. The thorax is quite rough, and it shape resembles somewhat that of a saddle. The wing covers are dark, and they envelope the wings quite completely. The small insect has a very large Latin name, and is known to the scientists as crytophyllus concavus. The wing covers form a concavity that incloses the body.

The Dwyer Track.

The Dwyer race track at North Elizabeth is nearly completed. The loam is now being placed on the top of the sand. The Central Railroad's branch track over the meadow is completed to the entrance, and carpenters are at work on the roof of the grand stand. It is an imposing structure, and can be seen at a long distance.

The Elizabethtown Water Co., is laying mains around the interior, under the grand stand, and across the whole track. All the work will be finished in a few weeks, and in a short time the track will be in condition for practice and races.

For National Commander.

There are strong indications that Gen. E. Burd Grubb will be the next National Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. There are only two others of prominence who are named against him, Gen. Veasy, Past Commander of Vermont, and National Junior Commander-in-chief Hatfield, of New York.

CORBIN'S CONDITIONS.

Iron Mills Start Up With Men Who Forego Strong Drink and Labor Unions.

READING, Pa., Aug. 22.—The sheet mill, one of the nine establishments of the Reading Iron Company, and employing 275 hands, has resumed operations after being closed for nearly six months.

The other eight mills will gradually resume work within the next ten days, and will give employment to about 2,300 hands.

The company has already secured the signatures of over 2,000 men to an agreement to forego strong drink and membership in all labor organizations on condition of being given steady work according to the terms laid down by President Corbin.

The Reading Iron Company is the reorganization of the Reading Iron Works which failed six months ago.

Brown, Steese & Clark's Creditors.

FARMINGTON, Me., Aug. 22.—Samuel A. Maxwell, of Bangor, to whom the firm of Brown, Steese & Clarke is indebted in the sum of nearly $40,000 is here to attach the wool purchased by the firm in Franklin county. He has found, however, that the wool has already been attached by Franklin County creditors. The amounts purchased by the firm in Franklin County this season aggregate 97,000 pounds. Maxwell and Barker have just placed a second attachment on the wool purchased by the firm.

The Accident on the Erie.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Erie railway officials state that the accident on that road at Big Flats yesterday was by no means so serious as at first reported. There were no lives lost and only one or two passengers were slightly hurt. The engineer and fireman were badly hurt and scalded. The collision was between two freight trains, and a passenger train ran into the obstruction thus caused. One baggage car was demolished, one express car burned up, and two coaches slightly damaged.

Asked to Act as President.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 22.—The trustees of Mount Holyoke Seminary and College not having appointed a permanent president, have asked Miss Louise F. Cowles, one of the older teachers, to open the session in September and administer the affairs of the institution until a President is appointed. Miss Cowles was graduated at Mount Holyoke in 1866, and began teaching there the following year.

COULD WHIP THE WHOLE SHOW.

How a North Carolina Mountaineer Received His Store Clothes.

That peculiar form of insanity which is forever cropping out in some absurd or serious manner throughout the world, made its appearance some years ago among the mountains of North Carolina, where it seized upon George Louder. His mania was an all-absorbing yearning for black broadcloth suit of clothes and a plug hat. At night he would lie awake and imagine how he would look at a camp meeting, how the men would envy and the girls admire him. He was very poor, but so deeply rooted had this desire become that he actually stinted himself in every way possible in his efforts to save enough money to buy the coveted articles. He went barefooted, with the inevitable "galluses" fastened rear and front with pieces of stick; he even deprived himself of tobacco.

At last the happy hour came when he invested $75 in an outfit. The next Sunday and regularly thereafter he appeared at every gathering in the county, and being naturally a silent man, posed in statuesque loneliness for the admiration of the crowd. But all this happiness was doomed when the circus arrived. He was on hand early, as usual, and stood around until the crowd began to enter, when he followed. It was his first circus. The elephant stood immediately before him. He was dumfounded, but, unlike Jake Dye, who remarked under similar circumstances, "That's enough: I want to go home," he continued to stand and look in mute admiration until his attention was attracted elsewhere, but only for a short time, when he returned to gaze upon the elephant.

While thus occupied a "gust" came down the mountains accompanied by drenching rain. Such was its force that the tent collapsed and general consternation prevailed. The elephant shook the chains about his feet, the tiger roared, and everybody rushed for safety. Louder, being a powerful man, made his way to the side of the canvas, followed by a crowd. Without hesitation he drew a knife and cut a slit, through which he undertook to jump. Unfortunately it was only large enough for his head, which he thrust through, dropping his precious hat outside. The loss of the hat and fear of the wild beasts behind fairly crazed him. With another slash at the canvass he made a second effort, when, to his horror, he was seized by the coat tails, which were immediately torn off and he was himself dragged back. Again rising another effort was made, when his trousers were caught and he was pushed out to find himself in "dishabilly."

The sun had again come out and the alarm had subsided when George was discovered. In his right hand he held a large flint rock, and he was cursing in the most violent manner. Now George was never known to swear before, and one of his friends approached him.

"In the name of common sense, George, what is the matter?" he asked.

"Matter? H—ll! Hit cost me seventy-five cents to git in that, 'n hit cost me $75 to git out'n thar, 'n d—n if I can't whip every thing in thar—cepping the elephant."

There is a great deal of billing and cooing done at the seaside. The hotel men do the billing.

GRAPE CRUSH; PEACH CRUSH;
AND SO FORTH.
QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?
ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.
These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

TWO MORE SEIZURES

The Rush Makes Another Haul in Behring Sea.

ILLEGAL SEALERS CAPTURED.

An American Placed on Board Each Vessel and Sent to Sitka.

Captain Alger of the Rush Boards the Canadian Schooners Minnie and Pathfinder and Confiscates Over 1,600 Seals. The Vessels Sent to Sitka but it is Believed They Will Go to a British Port. No Official News Received at Washington.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 22.—Capt. Alger, of the American sealing schooner Allie L. Alger, arrived here yesterday from Port Townsend, and brings news of the doings of the United States cutter Rush, performing police duty in Behring Sea.

His vessel was overhauled by the Rush July 30, about fifty miles from St. Paul. The captain showed his papers to Lieut. Tuttle, who came aboard and searched the vessel. In answer to questions as to the Rush's work, the officer said:

"On the 11th of July we captured the Black Diamond and sent her to Sitka with a man on board to take charge of her. On the 23d of July we sighted the schooner Minnie. Her owner and Capt. Jacobson were aboard at the time, and she had 843 seals. We took possession of her and despatched her to Sitka also. Yesterday we bore down on the Pathfinder and found 800 sealskins aboard of her. We put another man on her and ordered her off to Sitka as well. Last week we boarded both the Ariel and Teresa. They also had some skins aboard, but we let them go, as they had been too long caught, but ordered them out of the sea."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The State and Treasury Departments are without information further than that contained in the press despatches respecting the additional seizures of illegal sealers in Behring Sea by the revenue cutter Rush. It does not appear that the vessel which brought the news to San Francisco carried any mail, so that the Government is likely to be some time without official advices upon the subject. It is believed at the Treasury Department that the captain of the Rush could not have been aware of the conduct of the officers of the Black Diamond in carrying off the prize crew to a British port, or he might have adopted a different course with his last seizures and accompanied his prizes with his own vessel into Sitka harbor.

The Liverpool Strike.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The strike of the employes of the London dockyards is spreading rapidly. The men employed at the Commercial dock, 1,000 in number, joined the strikers this morning. Thirty thousand strikers marched in procession to-day. The Socialists are endeavoring to lead the movement and a number of red flags were displayed in the parade. The paraders were orderly and the city is quiet.

Mrs. Maybrick Sinking Rapidly.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Maybrick's condition is much worse to-day and she is sinking rapidly. Her mother called on her and scarcely recognized her. Her friends attribute her illness to the suspense occasioned by the delay of the Home Office in coming to a decision as to her fate.

Irish Members Released from Prison.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—John O'Connor and T. S. Condon, members of Parliament for Tipperary, were to-day released from prison. They will at once resume their seats in the House.

A GASOLINE STILL EXPLODES.

One Man Killed and Property Destroyed in Allegheny City.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—A large gasoline still in A. D. Miller and Sons' oil refinery, corner of Preble Avenue and Adams Street, Allegheny City, exploded yesterday. The entire refinery was destroyed by the fire which followed.

Perry Hawk, an employe, was sleeping beside the still at the time of the explosion and was probably fatally burned.

The engine room was enveloped in flames within a minute after the explosion, shutting off every possibility of escape.

Five valuable horses were burned to death. The establishment contained four large stills, 30,000 bbls of crude and 1500 bbls of refined oil. It was a brick building 250 by 300 feet.

The residence of D. Osborn was burned and the adjoining property was damaged. At 5 o'clock the firemen gained control of the flames.

The loss is about $235,000, partly insured.

Postoffice Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Fourth-class postmasters were appointed to-day as follows:

Pennsylvania—W. T. Reed, Ashley; J. P. Lukes, Crum Lynne; George W. Peck, Grand Valley; Jessie B. Miller, Millerton; David Walters, Miners Mills; J. D. Cowlin, Parsons; W. B. McCormack, Raughts.

New Jersey—Franklin Patterson, Turkey.

New York—Charles Decker, Bundy's Crossing; John S. Nefsey, New Boston; T. A. Hammond, South Edwards; E. Sherman, Wardham's Mills.

New Hampshire—C. W. Cass, Plaistow; H. Scammon, Silver Lake.

Watertown Gets the Convention.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 22.—In the Firemen's Convention G. W. Irish was re-elected president, F. D. Hall, secretary, and L. H. Groat, treasurer. The next convention will be held at Watertown. The grand parade takes place to-morrow.

WELCOME HOME.

Indianapolis Gives President Harrison a Grand Reception.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 22.—The Presidential train arrived at 6 o'clock last night from Cincinnati. At the station was a great crowd of cheering people to welcome the President. From the station the Governor's Guard, with a band at their head, led the procession of carriages, at the head of which was the President, Governor Hovey and Mayor Denny. Between the guards and the President's carriage were 100 survivors of his old regiment, the Seventh.

Along the entire route to the New Dennison Hotel the sidewalks were packed with people, and all along rose cheer after cheer. At the hotel the President, on alighting, was saluted by the guards, to which he responded, as he did to all manifestations of welcome from the people.

President Tanner, of the Board of Trade, and General Carnahan, on behalf of the Monument Commission, made brief speeches of welcome, to which the President as briefly replied. He expressed the warmest feeling at meeting his old friends, and said that he did not expect on leaving to be with them again so soon, but he always had an interest in the monument to be erected, and therefore could not forego the opportunity to take part in laying its corner-stone. He hoped to be here when the cap-stone was placed.

BOOMING BOSTON.

The New York Giants Bite the Dust Again at the Hub.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The great struggle is over for the present and the Bostons are still on top.

The New Yorks came to the Hub confident of victory and filling the air with shouts: "We are the people." Last night they returned to Gotham subdued and whipped, realizing only too well that assurance does not always win success.

Their record for this little trip was one tie and two defeats. After the first game the visitors did not seem to be in the contest. They were outbatted and outfielded yesterday, and played in anything but championship form.

An Evangelist Talks to Women.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 22.—Considerable comment has been caused by the holding of a meeting in Ocean Grove last evening by Evangelist C. H. Yatman exclusively for ladies and girls not under 14 years of age. Men were notified that they were not wanted at the meeting. The evangelist denounced decollete dresses and flirtations on the board walk as the work of the devil.

A Cyclone Visits Maine.

WINTHROP, Me., Aug. 22.—A cyclone of thirty minutes duration passed over Winthrop last evening. The sky was obscured by dense black clouds which hung very low. Rain fell in torrents and the wind blew a gale accompanied by very heavy thunder. Corn and other crops were seriously injured and many trees were blown down in the orchards.

CAREER OF A $1 BILL.

Created in Meredith's Mill—The National Debts it Can Pay.

It Pours Through the Treasury Hopper, Besides the Gold, Silver and Copper, in Torrents of Millions a Day—Improvements in Money Making.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Nothing is more interesting than the birth, life and death of a dollar greenback—its procreation, occupation and maceration, so to speak.

I have just inspected the big government factory where 1,000 men are employed, every one of whom handles enough money every hour to make him rich (half of these men are women, but I use the term advisedly, for Susan Anthony has repeatedly alleged, relying on information and observation for her knowledge that "men" embrace "women").

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, of which Captain W. M. Meredith is the chief, turns out —— but to make the matter plain, let me begin at the begining, a good ways further back. Let me go back to the first "on demand" notes issued by the Government.

And to make it very plain, let me take the stand as a witness, at the risk of talking about myself and being egotistical.

About the time of the first Bull Run I became a correspondent of the New York "Tribune" with the army of the Potomac, and, incidentally (after the fashion of that time), a clerk in the Treasury Department. I was put into a long room where, during the months of autumn, thirty of us were engaged from morning till night in signing treasury notes—the first issue by Secretary Chase. Each clerk signed his own name under the words "for the Treasurer." I signed two million dollars worth, or so, and for ten years thereafter I often came across bills bearing my name. The notes were payable "on demand" and soon became as good as gold when all other credit went to wreck.

After a few months this expensive method of attesting the currency was superseded by machinery. One day S. M. Clark, Chief of the Construction Bureau, went to Mr. Chase, and said:

"Mr. Chase, I can release those fellows from that jail and save you a lot of money."

"How?" asked the great Secretary.

"I will make a machine to sign Spinner's autograph a hundred times as fast."

"Can that be done?"

"Certainly; give me three weeks' leave of absence."

CAPT. W. M. MEREDITH.

The request was granted. Clark came back with the machines, and we were released for other work.

Another revolution was shortly effected. The notes we signed were born four upon a sheet, and from our tables they were carried to another room where a score of women—the first who were introduced into Government service—cut them apart with long shears.

"I can do that clipping much better with a machine," said Clark.

"Go ahead and make it," said Chase.

It was made; brought; used. It did the work beautifully. But the girls who ran it tried to break it, so that the work could still be done by hand at greater expense. These cartilaginous political economists wore, like all the women of that queer day, hoop-skirts around them expanding their clothes as large as a hogshead. These iron hoops they used to stick in between the shears, disabling them by dulling, and then pleading that they were "good for nothing."

Clark put down the rebellion with a strong hand, and the machines are doing the same work to-day.

The first notes were made by the American Bank Note Company, but when the issues multiplied, Mr. Chase found that he must do his own work.

"You cannot do it," said the favored company.

"Why not?" asked the Secretary.

"You cannot make a number of dies exactly similar without a transfer press on which steel in a soft state can take the impression. There are only two makers in the United States, and we have hired them for ten years."

The troubled Secretary sought his Chief of Construction and told the dilemma.

Mr. Clark said, "It is true. They have hired those men to keep you from getting the presses. But they can be made piece-meal. Give me two months and I will put twenty of them at work."

He scoured the country for skill; made contracts for a bit of the press here and another bit there; and within the time specified the presses were at work, and the government was printing its own notes. This was the egg from which Capt. Meredith's spurred game chicken was hatched.

Clark was true to his old boss, and when the New York Democratic Convention of 1868 failed to nominate the Chief Justice for President his faithful henchman's lamentations caused him to be regarded as an "offensive partisan," and he had to "move on." He is now, I believe, a clerk in the Agricultural Department.

When the rays of expiring day casts a long shadow eastward from the Washington monument, its top almost touches the handsome pile of brick buildings which shelter the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Above its roof a steam-pipe coughs and exhales white vapor and a tall chimney spits black smoke that sends argosies of clouds to Richmond.

Here a thousand human beings make money—a vast volume every day. Not real "truly" money, but the substantial shadow of money; national bank currency and greenbacks; not values, but evidence of indebtedness; not money, but promises to pay money, which, with cash behind them, are even more acceptable than cash itself. It is one of those rare cases where the shadow is preferred to the substance.

To the weaving of these artistic shadows Capt. Meredith's official brood devotes its talent and time.

Perhaps the most fascinating part of the whole process is the engraving of the plate on steel. The entire face of a note is never engraved by one man except by the expert counterfeiter. In this bureau not less than twelve engravers work on a single plate—one a specialist in portraits, another a specialist in vignettes, another a specialist in script, another a specialist in scroll-work or border, and so on. It often takes six months to engrave one plate.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING IN WASHINGTON.

Now it is ready to print from, but a single plate would not answer a quarter of the demand. Many presses must print at once from plates that are exactly alike. Only in one way can such a plate be multiplied. It is hardened and across its face is passed a heavy roller of soft steel. Then the depressions of the plate appear on the roller in raised lines, and when the roller is hardened it is a perfect die. From this roller is made the numerous plates required, by rolling it alternately upon soft steel plates and then hardening the plates. Each plate complete, containing the faces or backs of four notes, costs about $2,000.

The paper of all our current bonds and bank notes is made at Dalton, Mass., by a process that is kept secret. In co-operation with the manufacturers in keeping the secret, Capt. Meredith has prohibited the carrying away of any paper by anybody—even the waste shreds clipped from the sides of the bills. The penalty for having any of this unprinted paper in one's possession is a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment. The two single threads of colored silk running lengthwise of every Government bill are inwoven by a process that has never been successfully repeated by counterfeiters.

There are 200 plate printers, and each one can print from $3,000 to $100,000 a day, assisted by a woman who lays the paper on the plate and takes it off. The printers business is to ink the plate with a roller, wipe off all the surface ink, polish the surface with the hand rubbed on chalk, and then pull the impression with a lever. It is a very primitive method of printing, and it cannot be long before Congress recovers from the insanity which seized it last winter and returns to the superb steam presses which now stand huddled at the end of the building, powerful but powerless, like elephants blanketed and in chains. It is known that a steam press will do three times as much as a hand press for the same expenditure, and the work on the backs of bills is so nearly identical that nobody can pick out the bills.

Very few sheets are spoiled—not more than one or two in a hundred. From the time the paper is received till it is sent to the Treasury Department printed and signed, it is counted thirty-eight times to make certain that none have "got away" at any stage. If one sheet is missing all are prisoners in the office until the error is rectified. Sometimes the office runs for months without a single sheet being even temporarily missed.

I have spoken of greebacks, only, but, in fact, all the government evidence of indebtedness are printed here—the national bank issues, the bonds and the internal revenue stamps. In one recent year the bureau printed and delivered $268,000,000 worth of bank-notes and bonds, besides 500,000,000 revenue stamps. It once printed $140,000,000 of 4 per cent. bonds in thirty days. All the postage stamps are made in New York.

One of the most interesting processes, because of its extreme dexterity, is that of examining printed sheets to see if they are well done. The women to whom this service is entrusted are lightning calculators, rapid of brain, eye and finger tips. I timed one girl who was inspecting these sheets and she kept half a dozen in the air all the while. The Chinese juggler's fans are no where in comparison. A part of the time she flipped the sheets at the rate of one hundred a minute. Each girl is expected to average ten thousand sheets in eight hours. It is marvelous how quickly this one detected sheets that were soiled, or torn a bit, or slightly out of register. The pupil of the eye must have had exceeding flexibility enabling it to expand on emergency and spread all over a sheet measuring 10x14 inches.

When the sheets, whether of notes or bonds, are finished by the Bureau, they are still ineligible to pass as Currency. They are carted to the Treasury Department to get the finishing touch—the red seal which is the Government's attestation of genuineness. This distinguishing mark is printed on by a steam press. Under the eye of Secretary Windom, the final accounting officer, and bears the legend "Thesaur. Amer. Septent. Sigil." Some years since, in Bellagio, Italy, I offered some greenbacks in payment for a piece of satin. To my surprise the merchant took it unhesitatingly, but he carefully took up each bill and scrutinized.

"What for?" I asked him.

"To see if ze vossa—vot you say?—red—red mark eez print zere," he answered.

The Government never reissues its registered bonds. Whenever a bond is sold, the old one is taken up and chewed to plup by the mill whose jaws are all the while busy macerating worn-out currency, and a new bond is issued in its place.

When the Bureau is closed for the night, all the steel plates and rolls and all the sheets of notes, stamps and bonds are carefully counted and verified, and deposited in the vaults, and receipts for them are passed before any employe is permitted to leave the building. When I called to inspect the immense establishment, Capt. Meredith said, "Please make one thing plain, that no Government plate can ever be stolen or 'borrowed' from here for a minute. Our checks are so ample and elaborate as to make it impossible." I may say, in passing, that Capt. Meredith seems admirably equipped for his position, being quite able to take the place of any man at a press at any moment, and, of course, knowing exactly the conditions for attaining the best results.

The most attractive room in the building to me is the little corner where silently works the wonderful geometric lathe. This is the machine which engraves on the plate those involved curvelinear figures which appear upon the backs of all bank notes, and as a base for figures on their faces. It is a marvel of human ingenuity. Description of it is very difficult. The standards which support the mandrel are not fixed at right angles to the bed, but are capable of oscillating backwards and forwards in plane parallel to the plane of rotation. The graver is held in a slide-rest above, and the plate, resting on the top of the standard, receives on its face definite and symetrical deviations from a circle producing beautiful effects. In the devices exhibited were rosettes and roses, and many floral symbols, snow-flakes seen on a glass, and a thousand figures of the most lovely lace. The base of the standard swings irregularly north and south, the second section, resting on it and partaking of its motion, vibrates also east and west, and the upper section sharing the eccentric motions of the other two, turns also on a pivot at its center. The result is the geometric figures on the bank-notes.

The curious thing about it is that no lathe can be set twice exactly alike, so that every plate is necessarily unique.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Mrs. Maybrick's Sentence Commuted to Penal Servitude.

THIS SEVERE DECISION IS FINAL

No Appeals for Further Mitigation of Her Sentence Will Be Heard.

The London Populace Excited and Demanding a Full Pardon—Mrs. Maybrick's Mother Faints When She Hears the News—The Governor of the Jail Not Yet Officially Notified of the Reprieve—The Erection of the Gallows Was Completed.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The sentence of death passed on Mrs. Maybrick has been commuted to penal servitude for life.

The Governor of Walton Jail has not yet received any official notice of the order of reprieve, and great indignation is expressed there that the convict, who is hopelessly prostrated owing to the suspense, should not have been informed that her life had been spared.

Mrs. Maybrick's mother fainted on receipt of the news.

The work of erecting the scaffold on which the unfortunate woman was to have been hanged has already begun.

The Home Secretary's decision is based on the conflict of the medical testimony given at the trial upon the point whether the quantity of poison administered by the prisoner to her husband was sufficient to kill. The lawyers and the judge whom Mr. Matthews consulted were unanimously of the opinion that it was Maybrick's intention to commit murder.

It is announced from the Home Office that this decision is final and that no further appeals for the prisoner's release, or for the further mitigation of her punishment, will be entertained.

The decision is not popular here. The general opinion is that Home Secretary Matthews has dodged the question. If there were any doubts about her guilt she should have been released.

The announcement of the commutation of sentence was received with great rejoicing by the general public. The people nearly went wild when the bulletin was posted, and cheer after cheer rent the air. Mrs. Maybrick's name was lustily cheered a score of times. Similar scenes were enacted in front of all the newspaper offices.

The Behring Sea Difficulty.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—In the House of Commons last night, in reply to an inquiry to the Government as to what action had been taken, if any, to secure redress for the unwarranted seizures of British sealing vessels on the high seas by American cruisers, Sir James Ferguson, Under Foreign Secretary, stated that negotiations were now in progress between Her Majesty's Government and that at Washington on the subject of the seizures referred to. He had no doubt whatever that a satisfactory settlement of the Behring Sea difficulty would be reached between the two Governments.

William O'Brien Again.

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.—The trial of William O'Brien and James Gilhooly, members of Parliament from County Cork, on a charge of holding a Nationalist meeting, which had been proclaimed under the Crimes Act, was begun at Clonakilty. The defendants refuse to recognize the authority of the Court, and declined to cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution or to present any testimony in their own behalf.

London Dock Yards Strikers.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The directors of the dock yards received a deputation of their striking employes to-day and submitted to the men amicable proposals for a settlement of the strike which will receive the consideration of the strikers' committee. Over 4,000 men marched in procession to-day, observing perfect order.

The Queen Too Feeble to Visit Us.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The "Pall Mall Gazette's" statement that the Queen contemplates a visit to Canada and the United States is ridiculed by both press and public, her health alone forbiding her undertaking such a trip at her time of life.

They Send the Marble Bust.

ROME, Aug. 23.—The English, Scotch and American colleges here have united in sending to the Catholic University at Washington a marble bust of St. Thomas Aquinas.

Washington Brasses Stolen.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Two memorial brasses of the Washington family have been stolen from the parish church of Sulgrave, Northamptonshire.

Parnell to Come Here.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—It is reported that Mr. Parnell will shortly make a tour of America for the benefit of his health.

Mr. Simmond's Runaway Wife.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—S. J. Simmonds, wanted at Reading for forgery, was arrested here while looking for his runaway wife. The woman was found, but refused to return, and informed the police that her husband was a fugitive from justice. Simmonds was held for the officers from Reading.

COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

Miners' Lamps Ignite Gas and Five Men Seriously Injured.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—There was an explosion of fire-damp in No. 2 Colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company yesterday by which five men were seriously and, perhaps, fatally burned.

The No. 2 colliery is situated about a half a mile this side of the Olyphant, and is one of the largest breakers operated by the D. and H. C. Company. A portion of the mine caved in, and a gang of workmen went in to repair the damage. As they approached where the cave-in had occurred one of the miner's lamps ignited the gas and a fearful explosion, which could be heard for miles around, occurred.

The workmen fled for their lives, and all escaped but Andrew Nichols, the superintendent. Richard Mason, inside foreman, and John Lavern, Samuel Williams and John Jones were fearfully burned. Nichols, who lives in Scranton, was the most badly burned and it is feared he will not live.

MAHONE AT THE HELM.

Unanimously Nominated for Governor by the Republicans of Virginia.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23—At last night's session of the Republican State Convention Hon. George E. Bowden, of Norfolk, was made permanent Chairman.

The Mahone delegates, in cases where there were contests, were seated in three out of four cases, and in the fourth the vote was divided between the two delegations.

The platform pledges the Republican party, if given power, to settle the State debt satisfactorily without increasing the State tax.

Gen. Mahone was nominated for Governor by Col. Wm. Lamb, of Norfolk, who made a brilliant speech. Several speeches were made seconding the nomination.

Gen. Mahone was unanimously nominated for Governor.

He accepted the nomination, after which Campbell Slemp, of Lee county, was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor.

Tanner's Course Not Endorsed.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 23.—At a meeting last night Post 42, G. A. R., after a full and free discussion, ordered expunged from the records the vote passed at a previous meeting whereby the course of Pension Commissioner Tanner was endorsed. Prominent members of the post express themselves to the effect that the vote endorsing Mr. Tanner, in view of the investigation he is under, was ill-advised.

A Creamery Association Fails.

READING, Aug. 23.—The Colebrookdale Creamery Association, which conducts a large creamery in Colebrookdale township, this county, has failed, foreclosure proceedings having been brought on a $4,000 mortgage. A large number of creameries have been started in this region within the past few years, and several have failed lately, the business being overdone.

Found Dead in the Bushes.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 23.—The body of an unknown man was found in a clump of bushes at the rear of the grand stand at the Union Hill Schuetzen Park yesterday. His pockets were turned inside out. There was evidence of a severe struggle, and the indications are that the man had been strangled to death.

Weavers Can Not Secure a Conference.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 23.—The committee appointed at the mass meeting of weavers in the park Saturday afternoon to confer with the Board of Trade concerning wages, received no answer to its request for a conference. The members of the weaver's committee presented themselves at the Board of Trade rooms last night, but found no representative of the Board, and the rooms were closed. Secretary Rounseville, of the Board of Trade, says a majority of the Board are out of the city, and that no action can be taken on the weavers' communication.

Two Young Ladies Take the Veil.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Aug. 23.—Right Rev. Bishop O'Farrell officiated yesterday in St. Joseph's Convent chapel at the solemn profession of two young ladies of the Order of Mercy. They are Mary J. McBarron, of Boston, and Bridget Magee, of Jersey City.

In Jail for Bigamy.

THE LAW AVENGED

Four Wife Murderers Die on the Scaffold in New York.

HANGED TO-DAY TWO AT A TIME

The Legal Tragedy Consummated Without Accident or Excitement.

Hangman Atkinson Performs the Job. The Men Meet Their Death with Calmness—All Four Embraced the Catholic Faith and Were Attended to the Scaffold by Priests—Sad Scenes Before the Execution—Arrangement for the Burial.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—This morning at a few minutes after 7 o'clock four wife murderers, Carolin, Lewis, Packenham and Nolan, were hanged at the Tombs in this city.

At 5 o'clock Under Sheriff Sexton aroused the condemned men and they quickly dressed themselves in new suits of clothes provided by Sheriff Flack. Fathers Pendergast and Gelinus, who slept in adjoining cells, approached the men and gave each one a prayer book and crucifix.

They were then surrounded by the death watch and walked to the chapel in the female prison. The four men knelt at the altar while Father Prendergast celebrated low mass. In the background Warden Osborne, a few of his keepers, Under Sheriff Sexton and ten deputies knelt and watched the men, who received holy communion. At the conclusion of the mass the prisoners were marched back to their cells and a few minutes were given for the four to bid each other good-by.

Carolin and Lewis were then taken to a room on the southern side of the Tombs where they ate their last breakfast.

A few moments after the meal was finished Sheriff Flack and two juries approached and then the last sad and solemn act in vindication of law and order took place.

The four men were prepared for the scaffold by Hangman Atkinson.

The first pair, Packenham and Nolan were hanged together. At the request of the priests no remarks were made on the scaffold and the men met their death bravely.

While their bodies were dangling at the ends of the ropes Atkinson left them in the care of physicians and went to the death cage and brought out Lewis and Carolin. They walked under the Bridge of Sighs, down to the second scaffold. Probably five minutes intervened betwee the first hanging and the second, but the first two hanged were not cut down until the other two had been pulled up by the ropes, so that for a short period four men swung lifeless in the yard of the Tombs—the first time that such a thing happened in the history of New York.

The calm manner in which the men met their deaths was much commented upon, but it was due to the persuasions of the clergymen, who kept constantly entreating the men to pray and say "Lord have mercy on my soul."

The bodies were taken from the Tombs to Calvary Cemetery and buried.

DARDINAC DEAD.

The Whole of the South of Hayti Lost to Legitime—Generous Hippolyte.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23.—A special received via New Orleans, dated Port-au-Prince, says:

The Haytien gunboat Defence has come in, bringing in the body of General Dardinac, Legitime's commander-in-chief, and the news that the whole of the South is lost to Legitime.

The fight is now entirely between Port-au-Prince and the rest of Hayti, and people engaged here in business see some reason to hope that the end is near.

The loss of Dardinac is serious, but the loss of all the important cities in the South is disastrous to Legitime's cause.

Hippolyte announces that he will not storm Port-au-Prince, as it would result in sacking the town.

BLASTING ACCIDENT.

A Drill Driven Through a Man's Head and Another's Hands Blown Off.

PRINCETON, Va., Aug. 23.—A terrible accident is reported to-day from Buckley's Mills, Russell county.

A railroad is being driven through a big hill at that point and a large number of men are employed thereat. A blast of 80 pounds of giant powder was put in yesterday but it failed to explode.

To-day while extracting the charge, it exploded prematurely. An 18 foot drill was driven through Michael Dance's head 9 feet, protruding on either side. He died instantly. John Ramery had both hands blown off. Joe Moore's right shoulder was torn off by rock. Andrew Martin had a leg blown off at the knee, and William Kunz was terribly injured by flying rocks.

Heavy Life Insurance.

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Jacob Miller, a wealthy citizen, heavily interested in the great agricultural works of Aultman & Co., died of paralysis last night, aged 65 years. His life was insured for $135,000.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—It will be necessary to go early in order to secure a good seat for to-morrow's ball game.

—A number of small houses are going up in different sections of the city. Will the rents be in proportion?

—A horse left standing in the harness in front of a store on Park avenue, last evening, laid down and went to sleep, while its owner was transacting business in a neighboring store.

—The out-door meetings will be continued next Sunday in Berry's Grove, back of the Schepflin building, at 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. J. B. Martin of Hope Chapel, will lead.

—Four of Mr. Charles Faber's homers, of the six that were sent 525 miles South, have returned, thus giving their owner's loft the record of the highest percentage of birds returned where more than one has been sent.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Wm. M. Stillman, wife of the City Judge, is at Colorado Springs, Col., for a few weeks.

A. E. Faber and family, of Washington Park, have gone to Claverack, Columbia county, N. Y.

Miss Norma Freeman of Broadway and Fourth street is visiting relatives in Albany, N. Y.

The present address of Councilman J. K. Myers, and Mrs. Myers, is "The Antlers," Colorado Springs, Col.

Miss Josie Walker of New York city, formerly of Plainfield, is visiting Miss Irah Richardson of 29 LaGrande avenue.

The Rev. and Mrs. Edward Love have gone to Poughkeepsie for ten days, where the former will preach during his absence.

Mrs. Annie Joy and son of Brooklyn, returned home yesterday, after a two weeks' visit with her brother, Mr. R. B. Smith of Somerset street.

Miss Lilian Force of Duer street, returned today from a four weeks' visit with Miss Fannie Wilson and other friends, in Gloversville, N. Y.

Mr. Harry G. Haff, eldest son of Stephen and Katrine Haff, died at his home in Evona, this morning, from Bright's Disease. He was in the 28th year of his age.

Mr. Isaac Brokaw has sold to Mr. J. O. Osgood a desirably located residence site on Myrtle avenue, North Plainfield, opposite the home of Mr. James McGee. It is one of the several lots owned by Mrs. Jane Roome.

White Caps After Him.

"Dore" Johnson, a colored man who sleeps in a barn in the rear of Mr. Daniel Vermeule's residence on Peace street, was visited by white caps about eleven o'clock last evening.

At that hour he was rudely awakened by some one battering on the roof over him. Going down stairs he found that the stove pipe which projects through the weather-boarding, had been torn down and the door leading into the yard was securely fastened from the outside. Finally he escaped from the barn through a window, and started out to borrow a revolver. He related his story to officers Flanagan and Giesse, who with a PRESS reporter returned with Mr. Johnson to his abode.

Arriving there the door was found to be braced from the outside, and about fifty yards of clothes line was also used to strengthen the work. Mr. Johnson did not lodge in his accustomed place last night.

Robbers on East Second Street.

While Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Olsen of East Second street were absent on the excursion yesterday there house was entered by some person or persons unknown and robbed of a considerable quantity of jewelry, etc. A PRESS reporter sought to obtain the particulars of the robbery this morning, but he was politely told that it was none of his business. The above facts, however, were ascertained from outside parties.

Too Much Noise.

In spite of Supt. Olhausen's order, there is still too much loud and unnecessary shrieking of the locomotives through the inhabited parts of our city. Especially is the nuisance great during the early hours of the morning between the Grant Avenue and main stations.

Base Ball.

The "Fat Men" failed to appear yesterday in their advertised game with the "Leans." Captain Keller was shooting "clay-beards" in Pennsylvania, ex-Councilman Wilbur was insuring a wealthy New Yorker for $100,000, Mr. Russ of Elizabeth was sick, and Mr. Gaddis of Boundbrook had started on a vacation.

A very interesting game, however, was arranged between picked nines, which resulted as is shown below. The features of the game were the first base playing of Andrews, the umpiring of "Peanuts," and the battery work of Young and McMurray, and Burke and Winn. The score was as follows:

BOWLING CLUB	R.	O.	PICKED NINE.	R.	O.
Young	1	3	Beekman	0	4
Andrews	0	4	Burk	0	4
Runyon	0	2	Winn	1	2
Teel, H.	0	4	Townley	2	2
Teel, C.	3	1	Bodine	1	3
Davis	1	3	Flaig	0	4
Daly	0	3	Mahon	0	3
McMurray	1	2	Warren	1	2
Warren	1	2	Littell	0	3
	7	24		5	27

Bowling Club	1	0	0	1	1	1	0	3	*—7
Picked Nine	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	1	1—5

The North Plainfield youngsters beat the Young Crescents, this morning, by a score of 12 to 11. John Schenck was umpire. The batteries were: Fred Coverly and John Kuhn; Fred Winn and M. Heffern.

He Wanted the "Oven Key."

Mr. Henry Voehl, the North Plainfield baker, hired a greenhorn recently to assist about his bakery. On Wednesday evening the man was made the victim of a joke which he will not soon forget. That night he was sent to Voehl's bakery on West Front street ostensibly to get the "oven key." At the latter place he was equipped with a feed bag filled with brickbats, weighing about 250 pounds, which he was told to deliver to his employer. On the way over the man weakened under the heavy weight and sat down on the curbstone to rest. Finally he wandered on and was exhausted when he reached his destination. It is understood that the stone will be used to build an addition to the Gesang and Turner Hall on Somerset street.

To complete the joke and turn the tables, the baker who loaded the feed bag told that the greenhorn had fallen into the brook and was drowned, and the knight of the apron started out on a run and spent an hour or so hunting around under French's mill for the body. This was at 11 P M.

Officer Flanagan Only Did His Duty.

In response to "L. W's" communication in THE PRESS of yesterday, Officer Flanagan says that he was simply doing his duty by ordering the man to move on. "L. W.," he says, was obstructing the sidewalk, and he was politely told to stand elsewhere, whereupon the Officer was told that he was "too officious." Officer Flanagan also says that "L. W." claims to be a citizen and a tax-payer here, but all the same he votes in North Plainfield.

Some people take offense at trivial matters, while others pay little or no heed to them. The police, acting under the City ordinances, have their orders to disperse crowds and to keep the sidewalks open for passage, and it is far better when told to "move on," to comply with the order, than to become pig-headed and obstreperous. In the case of "L.W.," Officer Flanagan says that the man stood in such a position as to interfere with pedestrians.

The Death of Antonio Andrews.

The funeral services took place in Brooklyn, Sunday, of Antonio Andrews, father of Mr. Samuel H. Andrews of 192 Broadway, this city. The former was a well known florist of Brooklyn, and died of apoplexy at his home, 283 Graham street, aged about 62 years.

He came from Spain to this country with his wife about 35 years ago. Mrs. Andrews and a family of nine children survive him. He was greatly interested and active in the formation of Brooklyn's renowned Prospect Park. His son, Mr. Samuel Andrews, of this city, has been a clerk of the Brooklyn Board of Education for many years. Numbers of the most prominent citizens of Brooklyn attended the funeral, Sunday. Interment was made in Greenwood Cemetery.

It Will be a Great Game.

The batting order of the contesting nines, to-morrow, will be:

CRESCENTS.	WINTHROPS.
Lee, 3b.	Wustlick, lf.
McMurray, rf.	Cary, ss.
Bowman, 2b.	Daly, 3b.
Bowes, c.	W. Currie, c.
Cadmus, ss.	Steinert, rf.
Condon, 1b.	J. Currie, 2b.
Hayden, cf.	Mabie, 1b.
McLaughlin, lf.	Martine, cf.
Gately, p.	W. J. Currie, p.

Game will be called at four o'clock.

W. C. T. U. Meetings.

Saturday evening, prayer and praise at 8 o'clock; Sunday at 9.45 A. M., and 4 P. M.; also a "mothers' meeting" on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The subject to be considered this week is one of great importance, as touching the welfare of the boys and girls of Plainfield. The meetings are held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 73 West Front street, and are open to all.

The Taxes in North Plainfield Township.

Assessor Brokaw has been notified to levy taxes to the amount of $1,000 for the filling of washouts in North Plainfield Township outside of the Borough, also $2,000 for Township purposes, and $7,000 for interest and the sinking fund.

SHOT HIMSELF IN A DELIRIUM.

Overwork and Worry, Added to Poor Health, Had Impaired Dr. Fithian's Mind.

The city of Bridgeton, N. J., was greatly shocked early yesterday morning on learning that Dr. Henry C. Fithian, a native of that place, and for nine years a practising physician of Port Norris, had committed suicide.

Dr. Fithian was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1877 and at once settled at Scotch Plains. There he built up a large and lucrative practice and in two and a half years married Miss Lillie Ritchie, a daughter of James Ritchie, who has since then been the postmaster of that village. Soon afterwards he removed to his native county and settled at Port Norris, where for nine years he has been one of the most prominent citizens.

He was an ardent sportsman and for the past week has been off shooting in Cape May County. He returned home late Tuesday night and was suffering terribly from inflammation of the stomach. The next day he was delirious at times and in a lucid interval he told his young wife that unless he was better within two days he would die. He then wrote out directions as to what should be done with his property and affairs.

Wednesday night he became delirious, but about 4 o'clock the next morning sunk into a quiet sleep, supposedly. His wife then took a nap, but had scarcely got asleep when a shot awakened her, and starting up she found that her husband had a revolver in his hands. She tried to wrest it from him, crying:

"You will shoot yourself."

"I have already done so," he quietly answered. "I have shot myself through the heart," and in another instant he fired a shot through his brain and fell over dead.

The doctor had been ill for several months and it is thought his mind had become seriously impaired with hard work and worry, added to his poor health. His only child, an infant, died a few months ago.

Dr. Fithian was considered a remarkably bright and intelligent physician and hard student. His father, Joel Fithian, of Bridgeton, is almost distracted over the death of this, his only child.

At Scotch Plains this morning, a PRESS reporter learned that Mrs. Fithian's parents received a telegram yesterday at 10 A. M., merely announcing the death. Mrs. Ritchie started at once for Port Norris in entire ignorance of the cause of death which she supposed to be the result of the Doctor's recent illness.

Mrs. Fithian's marriage to the doctor on Feb. 24, 1880, will be remembered as occasioning much surprise and gossip. He located in Scotch Plains in 1876, coming from Bridgeton where his father was a wealthy and noted physician. Young Fithian was very active in promoting the progress of Scotch Plains, made himself thoroughly popular, and gained quite a practice. But he loved hunting and fishing too much, and an occasional stimulant too often, to prosper as a physician in a country town.

Dr. Fithian, Sr's second wife was a daughter of Jas. Ritchie of Scotch Plains, then a wealthy man. Consequently the young doctor was on intimate terms with his step mother's family. Miss Lillie Ritchie was frequently seen riding and walking with the doctor and dame rumor soon spread the report that a marriage between the young couple was to follow.

Still other reports were also current, but to the effect that the doctor was to marry a charming widow resident of the village of Scotch Plains, and these reports were strengthened when the announcement was made in the widow lady's circle of acquaintances that the event would occur about March 10, and that she was making active preparations for it in the way of sending invitations and preparing the wedding feast.

Consequently the people of Scotch Plains were astonished early in March at a notice in the Baptist Examiner of the marriage of Dr. Fithian, Jr., and Miss Ritchie, on Feb. 24. Miss Ritchie admitted the marriage, yet it was said that she had congratulated the widow on her approaching nuptials with the doctor, only a few days before. It is needless to say that the widow lady was entirely prostrated by the denouement.

Condoling Their Brother Member.

At a special meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle club held June 24, 1889, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted and the same have been forwarded to the bereaved family:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our friend and companion, Herbert Winthrop Peck.

Resolved, That we, the members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, desire to express to his sorrowing parents, our earnest sympathy with them in their grief, and at the same time, the sense of our own great loss. While his family is called upon to bear so sudden a bereavement, his friends are deprived of an intelligent and congenial companion, a youth full of promise, taken away at the beginning of so brilliant a career.

THOSE TRAMPS.

Mayor Male Unjustly Blamed for Their Ascendancy.

Under the heading, "Terrorized by Tramps—Plainfield Overrun by Them," an Elizabeth paper of yesterday says: "Tuesday afternoon Sergeant Hess and Officer Gerstung arrested John Grames, who is a brother of Peter Grames the tramp desperado arrested at Plainfield on Monday afternoon for robbery and assault on an officer in that city. They belong to a gang of tramps of the most dangerous and vicious character that have infested the city of Plainfield.

"In former years it was the practice of Mayor Male to issue his "proclamation concerning tramps," making it obligatory on the part of the police to arrest all vagrants found within the city limits, and to have them committed to the county jail for a period not exceeding ninety days. This year, however, the mayor has departed from his usual custom, and in consequence the fraternity of tramps is represented there in large numbers. The men have established a rendezvous along Green Brook, about a mile west of the city, where they congregate at night and revel in their drunken orgies. During the day the men go about the city, from house to house, and demand money, clothing, food and tobacco, and in case their demand is not complied with they become insulting and abusive, and terrorize the female occupants by threatening to return and burn the buildings.

"It is believed that the Grames were concerned in the Roselle outrage last week, and an effort is being made to identify them. They are trying to shift the theft at Plainfield on to another tramp known to the police as 'Burnesy.'"

A Narrow Escape.

While returning from Boynton Beach last evening, a stage load of excursionists, composed mainly of the guests of Force's Hotel had a narrow escape from serious injury. The party passed the day pleasantly at the beach, and the trip home was uneventful until the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street was reached. At this point the stage ran upon a heap of gravel which had been taken from a cellar, deposited in the roadway, and left there without the regulation danger signal. The stage narrowly escaped overturning and the occupants were thoroughly frightened.

There is a city ordinance which relates to obstructions in the streets, and provides for the punishment of those who fail to display the proper danger signal at night. It reads as follows:

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of all persons who may be engaged in erecting or making any addition to any building, paving any street, constructing any sewer or drain, laying pipes for gas, water or other purposes, making any excavation or causing obstructions of any kind whatever in or upon any street or sidewalk of this city, whereby accidents or injuries might be occasioned, to erect a railing at such excavations or work, in such manner as to prevent accidents or injuries to persons or property passing through such streets, and to continue such railing until the obstruction is removed, which must be within three months from the beginning of such obstruction.

SEC. 2. It shall also be the duty of all such persons to place upon such railing or obstructions, at a time not later than thirty minutes after sunset of each day, suitable and sufficient lights, and keep them burning through each night during the continuance of such obstruction.

Seventy Miles an Hour.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has recently had constructed a new engine on the most approved patterns that were obtainable. The result is that the new engine is one of the finest and fleetest now being run on any railroad in America. The boiler is of a very peculiar pattern, resembling a double-barreled breech-loading gun. The engine, it is claimed, consumes less fuel and gives more speed than any so far heard of. A thorough test was made and all the machinery worked to perfection. The test also brought to light the fact that 70 miles can easily be covered in one hour. The engine does passenger service in the vicinity of Jersey City and is attracting close attention in railroad circles. The Jersey Central has wonderfully improved its rolling stock of late and is rapidly coming to the front.

Still Growing.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, in the S. of T. rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue, three members were initiated and after other routine business was transacted addresses and recitations were given, refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was had by all the members present. The Council is in a flourishing condition and is growing very rapidly. The members will soon make some arrangements to rent and furnish a Council room of their own to meet in.

Big Crowd at Asbury Park.

Fifteen special trains, consisting of over a hundred and fifty cars, were necessary to transport the multitudes to and from the sea shore at Asbury Park, on Wednesday. The bathing grounds could not accommodate half the people, and every other place of popular resort was greatly overcrowded. The trains left the station between 5 and 9:30 o'clock to return, and during these hours the platforms were so crowded for half a mile along the tracks that six special officers were required to keep back the crowds.

—A brilliant and beautiful star was seen to descend from the heavens and disappear about half-past nine o'clock last evening.

SOME ELIZABETHAN FIGURING.

The "Journal" Seeking to Prove That Plainfield Saves Money by Throwing It Away.

In an article headed "Plainfield's Finances," yesterday's Elizabeth Journal says:

This year the city school tax has decreased at the rate of ten cents on the $100, while the city tax has increased five cents on the $100. This the temperance people justly claim is a point in their favor, which it is. For in 1888, when there were thirteen licensed hotels and saloons, where liquor was sold under a license, and the city received a revenue of about $10,000, today there are no licensed places in Plainfield. Yet with no license, and while the valuation of the property, according to the assessor's report has increased to the extent of $49,060, the tax rate has been decreased three cents as the above figures show.

What kind of figuring do you call that, Brother? There are no points in Plainfield's finances that are in favor of no license, and the temperance people are not "claiming" anything of the sort.

Just tell us how a reduction in the tax rate can be brought about by the relinquishing of $10,000 annual income? In spite of the fact that the people of Plainfield are taxed $5,000 less this year for the support of its free schools, they are taxed $4,000 more for the city fund, and $2,000 more for the fire department and the poor—which in round numbers makes up more than the $10,000 license money surrendered, and which deficiency comes out of the pockets of the people. You say, "Yet with no license, and while the valuation of the property has increased to the extent of $49,000, the tax rate has been decreased three cents." Why an increase in valuation is just what causes a decrease in rate. The more you assess on, the less the percentage to raise a fixed amount. You can't prove that you can throw away your cake and have it too. The people of Plainfield are taxed over three thousand dollars more this year than ever before, although $5,000 has been deducted from the fund for the support of the free schools.

And liquor is selling today in over sixty places in Prohibition Plainfield.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS.

Riding on Coal and Freight Trains to Be Stopped.

The Central Railroad have been greatly annoyed for the past year or more by the lawless acts of tramps and gangs who have been stealing rides on trains, and if put off would cut a train in two, or place obstructions upon the track, or turn switches. Consequently the following order has been issued by Superintendent Peddle:

Special Notice to Conductors and Engineers:—Vigorous measures must be inaugurated at once to put a stop to the practice of permitting tramps and lawless characters to ride on our freight and coal trains. Before starting from initial points you will see that no such persons are on the trains and prevent them from getting on at intermediate stations. When such characters are found on your trains, whom it has been impossible to exclude, you will notify agents or night watchmen at principal points by wire, such as Junction, High Bridge, Somerville, Plainfield, Elizabeth, Elizabethport, Bergen Point and Jersey City, who will take immediate steps to have officers on hand to make arrests at such points as trains may stop.

W. H. PEDDLE, Supt.

In pursuance of this order, Detective Morris of the Central Railroad, has made arrangements with officers along the line to arrest all persons found jumping on trains, or stealing rides. A special effort will also be made to break up this practice among young boys, and habitual loungers about the stations will also receive their share of attention.

The Company is in dead earnest, and if there is such a thing as breaking up the practice, it will certainly be done.

A Serious Accident.

Mr. Thomas Clacy, an employee of Mr. A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, was assisting in putting up a new furnace in Mr. W. P. Smith's residence at Netherwood this morning, when one of the feet on the furnace broke, and the heavy casting fell forward pinioning his left hand to the wall. The hand was horribly crushed so that it will probably have to be amputated.

The injured man was taken to his home on West Front street, where Dr. Murray dressed the wounds.

The Excursion

Yesterday of the Congregational, First Presbyterian and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday schools to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, was a grand success. The day at the beach was a perfect one, and the excursionists report having had a delightful time. 550 tickets were taken up on the train, and of this number about 300 persons were transported free of charge.

Vindicating the Boy.

The young man whom Mr. H. C. Drake accuses of striking him with a butcher's cleaver in a West Front street butcher shop, on Wednesday evening, claims that he was not to blame. He says that Mr. Drake was fooling with him when the accident occurred, and that he is in no way responsible for the injuries received.

—Marriage may not be a failure but there are lots of Mrs. made in matrimony.

LOCKOUT OF LASTERS.

The Shoe Manufacturers of Cincinnati Opposed to Labor Organizations.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23.—The outlook is that there will be a general lockout of all lasters in the shops belonging to the Shoe Manufacturers' Association. At Keppendorf's factory this morning there were but five lasters of the eighty at work and these were not members of the union.

One of the strikers said: "All this trouble comes about from the firm trying to inaugurate piece work, or the task system. Girls who were making $12 per week last year are now making but $6 and $7. The firm promised to keep the wages until December, but two weeks after the promise was made they began the work of reduction.

The manufacturers are determined not to recede from their position to recognize the labor organizations or committees under any circumstances. They maintain that their shops shall be free for all.

STRUCK THE WRONG MAN.

Ex-Gov. Robie of Maine Assaulted by Canadians.

SACCARAPPA, Me., Aug. 23.—Yesterday evening as ex-Gov. Frederick Robie was walking from his farm, about half a mile from Gorham, to his residence in the village, he was met by two men in a buggy.

They drove up beside him, and before he could escape, one of them struck him several severe blows with a whip. They then drove rapidly in the direction of Saccarappa.

Suffering from the pain caused by the unprovoked assault, Mr. Robie made his way to the telegraph office in Gorham and wired the police at Saccarappa, four miles distant, to arrest the men, which they did just as they drove into the village.

They were French Canadians who had hired a team at Cumberland Mills, driven to Gorham, and becoming somewhat intoxicated, had amused themselves by insulting ladies and citizens there, and finally committed the assault on the leading citizen of the place. They were placed in the lockup.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Rev. Dr. Adam Schabehorn, of Charlestown, N. Y., has run away from his family and his debts and left "The Spellbinder" Company, of this city, without a manager. The household goods left in possession of his wife and nine children have been levied upon to pay his debts.

AN AGED TRAVELER.

A Man 113 Years Old Journeying Alone from Arkansas to Kentucky.

James McMillin, of Bardwell, Ky., says a Cairo (Ill.) letter to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, spent a few hours in this city recently en route home alone from Arkansas, where he has been visiting relatives. Mr. McMillin enjoys the distinction of being the oldest man known in this section of the country and probably in the United States. He was born in Botetourt County, Va., of which Fincastle is the county seat, in the historic year of 1776, and succeeded to his father's name without the change of an initial letter or alteration of orthography. His mother's maiden name was Diana Chitwood. His father died at 97 and his mother at 106 from natural causes.

When seventeen years of age "Uncle Jimmie," as he is known to his friends, became one of a colony who, under those two noted Virginians, Peyton Randolph and Stephen Randall, started west "to grow up with the country." They settled in what is now East Tennessee. Subsequently he, with his faithful wife, emigrated to Nashville, Tenn., and engaged in merchandising, serving two terms as sheriff. Later he located at the delta of Yazoo Pass, on the Mississippi, where he became an extensive planter, residing there fifty-three years. In 1881 he came to Bardwell, Ky., where he now lives.

He has been twice married and is a widower now, is the father of twenty-three children, two of whom are living, and they are accounted quite aged. He is fond of tobacco, which he chews, but is opposed to liquor in any shape, and claims not to have drank a drop in eighty-five years. As a souvenir he exhibits a copper coin of the date of 1776, which he has carried since he was twelve years old. He is in possession of documentary evidence with reference to his birth that places beyond doubt his claim to be 113 years of age. His fund of anecdotes is large, and his tales of eighty and ninety years ago are interesting and amusing. He is quite strong of limb, mental faculties clear, and travels alone.

"Ten Cents and Three Years of War."

Some years ago Dr. Quint, in a memorial address to a post in Somerville, told how a friend of his seeing his little Grand Army badge at the Congregational House, said:—"That is rather pretty; what did you pay for it?" and that he answered:—"Ten cents and three years of war life. Do you want to buy one?" The point took with the "boys," and he has repeated it in two or three addresses, and last year at New Bedford it went into print. We understand that the chaplain was delighted to learn that the point was so well appreciated that a memorial orator this May, in a large Worcester county town, delighted his audience by telling how a friend of his seeing his Grand Army badge, said to him, "That is quite pretty. What did you pay for it?" and received the same answer—"Ten cents and so many years of war, &c. Do you want to buy one?" or words to that effect. The chaplain says that the idea is not patented and any memorial orator next year is at perfect liberty to tell how a friend seeing his Grand Army badge, said, "This is rather pretty; what did you pay for it?" and receive the same answer—"Ten cents," &c., with expansions to any required extent. Such coincidences are truly delightful.

Perhaps no newspaper writer was ever more disturbed by a trifle than was the society reporter who, in describing the belle of a recent fashionable party, intended to say "she looked 'au fait,'" but found it "she looked all feet."

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year. During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

THROUGH A TRESTLE

Three Members of a Select Excursion Party Killed.

SEVERAL FATALLY INJURED.

It Was the First Train Over the New Cumberland Gap Road.

The Professional Men of Knoxville Among the Killed and Injured—It was Impossible to Obtain Medical Aid for a Long Time—Many Had to Be Brought to Knoxville on Flat Cars—Freight Wreck on the Reading Road.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 23.—A terrible wreck, which resulted in the death of three men and the injury of several others, occurred on the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap & Louisville Railroad at Flat Gap Creek, twenty-three miles from here, yesterday.

The train was the first to go over the new road and carried a select party of excursionists, composed of members of the City Council and the Board of Public Works, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the very flower of the business and professional men of Knoxville.

The train of two cars left the track at a crossing, and the rear car went down a trestle. It was impossible to obtain medical aid for a time, and until late in the evening, when the train reached Knoxville, scanty attention was rendered.

Many had to be brought back on flat cars, and the last part of the journey was made in a driving rain. Three men died from their injuries and others cannot live.

The dead are as follows: Judge George Andrews, the most prominent lawyer in East Tennessee; S. T. Powers, the leading merchant and former president of the East Tennessee Fire Insurance Company; Alexander Reeder, a leading politician who has held many offices of trust.

Out of the fifty-six persons on the train forty-one were injured. The most intense excitement and sadness is apparent here to-day.

Broke Through a Culvert.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 25.—A freight train on the Reading Railroad broke through a culvert near here last evening, totally wrecking the engine and twenty cars. Several of the trainmen were injured.

KNIFED BY A BURGLAR.

A Brooklyn Grocer Hacked to Pieces in His Own House.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Christian Luca, a well-to-do German groceryman who lives with his family over his store at the corner of Jay and High streets was literally hacked to pieces with a bowie knife in the hands of Charles McElwain who had burglariously entered his store yesterday.

McElwain had two accomplices who waited on the outside.

The burglars had entered the yard in the rear of the house and put a ladder up to the second story window. McElwain opened the window, crawled in and made his way to the front room. As he reached the passage way the noise awakened Mr. Luca who got up to see what was the matter. On entering the dining room he saw McElwain and grappled him at once. The noise of the tussle aroused Mrs. Luca who rushed into the room followed by her young son.

Luca was then down on one knee and his assailant was striking him repeatedly with a big knife.

Mrs. Luca caught the murderer by the arm but McElwain pushed her off, shouting "Let go or I'll cut you open as I did him."

McElwain then jumped out of the window and ran down the street.

Luca died about ten minutes later.

As McElwain ran down the street he was caught with the bloody knife in his possession and taken to the station house. At the station house the prisoner was fully identified by Mrs. Luca, and after some hesitation McElwain confessed he stabbed Luca and told where he lived, 143 High street.

MARSHAL NAGLE'S CASE.

A Belief That He Can Not Be Held By United States Authorities.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—When Marshall Nagle's case came up to-day a continuance was asked for and granted till next Wednesday to give council for the defense an opportunity to investigate the law.

The lawyers are beginning to fear Nagle cannot be held by the United States authorities.

Judge Sawyer is reported to be doubtful of their right to interfere in Nagle's case, as he claims Nagle cannot claim to be an officer of the Circuit Court as Judge Field can. If he refuses to recognize that Federal right to interfere, Nagle will be promptly returned to Stockton jail and will be tried there. The sentiment here in regard to his action still remains divided, but in the country, judging from editorial opinions, three-quarters of the people believe he showed great eagerness to kill Terry.

The One Hundredth Anniversary.

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 23.—The town of Durham, which was incorporated as Royallsborough, for Colonel Royall, of Medford, Mass., and which is supposed to have taken its present name from Durham County, England, where Col. Royall was born, celebrated yesterday the one hundredth anniversary of its incorporation.

Kilrain Off for the South.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 23.—The Court yesterday turned Jake Kilrain over to Deputy Sheriff Childs, of Mississippi. The Deputy started for Mississippi with his prisoner at once, so as to arrive home by Saturday morning, enabling Kilrain to get bail before the adjournment of court.

Rotwand Guilty of Manslaughter.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Aug. 23.—Serecoyn Gleason, alias Rotwand, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to one year in the House of Correction. He was proprietor of the Worcester shooting gallery, a shot from which caused the death of William A. Pierce on August 9. Rotwand's partner, the Gleason woman, was acquitted.

Bud Renaud Fined $500.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 23.—Bud Renaud was found guilty by a jury of participating in a prize fight and fined $500. Renand appealed to the Supreme Court. He was released on $500 bonds. He was also required to furnish $200 bail for his appearance in December before the Grand Jury as a witness.

A Virginia Candidate a Murderer.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 23.—Ex-City Sergeant James C. Smith, a prominent Republican, and the Mahone candidate for the Postmastership of Richmond, last night shot and killed a negro who had broken into his junk waerehouse for the purpose of robbery. Smith is held on a charge of murder.

Mr. Guntin To Champion Their Cause.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The Standard Oil Company has selected George Guntin of New York, as its champion to answer Dr. Gladden's speech against trusts, and he will deliver his address to-morrow morning. Dr. Gladden may reply.

Settling War Obligations.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 23.—State Treasurer Carter has received for redemption a certificate for $150,000, it being the last outstanding war obligation of the State. It matures Sept. 1, and will be paid then.

Decision in the Sharon-Terry Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Yesterday the Supreme Court of the State denied a re-hearing of its last decision in the Sharon-Terry case. The last decision reversed Judge Sullivan's judgment.

Her Life Had Been Unhappy.

CUBA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Jennie Ford, living about three miles east of this village, took a dose of Rough on Rats and died in great agony. Her life had been unhappy.

Victim of the Big Flats Wreck.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Engineer Andrew Wallace, who was injured in the Big Flats wreck, is dead. Fireman Charles Kimball is in a critical condition.

THE CAVES OF LURAY.

Grottoes of Wonderful Beauty and Legendary Interest.

Lofty Chambers and Figures of Surpassing Attractiveness—Narrow Escape of an Early Explorer—Electric Lights on the Stalactites.

A few years ago Luray was an obscure Virginia village; now its fame has extended to the whole civilized world, writes a St. Louis Republic correspondent. Situated in the midst of the magnificent Shenandoah valley, its simple and industrious inhabitants knew little or nothing of the great world beyond the lofty mountains that surround their homes. The discovery of the caves, in the summer of 1878, has made Luray one of the most famous places on the American continent, ranking with Niagara Falls, Watkin's Glen, the Natural Bridge and other great natural curiosities which abound in the United States.

The caves are one mile from Luray. They can be visited with perfect ease and comfort, being lighted by electricity, and every facility is furnished for viewing the marvelous beauties that delight the eye in every direction. Descending a stairway of solid masonry sixty feet, the visitor finds himself in a lofty arched room, forming the ante-chamber to the caves. He is at once astonished by the bewildering array of formations that surround him in every direction. Several vaulted passages extend from this apartment into other chambers and labyrinths, each possessing a distinct and peculiar beauty. At every step a new delight breaks upon the sight. Stalactites hang from the lofty rooms in infinite variety and of unimaginable loveliness, while from the floor a forest of stalagmites rises in myriads of formations. Drop by drop during unnumbered centuries this crystalline substance has been forming, assuming fantastic, grand and beautiful shapes, such as gnomes, statues, fluted columns, bridal vails, urns, bowers, angels' wings, flower gardens, fish markets and all manner of rare and enchanting forms.

As we advance farther in the cavern a magnificent chamber is entered, of oval shape, and surpassing every thing made by mortal hands. Its lofty roof is fretted by innumerable designs in frost work and delicate tracery, forming the most wonderful shapes. From the center of this splendid apartment arises a gigantic pillar of white rock of exquisite beauty, extending from floor to ceiling. This is called the "Washington Pillar." A basin formed by dropping water lies at its base, huge monsters stand out of the surrounding walls, while stupendous brown buffaloes depend from the ceilings. In every direction, as far as the eye can reach, fantastic and shadowy forms of purest white gleam in the light like so many half-finished statues in an artist's studio. Passing on, we meet streams of crystal water, cascades of snowy whiteness, springs and pools and tiny lakes. In the Naiad's Bath, a double column stands, one-half of which is a stalactite descending from the ceiling to the floor, 50 feet; the other portion of the column is a stalagmite which rises from the floor to the distance of 30 feet; the column is formed of successive stories, one above the other, and subdivided into diminutive columns. From this lovely apartment we pass to Pluto's Chasm, one of the wildest and most striking features of the Luray caves. It is an awful gulf, 50 feet wide, 140 feet long and 500 feet deep. On the back of the chasm stands "Porcupine's Pillar," a brown and white column, while half way down the gorge appears another column resembling a specter waving its arms.

One of the most remarkable formations is the "Fish Market," displaying rows of stalactites, closely resembling cat-fish and black bass, which are wet and shiny, and seem to offer a tempting dish for an epicure. Beyond this, the visitor's attention is attracted by a lofty pillar called the "Empress' Column." It is thirty feet high and composed of beautiful flutings and carvings; it is dark at the bottom, but becomes white near the center, and terminates in a delicate pink tint. Other pillars in this vicinity support a turban-crowned sultana and Indian squaw. The "Comet Column" and the "Hollow Column" also deserve mention. But more remarkable than any of these is an exact representation of the dome of the Capitol at Washington, erected on a mass of fallen stalactites. In the "Round Room" stands a symmetrical column, seventy feet high and of various colors. Leaving this portion of the caves, the "Ball-Room" is entered, a spacious apartment, one hundred feet long. Here the young people of Luray occasionally meet "to chase the glowing hours with flying feet." In passing around the "Ball-Room" various glittering figures are seen. Among these the most striking is "Cinderella Leaving the Ball," her flowing garments and fragile figure attracting great admiration.

It would be impossible within the limits of a brief article to get more than a passing glimpse of the thousand strange and brilliant formations that fill the visitor to the Luray Caves with amazement and delight. We can only name the "Tower of Babel," "Mohammed's Coffin," "The Cathedral," "Oberon's Grotto," the "Bridal Chamber," the "Frozen Fountain," "Titan's Swords," etc.

There is a local tradition at Luray that many years ago Peter Ruffner, a descendant of one of the early settlers of the Shenandoah Valley, while hunting wild game, disappeared, and was not seen for two or three days, when the finding of his gun at the mouth of the cave led to his discovery. He was alive, but half dead from hunger and fright. The mouth of the caves, now open to all the world, is about 320 paces nortneast of the cave which was accidentally discovered by Mr. Ruffner.

Since the introduction of electric lights the caves have been visited by tourists from all portions of the world. It is estimated that at least 250,000 people have been there during the ten years the caves have been open to the public. Travelers who have seen all the famous caves of this country and Europe have declared that in the beauty, brilliancy and variety of its formations Luray surpasses the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky and the far-famed Grotto of Adelsberg.

A Hanging Road in Switzerland.

The cantonal authorities of the districts around Mount Pilatus, Switzerland, have under consideration a proposal for the construction of a novel kind of road which has been submitted to them through the Central Government at Berne. This road would connect the so-called Oberhaupt, or highest point of Pilatus, with the Klimsennhorn. The object is to make the ascent of the mountain easier on the northern side and to shorten the ascent for tourists coming from Hergiswyl. The difference in level between the two points is set down at 194 meters, the distance between them at 465 meters. The road apparatus would consist of six wire cables, quite independent of one another, on which six light pulley wheels will move, and from these wheels a small omnibus capable of carrying eight persons will hang. The omnibus will be drawn by a rope attached to a steam engine to be placed on the Oberhaupt.

HE HAS TWO HEARTS.

A Wonderful Colored Man Residing at Pittsburgh.

William King's Curious Double Set of Ribs—He Works Them Up and Down with the Most Remarkable Facility and Sang Froid.

"I'se Doctah Willyum-m King, the Yankee black man from Boston. I'se got two hearts, an' two sets of ribs, an' kin stop eeder heart—jes' as easy!"

The foregoing was the startling announcement of a short, heavy-set negro who strode into the Pittsburgh Dispatch editorial rooms the other night. The colored gentleman took off his coat, mopped his brow with a bandana, and dropped into a chair. He then raised his only remaining upper garment and proceeded to roll about his abdomen, which consisted of a great soft bulb, in a most ludicrous manner. Suddenly the workings of the muscles ceased, and, when the city editor and the reporters put their hands on the negro, where formerly there had been only a soft bulb, there was now a hard, resistant, bony cage. In other words, the ribs appeared to extend from the neck to the legs.

With the hands of the spectators still on these false ribs, the latter were gradually allowed to recede, and apparently telescoped up behind the true ribs.

At the request of Mr. King, the city editor put a hand on each of the negro's chest, and was surprised to find a distinct impulse or thud on each side, just below the nipple, as though two hearts were beating against the ribs. Next the negro, after a sort of convulsion of the abdominal muscles, protruded a violently throbbing internal object down below his ribs on his left side; then, allowing this to recede to its place, he pulled down what he called his other heart, which could be seen and felt pulsating low down on the right side. With one hand on this pulsating mass and the other on the left breast, both hearts could be felt distinctly beating.

Here it was thought advisable to call in a physician to explain the phenomenon. A messenger was sent out and soon returned with Dr. Chevalier Q. Jackson. The doctor proceeded to make a thorough examination, and soon reported the results substantially as follows:

"The man has two distinct hearts, connected only by the large blood vessels and probably a very elastic pericardium. He has the power of moving these two hearts independently, and can place them one at a time down in his groins, when they can be seen and felt pulsating. He can stop one or both from beating for a period of a minute and probably longer, if I would let him. The stopping of either heart stops the pulse-beat on the corresponding side. If both hearts are stopped no pulsation can be detected over the heart, at the wrist, temples, nor anywhere else in the body.

"The left heart is the larger, being as big as a cocoanut, which is a large heart for this sized man. The right heart is smaller—about as big as a goose-egg. When one heart is down in the flank and the other in its natural place the two organs are separated about fourteen inches. As they lie ordinarily in the chest they are about two or three inches apart.

"His pulsation is about normal; but he has a murmur in his right heart which may be from drinking. He has an alcoholic pulse, and probably if he doesn't give up whisky he will turn up some fine morning on the dissecting table. He will be worth more dead than living—that is, worth more financially—for any anatomist will give $10,000 for his body. As to the phenomenon of stopping his heart, that is not an absolutely new thing. There have been three similar cases known to science; one, who, after stopping his heart for exhibition, failed to get it going again, and died in consequence. None of the three cases I refer to could stop their hearts for as great a length of time as this man. I have warned him to be careful, for he already has a murmur in his right heart, and with his alcoholic habit it will be no surprise to me to hear of him some day, not being able to start his heart after stopping it.

"The most peculiar thing about it is the fact that each heart appears to be complete and to furnish blood each to its own side of the body. In some species of the lower animals there are two distinct hearts, but in them the right side sends blood to the lungs and the left side to the general circulation through the whole body. As to his second set of ribs, they seem to be there, but the great thickness and rigidity of his muscles makes a positive examination impossible; certain it is, however, he has some sort of bony formation which he has the power to bring down so as to cover his bowels and entire belly, so as to make his trunk resemble a bony barrel. I will make a more thorough examination of him when I have more time. He is certainly the only man living who has any of the peculiar qualities that he has shown me."

Mr. King is about five feet two inches in height, of herculean build, with gigantic biceps. He has traveled from one end of the earth to the other exhibiting his peculiar attributes to the medical profession. He is at present boarding near the south end of the Pan-Handle tunnel. He says he is seventy-two years old, though he does not look it by thirty years. He claims to be able to bend a three-quarter inch iron bar across his left arm; and to feel his arm no one would doubt it. Physicians everywhere are intensely interested in his case.

An Opulent Bootblack.

Antonio L. Aste, the most prosperous bootblack in New York, was married to Miss Annie Barbien recently. Aste is probably the richest bootblack in America. He pays $900 a year for the bootblacking privilege at the Produce Exchange. On Fifth avenue he has bootblacks' apartments for which he pays $1,000 a year. He has laid by many thousand dollars. He wears good clothes and much flashy jewelry. He gave his bride a pair of diamond earrings for a wedding present. After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Aste took a train for Niagara Falls.

Patriarch of Shoe-Makers.

Abram Ephraim Elmer, who resides at Washington Mills, N. Y., is said to be one hundred and twenty-five, and therefore the oldest shoe-maker in the world. His mother was English and his father a Mohawk Dutchman, and he was born January 26, 1864. At the age of twelve he learned his trade at Jordanville, and has continued at it ever since. He never used glasses, and his eyes only gave out recently, and it was only seven years ago he taught his son William shoe-making.

Where the Paper Goes.

What becomes of all the paper? There are 1,000 pulp and paper mills at work the year round. But the newspapers and magazines consume vast quantities of it. The Century Magazine Company take nearly 200 tons a month for their publications, and their paper bill amounts to $300,000 yearly. Harper & Bros. take 25,000 reams, Robert Bonner 10,000 reams at a time. Two cheap literature firms buy $500,000 worth of paper a year. One patent medicine firm buys $300,000 worth of paper every year.

Justice Field's Case Postponed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The hearing of the petition for habeas corpus in the case of Justice Field has been postponed until next Tuesday, when the question as to Federal and State jurisdiction will be argued. The matter of the sufficiency of the warrant for the arrest of Justice Field came up in the Circuit Court to-day, but the taking of testimony was postponed until the question of jurisdiction shall be settled.

Married Twice Within Three Months.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 23.—Registrar Carr discovered to-day that Alexander William Stewart Ross, formerly cashier of the Heublein Bro.'s restaurant at Hartfort, and in this city, is a bigamist. Two marriage certificates were found showing that Ross was married twice in this city within three months. Both women are living.

Woollen Mills to Shut Down.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 23.—The Oneco Woollen Mills will shut down in about two weeks and remain closed for a month or six weeks. The high price of wool and the low price obtained for goods are reported causes.

A Doctor Kills Himself.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 23.—Dr. H. C. Fithian, a prominent physician of Port Norris, shot himself yesterday, death ensuing immediately. It is thought that his brain was affected by hard work.

Celluloid Products.

Umbrella and cane handles, collars, cuffs and scores of other articles of convenience, utility and even elegance, manufactured from celluloid, are in daily use by large numbers of the people. The question is asked: "May they be safely used?"

Celluloid is made from gun cotton, the powerful and violent explosive compound. Gun cotton is made by saturating absorbent paper with a mixture of two parts of nitric acid and five parts of sulphuric acid. The cellulose of the paper, derived from the cellular tissue of the cotton in common use, is changed by the combination, and becomes gun cotton.

To make celluloid, the excess of acid is washed out by a free use of water, and by pressure carefully applied. After the removal of all uncombined acid it is reduced to a homogeneous, pulpy mass, strained until it becomes nearly dry, and is then mixed with about one-third of its weight of gum camphor. These materials are mixed as uniformly as possible by careful manipulation with wooden instruments, and then by grinding. The pulp which is turned out by grinding is spread out and reduced to slabs of various thicknesses, and rolled between steam-heated rollers, and then becomes moderately elastic in strips of medium thickness. In this form it is worked up into the various articles which are offered for sale and use.

DEATH ON THE RAIL

Baltimore and Ohio Officials in a Collision.

TWO TRAINS MEET ON A CURVE

Three Persons Killed and Several Fatally Injured.

A Blunder of a Train Despatcher Causes the Accident—Barnum's Show Wrecked En Route to Montreal—Thirty-Three Valuable Ring Horses Killed—Mourning in Knoxville on Account of the Flat Gap Disaster—A Collision Near Buffalo.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 24.—A frightful collision occurred yesterday on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Grafton and Parkersburg.

An accommodation train collided with a special east-bound train, carrying Baltimore and Ohio officials, at a point between Petroleum and Silver Run, 25 miles from here, on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The special train was ordered to pass the accommodation at Petroleum, the farther point east, and the accommodation to pass the special train at Silver Run, the farther point west. At the time of the collision both trains were going at the rate of 35 miles an hour.

The trains met on a sharp curve and without a moment's notice dashed into each other, wrecking both engines and a baggage car, instantly killing Engineer Layman, fatally injuring Engineer George Rowland, and instantly killing the two firemen—James Fletcher and John Bailey.

One of the officials, named Hunter, was badly and perhaps fatally hurt. A Mrs. Manley, of Central, West Virginia, was badly injured. Councilman Robert Malley of this city was cut and bruised. Baggagemaster Rose was cut. A colored porter on the special was thrown through a glass door and probably fatally injured.

There were some marvelous escapes. The dead bodies were brought here.

The accident was caused by the train despatcher at Grafton giving wrong orders. The accommodation train carried but few passengers, and but one coach was attached to the special or the loss of life might have been much greater.

THE FLAT GAP DISASTER.

Much Sadness in Knoxville Over the Flat Gap Creek Railroad Accident.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 24.—The scenes in this city last night were of a mournful character. Great excitement prevailed when the reports of the accident, at Flap Gap Creek, reached here and thousands of people were assembled at the station waiting for the relief train to arrive. The feeling was intensified as the wounded and dead were taken from the train and the many ghastly scenes made a number of the throng sick.

Over a hundred carriages were in readiness to convey the wounded and killed to places of refuge. Many of those hurt had to wait some time to have their injuries attended to, there being a scarcity of physicians. The drenching rain, which was falling, will, in all probability, tend to make the wounded ones' cases more serious.

Col. Isham G. Young, chairman of the Board of Public Works, died last evening. Edward F. Barker is thought to be dying, also Alderman J. E. Barry. Barker was pinned under the cars for more than an hour. County Judge Maloney is in a precarious condition. He will hardly recover. His ribs are broken.

An inquest was held over the body of Col. Powers, and a verdict of accidental death from unavoidable causes was returned. His remains were shipped to Augusta, Ky.

The city is in mourning and business practically suspended.

The belief is general that the wreck can be attributed to the bad condition of the road. The city subscribed $250,000 two years ago toward the construction of the road and the contract period expires to-day. It was to show the city authorities that the road was completed that the excursion was given. George Eager of Boston, the president of the company which built the road, and Lenox Smith, vice-president of the Knoxville Cumberland Gap and Louisville Railroad escaped injury.

Riddleberger Will Oppose Mahone.

WOODSTOCK, Va., Aug. 24.—Ex-Senator Riddleberger, in his paper the "Herald," says: "There never was a time since 1877 that we would have supported William Mahone for Governor. We had doubts then, but solved these doubts in his favor on account of the 'Martin' letter. We will not support him now. Our reason will be forthcoming. We wanted him nominated to be eliminated."

A Warrant for Gideon Brown.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—A warrant against Gideon P. Brown, who is supposed to be in this city, has been issued from the crown office here.

Kilrain's Bond Arranged.

PUMVIS, Miss., Aug. 24.—Kilrain arrived here to-day. Before the court adjourned his friends arranged for his bond, which was fixed at $2,000.

THE NEW JOHNSTOWN.

Homes Are Springing Up All Over the Flooded District.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug.—24.—Houses are springing up all over the flooded district with astonishing rapidity, and the people here are making every endeavor to become settled.

A number of workmen are putting up buildings 50x116 feet for families, each house being expected to comfortably accommodate thirty small families. These houses are being constructed and will be throughly furnished by the National Red Cross.

It is said that the invitation of the Red Cross Association to President Harrison to visit Johnstown has been misinterpreted; that the President was not invited to visit the scene of the great flood to view for himself "the terrible condition of things there," but to see what great progress had been made in providing for the homeless, etc.

A New York Railroad Sold.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The Ithaca, Auburn and Western Railroad was sold here yesterday upon a foreclosure of the mortgage securing the first bonds, which amount to $400,000. Second mortgage bonds amounting to $468,000 and $975,800 of common stock are wiped out by the sale. The Lehigh Valley Railroad held $95,000 and was represented in the bidding. The property was struck down to E. M. Barnes and others, of New York, for $167,000. It is the announced intention of the new owners to extend the road to this city.

Boiler Shops Burned in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 24.—The boiler shop of the Biglow Company, manufacturers of boilers, engines and plate iron, was totally destroyed by fire last night. The engine and rivet shops also caught fire, but the firemen after several hours work saved the main portions of these buildings. Loss $75,000; partly insured.

Jimmy Hope Released from Prison.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Jimmy Hope, the noted bank robber was released from Auburn Prison yesterday and immediately left for New York. He was arrested on the train at Poughkeepsie by New York detectives, where he is wanted for alleged complicity in the $3,000,000 Manhattan Bank robbery of 1878.

His Eyes Blown Out by Dynamite.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Aug. 24.—Louis Johnson, a Swede, employed on the sewers in the city, was blown fifteen feet into the air by the premature explosion of a dynamite charge. His eyes were torn out and his body terribly lacerated, but he is still alive and may possibly recover.

Bellefonte Works Will Not Resume.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 24.—It was announced to-day by one of the stockholders of the Centre Iron Company's Works, which closed down a few days ago, that the works would not probably resume again on account of not paying expenses. About 750 men will be thrown out of employment.

Ogilby at Home from Prison.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 24.—A. J. Ogilby, who stole $86,000 from the Dime Savings Bank four years ago, and was released from prison yesterday, is now at his home here. He refuses to be interviewed. It is said he will go into business in New York in a few days.

Fire at Orange, N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 24.—Ramsey's mineral water works at East Orange were destroyed by fire. Four buildings and several wagons were destroyed and four horses were burned. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Hon. Samuel Dexter Crane Dead.

BOSTON, Aug. 24—Hon. Samuel Dexter Crane died of paralysis last night at his home in this city, aged 73 years. He was an ex-member of the Legislature, and was a member of the firm of Loring & Co.

Treasurer Wright Arrested.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Samuel P. Wright, treasurer of the Queen City Woolen Mills, was arrested upon complaint of Samuel Hall, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

BARNUM'S CIRCUS WRECKED.

Several Cars Smashed and Horses and Camels Killed.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Barnum & Bailey's circus train met with a serious accident at Potsdam while en route from Gouvenar to Montreal on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad.

An axle broke on the second train derailing six cars and telescoping two more, crushing everything in them. Thirty ring horses, one of the chariot horses and two camels were killed. The loss is estimated at forty thousand dollars, beside which the loss on the day's receipts at Montreal, where the circus was to show to-day, must be added. This will make an additional loss of about eighteen thousand dollars.

Crushed to Death in the Wreck.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—A Lehigh Valley passenger train running wild ran into an Erie freight train at Taylor Park, near this city. Fireman Dennis Hayes, of the Lehigh road, was crushed to death.

THE SEAL SEIZURES

Said to Have Been Made With England's Consent.

CANADIANS HIGHLY INDIGNANT

Exasperated Over the Apathy of the Imperial Government.

English War Ships on the Pacific Station Ordered to Keep Away from Behring Sea—It is Claimed that the United States Government Has Submitted a Proposal for an Early Settlement—An Opinion from the London "Times."

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—It has been known that during the past week the Dominion Government has been receiving some important despatches from England on the Behring Sea dispute, but the reticence of the Cabinet Ministers here has made it difficult to ascertain the purpose of these despatches. It was learned, however, that as one of the results of the informal correspondence between the British and United States Governments an understanding was arrived at that the form only of seizing Canadian vessels caught sealing or with seals on board in Behring Sea would be gone through with, while only in the most flagrant cases which could not be passed over would the cargo be confiscated.

This, it is held, allows matters to stand just as they were with regard to the claim of the United Stated to these seal fisheries until the question of jurisdiction is definitely settled. At the same time the bill of damages for illegal seizure against the United States, should the case be decided against them, would be very materially lessened by pursuing such a course.

It is said to-day that the United States Government has submitted a proposal to the British Government with a view of arriving at an early settlement of the Behring Sea question, and which will be submitted at a full meeting of the Dominion Cabinet, and that a meeting has been called for Sept. 15, which all members of the Cabinet now absent from Ottawa have been requested to attend.

An Opinion From the Thunderer.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The "Times" says there is a curious want of seriousness about the American seizures in Behring Sea. They appear to be intended to frighten away Victorian sealers by the sham formalities of capture, the usual penalties not being exacted. The "Times" further declares, in all friendliness, that England will, in case her rights are invaded, vigorously defend them.

CANADIANS INDIGNANT.

Because the Home Government Will Keep Its Warships Away from Behring Sea.

OTTAWA, Ont. Aug. 24.—The Minister of Customs says the government has not yet received any information regarding the seizure of the Pathfinder and Minnie in Behring Sea by the American revenue cutter Rush.

The people here are highly indignant over the apathy of the British Government in respect to these seizures. It is rumored in official circles that the Imperial Government has ordered the warships on the Pacific station to keep away from Behring Sea.

Shot Her from Behind.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The murder of Miss Maud Bortle by Edward Knowles was cold-blooded and unprovoked. Miss Bortle was the 16-year-old daughter of Edward J. Bortle, an extensive hop-grower of the town of Lenox. She was a bright girl, and no one knew that she had an enemy in the world. The murderer is 34 years old and a cousin of his victim. Though not an idiot, his mind seems unbalanced.

Stolen by Gypsies.

BRISTOL, Pa., Aug. 24.—Charley Stevens, aged eight years, has mysteriously disappeared from this place. It is believed he has been carried off by a party of English tramps calling themselves gypsies, as, when the camp passed through Tullytown, a child was heard crying in one of the wagons and calling for its mother.

Miners Still Going Out.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 24.—W. L. Scott's miners in the middle vein, who have been at work throughout the trouble, went out this morning rather than accept his proposition.

Shut-Down of a Leather Factory.

WOBURN, Mass., Aug. 24.—The leather factory of Stephen Dow & Co. was shut down yesterday, throwing 100 men out of employment. They were told that the shop would be closed for a few days.

Cigarmakers Waiting for Aid.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 24.—The cigarmakers are still on strike. They expect aid from Havana. If disappointed in this respect they will doubtless have to give in to the bosses.

Norwich, Conn., in 1890.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 24.—At a meeting of the National Croquet Association it was voted to hold the tournament of 1890 at Norwich, beginning the third Tuesday in August.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Bridge contractors hereabouts are preparing their bids for re-building the line bridges in this city.

—The Chathams of North Plainfield will play the Young Crescents of this city, on the Crescents' grounds Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

—While at work lathing in a house on Washington avenue, North Plainfield, yesterday, Mr. Jacob Benner fell from a scaffold, and sustained painful injuries to his right arm.

—The telephone poles are to be put back on Liberty street between Seventh and Eighth, where they were cut down early in last Spring by order of the property's owner. The property has since been sold and the new owner is more accommodating.

—Mr. James Henderson, the night engineer at the railroad station will now have to exert himself to attend to his duties, since the Central Railroad Company has placed an additional boiler outside of the tank house. But "Jeems" will get there, just the same.

—The announcement of the reopening of Miss Rogers' classes in piano instruction, at Scotch Plains, appears in the educational column today. Her great success among the young people of our suburban town, is shown by their works and endorsed by the ladies to whom Miss Rogers refers.

Are They White Cappers.

"Dore" Johnson, the colored man who THE PRESS said yesterday, was visited by alleged white caps on the night before, as he was asleep in the upper story of a barn on Peace street, reported to the police last evening that the men were again loitering around his home. Mr. Johnson declares that if he is molested again, some of the intruders will carry away ballast in the shape of hot lead. Mr. Johnson usually wears boots, so it cannot be said that "he had snakes in his shoes."

Sunstruck.

James Sheridan, of this city, was prostrated by the heat while at work in Hillside cemetery, Thursday. He was one of the laborers employed in the pit from which the gravel is taken and spread upon the cemetery roads.

Shortly after resuming work in the afternoon, he was so overcome by the intense heat that with assistance he was taken to his home in this city. He has since almost entirely recovered.

Boy Choir at Reform Hall.

The last mid-week meeting in Reform Hall betokened increased interest in the cause of temperance as there boldly espoused. Appropriate remarks were made by several ladies and gentlemen, and an exceedingly pleasant feature of the occasion was a choir of boys, ably and kindly tutored by Mrs. John King, who expects soon to enlist additional numbers. These Thursday evening meetings will be regularly held and open to all.

Presentation by the Guests.

Mr. Chas. A. Turner, the genial and popular manager of the Sewaren House, at Sewaren, was on Tuesday evening the recipient of a handsome gift from his guests in the shape of a gold watch and chain. The inscription on the watch was: "Presented to Mr. Chas. A. Turner by the guests of the Sewaren House, 1889." The presentation speech was made by Commodore Abell, to which Mr. Turner responded.

Fell and Broke the Lamp.

While the family of Special Officer Mattox were seated around a table at their home on Park avenue, about 9:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening, a framed picture of Kate Claxton and Mr. Charles Stevenson, which was suspended from the wall, fell directly on a lamp, fanned out the light and broke the lamp and chimney into fragments. Several vases were also knocked over and broken.

Lost His Arm.

The physicians in charge of Mr. Thos. Clacy, the man who was so seriously injured at Netherwood, yesterday, decided that in order to save the patient's life it would become necessary to amputate the left arm between the wrist and elbow, which operation was successfully performed. Today the patient is doing as well as can be expected, under the circumstances.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield have gone to Budd's Lake for a week.

Miss Minnie Lorton, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Ida Lorton, of West Fifth street.

Mrs. George Kesselring and her two sons, Frank and Harry, are on a few days visit at Pamrapo, N. J.

Mr. Edward Apgar has returned from Hunterdon county, where he has been visiting among relatives.

Mr. C. Randolph, of Madison avenue, left last evening, for Watch Hill, R. I., where he will spend a few days with relatives.

Miss Josie W. Martin, of Chatham street, North Plainfield, left this afternoon for Deckertown, N. J., where she will spend a week with relatives.

Miss Josephine Shreve, a former principal in the Bryant school building, but now residing in Philadelphia, together with her sister, are visiting relatives in North Plainfield.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says: "In the Congregational church last Sunday morning, Mr. J. B. Cleaver of Plainfield, delivered an excellent discourse on 'The Fewness of the Saved.'".

Mr. George Thatcher and a few of his most intimate friends spent the day at Bound Brook dam, yesterday, angling for the gamey bass. "Alex." proved to be the "Jonah" of the party, but nevertheless some fine bass were landed.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck will sail from Liverpool for home on the City of Berlin, Wednesday, Sep. 11. His trip has been a remarkable success. Gone already two months, yet he has not been storm-staid a day nor missed a single railroad connection.

Mr. Frank W. Morse, formerly of this city, and his wife, the daughter of Mr. Morgan C. Bird, of Park avenue, have been at Lucerne, enjoying the beautiful scenery and air of Switzerland's lakes, mountains and valleys, to the fullest extent. Mr. Morse writes THE PRESS that they expected to be in Heidelberg, the latter part of last week, to welcome the Rev. Mr. Schenck.

Mr. James Field, a member of the late firm of Field & Randolph, proprietors of the City Pharmacy, will on Wednesday next remove with his wife to Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will permanently locate. Mr. Field has associated himself with Messrs Bruen Bros., & Ritchey, the wholesale druggists of Fulton street, New York, and his many friends here wish him unlimited success in his new undertaking.

Went Fishing for Bass and Got a Crane.

Messrs Rudolph Laurens and F. Fuller, two local sportsmen from this city went over to New Market on Thursday with the expressed determination of extinguishing the bass race in the New Market Pond. The total catch was no bass and a crane. The latter was tied to the limb of a tree, and was only secured by means of a shotgun borrowed from one of the neighbors. The gun was overloaded and the sportsman who discharged it came near being kicked into oblivion.

Yesterday, Rudolph and Mr. "Ed" Keller tried their luck at the lake, but it was no use, for the fish only played with the fishermen. The latter named, it is said, made two attempts to capture a bass by jumping into the water after the wily fish.

Making the Delinquents Come to Centre.

Justice V. W. Nash is still on the warpath for delinquent tax-payers, and many persons who declared that they could not or would not pay up their back taxes when the bills were first sent out, are now coming to centre "like little men." There are some colored men who still declare that they cannot pay their taxes and signify their intention to leave town before going to jail.

Justice Nash yesterday threatened to lock one delinquent up for refusing to square his account, but the man paid his tax and was thus spared the humiliation of going to jail. The Justice also levied upon a lamp in one house, a lounge in another, and an organ in a store on Front street.

Only Short Rates for the Women.

The report of the State School Superintendent shows that there are 1,615 public school houses in the State, an increase of five over last year. Thirty new buildings were erected during the year. The total value of the property of the State is $7,837,706. The average value of the schoolhouses is $5,000.

There is a total of 4,421 teachers employed in the schools. Of this number 796 are men. The average salary paid to the men is $67.24 a month, while the average salary for women is $42.35 a month.

A Gorgeous Bazaar.

The coming Rainbow Fair to be held at The Crescent, under the auspices of the ladies of All Saints Episcopal church, of Fanwood, promises to be a very attractive show. Half the building will be devoted to a realistic Gypsy encampment. There will be various booths with the ladies all in costume. In addition to the many lovely sights to be seen, there will be an excellent concert each evening, which alone will be worth a visit to the affair.

Katydid.

"Katydid! Katydid!"
Deep in leafy bowers hid,
Chirps a gauzy-winged seer
Populous this time of year.
Should you for his secret bid
He would tell you Katydid
(What wise maids have done before)
Buy her gems at Collier's store.

HUNG HIMSELF TO A TREE.

The Deed Committed on the Spot Where Father McGlynn Used to Speak.

Robert Clark, aged about seventy years, a farmer living on the road leading from New Providence to what is known as the "Balty Roll Hill," a few miles North of this city, committed suicide by hanging himself to a tree, near his residence, yesterday afternoon. The suicide fastened a rope around his neck, stood on a chair and threw the other end of the rope around one of the branches on a tree. He then kicked the chair from under him, and was found dangling in the air some time afterward. Life was extinct.

No direct cause is assigned for the man's rash act, but it is said that the suicide has been depressed in spirits of late. The spot Clark selected for the deed was where Father McGlynn used to address crowds of "reformed" and "unconverted" catholics and curious protestants from this city and other places in the vicinity, during many Sunday mornings of last Summer.

He's Well Known Here.

The New York papers yesterday devoted columns of space to "showing up" the dark secrets of Rev. Dr. Adolph Schabehorn, of Charlestown, N. Y., who has run away from his family and his debts and left The Spellbinder Company, of New York city, without a manager. The household goods left in possession of his wife and nine children have been levied upon to pay his debts.

In conversation with a newspaper man a day or two since, Mrs. Schabehorn, who by the way is a sister of Mrs. Geo. Kesselring, of North Plainfield, said: "Dr. Schabehorn was born in Germany sixty years ago. He is a handsome man and a fine scholar. I lived in Plainfield, N. J., and married him twenty-two years ago. We lived first in New York. Then my husband became pastor of the Lutheran church in Plainfield. Then he got the Western fever and we moved to Campville, Ill., where he had a Lutheran church. From there he went to St. Louis, where he edited a monthly paper called the Free Pulpit, and he was later on connected with other newspaper enterprises."

Dr. Schabehorn will be remembered by many as having addressed a Republican mass meeting in the old Casino skating rink on Grove street here, during the Blaine campaign in 1884. The doctor, it is also alleged, eloped with the funds belonging to a church at Nyack, N. Y., a few years ago.

That's Why.

A correspondent who does not sign his name and whose communication has one cent postage due on it, writes:

Please state in your paper, (to decide a bet) how Mr. McMurry was declared out at first base, when he wanted a runner, in the last game between the Crescents and the West Ends of Somerville, and oblige a READER.

Mr. "McMurry" was out because he started to run from first to second base and Mr. John Harkins touched him with the ball. He was permitted to have a runner and should have been satisfied; but when he started to steal second himself and got caught, Umpire Cadmus justly ruled him out.

Rahway Wants a Square Deal.

(From the National Democrat.)

President Daly, of the Rahway Athletic Association, is authority for the statement that the Rahway team will not under any circumstances cross bats with the Bergen Point nine in the future. The absurdly unjust decisions of their umpire at the game on Saturday last satisfied the Rahway boys of the folly of attempting to defeat their umpire, although the task of beating the nine was comparatively an easy one. The president says there is no doubt of the Bergen Points, "stooping to conquer."

Dunellen Briefs.

The present season has brought no improvement at the "Bull Frog Farm."

Mr. J. L. Thomas and family are spending a month at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Phillips gave birth to her seventh son, yesterday. Both mother and baby are doing well.

Constable Albert W. Warden of Dunellen has been appointed as one of the Constables to be in attendance at the September term of the Middlesex County Court, which opens at New Brunswick on Sept. 10.

A Big Time on Labor Day.

The grocers, butchers and other merchants of the city belonging to the Protective Association, will have a big time and a clam bake at Boynton Beach, Monday, Sept. 2, in celebration of Labor Day.

All their friends are invited to accompany them, and they expect the attendance will number 250. There will be, among the varied festivities, a ball match between the butchers and grocers, and Will Smalley will pitch for the former.

Not Any For Us.

Crowds of people filled with awe and morbid curiosity, gazed up at a man climbing to the top of the Trinity church spire, this morning, expecting to see him fall.

It was George Bilyeu—commonly known as "Doc." He reached the ball on the spire, sat down on it, lifted the heavy and awkward vane off the rod at the very top of the spire, and brought it down with him in safety. He said he would rather do a climb like that, than eat.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Brief notices will be inserted under this head free of expense, but must be delivered at this office not later than eleven o'clock on Saturday morning to insure publication.

The Sunday school of the Warren Union Mission will meet at 2:30 P. M. No service in the evening.

There will be gospel temperance meetings as usual at 9:15 A. M. and at 4 P. M. to-morrow, in Reform Hall.

There will be Sunday school in Hope chapel, to-morrow afternoon, at three o'clock, and an evening service at eight.

Services will be held in Grace church, to-morrow at 5 P. M., at which the Rev. F. A. Henry, of New York, will officiate.

The services at Bethel chapel, to-morrow, will be in the morning at eleven, and in the evening at eight, with Sunday school at three o'clock in the afternoon.

All are cordially invited to attend the preaching of the gospel of the grace of God, at the hall opposite the post office, Sunday evening at 7.45.

The Rev. Joseph P. Cameron, of Trinity church, Easton, Pa., will officiate at the services in Holy Cross church, to-morrow morning. Service at 11 A. M.

There will be gospel services in Berry's Grove in the rear of the Schepflin building, to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Mr. J. B. Martin, of Hope chapel, will lead.

At Mt. Olive Baptist church to-morrow, the Rev. J. W. Mitchell, pastor, there will be preaching at 11 A. M., and 8 P. M. Sabbath school at three o'clock in the afternoon.

To-morrow is the Tenth Sunday after Trinity. In the Episcopal churches the lessons will be: Morning—Num., XXIII; Acts, XXVI. Evening—Num., XXIV; James, II.

Service in the German Reformed church on Craig place, North Plainfield, will be held to-morrow at 10:30 A. M., and 8 P. M. There will also be a Friday evening service at eight o'clock.

The Sunday service in the W. C. T. U. rooms, to-morrow, will be at 9:15 A. M. and four o'clock P. M. The young people's vesper service will be at 7 o'clock to which every one will be welcome.

German Lutheran services to-morrow morning at the W. C. T. U. rooms, 73 West Front street, at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. W. Euchler, Assistant of the Rev. E. F. Moldenke, D. D., of New York, will officiate.

At the evening meeting, in addition to the usual devotional exercises, and choice service of song, there will be speaking. There will also be a recitation in the evening by Miss Kitty Ferris, of New York.

Bound Brook Emerging From Obscurity.

(From the Chronicle.)

A story to the effect that Reinhardt Rounder, a farmer on Washington's Camp Ground, near Bound Brook, was lying in a critical condition from the effects of a bite by a copperhead snake, and naming Dr. B. B. Matthews as his attending physician, was started by the Plainfield papers last week and widely circulated by the daily journals of more distant cities. A CHRONICLER has interviewed both the doctor and the patient and they recognize the story as applying nicely to an event which occurred about fifteen years ago, in which they with the snake were the principal actors.

The probable solution to this strange reproduction as a matter of news, lies in the fact that the rapidly increasing importance of Bound Brook is now readily recognized abroad and papers at all points seize with avidity upon items relating to this vicinity, knowing that they will be read with interest. Let the good work go on, but, meanwhile, who set up the Plainfield Press with this particularly stale chestnut?

Miss Kitty Ferris Will Recite.

The usual exercises will be held in Reform Hall Sunday evening, commencing promptly at 8 o'clock. In addition to a choice musical programme, there will be addresses delivered, and a recitation by Miss Kitty Ferris of New York. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

—The Young Crescents are out in new suits of gray with letters of black, and are ready to beat any club of their weight, size and age in New Jersey.

GLAD TO HEAR IT.

Assurance on the Spot that West field is Doing Well.

(From the Westfield Standard.)

The Plainfield Press comes to the conclusion that Westfield suffers, in a contrast with Plainfield, from a lack of street lighting, macadamized streets and public school facilities, and intimates that Plainfield has abolished liquor saloons while Westfield has not done so. Doubtless the Press makes these allusions good naturedly and in a self-defense fashion in view of Dr. Ripley's high claims for Westfield upon its superior topographical position which makes it the "Mount Ararat of Union County."

As to scholarship and schools, our usually well informed neighbor might have stated that in the recent official examination at Elizabeth, some of Westfield's public school pupils stood the highest of any in the county and that a superior site has been selected for a new school building for scholars in advanced studies including the high school course.

As to public roads, the Press might have stated that Westfield, practically the core of Union county, is the focus, or crossing place of the most important roads to be operated under Senator Miller's new road law and that Westfield's record for keeping up her own roads is as good as a proverb.

As to street lighting, the Press might have stated that the formation of an Edison Electric Light Company is now in progress in Westfield not only for street, store and residence lighting, but for doing what Plainfield's Westinghouse, non-dividend-paying electric light company never can do, and that is to provide motive power for manufacturing and household purposes as well.

As to the abolition of the liquor-traffic in Plainfield, in securing which the Press was so largely instrumental, Plainfield has a right to plume herself—she has outlawed the traffic from a large portion of the territory covered by her name, although it is notorious that in Plainfield as everywhere else, it is found to be impossible to suppress entirely the traffic.

It is true that Westfield has three liquor saloons foistered upon her in the face of earnest protests.

It is also true that the popular vote would drive them out.

It is also true that a popular vote is not possible, because the Democratic party of which the Press is so able and so energetic an advocate, took away from the people of Union county the right to vote on the Local Option question.

The Racing Card at Waverly.

The classes for Labor Day trotting at Waverly, Sept. 2, are filled with fine fields of horses. There will be three "rattling" races. The 3.00 class did not fill and is declared off. The Free-for-All will be one of the greatest races ever witnessed in this vicinity. The entries in full are as follows:

2.35 class—W. Scott Smith, ch.g., Prince; B. Decker, b.m., Mollie Garfield; Charles C. Brower, b.g., Bantie; Chas. P. Sweet, g., Dutch Jim; B. C. Guerin, b.g., Dick F.; J. Plumley, br.m., Lady Douglass; R. Demster, b.g., Exterminator; Jesse Yearance, b.g., R. C.; J. Walsh, gr.g., Emmett; M. Hand, b.m., Daisy K.

2.30 class—W. S. Smith, b.g., William H.; J. Colyer, blk.g., Frank M.; Owen Monk, b.g., Farandale; M. Hand, ch.g., Mambrino Ross; W. Spencer, b.m., Electra; R. Dempster, blk.g., John S.

The Free-for-All made up of Grand Circuit trotters is as follows: C. A. Payne, blk. g., David L.; C. R. Hedden, br.g., Arbutus; W. Spencer, ch.g., Billy Button.

All Broke Up.

(From the Union-County Standard.)

Quite a lively scene took place on Broad street near the railroad crossing, Westfield, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Harry Warner, of the firm of H. H. Warner & Co., and a friend, of Plainfield, had been driving through town and was in the act of turning around just above the Methodist church when the carrage over turned and threw out the occupants, Mr. Warner receiving a gash in the cheek.

The horse became frightened and started off but collided with Hugh Todd's grocery wagon which was standing in front of the store. The runaway animal was thrown to the ground and severely cut, the carriage pretty badly smashed, and one hind wheel broken off the grocery wagon. The injured horse was taken to the livery stable and the vehicles to Frank Kelley's carriage factory for repairs.

"Rejuvenated," is Good.

The news (?) last evening contained the following bit of intelligence:

The Dunellen railroad station has been thoroughly rejuvenated and the living apartments of Station Agent Carpenter, over the depot, have undergone extensive repairs. Mr. Carpenter moved his family into them yesterday morning.

The fact of the matter is that there is not a word of truth in the above item. Station Agent Carpenter's living apartments have not been undergoing repairs, neither has his family been absent from the depot building.

Rats.

(From the Somerville Democrat:)

The tax rate for Plainfield has been placed at $2.15 on the hundred for the current year. This is $1.05 more per hundred than Somerville's tax rate was last year, and we opine will be $1 more than our rate this year. Plainfield taxpayers had better emigrate to Somerville, where the taxes are much lower and where the can enjoy as many advantages, yes, and more, for Somerville has a good water supply, while Plainfield has none, and the air here is purer and healthier than in Plainfield.

THE SMOKERS'S WEED.

Something About the Country's Immense Tobacco Crops.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 23.—Reports from all of the seed-leaf tobacco-growing sections of the United States indicates a fair yield of good average quality. Farmers have generally sold out their crops, and the prospect for good prices is excellent.

The acreage in the Connecticut valley has increased over that of last year, but of course is nothing to what it was ten years ago, while the acreage in the Housatonic valley is larger than ever. The crop is large in both valleys, and in the heaviest tobacco-growing towns, such as Hatfield, East Hartford and South Windsor, which together have nearly three thousand acres, the quality was never better, although the yield is perhaps 200 pounds per acre less than last year. Very few offers have yet been made for the new crop, for which growers expect from ten to twenty cents per pound. The crop will be two-thirds harvested this week and the remainder will be put in by September.

In New York State the crop in Onondaga county is grown on more acres than last year, but the yield per acre is less and ten days more of good weather will be needed to perfect the latest late-set plants. The quality is excellent on the uplands, but here, as elsewhere in the Chemung valley and Big Flats district, the crop on low land has been injured by the wet.

The crop in both sections is largely Havana, as it is in Massachusetts, the finest seed-leaf being raised in East Hartford. The Pennsylvania crop occupies fully as many acres as last year, including 15,000 acres in the single county of Lancaster. There is a tendency on the part of the growers to get larger patches of tobacco yearly, but comparatively few farmers new to the business embark in it. The crop is about equally divided between seed leaf and Havana seed. The yield as well as the quality will be fully up to the standard, not less than 45,000 cases in Lancaster County, where it averages 1,450 pounds of seed-leaf and 110 pounds of Havana seed per acre.

The crop will be mostly housed by the end of the week. Twenty cents has been offered in one case for the first and second grades, with the filler thrown in. Wisconsin has about ten per cent. more acres in tabacco this year than last. The season has been very forward, and much of the earlier set is already housed, while the latter is doing nicely.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Cholera in a violent form is raging in Bagdad and Bassorah.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

They Wish to Deal With the Companies Direct and Not Through Foremen—The Strike Spreading Among Men in Other Occupations—Socialist Burns Praised for the Peaceable Course He is Pursuing—The Police Preparing for Trouble.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The strike of the dockyard employes is spreading and embraces large numbers of men in other occupations. The carmen employed by Pickford & Co., general carriers, are joining the strike as are also the railway carmen. The laborers in Spratt's biscuit factory have struck and the works are closed. All classes of unskilled labor in London threaten to join the growing movement and in the event of their doing so, trouble is feared, for which the police are preparing.

The great strike seems to be as far from settlement as ever. The difficulty is that the chief cause of complaint on the part of the men, the system known as "sweating," is one which the shipowners, with the best intentions in the world, cannot abolish without entirely revolutionizing their whole business.

Under this system the shipowners, instead of dealing directly with the laborers, employ only their foremen, and these in turn hire their men, securing for themselves the difference between the wages paid by the companies and those to which they can compel the laborers to submit.

The men insist that the companies must hereafter deal with them direct and that they will no longer submit to the "sweating" operation. Their leaders say that it is not a question of wages at all, but they are contending for a principle. Whether what they earn by working for the companies be much or little, they say they want it all, and will no longer permit the "sweaters" to rob them of a part of it.

Burns, the Socialist leader, who is at the head of the movement, and who has so far conducted it with creditable moderation and good judgment, says that the men will certainly gain their point, as they are a unit in demanding that the old system must go. He is earning golden opinions by the course he is pursuing, and it is due to his efforts alone that frequent collisions between the more headstrong of the 40,000 strikers and the police have been averted.

MRS. MAYBRICK VERY WEAK.

She Was Much Affected on Receiving the News of Her Reprieve.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 24.—When Mrs. Maybrick received the news of the commutation of her sentence she was much affected thereby, although incapable in her weak state of any marked manifestation of emotion.

The chaplain of the jail visited her at breakfast time at which hour her condition had reached the weakest point since her conviction by reason of the revulsion of feeling following her reprieve. She is now completely prostrated and it is feared that she will not live long in the confinement prescribed by the modification of her sentence.

Briefly, Mrs. Maybrick's paramour, sailed for Boston on the steamer Scythia yesterday.

The committee which since Mrs. Maybrick's conviction has been actively at work to secure its reversal by the Home Secretary, has resolved to continue the agitation in her behalf and to urge the Home Office to grant her a free pardon. They hope for success on the ground that Mr. Matthews' decision to commute the sentence is based on the reasonable doubts which exist as to whether the condemned woman poisoned her husband.

Mr. Maybrick's Valet Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mr. Thomas Stansel, the colored valet of Mr. Maybrick, both before and after the latter's marriage and the most important witness in the trial of Mrs. Maybrick, arrived here last night on the steamer Italy. In an interview to-day with a reporter Mr. Stansel said that Mr. Maybrick had used arsenic for four years to his knowledge and that he had often bought it for him.

English Delegates to Washington.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—In the House of Commons last night Sir Michael Hicks Beach said England had accepted an invitation to send delegates to the Maritime Conference to be held in Washington, but the British delegates would not be empowered to make any engagements binding upon England.

To Protest Against Balfour's Utterances.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Many Parnellite members of Parliament have arranged to attend a meeting to be held in County Clare in Ireland next month, to protest against Mr. Balfour's recent denunciation of the priests of Clare.

Parnell's Coming Denied.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The "Standard" denies the report that Mr. Parnell intends to visit America during the coming recess.

The West Virginia Contest.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 24.—It is now evident that the legislative committee on the Gubernatorial contest will report in favor of Fleming, the Democratic contestant, enough Goff votes have already been thrown out to settle that point.

Dead at the Age of 101.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—James J. Tunny, a native of Ireland, died here to-day aged 101 years. His wife, who married him 80 years ago, survives him.

FOUND STARVING.

The Navy Department Notified of the Rescue of Two Americans on Arenas Key.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The report of Commander Kellogg, of the Ossipee, on his rescue of two of the three American seamen left by the captain of the American schooner, Annie on Arenas Key, Yucatan, has been received at the Navy Department.

Commander Kellogg found one of the men dead and the two others in a starving condition. They were left on the Key with a small supply of provisions, ostensibly to guard property of the company that worked guano beds there.

Commodore Walker, the Acting Secretary of the Navy, refuses to make the report public, and this, coupled with the fact that to-day it will be sent to the Department of Justice, leads to the belief that the Attorney-General will be asked to take steps towards the prosecution of the captain of the Annie for inhuman conduct.

Will Build a Big Ship Yard.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 24.—It is reported here that the Pennsylvania Steel Company intend to establish an immense ship yard at Sparrow's Point, 12 miles from Baltimore. The company will have the most magnificent equipment in the United States and possibly in the world for the construction of steel ships. This industry is to be carried on in conjunction with the iron and steel works of the company at Sparrow's Point.

The G. A. R. Encampment.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 24.—It was announced at a meeting of the Grand Army Encampment Counsel this morning that the Committee on Hotels had 35,000 lodgings to assign to strangers in addition to tents for 50,000 veterans. The advance guard came in yesterday about three thousand strong, and Camp Badger was occupied last night for the first time. It is estimated that 25,000 will have arrived to-night.

Afraid the Business Would Suffer.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 24.—Postmaster Lewis has withdrawn from partnership in the Atlanta Rubber Company of which he was president. His partners suggested his retirement, on the ground that the notoriety incurred by the postoffice trouble over the appointment of a negro clerk might injure the company's business.

Captured After a Long Hunt.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 24.—James Sloan and James Kilroy, who are accused of a number of thefts along the river front, near Bordentown, and who for months have defied the efforts of the Bordentown police, were captured yesterday.

Figures of capital, on the basis of the latest available estimates, are as follows:

I. EUROPE.	Date of Estimate.	Capital per mile.
Germany	1888	$97,000
Austria	1886	97,000
Great Britain and Ireland	1887	204,000
France	1855	127,000

Queensland	1886	31,000
New Zealand	1888	36,000
Estimated average for non-European countries		$49,000

Multiplying these figures by the mileage in and out of Europe, respectively, we have the invested capital of railroads in Europe, amounting in round numbers to $14,500,000,000, while that of the rest of the world amounts to something over the sum of $12,000,000,000.

He Knew the Owner.

The late Judge Walker, of Aurora, Ind., was, it is said, the personification of pomposity. He was proud of himself, of his family, and of all his possessions. Illustrative of this trait of character, a story is told of the old Judge. Shortly before his death he built a splendid mansion on the high hill back of Aurora. Judge Walker was inordinately proud of this house, which could be seen for miles up and down the river. One day he was returning home by steamer from Cincinnati. Judge Walker no sooner caught sight of his residence than his whole attention was fixed upon it. He wondered if every one else appreciated the beauty and striking location of the house. Finally he walked up to a stranger and said: "I beg pardon, but—ah—can you tell me who is the owner of that—ah—palatial and beautiful mansion on the hill?" "Yes, sir," replied the stranger, promptly. "That old barn belongs to Judge Walker, the biggest fool in Indiana, although he thinks himself a sage." The Judge's curiosity was entirely satisfied.

Eating Raw Fish in Japan.

A correspondent who dined in Japan describes vividly the sensation produced by eating raw fish: "The whole fish was there, his head and shining blue eyes, his tail and fins, but at a touch the shape came apart and lay in thin slices upon the bones, a miracle of the carver's art. I took a chopstickful. The first taste of caviare and onions is an event in a lifetime; the unknown olive and pungent garlic have made episodes in every career, but to close the jaws on a slice of cold, raw fish and have the clammy, rubber-like flesh quiver and slip under the teeth has a horror peculiarly its own. The sense of its being something lately dead, something corpsey, is sickening. One slice filled me almost to overflowing and I confined myself to the garnish."

A Cat Commits Suicide.

A tabby cat belonging to the family of David B. Paul, of Wallingford, Pa., is reported to have committed suicide while grieving over the loss of her family of five kittens that had been drowned in order to keep down the cat population. When the old cat missed her offspring she went tearing over the house, showing her great distress by loud mewing. Failing to find the kittens after a long search she went up to the third story and deliberately jumped out on the porch roof below. When picked up old tabby was dead, her neck being broken in the fall.

"FIGURES WON'T LIE."

A Jerseyman Anxious to Find the Man That Made That Claim.

"I'm lookin' for the fellow that started the story that figures won't lie," said a red-faced man with dust all over his boots and a loud-smelling cigar-stump in one corner of his mouth, to a New York Sun reporter. "I'm from Oniontown, N. J., and I'm jest more than lookin' for that man. If any body knows him and ken p'int him out to me I'll make it worth their while to do it. Only jest show him to me once, that's all! He'll be the ruination of this country yit, if somebody don't ketch him and shake him out of his boots, and I want to be the man to do it!

"'Tain't no way likely that you ever seen that farm o' mine up back of Oniontown, a couple o' mile, but that don't make no difference. I use to raise quite a little rye on that farm, but it wasn't a very rapid way to coin money, and one day a year ago I got to thinkin' and to figgerin'. The way of it was this: I had druv into Oniontown and sold a load o' rye. Rye wasn't rulin' very high in the market jest then, and all I got a bushel for my load was thirty cents. After I got my money for it I dropped into Johnny Robinson's Onionville saloon to take the chaff out o' my throat before I went home. Bill Glass and Jake Barr was in the place, and I asked 'em both up to have somethin'. We all took a little o' the old stuff. The bill was thirty cents, and I paid it and went out. A solemn-lookin' chap that was holdin' down a chair in the place follered me out.

"'It's kind o' queer,' says he in a bass voice, 'that it takes jest a bushel o' rye in the bulk to pay fer less'n half o' pint of its juice, haint it?' he says.

"That idee struck me like a swat on the jaw. I hadn't never looked at it that way.

"'I'll be jigged if that hain't so, stranger,' says I, after a spell.

"'Yes,' says he, deeper on his bass than ever, 'and that hain't the hull of it,' he says. 'Figgers won't lie, and they tell a curious story on this subject. You plow,' he says, 'and you sow and you reap, and you drag your rye to market by the sweat o' your brow,' he says, 'and you sell it for thirty cents a bushel. Jest look at it for a minute, and remember that figures won't lie. Foller a bushel o' your rye,' he says. 'The all-absorbin' distiller takes it. He drains out o' that bushel o' rye jest four gallon of raw whisky. Some says he gits a leetle more'n that, but four gallons is nigh enough. What does it cost him to git that four gallons o' whisky out o' your bushel o' rye? It costs him jest 40 cents a gallon, or $1.60 for the four. These is plain figgers, and figgers won't lie,' says this solemn man with the bass voice. 'There you are,' he says, 'your bushel o' rye stands the distiller in jest $1.90 up to date. Then he has to fork out 90 cents for each one o' them four gallons o' whisky to pay the Gover'ment tax, and plain figgers shows you that this makes $3.60 that has to be added to the $1.90, and there's your bushel o' rye, representin' a cost of $5.50, and 30 cents of it was yours,' says the solemn man.

"'Now,' he says, 'jest look a leetle further. Your bushel o' rye is handed to the jobber, and the jobber hands it to the wholesaler, and the wholesaler hands it to the retailer, and by the time it is ready for the retailer to hand over to you and to me, perhaps, its four gallons has swelled up to be eight gallons sure, for it has been figgered out, and figgers won't lie. Your bushel o' rye has cost the retailer $12, and you got 30 cents for it, after all your plowin' and sowin' and reapin'. Do you know how many drinks there is in a gallon o' whisky?' says the solemn man. 'I do,' he says. 'There's sixty, so figgers says, and figgers won't lie. Sixty drinks to the gallon makes 480 drinks in your bushel o' rye. Ten cents a drink hain't any too big a price to set on 'em. Consequently the retailer gets $48 for your bushel o' rye. It cost him $12. Figgers says, and they won't lie, that he makes jest $36 clean profit on the bushel o' rye that you got 30 cents for. Will you keep on raisin' rye to dump into this awful maw of the devilish rum power till it rolls in silver and gold and fine linen and grinds you into the dust,' says the solemn man, 'or will you rise up like a sirocco and sweep it from the land?' says he.

"I didn't say which I'd do, but I went home a thinkin' bard, and the upshot of it was that I made up my mind to quit raisin' rye.

"'This rum power don't git no more rye o' me for 30 cents a bushel,' I says, 'but I won't raise up like a sirocco and sweep it from the land. I'll join it myself,' I says, 'and let somebody else sell rye in bulk for 30 cents while I sell its juice for $48. Figgers won't lie, and that's what they say ken be did, as plain as twice two is four.'

"So I sold my farm and bought Johnny Robinson's Onionville saloon, and settled down to clear up $36 on every bushel o' rye I sold. That was six months ago. I sold a good many bushels in that time, and figgered and proved my figgers every night, and found that they come out on paper just as the solemn man had said, but somehow the cash on hand didn't tally up with the figgers. T'other day I was figgerin' away and a stranger come in and looked at me a spell.

"'Stranger,' I says, 'what do you think o' figgers? Do you think they'll lie?'

"'These figgers won't,' he says, takin' a paper outen his pocket. 'These figgers say that Jake Popham has got $48.92 agin you for the last order he filled ye for old rye. I'm the sheriff, and I want the money or the shebang.'

"Well, the sheriff has got the shebang and now all I want is to find the man who started the story that figgers won't lie, and I've got enough left to make it worth while for any one to show him to me."

A Cure for Hydrophobia.

In our search for a cure for hydrophobia why does no one think of seeking the McGovern family in County Cavan, who have kept the secret of one for nearly three hundred years? It is, of course, impossible to tell what the cure is, for it is confined to the breast of one man, says the London Hospital. The father on his death bed confides it to his son, and so it goes down. All that is generally known is that the patient is treated with a broth of herbs, which is said to be far from appetizing. These herbs are gathered in the early dawn, but whether some mystic virtue lies in the hour they are culled, or whether it is done only to keep off prying eyes, no one can tell. The fact remains that many people who have been bitten by rabid dogs, and not merely dread hydrophobia, but are in foaming convulsions from it, have been cured by the McGovern treatment. Myth and exaggeration may have gathered around it, but even so, is it not worthy to engage the attention of our scientists?

A Hanging Road in Switzerland.

The cantonal authorities of the districts around Mount Pilatus, Switzerland, have under consideration a proposal for the construction of a novel kind of road which has been submitted to them through the Central Government at Berne. This road would connect the so-called Oberhaupt, or highest point of Pilatus, with the Klimsenhorn. The object is to make the ascent of the mountain easier on the northern side and to shorten the ascent for tourists coming from Hergiswyl. The difference in level between the two points is set down at 194 meters, the distance between them at 465 meters. The road apparatus would consist of six wire cables, quite independent of one another, on which six light pulley wheels will move, and from these wheels a small omnibus capable of carrying eight persons will hang. The omnibus will be drawn by a rope attached to a steam engine to be placed on the Oberhaupt.

ANOTHER FATAL DAM

A Reservoir Gives Way in a Rhode Island Town.

TWO WOMEN AND A BOY LOST.

Thirty-five Million Gallons of Water Let Loose Without Warning.

A Panic Among the People, but Little Destruction to Property—The Water Subsides as Rapidly as it Came—It Was Built Like the South Fork Dam at Johnstown. A Man Risks His Life to Save a Cow—Discovering the Leak.

PROVIDENCE. R. I., Aug. 26.—The Spring Lake reservoir near Fiskville in the southwest corner of Cranston, about fifteen miles from this city, which supplies a number of mill villages along the Pawtuxet River. burst yesterday afternoon.

Three persons were drowned and some damage done to property.

A man named Yeaw, who was about a quarter of a mile off noticed the water coming through the masonry of the dam, as he describes it, in a stream about as big as a barrel. The hole was apparently growing very rapidly.

The only living object in sight was a cow, a few hundred feet across the fields, which Yeaw succeeded in rescuing although the water was up to his neck. Meanwhile down the valley were Mrs. Greene Tew, aged 50, a Mrs. Hawkins, aged 90, and Mrs. Tew's son. They were walking through a strip of wood and overtaken by the flood and drowned. Their bodies were found in the wood through which the water quickly ran until it emptied into the Pawtuxet river.

The river rose rapidly and caused considerable alarm among people along its banks, who thought that the Ponegansett reservoir, the biggest in the State, had gone. Many of them left their houses and fled, but the flood subsided as rapidly as it had come.

The path of the water from the reservoir was through a thinly settled country and the only damage done to property was the wrecking of a stable belonging to Russell Matthewson, the capsizing of Dr. E. K. Clarke's carriage shop, and the demolition of three road bridges.

The dam was built in 1877 for the service of the Pawtuxet Valley Company, redeeming a small swamping pond locally known as Spruce Lake. The reservoir covered 18 acres and contained about 35,000,000 gallons of water.

The cause of the bursting of the dam is believed to be a spring that existed under the middle of the dam which undermined it.

Earl Dodge, 9 years old, was with the party that was overtaken and drowned. He escaped with slight bruises by clinging to a tree.

IN THE RAPIDS.

Graham's Terrible Trip Down the Niagara Whirlpool.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 26.—Carlisle D. Graham made his fourth trip through the Whirlpool Rapids at 4:10 p. m. yesterday.

The barrel with which he made the trip had two bags of sand inside weighing thirty pounds, and attached to the bottom were two pieces of railroad iron, weighing seventy-five pounds. The weights kept the barrel nearly straight.

The trip was a success, but on being taken out of the barrel he said: "I never was so glad to get out of a place in my life."

He said it was the worst trip he had ever made. There was about a foot of water in the barrel, and he was afraid to lift the man-cover for fear he would ship enough to sink it. Some slight bruises, with a general soreness, are the only bad effects.

EXCITED BOULANGISTS.

A Stormy Meeting of the General's Partisans Held in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—M. Laguerre, the Boulangist Deputy, presided at a stormy meeting of his partisans here yesterday, called for the purpose of selecting candidates to run at the approaching elections for members of the lower House.

In his speech M. Laguerre declared that though he was a personal friend to General Boulanger, he was not prepared to follow him blindly. He desired the triumph of the ideas which Boulanger advocates and was prepared to adopt any plan which promised that result without concerning himself for the fortunes of any individual.

These remarks were not kindly received. Quarrels arose at once which ended in such disorder that the meeting finally dispersed without selecting candidates.

The Dempsey—La Blanche Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The fight between Dempsey and La Blanche will come off in this city to-morrow night. There is great excitement over the "mill." Dempsey is a big favorite.

Eighteen Cows Burned in a Barn.

WEST ANDOVER, Mass., Aug. 26.—The house and barn of Edward Luscomb were burned yesterday. In the barn were 18 cows and a horse which were burned. Loss $5,000.

SUNDAY BALL PLAYING.

The Brooklyn and Cincinnati Teams Arrested and Fined.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—The Cincinnati and Brooklyn teams started to play a game at Hamilton, O., twenty-five miles from this city, yesterday afternoon, about 5,000 people being present. At the end of the first half of the fourth inning eighteen policemen marched on the field and arrested the players of both teams.

The Mayor of Hamilton at once opened court and each of the men was fined $8.35. The Cincinnati club paid the fine of both teams and the players and excursionists then returned to Cincinnati.

There were between forty and fifty cars of Cincinnati people on the grounds. The score when the game was stopped stood four to two in favor of Brooklyn.

OPPOSED TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A Catholic Priest of Pittsburg Gives His Parishioners Imperative Orders.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—Rev. Father Corcoran, pastor of St. Agnes Church, delivered a special sermon yesterday on the subject of parochial schools. In the course of his remarks Father Corcoran said he would not hereafter gaont absolution to parents who permitted their children to attend the public schools.

Explaining, he said, that the recent council of bishops at Baltimore had ordered that the children of Catholic parents should not be permitted to attend the public schools unless by special permit from the bishop of the diocese.

Secretary Halford Will Stop It.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 26.—A telegram from Washington says it is reported there that E. W. Halford, the President's private secretary, has begun suit against a firm of cigarette manufacturers to prevent the use of his daughter's photograph in cigarette packages. It is said that photographs of the young lady have already been sent out by some cigarette manufacturers, but none of them have made their appearance in this city.

Burglar Hope in the Tombs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Jimmy Hope, the famous bank robber, was taken today from Police Headquarters to the District-Attorney's office where a commitment was made out on which he was locked up in the Tombs. On the first Monday in September he will be taken to the General Sessions to answer to several indictments against him. His arrest was affected on warrants issued by the District-Attorney.

Sunday at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 26.—Rev. Mr. Alsop, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., preached in the chapel in the hotel grounds yesterday. Among the worshippers were President and Mrs. Harrison. The President took a walk and spent the greater part of the afternoon on the cottage piazza.

Found a Box of Gold in Jersey.

ELIZABETH, N.J., Aug. 26.—While gunning on the meadows near Tremley, Wm. Dackerman, of this place, discovered a box about ten inches square lying in the mud. Upon opening it he found the casket filled with gold coin of various nationalities. The money was much rusted, and had evidently been hidden there for a long time.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S FUTURE.

To Be Kept for the Present in Solitary Confinement in a County Jail.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—For the next nine months Mrs. Maybrick will be kept on probation in solitary confinement in some county jail, probably where she is now. No one will be allowed to see her during that time, nor any letters to reach her. She will be kept continully employed at such work as she can do in a cell.

After her term of probation expires she will be drafted to one of the female convict prisons, though in what part of England no one will know till the moment comes to remove her. If she has been good during the probation she will be allowed one letter and one visitor each year till by further good conduct she earns three letters and three visitors each year.

These rules are rigidly and inflexibly carried out in England. She may be removed from one prison to another. The chances are that in twenty years she will be a free woman again.

Last Week of Parliament.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Parliament will be prorogued next Saturday, and the Troy leaders are already engaging their best speakers for vigorous efforts during the coming recess in the London constituencies.

Boulanger Suspended.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Council of the Legion of Honor has suspended General Boulanger as a member of the Legion and the police have removed the General's effigy from the Muses Grevin.

Striking Dock Laborers Still Firm.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The striking dock laborers held a meeting yesterday in Hyde Park. Speeches were made, and resolutions in favor of continuing the strike were adopted.

Another Rumor About the Pope.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The "Chronicle" this morning has a special from Rome asserting that preparations are being made for the departure of the Pope.

TORIES TALK FIGHT

They Think the British Flag Has Been Insulted.

LORD SALISBURY TOO LENIENT.

He Should Demand Reprisals for the Seizure of Canadian Sealers.

They are Disgusted With the Government's Milk and Water Policy Toward the United States—The British Press Thinks Secretary Blaine is Unfriendly to England—The Rush Continues Seizing Canadian Vessels.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Tories are making loud demands on Lord Salisbury for reprisals against the United States for the seizure of Canadian sealers in Behring Sea. They want to know what's the use of having a great big navy if it isn't to be used when the British flag is insulted.

Some of the staunchest supporters of the Government hitherto are loudest in their denunciation of what they call Lord Salisbury's milk and water policy toward the United States.

It is not likely, however, that the Cabinet will allow themselves to be influenced by this pressure from their own supporters, strong as it is.

Criticising Mr. Blaine's Policy.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The "Daily News," commenting on the latest Behring Sea seizures, says Mr. Blaine is in a manner committed to a policy of unfriendliness toward England. There are many signs, however. that in the present dispute he has to reckon with his own countrymen as well as with Englishmen.

A Lively Chase.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 26.—The schooner Sapphire, whose owner is the American Vice-Consul here, has arrived with 1,600 skins. Captain Cox reported: "On July 27th we sighted the Rush. We put away under full sail. The chase lasted five hours. The Rush then gave up, the Sapphire sailing splendidly in a fine wind. We had 1,300 skins at the time." There is great jubilation here over the escape of the valuable cargo The Sapphire spoke several schooners. All reported being boarded by the Rush, examined casually and let go again. There is no sign of the Minnie or Pathfinder yet.

The Damages Settled.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 26.—The Department of Justice here has received a check for $2,000 from the owners of the Gloucester fishing schooner Mattie Winship, and also the amount of the expenses incurred in connection with the seizures. The Government's decision having thereby been accepted, all proceedings against the vessel will be dropped.

No Action Since Bayard Went Out.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Acting Secretary Wharton, speaking of the Behring Sea troubles to-day, said that the State Department has had no communication with the British Government on that question since Mr. Bayard was Secretary of State, and that the matter stands exactly as it did when he left the department.

Canadians Still Raving.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 26.—It has leaked out here that an effort is on foot to hold an indignation meeting in Montreal of the business men and politicians of Quebec to formally demand of the Ottawa Government that some action be immediatly taken against the United States over the Behring Sea trouble.

HANGED THE WRONG MAN.

The Real Murderer Makes a Confession on His Dying Bed.

MEXICO, Mo., Aug. 26.—Perry Thrall, who died yesterday at Macon, Mo., confessed just before his death to committing the crime for which another suffered the death penalty.

In 1864 William Vanderventer and wife were murdered in their house a few miles from here. Bill Duly, a colored man, was arrested, tried, convicted and hanged for the crime at Paris. Mo., a few months after the tragedy.

Thrall on his deathbed made the confession of having committed the crime.

Maine's Quarries Booming.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 26.—Every granite quarry on the coast is being operated to its fullest extent, heavy orders for building stone and paving having been received. All indications point to the largest output of slate in Piscataquis County since the business was established.

The Great Granger Meeting.

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 26.—The annual exhibition of the Grangers of the United States opened to-day at Williams Grove, near this city, to continue during the entire week. The exhibit far surpasses anything ever witnessed before on this continent.

Found His Mother Dead.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Foster, of this place, was found dead in bed at her home by her son Robert yesterday. She weighed 300 pounds and was famous as the heaviest woman in Bergen county. She was 70 years old and leaves four children.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—One week from today, Monday, September 2, will be Labor Day.

—The Union County Freeholders will meet again at Elizabeth, to-morrow.

—The Smith family re-union takes place at Peapack on Wednesday of this week.

—The State Firemen's convention is to be held at Freehold, on the last Wednesday in September.

—Straw rides with dancing and a supper as special features are being indulged in by the country people.

—The reunion of the Fifteenth regiment New Jersey Volunteers will be held at Lambertville, on Thursday of next week.

—Parties should remember that all insectivorous birds are protected by law, and that there is a heavy fine for shooting them.

—A farmer named Lawson living near the Green Brook tanks was robbed of 125 chickens within the past few weeks, by tramps.

—There were but two events on the racing card of the gentlemen's Driving Park Association, on Saturday, on account of the heavy condition of the track.

—From the general appearance of the hickory nut trees the crop of shelbarks this year promises to be a large one, the trees everywhere being bending full.

—No admission will be charged to the ball game between the fat and lean men on the Crescents' grounds, Wednesday afternoon. There will be lots of fun.

—The new plate glass which is to take the place of the one accidentally broken in the City National Bank building, a few evenings since, arrived today, and will be put in position at once.

—The regular monthly meeting of the shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held in Cutter's Hall this evening, at 7:30 o'clock, for the payment of dues, etc.

—It is argued in Union county, and with some reason, that it would be a vast saving to the people to compel the prisoners in the jail to improve the county roads instead of paying out money for that purpose.

—Ground is being broken at Roselle for the erection of a handsome and commodious hotel, which, when completed, will be known as the "Van Court Inn." A gentleman by the name of Van Court is the builder.

—The Central Railroad Company is cutting a driveway through the park just west of the station in this city, for the accommodation of express wagons and other vehicles, so that they may hereafter be driven close to the track.

—The Summit Record says: "A continuation of Division avenue from its junction with Stony Hill road, over the mountain to connect with the Scotch Plains and Plainfield roads and so Southerly to Westfield, would be a desirable and very convenient improvement."

—The Presbyterian church at Dunellen, will re-open for public worship, with Communion service on Sunday next. Rev. Mr. Skellinger, the pastor will officiate. The church has been handsomely papered throughout by Mr. Edward Love of this city, and presents a neat appearance.

—The members of the labor organization in this city will doubtless attend the Knights of Labor picnic at Newark, on Monday next, Labor Day. General Master Workman, G. V. Powderly, will deliver an address on "Eight hours a day; ballot reform, and union labeled goods."

—What particular delight people find in keeping dirty, mangy, yelping, barking, worthless curs about their homes is a mystery to us. The curs disturb the rest of the neighbors, they run after and scare horses, growl at, bite and frighten children and women and are a needless nuisance.

—The Somerset county farmers are going to hold a big barbecue on the 29th in celebration of the enormous crops harvested this Fall. It will take place at Neshanic, and speeches will be made by ex-Governor Abbett, Senator McPherson, Miles Ross, Congressman McAdoo and others.

—The Canton Wrought Iron Bridge company, of Canton, Ohio, of which Mr. Richard Merritt of this city is the representative, was awarded the contracts today, by the joint committees of the Union and Somerset County Freeholders, for building the new iron truss bridges at Richmond and at Water streets.

WE ARE THE PEOPLE.

The Winthrops and Their Thousand Dollar Battery Never Reach the Plate.

When Umpire Keller called game, last Saturday afternoon, the odds were two to one on the Winthrops, with no takers. Every one of the 500 admirers of the Crescents present, however, trusted that the home team would be able to stop this side of oblivion.

It was with reason expected that the renowned Curries would mow the Plainfield batters down like Autumn leaves before November's gales. That the Winthrops would win was expected, and that the Crescents would get a run was hoped, but that the result would be as the game eventually ended, was beyond the wildest dreams of the Crescents—or the Winthrops.

The shoe was on the other foot. The chilly gales struck the visitors and froze them out. They had nothing to complain of but the score—the Umpire was entirely satisfactory, they said, and they were cordially entertained—but it was hard after a season of only two losses to be shut out for the first time in their existence. They did not go home until after dark.

The way the Crescents pounded Currie's speedy shoots, proved they are the people at the bat, too—except when they face their hoodoo, Mr. Harkins. But the curves of that mirthful mute, Mr. Gately, were too much for the Winthrops. You never hear Patrick J. say a word about himself, but he's a mighty stem-winder just the same.

O'Rourke was in Bowes' place behind the bat, and he filled it, barring his first throw to second, well. But such an infield as backed the Crescent battery up, was never seen before in Plainfield. It was perfection. Condon, Bowman, Lee and Cadmus were a quartette of cannibals, who for an hour and forty minutes chewed up hits as though they were bits of tutti-frutti.

Saturday's game was the most satisfactory contest the city has ever witnessed. It was almost an errorless game, and the unexpected result of course added to the crowd's gratification. Only one Winthrop reached third base and only two got to second, while the Crescents were unable to steal a single bag off that remarkably fine catcher, W. Currie.

The first runs of the game were brought in by McMurray, who lined out a two-bagger when Gately and Lee were on the bases. It was a beautiful hit at just the time when it was needed and just when it began to look as if runs were impossibilities. A shout went out from the smokers' stand—"What's the matter with McMurray?" and the crowd waved the answer back till Hayden almost heard it—"He's all right."

In the "lucky seventh" that the Winthrops said would give them the lead, Daly, W. Currie and Steinert went out in one, two, three order on little hits to short stop, pitcher and second base. But with the Crescents it was different.

Cadmus went to first on a safe one, and Hayden followed him after being hit by a Currie inshoot. McLaughlin then fell into the succotash on three strikes for the third time, and Gately flew out to J. Currie. Lee had made one two-bagger, so he was given his first on balls, and the bases were filled, with two out and no runs.

McMurray went to the bat next, and again Currie was afraid to let the striker reach the ball. Remembering the two runs that Mack had before brought in, the Winthrop's twirler thought it best to also give him his first on balls and thus force in only one run. Thus the bases were still full when Bowman stepped up, and made a sweep at the first ball that was pitched him. When that ball dropped again it was in among the carriages in deep centre field, and by the time Martine had thrown it in the bases were cleared.

The score was as follows:

Dangerous Trifling.

It is not only foolish, but dangerous, to trifle with indigestion or liver derangement. Take the proper remedy as soon as possible, and avoid all danger incident to delay. HAMBURG FIGS are a specific for these affections. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

AT THE NETHERWOOD.

Another Lotto Party—Coming Events of the Fall Season.

Another charming event of the season at this delightful Summer resort was added to the list of entertainments on Friday evening last. A lotto party had been duly announced for that evening. The prizes for this occasion were purchased and donated by the lady guests of the Hotel. The exquisite taste displayed by the committee of ladies delegated to purchase the prizes, received the warm commendation of the happy winners. About thirty prizes were distributed during the evening.

Other delightful entertainments are listed of which due record will be given. About 175 visitors are sojourning here. September now near at hand will largely increase the number, and with the assurance of our worthy host, Mr. F. E. Miller, that everything will be done on his part to promote the happiness and comfort of his patrons, I may safely state in conclusion that the season of '89 will be long and pleasantly remembered by the guests of the Hotel Netherwood.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Capt. and Mrs. Geo. M. Phillips arrived home from Europe, today.

Miss Jennie Walker, of Worcester, Mass., is visiting relatives in this city.

Mr. W. C. Brock, of this city, was last week granted a patent for a gauge knife.

Miss Julia Seemann of Albany, N. Y., spent Sunday with friends on East Third street.

Mrs. D. C. Bird and two daughters, of North avenue, are visiting relatives in Chatham, N. J.

—An interesting meeting may be expected at the Y. M. C. A., to-night. Every man welcome.

Miss Ada M. Seltzer, of East Front street, will spend the coming few weeks at Mauch Chunck, Pa.

Messrs Greenleaf Voorhees and Louis Wright, two former Plainfielders, spent yesterday in this city.

Mr. A. Saltzman is confined to his home on Central avenue, suffering from the effects of a heavy cold.

Mr. Fred. S. Green and family, of Central avenue, have returned from a short visit to Brooklyn, N. Y.

Messrs John P. Munn, Duncan Morgan and Dean Ryder are camping at Silver Lake, Pike county, Pa.

The condition of Mr. Thos. Clacy, who had his left hand amputated a few days ago, is today reported favorable.

Mr. Wm. T. Newman, with his sister, Miss Grace DeForest started this morning on a visit to friends in Newburgh, N.Y.

The Misses Ida and Clara Williams of Madison avenue have returned home from the Seaside Sanitarium, Asbury Park.

Commodore George P. Dupee, and family, of Washington Park, returned on Saturday after spending five weeks in the Adirondacks.

It is understood that the daughter of a prosperous West Front street merchant will soon be led to the altar by a young man who contemplates engaging in business here.

Officer Geo. W. Grant has been spending a few days at Tom's River. During his stay there he experienced some fine weak fishing, which, together with yachting, made up a very pleasant programme.

Patrick Harding, aged 45 years, brother of John Harding, of South Second street, died at his home in New York last night. He was a prominent member of the G. A. R., and highly esteemed by a host of friends and associates.

The Plainfield people now staying at Dingman's Ferry, Pa., include Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Moon, and Mr. Frederick Moon, Jr., Miss Leonie Martin, and Miss Mary Fritts, of Park avenue, Mr. Wm. Runyon, of Sixth street, and Mr. George Stevens of Evons.

The large congregation at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning, were thoroughly gratified and delighted by the sermon of the Rev. Charles E. Dunn, of Albany. At the close of the services, the subject of general conversation was the talent and ability of the young preacher.

Among the Plainfielders who arrived home from "The Kernwood," Asbury Park, today are: Mrs. A. G. Hooley, child and nurse, Miss Balen, the Misses Gussie and Alice Holmes, Miss Bessie Cornwell, Miss Florence Titsworth, Miss Mabel Maxson, Miss Lizzie Laing, and Messrs Chas. Stover and William Monfort.

THE PRESS received a postal this morning mailed on August 15 from the highest post office in the World—the Eiffel Tower at Paris, 1,000 feet high. The card was from Mr. F. G. Neighbor, of this city, who has been doing Europe with his brother-in-law, Mr. Erwin Young. They sailed for home on the City of Paris, last Wednesday.

The Rev. J. Judson Pierson, pastor of the Baptist church at Woodbury, N. J., preached in Dr. Yerkes church last night. His subject was: "Pure Religion—Unspotted from the World," as found in the 27th verse of the Epistle of St. James. His sermon showed careful preparation, and the lesson drawn was one of profit to all who listened to his discourse. The Rev. Mr. Pierson was a member of Dr. Yerkes' church before he went into the ministry.

A BIG MEETING.

President French and Miss Ferris Speak for Temperance.

There was a grand demonstration in Reform Hall last evening, the audience room being nearly full. The presiding officer's chair was filled by Vice President Harper, Mr. Cleaver conducted the devotional services, and Mr. Vanderbeek's full choir rendered the best of music. On the platform, in company with Miss Ferris, were seated several lady champions of temperance—namely: Mrs. G. F. Opdyke, Mrs. P. M. French, Mrs. J. B. Cleaver, Mrs. G. M. Angleman and Mrs. G. W. F. Randolph.

The first speaker was President John H. French, who earnestly advocated the signing of the pledge as a duty incumbent upon all, and especially the young men. Mr. French acknowledged his own personal lack of fidelity in the face of temptation, but avowed his renewed allegiance to total abstinence, and that he would stand by the Reform Club as a noble institution and with increased zeal labor on behalf of the good cause it represents.

Following Mr. French, the Vice President introduced Miss Kitty Ferris of New York, who recited in first-class style a production of the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage against high license. Miss Ferris was warmly received, her elocution being perfect and her manner very pleasing. The general wish was that she would appear again. Mr. Cleaver closed with a few appropriate remarks, and upon offering the pledge for signatures, several came forward and did as Mr. Cleaver had suggested—resolved herself and himself into "a prohibition party of one." With the benediction the large and interesting meeting terminated.

The Fats and the Leans.

The long talked of ball match between the fat men and the lean, is now announced positively for Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock on the LaGrande avenue grounds. The lean nine is still a secret, but it is rumored that either Condon or Doane will pitch. THE PRESS would suggest Mr. J. Burke as an umpire of ability and honesty.

The fat nine weighs a few pounds less than a ton. They will be brilliantly uniformed, and their names and weights are as follows:

	WEIGHT.
Keller, first base	225 lbs
Smith, short stop	245
Gaddis, left field	200
Russ, second base	215
Wilbur, right field	215
McMahon, third base	220
Lyman, centre field	190
Patton, pitcher	195
Custer, catcher	220
	1925

Substitutes—Andrews and Evans.

Don't Undertake the Impossible.

We publish elsewhere a letter from Mr. Bradley, the ruler of Prohibition Asbury Park, which proves he also can be the strongest of temperanee advocates without being a fool.

He knows that although under the severest no-license regulations probably in the World, yet liquor is sold extensively and almost openly in Asbury Park as it is in Plainfield.

So Mr. Bradley has come to the same conclusion as THE PRESS, that the sale of liquor is better restricted by the licensing of a few bars, than by its unlimited traffic in a hundred places.

As the Trenton True American says: "What the State needs, and what Mr. Bradley wants, is just such legislation as the Werts bill, which by not undertaking too much succeeds in doing what it undertakes."

Base Ball.

The "Stars" defeated the "Victors" on the East Front street grounds this morning by a score of 9 to 0. The score at the end of the seventh inning stood 9 to 9, but as the "Victors" refused to finish the game, it was awarded to the "Stars" by the umpire.

The "Young Crescents" were knocked out by the Chatham nine on the Crescent grounds this morning, to the tune of 22 to 9.

The Gun Club Tournament.

Many of the crack shots of the country will be present and take part in the fifth annual tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club, on the club's grounds at Dunellen, beginning on Tuesday, Oct. 8, and continuing for four days. $1,300 in cash is guaranteed.

—The residents at Netherwood complain of the tramp nuisance, and ask to have it abated.

—The Rodman Seminary, No. 25 East Fifth street, for young ladies and children will re-open on September 18.

—A street lamp is to be placed in front of Reynold's Pharmacy, at the corner of Park and North avenues, thereby adding to the street lighting facilities.

—The real estate office formerly occupied by Mr. E. Mulford, on North avenue, has been removed to a point about seventy-five yards east on that thoroughfare.

—The colored porter at one of the hotels in this city, imagined that he saw the "devil" last evening, and started on a run along West Front street, in the direction of Somerville.

Sleeplessness.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY is the best remedy known for insomonia, or sleeplessness, which afflicts so many persons, and which leads to so many serious nervous diseases, particularly to insanity. Descriptive treatise with each bottle; or address Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

WESTFIELD CAVES, APPARENTLY.

A Word or Two With an Esteemed Contemporary.

The Union County Standard, in a labored editorial republished in THE PRESS of Saturday, admits, substantially, our charge that Westfield is in the soup.

"It has a high grade of scholarship in the graduating class, last Summer" the editor says. Indeed! Who said anything to the contrary? What we referred to by the term "school facilities" was not intended to reflect on the talent of the youth of that town, nor their acquirements. Don't dodge the question, Mr. Editor of the Standard, but meet it squarely. We meant that Westfield has been a year or more trying to get a first class High School building; and that that effort has not yet materialized.

"A superior site has been selected," the editor of the Standard goes on to state. "Selected site" is evasive, unless it is meant that your district has purchased and is the proprietor of that "superior site." What are the facts, Mr. Editor? Does the School District own the "superior site," or is the title of that part of "Mount Ararat" still in Mr. Ripley? Who owns the plans of the new High School Building—School District No. 10 of Westfield, or Architect Teal of this city?

"The way to resume payment," said the sage of the New York Tribune, the late Horace Greeley, "is to resume." The way to get a "superior site" for a High School, is to purchase it. The way to get a school building like such building as we have in Plainfield, is to have the architect's plans executed by mechanics. That is the way we do in Plainfield, and then we do our blowing afterwards. "Put up or shut up" was the laconic utterance of the late, (now St.) John Morrissey.

We say this in all kindness, "good naturedly," as we are credited in the Standard with speaking before; and would add that our good friend the able editor of the Standard has done his part to promote the building and equipment of a first rate high school building in Westfield, and it is no fault of his that the thing has not been done. Westfield will probably heed the example of some of her neighbors, shortly, and go ahead and actually furnish "public school facilities." If it doesn't do something of the kind and pretty soon, worthy of itself, and of its "topographical" importance as claimed by the Standard, it will not lie in its mouth to claim that superiority it is so wont to claim.

CONVERTED TO HIGH LICENSE.

Mr. Bradley of Asbury Park, Arrives at the Same Conclusion as THE PRESS.

James A. Bradley, founder of Asbury Park, publishes a letter in a local paper Saturday in which occur some statements that have caused a sensation in tha stronghold of temperance. Mr. Bradley says:

"License to sell intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage is a relict of barbarism and excites my contempt, which contempt would be felt if I had almighty power; but as I am only a single individual making up a State of over a million population, the majority of whom will not concede anything higher than high license at the present time, I accept the best for the present. * * * As matters are now in the Park the fight is too big for your humble servant. Good men come to me and whisper that they think liquor is sold in certain places, and suggest that if any action is taken their names most not be mentioned; but beyond this very little help is afforded, and I am ashamed to say I believe if some fellow in Asbury Park had a $500 or a $1,000 license to sell rum he would give me more information and the kind of evidence that would convict the druggists than we now get from the easy-going temperance people of Asbury Park."

Assembly of Odd Fellows.

One of the grandest assemblages of Odd Fellows ever seen on this continent will be that which will be witnessed at Columbus, O., during the week beginning September 16. The Sovereign Grand Lodge will then be in session, and the Patriarchs' Militant. The uniformed portion of the order will be there in numbers estimated at from six to ten thousand. It is thought that the grand procession will contain 30,000 Odd Fellows in line. The order of Rebekahs will also be in session, and this meeting will attract many ladies. The drills of the uniformed divisions, for which prizes aggregating $7,000 will be offered, will be an important feature of the meeting. It is expected that several cities will make an effort to have the Sovereign Grand Lodge removed from Columbus.

To Test the Fire Law.

Mr. James C. Connolly, counsel for the Firemen's Relief Association, of Elizabeth, has instituted a suit against Eliza B. Middlebrook for building a wooden building inside the fire limits. The penalty attached to this is $50. The suit is brought in the district court for $200, and is to be made a test case in a movement of the association to punish all cases of violation.

A Decision by the Vice-Chancellor.

Vice-Chancellor Bird has decided that a parol declaration of trust of personal property is valid. If a transaction is equally capable of two constructions, one lawful and the other unlawful, the former will be adopted; especially as against a person who was a party to it equal in guilt with the other, and in seeking to gain an advantage by having it declared unlawful.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Called To-Day in Chicago, but Likely to be Postponed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Notwithstanding the prevalent impression that the trial of the prisoners charged with the Cronin murder will proceed to-day, there is not any probability that such will be the case. New evidence is coming to light constantly, and while it is clearly to the interest of the prisoners to go to trial without delay, it is as clearly to the interest of the people to postpone the case till all the evidence is in.

If one of the accused should ask for a postponement on the ground of lacking important witnesses, it will probably be granted, and Woodruff, the "confessor," will most likely feel moved to ask for such postponement, in which case the prosecuting attorney will most cheerfully acquiesce.

There are rumors of important discoveries to-day, but diligent inquiry fails to trace any of them to a trustworthy source. In fact, it is hinted that detectives are giving out false clews for the purpose of diverting attention from the real trail.

Martin Burke is the only "suspect" who now seems to be weakening; but if he has any intention of turning State's evidence he will not be encouraged. The prosecution does not need or care for any confession from him.

Dan Coughlin has braced up again and has the best appetite of any man in the jail. The only grievance of Kunze, the young German, is that he can't get his regular beer.

HAYTI'S WAR IS OVER.

Gen. Hippolyte's Forces Now Occupy Port-au-Prince.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The cablegram received by the Navy Department Saturday evening was the first official news of Hippolyte's victory in Hayti. It was from Admiral Gherardi and read as follows: "Legitime accepted terms offered. Embarked Thursday on board French Corvette. Not known where he will go. Hyppolite forces occupy town Friday morning. Fear riot. Have notified diplomatic corps. I will do all I can to prevent a riot. French and English captains will act under my orders. Very important that a new minister be sent immediately."

The U. S. S. Galena, now at New York, is under orders to sail for Hayti and she will depart this afternoon.

Minister Frederick Douglass, who has been waiting for a definite turn in Haytien affairs, will be instructed by the State Department and he will probably leave New York by an early mail steamer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Messrs. Kuhnhardt & Co. have received the following despatch from Port-au-Prince dated at Mole, St. Nicholas:

"Legitime embarked on the 23d. Montepointe entered 23d, Hyppolite 24th. No disorder."

This despatch indicates that Legitime has left the field to his rival Hippolyte.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 24.—A cablegram received in this city says:

"Legitime abdicated Thursday and embarked on a French gunboat."

Temporary government has been formed. The Northern or Hyppolite's army was to enter Port-au-Prince Friday.

The United States steamer Kearsarge has moved nearer the city. Admiral Gherardi is master of the situation.

Will His Appointment be Revoked.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Rumors were afloat last night and to-day that President Harrison had determined to revoke the appointment of Fred Douglass as Minister to Hayti and appoint a white man who would be more acceptable to Haytiens, both of the Hippolyte and Legitime factions.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

There were 796 deaths in New York city last week.

For Eastern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania: Fair; slight changes in temperature; variable winds.

For New Jersey: Fair; stationary temperature; variable winds.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair; slight changes in temperature; southeasterly winds.

DON'T CUT DOGS' TAILS.

A Ridiculous Theory That Encourages the Mutilation of Animals.

If we recollect rightly it is Hugh Daniel who tells of a time in Great Britain when dogs without tails were exempt from taxation; and so to chop off a dog's tail was to lop off with it one's tribute to the crown. That time, if it ever existed, is now as hazy as the reign of good King Womba, and in the degenerate present the most that can be said in defence of docking the tails of dogs and cropping their ears is that fashion calls for such mutilations. And the whims of fashion are quite as apt to be dictated by perverted tastes as by good sense. Witness the dock-tailed horses of our avenues and the villainous high check rein, both of them a reproach to humanity.

The practice of docking horses' tails, it is true, is not without defence on the ground of utility; veterinary surgeons there are who aver that to cut the tail off short is beneficial to the physical condition of the horse. Nor are the wanting advocates of docking dogs' for hygienic reasons. The notion entertained by many ignorant people, and stoutly enough defended, that a puppy's tail must be cut off because in the end of it is a worm, and this worm is the cause of distemper. Cut off the tail and thus remove the worm, say these sapient grannies, and the dog will never be ailing.

This "vulgar error" of the worm in the end of the dog's tail is widely prevalent, and thousands of puppies have sacrificed their brushes in consequence thereof. A similar superstition holds with respect to a mythical worm in the cow's tail, which must be cut out to insure the cow's good health. It is not difficult to understand that the white cords of the tail, in dog or cow, might have been mistaken by an ignorant person for worms, and that in this way the curious belief about their removal may have arisen. But the strange thing is that intelligent dog owners will accept this ridiculous theory of the worm in the tail, when propounded by ignorant individuals, whose opinion would be received on no other subject under heaven; and will countenance the mutiliations which are based on the silly superstition.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish a the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the breath material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

AFTER THE PENNANT

The Great Struggle on the Base-Ball Diamond Exciting.

HOT FIGHT FOR FIRST PLACE.

The New Yorks and Philadelphias Chasing Boston for the Position.

Only Six Weeks More of the Championship Contest Remains—The Boston Club Still Retains a Good Lead in the League Race. St. Louis Keeps to the Front in the Association With Brooklyn a Good Second. Scores of Yesterday's Games.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Gladiators of the baseball field are preparing for closing battles of the season on the diamond, which promises to be for blood. Only six weeks more of the championship struggle remains, but every game played during that period will be watched with the greatest interest. Each club is now working at its best with the hope of bettering its condition in the race and the contests of the tail enders are creating as much excitement in certain circles as those of the leaders.

But though the final struggles will not be fought until October there is sufficient time for the Bostons to relinquish their claim to their present lofty position to the New Yorks or Philadelphia, and to enable the St. Louis team to take a slide down the toboggan. Will such changes take place?

The advantage at present is in favor of the men from the Hub, but there may be many a slip between the ball and the pennant before the latter is given to the champions. If either the New Yorks or Philadelphias expect to be victorious they should no longer wait for the predicted downfall of the leaders, as it is not likely to occur, unless Clarkson is knocked out of the box.

A good opportunity will be offered to the New Yorks this week. By careful work they ought to defeat Washington three times and as the Bostons are calculated to fall before the Phillies at least twice in the meantime, this will help the former a little. The Boston's then come here for three games, if none of the postponed contests are played off, and exciting battles they will be. Should the New Yorks get two of these they will be once more on their rivals heels.

In the coming battles between the Western clubs here, Pittsburg, Chicago and Indianapolis promise to play greater ball than at any time this season. The Smoky City team, since placed in charge of Manager Hanlon, has done nobly and may be depended upon to continue, as it has evidently run the gauntlet of misfortune.

There is little to be said about the race for the Association championship. The hope that was revived in the hearts of the Brooklyn supporters when they again closed the gap somewhat on the Browns was knocked out when they met with such an awful defeat in Cincinnati on Thursday. Up to that date their fine playing had increased their chances of getting on the Browns' heels. Misfortune offset these bright prospects and a fall soon followed.

In the meantime the Baltimores and the Athletics are improving. The Southern team under Joe Hornung's captaincy, has done well. He looks carefully after the field work and the team has greatly improved in the general play on the bases and in the field.

KILRAIN NOT SATISFIED.

He Says He is Confident He Can Whip Sullivan If Given Another Chance.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—Kilrain in an interview, says: "I am anxious for another fight with Sullivan, and will challenge him if he will fight another ring fight. If I can arrange another fight with him we will go out West. No more fighting in Mississippi for me."

"Is there any truth in the report that you and Sullivan would make a tour of the country, giving sparring exhibitions?"

"None. No such proposition has ever been made to me. I'm thinking of getting up a company of first-class men myself and star through the country, but I have not yet decided what I will do. Of course, if I can get another chance at Sullivan I will not give any exhibitions. I am confident I can whip Sullivan if I can get anotner chance. I had not trained long enough before and was not well handled at the ring. He is no better fighter than I am if I am in proper condition."

Killed from Ambush.

YAZOO, CITY, Miss., Aug. 26.—Captain Sam Whitworth, who was recently acquitted at Greenville of the charge of murdering Ives and Alston, of the McCarthy's Brothers gang, who were killed during a fight with Whitworth and two friends, at Rising Sun a year ago, was shot dead from ambush while riding near Rising Sun last night. He had been advised not to return to the neighborhood, and it is supposed that the McCarthy faction were concerned in the murder.

Killed His Nurse.

WOBURN, Mass., Aug. 26.—Fred S. Nichols, living in Grove street, Winchester, while delirious from typhoid fever, got out of bed, procured a revolver from a bureau drawer and shot his nurse, a Miss Smith, through the heart, killing her instantly. Before he could be secured he fired two shots at his father, Stillman Nichol, without effect. Miss Smith was a trained nurse from Boston, who came yesterday to attend the patient.

The Kansas Republican Convention.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 25.—The platform adopted at the Republican Convention here indorses the administration of President Harrison and the Republican party's platform adopted at the last National Convention; opposes trusts; favors a protective tariff; favors equitable and liberal pensions, and favors the submission of a prohibition amendment; also favors Chicago as the proper location for the World's Fair.

Englishmen Now After Woolen Mills.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—A syndicate of English capitalists are negotiating for the purchase of the extensive woolen mills of James Lees & Sons, at Bridgeport. It is understood the syndicate will accede to the price named by the firm, which is said to be about $500,000. The mills employ about seven hundred hands.

The Game Won't Work.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—W. C. Harriman, who has surrendered to the police at Louisville, Ky., was an agent for an installment firm here. When he disappeared he owed the firm $200. It is supposed he has become "broke" and wants to get home, but the firm cares nothing about the case and no officer will be sent for him.

Botanist Shaw Dying.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—Henry Shaw of Botanical Garden fame and one of the oldest and wealthiest of St. Louis's citizens is dying at his residence in the Botanical Garden. Mr. Shaw is ninety years old. This month was the first he ever failed to personally pay off his hands. He tried to, but was too weak and gave up.

Massachusett's Democratic Convention.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—At the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee October 2 was fixed as the date, and Worcester as the place of the State Convention. Nathan Matthew, Jr., of Boston, will preside. The chairmanship of the committee on resolutions was not decided.

They Won't Work By the Week.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 26.—The employees of B. M. Kimball & Sons' large morocco finishing establishment are out on strike. They have been working by the piece and the firm wants them to work by the week, which they refuse to do.

New York Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The following named fourth-class postmasters are the latest appointments in New York State: Henry Skinner, Cambria; A. Poppleton, Dumbarton; F. O. Dorn, Garoga; C. S. Squires, Newburgh.

Held for French Officials.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—After a hearing United States Commissioner Osborn has held for extradition Paul Hairmont who was charged with complicity in the robbery of 163,000 francs from a Paris bank by a clerk named Noll.

Has Col. Fletcher Been Found Guilty?

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26.—It is reported here that the finding of the court martial in the case of Col. Fletcher has been forwarded to Washington. This is interpreted to mean that the findings are averse to the accused.

High License Organ for Iowa.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 26.—A new Republican weekly paper devoted to high license will be started here the first week in September by B. W. Blanchard. It will be the only anti-prohibition Republican paper in Iowa.

Sanger, the Circus Man Dead.

LONDON, Aug 25.—The death is announce of John Sanger the noted circus manager. He with his brother George were the proprietors of Sanger's Amphitheatre, formerly the famous "Astley's," in the Westminster Bridge road.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Its Doings as Reported by the Detroit Free Press Man.

Brother Gardner Explains Why He Changed His Mind Concerning Capital Punishment—Other Matters of Momentous Importance.

"I hold heah in my hand," said Brother Gardner, as the meeting opened, "a letter from Chicago inquirin' of dis club if it believes in hangin' fur murder. We used to so believe, but we doan' any mo'. We has cum to de conclusion dat it is very wrong to strangle a pusson to death simply because he happened to kill somebody. We believe dat a murderer should be softly arrested, locked up in the jail parlor until he kin be tried, and dat de verdict of de joory should be not guilty on account of self-defense or insanity. On leaving de court-room de prisoner should be given an ovation an' a wine supper, an at de next 'leckshun he should be given a fat offiis. Murder am all right. If you doan' like a man kill him off an' git him out of de way. If you git down on a fam'ly wipe 'em out wid de ax. Punishin' a murderer is all wrong, speshually hangin' him by de neck. If by some blunder de joory convicts, de jedge should make de sentence about six months in an orphan asylum. Dis would gin de murderer time for refleckshun, an' he'd probably be dun sorry dat he killed somebody.

"De seckretary will answer to de effeck dat dis club has undergone a change of opinyun, an' dat it no longer believes in hangin' fur murder. It held to dat opinyun fur ten y'ars, an' steadily lost friends. It has come to pass dat not one of de fo'ty or fifty murders walkin' around de State of Michigan will speak to a member of dis club, an' we feel dat a change of sentiment on our part is highly necessary. De status of dis club until fucher orders will be:

"1. De embezzler didn't mean to, and his victim orter to settle fur fifty cents on de dollah an' gin him a certificate of character.

"2. De highway robber an' burglar war' driben to it by stern necessity, an' instead of arrestin' 'em de police orter take up a contribushun for deir benefit.

"3. De murderer was temporarily insane, or he reckoned the victim was gwine to shoot fust, or he did it in his sleep, or he felt it his dooty towards society. In any event he should not be convicted.

"We will now attack de reg'lar order of bizness, an' Samuel Shin will please keep watch of de thermometer an' gauge de fiah in de stove to keep it at about 125 degrees."

WILL TAKE THE RISK.

Giveadam Jones said he arose in the interest of the 6,000,000 colored people of the United States. He had culled from the newspapers during the last two weeks no less than seven instances where watermelons had exploded and wrought more or less havoc, and in each instance they were in the hands of colored men. Had the time come when the watermelon was an element of danger to life and limb? Was it to descend into history along with the kerosene can and the Washington pie? If the time had come when a colored man walking homeward with a watermelon under his arm was liable to be driven through the sidewalk by an explosion, or a family group ran the risk of being blown through the roof of their cabin, then life had no further charms for him. He would move that a committee be appointed to investigate and report.

"I will appint as sich committee," replied the president, "Brudders Jones, Bebee an' Watkins, an' I will gin it as my personal opinyon dat in de mean time we had better take all risks an' keep right on devourin' de mellyons."

AN ABUSED FRUIT

Some time since the Seventeenth Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture requested that a committee of the Lime-Kiln Club investigate the cucumber, and report as to whether the general abuse heaped upon it was well founded or a mistake. The matter was referred to Colonel Timothy Sago, chairman of the committee on agriculture, and he now announced his readiness to report. His committee had traced the cucumber back to the year 1462, and had followed its progress to date. It had investigated the long green cucumber and the short sky-blue cucumber, and it had dissected all sizes and makes and varieties, and eaten them raw and served up. Over one hundred authorities had been consulted, and not one instance had been found where the cucumber had produced the least harm to any human being. Where cases of colic were alleged it had been found that the victim had devoured a dozen apples, drank a pint or more of ice water, ate a cocoanut or two and then topped off with a cucumber. Standing by itself it was as harmless as a June sunbeam, and it was fondly believed that rubbing the juice of the fruit over the soles of the feet would cure chilblains.

Brother Gardner thanked the committee for its zealous labors in behalf of a down-trodden product, and on motion of Sir Isaac Walpole it was resolved that the attention of the next legislature be called to the report.

A FALSE ALARM.

Judge Cahoots arose with the remark that he had the interests of ten thousand colored men at heart. He had been informed through reliable sources that the agent of the torpedo chicken had been working Detroit on the quiet for the last two weeks, and that he had disposed of some two hundred machines. He could not doubt that the report was true, and he felt it his duty to sound a note of warning before some calamity occurred.

"I call dat gem'len to order, sah!" exclaimed Rev. Penstock, as he bobbed up and interrupted the judge.

"State yer pint!" replied the president.

"Bekase, sah, it ar' an insult to dis club to intimate dat any of its members would steal chickens."

"Brudder Penstock, you allus fiah up red-hot at de name of chicken, an' you ar' allus wrong in yer argument. Instances hev bin known whar' cull'd men hev lifted chickens out o' white men's coops. You will find 'em recorded in standard history. I hev no doubt dat odder instances will also be known. While I doan' suppose dat any member of dis club would so far forgit himself as to steal chickens, de judge is wise in makin' his announcement. A Kentucky man has invented a torpedo in de form of a fat pullet. Seen on de roost in de dimness of night it can't be told from a living fowl. You reach up fur it, and dar am a puff! an' a bang! an' your hull hand is blown off. Your pint is decided to be badly tooken, an' de thanks of dis club ar' due to Jedge Cahoots."

The Pay of the Clergy.

The Methodist clergymen of the country are complaining of the small compensation they receive, and, apparently, with good reason, if, as is said in some cases, they reach scarcely over a hundred dollars a year. These are in the instances of elderly men, but that makes the hardship still worse. There is no class of men, says the Boston Herald, so poorly paid as are the country clergymen of the Protestant denominations of America, and no men are so little at liberty to better themselves by personal efforts outside their profession. It is a reproach to that active Christianity which has assumed to sustain our churches.

GEMS IN THE TREASURY.

Presents Sent to Our Government Officials by Foreign Sovereigns.

There are in the bond vault of the Treasury, says a Washington letter to the Cleveland Leader, a lot of diamonds and other precious articles which have a singular history. Indeed the facts relating to some of them seem scarcely to be known at all, and whatever is said about them is largely a matter of tradition. The value of the collection is estimated to be from $50,000 upward as high as you choose to go in figures. There is a bottle four or five inches long that is pretty well filled with diamonds and other precious stones; besides there are a number set in beautiful and costly gold ornaments intended for personal wear. All these things have been in the custody of the Treasury for a long time—some for more than fifty years.

Several of the most valuable were sent to President Van Buren in 1839 by the Maum of Muscat, a country of Asia, as a testimonial in recognition of some service to that country by the United States: just what it was nobody appears to know. They were sent as a personal gift to the President, but he could not accept them by reason of the clause in the constitution which forbids any person connected with the Government receiving any present or decoration from any foreign power or potentate. To return them would have been an insult to the royal giver, and what to do with them was a question that puzzled the presidential mind. They were finally turned over to the treasury, and there they remain unto this day. The entire collection has accumulated in a similar way. Other presents were sent to Government officials by kings and princes who had not read the constitution of the United States, and nothing could be done with them but to stow them away in the vault. They do not have any definite ownership and hold about the same relation to the government that unclaimed packages do to an express company. The treasury people have long been in a quandary what disposal to make of them. Two or three times in years past the attention of congress has been called to the matter, but no action has been taken, as none of the statesmen seemed to know what to do in the premises. It would be rather shabby to sell them and appropriate the proceeds and it is likely that these "gems of purest ray serene" will continue to lie in the dark recesses of the treasury vault. The man in charge of the bond-room told me the other day that he was going to make another effort to have Congress do something with them. He says they are "a nuisance" and he is tired of seeing them around.

THE WESTERN WAY.

A Tramp Explains Why It Never Did Agree with Him.

"There are some districts out West where the folks imagine they own the earth," said the tramp to a New York Sun man as he stretched himself out on the bench and covered his face with his old hat. "I struck such a district a few weeks ago, down in Indiana. I got into a county where signs were as plenty as thistles and every one of them read:

Tramps Beware! Six Months in Jail for Tramping!

"Those signs are often put up for a bluff, and I determined to hoof it right along. I hadn't gone five miles after seeing the first sign when I was overhauled by a constable and several farmers and rushed to jail in the nearest village. They left me there over night to be examined next day. There were two other prisoners—one for stealing and the other for assault and battery. They were down on the law, of course, and we had time to fix up a little plan. By trading clothes around I got to look quite respectable, and as both men had money they chipped in and made me up six dollars. Next morning when taken before the magistrate, I claimed to be on my way home to Indianapolis, and as I had money to pay my way he discharged me.

"Then I went for the parties who had arrested me. The constable was scared into fits, and he gave me a silver watch and $15 to settle. I got $20 each out of three of the farmers, and $15 apiece from the two others, making more money than I had ever had at any one time before in my life. I ought to have had sense enough to leave with my boodle, but I hadn't. I got drunk, was locked up again, and I'll be hanged if the two prisoners who had helped me out of the first scrape didn't steal and divide the money, change all the old duds back, and chuckle with satisfaction when I got thirty days for my offense. Can't depend on Western human nature, nohow. I've had a farmer invite me in to eat ice cream and blackberry pie, and then set three dogs on me as I thanked him and backed out. I prefer the East. An Eastern man is always up and down with you, and a farmer's wife will either give you the grand bounce on sight or do up your sore fingers, and set out a whole currant pie.

ANTS AT PLAY.

Curious Observations Made in Brazil by a Noted Naturalist.

Mr. Bates, in his "Naturalist on the Amazons," has much to say about a certain species of foraging ants. They travel in armies of countless thousands, and, as it were, drive every thing before them. The unlucky human pedestrian, according to our author, has nothing to do but "to run for it." They are of course very industrious, but Mr. Bates says:

Their life is not all work, for I frequently saw them very leisurely employed in a way that looked like recreation. When this happened, the place was always a sunny nook in the forest.

The main column of the army and the branch columns, at these times, were in their ordinary relative positions; but, instead of pressing forward eagerly, and plundering right and left they seemed to have been all smitten with a sudden fit of laziness. Some were waling slowly about, others were brushing their antennae with their forefeet; but the drollest sight was their cleaning one another.

Here and there an ant was seen stretching forth first one leg and then another, to be brushed or washed by one or more of its comrades, who performed the task by passing the limb between the jaws and the tongue, finishing by giving the antennae a friendly wipe.

It was a curious spectacle, and one calculated to increase one's amazement at the similarity between the actions of ants and the acts of beings whom we call "rational." They had the appearance of being simple indulgence in idle amusement.

Have these little creatures, then, an excess of energy beyond what is required for labors absolutely necessary to the welfare of their species, and do they thus expend it in mere sportiveness, like young lambs or kittens, or in idle whims, like "rational beings!" It is probable that these hours of relaxation and cleaning may be indispensable to the effective performance of their harder labors, but whilst looking at them the conclusion that they were engaged merely in play was irresistible.

Did They Mean It?

A Western paper prints the following singular card of thanks: Mr. and Mrs. Heayes hereby wish to express their thanks to the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted at the burning of their house last Monday evening.

Wounded By a Train-Robber

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 26.—Charles D. Chambers, an ex-convict, boarded a Pullman car here and endeavored to rob the passengers. He was resisted by the porter, Charles Stark, of Jersey City, whom he shot twice in the groin and leg. Stark's condition is serious. Chambers was captured by train-men.

Celebrating Founders' Day.

MILFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—This town will be 250 years old on Wednesday, and its people have made great preparations to celebrate the notable anniversary. The old settlement has donned holiday dress, and the citizens think of nothing but the celebration.

Immigration Decreasing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The report of the Bureau of Statistics, just completed, shows that for the seven months beginning August 1 the emigration from Europe to the United States was 269,176, as against 357,125 for the corresponding period last year. The only increase this this year is from the Netherlands.

Married Him in Jail.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 26.—Miss Catherine Mack of Rhode Hall and Charles Meyer of the same place were married in the jail yesterday by 'Squire Hayter. They were to have been married soon, when Meyer was arrested on a charge of assault. The girl wished to show her faith in her lover and insisted on the marriage taking place at once. Meyer was unable to secure bail.

An Old Delaware River Captain Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Capt. Henry Crawford, the oldest steamboat captain on the Delaware River, died yesterday of pneumonia and heart disease, aged 78.

Perfume for Ladies' Boots.

It is becoming quite the thing nowadays among fashionable shoemakers to sift either orris-root powder or some lasting sachet powder between the leather and the lining of ladies' boots. They also have in stock dainty little shakers filled with the powder mixed with soapstone, which may be used at will. These shakers are about twice the size of an ordinary pepper-shaker, and can be found in china, upon which are pretty designs, cut glass with silver tops, carved sandalwood and silver, either engraved or hammered.

Perhaps no newspaper writer was ever more disturbed by a trifle than was the society reporter who, in describing the belle of a recent fashionable party, intended to say "she looked 'au fait,'" but found it "she looked all feet."

THE BOYS IN BLUE

Milwaukee Crowded With Defenders of the Union.

THE CREAM CITY A G. A. R. CAMP

Fully 100,000 Veterans and Visitors at the National Encampment.

Everything Seems to Indicate that Gen. Alger Will be the Next Commander-in-Chief—Commissioner Tanner Not a Candidate—Washington Has the Call for the Next Encampment—Gen. Sherman and Secretary Rusk in Attendance.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 27.—At noon to-day it was estimated that fully 100,000 veterans and visitors to the National Encampment of the G. A. R. had arrived in the city.

The Cream City is decorated as it never was before in honor of the brave defenders of the Union.

Commander-in-Chief Warner and staff are quartered at the Plankinton House.

Thousands of old soldiers are arriving on every train, and the city is in possession of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Gen. W. T. Sherman, escorted by the Ransom Post of St. Louis, Gen. Alger, accompanied by Mrs. John A. Logan and Secretary of Agriculture Rusk, were among the notables who arrived last evening.

Corporal Tanner confirms the statement that he is not a candidate for Commander-in-Chief. He added: "With reference to Gen. Alger, I can say, that even if he is a candidate for the Presidency in 1892 that circumstance would not prevent his being elected and serving his year as Commander before he would have any occasion to go into a political struggle."

The Commissioner of Pensions also stated that there was no truth in the reported troubles with Assistant Secretary Bussey; that they had eaten dinner together yesterday and came here the best of friends.

Everything tends to indicate that Gen. Alger will be the next Commander-in-Chief. Private Dalzell has no following, and Consigny, of Iowa, has but a State support. The eastern delegates will vote for Judge Veazey, of Vermont, but they admit that he can not be elected.

A. G. Weissert, of Wisconsin, will be the Senior Vice, and the probabilities are that Washington will be selected for the next encampment.

BREAK IN THE ERIE CANAL.

Much Damage Done to Farm Land and Quarries Near Medina, N. Y.

MEDINA, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A serious break was discovered yesterday in the Berme bank of the Erie Canal at Shelby's Basin, two miles west of here. The break rapidly widened until an immense volume of water was flowing through the break, about forty feet wide and extending to the bottom of the canal. All efforts to check the flow were unavailing. Johnson's Creek has been transformed into a raging torrent and farm lands are being flooded badly. The neighboring quarries are all filled with water stopping work and doing serious damage.

Damage by the break is estimated at over $50,000. One quarry owner estimates his loss at $20,000. Between the break and the lake much land is flooded and bridges washed away. A steam canal boat loaded with resin was caught and wedged across the canal and will probably break in two. There is danger of the water, undermining the Central's tracks. Supt. Servoss and a gang of men are tr ying to stop the leak.

FIFTY HURT IN A WRECK.

The Vestibule Train on the Santa Fe Jumps the Track Near Kingman, Ill.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Fifty persons were injured in a wreck on the Santa Fe Railroad yesterday near Kinsman, Ill. Four coaches were thrown into the ditch and fifty people were injured, some of them seriously.

Bedford Iron Mills in Ashes.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 27.—The New Bedford Iron Foundry buildings, Edmund Grinnell, proprietor, were destroyed by fire yesterday. A part of a wooden structure used for storage purposes belonging to the Bourne estate was also burned. A building belonging to Hart and Akin was gutted. Mr. Grinnell's loss is estimated at $18,000 to $20,000; partly insured.

Both Will Serve.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—Ex-Governor Robinson and Henry Cabot Lodge have written Chairman Burdett consenting to serve respectively as Chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held here September 25, and Chairman of that Convention's Committee on resolutions, for which posts they had been selected by the Republican State Committee.

Pearl Fishing in Illinois.

BELVIDERE, Ill., Aug. 27.—Pearl fishing has been prosecuted with much energy by the hunters in this vicinity during the week just past. One stone of moderate size was sold last week to a New York pearl buyer for $15 and the seller has another which he values at from $30 to $40.

EDITORS IN CONFERENCE.

The National Editorial Association Holding Its Annual Meeting in Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 27.—This city is crowded with editors from all over the United States. The cause of this is the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association, which opened here this morning.

The convention will not end until Friday, and the programme is one in which business is varied with pleasure. Th executive committe of the association met this morning at 10 o'clock and inaugurated the meeting.

There was an address of welcome by Mayor Pidgeon, after which the distinguished molders of public opinion went for a drive about the city in carriages, comforted by the knowledge that when they are tired of looking at the sights they will be royally entertained at Senator Palmer's log cabin on his famous stock farm. After the ride will come the business session this evening.

To-morrow there will be a business session, beginning at 9 o'clock. In the afternoon the editors will be treated to a boat ride on the Detroit River, after which a visit wil be paid to the Detroit International Fair and Exposition. The day will be wound up by a general reception at the residence of ex-Postmaster-General Don M. Dickinson.

Thursday will be devoted strictly to business, except that a short time of the afternoon will be devoted to the entertainment of guests of the city not members of the association. Friday morning will be given up to business, and in the afternoon there will be a river ride, and the whole affair will be concluded with a grand banquet.

A Yale Student Killed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—James A. Paramere of St. Louis, a Yale sophomore, aged 18, who was on a trip through the Northwest with members of his family, was accidentally killed while visiting a lumber camp near Hot Springs, Washington Territory. The other members of the party had gone into the woods, leaving James sitting on a stump. While they were absent he was caught by a falling tree, and his body horribly mangled.

Double Shooting at Bridgeport, Conn.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 27.—Eugene L. Devanna and George Smith came here from Stamford and becoming intoxicated, quarrelled, and Devanna shot Smith in the jaw, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Devanna shortly afterward had some words with John Cook of this place, and shot him in the arm and face. Devanna was arrested.

Glass Trust Formed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The manufacturers of window glass, table glass and crockery have formed a trust called the United Glass Company. They have bought up ten of the principal plants in New York State and Ohio, but it is not believed that the western manufacturers will join the trust.

A WOMAN'S REVENGE

Mrs. Robert R. Hamilton Stabs Her Child's Nurse,

ATLANTIC CITY'S SENSATION.

A Quarrel Between Husband and wife Results in a Terrible Tragedy.

The Victim at the Point of Death—Mrs. Hamilton Arrested and Held Without Bail—Her Husband Also Locked Up—He is a New York Lawyer and Has Been a Member of the Assembly—Result of a Marriage With a Disreputable Woman.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Victoria Hamilton, wife of R. H. Hamilton, who is said to be a grandson of Alexander Hamilton and son of Gen. Schuyler Hamilton, of New York, was arrested yesterday for a murderous assault on her nurse girl, Mary O'Donnell.

She seriously cut the girl with a Mexican dagger.

The place where the tragedy was enacted is known as Noll's Cottage. It is an unpretentious structure, near Pacific avenue.

A week ago a party consisting of Robert Ray Hamilton, his wife and child and a maid named Mary Donnelly, all of New Yrrk, registered at this place.

The Hamiltons had frequent quarrels and made things disagreeable to the rest of the guests.

Yesterday afternoon, while Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were in their bedroom, and their child, but eight months old, was sleeping on the bed, sounds of a furious quarrel were heard coming from the room.

Mary Donnelly, the maid, who happened to pass the door at the time, rushed into the room with the intention of getting the child out of harm's way. In the middle of the floor were Hamilton and his wife, clinched and evidently bent upon doing one another bodily harm.

In attempting to reach the child the maid was forced to separate the combatants. She half shielded Hamilton's body with her own, when the wife seized a Mexican dagger and plunged it into the pit of the maid's abdomen.

The frenzied woman watched the effect of her work with all the fierceness of a tigress. Reaching over the prostrate form of her victim, she plucked out the weapon and coolly wiped off the blood with a handkerchief.

The cries of the maid attracted the attention of Officer Biddle, who rushed into the house, and after a desperate tussle with the man and woman, succeeded in getting them to the Police Headquarters, with the assistance of a fellow officer.

The scene in the bedroom was a horrible one. On the floor lay the victim with her intestines hanging out and the blood streaming from the gaping wound.

Mrs. Hamilton and her husband were arraigned before Judge Irving, who committed Mrs. Hamilton to jail without bail to await the result of Mary Donnelly's injuries. Her husband was also committed as a witness.

The cause of the quarrel between the man and wife is owing to the presence of an old admirer of the woman, named Joshua Mann, of New York. He followed the couple all through the West, and has been stopping at the Verona Cottage with his mother and sister since the arrival of the Hamiltons.

Hamilton was for eight years the representative of the Murray Hill district in the New York Assembly. He is well connected in New York, and at one time figured as a member of McAllister's "Four Hundred."

His wife was a notorious character and a morphine victim. She has several aliases and for years conducted one of the most notorious dens of iniquity in the metropolis. Hamilton met her three years ago, and after a number of clandestine meetings, was forced into marrying her.

Charter Oak Park's Opening Day.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug 27.—There is every indication of the success of the racing meeting at Charter Oak Park, which begins this afternoon. Many leading horsemen are in the city.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The days have lost over 60 minutes since June 21.

—The inland resorts are the ones most patronized this season.

—The Summer resort season is about entering the home stretch.

—Farmers say butter will not go higher till the chestnuts begin to brown.

—Mr. Peter Weaver has been treating his house on Orchard place, to a neat coat of paint.

—The time is fast approaching when it will be necessary to put blacking on the pretzel-tinted shoes.

—It is a pretty hard thing to successfully work a "News Trust," in these days of good hustling reporters and live newspapers.

—The Plainfield Cornet Band will accompany the grocers and butchers to their Labor Day clam bake at Boynton Beach, next Monday.

—In another column, the Town Committee of North Plainfield, advertise for proposals for excavating 413 yards of rock in Stony Brook.

—An effort is being made to have all the dry goods stores in this city remain closed all day on Monday next, and thus give the clerks a days rest.

—Parties in search of golden rod are now becoming quite numerous. Large quantities of golden rod can be obtained in the fields near Netherwood.

—This is the last week of the three-month's bowling for the $100 prizes at the Olympia. Those who aim to head the list should do something at once.

—Master Wm. Farring's nine claims to have beaten the Young Crescents in a ball game this morning by a score of 9 to 0, because the latter club failed to show up.

—Great preparations are being made for the reunion of the Fifteenth Regiment at Lambertville, on Thursday. Surviving members of the regiment who reside in this city, will attend the reunion.

—Lima beans are a failure this year, and corn lacks flavor through loss of the necessary sunshine. The bean blossoms were drowned by heavy rains, and the growers of watermelons along the Delaware River make the same complaint.

—Among the pleasures arranged for Labor Day, is a trip to Newark over the Central railroad, to witness the grand parade of the Knights of Labor. The fare for the round trip from this city and back, is only 67 cents, and the tickets are good on any train from Sept. 1 to 3.

—The coming peach—the agricultural editor of THE PRESS, asserts—is the "Compton," a most deliciously flavored and fragrant fruit, with free stone but rich in juice, that Mr. Halsey Compton has succeeded in perfecting this season after years of care and experiment. It must be tasted to be appreciated.

—Notwithstanding the "dull season," new subscribers are constantly being added to THE PRESS' subscription books. Still there is room for more. We appreciate the many kind words spoken in our behalf; but the most substantial kindness is to give us your name and the amount of the subscription, if you are not already on our list.

That Fellow Needed a Club.

A desperate looking tramp, with an old coat thrown over his shoulders, applied at the back door of an Eighth street residence yesterday morning, evidently in search of something to eat. The brute was addressed with these words by a female who answered his knock on the door, "What do you want?" "Eh," said the tramp, sullenly. "What do you want?" he was asked for the second time. "Nothing," said the knight of the road, as he turned on his heel and started for the street uttering curses.

The fellow went as far as the gate, and three times he started to return, but at last he went away. That man should have been met at the door with a club and a bull dog.

Stood Up While He Slept.

A well dressed man with an unsteady gait leaned up against one of the upright supports under the Park avenue railroad bridge, late last evening, and would doubtless have remained in that position all night had not Officer Giesse gathered him in for safe keeping. The man said he got his "jag" in North Plainfield and was on his way to his home in this city.

FREE HYDRANTS FOR PLAINFIELD.

Why Should the City Pay for What the Borough has Been Offered Free?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have become much interested in the series of letters from correspondents published in your columns recently relating to water works. I regret however that the discussion has departed somewhat from the subject originally under consideration.

It is unquestionably for the benefit of the population to inaugurate improvements, but at the same time there cannot be a too free ventilation of all plans proposed with this object in view, or a too careful scrutiny of the methods in operation to secure privileges from the city. The people as a rule are not familiar with these matters and I must confess that my knowledge concerning them is on the superficial order; therefore any one who can and is willing to enlighten us, is in this respect a public benefactor.

"Observer" in your columns certainly furnished a number of ideas, but his communications appeared to be too vigorous for his opponents and consequently they have retired unceremoniously into their shells. So that after knocking out in one round an ex-mayor, physicking an M. D., with his own medicine and mopping up the floor with a much "rattled" contractor, there is a deal left untold which might well be said for our information.

What I particularly desire to know is this: Why should the city pay anything at all for hydrant rental in the case of granting a water franchise? In the year 1886, when the subject of water was seriously under discussion, both S. R. Bullock & Co., and Geo. H. Norman & Co., agreed to furnish sixty-five hydrants free for a period of three years as a consideration for a franchise in the Borough of North Plainfield. Now if that was a profitable operation then why should this city be requested to pay even $15 per hydrant, when with a population of three times that of North Plainfield the receipts from private consumption here would probably be three times as great?

NOVUS.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Robert A. Meeker is home from Red Bank.

Mr. A. Venino has returned from a ten days' stay at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Mr. T. L. Graham and family, of East Ninth street, have left the city for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck left today for a visit at the home of Mr. Peck's father, Milford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Flemming have returned to their home on East Ninth street, after a month's absence at Lake George.

Entered into rest at Brooklyn, N. Y., August 25, Jennette, wife of John Raymond, formerly of this city. Interment in this city, Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 10.20 A. M.

Mr. Dorsey W. Hyde has returned from his sojourn on the coast of Maine, and will resume instructions, class and private, in pianoforte and harmony, on Monday, Sept. 16.

Mrs. John M. Allen and daughter of Annandale, are visiting at the residence of Mrs. Allen's son-in-law, Mr. John M. Shepherd, of Duer street, North Plainfield.

Mr. L. M. French has leased the large French-roof house on Craig place, adjoining Wm. Smalley's, and is preparing to move into it as his future place of residence.

Mr. R. F. R. Huntsman of the Central New Jersey Times repertorial staff, has returned from a ten days' trip to Martha's Vineyard, Mass., with a full equipment of tan and fish stories.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman of North Plainfield, have returned from Woodburn, Sullivan county, and Pine Hill, N. Y. Rev. Mr Honeyman's health has been greatly improved during his five weeks' absence. Mrs. Honeyman started for Dover, N. J., this morning to visit her sister, who is ill.

The Business Men's Parade.

It is expected most of the merchants in this city will be represented in the parade to Boynton Beach on Labor Day. Some of the business wagons will be handsomely decorated, and a short parade will be made around town before the start is made for the beach. A brass band will accompany the merchants and their clerks, and at the beach an old fashioned clam bake will be held.

A Presentation.

On Friday night last, Past Chancellor Haberle of Goodwill Lodge, No. 101 K. of P., of Scotch Plains was presented with a handsome Past Chancellor's Jewel. The presentation was made by P. C., John M. Shepherd on behalf of the Lodge, and Past Chancellor Haberle responded in a few well-chosen words.

—Messrs Hervey Doane and D. C. Adams succeeded yesterday in getting two fine negatives of Zephyr H. & L. truck coming out the door of its house at full speed. The better of the pictures will be used to ornament the new fireman's certificate that is being engraved.

AN UNGALLANT CONSTABLE.

He is Accused of Frightening the Women and Taking Away Their Carriage.

A New York paper has the following story of one of our suburban constables, and the daughter of Mr. Glaentzer of New street, this city:

Constable Manning Crowe, of Somerville, distinguished himself on Sunday afternoon by a heartless act which will lead to an inquiry on the part of the citizens of Somerset county as to his fitness to perform his simple duties of a peace officer.

For some time past the Hill brothers have been involved in legal squables over the possession of a hotel in Neshanic which they jointly own. Friday morning all the property belonging to the place was attached by the younger brother, James, and placed in charge of Sheriff Tunison. Among the chattels were the horses and carriages in the barn. The excitement attending the levy had a serious effect on the health of Mrs. Hill, who is a highly nervous woman, and she became very sick. Sunday morning Mr. Hill concluded to remove his wife to the home of her mother in Plainfield away from the scene of the bitter fight. As there were no trains running, he hitched up one of his horses and one belonging to his father-in-law, F. A. Glaentzer, to a surry, and taking his wife and two small children and another lady with him, he drove off.

On reaching Bound Brook, fourteen miles away, in front of Gaddis's Hotel, Constable Crowe and the brothers, Hugh and George Hill, who conduct a small photograph shop in New York, darted out from behind the shadow of a tree and seized the horses by the bridles.

"Get out of that rig, and quick too," demanded Crowe.

The horses reared furiously, Mrs. Hill and the babies shrieked in fright, while Crowe stood calmly by and smiled like a man who felt satisfied at having performed a brave deed.

Despite the earnest expostulations of Mr. Hill and the tears of the women, Crowe held on. Once Mr. Hill tried to get off by whipping the horses, but Crowe immediately turned upon him.

"If you try any of those games, young man, I'll soon stop you," he exclaimed, and disregarding the appeals of the crowd, he turned the horses into a livery stable close by and compelled the ladies and children to leave the carriage.

"You have no authority to subject my wife to such indignity," said Mr. Hill. "She is very sick and needs the advice of her physician."

"Maybe I haven't," replied Crowe, "but these gentlemen here," pointing to the brothers, "have ordered me to seize the rig and I am going to have it."

Amid the hooting of an indignant gathering of citizens Crowe unhitched the horses, while kind-hearted bystanders assisted Mrs. Hill and her babies into the hotel. In vain Mr. Hill again expostulated against the outrage, but his appeals had no effect on the stony-hearted constable. Late in the afternoon, when Mrs. Hill had recovered sufficiently to resume the journey, Mr. Hill hired a wagon and drove his wife home, where she is now confined to her bed.

Base Hits.

Saturday's game with the West Ends will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

The Trenton team that is to play the Crescents again, Labor Day afternoon, defeated the Princeton team Saturday by a score of 25 to 9.

Next Monday morning the Crescents will cross bats with the Hackett-Carharts of New York. It will no doubt be a very interesting game, as the visiting team has signed Esterbrook, of this year's Indianapolis team and several other professional players.

The Lean nine in to-morrow's game against the Fats, will include Wyckoff and Ball as the battery, Gavett on first, the Messrs Teel on second and third, and Doane short stop. The game will begin at three o'clock.

The Diamonds of this city will play the Roselle nine on the Crescent grounds, Thursday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. The visitors will bring a strong nine but the Plainfielders will be prepared for them.

Mr. Oscar Terry, the gentlemanly and efficient clerk of Mr. George A. Moore, is being requested to act as umpire of the butchers and grocers ball game at Boynton Beach, Monday.

City Court Proceedings.

Mary Shelly was a defendant before the City Judge, this morning, charged by Wm. Oberhauser with using foul and abusive language. Judge Stillman released her with a reprimand.

Ann Flynn lodged a complaint against Nicholas Kelly, Frank Nelson and Castine Orton, charging them with creating a disturbance at Third and Liberty streets. The men pleaded not guilty, and their trial was set down for to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Death of Mrs. Mary T. Smith.

The death is announced of Mrs. Mary T. Smith, which occurred at her home, 141 Broadway, today, after a lingering illness from consumption. She had been in delicate health for a long time past, and during the recent flood it was found necessary to carry her from her house to another.

The funeral will take place from the house on Thursday at 5 P. M.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS

SPREADING THEIR FAME AND FLIGHTS.

Even the Connecticut Papers are Talking About the Homing Pigeons of Plainfield.

Last Friday's Evening Transcript of Birmingham, Conn., says: "A carrier pigeon was released at 8:05 o'clock this morning from Miller's art gallery by C. H. Hinkley, Mr. Miller's artist. The bird went to J. Hervey Doane, Plainfield, N. J. Two birds were released at Philadelphia, Thursday, for the same destination, and will be heard from to-morrow probably. Mr. Hinkley is quite a bird fancier himself and he and Mr. Doane own about 50 carrier pigeons. The bird which he let go this morning he estimated would cover the distance of 90 miles in two hours.

"The bird carried a message attached to one leg which was fastened by a simple but effective contrivance invented by Mr. Doane. The message is written on very thin paper, which if closely written will contain 500 words. This is rolled up in waterproof paper and is wound around with a copper wire. This long roll is made stiff by the wire, bent around the pigeon's leg and the two ends of the wire fastened. This method is somewhat better than the one commonly used which is to attach the message to the bird's wing as in that case the bird sometimes stops to pick off the message, thus losing time, if not the message itself.

"Mr. Hinkey says the Plainfield Press uses the carrier pigeons to transfer news at short distances from the city, and finds them equal to the telegraph with the ordinary messenger boy combined, for quick transmission, and far more economical, Hinkey and Doane use the birds for sport principally, and find them very interesting. It is not all sport, however, as but a small proportion of the birds raised prove to be reliable carriers. Out of a loft of 80 pigeons, probably not more than a dozen will prove of any use. Many are lost on being first released, while others will make several trips all right and will then finally disappear.

Middlesex Gun Club.

The next trap shooting event of national interest that will occur in the East will be the fifth annual tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club, that takes place at Dunellen, Oct. 8, 9, 10 and 11. The programme, now ready, is an attractive one, and will draw together a large number of expert marksmen from all sections of the country. The first two days will be devoted exclusively to artificial target shooting, the last two to live pigeons. The management have hung up $1,350, to be divided by classes A and B, governed by American Shooting Association rules and classification. Heretofore the Middlesex Club have had as the feature of their tournament a $1,000 guaranteed sweepstake at 100 live pigeons, $100 entrance. By special request of a large number of shooters who do not feel like entering so large an event, it will be omitted this year, and a sweepstake at 25 birds, $25 entrance, $400 guaranteed, open to the World, will be substituted. This will give all an opportunity to participate, and as the club adds all surplus money, it will undoubtedly fill to as large an amount as the original race. The programme can be had on application to W. Fred. Quimby, 291 Broadway, New York, or W. L. Force, Plainfield.

The Difference in Newspapers.

Last evening's news contained among its other dead advertisements, one asking for proposals to build bridges over Green Brook at Water and at Richmond streets.

Last evening's PRESS contained an account of the awarding of the contracts and the name of the successful bidder.

The bids were in detail as below. The figure given by each company being for both the bridges. The successful firm, the Wrought Iron Bridge Co., of Canton, Ohio, is represented in this section of the country by Mr. Richard Merritt, of this city.

The figures were very close, as follows: Dean & Westbrook, $3,863; King Bridge Co., $3,856; Berlin Bridge Co., $3,842; N. J. Steel Iron Co., $3,837; Pittsburgh Bridge Co., $3,822; Groton Bridge Co., $3,798; Wrought Iron Bridge Co., $3,779.

Shamed by Her Father's Deeds.

A despatch from Clarkstown, N. Y., to a New York morning paper says: "'Shabbyhorn' is the name now given by people here to the fugitive 'Spellbinder' and preacher, Adolph Schabehorn, of whom no tidings have been received. His oldest daughter, aged nineteen, who has been living for a year with her mother's people at Plainfield, N. J., had a sad return home yesterday. She was gazed at by every eye on the train and as she reached this place she broke down and left the railway station in tears."

Labor Day Excursion.

The New Jersey Central Railroad Company will give a grand Labor Day excursion to Lake Hopatcong, on Monday next. This will give a splendid opportunity to enjoy a day's outing at this delightful and romantic lake—the Lake George of New Jersey. A special train will leave this city on that day at 8:18 A. M., and returning will leave the lake at 6 P. M., arriving home about two hours later.

Five Times as Bad as Here.

Not less than forty Hunterdon county bridges, big and little, were swept away by the great rise of water on the 14th inst. That was an expensive storm in every way, and one that will long live in the memory of our people.

BENEFITS (?) OF ILLEGAL SELLING.

A Plainfielder Tells How Liquor is Sold in Asbury Park and Takes a New View of the Law Breaking.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The season here at Asbury Park has reached its height, and the population far exceeds that of any previous year, notwithstanding the very rainy season; and the avenues in every direction are lined with wagons loaded with trunks, one or more of which are deposited at every door along the route.

Life by the sea is an hilarious, exhilarating one, with a whole museum of anatomical marvels thrown in. One of these marvels was seen sprawled out upon the sand early Sunday evening, thoroughly intoxicated. It was deemed such a curiosity that a large crowd collected to look at the man who dared to commit so foul a crime; but two policemen quickly awakened him and hustled him off to the lockup.

It is this very prohibitory law that makes Asbury Park a marvel of sobriety, peacefulness and security, yet Mr. Bradley is being persuaded to permit high license to rule, since the selling of liquor of all kinds is carried on here in spite of the law against it. To prove the truth of this fact, my next-door neighbor is regularly served with beer, ordered just outside the town limits; and showy beer wagons drive through the streets delivering boxes of beer and other liquors. The only prohibition they observe is the clause "No liquor in bottles, or otherwise, shall be sold by any street vender to any resident in Asbury Park."

But liquors can be bought in many boarding houses. A young gentleman visiting here accompanied some friends to a fashionable billiard saloon. After finishing their games, and when about to depart, the genial waiter asked them if they were thirsty, and being answered in the affirmative he said he could accommodate them. Having taken their different orders he soon brought in four beer bottles; one contained whiskey, another gin, and the other two brandy and claret. It is safe to say that the young men enjoyed the last game the most, and returned home in higher spirits, owing not alone to the intoxicants which they had imbibed, but to having so cutely defied the law.

A party of New Yorkers called upon a political friend in one of the swell hotels, and the host served them with the finest liquor. No bar was there, oh no! No money passed between the parties, not a word about the settlement, but the jolly winks and the smacking lips, and the knowledge of getting ahead of the old Jerseyites, gave to their parting handshakes an added fervor.

But while the rich and the well-to-do are able to obtain intoxicants, the poor and the laboring classes cannot obtain it. As it is beyond their reach, the temptation to buy it is impossible, therefore, we have no drunkards here, no wife beating, no street brawls and no noises. Women can go about at night in perfect safety. Prohibition also deters footpads, thieves, and dishonest peddlers from entering the precincts. Altogether it is a morally clean and healthy town, and Mr. Bradley will make a great mistake if he allows any sort of liquor license which will open rum seller's dens to entice the wage workers to enter upon the broad road that leadeth to destruction.

LOOKER ON.

Asbury Park, Aug. 24, 1889.

Weather Crop Bulletin.

During the past week the temperature in New Jersey has been about the average, with more than the usual amount of sunshine, and a very large deficiency of precipitation. These conditions have been most favorable to the maturing of all crops, but the potato and other vine crops have not recovered from the injurious effects of the recent heavy rains, although with one exception, the injury to the potato crop is not so bad as at first reported. The exception is Union county, where many potato fields have been abandoned.

The Gum Chewing Habit.

The gum-chewing habit is said to be on the increase. The proprietor of a drug store, recently interviewed, says that nine-tenths of the gum sold today is made of rubber or some other substance far from healthy, and not from the genuine spruce as it usually claims to be. It is difficult to suggest what parents are thinking about when they permit their children to go to confectionery or drug stores, and invest in gum, the habit of chewing which is in itself pernicious and its effect upon the stomach and throat never beneficial.

Railroad Pensions.

The Pennsylvania railroad has brought itself into special notice by reason of its system of life insurance among its employes, which practically compels them to lay aside a part of their wages against the future, and now a feature is to be added to the system in the form of a pension for aged and infirm employes.

New Ball Grounds.

A new base ball field has been laid out on LaGrande avenue, at Netherwood, where the married and unmarried guests of the Netherwood Hotel will engage in a series of match games. A back stop has been erected, and the diamond has been scraped and put in good repair.

"Some years ago Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of asthma after the best medical skill had failed to give me relief. A few weeks since, being again troubled with the disease, I was promptly relieved by the same remedy."—F. S. Hessler, Editor Argus, Table Rock, Nebr.

AFFAIRS IN HAYTI.

Another Despatch Received By the State Department—Douglass' Position.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Acting Secretary Walker of the Navy Department received the following cablegram from the United States Consul at Santiago le Cuba, dated yesterday:

"Gherardi, at Port au Prince, orders me to cable:

"Hyppolite's forces, 7,000 men, quietly occupied town on the 23d. The Minister of War of Northern forces assures me he will permit no rioting nor destruction of property. The French corvette sails at noon for Santiago de Cuba, with Legitime, his principal followers, and numbers of refugees. The city continues quiet. Hippolyte, provisional president, enters to-day."

Frederick Douglass, United States Minister, accredited to Hayti, called at the State Department this morning and informed Acting Secretary of State Wharton that he held himself in readiness to depart at once for his post of duty in Hayti.

Mr. Wharton informed Mr. Douglass that in the present unsettled condition of the country, it was not the intention of the United States to send him to Hayti, as there was no government to which he could be accredited, without placing the United States in the position of recognizing one or the other of the contending factions.

TERRRY'S FRIENDS.

District Attorney White Still Absent. Who Will Try Nagle?

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—District Attorney White, of San Joaquin, who left Stockton in order to evade delivery of the State Attorney's letter authorizing him to dismiss proceedings against Justice Field, was expected here last night. The letter now lies in the Stockton postoffice, and counsel for Judge Field say that if White does not get it they will have the case taken out of his hands. The friends of White say that he is justified in the course he is pursuing by the grave charges of conspiracy which Field brought against him last week in his legal traverse.

Sarah Althea publishes a bitter letter denouncing Attorney-General Johnson for his interference.

Judge Sawyer, it is said, has grave doubts as to the power of the Federal courts to interfere in the Nagle case and that Terry's slayer will have to be tried in the State courts at Stockton. It is rumored that Terry's adherents will shoot him if he is taken back to Stockton.

The attack of Justice Field on Sarah Althea and his evident desire to protect Nagle has somewhat turned the sentiment against Field.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

At San Francisco the new cruiser Charleston had a satisfactory trial.

GREAT REJOICING.

The Commotion Caused by Johnny Green's First Pair of Pants.

In times past many remarkable events must have escaped general attention; but in these days the newspaper reporter is everywhere at once, as it were. One of these busy and useful public servants, connected with the New York Dispatch, recently rescued from oblivion a scene "a thrilling incident," he calls it, of which, but for his timely appearance, the world might never have heard.

A brawny man, clad in a blue shirt and overalls, and with a dinner-pail in his hand, walked slowly down an East Side street one evening last week. He seemed to be thinking of something pleasant, for, as he walked, he smiled and muttered to himself.

Near the middle of the block he paused, for right before him was a group of children. The children were evidently waiting for him, for they broke out at once: "Here he comes!" and began to dance and caper like mad.

A broad grin broke over the face of the workman, but when he tried to move on the children flocked around him so that he was compelled to stop. The door of the house opened and a young woman came out leading a little boy by the hand. The children with one voice exclaimed "Ah!" and the little boy ran to the man and was quickly seized in his arms and repeatedly kissed.

The crowd had by this time grown very large, and women and children, in a babel of voices, shouted themselves hoarse.

Finally the man and the boy went into the house and the crowd began to scatter. Still lingering, the scribe essayed again to learn what the matter was. Seeing a little girl come out of the door, he went to her and inquired: "Sissy, what is the matter here?"

"Oh," she said, "don't you know Johnny Green has just got on his first pair of pants?"

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

LONDON PARALYZED

All Water Communication Entirely Cut Off.

THE GREAT STRIKE SPREADING.

The City in a Fever of Excitement Over the Contest Between Labor and Capital

The Vessel-Owners Refuse to Arbitrate—Thousands of Tons of Mutton Rotting in the Ships—Fears that the Gas Stokers Will Strike and Leave the City in Darkness—The Markets in Mark Lane Demoralized and Prices Advancing.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The strike of the dock laborers is rapidly extending and embracing workers in all industries. Seven thousand men employed in the various iron works on the banks of the Thames have joined the strikers.

The shipping trade is completely paralyzed, the large mail steamers being compelled to leave without cargoes.

The gas stokers, of whom there are thousands, threaten to join the strike and take part in a movement compelling the laborers in all branches of trade to cease work.

The men on strike are perfectly orderly.

Four of the largest mills at Blackburn have succumbed to the prevailing dullness of trade and closed their doors.

London to-day is an inland town and promises to remain such for some time to come. All communication with the rest of the world by water is as completely cut off as though the Thames had dried up and been turned into a garden farm. The great ships lying at the docks can neither load nor discharge their cargoes, and the immense traffic of the greatest commercial city of the world lies at the mercy of the man commercially rated at a dollar a day.

Up to to-day the strikes of the dock laborers have been regarded by the London populace not indeed without interest, but with that languid interest which is felt in affairs which concern other people and not ourselves. But this is all over and to-day the strike and its consequences touch every man, woman and child in this great city.

No meat arrived in London to-day. The markets in Mark Lane are paralyzed and maize advanced five shillings the quarter for immediate use.

The city was thrown into a fever of excitement when the coal handlers struck and it was announced that the gas stokers intended to follow suit and leave the city in darkness to-night. The electric light companies were filled with orders from commercial houses who sought to avert such a calamity and they have largely increased their force. So far the gas strikers remain at work, but there is no telling what moment they will quit.

Although the strikes so far include only a few industries not directly connected with transportation there is scarcely an important trade carried on in London in which there are not loud mutterings of discontent.

Another conference was held between the managers of the docks and the laborers' delegates but no agreement was reached. Arbitration of their differences was again proposed by the representatives of the strikers, but the employers refused to listen to any proposal to submit their case to the hands of third parties for decision.

Tons of Mutton Rotting.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—As a consequence of the dock laborers' strike, a thousand tons of mutton are rotting in ships which have arrived here within the week, it being found impossible to unload it.

O'BRIEN IN PRISON AGAIN.

He is Taken to Cork Jail Under a Military Escort—Gilhooly Also Sentenced.

CORK, Aug. 27.—The trial of Mr. William O'Brien and Mr. James Gilhooly, Members of Parliament, on the charge of speaking at a proclaimed meeting at Clonakilty, was concluded yesterday. Mr. O'Brien was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and Mr. Gilhooly to six weeks, both without hard labor. At the expiration of these terms of sentence each must furnish bonds to keep the peace for six months, and in the event of their failing so to do, two months' imprisonment additional is imposed.

O'Brien and Gilhooly were taken from the court room to the Cork jail under a military escort. They were loudly cheered by the crowds which had assembled all along the route to the prison.

Mr. O'Brien declined to enter an appeal and remains in the Cork jail to serve out his term. Mr. Gilhooly, however, appealed from the judgment in his own case and was released on bail pending a decision.

Mr. Gladstone on Turkish Atrocities.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — Mr. Gladstone writes to the "Daily News" this morning on the subject of the atrocities practiced by the Turks upon the Christians in Armenia. He says: "We are entitled by treaty to demand that the Sultan suppress these outrages and punish the guilty miscreants." Mr. Gladstone trusts that the Government will not be content to accept at par the stereotyped denials of the Turkish officials, but will insist upon probing the matter to the bottom.

Earthquakes in Greece.

ATHENS, Aug. 27.—Severe shocks of earthquake were felt throughout Greece to-day, and serious damage is reported from several towns.

Well-Known Sugar Merchant Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Mr. Manuel Rabird, a wealthy Spaniard, who was formerly a well-known sugar merchant in New York, was found dead in bed in his apartment at the Barrett House yesterday. Death resulted from exhaustion following consumption.

BAKERS REFUSE TO PARADE.

Obnoxious Cigar Makers Given a Place in Boston's Labor Parade.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—Bakers Assembly No. 5296 K. of L., at a crowded meeting, voted unanimously not to parade with District 30 on Labor Day if Cigar Makers' Assembly 80 were allowed to parade in the same division. It also decided to apply to Chief Marshal O'Halloran to assign the bakers a position in the line away from District 30. The bakers have a peculiar grievance against Cigar Makers Assembly 80, asserting that Babson, one of its principal members, was an advocate of non-union men during the bakers' strike.

District 30 K. of L., at its monthly session yesterday, unanimously voted to permit Cigar Makers' Assembly 80 to parade in District 30 division.

The War Ship Texas No Good.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Naval officers are predicting that there is trouble ahead—probably a court-martial—for those who are responsible for the acceptance of the faulty design and the construction of the battle ship Texas. So far as it has already progressed, they have no doubt but that the final outcome of the investigation by a board recently appointed by Secretary Tracy to examine the designs, will result in the stopping of all work on the Texas, and that the vessel will never be finished

A Bank Suit Decided.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 27.—Judge Fuller has filed his report in the Superior Court as auditor in the action of the Union Savings Bank against the National Union Bank to recover certain sums claimed to be due the former from the latter on account of the irregular transactions of D. A. Chapin, who was treasurer of one and cashier of the other. Judge Fuller finds that the entire amount claimed is due the Union Savings Bank from the National Union Bank.

Looking for a Site for the Fair.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Committee on World's Fair Site and Buildings voted not to consider Central Park as a possible site until all other available localities have been passed upon. Excursions by river and rail have been arranged for to-morrow and Thursday to enable the committee to visit all the proposed sites as expeditiously as possible.

Their Liabilities $1,180,000.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 27.—The schedule showing liabilities of the insolvent wool firm of Brown, Steese & Clark, of Boston, was filed in the Insolvency Court to-day. It show liabilities of $1,180,000.

She Died Far Away from Home.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 27.—E. S. Parker has received a letter informing him of the death of his daughter, Susie C., aged 27, who went to China a year ago as a missionary.

WEE LORDS AND LADIES

What the Boys and Girls, America's Tyrants, are Wearing.

How to Dress the Youngsters for the Beach Sands and for the Children's Dances of Gay Summer Evenings—Gowns for All Ages and Occasions.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

It is not the least debt we owe to the midsummer holidays that they give us back our buttercups again. It is hard to identify the pale, silent little school girl of town with the vivid chattering buttercup who instead of saying:

"Twinkle, twinkle little star,
I don't wonder what you are;
You are evanescent gases,
Hardening in' solid masses."

like the learned little girl in Dr. Newman's sermon, scampers over the sands, the pocket of her quaint old English gown, hung by a ribbon from her waist and stuffed with scallop and jingle shells, bumping cheerfly from side to side. The buttercup is an old fashioned flower out of grandmother's garden this summer in a straight slip of white challie crossed with lines in pale yellow and porcelain blue that falls about her fair and softly and makes her look tall. The short, low-necked waist is laced across in front with blue silk cord like a peasant's bodice, and the daintest handkerchief of white embroidered mull is folded about the shoulders and tucked, instead of the baby guimpe, inside the lacings. The petticoat under the gathered skirt is guiltless of starch and it drops close about the childish figure as if it had been copied from the frock of some sweet-faced Kentish lassie who picked daises two hundred years ago. On the small girl's head is a white muslin hat with a frilled lace border, a blue ribbon tied about it and a full soft crown. The shoes are yellow and the stockings are blue, just the shade of the blue in the gown, though under the colored hose you may be sure her mother has put a pair of white or cream lisle thread or gauze ones. The small girls gown is shorter waisted and shorter in the skirt than she wore a year ago. If she is three years old it no longer touches those yellow canvas ties. If she is four or five years older it comes nearly to her boot tops, and her big sister of fifteen has adopted dresses as long as those worn by the full grown woman.

This is Jeannette. As for Jean, his sailor dress suits him perfectly. It gives him a saucy and decided air which it is a pleasure to see. His blue and white striped shirt peeps out between the points of his rolling collar and completes the effect of his white duck man-o'-war blouse and his long white baggy breeches, which—though he is hardly big enough to be out of kilts—leave half-moon marks in the sand. There is a blue anchor on the front of his sailor cap, and a boatswain's pipe hangs about his neck by a lanyard. If he does not look like a General, which is his great wish, at least he looks like an Admiral. Meanwhile he proposes to shovel sand into his pail. If the small boy is under five and still in petticoats his kilts reach scarcely to the knees. His short white stockings come one inch, perhaps, above the ankles, and the bare red-brown legs are put through as many antics as if they belonged to a frisky calf.

The first hour in the ball room at the hops at Narragansett Pier is given to the children, and the little revellers dance with a grace and abandon not often attained by beaux and belles of a mature age, their bows and their courtesies, their smiles and their coquetries exhibiting the children's carnival in its greatest glory and brilliancy. The boys, most of them, wear simple, neat evening suits, but one night recently there was a lovely little courtier of Louis XIV period all in rose colored velvet and satin and rose colored silk hose and golden curls arranged in a style that would have tickled the fancy of a Marquis of the court of the Grande Monarque. Every dance night brings out, of course, a new Fauntleroy, and the little lords in white serge vie with those in black velvet coats and knee breeches, buckle shoes, silk stockings and floating hair falling in a cloud over point lace or point coupe collars; while all turn to gaze on the Olive Homan's dress, as one may call it in contradistinction from those worn in the part by Elsie Leslie or the little Russell, a deep rich shade of blue velvet—the real royal blue with lace collars and cuffs and a big white sash with a bow that almost overpowers the blonde boy wearer.

Silk and silk gauze, sheeny satin and tulle, soft sashes, floating ribbons flowers and tinsel, jewels and their imitations, twinkling feet in pretty boots and slippers worn with silk stockings to match the color of the gown; showers of blonde, brown and golden hair tossing over white necks and arms and around rosy faces; low square-cut Josephine waists, short and made to look shorter with broad belts or sling sashes, these make up what is supplied by the little girls toward the ensemble of the pretty kaleidoscope of color. Even children follow in evening dress the prevailing fashions of the moment hence reproductions of the child portraits which Reynold's, Gainsborough and Vandyck drew are among the most successful summer costumes, borrowing the peculiar charm of quaintness from the raiment of other days. Edwin Booth's grandchildren with one or two little people visiting them were the successes of an evening recently, dressed after Vandyck's picture of the children of Charles I. in the Berlin gallery. There were three little girls in gowns of soft China silk, pale yellow, peach and lime green respectively. Each little dress was made with a long skirt coming to the ankles and sewn to the waist in pleats. About each dimpled neck was a collar of the lace which owes its name to the master who painted the long points. The sleeves were puffed to the wrists and finished with lace cuffs. Full wide aprons were worn and close skull caps of lace fitted down over the fuzzy curls. The boy wore a close habit and breeches of white satin braided in silver and trimmed with point lace with slashed sleeves and deep collar and long curling hair of a period when the male garb was in its most picturesque estate.

The six-year-old daughter of a rich somebody from Brooklyn made a winsome Daisy in a gown of white crepe de chine, whose edges were embroidered with her "wee, modest, crimson tippet" name flower. Her necklace was woven of genuine field daisies strung together by the stalks, making a daisy chain, and her long yellow hair was crowned by a cap of the Tam O'-Shanter order with a green tassel in the middle and loops of ribbon carried round like daisy petals. The simple white muslin gown, with its low rounded neck and elbow sleeves bordered with ruched ribbon matching in color the sash about the short waist which Gainsborough has so often painted, makes a dress which somehow seems more appropriate to the wear of the dear little folks than the silks, be they ever so soft and fine. The Incroyable costume is frequently chosen for children's evening wear, and the long coat, the waistcoat peeping beneath the closely buttoned bodice with its wide lapels, the cocked hat, a couple of watches with dangling chains hanging from each fob, when made in miniature for a maiden of, say seven summers, is more taking than adult raiment can ever hope to be.

For daylight wear are preferred the more modest Directory styles; the surplice effects, the short waists, the revers and bretelles appearing in the slips made up for babies. The freshest and daintiest of the little people's dresses this season are the white embroidered mulls. The pretty blonde damsel who went tilting past my window this morning would be worth a second glance anywhere. Her little skirt was one embroidered flounce, and the low-necked waist of embroidery was worn over a guimpe of plain mull gathered full at the throat in Marguerite fashion. Narrow, white ribbon gave just the finish needed. Next the mulls and far more generally useful are the exquisite wool challies. A pretty little dress in white and pale yellow challies strewn with flower sprays in shaded greens and blues is made with a low neck and no sleeves, to wear with fine guimpes of India mull or white cashmere. The sleeves are full and gathered at the wrist into a cuff, and the full skirt and challie sash have the hems feather stitched, which supplies the trimming. The veilings and batistes and ginghams, the nainsooks and cambrics, the infinite variety of pretty stuffs which are the staple wear of the everyday, commonplace, sweet, wholesome American small girls, were never so tasteful as now. The colors in these fabrics offer new tints which blend charmingly with embroideries, laces and ribbons. A simple little blue and gray gingham has the round neck and elbow sleeves trimmed with white embroidered mull ruffles, with rosettes of white ribbon on either shoulder. The lace-striped ginghams often have the hem of the skirt turned up on the outside, and finished with a white cord. Nainsook is the wee girls' fabric, cambric belongs to the petticoated boy. One distinguishes between them as to materiel even in infancy. The boybaby's cambric or pique frock has a box-plaited waist, gathered skirt and belt with turn-over collar, feather stitched in pink or blue, where the girl baby wears a guimpe under a low-necked round waist made entirely of hemstitched tucks with a nainsook sash tied to huge bow. The hemstiching is often very elaborate and quantities of narrow Valenciennes lace are used for trimming.

ELLEN OSBORN.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Motions for Separate Trials to Be Heard by the Court To-Morrow.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—All the Cronin suspects having demanded separate trials, which were vigorously opposed by State's Attorney Longenecker, Judge McConnell settled the matter by deciding that he would hear the argument on the motions for separate trials tomorrow morning, and remanded the prisoners to jail.

When these motions are decided the next move of the defendants will doubtless be for a change of venue, Under the rules of the Court each prisoner can take a change from two judges. In this manner O'Sullivan took his change from Judges Horton and Hawes. In the same manner Coughlin, Beggs, Burke, Kunze and Woodruff may each take changes from two judges. This would exhaust twelve judges. In each of these changes all the other prisoners would, unless separate trials were allowed, go along with the one asking the change. All this would require time, but not so much time as might be supposed. A good authority estimates that all the dilatory motions the defense can possibly interpose will not delay the trial for 30 days.

Their Bodies Mutilated by Hogs.

KING GEORGE, Va., Aug. 27.—Seven weeks ago Annie Rawley with her infant child disappeared mysteriously and nothing was heard of her until yesterday. When her body and that of the child were found on the bank of Poplar Creek, badly mutilated by hogs and dogs. Foul play is suspected. There is great excitement here.

A Cure for Hydrophobia.

In our search for a cure for hydrophobia why does no one think of seeking the McGovern family in County Cavan, who have kept the secret of one for nearly three hundred years? It is, of course, impossible to tell what the cure is, for it is confined to the breast of one man, says the London Hospital. The father on his death bed confides it to his son, and so it goes down. All that is generally known is that the patient is treated with a broth of herbs, which is said to be far from appetizing. These herbs are gathered in the early dawn, but whether some mystic virtue lies in the hour they are culled, or whether it is done only to keep off prying eyes, no one can tell. The fact remains that many people who have been bitten by rabid dogs, and not merely dread hydrophobia, but are in foaming convulsions from it, have been cured by the McGovern treatment. Myth and exaggeration may have gathered around it, but even so, is it not worthy to engage the attenton of our scieatists?

FIVE MEN KILLED

A Boiler Explodes in a Pennsylvania Rolling Mill.

SEVERAL WORKMEN MANGLED.

The Force of the Explosion Lifted the Entire Roof Off the Mill.

Rafters and Girders Torn Away and Fall Upon the Terrified Workmen—A Portion of the Boiler Carried Fully 150 Feet. Great Rush to Escape the Fury of the Hissing Steam—Rescuing the Injured and Recovering the Dead.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 28.—The rolling mill and nail factory at Towanda, Bradford County, operated by Bostley, Gocharles & Co., was partially wrecked yesterday evening by the explosion of a boiler, the disaster resulting in the instant death of five men, the fatal injury of two others and slightly injuring a dozen other workmen. The dead are as follows:

SANFORD B. SMITH, puddler, married.
RICHARD ACKLEY, puddler, married.
JOHN BOSTWICK, roller, married.
GUY HERMAN, helper, married.
ISAAC BANDFORD, helper, single.

The fatally injured are: Charles Zeebech, terribly burned by molten metal; James Rider, both legs broken, and internal injuries.

The force of the explosion was terrific, lifting the entire roof off the Southern portion of the mill, tearing away the rafters and girders and allowing the whole mass to crush into the mill and upon the terrified force of workmen who were scattering in every direction and crouching behind all kinds of obstacles to escape the fury of the hissing steam, which was filling the structure from the nest of boilers that were displaced and broken in their steam connections by the exploding boiler, pieces of which were hurled through the mill. The larger portion of the bursted boiler was carried through the side of the mill landing in a mass of scrap iron, fully 150 feet away.

The explosion's awful sound was heard all through the town and great crowds of the inhabitants rushed to the mill to learn its effect. Workmen were soon marshaled by Richard A. Bostley and Simon Rendell, members of the firm, and they speedily removed the debris and released the men who were buried in it, and also recovered the bodies of the killed, some of whom were badly mangled and scalded.

MRS. HAMILTON IN JAIL.

She is Held to Await Her Trial on September 10.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 28.—Mary Ann Donnelly, the middle aged servant woman whom Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton stabbed yesterday was alive this morning but her condition is very precarious. She is being attended to by a physician hired by Mr. Hamilton.

The hearing in the case was held in Judge Irving's Court yesterday. The first witness called was Mr. Robert Ray Hamilton, the woman's husband. He said he was a member of the New York Bar and admitted that the woman was his wife. He witnessed the stabbing and declared it was done with a dagger and by his wife.

He would not divulge the motive for the stabbing. After hearing the testimony Judge Irving decided to set the case down for trial on September 6. Mrs. Hamilton was remanded without bail to await the result of the nurse's injury and all witnesses were held in nominal bail to appear.

Coke Prices Agreed Upon.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—After many meetings the operators of the Connellsville coke region have finally agreed upon prices for coke to prevail after the first of September. To furnace men the price will be $1.25 per ton; to dealers, $1.50; and to foundrymen, $1.65. These are the prices on cars at the ovens. There exists a mutual understanding that there will be no cutting of these prices.

A Black Eye for an English Syndicate.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 28.—The last steamer arriving at Victoria, B. C., from Alaska, brings word of the abandonment of the Great Bears Nest gold mine, recently purchased by the Duke of Sutherland and a syndicate of English capitalists and which has turned out to be perfectly worthless. The loss to the syndicate will foot up to near $2,000,000.

To Form a Syndicate of Bondholders.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—It is alleged that a syndicate of Wall street bankers has been formed, controlling $20,000,000 of Government bonds, with the view of compelling the Treasury to pay exorbitant premiums for the bonds which it accepts. In case the Treasury refuses all offers of the bonds, the syndicate will create a stringency in the money market in the hope of forcing the Government to buy bonds as the only method of averting a panic.

Montana's Democratic Ticket.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 28.—J. K. Toole was nominated for Governor; J. Conrad for Lieutenant-Governor, and Martin Maginnis for Congress by the Democratic State Convention.

DEMPSEY KNOCKED OUT.

George La Blanche Puts the "Nonpariel" to Sleep in the Thirty-Second Round.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Great interest was excited by last night's fight between Jack Dempsey, the "Nonpareil," and Geo. La Blanche, the "Marine," at the California Athletic Club. About 2,000 people were fortunate enough to gain entrance to the gymnasium, while a greater number thronged the street outside.

Hiram Cook of this city acted as referee. Dempsey's seconds were Denny Costigan and Dave Campbell. La Blanche's seconds were John Donaldson and Paddy Gorman. Betting was $100 to $75 in Dempsey's favor.

Thirty-two rounds were fought, the "Marine" showing up in great form.

After time was called in the thirty-second round Le Blanche rushed for Dempsey, and after three well-aimed blows on the "Nonpariel's" neck, knocked Dempsey out.

La Blanche is the hero of the hour here, and already there is talk of another big fight.

THE VETS IN DEMAND

Boston and Washington After Next Year's Encampment.

THE CAPITAL WILL BE CHOSEN.

Over 8,000 People Present at Last Night's Great War Song Concert.

Members of the Press to Be Banquetted to-Night—General Gibbins Re-Elected President of the Iron Brigade—An Animated Contest for the First Vice-Presidency, General Bragg's Friends Refuse to Allow His Name to Go to a Vote.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 28.—It is nip and tuck between Washington and Boston as to the location of the next Grand Army Encampment.

The Boston delegation was working hard this morning to secure the prize, but Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Rhode Island in the East and almost the entire South and West favor the National Capitol. General Alger and Mrs. Logan are putting in some effective work toward the same end.

The Council of Administration received a dispatch from Gen. S. S. Burdett of Washington tending an official invitation for the District, and suggesting that the encampment be held in May next, which will be the 25th anniversary of the great Grand Army Review.

Last night the opening session of the Woman's Relief Corps was held at the High School building. Mayor Brown delivered the address of welcome and Mrs. Craig, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Gen. Fairchild and Gen. Hoard delivered addresses.

Nearly 8,000 people last night attended the first of the great war song concerts which was given in the big tent on Juneau Park and the lake front. The arsenal band of St. Louis furnished the accompaniments, and there was a chorus of 500 male voices.

The visiting and local members of the press will this evening be banquetted by the "New Republic" Company, of which publication Congressman Warner is to become the editor. Generals Alger and Sherman will respond to the toasts.

The annual meeting of the famous Iron Brigade, which was held last night, was of an exciting nature. Gen. Gibbon was re-elected president by acclamation, but there was an animated contest for the first vice-presidency between the supporters of Gen. Bragg and of Gen. Woodward of La Rosse. The former had held the position for several years up to 1888, when he was defeated, largely owing, it was claimed, to his political connections. It had been confidently expected that at this election he would be restored to his old position, but the same influences are said to have again prevailed, and after a lively discussion Gen. Bragg's friends refused to allow his name to go to a vote and Gen. Woodward was elected with some opposition.

FLOOD VICTIMS.

Johnstown People Arrange for the Prosecution of the Fishing Club.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 28.—The business men of Johnstown mean business with a vengeance if the action at a meeting last night is any indication. The meeting had been called to take action regarding bringing suit against the fishing clubs. There was a large attendance and much enthusiasm. Speeches were made by a number of the leading business men, and all urged that a suit for damages be instituted. Messrs. John Thomas & Son, who had investigated the matter, reported that Messrs. John P. Linton and W. Horner Rose, two of the leading attorneys of the town, had agreed to fully investigate the matter for a retaining fee of $1,000.

The amount was quickly raised and a committee was appointed to confer with these legal gentlemen and direct them to institute suit at once. It was also agreed that if their report was favorable several attorneys of national reputation should be employed and the suit pushed rapidly to a conclusion.

Fears for Connecticut's Potato Crop.

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 28.—The most discouraging reports come from the potato-growers of this State. It is said that the miserable weather has spoiled at least two-thirds of the crop, and the dependence for potatoes during the coming winter will be on Maine or Vermont.

Democratic Politics in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 28.—A dispatch from Dayton says that the fight between Campbell and Neal for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination has resolved itself into the old Pendleton-McLean feud, and that Kline, of Cuyahoga County, will stand an excellent chance of carrying off the coveted plum. It is now predicted that a strong tariff reform plank will be introduced into the platform.

Arrested on Five Charges of Forgery.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Aug. 28.—Chas. W. Thompson, residing at Thompson Post-office, this county, was arrested by Sheriff White and brought here charged with five cases of forgery of notes on hand. Thompson spent some months in jail here a short time ago for violation of the local option law.

Proclamation by the Governor.

It having been represented that uncertainty exists with reference to the observance of the first Monday of September as a legal holiday, proclamation is hereby made that by virtue of an act of the Legislature of the said State, approved March, 1887, the first Monday of September, to be known as Labor Day, is a legal holiday, on which no court shall be held, except in cases which said court would sit upon a Sunday, and on which no person can be compelled to labor by any person or corporation.

Given under hand and privy seal at the Executive Chamber, in the city of Trenton, this twenty-seventh day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

[L. S.]

ROBT. S. GREEN.

Attest:—R. S. Green, Jr., Private Secretary.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—A tune just out is called, "There's Rainbows in His Whiskers."

—Anybody finding a commutation-ticket case will confer a favor by returning it to The Press office.

—The petit jurors for the October term of court will be drawn at Elizabeth on Tuesday of next week.

—The New Market Democratic primary to elect delegates to the State Convention will be held next week.

—A regular meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club will be held at Force's Hotel, Wednesday evening of next week.

—The turkey crop will be short this year, owing to the wet weather, many of the little birds being drowned by the cloud bursts.

—The nights are now getting to be considerably cooler. Last evening, for instance, a light overcoat was about the proper thing.

—The days have begun to shorten and the nights to lengthen quite rapidly. On September 21 the days and nights will be equal in length.

—Now is the time to advertise and this is the place to do it. Do not hesitate; but come right along and we will make it pleasant for you.

—The Farmer's "Harvest Gathering and Barbecue" that was to be held at Neshanic, to-morrow, has been postponed for a week or so.

—Friends' First-day school will resume its regular sessions, after the usual Summer recess, in the Peace street meeting house next First-day, (Sunday) at 10 o'clock A. M.

—The managers of the Crescent ball club will exert themselves on Saturday, to comfortably seat all those who apply for admission to the enclosed grounds, on that afternoon.

—The Executive Committee of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, held a meeting this morning, but transacted no business of general importance to the public.

—Dog catcher Babitt captured a fine hound dog on North avenue near the station, yesterday morning. The dog can be redeemed by applying to the pound-master on Lake street.

—Ice dealers in this locality report a great scarcity of that commodity at the present time, and say that within another month the price to consumers will jump to higher figures than have ruled since 1880.

—Why do the Home Oil company sell so many of the citizens their kerosene? Because with such good oil, delivered regularly and with the free use of their patent can, they have a plain field before them.

—The machine shops of the New Jersey Central Railroad at Phillipsburg, which have been running on half time for several months, were started up on full time yesterday. Seventy-five men are accordingly happy.

—The young man who left his bicycle leaning against a post on North avenue, while he made a call yesterday afternoon, and failed to find it when he was ready to start away, requests us not to say anything about the matter. So we won't.

—Pupils in vocal instruction are solicited by Mme. Ida Albert, as announced in a card elsewhere. This lady studied for opera under the late Prof. Albertis, and possesses, besides, the highest testimonials as to her talents and her abilities as a tutor.

—Please bear in mind the specially interesting meeting, promised by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., for to-morrow, Thursday, at 4 P. M., at their rooms, 73 West Front street. Members from other Unions will be present and a very good meeting may confidently be expected, to which all are welcome.

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.

DEMPSEY BEATEN.

America's "Nonpareil" Meets His Waterloo at Last.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The great battle of the middle-weights was fought in this city early this morning, and Jack Dempsey after winning 42 battles has at last met his Waterloo.

George LaBlanche, the Marine, knocked him out after fighting thirty-two fierce rounds.

No pugilistic event on the Pacific coast in recent years has excited so much interest as the fight between Dempsey and LaBlanche. The men fought in March, 1886, near New York City, and Dempsey won in thirteen rounds. In accounting for his defeat, however, La Blanche has insisted that he was fouled by the Williamsburger and that he fought Dempsey at his own game.

The battle last evening was with big gloves before the California Athletic Club for the middleweight championship and a purse of $5,500—$500 to the loser. Conflicting reports concerning the training and condition of the men have been in circulation for two weeks, but the "fancy" were offering $100 to $35 on the "Nonpareil" yesterday afternoon, with very few takers.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Frank Hedden has returned from Asbury Park, where he has been located for the past few weeks.

Master Clarence Vail, one of the faithful Press boys, returned home today after spending a few weeks pleasantly with relatives in upper New York State.

Mr. David Snediker of Grove street, has accepted a lucrative engagement with a large wall paper house of New York city, and started on a three months Western trip.

Ground was broken today for the erection of a new dwelling house on Craig place, at the head of Duer street, to be the future residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dyer.

Miss Lena Monrian of Albany, N. Y., started for home today after an extended visit with friends on East Third street, this city, much benefited in health by her trip, and expressing her delight in the pleasant location of this city.

At her home in Sucksunny, N. J., on Tuesday, occurred the death of Mrs. Ann R. Tucker, widow of the late Craig Tucker, formerly of this city. The deceased was 76 years and six months of age. Interment was made in Plainfield today.

Mr. John Moore and his amiable wife of Chatham and Warren streets, on Saturday evening last celebrated the 50th anniversary of their married life. The event was very enjoyable to the old folks. Many of their old friends called to congratulate them.

Mr. N. P. T. Finch and family have returned to their home at Broadway and Belvidere avenue, after a few week's stay at Nantucket. During their absence Mr. and Mrs. Finch were bereaved of a son, Robbie, a bright and promising boy of about eight years, whose death occurred at Nantucket.

Base Ball.

The Young Crescents of this city after being defeated twice this week, made up their minds that they would win one game, and so they defeated the Young Eagles, also of this city, on the Crescent grounds this morning, by a score of 12 to 5. The features of the game were the fine first base playing of F. Coverly, and the throwing to first base by J. Burk. The batteries were: C. and J. Sutphen, for the Young Crescents, M. Hefferan and F. Carver for the Young Eagles. Following is the score by innings:

Eagles	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	1	— 5
Young Crescents	4	3	1	1	1	0	1	1	*	—12

Umpire—E. Neighbour.

Dismissed the Complaint.

Nicholas Kelly, Frank Nelson and Castine Orton appeared before City Judge Stillman this morning to answer a charge of disorderly conduct. The defendants were represented by W. R. Codington, of the law firm of Jackson & Codington, who made a motion for their release, on the ground that there was insufficient evidence to hold them. The Judge dismissed the complaint.

—Saturday will be another of the salt water days' at Florida Grove and Boynton Beach.

—A peach and iced cream festival for the benefit of the Bethel Mission church is being arranged for Thursday evening of next week.

—A young child who gave his name as Henry Whitlock was found wandering around on South Second street, yesterday afternoon, and he was placed in the care of a lady resident on that thoroughfare, and subsequently returned to his parents.

—The cool atmosphere last evening did not decrease the attendance in the City Park. Late in the evening young men and women, some of the latter dressed in white, occupied seats in the park and amused themselves by talking, singing, and in various other ways.

—The Chatham nine of North Plainfield defeated the Young Americans of Dunellen on the Evona grounds this morning, by a score of 20 to 13. The batteries for the Young Americans were: Richardson and Smalley; for the Chathams, G. Schenck and F. Pope.

PLAINFIELD GETS HERS.

The Contracts Awarded for Our Great County Roads.

The Union County Board of Freeholders last night awarded the contracts for building the four new and elegant drives that are to make the county the envy of the State and the pride of its people.

The contract for constructing the road from Rahway to Elizabeth was awarded to B. M. & J. F. Shanley, of Newark. Their bid was $43,000.

The road from Elizabeth through Union Township to Springfield was awarded to Contractor Bernard Mahon of Seventh avenue, New York, his bid being $55,000. Mahon also captured the contract for building the road from Elizabeth through Roselle, Cranford, Westfield and Fanwood townships to Plainfield for $22,194.

Contractor H. G. Wood of New York, was the lowest bidder for constructing the cross-country road from Fanwood to the Westfield line, his bid being $17,000.

The entire cost of the four roads will be $138,000. The Freeholders have issued bonds to the amount of $150,000 bearing 4½ per cent. interest to pay for the improvements, which must be completed in two years.

The lowest bids amounted in the aggregate to $235,000, as follows: Morris avenue—from Elizabeth to Springfield, Summit and New Providence—$106,256; Westfield or South avenue—from Elizabeth to Plainfield—$83,000; St. George avenue—from Elizabeth to Rahway—$42,700. The Board, however, had only $150,000 for the purpose and divided it in this way:

St. George avenue will be entirely completed at the price stated above. The balance of the fund will be equally divided on the other two avenues. Work on South avenue to begin at Plainfield and continue until the appropriation is exhausted; and on Morris avenue work will begin at Elizabeth and continue to Summit as long as that appropriation lasts.

Director Hubbard and Freeholder Vanderbeek had a hard fight for Plainfield's end of the roads, and only succeeded in getting what they demanded, by a majority of one vote.

Miss Fliege Sails for Germany.

Miss Fliege, the German lady, who has been an unwilling charge upon this place for several weeks, has sailed for home. A large number of persons, aggregating something like 200, have been contributors to the fund raised in her behalf. The subscriptions ran all the way from ten cents to ten dollars, and amounted to a total of $200, exclusive of the cost of the ticket to Hamburg. This was procured by Mr. Otto Arens, of Park avenue, independently of the Plainfield fund. As this large hearted gentleman never does anything by halves, he was determined to secure the very best comfort the steamer could afford, which he did. The money will be deposited in trust with a Bremen lawyer, a nephew of Mr. Arens, subject to the order of Miss Fliege. The lady expressed heart-felt gratitude for all that the generous people of the place did for her, and will acknowledge the kindness in a more formal way when she gets into the quiet surroundings of her life at home. Those who became well acquainted with the unfortunate found her to be a person of marked refinement and culture.

It Was Only a Farce.

A servant in the employ of Mr. Wm. Rockwell of East Front street, who had been imported from Elizabeth about two weeks ago, imagined that "Tom, the Peeper," was in her bedroom late on Monday night, and she announced the alleged fact to the whole neighborhood. Officers Flanagan and Giesse went to the house, but could not find even a window or door unlocked. Nothing about the house showed any evidence that the place had been entered by burglars. The woman had evidently been dreaming.

Lost Her Bones.

A couple of wayward females from Newark, one carrying a skeleton wrapped in paper and the other a cargo of beer, wandered around the streets in this city nearly all of Monday night. One of the women entrusted the skeleton to the care of a certain person, while she made a tour through the beer bottling precincts of North Plainfield, and when she returned her package was missing. The woman recovered the package however, and left for the brewery centre on the 3:28 A. M. train.

Building Loan.

The shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association met in Cutter's Hall, Monday evening, and paid Treasurer Codington their monthly dues with commendable promptitude. A loan in the Second Series commanded a fair premium. The Board of Directors met subsequently and transacted routine business. Every member was present, which shows a praiseworthy interest in the affairs of the association.

Unusual Attractions.

The regular weekly meeting of the Reform Club to-morrow evening, promises unusual attractions in the way of recitations, readings and selected music. A hearty welcome will be given every visitor and the attendance should be large.

Visiting Guests of Howell Division.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance of this city held an open meeting in their rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue, last evening. Visitors were present from Newark, New Brunswick, Jersey City, Metuchen and Dunellen.

The meeting was opened by an address of welcome by the W. P., Sister Corwin, followed by reading of the scriptures by the Chaplain, Sister Manchester and the singing of one of the order. A letter of regret was read from Mr. H. B. Howell, G. S., who was detained at home on account of sickness.

The opening address was made by James R. Perine of Howell Divison followed by remarks by Messrs Chase of the Crusade Division of Jersey City, C. Munn, G. C., of Searles Division, No. 31 of Newark, J. M. B. Pyatt of the Dunellen Division and by sister Vickery, of Welcome Division, No. 200.

Miss Maggie Sheppard also rendered some excellet music, followed by a recitation by Miss Flora Randolph and a stump speech by Mr. W. R. Mattox.

"Rhopsody in Ethics Phegmatic," was the subject of Mr. W. B. Ayers remarks, and Miss M. Rockafellow then delivered a recitation in a pleasing manner. Grand Worthy Patriarch of New Jersey, Rev. A. G. VanAken also delivered an address, and Brother J. M. B. Pyatt, of 196 Division, was presented with a G. D. regalia. The remainder of the programme was as follows: A song by Bro. Mott, of Division, No. 200; recitation by Miss Laura Ayres; recitation by Sister Munn, of No. 31 Divison; an ode by the members of the order, entitled "Once more we have our pledge renewed;" remarks by Bro. Norris, of No. 31 Division, of Newark; a recitation entitled "The Veteran's Daughter," by Miss Try Mattox; reading by Bro. Compton, of No. 204 Division, of Metuchen; remarks by Bros. Perry, of Metuchen, and C. H. Hayward, of Newark.

Refreshments were then served in abundance and the visitors departed for home on an early train, well pleased with the entertainment provided for them by the members of Howell Division.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with flags and bunting by Bro. Thos. Osment, of Howell Division, No. 97.

BEAT HERSELF.

The City of Paris Lowers the Ocean Record Again.

Mr. F. G. Neighbor, of this city, arrived from Europe this morning on the City of Paris, making the trip in 5 days, 19 hours and 18 minutes from Queenstown to Sandy Hook lightship. This lowers the fastest ocean record, already held by the same steamer, just four hours.

Others on the City of Paris were Miss Wilson, daughter of Mr. John F. Wilson of North Plainfield, Prince Russell Harrison and sister, Edw. Gould, Mary Anderson and And. J. Carnegie. The steamer arrived at Sandy Hook at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

Reproducing Gettysburg in Plainfield.

Gen. St. Clair A. Mulholland, of Pennsylvania, is in the city today. He is here arranging for the presentation at Music Hall, in October, of the superb spectacle, "Briscoe's Battle of Gettysburg."

This is the magnificent reproduction of the great fight that has been creating such an intense interest throughout the country during the past year, and differs from the wonderful Cyclorama in New York, inasmuch as it exhibits the whole three days of the titanic struggle, whereas the latter shows but the last scene and but one part of the field.

The General commanded a regiment at Gettysburg and afterwards a brigade in Hancock's Second Corps. He speaks in glowing language of the New Jersey troops and the noble fight they made during those three memorable days of July, 1863.

Those Delinquent Taxes.

Thus far during the present month, Justice V. W. Nash has collected about $2,500 of the delinquent taxes, making a total of about $5,500 which has been collected by the delinquent tax collector since he was appointed.

One obstreperous delinquent yesterday refused point blank to pay up his taxes, but when told that unless he settled the county jail would be his future abiding place, he made arrangements to cancel the debt.

Fast Driving.

Complaint is made of the reckless manner in which some of the coachmen and others in this city drive around corners, making it unsafe for pedestrians. Owners of horses and their drivers should remember that at all times people on foot have the right of way, and interfering with this privilege is a direct violation of the city ordinance. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Right You Are.

(From the New Brunswick Fredonian.)

Plainfield has increased in population from a little over 5,000 in 1870 to about 13,000, and in the same time its valuations for purposes of taxation have almost doubled. The western towns will do well to look to their laurels, if the increase continues at this rate.

Butchers at Base Ball.

A LIFE INSURANCE SUIT.

Serious Charges Made Against the New York Mutual.

A bill in equity has been filed in the United States Court against the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, to ascertain and recover the surrender of the value of an endorsement policy.

William H. Kellner, of Newark, is the complainant, and he makes serious allegations in his bill charging that the company published untrue and fictitious statements of its affairs with the intention of deceiving and misleading himself and the general public. He was insured in 1878, and was to pay $96 semi-annually and to receive $5,000 in 1903. Upon learning of the untrue and fictitious statements issued by the company he surrendered his policy and demanded the cash value. The company offered him $850, but he declined the offer and claimed $3,000. The suit is brought for an accounting to ascertain the real value of the policy and to recover the amount. Kellner charges that it was represented to him that the company was purely mutual, and that the premiums charged upon the policies were only intended to cover the cost of insurance, together with the necessary expenses and the reserve required by law. That if the premiums charged were more than enough to cover the actual cost of insurance the charter provided that the surplus should be equitably divided among the members. He employed an expert to examine the company's annual statement, and he charges that these statements are untrue and fictitious. He shows in detail how he thinks the company has obtained money from the public through fraudulent representations.

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF.

How Passengers Must Leave a Ferry Boat.

The United States Circuit Court, District of New Jersey, has just rendered a decision which will be of great interest to all people who have occasion to go to New York, for it prescribes how a ferry boat must be left by the passengers.

A man named Edward Graham brought a suit for damages for a broken leg against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. It was proved that Mr. Graham while leaving the ferry boat by the middle gangway, and before the guard chain had been wholly taken down, had his leg broken by the chain being thrown against it by the deck hand who was in the act of letting down the chain. A motion to nonsuit was refused, but afterwards a motion was made to direct a verdict for the defendant.

The Court held that where a boat is provided with two gangways for the use of passengers leaving it, and where a passenger, in his eagerness and haste to get on shore, leaves one of these side gangways and goes into the middle gangway provided for the use of horses and vehicles, he does so at his own risk if any accident befall him. The company is not responsible for the negligence and want of care of the plaintiff.

The double obstruction of gates and chain stretched across the middle gangway of a ferryboat is a sufficient notice to passengers forbidding them to get out in that way, and such obstructions speak better than any printed notice which could be posted up, or any words which could be uttered by the officers of the boat.

ICE IS GETTING SCARCE.

Dealers Say That It Will Shortly Become a High-Priced Luxury.

Ice dealers report a great scarcity of that commodity at the present time, and say that within another month the price to consumers will jump to higher figures than have ruled since 1880.

The price of ice to dealers who don't harvest their own, usually ranges from 90 cents a ton at the opening of the season to $4.50 a ton along in the Fall. This year, however, owing to the comparatively small crop housed last Winter, that price will be doubled, with a possibility that it may advance to $10 before December. The present price paid by dealers is $5.50 a ton, although consumers pay at the rate of $10 a ton, or 50 cents a hundred.

Will Be Here Next Wednesday.

(From the Wilmington Gazette.)

"On the Trail; or Dan'l Boone the Pioneer," written by Charles Gayler, the eminent playwright, is the rather sensational title of, without exception, the best border drama ever presented to the theatre goers of this place. It was presented by Peck & Fursman's dramatic company at the Grand Opera House last night, before an audience calculated to gladden the heart of any manager. The bowie-knife combat in the climax of the second act, between "Simon Kenton" and "Blackfish" (the Indian chief) was the most thrilling and realistic piece of stage business ever introduced in this place. The company is an excellent one throughout, and the drama is the best picture of pioneer life a hundred years ago ever given here. The introduction of a band of Shawnee Indians, blooded horses, donkey and wild animals was a pleasing feature. The company will receive a cordial welcome should they come this way again.

AFRAID OF BURKE.

The Defense Regard Him With Doubt and Won't Cling to Him.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Burke is said to be in a fair way to reach the witness stand. Judge Wing in his affidavit yesterday swore that he was informed and believed that Burke had made statements to the State's Attorney. Burke bathed his eyes vigorously and got a bit redder under the charge, but Mr. Longenecker still maintained that Burke had not confessed. The defense seem to regard him as a weak brother and would like to get him into a trial of his own.

Captain Schuttler has found the man who is paying for Burke's meals. O'Toole is not the man, and the Captain declines to say who he is. No tidings were received of the tin box or the expressman, though both were being diligently sought.

Crushed Under a Heavy Boiler.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 28.—Late last evening Lloyd Heisler, aged 16 years, was instantly killed by a heavy steam boiler which he was assisting to load on to a railroad car. The hoisting rope broke, allowing the boiler to roll back upon him, crushing his head in a horrible manner.

Another Victory for Minerva.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 28.—In a closely contested race the Scotch cutter Minerva yesterday outsailed the fleet of Burgess' 40-footers, and won another leg in the Weld Cup.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 28.—The body of a Russian Jew child, three years old, which has been missing since Friday last, was found to-day in a cistern. It is believed that the child was sacrificed by neighbors with whom the child's parents had trouble. An inquest will be held.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Henry W. Drout, a former living near Richland Station, this county, was gored to death by a Holstein bull belonging to a neighbor yesterday. He had been at work in the field and was resting on a log when the bull attacked him from behind.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

LABOR'S BIG BATTLE

The Great Strike in London Still Spreading.

130,000 MEN NOW INVOLVED

They Have Gained Public Sympathy by Their Overtures for Arbitration.

Members of the House of Commons Ask the Companies to End the Strike—250 Steamers Lying at the Docks Awaiting Cargoes—Vessels Unloading at Distant Towns—The Strike Now Developing Into a Universal Eight Hour Movement.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The strike is still spreading and the relative positions of the strikers and employers remain unchanged. Rumors are in circulation today that the printers intend joining the strike, which is virtually a fight for a universal eight hour system, and wage earners in the branches of industry hitherto believed to be beyond the reach of the contaminating influence of strikes are becoming restive and inclined to cast their fortunes with the dock laborers and their allies.

The paralysis which pervades the shipping industry shows no sign of improvement in London, but ships are discharging at Chatham and Southampton without interruption, preferring the chances of getting their cargoes to London overland to the certainty of being unable to discharge at their accustomed docks.

The Lord Mayor has declined to act as arbitrator, fearing to interfere in the duties properly belonging to the Judges of the Courts.

The strikers now number 130,000. The coal porters at important centres are joining the strikers. Two hundred and fifty steamers are now lying in docks awaiting cargoes. The factories along the river side are closing down for lack of coal, throwing thousands of hands into idleness.

The London Chamber of Commerce urges the dock managers to agree to arbiatration. Seven members of the House of Commons, in an interview with the dock directors to-day, appealed to them to concede the men's demands.

The coal porters have rejected an offer from the London Dock Company of a shilling an hour, dinner and beer and protection from the strikers.

Burns, the socialist, says the strike is now developing into an eight-hour movement.

Still Refuse to Arbitrate.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Delegates from the leading business houses in twelve important trades called upon the officials of the London Dock Company to-day and urged that the company consent to submit its differences with the strikers to arbitration. The officials received the delegation courteously, but refused to accede to their proposal.

Their Pay Advanced.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The drivers of the London mail carts made a demand upon the postoffice authorities for an increase of their pay, which was promptly granted.

Boulanger's Friends Protest.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—A crowded meeting of Boulangists was held here last night to protest against the sentence and conviction of their chief. Those present were mostly workmen. The police and military were held in readiness outside the hall while the meeting was in progress.

Cholera Spreading.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The cholera, which has been making fearful havoc in Bagdad, has spread to other points in Mesopotomia, notwithstanding the precautions which were taken to cut off all communication with that city, and is now ravaging the entire province.

Boulanger Still Takes a Hand.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Gen. Boulanger publishes the names of forty-one candidates for the Department of the Seine, at the coming general elections in France.

Electric Motor Works Close Down.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 28.—The Robinson Koster Electric Motor Company paid off its help last night and shut down for several weeks. The works at South Peabody are now in the hands of a keeper placed there by F. W. Prescott, who holds a chattel mortgage against the company. The property was to have been sold yesterday but the auctioneer was stopped by an injunction made by the company at the last moment.

For Issuing Illegal Shares.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—H. G. Huiskamp, one of the proprietors of the "Times," procured warrants this afternoon for the arrest of James J. West, and his Secretary, Charles Graham. He charges them with illegally issuing 1,000 shares of stock of the "Times" Company. A constable went to Mr. West's residence at Kenwood to serve the warrants.

The King of Siam's Gift to Americans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The Department of State has been informed of the recent very generous gift by His Majesty, the King of Siam, for the use of the American Presbyterian Mission of one of the royal palaces, together with extensive grounds and buildings.

The Erie Canal Break at Medina.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. Aug. 28.—A Medina despatch says, the canal break in the Berme bank is forty feet wide. It will require 1000 cubic yards of filling. Superintendent Chambers says navagation will be ready in three days.

Chicago Full of Lawyers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The Grand Pacific Hotel was crowded to-day with lawyers from all parts of the country who have come to Chicago to attend the twelfth annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

MORE SUMMER MOSAICS.

From the Notebooks of Wandering Vacationers.

Houseboats at the Thousand Islands. Yachting Costumes at Newport—A Girl in a Push Cart—A Yale Garden Party and Summer Doings of Women.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Not everybody is out of town, even in the height of the midsummer vacation. I see several human beings as I go and come about the streets. "Oh, yes," says some worshipper (from afar) of the 400, "but nobody that is anybody." Quite the contrary. I happen during the past week to have brushed against several people who on various occasions have justified their right to live and to have their names in the papers. Miss Grace H. Dodge, one of the women School Commissioners, made a pleasant picture on the streets of New York the other day. Tall and fair, with chestnut hair and a fresh English complexion, she is a good example of a wealthy young woman who spends a great part of her summer in town. Then there was Mrs. Mackay, the wife of the bonanza king, who in cream white India silk morning gown, with pearls in her ears, stretched out her tiny black satin slippers and declared that New York was as good a summer resort as one could find. Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, Julia Ward Howe's daughter, who is almost as beautiful now as she was in 1876, when Porter painted his celebrated picture of her, can't quite confine herself to Newport when New York publishers are to be dealt with. But after all the chief excitement of city life in August centres about the whistle of the postman.

FROM A CAMPER ON ONE OF THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.—"The houseboat bids fair to become a distinctive feature of our scenery. Four or five wealthy Canadian families are summering in these delightful floating cottages. They are ranged close to the shore over against two of the prettiest Canadian islands and form quite a social colony, where afternoon teas are given, visits made in fast-flying canoes, with now and then a moonlight concert, a dance or supper and about all a sense of romance and glorious freedom. When you get tired of the rocky shores overhung with trees about your houseboat, all you have to do is to up anchors and shove yourself along with poles to a fresh abiding place, or if a more ambitious move is desired you call a launch or a tug and steam away to another island. Yesterday afternoon was a fete day and we were almost as gay as at Henley on the Thames. Our Canadian friends enter with the utmost heartiness into everything. The houseboats were decorated with bright flags and huge parasols of flowers. There were flowers everywhere. Huge earthenware vases and blue china jars were ranged along decks and golden rod and wild scarlet hollyhocks and cardinal flowers bloomed in profusion, clematis vines with their white and feathery seeds clambering from drawbridge to awning. Light cedar canoes glided from island to island and dozens of rowboats danced on the waters. There were tennis games and cricket on a convenient meadow, and these Northern girls looked more blithesome even than during the winter carnival in their silk blouses of lilac, pale yellow, scarlet and blue, with white glazed sailor hats. baseball and Eton caps, soft round felts and broad brimmed head fixings of every description. Sometimes a whole boatload wore the same colors. A six-oared barge was manned by half a dozen damsels in yellow and black, who made a picturesque crew. But if you want to fall a victim to the ewig weibliche you should see a handsome Canadian girl paddle a canoe. The houseboat in which we are visiting is not by any means a mere drifting raft. It is a regular two-story house built on a barge, with lace curtains at its windows and ten rooms inside. It has a flat roof where we strew rugs and cushions and lie in steamer chairs and hammocks under a gay, striped awning. It hasn't as many gables as a Queen Anne cottage, indeed, truth compels the admission that it is rectangular in shape and suggests a packing box floating, but is is painted in reds and cool greens and looks very gay of an evening with rows of Japanese lanterns hanging from beam to beam. It has a good expanse deck fore and aft where are more awnings and hammocks and easy chairs, and where we have morning glories and nasturtiums and scarlet runners growing in flower boxes. There is a bathroom upstairs, but if you want a really good plunge of course you take a header out of the window. We haven't a piano but our next boat neighbor has, and the music goes very well with our violin. There is plenty of room for entertaining guests, and when the stars come out and the drawbridge is pulled up we light a fire on the open hearth, if the air is chilly, and feel as much cut off from the world as a feudal baron in his castle. Next week we are planning to tie two or even three houseboats together and go off for a week's drifting in company. The girls will wear Henley shirts and the men broad-striped flannels, and if singing and sketching and boating do not fill up the period, why we will have a naval battle of flowers."

FROM A NEWPORT BUTTERFLY.—"The yachting gowns are the prettiest things here, to my thinking. The Electra, a superb steam yacht, is one of the finest boats in the fleet, and clad in one of the most picturesque water suits, with jaunty sailor hats, troops of gay girls board the pretty craft to enjoy the impromptu dance on the deck or more elaborate festivities on grander occasions. A bright-eyed blonde was charming yesterday in a mixture of blue serge and red holland. The underdress was of blue, cut round and plain. The Directory jacket was also of blue serge, with square jacket flaps, incroyable revers and cuffs of red holland, all richly embroidered in navy and gold braid. The inside vest, doubled and buttoning close, was of holland fairly overrun with gay embroidery. There was a smart little walking jacket to match, a soft, blue-felt hat with gold cord on the curly head, and in the small hands, gloved in red suede, was held a boatswain's whistle, which hung about her neck by a lanyard. A boyish-looking brunette, whom it cost an effort not to address as 'chappie,' paced the quarter deck, her lips puckered in tune for 'The Girl I Left Behind Me,' her hands thrust deep in the pockets of her reefing jacket. Her gown, of cream white flannel, had a long, tunic drapery in front, showing an underdress of the same material embroidered in a conventional patern of rosettes and scollops in navy blue and gold cord the same embroidery being repeated, this time in silk floss, on the cuffs, collar and belt of her silk yachting blouse. Now and then a little breeze bearing the pungent odor of brine fluttered the skirts and displayed to the summer world a pair of small, white canvas ties laced with blue and gold. The same wind ruffled short, dark curls on which was set a smart little white glazed sailor hat trimmed with a neat twirl of blue and gold ribbon. Arm in arm with this good fellow walked a tall, slender companion whose dusky hair flew, unbound, in a cloud about her shoulders, and whose eyes had weird depths of darkness in them as she looked unsmiling over the cheerful, laughing sea. This ocean maiden was gowned in solid blue serge with long, Greek draperies in front, opening on the right side to show an underskirt of cream white serge on which was laid, to form a wide Greek fret border, lines of fine crimson and gold cords and narrow, blue ribbons. Gold anchors were embroidered on the corners of the drapery, and the bodice had a double vest of white with the Greek fret introduced in the same manner as on the skirt. Over this was worn a short jacket with gilt buttons. When the dancing began four young girls in one of the sets attracted much attention. They wore accordion-plaited skirts of yellow India silk trimmed with yellow lace, and as like one another as four peas. Over these were donned four silk yachting blouses, one of white, one of pale pink, one of scarlet and one of pale green. Lace hats crowned with flowers were worn in the blouse colors."

FROM WANDERERS DOWN IN MAINE.—"We came across three women farmers the other day the story of whose doings might interest you. Driven out of the woods somewhere above East Norridgewock, for lack of provisions, we met a good-looking woman in wide-brimmed felt hat and thick boots driving an ox team. Inquiring of her where we could obtain a dinner, we were directed to a long low farm house, a weather-beaten pink in color, standing under a group of magnificent maple trees. Here we found two other women, intelligent looking like the first, one digging potatoes, the other canning berries in a spic and span kitchen and apparently on a large scale. We had stumbled on a partnership, the members to which are all feminine. It seems that two of the women are sisters, the Misses F—, and that the farm belonged to their father who left it to them in a somewhat run down and unprofitable condition. Unable to sell except at a sacrifice, they were puzzled as to their proper line of action until Miss M—, who had inherited a little money and earned a little more in the millinery business, tired of the confinement of indoor life, proposed to go in with them and test the question whether women could make a farm pay. They are not fine lady farmers by any means, overlooking things in a Dresden china sort of way, but spend much of their time at such work as is not too heavy for them in the open air. They have about 200 acres, a part of which is in pasture, and on the rest they grow potatoes, turnips, carrots, onions, cabbages and the crops of the general farmer. They have an apple orchard in a fine state of cultivation, and raise quantities of blackberries and raspberries and some other small fruits, which they can for the Boston market. They do their own milking, make butter, when the factory is not running, feed their own pigs, ride the mowing machines and the reapers and help in all the operations of sowing and harvesting. For the heavier work they have two farm laborers, sometimes in the busy season three. They read the "Atlantic Monthly" and are progressive Yankee women with ideas about temperance and dress reform. They are all three in excellent health, have forgotten the meaning of headache and say they like their work and are able to make a fair living. In the winter they frequently chop wood with their men.

FROM THE PROUD POSSESSOR OF A BROTHER AT YALE.—"We had a tennis party at Great Barrington on Saturday, and between you and me it was quite a pretty affair. All the young men who were invited were Yale students and accordingly we had a deep blue awning—the college color—spread under a group of oaks overlooking the lawn. Beneath this was the tea table with a scarf of blue silk running the length of the cloth. For the central ornament we had a low antique bowl of blue china holding white lilies and occasionally trailing water lilies with their twisting stems. Beside each plate were set small tennis shoes of white straw filled with blue chiccory alternating with miniature tennis rackets having clusters of blue bachelors' buttons knotted upon them with blue ribbons. These were for favors, and very pretty they looked hanging from the girls' waists by their long streamers. All the girls who received wore white gowns with blue sashes and carried bunches of blue flowers. The Yale men sang their college glees and with them they mingled songs of the sea and of the country lanes, every suggestion being of coolness, of sparkle, of the green grass and trees of midsummer. I have seen only one fete this summer that was prettier and that was a grape party at Stockbridge a few days before. The wide verandas of the cottage furnished the assembling rooms and these were draped with green vines which hung like portieres in the doorways. Huge white marble vases stood in corners filled with double white hollyhocks, wild carrot and caraway blossoms and stalks of feathery grasses. Tea was served in the fruit garden under a long grape arbor. The table was covered with a cloth of pinkish green silk embroidered in purple floss with grape clusters. In the middle of the table was a crystal bowl piled high with green and white grapes half hidden in their own leaves. The hostess wore a pale green silk Josephine dress with a purple scarf at her waist and the attendants were maids in white dresses with vine leaves on their hair. There was a harvest dance of children dressed as cupids and nymphs in the edge of the evening."

FROM THE ADIRONDACK WILDERNESS.—"The yew bow is the latest appendage of the woman who plunges among the trees. Wherever you come upon a camping party the summer girl, be she climbing a wooded slope or picking berries in an open glade, abandons her ribbon-tied Alpenstock and leans like Maid Marion on a bow. This sudden passion for Robin Hood's weapon does not imply a high degree of the archer's skill. Indeed, many of the belted and tasseled damsels would be at a loss if called upon to nock the arrow or draw the string. Though a few of them can knock over a partridge or a heron at short range, the design of the archer's outfit is nothing more or less in most instances than to justify a pretty and convenient woods costume. A typical example of the bowman's dress is worn by a Brooklyn girl whose party have been in camp for a month on one of the best grounds. The gown is a dark hunter's green serge, the skirt of which is turned up in a hem eight or ten inches wide and which falls only a trifle below the knees. With this is worn a loose sailor blouse of the same color and material, brier stitched in white and with a crimson tie knotted under the collar. Rubber-soled buskins without heels cover the feet, and above these are buckled leggins of undressed tawny leather reaching above the knees. On her head she places a green serge fore-and-aft cap, and about her waist is a belt of the same tawny leather, holding a pouch for the arrows, tassel and spare strings. The bow itself which, like a muff or a parasol, completes the toilet, is a little over five feet long between nocks, and its strength is about twenty-six pounds. It is a fine piece of yew, valued at nearly $100, and makes a pretty appearance with its crimson plush-covered handle. To do this Brooklyn girl justice she practices shooting at a target nearly every windless day and is quite absorbed in the care of her turkey feathered arrows."

FROM A WELL-KNOWN LITERARY WOMAN WHO HAS BOUGHT A VACATION HORSE FOR HER CHILDREN.—"I tried the stable for a while, but the board money burned in my pocket, and before the first week was over I was the owner of a steed. He is, I admit, not a thing of beauty, though he apparently has been a horse forever. He is not fortunate in his color, being a dark shade of white mottled with a kind of crushed strawberry spots. His gait is a little undulatory, especially on a down grade, where he finds it convenient to favor one of his off legs. He is not burdened with superfluous flesh and has served as an object lesson in anatomy to our children, thus enabling us to combine instruction with pleasure as we jog along. Architecturally considered, he would perhaps be classified as a specimen of the pointed gothic, would be called by archæologists antique, and by the ladies possibly a moire antique. The name by which he is known among the people whose parents he has outlived is 'Whalebone,' which gives some clue to his character. The young members of the family wished him rechristened, and to please both of them we added the word, 'Hatty,' subsequently changed to 'Dick.' The young man of the household, following a taste we fear vitiated by surreptitious reading, added his mite to the horse's name, so that at present he is known in the family which he adorns as 'Whalebone Ned; or, the Phantom of the Plains.'"

FROM A PRETTY NARRAGANSETT MAID.—"Here is the device of one Narragansett girl. Wearing a pale blue muslin gown embroidered about the bottom in pink and gold tinsel, with a pink and gold scarf about her waist and a leghorn hat on her head, from which droop garlands of pink and yellow roses, she takes her seat at the fashionable driving hour every afternoon, in what sort of a vehicle do you suppose? What but a hand cart or push cart, perhaps you call it, of the same sort as those used by city costermongers, but minus the bells over the top, neatly finished in black and gilt and sumptiously cushioned. With a blue gauze parasol knotted with pink ribbon to shade her face and a tall footman in knee breeches to propel her, she looks as well content as if she had chosen for her pleasuring any one of her dozen or more dog carts or wagons at her command. This eccentric belle comes from Denver and they say she has money to throw away. She is quite pretty and doesn't appear conscious that she is doing anything strange."

FROM ATLANTIC CITY.—"There is one thing that occupies women's thoughts in summer to the exclusion of the suffrage and that is hair. What becomes of the possessor of tresses in a damp season? Where is the use of spending hours at one's mirror to make feathers lightly blowing about one's temple or rings that catch the light in their love curls when ten minutes of fog or sea turn will reduce the whole to dank, wet-looking strings? Where is the joy of passing one's summer on yachts and rocks if pretty hair is to be impossible from June to October? Here is where the summer youth has an incontestable advantage. He can sit down before the clipping machine and rise up to pass the season in his skull. He does not have to labor over an artistically careless coiffure to see Dame Nature lay it in inartistically careless ruins. Enviable male!"

There is nothing of which we are so liberal as advice.

The desire of appearing to be wise often prevents our becoming so.

Will Likely Quit Car Driving.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—W. H. Matthewson, of Cambridge, a driver of a street car for the West End Electrical Railroad Co., is one of the eight relatives, in line of heirship, of the late Hiram Pearsons, son of the late Col. Hiram Pearsons of Chicago. Young Hiram was 29 years of age and was drowned in Mackinaw Straits, Lake Michigan, last July. Matthewson's share of the estate will be about $300,000.

Further Delay in the Kemmler Case.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The hearing in the Kemmler case set down for Sept. 4, at Auburn will have to be postponed owing to delay in printing the stenographer's minutes of the evidence taken before the referee. The counsel in the case have substantially agreed to postpone the argument until about Sept. 17, and every effort will be made to have it heard at the next General Term at Rochester.

Chicago Raising Exposition Money.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Secretary Cragin, of the World's Fair Committee, says: "Over one third of the $5,000,000, World's Fair stock, $1,700,000, is already pledged, and Chicago's millionaires are yet to be heard from."

Fire Throws Many Men Out of Work.

HOPKINTON, Mass., Aug. 28.—The shoe factory of A. Coburn Son & Co., the engine house and one dwelling house were burned yesterday. Three hundred workmen are deprived of employment.

The President at Deer Park.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 28.—The President spent the morning at the east window looking over the letters that continue to come. He said that he had received no official notification of the Haytien troubles.

The Stage Robber's Shot Fatal.

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 28.—Adolph G. Fleichbein, of Belleville, Ill., who was shot in the stage robbery, died of his wounds last night.

President Shaw Refuses to Resign.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—President Shaw of the Hocking Valley Railroad has refused to resign as requested by the stockholders.

Malt Works Burned.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 28.—The Parker Malt Company's works at Norwich Falls were burned yesterday.

Hot Contest Between New Jersey and Connecticut for Junior Vice Commander.

The Next Encampment Will Be Held in Boston—A Delegation of Ex-Confederates Asking Support for the Reunion of the Blue and Gray—The Membership of the Grand Army of the Republic Over Four Hundred Thousand.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 29.—Between seven and eight hundred delegates were on the ground floor of the West Side Turner Hall this morning, when the third session of the twenty-third National Encampment was called to order by the Commander-in-Chief.

A large number of resolutions, the majority relating to changes in the pension laws and others to ritual representation in the encampment, etc., were handed in by delegations from different encampments, and referred without debate to appropriate committees.

The lengthy introduction to General Warner's report was devoted to an eloquent eulogy of the Grand Army and its purposes. The present membership of the order is 410,686, divided among 6,711 posts and 42 departments. The greatest gain was in Missouri. The death roll had been unusually heavy, 4,696 veterans having passed away during the year. Since 1871 the order had expended $2,000,000 in charity, of which a quarter of a million had been distributed within a year.

At last evening's session Gen. Russel A. Alger of Michigan was elected Commander-in-Chief for the ensuing year. Judge Veasey of Vermont and Gen. Consigny of Iowa were placed in nomination but both withdrew, and Alger's election was made by acclamation. A. G. Weissert of Wisconsin was elected Senior Vice Commander without opposition, and John F. Lovett of New Jersey was chosen Junior Vice-Commander by a vote of 182 to 127 for A. E. Tainter of Connecticut.

GEN. RUSSELL A. ALGER.

When the nominations for the locality in which the next encampment should be held were declared in order, Saratoga, Indianapolis, Washington and Boston were named. Several speeches were made in behalf of each place. A test vote resulted: Indianapolis, 29; Saratoga, 31; Washington, 68. The count was made on Boston until 402 was reached and then the advocates of the other cities threw up the sponge and the selection was made unanimous.

A delegation of ex-members of the Confederate Army arrived in the city to-day to seek the support of the National Encampment in the reunion of the Blue and the Grey which takes place at Vicksburg next month.

CAUGHT HIS WIFE OUT.

Asbury Park Excited Over a Sensational Divorce Suit.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 29.—Asbury Park is agitated by the greatest sensation of the season. A suit was instituted last night by Counsellor Samuel A. Patterson, one of the leading lawyers of the town, for divorce from his young wife on the charge of unfaithfulness, a number of well-known young men of the Park being named as co-respondents.

The first intimation Patterson had of his wife's alleged misconduct was when on returning home at midnight one night recently he almost stumbled across his truant spouse, who was silently stealing from the hotel to meet a man who was lingering on a dark corner nearby. After a desperate struggle Patterson downed the fellow and found him to be Lloyd McKee, one of the best-known young men in the Park.

McKee was arrested and confronted with the evidence against him, when he broke down and made a sworn confession, by which the temptation and fall of the young wife were fully set forth. The petition for divorce, which was filed to-day, names nearly a dozen co-respondents.

A Block Burned in Oakland, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 29.—The block bounded by 12th and 13th. Webster and Harrison street, Oakland, was burned to-day. The Dietz Opera House caught fire, but was saved. Loss, about $40,000.

SHOE CUTTERS OUT.

A Strike for Uniform Prices in Several Shops in North Adams, Mass.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Aug. 29.—The cutters in the shoe shops of W. D. Cady & Co., the Sampson Manufacturing Company, the Whitman Canady Company and N. L. Millard are out on strike claiming that prices are not uniform.

These are the same strikers who caused so much trouble in the shoe shops in town during the last six months. As all the other help are supplied with stock from the cutters' rooms the result of this strike will be disastrous unless soon settled. There are 1,500 hands employed in the shoe industry here.

GEN. EARLY'S WAR LEVY.

Frederick City Will Ask the National Government for Reimbursement.

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 29.—By virtue of an agreement with the Board of Aldermen of Frederick City, Col. G. W. F. Vernon, of Baltimore, will undertake the work of collecting from the national government the war tax, amounting to $200,000, which was levied upon Frederick by the Confederate General, Early, in 1864.

This claim for reimbursement is considered a just one, inasmuch as the city was entitled to national protection, which it did not receive, and the alternative in case of non-payment of the sum levied was the threatened destruction of the town.

Killed by Jumping from a Train.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A man named Frank Buckley, of Munsey, Rockland County, jumped from an excursion train at the depot in this place and striking his head against a barrel was instantly killed. The train was running 30 miles an hour. He was a traveling salesman for a New York lumber firm.

Scott's Coal Superintendent Resigns.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 29.—A sensation was caused here to-day by the announcement that Charles J. Devlin, general manager of the Spring Valley Coal Company, had resigned. The resignation was tendered to W. L. Scott, the president of the company. This action on the part of Devlin lends a new aspect to the situation.

Assembly Nomination and Delegates.

LITTLE VALLEY, Aug. 29.—Hon. John S. Whipple was renominated for the Assembly by the Republicans of the Second District of Cattaraugus County. N. M. Allen, J. S. Whipple, E. A. Nash, A. D. Lake, A. G. Dow and E. B. Vreeland were chosen delegates to the State Convention.

Gideon Brown to Return Home.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—It is stated on good authority that Gideon P. Brown, of Brown, Steese & Clark, who went to Canada at the time of the failure of that firm, will soon return. His flight is said to have been unnecessary, as there was nothing criminal in the financial operations that resulted in the failure.

Fell Fifty Feet from a Balloon.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Prof. Slocum. the aeronaut, while making an ascension at Antwerp, Jefferson county, fell from his balloon, a distance of fifty feet. He was picked up unconscious, but the doctors have hopes of his recovery.

Prizes Offered by the Piedmont Fair.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 29—The Piedmont Fair Association has offered a prize of $200 for the best twelve ears of corn, the growth of 1889, and also a prize of $3,000 for the best drilled military company in the United States. The fair will open on October 7 and close November 7.

Coal Production Restricted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The sales agents of the six great coal companies have decided not to alter prices at present, but to restrict the September production to 3,000,000 tons, a decrease of about 1,000,000 tons as compared with the same month last year.

A Big Coke Plant Purchase.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.—It is announced to-day that the H. C. Frick Coke Company has purchased the entire plants and interests of the J. M. Schoonmaker Coke Company, comprising 1,096 ovens, together with a large acreage of coal land. The price paid is not stated.

Senator Quay's Denials.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.—Senator Quay, chairman of the Republican National Committee, says he would not accept the nomination of Governor of Pennsylvania and has no aspirations to be President.

Nagle's Hearing Next Tuesday.

ELIXIR OF DEATH!

Fatal Results from the New Discovery.

A NOTED DOCTOR IN TROUBLE.

Twenty Drops of the Brown-Sequard Mixture Sends a Man to His Grave.

He First Had Chills, Then Typhoid Fever, and Last Night He Died—The Dead Man's Relatives Say the Elixir Caused His Death—A Coroner's Inquest and Post Mortem Examination Will Be Held Immediately.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Last Wednesday Dr. Hamilton A. Leach of this city injected twenty drops of Brown-Sequard elixir, prepared according to the great physician's formula for material procured from a slaughtered ram, into the left urm of Hugh Myers, a man in poor health about 50 years of age.

No beneficial or peculiar results were observed until Friday morning when he complained of chills and fever. This developed, his attending physician says, into typhoid fever and caused his death last night.

Myers' relatives and neighbors say he would still be alive had he not taken the elixir.

A coroner's inquest and post mortem examination will be held to determine the primary cause of the man's death.

OHIO DEMOCRATS.

They Nominate Campbell for Governor and Demand a Reduction of the Tariff.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 29.—The Democratic State Convention nominated James E. Campbell, of Butler County, for Governor on the first ballot.

The platform adopted approves the principles of the last National Democratic Convention, especially that part demanding a reduction of the tariff taxes and agrees to continue the battle for tariff reform.

A declaration in favor of just and equitable pensions for soldiers of the late war is made.

The Republican administration is denounced for its violation of Civil Service laws. The present State administration is also denounced as the most partisan, demoralizing and extravagant in the history of the State.

A protest is made against the enactment of laws vesting the appointing power in the Governor, enabling him to control the local boards of the leading cities. Home rule in Ireland is favored, and it is also demanded for Ohio.

Reunion of the Fletcher Family.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—Of the 10,000 persons in the United States who can trace their birth from Robert Fletcher who settled in Concord in 1630, about 500 were in attendance at the annual meeting of the Fletcher Family Union in Tremont Temple yesterday. President Austin B. Fletcher of New York city called the meeting to order and after prayer by Rev. C. N. Staples of Lexington and the singing to the air of "Auld Lang Syne" of original verse written by J. M. Fletcher of Nashua, N. H., he delivered a welcoming address to his kinfolk.

Second Day's Trot at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 29.—The second day of the grand circuit races proved interesting. The weather was cool and clear, and the attendance was about 10,000. The track was in excellent shape, and the records good. The feature of the day was the defeat of the Maine stallion Nelson by Alcyron in the $10,000 stake race for 2:20 trotters. Nelson won the first heat in 2:14¼ lowering his record ¾ of a second. He went so fast that he spent his strength, and was unable to come to time later on.

The Editor's Convention.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29.—The National Editorial Convention's second session was occupied by the reading of a paper on the progress of the libel law reform by E. H. Butler, of the Buffalo "News." Mr. Butler's argument was in favor of the limitation of liability to actual damages, and the requirement of security for costs on the commencement of libel suits.

Trouble Over a Band of Syrians.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The Turkish Consul has obtained a writ of habeas corpus, requiring the Collector of the Port to bring into court the 43 Syrians whom the Collector proposes to send back to their native country. The Consul will ask the court to order the men liberated.

Gen. Clarkson Visits the President.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 29.—General Clarkson, Assistant Postmaster-General arrived here to-day, and his baggage was taken to the Executive Cottage, where he will be a guest during his stay. He spent the greater part of the day consulting with the President on official business.

Pennsylvania Prohibitionists.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 29.—J. R. Johnston, of Pittsburg, was nominated for State Treasurer by the Prohibitionists. The platform adopted demands prohibition, favors the Australian ballot system, universal suffrage and longer term of residence before foreigners are naturalized and condemns trusts.

Proclamation by the Governor.

It having been represented that uncertainty exists with reference to the observance of the first Monday of September as a legal holiday, proclamation is hereby made that by virtue of an act of the Legislature of the said State, approved April 8th, 1887, the first Monday of September, to be known as Labor Day, is a legal holiday, on which no court shall be held, except in cases where said court would sit upon a Sunday, and on which no person can be compelled to labor by any person or corporation.

Given under hand and privy seal at the Executive Chamber, in the city of Trenton, this twenty-seventh day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

[L. S.]

ROB'T. S. GREEN.

Attest:—R. S. GREEN, JR., Private Secretary.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Women are entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of men.

—Roselle is to have a new hotel, ground for the same having already been broken.

—Many of the public school scholars will have new teachers when the schools reopen.

—The bells will soon ring for the purpose of calling in the straw hats and seersucker coats.

—Labor Day, on Monday next, is a legal holiday, and business will be generally suspended.

—Many of the colored people of this city, are today enjoying themselves and a bath at Florida Grove.

—There will be an interesting meeting in Reform Hall this evening. Hour of commencement 8 o'clock.

—A delegation from the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, were entertained at Newark on Tuesday evening.

—The dry and fancy goods stores will close all day of next Monday, thereby giving their clerks a full holiday.

—There will be no paper issued from this office during Monday next. It is "Labor Day" and a legal holiday.

—Most of the city clergymen have arrived home from their Summer vacation, and will occupy their individual pulpits on Sunday next.

—The Somerville jail is full with tramps, most of whom have been incarcerated within the past ten days, for trespassing on the Central Railroad.

—Tax bills now grace the telephone poles all over town, of people whose organ, cook stove, or piano, have been levied upon for the payment of delinquent taxes.

—A regular meeting of Plainfield Division, No. 223, Sons of Temperance, was held last evening, but only business of importance to the Division was transacted.

—Janitor Hope reports that today he will complete his work to and around the Bryant school building, and that everything is now in readiness for beginning the Fall term on Monday, Sept. 9th.

—Those who have the most to say against the local newspaper and abuse the editor most, are those who neither subscribe for it, advertise in it or do anything else for it but to borrow, read and complain.

—The grocers and butchers of this city are anticipating a "big time" at Boynton Beach, on Labor Day. It is said that the owner of the grove where the Plainfielders will spend the day, has given an order for 15,000 clams.

—The members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., are requested to again attend the regular meeting of the Council this evening, as several more will be initiated into the order, and a pleasant evening is promised all the members that attend.

—The Athletics and the Washingtons, both of this city, engaged in a ball match yesterday. At the end of the game the score stood 22 to 9 in favor of the former. The features of the game were the pitching of A. Vail, and the two running catches of Woodland and Shaen.

—While the cellar was being excavated for the new building at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, Mr. Wm. Wright, unearthed a copper penny bearing the date of 1845. The coin was found several feet under the ground, and has doubtless been there for many years.

—The annual meeting of the Somerset County Temperance Association, will be held in Bound Brook, on Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 10 A. M. The usual business of the association in the morning; at 2:30 P. M. an address by the Rev. W. H. DeHart, of Raritan. All those interested in the temperance cause are invited to be present.

BEEF WILL TELL.

The "Fats" Beat the "Thins" at Base Ball.

The Bowling Club's ball grounds have sunk about three feet since a ton of meat in the shape of nine more or less kettle-stomached players gamboled on its green and trod down its base lines for three hours yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the contest announced in THE PRESS between the local "Fats" and "Thins" with some imported stock to fill up the 20 cwt., team.

Captain Keller and short stop Smith of the "Fats," were each dressed in one white stocking and one red hose, with ham pants and hundred-yard belts. Mr. C. Burtis who covered third base and all the ground surrounding it as far as his feet reached, wore a white felt Gainesborough and French ties. He ran the bases like a ton of coal, and his nether limbs were much admired.

But when the admiration of the ladies on the grand stand made itself felt, nobody was in it but Russ, of Elizabeth, and Gaddis, of Bound Brook. When the latter smole the girls all cried: "Aint he just too sweet." But when Russ' bird like voice filled the air with its music, a maiden of sweet 'steen years said right out loud: "I'd like to bite you." He wore white, draped decollette on one hip where the belt was sundered.

Others who shared in the admiration of the 200 spectators assembled, were Demarest, who umpired the game with such meekness and inability; McMurray, who caught the game of his life; Andrews, who fell over his bat and tore his trousers with such grace, and pulled down five festive flies from the blue, blue sky; and the Teel brothers, who rent the atmosphere with their hits, and ran the bases like the ducks who bear their name.

Then slim Davis, also, was loudly applauded when he surprised everyone by holding a high fly of Voehl's; and Doane, too, shared with Winn the honor of striking out more of the "Fats" than were struck out of the "Thins." It was a mutual admiration game throughout, except so far as W. Burtis was concerned. He played right field like a hearse, and made Capt. Keller dangerously ill in the 5th inning.

The "Thins" were beaten by one run, and deserved it. They didn't give the "Fats" a square deal altogether. Both sides were to furnish a ball but the "Thins" failed to do so. Then the latter had a professional catcher, and he had all the tricks of the profesh. He would lay his mask on the the third base line to catch the innocent porpoises on their way home, and Russ, the candy man, had his hand cut open in consequence.

Every man tried in vain to knock over the fence and win the "box of smoke" that Tee Kay promised each one as he came to the bat. But Keller's own hit in the seventh inning was one of the longest and probably won the game. When Voehl of the "Fats" went to the bat in the seventh, the score stood 19 to 10 in favor of the "Thins." He hit the first ball that was pitched to him for a home run, and then the razzle commenced.

Three more runs followed his. and then the bases were filled by Gaddis, Burtis and Smith, with one out. Five runs were necessary to tie the score, and the friends of the "Fats" had little hope.

But there was ease in Keller's manner as he stepped into his place;
There was pride in Keller's bearing and a smile on Keller's face.
And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Captain Keller at the bat.

One swing of the bat and the ball mounted the atmosphere; it soared awhile to let the breeze blow through the whiskers it had on it, then dropped out of reach. But the bases were cleared by that time and the noble hero himself stood on third panting like a proud prize porker at an agricultural exposition. Other hits followed till the score was tied.

The result was as below, when the game closed in time to get home by daylight:

Fire on the Mountain.

At three o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the building known as "Sunnyside," on the mountain, owned by Mr. Wallace Vail. The structure was of frame, and consequently the fire burned rapidly. The building was entirely consumed, and the loss will be considerable. As the place was unoccupied, the origin of the fire is attributed to an incendiary.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Julian Scott is at New Haven.

Miss Mamie French, of West Front street, is visiting friends in Brooklyn.

Miss Madge Sutphen is spending two weeks at Muncy, Alleghany county, Pa.

Mr. Chas. E. Hobby, after a year's painful sickness, has been obliged to give up all business and surrender the old shop by No. 2 engine house where he has been established the last thirteen years.

More Damages From the "Flood."

(From the Somerville Messenger:)

Mrs. Alonzo, from back of the mountains, Monday afternoon, when opposite the blockade on Somerset street, had her buggy wheel catch the wheel of a hack standing there. The road is very narrow at this place on account of a washout by the recent flood.

The buggy was overturned and the lady thrown out and dragged quite a distance, sustaining severe bruises on her hand and legs. The horse was caught and stopped before more serious injury was done. The shafts on the buggy were broken.

Plainfields Everywhere.

People who wonder why letters for this city so often go astray because misdirected, can somewhat understand the possibility when informed that there are fifteen "Plainfields" in the United States, and three in Canada, besides a "Plainfield Centre" in New York, and a "Plainfield Springs" in Vermont.

The "Plainfields" are in New Jersey, Arkansas, California, Dakota, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, Ohio Pennsylvania, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Five Somervillians Next Saturday.

The West End team of next Saturday is to have as many local players as the Crescents. Consequently it will be Somerville against Plainfield again, as it was when the latter beat in July.

The home nine will be the same as last Saturday with Bowes behind the bat. The visiting team will be, it is said: Bishop, first base; Hatfield, catcher; Williams, third base; Harkins, pitcher; Sublich, second base; Bergen, short stop; Davenport, left field; Conkling, centre field; Frelinghuysen, right field.

New Bridges for the Central.

The laying of two additional tracks on the New Jersey Central, necessitated by the increased traffic, has obliged the company to build new bridges across the Morris Canal. Work was begun on the new iron structures a few days ago and will be pushed with all possible speed. The new bridges will cost several thousand dollars.

Inventor Daft's Buttermilk Bath.

(From the New York World.)

Mr. Daft, the electric-motor inventor, met with a curious mishap yesterday on an electric car running between Bloomfield and Newark. The car ran into Albert Baldwin's milk wagon and upset the cans. A large quantity of buttermilk found a temporary resting place on the head and face of Mr. Daft.

Knights of Honor.

A meeting was held at Somerville, Wednesday night, with a view of establishing a lodge of the K. of H. there. Mr. Feytel, of North Plainfield, and a number of other brethren were present. A Committee on Organization was appointed, consisting of L. M. Codington, George W. Abbott, Dr. J. F. McWilliam and D. H. Richards.

The Gun Club Tournament.

A C. L. S. C. TRIBUTE.

What the "Assembly Herald" Says of Our Miss Kimball.

The Chautauqua Assembly Herald of Thursday, contained the annual report of Miss Kimball, of this city, secretary of the C. L. S. C. The editor of the Herald in calling attention to it says:

"The annual report prepared by Miss Kate F. Kimball appears in the columns of this number, and the special attention of the reader is invited to it. It is a concise, comprehensive and clear statement of the scope and nature of the work the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle is doing, and must be of interest to all. Even those who have not identified themselves with this movement, or who are not in sympathy with the methods peculiar to this institution, can but note with appreciation and approval the aim and purpose of the C. L. S. C., and commend the work which it has done in this and other countries.

"The features mentioned in this review of the year which are most noticeable are: the beginning of the development of special courses; the large amount of graduate work done: the organization of local unions; the work in prisons and penitentiaries, and the remarkable spread of the influence of Chautauqua in other continents. To Chautauquans and others who have a concern in this great movement, the result of this year's work, as recorded in this report, are most gratifying. Miss Kimball, to whose energetic and untiring zeal, fidelity and ingenuity Chautauqua is so much indebted, has the thanks and praises of all for her noble and unselfish work."

Somerville's Police Begin Right.

(From the Somerset Messenger.)

It is not a numerous body of men, but its creation appears to have been attended thus far with good results. The first apparent effect of policing the town is the divorce that has been effected between the street-corner loafer and his habitual lounging place. No Chicago divorce court ever effected a quicker separation. We hope it may not be a mere broom-drill affair, but a thorough and lasting reform, one that will grow more effective as it grows older.

In order that no one should plead ignorance of the ordinances for the moral welfare of the town and establishing a police force, the Commissioners, in addition to having them published in the newspapers, have had them posted in prominent places, so that he who runs may read. After this there can be no excuse for their violation.

Bazaar at The Crescent.

The Rainbow Bazaar, which is to be held by the ladies of the All Saints memorial church of Scotch Plains, at The Crescent, on the afternoons and evenings of Sept. 6 and 7, will be one of the most elaborate and complete affairs of this nature ever presented in this locality. The decorations will be of the seven rainbow colors, and the appearance of the hall is promised to be exceptional and unique.

Fancy costumes will be worn upon the floor and in the booths by the ladies in charge of the several departments. Some of the toilets will be very startling and altogether pretty. Promenade concerts will be given every evening, while a "chef de cuisine" from New York will serve an oyster supper of exceptional merit. Tickets are on sale at business places to be announced in Monday's PRESS.

The "Never-Outs" Win.

A game of ball played on the Crescent grounds, Tuesday afternoon, between the "Never Outs" and the "Outs," resulted in a victory for the former club by a score of 10 to 4. The battery for the "N. O's" was Winn and Ball, and for the "O's," Man and Beekman. Mr. Rest umpired.

A feature of the game was a home run by Runyon of the "N. O's," made while right fielder Smith was taking a nap against the fence. Pitcher Ananias Man destroyed the score while the scorer was absent for a drink, which prevents it being given by innings.

North Plainfield Petit Jurors.

Sheriff Tunison, on Tuesday drew a panel of 50 names before Judges Bartine, Jameson and TenEyck, to serve as petit jurors at the September term of the Somerset county courts. The list is pretty evenly distributed among the respective townships. The names of the jurors drawn from North Plainfield, are: Henry A. Voehl, Peter Benward, Thomas Newman, John H. Goodwin, Edward C. Morse.

Feared Lockjaw.

An out of town correspondent writes: "Winfield Coddington, the 14-year-old son of Job Coddington of North Plainfield, accidentally ran a pitchfork through his foot at Mt. Bethel, last week, while on a visit to relatives. Fears of lockjaw were entertained, but he is now believed to be out of danger."

The Somerville Fair.

The coming fair of the Somerset County Agriculture Society, promises to be as good as any the society has ever had, and all that is wanted to make it a perfect success is for the farmers of Somerset to enter heart and soul into the enterprise.

"Some years ago Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of asthma after the best medical skill had failed to give me relief. A few weeks since, being again troubled with the disease, I was promptly relieved by the same remedy."—F. S. Hessler, Editor Argus, Table Rock, Nebr.

IS HE A TRAIN WRECKER?

John Reed Accused of Causing the Dunellen Accidents.

On Wednesday of last week a man by the name of John Reed was jailed on a warrant from Justice Cole, of Dunellen, on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and trespassing on the cars. It is now learned that the Central railroad authorities think that he is the man who recently wrecked two trains at Dunellen. The officials are reticent as to the evidence in their possession, but they say that interesting developments may be given the public.

The evidence against Reed must be supplemented by other testimony before anything can be done in the case. Reed is now in the Middlesex county jail for thirty days on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He denies, of course, all knowledge of the wreck.

On the charge of trespassing on the cars he has been held to await the action of the grand jury.

Public School Items.

(From the Central Times.)

The janitors of the different public school buildings take great pride in polishing up the school furniture during the Summer vacation. Everything looks as fresh and bright as if just from the factory.

Janitor Clarkson, who has charge of the Stillman and Franklin buildings, takes special pleasure in showing the rejuvenation and improvements in those structures. A steam heating apparatus and a ventilating apparatus have been put in the High school, or Stillman building. It is expected that these improvements will make it a model of its kind. The ventilators all run into shafts which pass up through the Assembly Hall at either end to the roof.

The Franklin building has been given a coat of red paint by Woolston & Buckle.

The Washington building has had considerable repairing done to the outside woodwork.

Janitor Walker thinks that his building, the Irving, is the daisy. Being the newest structure, it is no doubt entitled to that distinction.

The Board walks in the High school grounds have been removed and a stone flagging will be laid between the High school and Franklin buildings under the wooden awning.

The crushed stone on the play grounds there will be better covered with fine sand, which will be a great saving on shoe leather. That fine crushed stone will cut out a pair of soles on a lively child in two weeks.

"So Full of Wealth and Handsome Equipages as Plainfield."

In speaking of the county roads for which contracts to build have just been awarded as told in yesterday's PRESS, the Elizabeth Journal says, among other things, "The selection of the third road, from Plainfield to the Cranford line, will not please everybody, but under all the circumstance the board did well in selecting it. Plainfield pays a good share of the costs, and should have some of the benefits, and the road reaching as far as Cranford in the direction of Elizabeth will be no small importance to a city so full of wealth and handsome equipages as Plainfield.

"It is unfortunate that the whole of this central thoroughfare could not have been built this year, but there is this advantage, the success of the other roads and the defect in this will spur the people on to enlarged demands for these splendid roads. The Board of Freeholders have done good work in this whole matter of roads, and they are to be given the highest credit. They have considered the whole matter on its merits, without political bias or personal aggrandizement, and the Union county roads will be a monument to their careful, well informed, economical but progressive policy."

Is That the Secret of the Matter?

(From the Trenton True American.)

The editor of the Gazette is very much surprised that Asbury Park Bradley should be willing to abandon prohibition for high license. Mr. Bradley has tried prohibition and finds that it does not prohibit, and is therefore willing to try something else. What he wants is practical results connected, of course, with a certain amount of worldly profits. He has very large interests in Asbury Park and he has ascertained that he cannot keep liquor out if he lets people in. It is necessary for the success of the place that people should be comfortable there and so Mr. Bradley is willing that liquor shall be sold, especially if it be sold under conditions which will produce a considerable income to the municipal government, or in other words, to Bradley. That is the secret of the matter.

His First Spree in 15 Years.

(From the Elizabeth Herald.)

Last night Martin Brady, a resident of Plainfield, formerly of this city, came to town, and meeting a friend, partook too freely of alcoholic stimulants, which resulted in his getting so drunk that he mistook the sidewalk for his downy couch, and laying down was soon fast asleep.

Sergeant Hess happening to pass along, discovered the sleeping man, and after much difficulty succeeded in getting him on his feet and taking him to police headquarters, where he was locked up for safe keeping.

This morning Justice Hetfield discharged him, having learned that yesterday was the first time in fifteen years that he had touched liquor in any form.

HOT SHOT FOR JEFF DAVIS.

Lively Discussion Over the ex-Confederate President at a Missouri Reunion.

HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 29.—The ex-Confederate soldiers of Missouri met in their seventh annual re-union yesterday. Senator Vest was present and addressed his old comrades. Col. J. T. Crisp also spoke. During his remarks he eulogized Lincoln and Grant, when some one in the crowd asked: "What's the matter with Jeff Davis?"

Col. Crisp answered that he had no admiration for the ex-Confederate President, when Gen. Joseph, who was Col Crisp's superior officer during the war, interrupted him and rebuked him for speaking lightly of Mr. Davis. An animated dialogue followed, and the two former comrades were kept from resorting to blows only by the interference of their friends.

NO CORNER IN BONDS.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Say the Money Market is All Right.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Assistant Secretary Batcheller, of the Treasury Department was asked to-day about the story that Wall street speculators have bought up $20,000,000 in bonds, forming a syndicate to force the Secretary of the Treasury to buy at their price to prevent a stringency in the money market.

"All we know about it," said Mr. Batcheller "is that we are getting all the bonds we want at our own figure. If there has been any such attempt as described it has failed. We got $2,000,000 of bonds yesterday at 120, our own price, and already this morning we have offers of two million more at the same price. This is better than we have done before. There is no danger of a stringency in the money market. There is now an abundance of money. With two millions a day going into the banks, I imagine no one expects a stringency."

S. Mason Smith's Mysterious Death.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug 29.—S. Mason Smith, ex-Supervisor of the town of Lee, and a member of the Democratic State Committee, died at Lee Centre yesterday under mysterious circumstances. About daylight a horse was found tangled up in the harness of a buggy which had gone over an embankment eight feet high, near a barn entrance. Mr. Smith was hatless and died without recovering consciousness. At the time he was found a handkerchief half covered his face and there was a severe wound on his cheek, of a character that indicates a murderous assault.

Earnings of the Erie.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The gross earnings of the New York, Lake Erie & Western R. R., for the month of July, $2,538,439; increase over gross earnings for same month last year of $159.670; expenses for July, 1889, $1,656,514: increase over same period last year of $117,194; net earnings for July, 1889, $663,053; increase over same period last year $32,429.

Pigs That Milk a Cow.

J. L. Grant, of Wapping, Conn., calls public attention to his pigs. There are half a dozen of them, and they know more than all the rest of the pigs in Connecticut. Mr. Grant was not aware how smart his pigs were until, having noticed that one of his cows gave less milk than she was wont to do, he investigated the mystery. He found that the pigs were milking the cows regularly. They were only eight weeks old, but they are long enough by standing on their hind legs to milk the cow, which is short, quite handily. The cow does not mind it.

Briton Versus Teuton.

London has begun a campaign against German competition, German clerks, German goods and German working-men. There has been signs of an important movement in this direction several times in the last few years, but nothing serious has been attempted until now. In the "city" and in the east end, where the German is a formidable competitor, the agitation may become dangerous for the Teutons. The German works cheaper and yet lives better than the Englishman; hence the anger.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

THE STRIKE STILL ON

The Dock Companies Trying to Make a Compromise.

THE WORKMEN WILL NOT YIELD

Latest Calculations Place the Number of Strikers at 150,000.

The Importation of Belgians Prevented by Socialist Burns—A Mob of Howling Strikers Attack the Coal Vans—The Men Say They Will Parade the Streets Until the Companies Give in—An Advance of Wages Demanded by Glasgow Dockmen.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Meetings of commercial organizations in different trades were held to-day in various parts of the city, and in every case resolutions were passed urging the dock companies to stop the strike by conceding their employes' demands.

The Police Rely on Burns.

Although the strike thus far has been conducted with remarkable moderation on the part of the men, signs of distemper are already beginning to show. Attempts at violence, and even arson and pillage, were reported at frequent intervals yesterday. Burns, the head and front of the strike, has arranged to be promptly telegraphed for wherever trouble is threatened, and the police, who have every confidence in his good faith and his wonderful influence with the strikers, are in constant communication with him. Through his efforts serious acts of lawlessness attempted by his more headstrong followers were averted. He had only to show himself to the men to inspire the most unbounded enthusiasm, and when violence is threatened his orders to desist are promptly obeyed.

Dock Officials Trying to Settle.

The dock officials and a committee of their striking laborers held another conference to-day at which some progress was made toward a settlement of their differences. The points of contention have now been reduced to a single one, but on this point, the two committies seem to be as far from an agreement as ever. At to-day's conference the dock officials offered to concede every demand made by the men except that for sixpence per hour. The delegates of the strikers insisted upon the sixpence and the conference was again suspended without a settlement.

Mr. Burns, the Socialist leader presided at a meeting of the striking dock hands held this morning. In an address Mr. Burns said that the companies threatened to import 4,000 Belgians to fill the places of the strikers, but he had apprised the Belgian Workmen's Union with regard to the state of affairs and had blocked the companie's game in that direction.

The latest calculations place the number of strikers at 150,000.

The leaders are determined and threaten that the strikers will parade the streets until the companies concede their demands.

A mob of howling strikers, numbering several thousands, attacked coal vans leaving the yards under a police escort. They undid chains and traces compelling the drivers to return. In a short while 6,000 strikers had arrived on the scene and started for the coal exchange.

Delegates from the coal heavers visited the coal exchange this afternoon and admitted that they had no grievances of their own, but had struck on principle and would not resume work until the demands of the dockmen had been granted. The merchants pointed out the injustice of this position, but to no effect. It is said that 10,000 of Lord Durham's miners are idle by reason of the London strike.

Boulanger Not Yet Crushed.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—General Boulanger will, it is announced, stand for election to the Chamber of Deputies in Montmartre. Among the Boulangist candidates who will stand for election is General Thibaudin.

The Duke Constantine's Marriage.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Prince and Princess of Wales will go to Athens to attend the marriage of the Duke Constantine, Crown Prince of Greece, to Princess Sophie, of Germany, sister of the Emperor William.

An American Festival for France.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—It is stated that M. Alphand, the French engineer, intends to organize in Paris in October a grand American festival in honor of the 397th anniversary of the discovery of America.

Mrs. Maybrick to Be Taken to Woking.

The French Elections.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The date for the general elections has been fixed, by a decree signed by President Carnot, for September 22.

Defaulter Kelleher in Jail.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—Dennis A. Kelleher, the defaulting confidential clerk of Capt. Beck, the tug owner, was committed to prison in default of $10,000 bail. Kelleher, who is charged with swindling his employer out of $38,000, was very cleverly captured in Baltimore last week.

The President Won't Interfere.

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 29.—The case of Walker, the Fort Smith, Ark., murderer, who begged the President for commutation of sentence, was decided this morning. President Harrison refused to interfere, and the man will hang.

LOVES HER STILL.

Hamilton Still Infatuated With His Murderous Wife.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 29.—Mr. Hamilton in talking with a friend last night admitted that he was terribly depressed by Monday's tragic occurrence. The whole tenor of his conversation indicated that he is completely infatuated with his wife and that nothing in the world could induce him to desert her. He didn't, however, respond to his wife's good-bye as she was led from the Court room yesterday morning. It is believed that he will remove with his baby to May's Landing to-morrow where he can pay daily visits to the jail.

Another attempt will be made to-day to take the ante-mortem statement of nurse. The officers regard her as the most horribly profane woman they ever came into contact with, and so far have had little success in getting a connected statement from her.

Miss Donnelly is resting quietly this afternoon and the physicians express some hope of her recovery. Should her condition continue to show signs of improvement, Mrs. Hamilton will no doubt be admitted to bail should Prosecutor Thompson consent.

Sullivan's Sparring Tour.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—John L. Sullivan having abandoned all hope of securing a place to give an exhibition here will open his sparring tour in New York. Jack Barnitt left for New York last night to make the preliminary arrangements, and Sullivan will follow, probably on Sunday night. Sullivan said to-day that Liney Tracy of Brooklyn, who is a big and clever fellow, might be his sparring companion.

Sold to a Pennsylvania Company.

CHEYENNE, Wy., Aug. 29.—The Michigan Copper lode one of the best mines in the Rawhide district, 100 miles north of this place, was sold yesterday to the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co., of Pittsburg, for $25,000. Ore will be hauled to the company's Eastern works for treatment.

Reduction in California's Wine Product.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—The wine product of California will not exceed 12,000,000 gallons this year. This is a reduction of 8,000,000 gallons from early estimates. The reduction is partly due to damage by sunburn and mildew.

STORIES ABOUT DUELS.

Sometimes There Is Fun Even on the Field of Honor.

The Famous Irish Barrister's Precaution—An Antagonist in the Chimney—A Georgia Incident—De Witt Clinton's Plucky Opponent.

We sat in the smoking-room of one of the Long Island Sound steamers, says a writer in the New York Mail and Express, and an intelligent-looking member of the party, who smoked cigarettes, related the anecdote of Curran, the celebrated Irish barrister, who fought a duel with a man much larger than himself. His opponent objected on the ground that, being the largest, he stood in the most danger of getting hit. But Curran said that should make no difference. They could chalk off on his adversary's body a space the exact size of his own form, and he would promise to shoot within the lines. The proposal was not accepted, but the duel was a harmless one.

"That reminds me," said another, tipping back his chair, "of an English gentleman who told of a duel fought between an Englishman and a Frenchman. The weapons were pistols, and the place a room of pitch darkness. When the time came to fire the Englishman, not wishing to have the blood of another on his hands, discharged his pistol up the chimney—and he brought down the Frenchman! 'Now,' said the gentleman who related this, 'whenever I tell this story in France I always send the Englishman up the chimney.'"

Then another told of an incident that occurred in Georgia many years ago. A judge, celebrated as a duelist, who had lost a leg and who was known to be a dead shot, challenged a Colonel somebody, a humorous character and a man of great attainments. Friends tried to prevent the meeting, but to no effect. The parties met on the grounds, when the Colonel was asked if he was ready

"No," he replied.

"What are you waiting for, then?" inquired the judge's second.

"Why, sir," said the Colonel, "I have sent my boy into the woods to hunt a bee gum to put my leg in, for I don't intend to give the judge any advantage over me. You see he has a wooden leg."

The party laughed and the fight was broken up. The Colonel was afterward told it would sink his reputation.

"Well," he replied, "it can't sink me any lower than a bullet can."

"But the papers will be filled about you."

"Well," said he, "I would rather fill fifty papers than one coffin."

This recalled a duel of an entirely different character between De Witt Clinton, once Governor of New York, with a plucky opponent, who was slightly wounded at the first fire.

"Are you satisfied?" asked Clinton.

"No, I am not," angrily responded the other.

They exchanged shots once more and he was wounded again. The former question was repeated, but he still demanded satisfaction.

The third time he was wounded, and Clinton asked: "Are you satisfied now?"

"No."

"Then go to thunder for satisfaction!" exclaimed Clinton, and, flinging down his pistol, he left the field.

"That's different," said one of the company, as he scraped out his pipe-bowl with his penknife, "from an occurrence at Albany, probably about the time of Governor Clinton." And then he related the following:

"It was, during a session of the Legislature, and a word spoken in debate by some member touched upon the private character of a brother member and resulted in a challenge, which was promptly accepted. The messenger from the challenging party asked the gentleman who accepted the challenge: 'When can we expect your friend?'

"'Don't want any friend," was the answer; 'I waive all such advantages. He can have a dozen if he wishes.'

"'This is magnanimous, but is not according to the code. However, if I am to confer with you directly, what weapons?'

"'Broadswords.'

"'The time?'

"'Day after to-morrow at twelve o'clock at noon precisely. The place on the banks of the St. Lawrence. Your principal shall stand on one side of the river and I will stand on the other, and we will fight it out.'

"The second frowned. 'This is no joking matter,' he said, 'you are not serious.'

"'Yes, I am, too. Hasn't the challenged party a choice of weapons and place?'

"'Certainly, but not to unusual weapons in unusual places.'

"'Well, pistols will not be objected to, of course?'

"'Assuredly not, if it is the gentleman's weapon.'

"'Good, then. We will meet to-morrow, and at twelve o'clock precisely we will fight on top of Sugar Loaf hill, standing back to back, marching ten paces, and then turning and firing. Will that arrangement be satisfactory?'

"'It will; we shall be there.'

"Sugar Loaf Hill was exactly what its name imports—a sharp, conical pillar of ground, remarkable in all the country around for its peculiar formation. At the time specified the parties appeared at the place designated. After reaching the apex of the hill and taking time to catch their breath, the challenger and his second surveyed the situation.

"'Sir,' said the second, 'what kind of a place is this for a duel? Why, both parties would be out of sight at eight paces, let alone ten; and then in turning to fire, you must fire into the side hill.'

"'So much the better for both of us,' answered the party of the second part. 'We are on terms of perfect equality then, which is not always the case in modern duels.'

"'Sir!' roared the challenging principal to his opponent, 'sir! you are a coward!'

"'Well, sposin' I am! You knew I was or you wouldn't have challenged me.'

"They descended. One party was laughing, but the other stormed and threatened with horrid oaths. They were never reconciled, and they never fought."

A quiet man who had been listening in silence arose and said:

"Gentlemen, you may feel inclined to make some comments on those duelists on Sugar Loaf Hill, but one of them was an ancestor of mine." We asked which it was, but he smiled and shook his head, and the company separated for their state-rooms.

Jewelry of Low-Class Chinese.

The only ornament worn by the Chinese of the lower or laundrymen class is a wristlet, a polished translucent ring of white or greenish stone, just large enough to slip over the hand. They are quite expensive, ranging from $8 for an inferior dull white specimen to $50 for the green rings that are most highly prized. They must be entirely free from imperfections and emit a clear, sonorous ring when struck a light blow. Some Chinese never remove them from their wrists, thinking that they give increased strength to the arm, and specimens dug from graves are most valued, as they are believed to be especially efficacious in warding off evil spirits.

MISSED BY A RATTLER.

An Incident Recalled by Dr. Conklin of New York's Menagerie.

"I would rather treat almost any sick animal in the world than a sick snake," said Dr. Conklin, the superintendent of the Central Park menagerie to a New York Sun reporter the other day. "Not that I mind handing a snake particularly, but on account of the accidents that are likely to happen.

"A few years ago," continued the doctor, "I had an experience in treating a sick boa constrictor that will last me until the end of my life. We had at that time a big cage of boa constrictors and several poisonous snakes as well in the lion house. Very often a snake's mouth becomes sore, and it is necessary to rub medicines between its jaws to save its life. One of our constrictors was afflicted this way. I prepared some medicine and went into the house one night with a new attendant we had just hired. This young man's name was Joe, and he had been a snake performer with a traveling menagerie. The sides of the cage were of glass, as they are now, and inside were about forty snakes of all kinds. There were a dozen big constrictors, a python or two, and a score of rattlers, moccasins and copperheads. As Joe began rattling the door of the cage the inmates woke up, and when they saw the light they were ready for a fight. The sick snake lay at the other end of the cage. The usual way in such cases is to throw a rope noose over the snake's neck and drag him to the cage door. Then his head is drawn out and covered with a meal bag or piece of carpet. After that it is easy enough to catch him back of the head, press open his jaws, and rub in the medicine. This was done up to the point where his head should have been drawn out through the door. The rattlers and other small snakes were twisted together in a squirming tangle in the upper end of the cage, and the sick constrictor was threshing his big tail about like a dying whale.

"'I'll go inside, Mr. Conklin,' said Joe, 'and give it to him there. I ain't afraid of any snake that ever crawled.'

"Before I could stop him he sprang into the cage and grabbed the constrictor back of the head, opening his mouth a yard wide, it seemed to me. Then he took the bottle in his left hand and proceeded to rub the sore spots. Of course he was busy watching his patient and didn't have eyes for any thing else. But it was different with me. I saw one of the biggest rattlers coiled for a spring. If he bit Joe it would be certain death, and inside of a fraction of a second the blow would be struck. My blood seemed to turn into ice water. My head swam round and round, and my heart stopped beating. I would have called out, but my tongue was hot and dry and stuck to the roof of my mouth. I finally managed to spring toward the door. At that instant the rattlesnake darted his head forward with a vicious spring, landing between Joe's fingers. At the same instant Joe dropped the constrictor's head and sprang from the cage to the ground.

"'Suck your hand quick,' I shouted, 'and here's some whisky. Don't waste a minute, man. Time is precious.'

"'What's the matter?' he asked, as though surprised at my command.

"'Matter enough. You're bitten by a rattler.'

"'Not quite as bad as that,' he said, with a little laugh. 'It hit the bottle in my hand. I'm not touched. That's nothing. I didn't think you saw it.'

"I'm not a coward by nature," continued the doctor as he reached for his hat, "but I felt as weak as any baby when Joe stopped talking, and the next man who expects to go into a rattlesnake cage with my consent must chloroform me first."

CURIOUS EXPERIMENT.

How an Editor Arrived at a Conclusion Concerning His Own Production.

Speaking of editors, the case of the editor who wants to contribute an article to some other periodical than his own—a magazine, for instance—is a curious one. For the time being he puts himself in the place of a contributor and feels the pangs of a timid author. The Boston Transcript listener once knew a newspaper editor who was inspired to write an article of a light and entertaining character, suitable for a magazine. He wrote it in his odd moments, and then set to speculating as to whether it had any particular value. It seemed to him that it had, but the reflection that he might be prejudiced in its favor troubled him. He had had precisely the same feeling when somebody had brought him an article that he wanted to judge favorably. How was he to get his own impartial judgment on his own article? He thought about it some time, and finally decided that the only way to get the necessary conditions was to send himself the article through the mail, to receive it with other contributions, and to treat it all the way through as if it were somebody else's.

The plan worked to a charm. The editor wrote a little note to himself to accompany the article, inclosed stamps for a reply or a return of the manuscript, and mailed the whole at the post-office. Toward the close of the day, when the editor was near the end of a lot of wearisome communications, and had got himself into the declining mood that comes with fatigue, his article arrived. After he had allowed it to lie around a while, he broke the seal and read it. Then he took a little slip, wrote on it reflectively, inclosed it with the manuscript in a big envelope, stuck on the stamp, sealed the envelope and put it into the department marked "post-office" in the tin box that hung by the side of his desk. Next morning he received the parcel back, and read with breathless interest this note, which accompanied the manuscript:

"Unavailable. Too discursive and trivial in its tone. Should have been elaborated with more care. Many passages not needed in the presentation of the idea. Contains promise, however; author is advised to try again."

How Boss Says His Prayers.

W. S. Wells, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the possessor of a beautiful black and white cocker spaniel, which for intelligence perhaps is not surpassed by any dog in the State, says the Philadelphia Press. Every morning as soon as Boss hears his master stirring he brings his slippers, after which he scampers to the front porch for the morning paper, always being careful to close the door after him. Boss never thinks of retiring for the night without first saying his prayers. He places his front feet upon a chair, bows his head reverently, closes his eyes, and nothing but "amen" pronounced by his master will induce him to cease his devotions. One evening last week, as Mr. Wells was closing the house, Boss came in with what his master supposed to be a bone, but when ordered out with it refused to obey, and insisted upon delivering to Mr. Wells what he held in his mouth. Upon examination Mr. Wells found, to his great surprise, not a bone, but his spectacles and case that he had dropped by accident in the barn while attending to his horse. Boss is not for sale.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

Some Pertinent Comments on the Every-Day Affairs of Life.

Fretting cures no evil, writes Frank B. Welch in the Arkansaw Traveler, but it sometimes relieves the monotony of too much happiness.

It is advisable to put our heart into whatever work we may have to perform, but it is wise to think well before we put our money in.

When a person becomes too good to overlook the faults of the unfortunates, then he is guilty of an error which loses to him the glory of his goodness.

The chronically unhappy man who persists in trying to sour humanity, should get him to his closet with his woes and give the sunshine a chance to warm his neighbors.

AERIAL HONEYMOON

A Young Couple Take a Bridal Trip in a Balloon.

MARRIED ON THE FAIR GROUNDS

The Ceremony Performed by the Speaker of the New Hampshire Legislature.

Twenty Thousand People Witness the Marriage and See the Couple Soar Away in the Clouds—The Balloon Descended Last Night After a Pleasant Voyage—The Third Bridal Trip in the Air that Has Taken Place in the United States.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 30.—Standing in the velvet-lined car of Professor J. K. Allen's big balloon yesterday afternoon, pretty Addie Brooks and sturdy Joseph Boyd were made one. Speaker Upton, the New Hampshire legislator, performed the ceremony.

Twenty thousand people were on the grounds to view a novel spectacle, a bridal trip in a balloon. It was the largest number of people ever gathered within an enclosure in the State of New Hampshire.

The balloon hung directly over a platform built in the middle of the race-track. Preceded by a platoon of police the landau containing the pair had been driven through the crowd to the platform.

The bride was attired in a stylish traveling costume of drab and carried a boquet. She is slightly below the medium height, with a pleasing figure and fair complexion. She is twenty-one, and her father is the village blacksmith at Bedford.

The groom, Joseph F. Boyd, wore a black cutaway coat and light trousers. He is twenty-six years old, an Englishman by birth, and works in the Amoskeag Mills.

Speaker Upton concluded the marriage ceremony with some excellent advice to the husband and wife. Then Prof. Allen and a reporter entered the car, the ropes were cut and up they went. The fair bride leaned over waving her handkerchief and thousands waving handkerchiefs answered her.

The great balloon moved steadily to the west and in twenty ninutes was out of sight. This is the third "balloon bridal-trip" that has taken place in the United States. The management of the fair gave the couple $200, and leading business men have given them a splendid housekeeping outfit.

The balloon decended at Gaffstown at 6 in the afternoon, and the newly married couple returned to their home in a carriage.

Sacketts Harbor Razed By Fire.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—A fire, which is supposed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the entire business portion of Sacketts Harbor. The telegraph and telephone office, every saloon in the place, dry goods and grocery, hardware and general stores and warehouses, were all destroyed. The village has no fire engine and the efforts of the United States Regulars at Madison barracks with old fashioned hand pump engines alone saved the whole town from destruction. The loss is about $40,000.

The Lost City Located.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Prof. E. N. Horsford, of Cambridge, has, after much study, located the site of Norombega, the "lost city of New England," at the mouth of Stony Brook, Waltham. He has begun the erection there of a round field stone tower to be 12 feet in diameter at the base, and 40 feet high, with an interior flight of stairs to the top. It will be inscribed as follows: "Norse tower to mark the site of Norombega, erected by E. N. Horsford of Cambridge."

Unitarian Missionaries.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—A meeting in connection with the departure of a party of missionaries under the auspices of the Unitarian Board was held last evening. Of the number sent away six sailed for Turkey and India and eleven for China or Japan. Prayers were offered by Dr. Jeremiah Taylor, of Boston, and Rev. Thomas Laurie, D. D. of Providence. The meeting was of intense interest lasting nearly three hours.

Doubts About an Extra Session

DEER PARK, Md., Aug. 30.—Congressman McKinley of Ohio was the most prominent caller at the Executive Cottage to-day. Mr. McKinley's mission was to advise the President not to call an extra session of Congress. His interview with the President was quite protracted, and the matter was discussed in all its phases. The President has not yet determined whether or not there will be an extra session.

Big Fire at Easton, Pa.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 30.—The business store and factory of Henry A. Sage & Co. were burned yesterday. Sage & Co.'s loss on stock is $20,000; no insurance. The loss on the building, which was owned by Mrs. Nolan, of Philadelphia, is $16,000; insured.

Bad Freight Wreck Near Brewsters, Conn.

BREWSTERS, Conn., Aug. 30.—At a point two miles east of here yesterday a freight train on the N. Y. & N. E. road ran into the rear of another train making a bad wreck. Ten cars and an engine were destroyed by fire. No one was hurt.

TWO HOMES DESERTED.

A Married Man and Woman Desert Their Households and Elope.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 30.—Christopher Scheelenburger, a carpenter and builder of 406 Bond street, and a man well known in this city, and Mrs. Louise Grasser, wife of a saloon keeper at 344 Fulton street, have eloped, and it is said they have gone to Germany.

Scheelenburger has with him $3,000 of his wife's money, while Mrs. Grasser is credited with having several hundred dollars of her husband's money, all her jewelry and a gold watch and chain. She is ten years younger than her husband. They have been married twenty years, but have no children. They hired their store of Scheelenburger. Mrs. Scheelenburger recently accused her husband of spending too much time at Grasser's saloon and paying too much attention to Mrs. Grasser. Scheelenburger flew into a passion, and seizing his bank book left the house and went to board at Grasser's.

His wife then prosecuted him for non-support and he determined to leave the city. Mrs. Grasser agreed to go with him, and during her husband's absence the flight was arranged.

New York Woman Suffragist Convention.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Woman Suffrage party's State Committee has called the party's State Convention to meet at Saratoga on October 2 and 3. Mrs. M. Louise Thomas, the distinguished philanthropist and orator, ex-president of Sorosis, was elected Chairman of the State Committee in place of Dr. Clemence S. Lozier, deceased. Mr. George Pellew, nephew of John Jay, was chosen Secretary, in place of Charles K. Whipple, who has removed from the State.

New Jersey Glassblowers Successful.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Aug. 30.—Whitall, Tatum & Co., and their green glassblowers held a conference last evening, at the conclusion of which the firm agreed to pay the wages demanded by the men, and to enforce the apprenticeship regulations adopted at the Atlantic City convention. Fire has been started under one furnace which will go into blast next week, and it will shortly be followed, it is said, by two more factories.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—An elegantly-dressed man about 50 years of age was arrested in the Agricultural Department grounds yesterday on complaint of John Olden, who claimed that he had raped a little girl of 10 in the grounds. The stranger, who gave his name as Arthur Jay and then as William J. Elliston, was locked up. His case will come up for consideration to-morrow. The girl's name is Louisa Withers.

Railroad Wreck in the Oil Region.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 30.—Two freight trains on the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia Railroad came together at Colegrove Station last night. Fifteen cars were wrecked and the engineer of one of the freight trains and three tramps, who were stealing a ride, were buried under the smash-up.

Drowned in the Petapsco River.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Caroline Conklin, wife of Joseph Conklin of No. 619 Conklin street, was drowned in the Patapsco River last evening. She and her husband and child were out for a day's recreation. They were returning home when Mrs. Conklin fell overboard.

A Wealthy Hartford Man Swindled.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 30.—Moses Williams, a wealthy citizen, has been swindled out of $5,000 by two unknown men, who put up a good game of cards against his cash. The case has been put in the hands of the police.

The Arabs' Hearing Postponed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The habeas corpus cases of the Arabs detained at Castle Garden by the Collector of Port, which were to have been argued yesterday, were postponed until September 11 on account of technical defects in the writs.

Sullivan on a Spree.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—John L. Sullivan, the big pugilist, was on a disgraceful spree last night. In the Tremont House his language was so vile that he would have been arrested had his friends not dragged him away.

West Point Cadets.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The following cadets to the West Point Military Academy have been appointed: Alvin M. Evans, Franklin, Pa.; Chas. T. Cain, Freeport, Ill., and C. A. M. Wells, Hyattsville, Md.

Key Granted a Respite.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Aug. 30.—Paul Key, the negro who was to have been hanged next Tuesday for the rape of a little white girl named Alice Ballard, has been granted a respite for 30 days.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Fourth-class postmasters were appointed in New York State as follows: B. R. Labdell, North Salem; H. H. Preston, Shelton Island Heights.

Death of a New Hampshire Minister.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 30.—Rev. William Dugdale, pastor of the Plaistow Baptist Church, Plaistow, N. H., died last evening aged 35, at the home of his father in this city.

GERMANS IN A RAGE

Their Flag Insulted by a Canadian Admiral.

EXCITEMENT OVER THE AFFAIR

A German Vessel Dragged from Her Anchorage in Esquimalt Harbor.

Her Place Desired by a Dominion Man-of-War—On the Refusal of the Captain to Move His Vessel Canadian Blue Jackets Undertook the Job—The Dominion Admiral Exceeds His Powers and Serious Trouble is Expected.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 30.—Excitement has been caused in shipping circles here through the action of Admiral Heneage in forcibly towing the German bark J. H. Husted from her anchorage in Esquimalt Harbor to the harbor entrance, though her master protested and ran up the German colors. The bark was discharging coal, and Admiral Heneage sent word to Capt. Reinears to move out, as he desired anchorage for a war vessel. The Captain refused to do so, and the Admiral sent an officer and blue jackets to move the vessel. The outcome is watched with interest.

Captain Rinears was absent from his ship when she was towed away from her anchorage, he having gone to Victoria to protest to Mr. Yard, the charterer of his vessel. The bark was left in the mouth of the harbor, in a dangerous position, as her pilot asserts, being in the way of vessels entering the harbor. What makes matters worse is that the mouth of the harbor is lined with torpedoes. Should the vessel drag her anchor she stands a good chance of being blown up.

Capt. Clark, the harbor master, claims that Admiral Heneage has exceeded his powers, as no portion of Esquimalt Harbor is exclusively devoted to the Navy. If the Admiral desired to make any change he should have first consulted the marine agent and harbor master. The latter went to Esquimault to interview the Admiral, but that officer was ashore. After consultation it was decided to engage a tug, and tow the vessel back to her former anchorage and this will be done this morning.

THE WILD WEST STYLE.

Complete Destruction of a Prohibition Newspaper Office by a Mob.

VALLEY CITY, D. T., Aug. 30.—The office of the "Times-Record" of this city was completely demolished by a mob Tuesday night. The editor of the paper is a pronounced Prohibitionist and has used his influence with telling effect both in local affairs and in the recent State Convention.

The editor has been warned frequently, but the effect was to make his attacks upon the whisky element more bitter.

At dark Tuesday evening a mob quietly surrounded the building and at a given signal a rush was made. The door was broken in and the work of destruction commenced. It was not stopped until everything that could be destroyed was demolished. Presses were broken, type thrown into the street, ink spilled on the floor, and not a dollar's worth of stock escaped the general wreck.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

All the Suspects Except Woodruff Will Be Tried Together.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Judge McConnell, after overruling the motion for separate trials in the cases of Coughlin, Burke Beggs and O'Sullivan, said in referring to Woodruff:

"Woodruff, it appears, has made several confessions, the other defendants therefore could hardly have a fair trial if associated with him."

For this reason the judge granted the motion for a separate trial in Woodruff's case.

Attorneys Forrest, Donohoe and Kennedy at once asked leave to file bills of exceptions and were granted twenty days to file the bills.

Prof. De Voe's Predictions.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 30.—Professor De Voe predicts that the first frost will occur in the vicinity of New York on Sept. 13. According to his forecasts New England will suffer from floods during the first ten days of September that will equal those that have recently occurred in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. He says that the country about New York city will be visited until Sept. 7 by heavy thunder storms.

The Electrical Car Accident.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 30.—The inquest into the cause of the Electric Street Railway accident by which William Anderson of Philadelphia lost his life has been concluded after a hearing of six days. The coroner is not ready to render his decision, but from the evidence the railway company is not likely to be held responsible for the accident.

Cornwall Postoffice Robbed.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The postoffice at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, was robbed last night of about $500 in money and stamps. Postmaster Henry Hunter, whose forged resignation was recently sent to Washington by some unknown party, is still in charge of the office. No arrests.

Proclamation by the Governor.

It having been represented that uncertainty exists with reference to the observance of the first Monday of September as a legal holiday, proclamation is hereby made that by virtue of an act of the Legislature of the said State, approved April 8th, 1887, the first Monday of September, to be known as Labor Day, is a legal holiday, on which no court shall be held, except in cases where said court would sit upon a Sunday, and on which no person can be compelled to labor by any person or corporation.

Given under hand and privy seal at the Executive Chamber, in the city of Trenton, this twenty-seventh day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

[L. S.]

ROB'T. S. GREEN.

Attest:—R. S. Green, Jr., Private Secretary.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Seats will be provided for those who attend the grove meeting on Sunday afternoon.

—The boys training class of the Y. M. C. A., spent the day again at Boynton Beach, yesterday.

—Three hundred extra seats will be provided for the great ball game on the Crescent grounds, to-morrow afternoon.

—Two extra police were on duty last evening, to restore order among the colored people who returned from Florida Grove late.

—A passenger car of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, attached to the 9.18 Philadelphia train, passed through the city this morning.

—Yesterday was a great day for the colored people at Florida Grove. Fully one hundred persons went over from this city, in stages and private turnouts.

—One of Locomotive 30's crew was struck in the head by the Fanwood bridge while switching cars this afternoon. He had a miraculous escape from death.

—It is understood that the East Front street domestic who imagined that "Tom, the Peeper," was in her bedroom on Monday night, has been summarily bounced.

—Warren Engine Company disposed of its team of horses, at auction yesterday, for $110. The harness brought $8, and an offer of $100 for the truck was refused.

—A pocketbook containing some keys, a half-dozen visiting cards and a small sum of money, lost near Netherwood, may be recovered by applying at this office.

—The dry and fancy goods merchants requests their patrons to make their purchases for next Monday's needs, to-morrow, as they will not open their stores at all on that day.

—Justice Nash yesterday sold at auction a pair of scales belonging to an East Third street merchant, to satisfy a claim for back taxes. The scales brought $7.10, or $1.10 more than the amount due for taxes.

—The "Young Arlingtons" defeated the "Eagles" on the new grounds of the former club on Park avenue, this morning by a score of 11 to 10. The batteries were "Young Arlington's," J. Shepherd and G. Mattis; "Eagles," D. Turner and C. Sillory.

—The Smith family picnic at Peapack on Wednesday was, as usual, largely attended. Vice President Abraham Smith presided and speeches were made by Rev. E. F. Fowler, of Peapack, and Daniel H. Overton, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York.

—The sudden rise in the price of apples has been a bonanza for hundreds of farmers. Within ten days the price of a barrel of apples has risen from $1.50 to $3. Farmers from Bergen, Passaic and Rockland counties are bringing their crops to market as fast as possible.

—The Secretary's report for last year shows a total of 105 Sunday schools in Middlesex county. These have 520 officers and 1,157 teachers. The total number of scholars is 10,110, of whom 1,707 are over 18 years of age and 595 under 5. The total average attendance is 7,508.

—The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein are requested to meet at their headquarters on Somerset street, on Monday at 1 P. M., so as to march to the railroad station and meet their guests from New York and Brooklyn, who will arrive in special cars, attached to the 2:04 P. M., train.

—Mr. Newton H. Saxton has leased the coal bins and appliances in the yards at Broadway and Fourth street, from Mr. Rheume's assignee, and will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Saxton deserves the public's patronage as an upright man, fair in all dealings, and with a sincere desire to please those he serves.

"TOM THE PEEPER."

The Mysterious Midnight Intruder Looms Up in the Fourth Ward—Two Houses Visited During Last Night.

The mysterious "Tom the Peeper" who has been frightening the female inhabitants of Elizabeth, for several weeks past, has at last turned up in this city, and to show that he really means business, is evident from the fact that two houses were entered on West Third street, during last night, and the occupants were thoroughly alarmed.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dady occupy the ground floor of a dwelling house on West Third street, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ashton occupy rooms in the upper story. At two o'clock this morning Mrs. Ashton was aroused by a strange man prowling around in her bedroom. Thinking perhaps that it was her brother-in-law, who boards with the family, she called to him, and a stranger answered "yes" and descending a flight of stairs, passed out through the front door into the street.

An hour later Mr. John Kane's residence on the same street, was entered in some unaccountable manner, but nothing was taken.

At four o'clock the stranger returned to Mr. Dady's apartments, and this time he entered the house through the cellar. The man raised all of the windows and opened the doors on the ground floor, and after extinguishing a lighted lamp, he went direct to the room in which Mr. and Mrs. Dady were sleeping. The fellow lighted a number of matches, one of which set fire to the bed clothes, thus awaking Mrs. Dady. The latter aroused her husband who got up just in time to see the stranger depart through an open window. The man was chased for several blocks, but he escaped.

Mrs. Dady declares that she took hold of the intruder by the arm, whereupon the man pushed her aside and fled. The man is described as being tall and powerfully built, and wearing an overcoat.

While Mr. Dady and others were chasing the mysterious man, they found seated on Mr. Patrick Day's front stoop, one of the Muhlenberg Hospital patients, who was out for a morning walk, but as he did not answer the description given of "Tom the Peeper," he was not molested.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Carl Kaerth has gone to Blue Point, L. I., for a week.

Miss Nellie Nichols, of Newark, is spending a week with the family of Mr. W. R. Mattox, on Park avenue.

Mr. Jeremiah Blair is the possessor of a large night-blooming cereus, which flowered last evening, having five beautiful blossoms thereon.

Mme. Ida Albert, a pupil of that great instructor, the late Luciano Albites, has taken up her residence in Dunellen, where she will receive a few pupils in vocal training.

Mr. Lawrence Paoli, the peanut dealer of Third and Liberty streets, will sail for Europe, to-morrow. Mr. Paoli will be accompanied by his son, and his destination will be Lucca, Italy.

While at Paris, recently, the Rev. C. B. Mitchell, of the M. E. church, received the sad news of the death of Mrs. Mitchell's mother. Mr. Mitchell has borne the sorrow alone, however, as he felt he could not destroy his wife's happiness abroad. He will not break the news to her until their return home.

Is Harkins Afraid?

Pitcher John Harkins, of the Somerville team, having been given to understand that he must stay in his box if he pitches against the Crescents again, will probably consider discretion the better part of valor and let Bishop pitch to-morrow.

The Crescents great defeat of the Winthrops, last Saturday, is also said to have opened Harkins' eyes, and he realizes that the Plainfield nine is out for victory, and he had better stay out of the pitcher's box and avoid another such banging as he was compelled to stand from the Crescents, on June 8, last. So if he does not pitch to-morrow the people will understand he is afraid.

Base Ball at Netherwood.

The single and married guests of The Netherwood will have their annual ball game on the Hotel grounds, to-morrow afternoon at 2:30. The nines will be composed as follows:

Singles—Rice, short stop; Clark, first base; Laidlaw, pitcher; Foster, left field, Ryder, third base; Plum, second base; Cumming, right field; Smith, centre field; Martin, catcher.

Married—Messrs VanZandt, Bridgman, Whiting, Baxter, VanDeventer, Miller, Shaefner, Foster, Parsons and Buchanan.

Real Estate at Auction.

The Master's sale of the real estate of the late Corra Meeker, took place yesterday, and was conducted by Constable Amos Moffett. A house on East Second street, near Richmond, sold for $2,800, and a lot on East Third street, brought $605. A vacant lot on Westervelt avenue, was bought by one of the Messrs Schwed Bros., for $500.

He Struck the Girl.

John Wandley, a young man residing on Arlington avenue, committed an assault upon eleven-year-old Freida Fricke, of West Third street, last evening. Officer Mattox arrested him. Justice Nash, before whom the boy was taken, administered a sound lecture to the youthful prisoner, and then discharged him.

PLAINFIELD vs. ROSELLE.

The Diamonds With Wyckoff Pitching, Win Easily.

The Roselle ball nine—strengthened by some of Westfield's best players, and Kennedy and Carter, the Alert's battery of Elizabeth—came to Plainfield yesterday with every right to win a game easily from the Diamonds who were short many of their regular nine. But Wyckoff and McMurray proved a battery that could have held down the score of much better clubs than Roselle ever saw.

McMurray's catching was a treat. Nothing passed him, and he caught some of the wildest pitches. Wyckoff's work in the box deserves special mention, also. He has some beautiful curves, and a good command of the ball for one so young in the position. He struck out eleven, and only three hits were made off of him. He assisted 13 times, and McMurray put out 13.

Mr. J. Burke again proved himself one of the best umpires that acts on the grounds. He can teach the older ones a lesson in firmness. He never argues over a decision.

The score was:

ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY.

An Exhibition To-morrow of Mr. Daft's Proposed System for Plainfield.

The electric street car that has been building for this city, was shipped from the Daft Electric works this morning at six o'clock, and will arrive in Plainfield by to-morrow morning.

The car is completely equipped with storage batteries and motor, and an exhibition will be given of its service to-morrow afternoon on the railroad track near the oil-cloth works. The C. R. R. company have granted Mr. Daft the use of the track for the purpose.

The Council required Mr. Daft to give a practical illustration by Sept. 1, of the kind of street railway he proposed for Plainfield if the franchise was given him. To-morrow is the last day. If everything is satisfactory Mr. Daft will go ahead, rail the streets, and have his cars running regular before Thanksgiving.

Rescued From a Runaway.

The family of Mr. John M. Crane, of Central avenue, were riding under the railroad bridge at Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, when the horse took fright at a passing train overhead, and started up the street at a terrific pace.

Miss Crane, who was driving, courageously held on and kept the horse in the middle of the road, but even with the assistance of her mother, who also took hold of the reins, the animal could not be checked. As they reached Ninth street, Architect Fosgate sprang out in the road, and at the risk of his life succeeded in stopping the horse.

Death of an Old Resident.

Mr. Isaac Littell, aged about 74 years, an old and well-known resident near Willow Grove, died suddenly on Tuesday evening, soon after retiring, and without warning other than a chill. He had been about his farm as usual and attended to the milking. He complained of not feeling well and retired early. His death followed soon afterward. Mr. Littell was a brother-in-law of Mr. George W. Force of this city, both having married sisters.

The funeral took place from the house this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Still More.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, in the S. of T. rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue, three more members were initiated and after other routine business was transacted addresses and recitations were given, refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was had by all the members present. The Council is in a flourishing condition and is growing very rapidly.

After Him's Manners.

The colored people turned out in large numbers from this city to Florida Grove, yesterday, and on the drive over Prof. Edwin Maynard, the tonsorial trimmer, of Park avenue, led them all behind Andrew Lutkins' fast little mare "Jessie T." You can't loss the professor.

A Difficulty Surmounted.

LABOR DAY.

How Our German Friends Will Celebrate the Event.

The grand picnic and Summer night festival, combined with a concert and show turning, which will take place at Keller's Grove, under the auspices of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, on Labor Day, promises to be the greatest event of the season, especially among the Germans.

At nine o'clock on the morning of that day, the members of the shooting section will march from the Saenger and Turner Hall to Kellar's Grove, where they will engage in prize King shooting. The shooting will be at a wooden eagle located on the top of a 75 foot pole. The first prize, $5, will be awarded to the person who succeeds in shooting off the eagle's head. Two other prizes, of three and two dollars respectively, will be given to those who succeed in shooting off the right and left wings of the eagle. The person who shoots down the last piece of the target, will be crowned King, and in the afternoon he will be presented with a handsome gold medal.

The Queen shooting by the ladies will take place about 3 o'clock. Each lady will have 3 shots at a target, and the one making the best score will be crowned Queen. She will also be presented with a handsome gold medal.

At 1:30 P. M., the Shooting Section will proceed to Blatz's Hotel, where they will be met by the City Cornet Band. They then will march to the Sanger and Turner Hall where all the members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will join them and march to the station to receive their guests who will arrive on the 2:04 P. M., train. The visitors come from the shooting clubs of New York and Brooklyn, and will consist of about 150 men. They will then march up Peace street to Front, along Front street to Central avenue, to Second street, to Park avenue, and then through Somerset street to the grove.

Arriving at the grove, the Singing Section, led by Mr. Lauroche, and accompanied by Prof. Conde's orchestra, will render some vocal selections and there will also be exhibition turning by the members of the Turning Section.

The Committee of Arrangements consists of the following gentlemen: Henry Haurand, president; M. Menzenbach, secretary; J. Keller, treasurer; H. Kreuzfeld, Chris. Stockle, F. Bechtel, C. Maas, C. M. Myer, J. Bremer, J. Gaub.

A TON OF FAT.

The Fats and Leans Play Ball at Plainfield.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

Mr. Charles P. Russ went to Plainfield yesterday to represent the fat men of this city at a base ball match which took place on the Crescent grounds in that city, between nine fat men and nine lean men. Charley maintained his reputation as a ball player exceedingly well, and the interests of the national game did not suffer because of the various parts which he took in it. There were larger men than he, but none whose movements were more admired by the assembled throng. Plainfield has a few fat men, but not enough of them are interested in ball matches to lend a hand. This is why the services of Mr. Russ were secured, in addition to those of fat men from Westfield, Bound Brook and other seaport towns. The lean men were mostly from Plainfield.

The game lasted about two hours, during which time an awful silence rested over Plainfield, and was witnessed with intense pleasure. Nine innings were played, and the score resulted as follows: Fats, 22; Thins, 21. The victory wasn't very decisive, it is true, but enough to put the fat men in better humor than they are generally supposed to be. The uniforms worn by the players looked odd enough, no two of them being alike, and the various colors were well represented. The fat men were given no particular name, but the thin men were called "clothes pins," and bore the taunts of the ton of fat uncomplainingly.

A PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT.

The Temperance Ladies Arrange an Enjoyable Programme at Reform Hall.

The announced meeting in Reform Hall last evening drew together a large and appreciative audience. The following programme of exercises, hastily prepared by a few of the temperance ladies, was fully carried out and to the great satisfaction and delight of all present:

Singing..............................Choir

Prayer.

Singing—"The world is moving on".......Choir

Recitation..............................Miss Ferris

Duett...............Mrs. King and Miss Hawkins

Recitation...................Master Willie Thiers

Reading...................Mrs. G. M. Angleman

Piano solo..............................Miss Conger

Recitation...................Master John Yoehl

Duett...............Mrs. King and Miss Hawkins

Recitation......."Poorhouse Nan"..Miss Ferris

Offering of the pledge.

Singing—"Bringing in the Sheaves".......Choir

The feeling was universal that the ladies should continue their efforts in the way of furnishing such choice entertainments. It is just to add, that everyone who took part in the exercises discharged their respective duties most admirably. None could possibly have done better. The affair was a credit to them as well as to its getters up and the Reform Club.

"Some years ago Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of asthma after the best medical skill had failed to give me relief. A few weeks since, being again troubled with the disease, I was promptly relieved by the same remedy."—F. S. Hessler, Editor Argus, Table Rock, Nebr.

THOSE FRANCHISE SEEKERS.

Some More Light on the Plainfield Water Works Proposals.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Although your correspondent "Novus" is a trifle new his inquiries are really not so ridiculous as they at first seem to be considering what has taken place in the way of water works legislation in this city during the past three years.

In 1886, it will be remembered there was considerable of a craze among contractors principally, to build water works for this city, and the competition between one or two parties was indeed very active. All sorts of liberal inducements were held out to the Councilmen here, who at that time as at the present day, had evidently formed a trust to do nothing but embarrass the town as much as in their power, but without avail. Then these same contractors at least two of them, Bullock and Norman, moved on North Plainfield, and laid siege to that point, not however because they were particularly desirous of putting in a plant there, but to use the Borough as an entering wedge to this city. And here subsequently they hoped to recoup for their off handed liberality to our sister.

It may be of some interest to know in this connection that Norman has amassed a liberal fortune in one way or another in constructing water and gas works, and there are people living today who are perfectly familiar with the methods whereby his start in life was secured. But he could have waited had the franchise been granted to him on his own terms, until the course of events turned the tide in his favor and more money to his already well-filled coffers. With Bullock & Co., however, time has worked changes. It has turned out since that their promises never would have been fulfilled, at least by themselves. They went on building water works on promises until at last they came home to roost and as the daily papers of a year or so ago stated they finally announced their inability to continue. For the preservation of their own reputations, having advanced the necessary funds to these contractors presumably, two banks in New York city assumed the responsibility and are no doubt to this day endeavoring by one process or another to work out their capital. And yet it is said that Bullock and others connected with that concern are quite as well to do today as they were before disaster struck them—if they are not better off.

This all goes to illustrate what has previously been written on this subject. That the contractor is only and simply interested in securing a franchise. This when obtained he may sell or endeavor to borrow money on to prosecute the work. In either case he has nothing to lose and when a party offers $6,000 for the franchise you may make up your mind he sees big money in the enterprise for himself. If he fails who does the walking? Why Messrs Bexel, Drown & Co., or some other banker who has been buncoed into lending the money on promises.

So therefore Mr. "Novus," hydrant rental has nothing to do with the case of the contractor unless he is putting his own money into the enterprise. Then as a business man he will demand a fair recompense for his outlay and you will find that it will not be $15 per hydrant he demands nor yet $25.

If "Novus" could be fortunate enough to catch the city clerk at his desk some time, or if failing in this he could learn where the documents are kept it would pay him to glance over the various propositions recently submitted to the Council relating to water works. And it will surprise the writer if he does not come to the conclusion after investigating the applications of Messrs Moffett, Hodgkins and Clarke and J. M. Low, that although the hydrant rental asked is among the highest, their plans have the stamp of honesty and fair dealing throughout.

OBSERVER.

The Beggared Family of an Ex-City Official.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your cotemporary, the Times, informs its patrons of the departure of Mrs. Fleige for her European home, with a bank account and first-class passage at the hands of the proverbial charity of Plainfield.

The next in order of intelligence and respectable poverty to mark the charities of our charitable people, should be the family of a late official of our city. It cannot be long hid from our people that this widow and her two children are housed and fed from place to place as they may turn up at hours when none but a callous heart would turn them from the door. But an end to such a habit will come sooner or later, and it is already time that the charitable or official authorities should relieve us of this spectacle that adds to the many burdens all have to carry.

P—.

Shot a Mad Dog.

Officer Flannigan encountered a dog which showed symptoms of the rabies, on West Front street, early yesterday morning. The brute growled and snapped at the officer, and several times tried to bite him. The officer finally shot the dog on Somerset street.

Heart Disease.

Read the hospital reports, read the mortuary reports, read the medical publications, read the daily newspapers, and learn how wide-spread is heart disease, how difficult of detection it is to most people, how many and how sudden are the deaths it causes. Then read Dr. Flint's Treatise on Heart Disease, and learn what it is, what causes it, what diseases it gives rises to, what its symptoms are, and how it may be attacked. If you find that you have heart disease, ask your druggist for a bottle of DR. FLINT'S REMEDY. The treatise may be had on application to Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

WORK OF THE RUSH.

She Has Been Making Many Seizures in the Behring Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 30.—A letter by the steamer St. Paul, just arrived from Onnalaska, from an officer on board the cutter Rush says that the latter, on August 6, captured the British schooner Lilly, of Vancouver, while taking seals in Behring Sea. Three hundred seals were found on board the Lilly which were seized and transferred to the Rush. A prize crew of one man was put on the schooner with orders to take her to Sitka.

The seized vessels will have their cases tried in the Alaska District Court. The Rush expected to be relieved by the Bear at Onnalaska when she will proceed to San Francisco. Fourteen sealers in all have been boarded by the Rush and warned to leave the Behring Sea in addition to the six captured.

The cargo of the St. Paul consisted of 100,000 seal skins.

Black Diamond Off for Another Catch.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 30.—The Black Diamond left here this morning, ostensibly on a trip up the coast to refit, but on the best of information it is believed that she really is off on a sealing cruise into Behring Sea. The owners believe they have a perfectly legal right to hunt seal in the Behring Sea. This action shows what the popular feeling is here in regard to the United States jurisdiction in the Behring Sea and her power or her policy to enforce it.

The Collector Denies the Report.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 30.—The incoming Collector of Customs, Benedict, states that he has not asked for the resignation of all Democrats in the Richford office, as reported. He says that several of the deputy collectors in the district, including one or two of the deputies at Richford, have tendered their resignations to the Collector, but no general sweep of Democrats has been made.

Canal Freights Advanced.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The canal freight muddle has been settled by the shippers coming forward and offering the advance demanded by the boats. This was accepted and business assumed a normal condition. About forty boats, or nearly half those in port, were at once loaded, and nearly everybody feels better. There is no more delay feared from the break.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Crops are being ruined in central Illinois by the drouth.

The Meith family of counterfeiters have been committed for trial at Buffalo, N. Y.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

A NEW IRISH MOVE

The Home Rulers Will Support the Tory Government.

A PANIC AMONG THE LIBERALS.

They See in the New Departure the Disruption of Their Party.

Balfour's Bill for the Endowment of an Irish Catholic University Acceptable to Parnell—The Irish Party to Support Lord Salisbury—Concessions Said to Be Made that Will Practically Amount to Home Rule—The Unionists Indignant.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Mr. Balfour's promise to bring in a bill for the endowment of an an Irish Catholic University, coupled with Mr. Parnell's immediate acceptance of the proposal, creates a panic among the Liberal leaders, who see that this new departure of the Tory Government means the disruption of their party.

It is certain that Mr. Parnell has reached some sort of an understanding with Lord Salisbury's Government and it is even stated that the Parnellites will support the Tory Premier at the next election in return for concessions which will practically amount to home rule and a land law which will quite effectually throw the landlords in Ireland overboard.

This change of front on the part of Lord Salisbury is certain to lose him the support of the Ulster members but he will probably carry with him all but a very few of the Conservative members and the Unionists, while the addition to his forces of the solid Parnellite contingent and of such Liberals as care more for home rule than for the means of attaining it, will undoubtedly increase his voting strength materially notwithstanding the defection of the Protestant Irishmen and a few anti-Catholic Tories.

All of the details of the agreement entered into between Mr. Parnell and those whom he has of late so bitterly opposed, are not as yet understood and as a result there is no end of speculation.

It is understood that the Government and the Catholic hierarchy have been negotiating for a long time with reference to a proposed Catholic University in Ireland to be endowed by the State. Mr. Parnell was kept informed of the progress of these negotiations and has known for some days that it was the intention of the Government to take the course outlined by Mr. Balfour, but the Ulster men who are taken entirely by surprise are furious. They take no pains to conceal their rage and disgust and are loud in their denunciations of the Ministry. They will not, they say, continue to give their support to this "Papist Government."

THE STRIKE STILL ON.

London Dockmen Refuse the Terms of Their Employers.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—There is practically no change in the situation to-day and the strike still continues. A mass meeting of the great army ol unemployed was held to-day which was attended by about 4,000 strikers, John Burns addressed the meeting, predicting that the demands of the men would be acceded to within twenty-four hours. He said that all indications pointed to a victory for the strikers if they would remain firm and united.

The wharfingers have offered to employ the dockmen on independent docks, but the proposition has not been accepted. The strike is seriously affecting the Northern coal trade.

There are no fresh developments in the strike which are at all of a hopeful nature. Over 20,000 tailors in London are momentarily expecting the word from their leaders to drop their work and when they go out they will deprive nearly twice that number of sewing women and other assistants of their chance for a livelihood.

Several failures in the shipping trade are already reported as a result of the dock strikes and others are expected. The 55,000 Welsh miners who have made a demand for a 10 per cent. increase in their wages have decided to compromise and accept the 5 per cent. advance offered by their employers.

A Jealous Millionaire Kills His Wife.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—Franz Fernbach, a millionaire and a well-known citizen of Vienna, killed his wife to-day and then made an unsuccessful attempt upon his own life. He now lies in a critical condition. Fernbach is said to have been jealous of his wife.

Emperor William's Opinion of Labor.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Emperor William, in an interview to-day with a member of the Provincial Council, said that existing laws for the protection of laborers in Prussia were deplorably insufficient to protect them against the inordinate greed of their employers. Reform, he said, was highly necessary.

Mrs. Maybrick in Prison Garb.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Maybrick was taken from the Liverpool jail to Working prison to-day. She wore the regular convict garb. She looked well and appeared to be physically strong.

5,000 People Drowned.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30.—North China and Japan have been visited by a series of typhoons of unprecedented severity. At the lowest estimate 5,000 persons have been drowned.

THE GRAND ARMY MEN.

Corporal Tanner's Appointment Creates a Long and Spirited Debate.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—After a long and spirited debate the Grand Army National Encampment adopted a resolution thanking the President for the appointment of Corporal Tanner and endorsing the latter's administration of the Pension Office.

Gen. Alger's resolution deprecating the practice of turning Memorial Day into a day of festivity was unanimously adopted. By another resolution veterans of the Navy were premitted to add an anchor to the Grand Army.

The naval engagement last night was a complete success. One hundred and fifty thousand spectators lined the lake front for a distance of five miles. Several casualties were reported.

OPPOSING CIVIL SERVICE.

Maryland Republican Clubs Who Believe That to the Victor Belong the Spoils.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 30.—Twenty-three Republican clubs in the Third Congressional District, Baltimore, met last night in joint meeting and adopted resolutions in opposition to Civil Service laws. They claim that "any party in power having an office to bestow should give it to the man believing in the principles of that party, and who has worked to give those principles ultimate victory."

They pledge themselves not to support anyone for office who is in favor of "the present odious Civil Service, or its application in the distribution of public patronage."

Iceland Fishing Fleet Returning.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 30.—The schooner Landseer, the first to return of the Iceland fishing fleet, arrived to-day, bringing 155,000 pounds of flitched halibut. The summer on the Icelandic coast was the finest ever experienced. Halibut was plentiful in May and June, but codfish and ling were scarce, and the French, Norwegian and English vessels had done poorly. Native fishermen are quite comfortable, no destitution prevailing.

THE FUR BUSINESS.

Busy Craftsmen in the Old French Quarter of New York.

Cutter, Sewer, Blocker and Finisher Can Turn Out Three Dozen Muffs in a Day—Summer Work for Winter's Use.

Furs in summer! Yes, they're not so uncommon as to attract undue attention, but these are not worn over fair shoulders clad in lawn. They are, says the New York Star, heaped in various shapes of manufacture in the shop of a furrier down in the French quarter. At least one thousand men and women in New York are busied in making fur garments. There are factories employing many scores of workmen, and there are dingy little shops where a few journeymen work together, with small capital, low rent and moderate profits. In this particular shop there are only four men at work—just the number required to finish a garment under the division of labor usual in the fur business. One man stands at a counter with a pile of muskrat skins at his left hand, and in his right a keen little knife, shaped almost exactly like the outstretched wing of a bird. The skin of the furs has been dampened so that it is pliant. The cutter, as he is called, seizes a skin, turns the fur down and rapidly cuts out defects with his bird's-wing knife. Scarcely one skin in a hundred is perfect. There are shot holes, scars from bites and scratches, tears and other damage, the result of careless curing. By the time all defects have been cut out it may have been necessary to divide the skin into twenty strips and squares. About twenty per cent. of the fur is lost by the process of cutting; though the smallest pieces, even those not more than an inch square, are carefully saved, so long as they are well covered with hair.

As the knife slips through the leather you notice that the under side of the fur is a rich, golden brown, while the outer surface is black. The fur has been dyed, but the dye has not penetrated to the skin. The dyeing and curing are done elsewhere at factories which receive the raw skins by the thousand from the West and South. They come turned wrong side out and looking like great Japanese slippers from having been stretched and dried by the trapper on pointed shingles.

From the cutter's table the skins go to the sewer. He sits in a corner and works a strong sewing-machine, whose needle is easily driven through the skin. Ordinary, stout thread is used, and the sewer manages to piece together the various scraps in such a way that no seam shows on the hairy side. The seams on the under side appear like straight ridges or cords. The skin comes from the sewer a patchwork of leather almost as strongly held together as an uncut pelt.

From the sewer the material goes to the blocker. In this instance it is a muff that they are making. The "block" is in seven pieces that fit together and form an implement that looks almost exactly like a big wheel hub. The skin, which has been sewn end to end so as to form a hollow cylinder, is placed on the block form. It extends a little beyond the block, and a little wooden disk is placed on each end of the latter. To these disks the ends of the skin are nailed, and the whole thing is then placed in the window to dry.

When the skin is partly dried it is removed from the block and turned over to the finisher. He puts in wadding and lining and sews on the cord and tasseis, if the muff is thus to be ornamented. Finally the fur is carefully brushed until it is smooth and glossy. Then it is put into a round pasteboard box ready to be shipped to the merchant, through whom it is distributed to the retail dealers here and elsewhere.

Four men working together thus ten hours a day can make three dozen muffs. Cutters earn from $15 to $18 a week, and blockers and finishers from $10 to $12 a week. Women are sometimes employed as finishers at about the same wages. The busy season is from June to December. September, October and November are perhaps the most active months of the season. In the spring and winter business is dull, and the few men employed are at work upon inferior material, which can not be worked profitably in the busy season.

Fashion in furs changes slightly from year to year, and the growing taste for summer furs now has to be taken into account. The cheapest and most abundant skin is that of the hare; the costliest are those of the beaver, sable, seal, black fox and ermine. The last named is extremely rare. The despised polecat contributes fur to the comfort and ornamentation of beauty, and nobody turns up their nose at him. His unpleasant characteristics disappear in the curing. Pretty boas are made of the hare's skin, and costly capes of lynx, sable and beaver fur. Some of the costliest furs are imported, but the great mass of fur garments are made from native skins.

Foreigners have been pioneers in the fancy fur business of New York, and there are still many Frenchmen, Germans and Italians employed in the work; but native Americans are taking to the trade more and more. It requires from one to five years to become an expert cutter, but other branches of the trade are more quickly learned. The costliest furs are made up in large factories, because it takes considerable capital to keep a stock of raw material on hand. The business is rather dirty, but it is not specially unwholesome.

THE WIDOW CABOCHARD.

Something Unique in the Line of Successful Advertising.

It is well known, says Sampson's "History of Advertising," that at the Pere la Chaise cemetery, near Paris, there stands in a conspicuous position a splendid monument to Pierre Cabochard, grocer, with a pathetic inscription, which closes thus:

"His inconsolable widow dedicates this monument to his memory, and continues the same business at the old shop, 167 Rue Mouffetard."

Now a Parisian paper relates that a short time ago a gentleman, who had noticed the above inscription, was led by curiosity to call at the address indicated. Having expressed his desire to see the Widow Cabochard, he was immediately ushered into the presence of a fashionably-dressed and full-bearded man, who asked him what was the object of his visit.

"I came to see the Widow Cabochard, sir."

"Well, sir, here she is."

"I beg pardon, but I wish to see the lady in person."

"Sir, I am the Widow Cabochard."

"I don't exactly understand you. I allude to the relict of the late Pierre Cabochard, whose monument I saw yesterday at the Pere la Chaise."

"I see, I see," was the smiling rejoinder. "Allow me to inform you that Pierre Cabochard is a myth, and therefore never had a wife. The tomb you admired cost me a good deal of money, and although no one is buried there it proves a first-rate advertisement, and I have no cause to regret the expense. Now, sir, what can I sell you in the way of groceries?"

MISS GRACIE'S ARMY.

A Rooster, a Cat and a Dog That Obey Her Orders Like Soldiers.

Gracie, a daughter of Baggagemaster Riddle, of the New York & Long Branch railroad at Red Bank, has, according to the New York Sun, a happy family which would be a small fortune to a well-regulated dime museum. There are three members of the family—a dog, a cat and a bantam rooster. The name of the dog is Caleb, that of the cat is Kate and that of the rooster is Topknot. When the trio are on dress parade they are a sight. Caleb in a sort of Joseph's coat, Kate in a train dress of blue and gold and solferino, and Topknot in his full dress of black and bronze, highly polished, with a miniature sword strapped to his right shoulder, make up a fine array. Topknot is the commander, and always leads the procession. Miss Gracie, however, gives the word of command between musical strains upon a harmonicon. The orders are given with great firmness and they are immediately obeyed. The hypercritical say that the army obeys Miss Gracie's actions rather than her words, since she always faces the platoon and walks backward, keeping step to the music, which is broken only when a command to "right wheel," "parade rest," or "by the right flank, forward," is given. The bantam is as erect as a West Point cadet, his fine feathers are neatly plumed, and his blood-red crest deftly placed on the side of his head and shading one eye. He evidently feels that he is master of the situation, and invariably, upon the command "parade rest," salutes his young mistress with an energetic crow which threatens his lungs with premature dislocation. When, with a flourish of her hands, Miss Gracie gives the order: "Break ranks, march!" Captain Topknot wheels about and crows lustily to the high privates, and then all disperse, Topknot, Caleb and Kate going to their mistress to have their regimentals removed. The evolutions are not many, but very amusing.

Part second of the entertainment is the placing of the cat and dog side by side upon a rug, and the rooster between them in a perambulator. Thus arranged Miss Gracie trundles them about the yard. At a given word Topknot crows valiantly, and his companions follow him to the ground.

Part third is putting the happily family to bed. Caleb and Kate are first put in a cradle large enough to admit of Topknot between them. Topknot occasionally rebels, but when the small sheet is drawn close up under his chin and a word of admonition is given by his mistress, he lies quietly in bed until he is released. One day Miss Gracie put Topknot to bed alone and went away to the depot to see her father. When, after an hour's absence, she returned, she was surprised to find the bantam still in his couch.

Caleb is a verp docile, inoffensive dog, of no particular breed. Indeed, he is what some of the neighbors call a mongrel, but he is very intelligent, notwithstanding his lack of blue blood. A letter or package intrusted to him at his home for delivery to Mr. Riddle at the railroad station is placed in trustworthy keeping and surrendered to Mr. Riddle. He is trained to many amusing tricks, and goes through his repertoire at the command of Miss Gracie and upon the gift of a bit of cracker with great agility and intelligence. Kate has but one peculiarity, and that is that she pants like a dog. So constantly has she been associated with Caleb that she has become to this extent a mimic. It is better than many a farce to see Caleb and Kate lying in bed or in a perambulator, panting a symphony, which invariably creates a hearty laugh, during which both animals pause, only to begin again at the end of the interruption.

UNAVAILABLE VACANCY.

Stories Told at the Expense of a Chronic Office-Seeker.

Apropos of this situation a naval officer tells a good story on a certain retired Admiral, says the Washington Star. He was a chronic applicant, and as he was not thought to possess sufficient wit, talent or ability to fit him for any responsible place, his wants were seldom honored with the giving. He applied for every thing in sight, sometimes for two or three things at once, and, as he was often on waiting orders around Washington; he had good opportunities for pushing his claims. He smelt vacancies far ahead, and would often apply for places months ahead of time. Once the post of Surgeon-General was vacant, but not being a "doctor" the Admiral was barred out. He was sitting in one of the Navy Department rooms one day reading, hidden by a desk, when a passing officer stopped to chat with the clerk who abode there.

"Who's to be made Surgeon-General?" he asked, jocosely.

"Old Admiral——, of course," was the half-laughing reply of the clerk, ignorant of the presence behind him.

"By ——!" cried that person himself, springing to his feet, "you don't mean it. When was it done?"

It took some time to convince him that he had not been made a Surgeon-General despite his failure to make application.

On another occasion he was chatting with a brother officer at the navy-yard, digesting the news of the day, while the other read piecemeal from a newspaper. Suddenly the reader started and lowered the paper.

"Heavens and earth," he exclaimed to his startled visitor, "here's a vacancy for you at last!"

"What is it!" was the exciteu response. "Quick, tell me what it is!"

"The Empress of Russia is dead," the officer managed to ejaculate between his shrieks of laughter.

The disgusted wanter never survived the title of "the Empress."

Why Ikey Was "Ted Zore."

"Chents," said an Israelite drummer to a Chicago Herald man and a couple of old friends in the lobby of the Palmer House, "I haf god a ledder vrom my house and id mages me ted zore. And after reading this the broken-hearted drummer mounted the marble steps for a bracer, while Hilton and Brobst united in not wondering that he was "ted zore."

The Thames River Drawbridge.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 30.—The Thames River drawbridge is completed, except to fasten on the floor beams on the draw. To-day, at 10 o'clock, the draw was closed for the first time to ascertain the level swing, and fit, and now the rest of the floor beams will be fastened on and the structure completed, making the finest and largest draw, span and girder steel railroad bridge in the world.

Fat Men's Reunion.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 30.—The twenty-third annual feast and reunion of the Fat Men's Association was held at Seaside Park yesterday. There were present upward of forty heavy-weights from New York, New Haven, Stamford, Waterbury, Bridgeport and other places, and their combined weights was nearly 10,000 pounds.

The Grangers' National Exhibition.

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 30.—The fourth day of the Grangers' National Exhibition at Williams' Grove brought 4,000 persons to the grounds. Hon. Henry Boyer, of Philadelphia, Republican candidate for State Treasurer, delivered a short address on the duties of farming. Gov. Beaver was present.

Secretary Windom's Movements.

CONTOCOOK, N. H., Aug. 30.—Secretary Windom and family, who arrived at Hopkintown by carriage from Keene yesterday, have gone to Dublin.

Spice Factory Burned.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 30.—Fire last evening at Coburn & Co.'s spice factory caused a loss of $50,000.

A Nation of Badge-Wearers.

"This is becoming a nation of badge-wearers," was the statement made by an observant citizen yesterday. "Just stand here on the corner and watch the men as they pass. Nine-tenths of them wear a badge of some description. They range all the way from an expensive society badge costing $20 or $25 down to brass baubles which you can buy for a few cents. They generally are the insignia of some society, and I think that shows the tendency of the American people to organize. Almost every body belongs to some organization, and by the number of badges that men passing here wear, I should judge some of them are on the rolls of three or four."

Mrs. J. C. Scarboro, of Selma, N. C., wife of the ex-Superintendent of Public Schools of that State, suffered from excessive nervous depression, exhaustion and neuralgia, from malaria. She was rapidly cured by Kaskine. She says: "I can now go to sleep in my chair."

"I was all run down with nervous depression, for which I had, by the advice of physicians, taken a great deal of quinine and iron, without benefit. After I had used three bottles of Kaskine people expressed their surprise at seeing me looking so well."—Isaac Knox, Newark, N. J.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.
